6—Allow the girl the greatest possible freedom in regard to men friends; don't monopolize her time, and keep an anchor or two to the windward in the form of pleasant, friendly intimacies with other girls. There'll be lots of times when you'll need an anchor.

7—Keep this thought in mind: If you lose you'll get over it. They all do.—Kansas City Journal.

A Secret Standard.

A small boy and his smaller sister of a West Philadelphia family were being interviewed by an admiring visitor. She asked the boy how old he was, but he had an attack of shyness and could not tell. His sister, however, did better, and announced that he was six years old. "Six years old!" exclaimed the visitor. "What a big boy! And how tall are you?" This stumped both the children. The visitor expressed surprise that a six-year-old boy could not tell his height, and even the little sister hung her head in shame. Then the visitor gave it up and talked of other things, but soon the little girl edged around to her and whispered: "You musn't tell mamma," she said, "but Rob is just tall enough to reach the jam on the pantry shelf."—Philadelphia Record.

Kindness to Animals.

In Spain, 'tis said that a society founded to protect the lower animals, finding itself in difficulties, arranged a bull-fight to increase its funds and clear away its debts.—Cunninghame-Graham in the London Saturday Review.

HAY FEVER

"Having used Peruna for catarrh and hay fever, I can recommend it to all who are suffering with the above diseases. I am happy to be able to say it has helped me wonderfully."

—Mayme E. Smith.

MISS MAYME SMITH,
444 E. Mound Street, Columbus, Ohio.

HAY FEVER is endemic catarrh. It is caused by some irritating substance in the atmosphere during the late summer months. It is generally thought that the pollen of certain weeds and flowers is the cause of it.

Change of locality seems to be the only rational cure. The use of Peruna, however, stimulates the nervous system to resist the effect of the poisonous emanations and sometimes carries the victim through the hay fever season without an attack of the disease.

A large number of people rely upon Peruna for this purpose. Those who do not find it convenient to change their location to avoid Hay Fever would do well to give Peruna a trial. It has proven of priceless value to many people.

Positions GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT

R. R. Fare Paid. Notes Taken. 800 FREE COURSES Board at Cost. Write Quick

GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

De fattest 'possum, mah bruddah, is allus in de highes' tree.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 & $3.00 Shoes

BEST IN THE WORLD

W.L.Douglas $4 Gilt Edge line cannot be equalled at any price

To Shoe Dealers: W. L. Douglas' Jobbing House is the most complete in this country. Send for Catalog

SHOES FOR EVERYBODY AT ALL PRICES

Men's Shoes, $3 to $4.50. Boys' Shoes, $2 to $3.25. Women's Shoes, $1.00 to $4.50. Misses' & Children's Shoes, $1.00 to $3.00.

Try W. L. Douglas Women's, Misses and Children's shoes for style, fit and wear—they excel other makes.

If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W.L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than any other make.

Wherever you live, you can obtain W. L. Douglas shoes. His name and price is stamped on the bottom, which protects you against high prices and inferior shoes. Take no substitute. Ask your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes and insist upon having them.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Dept. 15, Brockton, Mass.

YOU CANNOT

CURE

all inflamed, ulcerated and catarrhal conditions of the mucous membrane such as nasal catarrh, uterine catarrh caused by feminine ills, sore throat, sore mouth or inflamed eyes by simply dosing the stomach.

But you surely can cure these stubborn affections by local treatment with

Paxtine Toilet Antiseptic

which destroys the disease germs, checks discharges, stops pain, and heals the inflammation and soreness.

Paxtine represents the most successful local treatment for feminine ills ever produced. Thousands of women testify to this fact. 50 cents at druggists.

Send for Free Trial Box

THE R. PAXTON CO., Boston, Mass.

Am. 37, 1906.

WANTED Address of (1) persons of part Indian blood who are not living with any tribe, (2) of any who served in the Federal army, or (3) the nearest kin of such soldiers or sailors, now deceased. NATHAN BICKFORD, Washington, D. C.

CHILLS

OXIDINE

FEVERS

FEVERS

Read the following analysis made by the state chemist who analyzed three bottles of Oxidine sent to him by the Secretary of the State Pharmaceutical Association (The Texas Retail Druggists Association):

Houston Laboratories
Chemical and Biological

Analysis and Valuation of Cotton Seed and Rice Products a Specialty. Waters, Soils, Oils, Ores, Etc., Carefully Examined and Reported Upon. Reports Made on Economic Geology.

P. S. TILSON, Director, Analytical and Consulting Chemist
215 1-2 MAIN STREET

HOUSTON, TEXAS, June 27, 1906.

Mr. R. H. Walker, Secretary Texas State Pharmaceutical Association, Gonzales, Texas.

DEAR SIR: Herewith I beg to hand you certificate of analysis of the Oxidine you submitted a few days since.

I trust this will be duly received and found entirely satisfactory. I have kept you waiting for a little while, but I appreciate the responsibility which you have seen fit to place upon me; for that reason I have taken my time to be certain and accurate about my results.

If I can serve you in the future please advise me. Thanking you, I beg to remain, Yours very truly,

P. S. TILSON, Chemist.

Houston Laboratories
Chemical and Biological

Analysis and Valuation of Cotton Seed and Rice Products a Specialty. Waters, Soils, Oils, Ores, Etc., Carefully Examined and Reported Upon. Reports Made on Economic Geology.

P. S. TILSON, Director, Analytical and Consulting Chemist
215 1-2 MAIN STREET

CERTIFICATE OF ANALYSIS

Of Three Bottles of Oxidine Submitted by R. H. Walker, of Gonzales, Texas, Secretary of the State Pharmaceutical Association.

HOUSTON, TEXAS, June 27, 1906.

I find this Oxidine to contain absolutely no poisonous or injurious drugs or chemicals and not a trace of Arsenic, Codeine, Morphine, Bucine or Strychnine; nor, in fact, anything that would produce a harmful effect whatever.

Respectfully submitted,

P. S. TILSON, Chemist.

OXIDINE, THE CHILL CURE THAT CURES CHILLS

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster color than any other dye. One 10c. package color all fibres. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Unionville, Missouri.

Desirable Result of Fear.

J. J. Kinyoun in an article on car sanitation, recording experiments made on cars of trunk lines centering in Washington, D. C., finds that among car porters there is a growing fear of contracting tuberculosis, and that they are particularly careful in keeping their cars clean, especially if tuberculous patients are among the passengers.—Medical News.

Lifeboats were first used in 1777.

FITS, St. Vitus' Dance: Nervous Diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. H. R. Kline, Ld., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The London county council has 118 elected members and 19 aldermen.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle

He Would Do.

"Have you had any experience as chauffeur?"

"Well, I can show you the receipts for the fines I have paid."—Woman's Home Companion.

Londoners use on an average thirty-four gallons of water per head per day.

Diplomacy.

Senator Long said of diplomacy at a dinner:

"That was a diplomatic young lady whom I heard about the other day.

"'What do you do,' some one said to her at a ball, 'when a man persists in asking you for a dance and you don't want to dance with him?'

"'I tell him,' she replied, 'that my card is full.'

"But supposing it isn't, and he still persists?'

"'Then,' said the young lady, 'I insists it is, and at the same time let him see it isn't.'"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Live Fish Sold.

In Japan fish have to be sold alive, and they are hawked through the streets in tanks.

CAPUDINE CURES INDIGESTION and ACIDITY HEADACHES ALSO by removing the cause. It acts immediately—you feel its effects in 10 minutes. You don't have to wait a week to know its good. It cures 10 cents.

Russia's Horses.

There are about 23,000,000 horses in European Russia, no other country having so many.

Thirty millions of hares and rabbits are killed annually in the United Kingdom.

The Tulane University OF LOUISIANA

NEW ORLEANS.

EDWIN B. CRAIGHEAD, L. L. D., Pres't.

The Tulane University of Louisiana, founded in 1845 as the University of Louisiana, is the legal head of the entire system of public educational institutions of the State.

Full courses are offered in Languages, Sciences, Engineering, Law, Medicine. Splendid departments for women in Newcomb College. Tulane graduates lead in all vocations. Its facilities for thorough training in engineering are unsurpassed. Unexcelled opportunities for the study of Sugar and Industrial Chemistry. Many Scholarships in academic departments. Expenses low. Board and accommodations in dormitories at low rates. Next session begins October 2nd. Send for catalogue. Address,

R. K. BRUFF, Secretary.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in 3 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed

To Cure, or Money Refunded by Your Merchant. Do Why Not Try It? Price, 50c. Retail.

Stylish Clothing For Young Men.

Make up your mind to have the best suit possible this season, it must be smart, the very latest weave and color. You can have all these things if you get an I. & S. Bing Suit.

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for spring wear is now complete, the styles are decided and we are showing absolutely correct styles. New Dress Goods, New Waist Goods, New Hats, New Shirts, New Neckwear.

Spring Models in Footwear

See our new line of Star Brand Oxfords for men, women and children. Our stock is complete and the prices are right. Let us show you the goods.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, - - Alabama.

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE.

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Ehehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
J. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Imported Jack "LIJE"

Fee $8.00, Insured

Stands for service at his owners', JOHN THAMES, 1 mile East of Rocky Mount Church, Beat 1.

CUBAN REBELS BLOW UP STEEL BRIDGES

Pino Guerra Rejects Armistice by Renewed Activity.

TAKES JUAN DE MARTINEZ

Government Forces Unable to Cope With Rebel Chief, Who Demands New Elections to Get Rid of President Palma.

Havana, Cuba. — All peace overtures were blocked by the refusal of Pino Guerra, the insurgent leader in Pinar del Rio Province, to enter into an arrangement for an armistice. Guerra's answer to the Government's announcement of its readiness to grant an armistice was the blowing up of two bridges on the Western Railway, an English company, the cutting of railway communication beyond Pinar del Rio City, and an attack on San Juan de Martinez. San Juan de Martinez is in the hands of the insurgents and the garrison, consisting of 100 Government recruits and a small force of mounted rural guards, has been defeated or captured.

The fact that other leaders of the insurrection are willing to agree to an armistice can have little effect so long as Guerra is determined to prosecute the war, and there is slight doubt in any quarter that Guerra can control the situation in his region. His force is reported by all those who have visited him recently as ranging from 3000 to 4000 men, all of them well mounted and some well and others indifferently armed.

The Government force opposed to him, which is under command of Colonel Avalos, comprises about 1000 men. It was reinforced by Lieutenant-Colonel Clews with 150 men and three machine guns from Havana. Colonel Avalos' forces, with the exception of small detachments left at San Juan de Martinez and San Luis, is at Pinar del Rio City, but is without means of transportation to go to the relief of San Juan de Martinez. Not more than 400 are mounted.

General Meenocal said that Guerra evidently had not been informed that the Government had actually, although informally, granted an armistice, adding that a second committee had been sent to him. The fact is, however, that Guerra refuses point blank to accept an armistice except on condition that the last elections for President and Congress shall be annulled. That the Government should consent to this is out of the question, and so every prospect points to the continuance of the war.

In connection with Pino Guerra's attitude it is notable that the Liberals have grown more independent. They say that on account of the Government's surveillance and persecutions they will no longer hold meetings, and that it is useless to consider peace under the circumstances.

All regard the blowing up of an English company's railroad bridge as a serious matter and likely to invite international action by Great Britain, or at least an interrogation of the Government at Washington by Great Britain as to whether the former intends to intervene to end war conditions in Cuba.

MEAT PACKERS CAPITULATE.

Will Label Their Products by October 1, as Required by Law.

Washington, D. C.—After numerous conferences between Secretary Wilson, Dr. Melvin, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, and about forty representatives of the various meat packing houses, the problems which have arisen over the question of labels which, under the law must be put upon meat products, have been settled to the satisfaction of all concerned. What probably was the last conference was held at the Department of Agriculture, and the packers announced that they would prepare the labels by October 1, when the law goes into effect.

Throughout the discussions Secretary Wilson stood for labels which would state exactly what the package contained, and this the packers finally have accepted, although by way of compromise the Secretary did not insist upon the percentages of different meats contained in any canned article put out under one name.

GOVERNOR PARDEE BEATEN.

Fails of Renomination Because of Course in 'Frisco Disaster.

Santa Cruz, Cal.— Congressman James N. Gillette, of Eureka, was nominated for Governor by the Republican convention on the first ballot, receiving 591½ votes, to 233½ votes for the present Governor, Geo. C. Pardee.

Governor Pardee's general indecision in the San Francisco disaster and his refusal to yield to the request of the citizens and recall the State militia is regarded as having brought about his defeat. The platform gives sincere thanks to all who aided San Francisco in her time of need. It asks the enactment by Congress of an amendment to the existing tariff law as a measure of relief for San Francisco, that for a period of three years all building material be admitted into the port of San Francisco free of duty.

RUSSIA TAKES HEART AGAIN

Business Improves After Publication of Stolypin Program.

Landlords Willing to Exchange Old Estates For New—Students Want Universities Open.

Moscow, Russia.—There was a strong upward movement on the Bourse following the publication of the Stolypin program. All the industrial securities advanced, including even the shares of the great Briansk and Sormovo establishments, which had been steadily declining on account of strikes, incendiarism and rioting.

An important conference between Dmitri Shipoff, Count Hayden, Michael Stakovich and other prominent members of the Peaceful Regenerationist party will be held to discuss the new developments in the Octobrist party.

Taking advantage of the withdrawal of Count Hayden and others, the reactionist wing has started a campaign to capture the organization and turn it against the constitutional movement. The more progressive leaders now are considering a thorough review of the Octobrist program instead of the creation of a new party.

The leaders secretly hope, it is asserted, that the radical Constitutional Democrats will be victorious at the approaching elections for Parliament, swing the party over to the Left, and thus make room for a combination of Moderate Liberals.

From members of the Zemstvo Congress now in session here it is learned that many landlords favor abandoning their present estates in the thickly settled provinces in exchange for tracts in the Urals and Siberia.

St. Petersburg.—The firm note struck by Premier Stolypin in the official communication embodying the whole Government program with its warning to Terrorists and Revolutionists, on one hand, that crime must and would be suppressed at any cost, and to the Reactionists, especially the court camarilla, on the other hand, that reforms could neither be abandoned nor deferred, met with a prompt response on the Bourse, where prices were not merely firm, but were strong, without any symptoms of artificial support.

HUNGRY FOR LEARNING.

Students Will Not Oppose Opening of Universities.

St. Petersburg.—At a meeting of Social Democratic and Social Revolutionist university students it was decided not to oppose the reopening of the universities, which is scheduled for October 14, thereby furnishing a strong possibility that the paralysis of the educational life of the country, which has lasted for two school years, may soon be ended.

Many revolutionary students favored abandoning entirely the obstructive attitude, re-entering the universities and resuming their studies instead of making the universities "temples for the revolutionary movement," which was the motive behind the short and fruitless resumption of work in the universities last year.

Among the student masses there has grown up a feeling of resentment against the tactics which are depriving them of education and a determination to resume studies regardless of any strike decisions.

POLICE CHIEF KILLS A MAN.

Hurried Ride in an Auto Prevents His Being Lynched.

Des Moines, Iowa.—Chief of Police Myron Tullar, of Fort Dodge, killed George Dugan, a well to do farmer of Rockwell City, at the Calhoun County fair grounds at Manson, and only a hurried ride with a guard in an automobile prevented his being lynched by the infuriated crowd.

Dugan and George Korns, of Somers, became involved in an altercation over the outcome of a horse race and Chief Tullar took a hand. Tullar used his fist and struck Dugan several terrific blows in the face. Dugan walked a few steps away and fell dead.

The crowd was furious when it learned what had happened, but Tullar was under arrest and riding for life before the mob realized that its clamoring for a rope would be of no avail.

CHEAPER LIGHT IN SYRACUSE.

State Commission Fixes Price of Gas and Electricity.

Albany, N. Y.—The State Commission of Gas and Electricity announced its decision, granting the application for an order fixing the maximum price of gas in Syracuse at ninety-five cents per 1000 cubic feet, beginning October 1. The price of electricity for street lighting is fixed at $68 per lamp, for commercial purposes at nine cents per kilowatt hour for one year beginning October 1, the price after that to be eight cents.

Present lighting rates in Syracuse are: Arc street lamps, $85.77½ per lamp per year; commercial incandescent, twelve cents per kilowatt, with two cents discount if paid before 15th of month; gas, $1 per 1000 maximum.

OPPOSES JOINT STATEHOOD.

Arizona Conventions of Both Parties Declare For Territories Forever.

Bisbee, Ariz.—Conventions of both the Republican and Democratic parties have adopted the following resolution:

"We are unalterably opposed to joint Statehood between Arizona and New Mexico, and would prefer to remain a Territory forever than to have joint Statehood with New Mexico."

To Attack Standard Oil Monopoly.

Headquarters for Special Counsel C. B. Morrison, prosecutor of trusts for the Government, have been established at Chicago. The next move against the Standard Oil Company will be to attack it on a charge that it is a monopoly.

Russian Reform Plans.

Reform plans of the Russian Cabinet include repression of disorder, abolition of restrictions on Hebrews and autonomy for the provinces.

Thorsby, Alaba

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. HORN
LICENSED PHARMACIST.
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

Thorsby Winery Co.
Lofthus & Brunberg, Props.

Thorsby Real Estate
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, Pres.
G. H. GERALD, Sec.
G. C. MICHELSON, Tr

OLAF SCHI
Watchmaker & Jewele
FRANZEN. BUILDI
Full line of watches je etc. Repair work guara

A. Langville & S
Blacksmith and Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BUGG

P. C. SMITH
Brown Leghorn Fowls
Eggs.
BERKSHIRE PI

The Thorsby
G. C. Michelson, Pr
Good Beds and Meals

J. J. Stanley
General Merchandi

MRS. MARY R. RASBE
General Merchandise

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court, August 22, 1906.

On this, the 22d day of August, 1906 came J. M. Nix, guardian of said minor, and filed his petition in writing and under oath, praying for an order and proceeding to sell certain lands described in said petition, property of the said minor, for reinvestment. It is ordered that said petition be set down for hearing on the 15th day of September, 1906, and that notice of said petition, together with the said day for hearing the same, be given by publication for three successive weeks in The Union, a newspaper published in this county, calling upon all persons interested to appear and contest the same, if they think proper. It is further ordered that said minor also have notice of this proceeding and of the day set for hearing the same, by citation, to be personally served on her ten days before said day appointed for said hearing. It is further ordered that A. C. Smith, who is, in the opinion of the court, a suitable and competent person therefor, and who is not of kin or of counsel to the petitioner, be and he is hereby appointed guardian ad litem to represent and protect the interests of said minor in the matter of said proceeding, and that he have notice of his said appointment.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
8-30-06-3wks Judge of Probate.

Notice No. 20795.
NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.
Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 28, 1906.

Notice is hereby given that William F. Armstrong, of Clear Creek, Ala., has filed notice of his intention to make final five years proof in support of his claim, viz., homestead entry No. 33166, made September 6, 1899, for the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter, section 22, township 24 north, range 13 east, and that said proof will be made before clerk of Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on November 1, 1906.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of the land, viz.: Joseph M. Broadhead, W. Rufus Holditch, William M. Aldritch, Lee Busby, all of Calera, Ala.

ROBERT D. JOHNSTON,
8-30-06 tf Register.

In a recent speech before a Brooklyn Sunday school Secretary of Treasury Shaw is reported to have said: "I do not say that the Bible should be taught in the public schools, but I do say that it is not taught there. Neither is it taught in the pulpit or in our homes. If the Bible is studied at all it is in the Sunday school, and for that reason it is the greatest institution in America."

LABOR WORLD.

The Knights of Labor, at [illegible] have decided on political action.

The tinners of Nashville, [illegible] are on strike to enforce the [illegible] hour day.

The plumbers and carpenters of Portland, Me., have obtained the eight-hour day.

The suburban railway employes of Cleveland have obtained an increase of one cent an hour.

The lathers of Cleveland have raised their initiation fee to $25 and the dues to $1.50 per month.

The bartenders of New York will demand an increase of wages. The union has over 1200 members.

Bridge and structural iron workers have formed new unions in Hamilton, Ont., and Vancouver, B. C.

Fur workers are now agitating for demand for their label and plan a campaign for the coming season.

The United Weavers' Amalgamated Association will hold its convention in Boston, Mass., on May 20.

An effort will be made by the Brotherhood of Bookbinders to organize that trade more thoroughly in the Southern States.

The new scale signed by all the [illegible] painters at Rockford, Ill., is a two-year agreement with two cents an hour increase for 1907.

Union teamsters have introduced an ordinance in Jersey City, N. J., preventing the employment of boys under eighteen years of age as messengers.

The Union Spenders' League is the name of a new organization that has been formed in New Jersey. It is composed of the women relatives and friends of union men, those who spend all the money, or nearly all.

Rosy Crop Outlook.

A record yield of corn, a [illegible] spring wheat outturn, and a [illegible] crop next to the largest ever gathered are in sight.

Fighting in San Domingo.

Advices from Cape Haytien say that the Dominican rebels have been twice defeated. Monte Cristi is reported besieged.

In Paris the Bourse was [illegible] by the earthquake in Chile.

The New York Sun declares that friendship, peace and prosperity the hope and message of the United States for all her sister republics the south.

One Dollar for Expenses.

Saratov.—The police here [illegible] M. Kutamanoff, a member of the parliament. Letters received by [illegible] scribe the privations of a party of telegraphers, railroad men and [illegible] logical scholars exiled to [illegible] They say they are allowed [illegible] $1 for living expenses and [illegible] the clothing of the exiles is [illegible] their shoes destroyed and that [illegible] famishing.

[illegible] IV.

[illegible]MA GLEANINGS.

[illegible]terest Gathered as [illegible]Transpire Over the [illegible]Entire State.

[illegible]nvict Earnings.

[illegible]y.—The receipts of the [illegible]ct department for the [illegible]gust, as given out by Dr. [illegible]z, president of the state [illegible]rict inspectors, show that [illegible]hirty-one days closing Au[illegible]e prisoners of the state [illegible] revenues the sum of $83, [illegible]s mark, according to Dr [illegible]res, is a record-breaker. [illegible] than the receipts of any [illegible] ever returned. The re[illegible]he same month last year [illegible]4.67.

[illegible]ken from the books of the [illegible]r show that during the fis[illegible]m October 1, 1905, to the August 31, this year, the [illegible]artment has turned into [illegible]f the state $699,576.60. This [illegible] the evening of September [illegible]e increased to $705,876.58. [illegible]eceipts for the fiscal year [illegible]tember 30, 1905, from the [illegible] were $561,073.18.

[illegible] showing it is estimated [illegible]eipts for the present fiscal [illegible]xceed those of last year by [illegible] to $100,000.

[illegible]sessment of County.

[illegible]ry—Tax Assessor Hurst [illegible] the assessment of Etowah [illegible]906. According to the re[illegible]s now $8,843,706 of taxable [illegible] the county. This assess[illegible]l and standing, as both the [illegible]d commissioner's courts [illegible] upon all suits filed against [illegible]. The assessment for 1905 [illegible]04, showing a gain of $458,[illegible] present year. The gain is [illegible]rkable from the fact that [illegible]mortgages are not included [illegible]r's assessments, the su[illegible] having recently declared [illegible]e tax unconstitutional.

[illegible]al Guard Resignation.

[illegible]—The resignation of Capt. [illegible]chelberger, Company I, A. [illegible]een accepted and an elec[illegible]d for next Tuesday night [illegible]vacancy. There seems to [illegible]tion that First Lieutenant [illegible]rd will be promoted to the [illegible] Second Lieutenant Gowan [illegible]ll be made first lieutenant [illegible]t Frank Foberts will be [illegible]tenant. This will give [illegible]s Rifles officers who will [illegible]at high standard of excel[illegible]hich the company is noted.

[illegible]oss Men Boost Fair.

[illegible]—The monthly meeting of [illegible]lle chamber of commerce [illegible]nd an encouraging report [illegible]d from T. W. Pratt, chair[illegible] railroad committee. Mr. [illegible]rted that the railroad sub[illegible]as almost been made up [illegible]ects work to begin on the [illegible]ille and Huntsville road [illegible]next few weeks. The cham[illegible]merce boosted the Tennes[illegible] Fair, which will be held [illegible]st week in October and all [illegible]en are advised to do what [illegible]ward advertising the fair.

[illegible]ngineers Resign.

[illegible]am.—Practically the entire [illegible]gineers at the big steel [illegible] Tennessee Coal, Iron and [illegible]ompany has resigned and [illegible]e being put in their places. [illegible]erstood that the old men [illegible] they are being discrimi[illegible]st and that they see evi[illegible]ered are in sight.

[illegible]Fighting in San Domingo.

Advices from Cape Haytien [illegible] that the Dominican rebels have [illegible] twice defeated. Monte Cristi [illegible]ported besieged.

In Paris the Bourse was [illegible] by the earthquake in Chile.

[illegible]dered and Robbed.

[illegible]—News was received here [illegible] the boldest robberies and [illegible]er committed in this sec[illegible]uth's Gap, on the side of [illegible]tain, near Mountainsboro, [illegible] twelve miles northwest of [illegible]

[illegible]ia, who operates a saloon [illegible]ce for Spoon Motlow, of [illegible]as murdered and robbed [illegible] hour, supposedly by two [illegible]. Between $400 and $500 [illegible] The proprietor of the sa[illegible]everal officers have gone [illegible]e of the crime and every [illegible] be made to capture the [illegible]d robbers.

Stylish Clothing For Young Men.

Make up your mind to have the best suit possible this season, it must be smart, the very latest weave and color. You can have all these things if you get an I. & S. Bing Suit.

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for spring wear is now complete, the styles are decided and we are showing absolutely correct styles. New Dress Goods, New Waist Goods, New Hats, New Shirts, New Neckwear.

Spring Models in Footwear

See our new line of Star Brand Oxfords for men, women and children. Our stock is complete and the prices are right. Let us show you the goods.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, - - Alabama.

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE.

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Cluff Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
J. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Imported Jack "LIJE"

Fee $8.00, Insured

Stands for service at his owners', JOHN THAMES, 1 mile East of Rocky Mount Church, Beat 1.

CUBAN REBELS BLOW UP STEEL BRIDGES

Pino Guerra Rejects Armistice by Renewed Activity.

TAKES JUAN DE MARTINEZ

Government Forces Unable to Cope With Rebel Chief, Who Demands New Elections to Get Rid of President Palma.

Havana, Cuba. — All peace overtures were blocked by the refusal of Pino Guerra, the insurgent leader in Pinar del Rio Province, to enter into an arrangement for an armistice. Guerra's answer to the Government's announcement of its readiness to grant an armistice was the blowing up of two bridges on the Western Railway, an English company, the cutting of railway communication beyond Pinar del Rio City, and an attack on San Juan de Martinez. San Juan de Martinez is in the hands of the insurgents and the garrison, consisting of 100 Government recruits and a small force of mounted rural guards, has been defeated or captured.

The fact that other leaders of the insurrection are willing to agree to an armistice can have little effect so long as Guerra is determined to prosecute the war, and there is slight doubt in any quarter that Guerra can control the situation in his region. His force is reported by all those who have visited him recently as ranging from 3000 to 4000 men, all of them well mounted and some well and others indifferently armed.

The Government force opposed to him, which is under command of Colonel Avalos, comprises about 1000 men. It was reinforced by Lieutenant-Colonel Clews with 150 men and three machine guns from Havana. Colonel Avalos' forces, with the exception of small detachments left at San Juan de Martinez and San Luis, is at Pinar del Rio City, but is without means of transportation to go to the relief of San Juan de Martinez. Not more than 400 are mounted.

General Meenocal said that Guerra evidently had not been informed that the Government had actually, although informally, granted an armistice, adding that a second committee had been sent to him. The fact is, however, that Guerra refuses point blank to accept an armistice except on condition that the last elections for President and Congress shall be annulled. That the Government should consent to this is out of the question, and so every prospect points to the continuance of the war.

In connection with Pino Guerra's attitude it is notable that the Liberals have grown more independent. They say that on account of the Government's surveillance and persecutions they will no longer hold meetings, and that it is useless to consider peace under the circumstances.

All regard the blowing up of an English company's railroad bridge as a serious matter and likely to invite international action by Great Britain, or at least an interrogation of the Government at Washington by Great Britain as to whether the former intends to intervene to end war conditions in Cuba.

MEAT PACKERS CAPITULATE.

Will Label Their Products by October 1, as Required by Law.

Washington, D. C.—After numerous conferences between Secretary Wilson, Dr. Melvin, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, and about forty representatives of the various meat packing houses, the problems which have arisen over the question of labels which, under the law must be put upon meat products, have been settled to the satisfaction of all concerned. What probably was the last conference was held at the Department of Agriculture, and the packers announced that they would prepare the labels by October 1, when the law goes into effect.

Throughout the discussions Secretary Wilson stood for labels which would state exactly what the package contained, and this the packers finally have accepted, although by way of compromise the Secretary did not insist upon the percentages of different meats contained in any canned article put out under one name.

GOVERNOR PARDEE BEATEN.

Fails of Renomination Because of Course in 'Frisco Disaster.

Santa Cruz, Cal. — Congressman James N. Gillette, of Eureka, was nominated for Governor by the Republican convention on the first ballot, receiving 591½ votes, to 233½ votes for the present Governor, Geo. C. Pardee.

Governor Pardee's general indecision in the San Francisco disaster and his refusal to yield to the request of the citizens and recall the State militia is regarded as having brought about his defeat. The platform gives sincere thanks to all who aided San Francisco in her time of need. It asks the enactment by Congress of an amendment to the existing tariff law as a measure of relief for San Francisco, that for a period of three years all building material be admitted into the port of San Francisco free of duty.

RUSSIA TAKES HEART AGAIN

Business Improves After Publication of Stolypin Program.

Landlords Willing to Exchange Old Estates For New—Students Want Universities Open.

Moscow, Russia.—There was a strong upward movement on the Bourse following the publication of the Stolypin program. All the industrial securities advanced, including even the shares of the great Briansk and Sormovo establishments, which had been steadily declining on account of strikes, incendiarism and rioting.

An important conference between Dmitri Shipoff, Count Hayden, Michael Stakovich and other prominent members of the Peaceful Regenerationist party will be held to discuss the new developments in the Octobrist party.

Taking advantage of the withdrawal of Count Hayden and others, the reactionist wing has started a campaign to capture the organization and turn it against the constitutional movement. The more progressive leaders now are considering a thorough review of the Octobrist program instead of the creation of a new party.

The leaders secretly hope, it is asserted, that the radical Constitutional Democrats will be victorious at the approaching elections for Parliament, swing the party over to the Left, and thus make room for a combination of Moderate Liberals.

From members of the Zemstvo Congress now in session here it is learned that many landlords favor abandoning their present estates in the thickly settled provinces in exchange for tracts in the Urals and Siberia.

St. Petersburg.—The firm note struck by Premier Stolypin in the official communication embodying the whole Government program with its warning to Terrorists and Revolutionists, on one hand, that crime must and would be suppressed at any cost, and to the Reactionists, especially the court camarilla, on the other hand, that reforms could neither be abandoned nor deferred, met with a prompt response on the Bourse, where prices were not merely firm, but were strong, without any symptoms of artificial support.

HUNGRY FOR LEARNING.

Students Will Not Oppose Opening of Universities.

St. Petersburg.—At a meeting of Social Democratic and Social Revolutionist university students it was decided not to oppose the reopening of the universities, which is scheduled for October 14, thereby furnishing a strong possibility that the paralysis of the educational life of the country, which has lasted for two school years, may soon be ended.

Many revolutionary students favored abandoning entirely the obstructive attitude, re-entering the universities and resuming their studies instead of making the universities "temples for the revolutionary movement," which was the motive behind the short and fruitless resumption of work in the universities last year.

Among the student masses there has grown up a feeling of resentment against the tactics which are depriving them of education and a determination to resume studies regardless of any strike decisions.

POLICE CHIEF KILLS A MAN.

Hurried Ride in an Auto Prevents His Being Lynched.

Des Moines, Iowa.—Chief of Police Myron Tullar, of Fort Dodge, killed George Dugan, a well to do farmer of Rockwell City, at the Calhoun County fair grounds at Manson, and only a hurried ride with a guard in an automobile prevented his being lynched by the infuriated crowd.

Dugan and George Korns, of Somers, became involved in an altercation over the outcome of a horse race and Chief Tullar took a hand. Tullar used his fist and struck Dugan several terrific blows in the face. Dugan walked a few steps away and fell dead.

The crowd was furious when it learned what had happened, but Tullar was under arrest and riding for life before the mob realized that its clamoring for a rope would be of no avail.

CHEAPER LIGHT IN SYRACUSE.

State Commission Fixes Price of Gas and Electricity.

Albany, N. Y.—The State Commission of Gas and Electricity announced its decision, granting the application for an order fixing the maximum price of gas in Syracuse at ninety-five cents per 1000 cubic feet, beginning October 1. The price of electricity for street lighting is fixed at $68 per lamp, for commercial purposes at nine cents per kilowatt hour for one year beginning October 1, the price after that to be eight cents.

Present lighting rates in Syracuse are: Arc street lamps, $85.77½ per lamp per year; commercial incandescent, twelve cents per kilowatt, with two cents discount if paid before 15th of month; gas, $1 per 1000 maximum.

OPPOSES JOINT STATEHOOD.

Arizona Conventions of Both Parties Declare For Territories Forever.

Bisbee, Ariz.—Conventions of both the Republican and Democratic parties have adopted the following resolution:

"We are unalterably opposed to joint Statehood between Arizona and New Mexico, and would prefer to remain a Territory forever than to have joint Statehood with New Mexico."

To Attack Standard Oil Monopoly.

Headquarters for Special Counsel C. B. Morrison, prosecutor of trusts for the Government, have been established at Chicago. The next move against the Standard Oil Company will be to attack it on a charge that it is a monopoly.

Russian Reform Plans.

Reform plans of the Russian Cabinet include repression of disorder, abolition of restrictions on Hebrews and autonomy for the provinces.

Thorsby, Alabama

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. HORN
LICENSED PHARMACIST.
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

Thorsby Winery Co.
Lofthus & Brunberg, Props.

Thorsby Real Estate
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, Pres.
G. H. GERALD, Sec.
G. C. MICHELSON, Treas.

OLAF SCHIV
Watchmaker & Jeweler
FRANZEN, ... BUILDI...
Full line of watches ... etc. Repair work guarant...

A. Langville & S...
Blacksmith and Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BUGG...

P. C. SMITH
Brown Leghorn Fowls ...
Eggs.
BERKSHIRE PI...

The Thorsby ...
G. C. Michelson, Pro...
Good Beds and Meals

J. J. Stanley
General Merchandi...

MRS. MARY R. RASBE...
General Merchandise

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court, August 22, 1906.

On this, the 22d day of August, 1906 came J. M. Nix, guardian of said minor, and filed his petition in writing and under oath, praying for an order and proceeding to sell certain lands described in said petition, property of the said minor, for reinvestment. It is ordered that said petition be set down for hearing on the 15th day of September, 1906, and that notice of said petition, together with the said day for hearing the same, be given by publication for three successive weeks in The Union, a newspaper published in this county, calling upon all persons interested to appear and contest the same, if they think proper. It is further ordered that said minor also have notice of this proceeding and of the day set for hearing the same, by citation, to be personally served on her ten days before said day appointed for said hearing. It is further ordered that A. C. Smith, who is, in the opinion of the court, a suitable and competent person therefor, and who is not of kin or of counsel to the petitioner, be and he is hereby appointed guardian ad litem to represent and protect the interests of said minor in the matter of said proceeding, and that he have notice of his said appointment.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
8-30-06-3wks Judge of Probate.

Notice No. 20795.
NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.
Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 28, 1906.

Notice is hereby given that William F. Armstrong, of Clear Creek, Ala., has filed notice of his intention to make final five years proof in support of his claim, viz., homestead entry No. 33166, made September 6, 1899, for the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter, section 22, township 24 north, range 13 east, and that said proof will be made before clerk of Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on November 1, 1906.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of the land, viz.: Joseph M. Broadhead, W. Rufus Holditch, William M. Aldritch, Lee Busby, all of Calera, Ala.

ROBERT D. JOHNSTON,
8-30-06 tf Register.

In a recent speech before a Brooklyn Sunday school Secretary of Treasury Shaw is reported to have said: "I do not say that the Bible should be taught in the public schools, but I do say that it is not taught there. Neither is it taught in the pulpit or in our homes. If the Bible is studied at all it is in the Sunday school, and for that reason it is the greatest institution in America."

LABOR WORLD.

The Knights of Labor, at ... have decided on political action.

The tinners of Nashville ... are on strike to enforce the ... hour day.

The plumbers and carpenters ... Portland, Me., have obtained ... eight-hour day.

The suburban railway employ... Cleveland have obtained an in... of one cent an hour.

The lathers of Cleveland ... raised their initiation fee to $... the dues to $1.50 per month.

The bartenders of New York ... demand an increase of wages. ... union has over 1200 members.

Bridge and structural iron ... ers have formed new unions in ... ilton, Ont., and Vancouver, B. C.

Fur workers are now agitating ... demand for their label and plan... a campaign for the coming ...

The United Weavers' Am... mated Association will hold its ... vention in Boston, Mass., on Au... 20.

An effort will be made by ... Brotherhood of Bookbinders to ... ganize that trade more thoroughly ... the Southern States.

The new scale signed by all ... ter painters at Rockford, Ill., ... two-year agreement with two ... cents an hour increase for 1907.

Union teamsters have intro... an ordinance in Jersey City, N. ... preventing the employment of ... under eighteen years of age as ... sters.

The Union Spenders' League ... name of a new organization that ... been formed in New Jersey. ... composed of the women relatives ... friends of union men, those ... spend all the money, or nearly ...

...IA GLEANINGS.

...IV.

...terest Gathered as ...ranspire Over the Entire State.

...nvict Earnings.

...y.—The receipts of the ...ict department for the ...gust, as given out by Dr. ...s, president of the state ...rict inspectors, show that ...hirty-one days closing Au... ...e prisoners of the state ... revenues the sum of $83,... ...s mark, according to Dr. ...res, is a record-breaker, ... than the receipts of any ... ever returned. The re... ...he same month last year ...4.67.

...ken from the books of the ... show that during the fis... ...m October 1, 1905, to the ... August 31, this year, the ...artment has turned into ... of the state $699,576.60. This ... the evening of September ... increased to $705,876.58 ... receipts for the fiscal year ...tember 30, 1905, from the ... were $561,073.18.

... showing it is estimated ...eipts for the present fiscal ...ceed those of last year by ... to $100,000.

...essment of County.

...ry—Tax Assessor Hurst ... the assessment of Etowah ...906. According to the re... ... now $8,843,706 of taxable ... the county. This assess... ...l and standing, as both the ... commissioner's courts ... upon all suits filed against ... The assessment for 1905 ...04, showing a gain of $458,... present year. The gain is ...rkable from the fact that ...mortgages are not included ...r's assessments, the su... having recently declared ... tax unconstitutional.

...al Guard Resignation.

...—The resignation of Capt. ...chelberger, Company I, A. ...een accepted and an elec... ...d for next Tuesday night ... vacancy. There seems to ...tion that First Lieutenant ...rd will be promoted to the ...Second Lieutenant Gowan ...ll be made first lieutenant ...t Frank Foberts will be ...tenant. This will give ... Rifles officers who will ...at high standard of excel... ...hich the company is noted.

...ess Men Boost Fair.

...—The monthly meeting of ...ille chamber of commerce ...d an encouraging report ...d from T. W. Pratt, chair... ... railroad committee. Mr. ...rted that the railroad sub... ...as almost been made up ...ects work to begin on the ...ille and Huntsville road ...ext few weeks. The cham... ...merce boosted the Tennes... Fair, which will be held ...t week in October and all ...en are advised to do what ...ward advertising the fair

...gineers Resign.

...am.—Practically the entire ...gineers at the big steel ... Tennessee Coal, Iron and ...ompany has resigned and ...e being put in their places. ...erstood that the old men ... they are being discrimi... ...st and that they see evi... they are to be to be sup... new men brought down ... sections of the country. ...quiet was given at the Flor... by the old engineering ...e steel plants at Ensley. ... change of management ...everal weeks ago and the ... of the engineers is be... one of the results of this

...dered and Robbed.

...—News was received here ... the boldest robberies and ...er committed in this sec... ...ath's Gap, on the side of ...tain, near Mountainsboro, ... twelve miles northwest of ...

...is, who operates a saloon ...ce for Spoon Motlow, ... of ...as murdered and robbed ... hour, supposedly by two ... Between $400 and $500 ... The proprietor of the sa... several officers have gone ... of the crime and every ... be made to capture the ...d robbers.

...One Dollar for Expenses.

Saratov.—The police here ar... M. Kutamanoff, a member of the ... parliament. Letters received ... scribe the privations of a party ... telegraphers, railroad men and ... logical scholars exiled to ... They say they are allowed ... $1 for living expenses and ... the clothing of the exiles is in ... their shoes destroyed and that ... famishing.

y, Alaba
ss Directory.

ub

ABLE
arties outh.

Thorsby Real Estate
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, Pres.
G. H. GERALD, Sec.
G. C. MICHELSON, Tre

CIST.
Toilet

OLAF SCHI
Watchmaker & Jeweler
FRANZEN, BUILDI
Full line of watches je etc. Repair work guarant

ry
nd day.
D

A. Langville & S
Blacksmith and
Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BUGG

n

P. C. SMITH
Brown Leghorn Fowls
Eggs.
BERKSHIRE PI

sen

The Thorsby I
G. C. Michelson, Pre
Good Beds and Meals

se.

J. J. Stanle
General Merchandi

MRS. MARY R. RASBER
General Merchandise.

Co.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens

eps.

LABOR WORLD.

The Knights of Labor, at Bo have decided on political activit

The tinners of Nashville, T are on strike to enforce the e hour day.

The plumbers and carpenter
Portland, Me., have obtained eight-hour day.

The suburban railway employ Cleveland have obtained an inc of one cent an hour.

The lathers of Cleveland raised their initiation fee to $25 the dues to $1.50 per month.

The bartenders of New York demand an increase of wages.
union has over 1200 members.

Bridge and structural iron w ers have formed new unions in T lton, Ont., and Vancouver, B. C.

Fur workers are now agitati demand for their label and pla a campaign for the coming sea

The United Weavers' Am mated Association will hold its vention in Boston, Mass., on Au 20.

An effort will be made by Brotherhood of Bookbinders to ganize that trade more thorough the Southern States.

The new scale signed by all ter painters at Rockford, Ill., two-year agreement with two a cents an hour increase for 1907.

Union teamsters have introd an ordinance in Jersey City, N preventing the employment of under eighteen years of age as t sters.

The Union Spenders' League h name of a new organization that been formed in New Jersey.
composed of the women relatives friends of union men, those spend all the money, or nearly al

Rosy Crop Outlook.

A record yield of corn, a h spring wheat outturn, and a c crop next to the largest ever ered are in sight.

Fighting in San Domingo.

Advices from Cape Haytien that the Dominican rebels have twice defeated. Monte Cristi is ported besieged.

In Paris the Bourse was affe
by the earthquake in Chile.

The New York Sun declares friendship, peace and prosperity
the hope and message of the U States for all her sister republi the south.

One Dollar for Expenses.

Saratov.—The police here arre
M. Kutamanoff, a member of the parliament. Letters received hav scribe the privations of a party of telegraphers, railroad men and logical scholars exiled to
They say they are allowed $1 for living expenses and cannot the clothing of the exiles is in their shoes destroyed and that they famishing.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

IV. CLANTON, ALA., SEPTEMBER 20 1906. NO. 29

A GLEANINGS.

...vest Gathered as
...spire Over the
...dire State.

...st Earnings.
...—The receipts of the
...department for the
...st, as given out by Dr.
...president of the state
...er inspectors, show that
...ty-one days closing Au
...prisoners of the state
...revenues the sum of $83,
...mark, according to Dr.
...s is a record-breaker,
...than the receipts of any ...ver returned. The re
...same month last year
...
...-from the books of the
...show that during the fis
...October 1, 1905, to the
...August 31, this year, the
...tment has turned into
...the state $699,576.60. This
...the evening of September
...increased to $705,876.58.
...eipts for the fiscal year
...mber 30, 1905, from the
...were $561,073.18.
...showing it is estimated
...ts for the present fiscal
...those of last year by
...to $100,000.

...ment of County.
...—Tax Assessor Hurst
...the assessment of Etowah
...06. According to the re
...now $8,843,706 of taxable
...the county. This assess
...and standing, as both the
...commissioner's courts
...on all suits filed against
...The assessment for 1905
...showing a gain of $458,
...present year. The gain is ...table from the fact that
...mortgages are not included
...'s assessments, the su
...having recently declared
...tax unconstitutional.

...al Guard Resignation.
...—The resignation of Capt.
...heberger, Company I, A.
...been accepted and an elec
...d for next Tuesday night
...vacancy. There seems to
...ion that First Lieutenant
...rd will be promoted to the
...Second Lieutenant Gowan
...be made first lieutenant
...r Frank Foberts will be
...man. This will give
...Rifles officers who will
...h standard of excel
...ich the company is noted.

...ess Men Boost Fair.
...—The monthly meeting of
...ville chamber of commerce
...d an encouraging report
...from T. W. Pratt, chair
...railroad committee. Mr.
...ted that the railroad sub
...has almost been made up
...ers work to begin on the
...ville and Huntsville road
...next few weeks. The cham
...merce boosted the Tennes
...Fair, which will be held
...t week in October and all
...are advised to do what
...ward advertising the fair

...ineers Resign.
...—Practically the entire
...neers at the big steel
...Tennessee Coal, Iron and
...Company has resigned and
...are being put in their places
...ood that the old men
...they are being discrimi
...ed and that they see evi
...they are to be to be sup
...new men brought down
...sections of the country.
...quest was given at the Flor
...by the old engineering
...the steel plants at Ensley.
...a change of management
...several weeks ago and the
...of the engineers is be
...one of the results of this

...dered and Robbed.
...—News was received here
...the boldest robberies and
...ever committed in this sec
...ith's Gap, on the side of
...ain, near Mountainsboro,
...twelve miles northwest of
...
...ia, who operates a saloon
...ce for Spoon Motlow, of
...was murdered and robbed
...y hear, supposedly by two
...Between $400 and $500
...The proprietor of the sa
...several officers have gone
...of the crime and every
...be made to capture the
...and robbers.

PETITION GRANTED.

Provisional Concessions Made to Cotton-Carrying Roads on Freight to Be Exported.

Washington.—The interstate commerce commission rendered its decision on the petition of the Southern railway and other carriers operating in territory east of the Mississippi river and south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers for permission to equalize export rates on cotton, cotton seed and its products and lumber, and thereby make changes in their export rates on these commodities without the thirty days' notice required by the new rate law.

The commission holds that carriers may legally issue through bills of lading from the interior point of shipments to a foreign destination which specify the railroad rate to the port of export and the ocean rate from the port of export, even though no joint through rate is published.

The commission orders that "no published rates on cotton shall be advanced except upon thirty days' notice; that from and after this date and until March 1, 1907, carriers may reduce their published export rates on cotton to the various ports of export upon three days' notice, and that until November 4, 1907, carriers may continue to equalize export cotton rates through the various ports by applying the lowest combination through all the ports, thereby making the said rates without publication and filing as required by law, provided that they post in two conspicuous places in the station where cotton is received for shipment notices of the rates so made as soon as they are made and mail copies of the same to the commission, said notices to specify the rate and the time during which the rate will continue in effect.

As to cotton seed and its products and the lumber, the petition is denied.

Plan Big Coal Merger.

Boston.—The Herald says: A coal merger whose scope is said to be the largest in the history of Cape Breton is engaging the attention of New England and English capitalists. The men behind the movement are Henry M. Whitney, of this city; B. F. Pearson, of Halifax, and Graham Fraser. When the merger is effected, which will be in the near future, it is said it will equal, if not surpass, in commercial importance the Dominion Coal Company, which has hitherto dominated the Cape Breton colliery business.

New President of Shoemakers.

Brockton, Mass.—John F. Tobin, for seven years general president of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union in the United States and Canada, has been defeated for re-election by Thomas B. Hickey, business agent of the Brockton Lasters' Union, according to returns received in this city.

Buildings at Jamestown.

Norfolk, Va.—Three states will on Wednesday inaugurate work on the buildings to represent them at the Jamestown exposition here next year. These are Maryland and Missouri, which will break ground, and Virginia, which will have corner-stone laying exercises.

American Officers Return.

Berlin.—The American army officers, including General Barry and General Duvall, who have been attending the German maneuvers, have returned General Barry said he was charmed with the emperor's courtesy and cordiality, and that the most complete facilities had been given the observers for professional duty.

Three Street Cars Collide.

Seattle, Wash.—Three street cars, one loaded to the guards with passengers, collided in First avenue and more than a dozen passengers and car employes were injured. Three of the passengers are not expected to survive. Bush Hall, manager of the Seattle baseball club, was a passenger and was cut about the head and bruised.

Steam Engineers Adjourn.

Milwaukee.—After a session lasting from early in the afternoon until late at night the International Union of Steam Engineers' convention adjourned sine die. Philadelphia was selected as the place for the next convention.

Prohibition Unconstitutional.

Tuscaloosa.—Judge Brown has issued a decision stating that the prohibition election, which was to be held on September 20, is unconstitutional, and for this reason it has been annulled. For some time a great wave of the prohibition movement has swept the county, but nothing more will be done until certain state laws have been changed.

HEARST NAMED AT HEAD OF A FULL TICKET

Independence League Convention Nominations in New York City.

L. S. CHANLER IN SECOND PLACE

Candidate Cheered For Thirty-five Minutes When Followers Call Him Up For Speech—No Dickering With Other Party.

New York City.—The convention of the Independence League at Carnegie Hall nominated William Randolph Hearst for Governor, a full State ticket, adopted a resolution refusing to fuse with the Democrats and gave Candidate Hearst a wildly enthusiastic reception.

The business of the convention was transacted in less than forty-five minutes, and the rest of the time, more than two hours, was used up in cheering and speechmaking. Carnegie Hall was packed to the doors, to the limit of the law, and the police under Inspector Walsh turned away hundreds of people who wanted to get a look.

The adoption unanimously of the resolution to turn down the proposition of Norman E. Mack, William J. Connors and the other Democrats who wanted the Independence League to nominate Hearst only and keep the ticket clear for a dicker with the Buffalo convention, was the biggest thing which the convention produced. Max F. Ihmsen, Clarence J. Shearn and others of the Hearst leaders who wanted to trade for support with the regular Democratic convention, were overwhelmed by the sentiment for a straight ticket and a purely independent fight.

The following is the ticket nominated:

For Governor—William Randolph Hearst, of New York.

For Lieutenant-Governor—Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, of Dutchess.

For Secretary of State—John S. Whalen, of Monroe.

For Treasurer—George A. Fuller, of Jefferson.

For Controller—C. H. W. Auel, of Erie.

For State Engineer — Frank L. Getman, of Tompkins.

For Attorney-General—John Ford, of New York.

The convention, which was attended by 1611 delegates and their alternates, was in session two days and two nights.

The two sessions held on the first day—one in the afternoon and one in the evening—were remarkable in the history of State conventions. Both were characterized by a hearty co-operation on all sides in the important work on hand. After temporary organization in the afternoon the convention adjourned until 8 p. m., when the permanent organization was effected.

A platform was adopted which embraces all the cardinal principles of the League, and then adjournment was taken.

It was not until 9 o'clock p. m., at the final session of the convention, that Judge Seabury, the permanent chairman, called the delegates to order and there had been a solid hour and a half of the most deafening din ever heard in a State convention. Tin horns, hundreds of cowbells and all kinds of noise-making things added to the uproar.

Clarence J. Shearn, Mr. Hearst's lawyer, was recognized the instant the convention met to present the report of the committee on platform and resolutions. This was the matter uppermost in the minds of all delegates, for it dealt with the reply to be made to the proposition for fusion with the Democrats made by Norman E. Mack, W. J. Conners and others. Mr. Shearn read the reply, which the Committee on Resolutions had drafted during the afternoon.

The resolution rejecting the proposal to postpone nominations was put before the convention at two minutes past 9.

At 9.07 Clarence J. Shearn, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, which had also been made the Committee on Nominations, announced that the committee unanimously recommended the nomination of Mr. Hearst for Governor, and the first great storm of applause of the night was let loose.

In rapid succession the remaining candidates were named, with prolonged cheering for each man.

Mr. Shearn moved the adoption of the committee's report as a whole, and Henry A. Powell, of Brooklyn, in an eloquent address, seconded the nomination.

The entire ticket was placed in nomination by acclamation, and after that the convention resolved itself into a tumultuous ratification meeting.

It was at seven minutes to 10 that Mr. Powell, after Mr. Hearst's nomination had been made by acclamation, moved the appointment of a committee to bring Mr. Hearst into the convention. The motion was carried unanimously, and, at two minutes to 10 o'clock, Mr. Hearst entered the hall, the band playing "Hail to the Chief," and the entire convention rising to welcome him.

Next to the adoption of the anti-fusion resolution the reception given to Mr. Hearst by the 1600 and odd shouters was the interesting feature of the final session.

RUSH WARSHIPS TO CUBA

Denver and Marietta Protecting American Interests.

Seven Hundred Marines in West Indian Waters Available—Orders Direct From Oyster Bay

Washington, D. C. — President Roosevelt's policy of preparedness for any emergency in Cuba, so far as the immediate operation of war vessels is concerned, was announced at the State Department.

It includes the sending to Havana of the protected cruiser Denver and the ordering of the gunboat Marietta to Cienfuegos. The cruiser Des Moines will remain at Key West until further orders.

In making public these facts Acting Secretary of State Bacon said that there was no disposition on the part of this Government to make a demonstration in Cuban waters, but that the insurrection had attained such proportions it had become necessary to take steps for the protection of American interests in Cuba.

The department believes that for the present the Denver will be sufficient for all needs along the northern coast of Cuba and the Marietta for the southern coast.

The exchange of messages between the State Department and Mr. Sleeper, Charge at Havana, and other American representatives in Cuba, which are supposed to have told of conditions requiring that prompt action be taken to safeguard Americans and their property, will not be discussed by officials of either the State or Navy Departments.

It is admitted, however, that all these messages have been forwarded, upon their receipt, to President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, who for several weeks has personally directed the policy of the United States concerning the Cuban outbreak.

In spite of the sudden activity of this Government it is declared that there is no intention to take any part in the conflict bevond that demanded by the critical situation in which Americans have been placed in the island. That the President has considered the ultimate possibility of intervention or at least the use of force in safeguarding the interests of this Government there can be no doubt.

This is shown by the fact that the Navy Department has been called upon for a statement of the number of marines that might be available in the event of trouble. There are betwwen 600 and 700 marines now in the vicinity of the West Indies. They are scattered through Santo Domingo, Porto Rico and Culebra Islands, and some are on the Isthmus of Panama. There are 300 marines on the Dixie alone.

The cruiser Columbia has just arrived at the naval station, Guantanamo, where she landed 100 marines to take the place of an equal number who have long seen service there and will now be given sick leaves.

NORTH RIVER TUNNEL THROUGH

Engineers Take Trip to Celebrate the Connecting of States.

New York City.—A party of 100 engineers connected with the Pennsylvania Railroad's terminal work in this city and on the Jersey shore passed through the new tunnel from Weehawken to Manhattan. At the line dividing the States of New York and New Jersey, far under the bed of the North River, there was speech making and cheering over the completion of the first link on the chain that is to bind New York more closely to the rest of the country.

The excursion signalized the completion of one of the great tubes through which trains are to be run. The outer shell of the tunnel is all in place. The interior work remains to be done. The trip of the engineers was made in an air pressure of twenty-eight pounds to the square inch, the bottom of the tunnel was deep with mud and water and the temperature was something awful, but the untoward condition did not affect the enthusiasm of the excursionists.

An hour after entering the tunnel in New Jersey the party came out on the New York side at Twelfth avenue and Thirty-third street.

ZION CITY OWES $6,125,018.

Receiver Reports That the Assets Aggregate $2,528,481.

Chicago. — John C. Hately, who was appointed receiver of Zion City pending the litigation in the Federal courts, filed his first report in the court. He declares that the liabilities of the city aggregate $6,125,018. The quick assets are estimated at $372,054, and the slow assets at $2,156,427.

The receiver declares that he experienced considerable difficulty in arriving at the amount of the assets and liabilities, as no general set of books was kept, and there were thirty-two different sets of accounts, which he was compelled to examine.

Clover Hay Scarce.

Clover hay is scarce and is bringing extra prices on the Western wagon market, with small prospects of any immediate decrease.

Scarcity of Labor.

Scarcity of labor is an important trade influence, restricting production of factories and causing delays in harvesting of crops.

CANNON SLAUGHTER JEWS BY WHOLESALE

Hundreds Killed and Thousands Wounded in Poland.

FIRE HORROR AFTER MASSACRE

Batteries Open Fire on Israelitish Quarter of Siedlce Town—Russian Authorities Look Idly On—Dreadful Loss of Life Follows.

Siedlce, Poland.—A Jewish massacre surpassing in seriousness all previous ones in this vicinity has taken place here.

It was carefully planned beforehand, the soldiers warning all of the Christian population in advance to hang out their ikons so that they might remain undisturbed.

Some Terrorists killed two soldiers and thereupon the Libau Regiment broke forth in unrestrained fury. They began murdering Jews on every hand and continued the work of slaughter all night and all day.

The ghastly work of murdering and pillaging continued until Governor-General Skallon telegraphed for permission to use the artillery.

Four batteries then opened fire down Pienkna, Warsaw and Aliena streets, which were inhabited by thousands of Jews. The destruction was horrible. As a result of the general slaughter it is estimated that fully 200 Jews have been killed and thousands wounded.

There are 3000 prisoners in custody, a great many of whom were wounded. Not a soldier was killed.

Next morning squads of soldiers were parading through the streets selling pillaged watches and jewelry. The army officers openly countenanced the selling of loot. The local Governor, Englke, took no steps to prevent the outrage.

The telegraph offices are closed and nobody is allowed on the streets or to leave the town. The refugees continue to crowd to the stations. The soldiers are drunk and behaving with extraordinary brutality.

Six buildings in the big bazaar of the city caught fire, adding another terror to the killing and plundering which went on for thirty-six hours.

Almost all the Jewish shops have been looted. Owners who defended their property were killed or wounded. Any person seen leaving a house or looking out of a window was shot without mercy.

St. Petersburg, Russia.—Siedlce is a town of 30,000 people, half of whom are Jews.

Unfortunate Jews were shot and bayoneted in the streets of the town. Houses and shops were broken into and sacked. Valuables were carried off and offered for sale by soldiers to passengers on passing trains.

After the murder of a policeman by Terrorists and the firing of a volley by troops into the assembled crowd, which resulted in the killing of two citizens and the wounding of many more, the Terrorists held a meeting and decided to exact vengeance by inaugurating a general campaign against the police and troops, similar to the recent activity along the same lines in Warsaw.

In the course of one morning twelve patrolmen and soldiers were killed. As a result of this, the Libau Regiment, in a state of fury, left its barracks in the afternoon and marched into the Jewish quarter, shooting right and left as it went.

REPUBLICANS CARRY MAINE.

All Four Congressmen Re-elected by Decreased Majorities.

Portland, Me.—Returns from all the cities and more than half the towns and plantations indicate the re-election of Governor William T. Cobb, Republican, by less than 8000 plurality over Cyrus W. Davis, the Democratic nominee. This is the smallest Republican plurality since that party won the State from the fusion of Democrats and Greenbackers in 1884.

The four Republican Congressmen are re-elected. Amos L. Allen by 1500 plurality; Charles E. Littlefield, about 1000; Edwin C. Burleigh, about 5000, and Llewelyn Powers, 3500.

From a representation of four State Senators and twenty-six members of the lower house, the Democrats have increased to twelve Senators and about sixty Representatives.

235 PERSONS BURIED ALIVE.

Mass of Mud and Sand Obliterates Town Near Tiflis.

Tiflis, Russia.—Practically without warning the side of a mountain rising above the township of Kwareli broke away and in a sea of semi-liquid mud, sand and stones swept down on the township and obliterated it.

Some 255 persons have been buried alive. Fifty-five bodies were recovered from the mire, which is about six feet deep. In addition to the lives lost, countless head of cattle perished and the crops were destroyed.

Kwareli township occupies an area of five kilometres in the District of Telaw, in the Caucasus. Similar disasters are of common occurrence in Caucasian valleys.

Pope Receives New Head of Jesuits.

The Pope received Father Werns, th Gene... of the Society of Jesus, and co... gratulated him on his election.

Professional Cards.

William M. Adams,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
OFFICE; Room 1, Court House.
"Practices in all Courts
Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.
CLANTON, - - - Ala.

J. EARLE GOWAN,
DENTIST.
Office in Kicker Building
CLANTON. ALABAMA.

A. C. Smith,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in All Courts
Office 6th St. opp. Court House
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON
Office at Residence
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

J. Osmond Middleton,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St. Court House
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
CLANTON

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
to
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

LAND FOR SALE.
Eighty acres land in Beat 10, close to Cooper's. For sale cheap. Call on or address L. H. GENTRY,
Mt. Creek, Ala.
12 R. F. D. No. 5.

The .·. Borthwick .·. Theory

By E. C. DAWSON.

Professor John Borthwick closed his front door at 9.14 a. m., one moment ahead of scheduled time. This enabled him to collect a scrap of paper from his lawn and inter it decently in a bed of variegated leaves fallen from the maples bordering the roadway. The sharp October breeze exhumed it almost before his back was turned, and his housekeeper, watching from an upper window, observed the man with a vast amount of brain showed an extraordinary want of common sense.

Professor Borthwick—with the alphabet transposed after his name—walked to the end of the block and turned the corner that brought the buildings of the Canadian Geological Survey into view. For a generation past he had been one of the department's shining lights; over and above all, he was the Borthwick Theory.

It was impossible, in scientific circles, to discuss the pre-glacial period in Polar regions without reference to the Borthwick Theory. It permeated the calculations of two decades of geologists as inevitably as the knowledge that certain fossils were characteristic of certain horizons. The world over the Theory was discussed and quoted, argued and dissented from. Of course, there was dissension—the very magnitude of the theme courted criticism from its bearing upon vast economic possibilities in the Northwest provinces, as yet but partially explored. Not that Professor Borthwick concerned himself intimately with economic questions; his interests were centred in the course of events before Man was.

His critics, also the possessors of cometlike alphabetical tails, were the members of other surveys; they disputed the Borthwick Theory in the academic journals, and fenced Professor Borthwick at international congresses.

Meanwhile, the scientific world, approving and dissentient, waited complacently; men to whom a thousand years were as a day, geologically speaking, expected to wait; even the optimists scarcely supposed that Professor Borthwick would have the luck to personally establish his claim to posterity.

The Theory had its origin in a handful of obscure fossils collected by the professor in early manhood, when field instructions had taken him, one of a band of pioneers, into unexplored regions bordering upon the Arctic.

Years passed, and each season found him pursuing his investigations with patient, unswerving energy; those untrodden lands became divisions, the divisions districts; wide-awake prospectors began to follow in the Geological Survey's footsteps; Professor Borthwick continued to collect fossils in summer and determine them in winter, and slowly but surely his researches strengthened his convictions.

Borthwick on Northwestern geology attained importance in the eyes of the department, his views passed, in process of time, to wider acceptance as Dr. Borthwick's Theories, and finally attained impressive, singular and international significance as the Borthwick Theory.

The Professor aged with the Theory; younger men went into the field able—where he was now unable—to withstand the hardships entailed; he remained in his laboratory, and on the evidences of their researches continued to deduce and establish the Theory, link by link. Year by year he hoped for the conclusive results that would blazen it on time's records as incontrovertible fact.

Thus, the autumn was a season of paramount importance to him, since it heralded the return of the field staff and the possibility that the Northwest had yielded the clews he needed.

A sharp gust of wind swirled his coat tails; the Professor folded the garment closer without annoyance; a touch of frost in the air, and clear sunshine induced a physical sense of wellbeing that demanded analysis, together with the opposite deduction that it was possible to feel otherwise.

He paused on the steps of the survey with a dawning sense of misgiving. Suppose that, in place of confirmatory evidence, the season's work served to weaken the foundations of the Theory, or in any way suggested the possibility of his critics being right and he wrong. Even in the home survey there were men who doubted—youths of thirty-five and forty who based their arguments on experience that, compared with Professor Borthwick's, was insignificant.

Some of them had theories of their own, and toward these he exercised the courtesy and tolerance becoming in a man who had forgotten more than they ever knew. For the Theory, so far as it went, was circumstantially proved—even as theory it was a laurel that had creditably adorned his lifetime and would undoubtedly be utilized on his bust.

A side door into the building opened to exude a couple of empty crates, indication, therefore, that the fossils and mineral specimens collected in the past season were unpacked and awaiting identification.

The Professor's autumnal elation reasserted itself, his forebodings vanished; entering the Survey, he said good-morning to the janitor in a tone that caused the official to note thoughtfully that he mounted the stairs to the next floor taking two at a time.

He remembered that same buoyancy in the Professor when the patriarchal beard had been brown, and, coupled with baldness and comparative youth, sufficiently incongruous to suggest the possibility of hair restorer applied absent mindedly to the wrong place.

A spirit of bustle and rejuvenation pervaded the Survey; the field parties were assembling day by day from all quarters, and exchanging specimens and experiences.

In a corridor Professor Borthwick happened upon a man fresh from the centre—to him—of vital interest. They paused for an interchange of greetings. The Professor was popular with the younger generation following his footsteps in the Northwest; its solitudes bore everlasting witness of him and of their esteem, even though the Theory should pass, in a Borthwick mountain, a Borthwick river, and lakes to match.

"A successful season, I hope, Tillman?" said the Professor punctiliously, but with an undernote of eagerness in his voice that was unmistakable.

"That's for you to decide, Professor," the younger man replied. "There's a crateful of specimens waiting for you, some of them new, I think. We followed up the west fork of the Borthwick and explored one of the unknown tributaries. A wonderful country, but the difficulties——"

"No doubt, no doubt," interrupted the Professor gently; transport problems were mere details, and he wanted facts. "Come to my room when you have a moment to spare," he pursued. "I should be glad to note down everything likely to be of service in my researches."

He proceeded down the corridor and reached the door labelled with his name.

His stenographer, Miss Dickson, was seated at her desk, studying the stock and share column of the morning paper.

"Good morning," said the Professor, with the same jubilance he had evinced toward the janitor. "What a delightful day!"

"Good morning," said Miss Dickson, without looking up. She never encouraged the Professor to be enthusiastic at 9.30 a. m.; it involved working through the luncheon hour without a break, which was bad for both of them.

"A delightful morning," pursued the Professor, unchilled. When not conversing academically he tried to be conventional, and became commonplace. "I believe the market is going up," he added, after a pause and a flash of inspiration.

"Down," replied Miss Dickson, pursuing the damping process.

She dabbled mildly in shares, and the Professor heard of her ventures with the puzzled interest that a man with a banking account and no use for money would naturally evince toward a woman with gambling propensities—and a salary.

Next to the Theory, Miss Dickson was an indispensable adjunct to the Professor's welfare. Every New Year's Eve a check, for the purchase of additional shares, lay on her desk, presented "with the gratitude and esteem of J. Borthwick."

She was a little, energetic woman, agreeable, well educated, well read; ten years as the Professor's secretary had grounded her so effectually in the Theory and all pertaining to it that she had become a source of reference on the subject, consulted by the Professor and the geological staff, indiscriminately. A kindly nature enhanced her mental attainments, coupled with an assured manner. She was self-sacrificing and self-assertive as occasion demanded, championed her chief in public, and bullied him in private as one who knew his weaknesses and corrected his spelling.

He turned to his desk and the morning's correspondence. Miss Dickson laid aside her paper.

"The new batch of fossils came in this morning," she said. "I had them arranged in the sampling room."

"I met Tillman as I came in," the Professor replied; "from what he said it's just possible they have happened upon something new."

He reverted to his letters. "Nothing of importance—ah, yes, unfortunately—a reminder from the Editor of 'The Scientific Journal' about the contribution I promised. He shall have that note on a Fossil Fish Tooth from the Devonian—when it's finished, only"—he referred again to the letter and glances toward the sampling room door regretfully—"he wants it at once."

"And you want to get to the fossils, so 'The Journal' must wait," suggested Miss Dickson, conniving with the Professor's inclination against his conscience.

"A promise," began the Professor pedantically, drifting toward a bureau.

From a drawer containing manuscript he extracted the Fossil Fish Tooth sheets. Miss Dickson took them from him compassionately.

"I'll look through it and see what alteration is needed—your attention would be so divided," she said.

The Professor bore the imputation with meekness and made a bee line for the sampling room.

"Be sure you come to me if there is anything unnecessary or unintelligible, in your opinion," he paused to add from the threshold—to propitiate Miss Dickson and palliate the sense of wrongdoing.

Miss Dickson nodded and smiled; the Professor, artful and conscience-stricken, was genuinely humorous.

Left in solitude, she commenced work on the Note; it covered several pages, closely typewritten, and even to her scientifically adjusted mind became a trifle tedious. She turned, for diversion, to the Professor's correspondence and prepared the replies for his signature.

Midday struck; the janitor knocked at the door with a telephonic dinner invitation for the Professor.

"Ask for the number and say the Professor will ring up later," replied Miss Dickson. "He is busy with some fossils, and I can't disturb him." It was her custom to waive matters of minor importance without reference to him, an authority the Professor never resented.

In the next hour various individuals dropped in for conversation with the Professor, and stayed to enjoy it with Miss Dickson. It was past the luncheon hour when the last departed, and the Professor was still closeted in the sampling room. Miss Dickson decided to give him another half hour, and reverted, hungry but patient, to the Fossil Fish Tooth. At the end of the period she knocked at the door and entered.

"Time you went to lunch, Professor," she said.

He was seated with his back toward her, before a table littered with rock specimens, his head sunk between his shoulders, his elbows resting on the table.

It struck her, for the first time, that he looked very old and shrivelled and fragile; the reaction, possibly, from his earlier elation. She approached softly, to avoid startling him.

He seemed unconscious of her presence; his eyes were glued to a magnifying glass beneath which lay a fragment of limestone containing fossils.

"It is past 2 o'clock—time you went to luncheon, Professor," she repeated.

He made no reply, nor even the slightest movement. She waited a moment longer, and with a woman's intuition divined that something was wrong.

"What is it, Professor?" she exclaimed.

He turned his head slowly and stared at her with a sort of mute defiance.

"Professor, there's something wrong! Tell me what it is," she said sharply.

He pointed at the specimens before him and tried to speak, and with the several languages at his command could find no word to express himself.

He raised his eyes to hers, shamefacedly; a suspicion of the truth flashed upon her—he read it in her eyes—and flung the magnifier from him with a gesture of despair.

"All—dis—proved," he said, faltering from syllable to syllable, and sank back in the chair, a withered, decrepit, old, old man.

"Nonsense! Not the Theory?" she retorted, struggling with overwhelming conviction of the truth and the utter futility of fighting against it.

A knock came at the outer door. It galvanized the poor, broken old man into active misery.

"A laughing stock! A doddering old idiot. Good God!" he said.

Miss Dickson answered the knock instantaneously, stepped into the passage and closed the door behind her.

"The Professor is busy, extremely busy; for goodness' sake leave him in peace," she said with irritation to the intruder. "Oh, it's you, Mr. Tillman; I beg your pardon—will you come back presently—I mean to-morrow? Professor Borthwick promised an article for the next number of 'The Scientific Journal,' and we must get it off to-day, somehow."

Tillman departed, after a chaffing reference to the business methods of academic cranks. In his wake followed the janitor with another message.

"Look here, Symes," said Miss Dickson decisively, "tell every one who wants the professor—in or out of the building—that he's too busy to be interrupted to-day—on any account. I'm sick of repeating the same thing."

The janitor shuffled away; Miss Dickson re-entered the study and paused for a moment's reflection. Before returning to the Professor she slipped on her hat and coat.

He sighed with relief at her entry; his misery became a shade less acute in her presence; she seemed, temporarily, to stand between him and exposure. Then he noted with deeper despair that she had donned walking attire.

She came to the table and scrutinized the specimens lying before him. Next she turned to a cabinet filled with rock sections labelled "Borthwick River Series," and picked out several fragments from a miscellaneous heap, resembling in shape and size those that lay on the table.

The Professor watched her with apathetic curiosity; she came beside him and picked up the tell-tale limestone near the magnifier, and dropped the pieces one by one into the capacious pockets of her coat.

"The river," she said quietly, and arranged the specimens from the cabinet in the space beside the glass.

"No, no!" he exclaimed.

She drew on her gloves with determination.

They will never be missed," she said.

He remembered with terrible joy that she had always had her own way. She was having it now, and he sat there—unprotesting.

"Now, I'm going to lock you in for a few minutes, Professor," she resumed. "You've overdone things today, and you're too busy to see people."

The door handle clicked, and the key turned on the outside. Inevitable reaction succeeded the tension of the last few moments; a shiver ran through the distraught old man—his head swam, a tightness at his throat and chest turned him sick and clammy, his head dropped limply on his hands.

"I'm dying for luncheon and a mouthful of fresh air," said Miss Dickson to the janitor, in passing. "I won't be gone long, but don't forget my instructions about the Professor."

She took the air from the bridge spanning the river, pitching stones into midstream with vigorous accuracy.

Thus the Borthwick Theory remained unrefuted for a season, at all events, and possibly for an indefinable period. But she saw in perspective a vista of weary days—she and the Professor enacting the pretence of the Theory; she could do it, but he, with his abstruse intellect and elemental simplicity, was like a child—there was childish, helpless abandonment in his grief, but where the child's misery is short lived, his would endure—till the sods in the Northwest had been opened to receive Professor Borthwick, as provided for in his will.

He was old, and it was a terrible shock. Miss Dickson found herself wondering, conscience-stricken, how long it would be.

She hastened back to the Survey and the Professor. He had not stirred from his seat, and made no sign when she laid her hand on the arm of the chair.

"Professor!" she said, softly.

He did not reply; she scarcely expected that he would, and stood for a moment irresolute, reluctant to rouse him. His watch lying on the table ticked out the seconds; she counted them mechanically. No other sound broke the stillness, not even the Professor's breathing—she held her own to listen.

Another moment passed, and she dropped on her knees beside the chair.

"Professor!" she cried, and her fingers closed on his wrist. "Oh, Professor!"

She dragged his hands from his face and his head dropped sideways, limp and unsightly. She shrank away horror-struck and reached to the bell.

A rumor rushed through the building that old Borthwick was in a stupor; later, the news spread that he was dead.

Miss Dickson was blamed for the folly of letting an old man remain for so many hours without interruption and without food.

"Heart, I'll be bound," said the janitor. "It's what you'd expect when a man of his age tries to climb the stairs two at a time."

"Heart, I am sure," said Miss Dickson, with nervous conviction.—The Sketch.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

He is not eloquent whose words do not change acts.

Complacency is often complacently mistaken for consecration.

A little laughter lengthens all our lives and shortens every day.

There is no outer radiance from the life that has no inner light.

Deep in the dark alley we often find the foot of the golden ladder.

The worst of all liars may be able to make the best analysis of truth.

The honorable man will always honor the things that are honorable.

The emerged tithe will do a lot to solve the problem of the submerged tenth.

Many women forget that it takes more than a perfect house to make a home.

The social for revenue only does not promote the righteousness of the church.

Every weed that comes to fruitage is to remind us that good seed is not barren.

The religion that can be confined to place and season is never in place or in season.

The virtues with which we are oppressed are not impressing others in the same way.

You cannot eliminate selfishness by legislation, but you can sometimes check its speed.

This world is being saved by the love that could die, and not by any theory about it.

Some men think they save the leaking ship by hauling a new flag to the masthead.

He who has walked life's way in truth always sees the promise through the gates of death.

They become blind to the spiritual who will not blind themselves to some of the things of sense.

The Love that is ever within us gives us greater comfort than even the hope of the life beyond.

A rubber-tired vice is likely to take just as straight a course and make even better time to the pit than the old rattle-rim kind.—Ram's Horn.

More than 5000 Russian Jews emigrated to Palestine in one month.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bro

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases

Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

BIRMINGHAM, AL

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Associati

OF ALABAMA.

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

By the People and for the People.

Chilton County Branch

Organized February 3, 1900.

W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent

Full particulars furnished upon application to

WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

With

THE UNION

For

$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1.50

The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many daily weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, issued Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is not Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is specially edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street

Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmaker and Optician

Eyes Correctly Fitted

Mail orders promptly filled

SUBSCRIBE FOR THIS PAPER

DO YOU WANT

Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,

OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?

Then Call at

THE UNION OFFICE

and See Fine Work at Low Prices.

500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00

Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines.
Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made.
Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Ala.

cobs & Bra and Rugs.
AGENTS—
tio Book Cases Cabinets.
INGHAM, AL
surance Associati
ABAMA.
ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
nd for the People.
unty Branch
bruary 3, 1900.
WALLACE C. EDLER,
Sec'y.-Treas.
outbuildings and cont
fire, wind and lightn st sensible method of in 43-100 of 1 per cen
n application to
C. EDLER, Clanton, A
SINATION OFFER
EA-WEEK" Issue
Globe-Democra
UNION
or
one year, only $1.
not be classed with the many ch
Weekly, eight or more pages, portion the biggest, best and che sheet in the United States. It is a ern Newspaper.
from the Daily issue. It is car s of the Farmer, the Merchant and hor ughly posted without sparing contains a great variety of well e very member of the family.
Clubbing Offer
t may be withdrawn at any time,
THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala
Practical Watchma
and Optician
Eyes Correctly
Fitted
Mail orders promptly
BE FOR PAPER
WAN
, Noteheads,
Envelopes,
ELSE PRINTED?
Call at N OFFIC
rk at Low Prices.
For $2.00
, done on Good Machi
N, Clanton, Alabama. events Fevers.
RNISH PURE WA
or no charge made.
dress
BER CO.
Ala

Good Morning.

...ness, and bids the blushing sky
"Good morning!"
...ed birds take up the
...
"Good morning!"
...home beneath the eaves,
...ed on maple's tender leaves
...ent in the midnight rain,
...s at my window-pane:
"Good morning!"
...ma, who peeps o'er the hill
...cks across my window sill,
...in her sleepy lids—
...the King himself who bids
...Good morning!"

...o window wide.
...zes charge and
...roach in mer
...ld fairly shout
...ve to the King,
...and all me sing
...Golden Day,
...orn is their gay
...
...ange—there
...ests in air,
...music bears
...world repeats
...
...Too surly wight
...neighbor yonder
...
...stoops to greet
...the busy street
...ing."
...
...nple of God,
...ver and gold
...emperor and King
...chains and sing
...
...Leonard and Times.

The Cat that Killed Care

EATON BANKIN

...acteristic feature of
...mance was the
...line that indented
...above the bridge of
...snubbable nose
...ston. Georgiana
...same distinguishing
...was likewise reproduced,
...degree, on the youn...
...Mrs. Roswell's two
...beth and Dorothea
...what Mr. Roswell call
...sters," and Mr. Ros...
...the bow-shaped mark
...Bridget's anxious pu...
...mother-in-law pos...
...most "anxious pucker"
...was the monument
...of unmitigated wor
...
...ome of this tale Mrs.
...certainly the most ac
...on its quality. It
...woman's habit to wor
...aths about the spring
...ld actually to ac
...rescribed task in less
...weeks. She worried for
...d a day over the con
...two that really required
...of an hour for the bak
...ed for weeks over dis
...ons, when the actual
...ccomplished in rather
...minutes.

Mr. Roswell said on
...when his wife confess
...had worried all night
...scheme of using up an ov
...of beef, "you've been
...ow for twenty-four
...on can ever hope to
...meat. If you can't get it
...any other way, you'd
...stairs at once and put
...or in it. You do
...ng over managing this
...sehold to run all the
...country, and Russia be
...
...s foolish," Mrs. Roswell
...and I don't mean to
...can't help doing it."

...lean, homeless, ne...
...own cat with a tremen...
...ng for human sympathy
...ected the Roswell cot...
...manent home is one of
...are past finding out.
...her mother, her sister
...her two daughters had
...that they had enough to
...about acquiring a cat.
...Roswells had nothing to
...The cat claimed them
...and refused to give them
...He was not a prepossessing pus...
...His fur was dingy and matted,
...paws were stained with mud, and
...extremely slender tail, had
...curious spiral twist some inches
...the tapering end.

...before was there a more loving,
...demonstrative cat. Henry, as ...called him, cuddled in all
...Roswell laps, leaped to all the
...Roswell shoulders, twined himself
...under about all the Roswell ankles.
...The affection, however, was all on
...Henry's side. No neat and tidy Ros...
...thought of caressing either himself or ...her clothes at the caressing of such a
...dirty, unkempt creature.

"Dear me!" said Mrs. Roswell,
...as soon as possible to tell what color he
...He must have lived in somebody's
...coal bin before he came to us."

"He has licked one leg quite clean,"
...Elizabeth, dislodging Henry from
...lap. "He seems to be yellow,
...with a greenish cast, like Aunt Geor-
...giana's changeable silk waist."

"He's just the shade of maple
...," observed Dorothea, hastily
...tucking her ankles under her to save them from the sinuous caresses of demonstrative Henry. "Just think of owning a maple frappe cat!"

"I've been worrying for five days," said Mrs. Roswell, "about that animal. He must be washed, but how in the world can the thing be done? I've never washed a cat."

"You mustn't think of trying it!" cried Grandma Keith. "Some cats go perfectly mad with terror at sight of water."

"Yes," said Elizabeth, "I know it's dangerous. The Millards washed their Angora cat, and Grace was scratched clear to her elbows."

"We'll have to send the poor thing away," declared Mrs. Roswell, drawing her skirt from under Henry, who was settling down for a nap. "He has already caught three mice and two rats, and I'd really like to keep him if his fur was only decently clean, but he does look too disreputable for words."

"If you'll give him time," said Mrs. Roswell, kindly permitting Henry to ...ick his shoe, "he may get himself clean."

"He can't!" declared Dorothea. "There's more of him to wash than there was last week, and he wastes all his best licks on us."

"He has nice eyes," said Aunt Georgiana. "His manners are certainly ingratiating and his craving for affection is almost human. Do poke him a little with your foot, John. He is so hungry for a little appreciation."

Mr. Roswell poked. Henry instantly responded with a deep, sonorous purr.

Mrs. Roswell, her mother, her sister and her two daughters worried considerably about the feeling of Henry.

They even wrote to a woman's magazine to ask how many mice a middle-sized cat should be permitted to eat in one day, and if rats would impair the digestion of a puppy of tender age. But, above all, it was the problem of giving Henry a much-needed bath that brought the deepest wrinkles to all the Roswell brows.

Henry, in a dry state, was a peaceable, thoroughly good-tempered cat. Henry, wet, might prove a veritable demon. He certainly cried aloud for at least one bath, yet who of all the Roswells would undertake to bath a soiled, maple frappe, half-grown cat?

"Not I," said Grandma Keith.

"Not I," shuddered Elizabeth.

"Not I," echoed Dorothea. "It's a pity we can't send him to the steam laundry to be mangled with the sheets."

"Or," said Mr. Roswell, "to the Chinaman to be starched with my shirts. Perhaps Bridget—"

"Sure, and I'll not!" declared Bridget, when approached. "You never can tell what mischief a wet cat will do."

"But," argued Mrs. Roswell, "somebody will have to wash him. Suppose we draw lots —"

"Will you do it," querfied Mr. Roswell, "if the lot falls to you?"

"No," admitted Mrs. Roswell.

"They're a nice lot, aren't they, Henry," said Mr. Roswell, "to be so afraid to wash one small harmless yellow cat?"

"O John! Will you —"

"No, ma'am! I washed a cat once—once was enough for me. Why don't you send to the hospital for a trained nurse?"

This suggestion was made in fun; but later in the day Mrs. Roswell was reminded of it. She had gone to visit a sick neighbor, and in the goodness of her heart, had offered to sit with the patient long enough for Miss Ball, the nurse, to take a little run in the fresh air.

"Thank you very much!" said the girl, returning half an hour later with glowing cheeks. "I feel lots better for my walk. I'll do as much for you some day."

"Did you ever happen to wash a cat?" asked Mrs. Roswell, suddenly remembering Henry.

"Lots of times. We used to own a white one that had to be scrubbed twice a week because she would sleep in the coal-scuttle."

"Would you—wouldn't you—would you —" began Mrs. Roswell, her anxious pucker deepening suddenly, "would you —"

"Would I wash a cat for you? Why, of course I would—if—if it isn't a very fierce cat!"

"Oh, Henry isn't fierce when he's dry," returned Mrs Roswell. "He's remarkably sweet-tempered. But we're so afraid water will alter his disposition that we've worried for three weeks over the problem of washing him."

"I'll come over at ten tomorrow," promised Miss Ball, "to take a look at him. Have a foot-bath and some good common soap and plenty of hot water ready in a warm room. If he looks at all promising, I'll tub him."

The assembled Roswells, fairly shivering with excitement, stood in a circle in the kitchen the next morning while Miss Ball tested the water in the foot-bath with her thermometer. Then she gently disengaged Henry from Elizabeth's ancles, and lifted him into the tub.

Grandma Keith backed into the pantry, Aunt Georgiana fled hastily up the back stairs, and the others shrank against the wainscoating, to make ample room for the flying leap of a frantic, dripping, revengeful cat.

But there was no leap. Instead, Henry deeply grateful for such an unusual amount of attention, sat up and purred while Miss Ball rubbed every scrap of him with soap except his contented eyes. Then she rinsed him with gentle showers of clean warm water, and Henry, sitting knee-deep in the pleasant flood, purred louder than ever.

"And to think," said Dorothea, who held Henry, still purring, wrapped in a shawl before the grate to dry, "that this whole foolish family worried for three weeks over washing a cat that would rather be washed than not! Just see how proud he is of his nice white paws."

"Yes," returned Mrs. Roswell, whose brow was smoother than it had been for many days, "all my worries turn out just that way; but I don't believe I shall ever be able to worry again without thinking of Henry sitting up in that tub and purring with all his might and main. Nothing ever made me feel so foolish."

"Then this," said Dorothea, twinkling, "may prove to be the cat that killed care."—Youth's Companion.

MONTREAL'S FAMOUS MELONS.

Crop Limited and Each One Numbered—Bring as Much as $3 Apiece.

The average New Yorker accustomed to the small melon that grows in Jersey and Connecticut knows little about the possibilities of the cantaloupe unless fortune leads him to some restaurant during the weeks in which the famous Montreal melons may be had, writes the Montreal (Canada) correspondent of the New York Sun.

The Montreal melon might be called a thing of beauty and a joy forever if it would only continue to grow all summer. In the first place it is from three to six times the size of the ordinary melon and it excels its smaller brother in taste and flavor as much as it does in size.

In all about 3,000 of these luscious fruits find their way into the dining rooms of a few New York hotels every summer. Every one of them is marked and numbered and every one is contracted for early in the spring.

The man who is accustomed to buying a Rocky Ford melon for 15 cents would shy at the prices paid for these products of Canada. They command from 50 to 70 cents here and double that amount in New York. Sometimes they may be found in small numbers at the best fruit stores, retailing at as much as $3 each.

The limited supply accounts for the price, and as the years go on they bid fair to become more and more expensive until they pass out of existence like the dodo. The growth of the city will be responsible for the calamity. Already it is fast encroaching on Outremont, a suburb back of Mount Royal, where the soil and the heat form an ideal combination for the growth of the melon. The demand for building lots has already caused the destruction of scores of orchards from which not so many years ago the world got its La Fameuse apples.

There are La Fameuse apples now, but any one of the old timers will tell you that they are nothing at all like the fruit that grew on the trees on the other side of the mountain. The number of Montreal melons is likewise growing smaller and smaller each year, and it is likely that ten years from now the Montreal melon will be a morsel not to eat, but to reminisce about.

Game of California.

There are few, if any, of the states of the Union that have such a diversity of game as California. There is, however, one of the game birds dear to all sportsmen found in the East and Middle West that California has not—the elegant and gamy prairie chicken (Tympanuchus americanus). Why this bird does not thrive here I do not know. Many attempts have been made to introduce it, but without success. The same may be said of the Eastern quail, the plump and saucy Bob White. The California quail valley quail, as it is called here, is an attractive little creature, not so large and "chesty" as the Bob White, built on somewhat more slender lines and of a faintly bluish tint. Its head is ornamented with a plume-like top-knot of about an inch in length. There is no daintier, prettier bird. All the pictures I have ever seen represent this top-knot as standing upright. As a matter of fact, when the bird is quiet is falls forward over the bill, floating backward during flight. It is capable, however, of erection when excited or alarmed. Its call has not the clear cut, decided tones of the Bob White and sounds somewhat like the words "Look out, there; look out, there," as pure contralto voice as perhaps a bird ever has.

Anyone who has ever hunted this little fellow will bear witness to his gamy qualities. He is, in my opinion, a much more difficult bird to kill than his Eastern cousin. His flight is fully as rapid, and his skill in putting shelter between himself and the hunter can not be excelled. These quails often pass the night in trees, which, I think, the Eastern quail does not.—Charles W. Hardman in Recreation.

More or Less Walking.

When his careful examination of his new patient was at last completed, the specialist looked for a moment in silence at the tall, stooping figure opposite his own.

"You need more exercise," he said with his most impressive manner. "You must walk, walk, man. Throw back your shoulders, fill out your chest, expand the lungs, and walk!"

"Um-m!" said the tall man, dryly. "Do you know, I am the father of six-week-old twins, and I have the care of them at night, as their mother is very delicate. I get some exercise in that way, but I can't expand my lungs as much as you'd like, possibly."

Tea carriers of China carry tea in bars, each weighing twenty pounds.

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. D. H OVERTON

Subject: God's Obligation to Man.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The Rev. Daniel H. Overton, pastor of Greene Avenue Reformed Church, preached Sunday night in the Bushwick Avenue Reformed Church at the union services with His own congregation. The subject was, "God's Obligation to Man." The text was from II. Timothy, 1:9: "Who saved us, and called us with a holy calling, not according to His own purpose and grace, which was given us in Jesus Christ before times eternal, but hath now been manifested by the appearing of our Saviour Jesus Christ." Mr. Overton said:

There is the law of God and there is the gospel of God. Often have I spoken of the law of God, now I would speak of the gospel of law. The law of God may be defined as that which expresses God's obligation to God, and the gospel of God as that which expresses God's obligation to man. The Old Testament and the New Testament unite in this, that they give not only the law of God, but the gospel of God. It is this fact that makes the Hebrew religion and the Christian religion different from all the other religions of the world. Many other religions give directly or indirectly the law of God, but none of them gives the gospel of God as thus defined as the obligation of God to man. The gods of the heathen nations round about the Hebrew nation were of such a nature that they must be appeased and pleased by worship and sacrifice on the part of man or they would torment and crush man. The laws of the gods must be obeyed, but only that man might escape the punishment of the gods, and not from any particular love of man for the gods.

It is strange how this heathen conception of the gods has crept into the thought of so many about the true and living God. He, too, in the thought of many, is a God that must be appeased and pleased by worship and sacrifice or He will punish and torment and crush men. Men must obey the laws of God or perish by them. This is, of course, true as far as it goes. "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." Men cannot sin with impunity. Man is responsible to God, and under obligations to Him to keep His law and do His will. We must never forget this, nor get far away from this in our thought of God. But we must not stop with this thought. If we do we will have only a partial view of God—we will have only a heathen god.

And if we have only a partial God or a heathen god, then we shall have only a partial or a heathen religion. If fear is our only motive in religion or worship, then our religion and worship will be for the purpose of escaping the wrath of an angry God, and it will find expression in our attempts to appease and please an angry God by propitiations and atonements, and sacrifices, and servile obedience to His laws. We must rise above fear, and even above the thoughts of future rewards, to love, and to the thought of loving, loyal service, and present rewards in doing something to hasten the coming of God's kingdom upon the earth. We must rise above the obligation of man to God, as expressed by law, and think of the obligation of God to man as expressed by love and the gospel of love. We must think of the gospel of God as well as of the law of God. This will not belittle our respect for the law of God, nor in any way lower our sense of obligation to Him.

Daniel Webster, when asked what was the greatest thought that ever entered his mind, replied, you remember, that it was the thought of man's responsibility to God. That certainly is a great thought, and yet the one I bring you to-day is greater. God's obligation to man is, I believe, the greatest thought that can enter the mind of men.

This thought of God's obligation to man is newer than the thought of man's obligation to God. It may be new to many of you who are here to-day. There are some, I expect, who will den. that God is under any obligation to man whatsoever, and some of you may be among that number, but I believe that the thought is true, even if it is new, and that is why I proclaim it to you to-day.

God's obligation to man is the great gospel of God to man. The gospel is good news, and what better news is there in all the world for man than this—that God, the God of infinite love and Fatherhood, is under obligations to him? Let us see if this is a fact, and if we find it so, let that fact rest in our minds and bless our lives evermore.

First, look at our human relationships for proof of the fact. Children have obligations to their parents, but parents have obligations to their children also. My boys are under obligations to me, but I am under obligations to my boys also. Why? Because I am their father, with a father's heart and a father's interest. I cannot leave them to perish until all my fatherly resources are exhausted for their good. So God, by becoming the Father of the human family, has placed Himself under obligation to the whole human family. The very meaning of the word religion implies this. Religion, true religion, is that which binds a man to God in right relationship. Which is it that binds a man closest to God? Is it man's obligation to God, or is it God's obligation to man? I believe it is the latter. Close as the law may bind man to God, love binds him yet closer.

Now, all true human relationships involve obligations on both sides, and from both parties to the relationship. God has always acknowledged His obligation to man, even if man has not always acknowledged his obligation to God. What is a covenant but an obligation on the part of two or more people? God has made many coyenants with individuals and with His chosen people. He made covenants with Abel, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses, Elijah, Elisha, David and with many others that we might mention. He made covenants with the nation of Israel and of Judah again and again. These covenants implied the obligation of God to man, as well as man's obligation to God, else they would not have been covenants, but simply laws. These covenants are the gospel of the Old Testament and of the Hebrew religion. This gospel of God's obligation to man unites the Old and New Testaments as one book and as the book of one true religion, and the revelation of one great gospel, the gospel of God as a covenant making and a covenant keeping God, loving man and doing all that infinite love can do for man's salvation. Says Dr. Abbott: "The Old Testament is the gospel of the obligation of God to man in the bud; the New Testament is the gospel of God's obligation to man in the flower."

There is no doubt, I think, about the fact of God's obligation to man. It is really the central fact of the Old and New Testament alike. It is the very gospel of God in His great book from beginning to end, if only we interpret that book aright!

But before we boast of that gospel, or pride ourselves that God is under obligations to us, let us seek to know the ground of that obligation. Let us know that we have not put God under any obligation to us by anything we have done. "Not according to our works, but according to His own purpose and grace," Paul says in the text. It is therefore God's own purpose and active love, for grace is love in action, that has put God under obligation to man. "God so loved"—and there it all began—this gospel of God's obligation to man. God so loved that He voluntarily and out of His great love, and for no other reason, placed Himself under obligation to the whole world of humanity, so that whosoever in that world would believe in that love, and would let God fulfil His obligation toward him, should not perish, but be saved. This is John iii:16, in the light of our text and in the words of our theme. This is the gospel that Jesus Christ came to proclaim and to live. He came to tell every man that God so loves him that He is willing to place Himself under obligations to him. It was for this reason that God gave us His greatest gift—the gift of Himself in Jesus Christ—as much of Himself and even more than man would or could comprehend and believe in. It is because He is the great loving universal Father that He has placed Himself under obligation to every child of His, to every man and woman in all the world.

Be this our boast then: not that we have put God under any obligation to us by anything that we have done, but that God out of His infinite love for us and according to His own loving and eternal purpose has placed Himself under obligations to us. This purpose was given us in Jesus Christ, "before times eternal," Paul says. That is, it was born in God's eternal Father-Heart before time came to be reckoned or counted. God ever a Father must ever have had a Son, else He would not have been ever a Father, and in that love for that eternal Son we see God's purpose for all His sons in all the world. And this purpose has now been manifested to the world and to us by the appearing of our Saviour, Jesus Christ. That is, Christ came to show God's, the Father's, eternal purpose to the world. He came to tell the world that He has been willing to place Himself under obligation to every one in all the world. This is the gospel that Christ came to proclaim. This is the gospel that shines forth in all that He said or did.

And now we are ready to see what this obligation of God to us and His eternal purpose, has led Him to do for us, or the result of His obligation to man. What is the issue of this gospel of God's obligation? What has it led God to do for us? It has led and it will lead God to do everything that infinite love can do or that we will let Him do for our salvation. The first part of the text gives this answer: "Who saved us, and called us with a holy calling." He has called us to salvation and to holiness through faith in Him, as the loving Father, and in His Son, as the revealer and example of the Father's love and character. This is the covenant that God waits and wants to make with every one of us. It is not His will that any should perish, but that all should receive the light of life, and live the life that is abundant and eternal. It was God's obligation to us, born of His love for us, that led Him to send Christ to suffer and die for us, in order that He might become our Saviour and lead us to salvation and to holiness. It was this that led God to do the very best that He out of His infinite power and love could do for us and for all of His children of the earth. Ah, yes, we may be sure of this—God has kept, and God will ever keep, His part of the covenant that He has made with us and for us. He has fulfilled and He ever will fulfil, His full obligation to us.

This is the gospel of the Old and New Testament that I proclaim to you to-day. This is the gospel of Jesus Christ—the gospel of God's obligation to man born of God's great love for man.

The Sinfulness of Sin.

Unhappily that "secularization of morals," which the late Herbert Spencer proclaimed to be imperatively necessary, has already made some progress. The tendency to minimize sin—by characterizing it, not as a personal crime against God, but rather as "indiscretion," a "disease," or as the inevitable result of "heredity" in irresponsible persons—is developing in quarters where there ought to be clearer and more accurate views of life. There can be no successful sin." It may be hidden from man, and only from man, but in the divine order its inevitable result is death (Rom. 6:23), and no preacher can be true to his Master who fails to declare that immutable truth.—London Christian.

How to Understand.

Obey Jesus with cordial loyalty and you will understand Jesus. Not by studying Him, but by doing His will, shall you learn how divine He is. Obedience completes itself in understanding.—Phillips Brooks.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR SEPTEMBER 23.

Review of the Quarter—Read Matt. xxii., 34-46—Golden Text: Luke iv., 32—Topic: Christ's Last Messages—Summaries.

Lesson I. Topic: Lessons from a "child" text. Place: Capernaum. Soon after the transfiguration; Jesus in Capernaum for the last time; a question asked: Who is the greatest? A little child called to enter the kingdom of heaven it is necessary to "become as little children," those who offend a little one will suffer punishment.

II. Topic: Forgiving one another. Place: Capernaum. Peter came to Christ; asked how often he should forgive; Jesus said until seventy times seven times; Jesus spoke a parable to fully illustrate the duty of the Christian.

III. Topic: Love to our fellow men. Place: In Perea. A lawyer (or scribe) asked Jesus what he must do to inherit eternal life; Jesus asked him how he read the law; the lawyer replied, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart." Jesus told him he had answered right, the lawyer said, "Who is my neighbor?" Jesus spoke a parable; a man traveling from Jerusalem to Jericho fell among thieves; a priest passed by on the other side; a Levite did the same; a Samaritan helped the man, "Go, and do thou likewise."

IV. Topic: Jesus teaching how to pray. Place: In Perea. When Jesus had ceased praying in a certain place one of the disciples asked Him to teach them to pray; Jesus gave them a form of prayer.

V. Topic: The believer's social duties. Place: In Perea. At the house of a chief Pharisee; Jesus sees a man with the dropsy; it is the Sabbath day; Jesus asked them whether it was lawful to heal the man on that day; they refused to answer; Jesus healed the man; He then asked them if they would not take an animal out of a pit on the Sabbath day; call the poor and not the rich neighbors.

VI. Topic: Blessings and conditions of salvation. Place: In Perea. Jesus is still at the Pharisee's house; one at the table thought it would be a great privilege to sit at a banquet in the Messiah's kingdom; Jesus spoke a parable to show that although the blessings of the gospel would be offered them, yet they would refuse the invitation.

VII. Topic: God's great love for the sinner. Place: In Perea. The parable of the two sons; the younger left home after receiving his portion of the inheritance; went into a far country and wasted his substance in riotous living; decided to return and confess his folly to his father; he did so and the father received him joyfully and made a feast; the elder brother came from the fields and was angry; the father entreated him.

VIII. Topic: Characteristics of effective prayer. Place: In Perea. A parable on prayer; a widow asked a judge to avenge her; the judge refused; the widow urged him; the judge finally did as he was requested; the Lord will avenge those who call upon Him; another parable; the Pharisee's prayer; the publican's prayer.

IX. Topic: Great facts connected with salvation. Place: In Perea. A rich young ruler came running to Jesus and asked what he must do to inherit eternal life; Jesus said, Keep the commandments. He asked, Which? Jesus mentioned several; the young man had kept these; he asked what he still lasked; sell what you have and give to the poor; went away sorrowful; the rich are saved with great difficulty.

X. Topic: Finding salvation. Place: Jericho. A great number of people; blind Bartimaeus by the highway, begging; hears it is Jesus passing; calls loudly for mercy; is rebuked by those standing near; cries louder; his cries reach Jesus; He stops; commands Bartimaeus to be called; Bartimaeus went; made known his request; Jesus heals him; his faith has made him whole; he follows Christ. Zacchaeus was a rich publican who sought to see Jesus; he was small of stature and climbed into a tree; Jesus saw him and told him to come down; Jesus went to his house; the Jews murmured; Zacchaeus truly repented; gave half of his goods to the poor; confessed his sins; restored fourfold; Jesus forgave and saved him; the Son of Man came to save the lost.

XI. Topic: The kingship of Jesus. Place: In and near Jerusalem. Jesus and His disciples journeying toward Jerusalem; two disciples sent to Bethphage to secure a colt; the prophecy of Zech. 9:9 is fulfilled; a great multitude shout "Hosanna!" and spread garments and strew branches in the way; Jesus cleanses the temple; the chief Pharisees and scribes are sore displeased.

XII. Topic: Christianity's conflict with the world. Place: In Jerusalem, in the temple courts. The Pharisees and Herodians try to catch Christ in His words; He answers them wisely; they marveled at Him; they ask whether it is lawful to pay tribute to Casear; He says, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's;" the Sadducees come to Him and ask Him a question dealing with our relation after death; seven brothers, in turn, married the same woman, in the resurrection whose wife will she be? Jesus said that when they rise from the dead they neither marry nor are given in marriage.

Unworthy of Remembrance.

My Dear Friend—I beg you to lend me 6000f. Then forget me forever. I am not worthy to be remembered. —From a Letter Found by the Paris Figaro.

Chief Buddhist Sovereign.

The king of Siam is the only independent Buddhist sovereign in the world, and is, therefore, looked upon as the chief supporter of the religion of Buddha.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Sep. 20, 1906.

Union Clubbing List

The Union And Yellow Jacket	$1.05
The Union And Southern Ruralist	1.00
The Union And Union Educator	1.05
The Union And Home and Farm	1.00
The Union And Weekly Age-Herald	1.35
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.35
The Union and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.80
The Union and Tri-Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.80
The Union And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.80
The Union and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.80
The Union And Rural South	1.80
The Union And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.80

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

NOMINEES OF THE People's Primary

Held August 6, 1906, under the direction of the Republican and Populist Executive Committees of Chilton County, Ala.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
J. Osmond Middleton.

FOR SHERIFF.
Felix J. Fitts.

FOR COMMISSIONER.
First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—S. E. Waldrup.
tf

BOND ELECTION.

The electors of Clanton on Tuesday voted to issue the $5,000 bond issue (asked for by the town to pay indebtedness, etc.) by a vote of 92 for to 9 against. In the conference of citizens held last Friday night at the court house, we hear that there was quite an animated discussion as to the legality of the call for the election, and a committee was appointed to consider the question. As the election was held we suppose the committee must have found everything legal; however, the buyers of the bonds generally do some investigating themselves. In the talk about the city finances, P. D. Wilson said he wanted to see the city have the necessary money, but that he would like to see a public statement. Frank Criton said the county had not made a public statement for two or three years, which statement turned out to be true, as the present county treasurer has not made an itemized statement, such as the code of Alabama says must be done, since he has been in office. The writer has paid $20 to the city this year, and if the authorities will raise all in the same proportion he is willing to pay $50 for 1907.

1906 TAX ASSESSMENT.

Assessor L. B. Pounds has completed the assessment of Chilton county for the year 1906, and it shows that the value of real and personal property in our county is $3,324,852, a gain over 1905 of $627,438. This makes a good showing for the way the assessor's office is run, as the increase in valuation is almost 25 per cent.

KILLGORE REPUDIATES THE FACTION.

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 18, 1906.

Hon. W. R. Jackson, Jemison, Ala.:

Dear Sir—If I can, I will be at Thorsby on the 19th inst., at the meeting, but if I fail to be there you will please tell the committee that I am the same old Moses yet. I shall stand by you and your committee. I understand that the other wing elected me on their committee. I should have repudiated that before now, had it not been that I thought I might hold them down so they could not hurt the ticket nominated on August 6, 1906. It seems that some people can't believe that I am a Republican and that I stand by my word, but maybe they will be convinced some day. Please read this to the committee at the meeting, and if you see fit you can have it published in the county paper. Very truly yours, MOSES A. KILLGORE.

AN ELECTION SOLILOQUY.

By "Gant" Riggins.

The politician is my shepherd; he leadeth me through the campaign for my vote's sake. He carrieth me into saloons and filleth my pockets with good cigars, and my cup of beer runneth over. He inquireth concerning the welfare of my family, even unto the third and fourth generations thereof. Lo! when he is elected, he forgetteth me and knoweth me no more, although I meet him at his home he knoweth me not. Yea, verily, of a surety the wool has been pulled over my eyes. So I will hie myself to the land of Pumps and dwell therein hereafter and so avoid the snares of the ungodly ones. Selah.

BETHEL CHURCH.

Last Saturday night Judge L. H. Reynolds and Hon. J. Osmond Middleton addressed the citizens of this community on the political issues of the day, and they were greeted by a good sized audience.

Mr. George Edwards presided over the meeting and introduced the speakers. Mr. Middleton, candidate for the Legislature, was first introduced, and he made a capital speech. He dwelt at length on national issues; pointed out the great remedial legislation and vividly contrasted the splendid brought about by the Republican party prosperity which the country is enjoying today with the gloomy days of Clevelandism. Coming down to local affairs, and his own candidacy, Mr. Middleton impressed the Republicans and Populists with the fact that he was in the race at their command and that it was their fight. He paid his respects to Mr. Gulledge, and made the assertion that Mr. Gulledge was not standing squarely on his own "platform;" and pointed out facts to prove it. Mr. Middleton closed with an eloquent appeal to the boys to stand firm in this fight and promised a faithful discharge of duty if elected. Mr. Middleton made a fine impression, and strengthened the already existing opinion that he is the man to represent Chilton county in the next Legislature.

Judge Reynolds was then introduced, and, as usual for the Judge, made a fine speech. In his characteristic way he went after the Democrats with his gloves off, and said that the only hope for relief was to build up a strong opposition to the Democratic party in the state and in the South. He ridiculed the Democratic party in the county and characterized them with some apt and amusing anecdotes which elicited much laughter from the audience. He paid a fine tribute to the character and ability of Mr. Middleton and advised the people to vote for him.

At the conclusion of Judge Reynolds' speech, Chairman Edwards took the floor and in a few appropriate and well chosen words advised the Republicans and Populists to remain steadfast in the fight. He endorsed Mr. Middleton for the Legislature; felt sure of his election, and that he would represent the county ably and faithfully.

Mr. Gulledge was invited to be present and speak, but failed to attend; he wrote that he was sick.

REPUBLICAN.

KINCHEON.

Sept. 11, 1906.

Editor Union:

Please give a little space in your valuable paper to say a few words to the voters of Chilton county about politics, and the Legislature especially. There are two men before the people, and from these two one will be selected to represent us.

While have nothing against Mr. F. A. Gulledge personally, yet I fail to see any special claims that he has on the voters of Chilton county. He has been urging his claims on the ground that he is a farmer, and it seems that he has tried to prejudice the people against Mr. Middleton because he is a lawyer. Now, I wish to say to Mr. Gulledge that we are not going to send a man to the Legislature to plow, but to make laws for the common good of our county. While it is true that Mr. Middleton is not a farmer, yet raised, as he was, on the farm; living in a farming district, some of his very best and closest friends being of the farming class, in addition to being a man of culture and education, it seems to me that he is peculiarly well qualified to represent our county in the Legislature.

A word to Mr. Griffin: This is the first time I have heard it advanced that Mr. Gulledge was running his business in the interest of the people. We all know that Mr. Gulledge is a very rich man, and he has made his money off the people of this county, but I do not know of any of them that he has made rich.

Now, boys, Republicans, Populists and all, let's line up for J. Osmond Middleton, and elect him by the biggest majority in the history of the county. Mr. Middleton will do to tie to. We can trust him.

Here's success to Middleton, The Union and its many readers. Respectfully, MADISON POPWELL.

NOTICE, REPUBLICANS.

To the Republicans of Alabama:

For months every effort possible has been made to bring about a meeting of the Republicans of Alabama for the purpose of nominating candidates for state offices as well as transacting other party business, as has been the time-honored practice in the state. Our state committee has been called, called off and recalled quite often, yet we are further from being in a position of making nominations than ever. In an attempt to pacify the people, a primary election was called, which it was impossible to be legally carried out by our party, and an attempt to do so would have cost them thousands of dollars, besides having to hold the same under the direction and authority of Democratic officers, some of whom the Republicans would be forced to pay to see that they were honest in naming the candidates of their choice.

The Republicans rightfully resented this action of a few members of the committee, from one end of the state to the other.

Having no assurance that provision will be made to have our party represented at the polls in the coming contest without immediate action, a mass convention of the Republicans of Alabama is hereby called to meet in the city hall in the city of Birmingham on the 27th day of September, 1906, for the purpose of placing in nomination a full state ticket and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the convention.

This 11th day of September, 1906.

JULIUS W. DAVIDSON,
JOHN B. SHIELDS,
JAMES M. CRAWFORD,
DANIEL N. COOPER,
SAMUEL L. STUDDARD,
JAMES B. SLOAN,
GEORGE B. RANDOLPH,
F. A. MERRELL,
GEORGE W. PHILLIPS,
W. L. LOLLER,
J. H. HAYS,
L. M. ELLIS,
J. W. ANDERSON and others.

LIBERTY HILL.

Dear Editor:

It has been quite awhile since I saw anything from these diggings, so if you'll permit me to give a few of the happenings I'll do so with pleasure. Pastor Albert Foshee filled his regular appointment here Sunday to a large congregation. Charlie Ward, we are sorry to say, is confined to his bed with the measles. Aunt Polly Childress seems to be growing weaker every day; she says she longs for death to come and relieve her. Willie Culp has a new buggy which is a very good inducement; guess he can take the day at J. M.'s now; all he lacks is a derby hat. Emmett Blankenship looked long-faced Sunday. I wonder if he got beat? Misses Callie Elland and Abbie Lowery were welcome guests of Miss Dovie Smith Sunday. Willie Mims came out to church Sunday, and had an invitation to dinner, which was much appreciated. Say, what has become of Nobody's Pet? Also One Alone and others? Come again. What is the matter with our union members? Our president was absent Saturday. Come out and let's all do our duty and stick together. Our county lecturer, C. N. Elland, passed through this community Saturday on his way to Stanton to lecture. We hope he had a large crowd and that he will not become discouraged. We will surely win if we do as we have vowed we would. Wishing success to the readers of The Union, the kind editor and especially to the members of the F. E. and C. U. of A., I am,

A UNION MEMBER.

SPEAKING AT BETHEL.

Mr. Editor:

I was at a speaking at Bethel church last Saturday night, and I was sorry you were not there to take down some dots of the gathering, for there was a good crowd present. Hon. J. O. Middleton made a fine speech and convinced his hearers that he is amply able to take care of himself during the coming campaign. Why, bless you, after we heard Middleton talk we could easily understand why Gulledge was sick. After Mr. Middleton had concluded Judge Reynolds made one of his usual speeches, which we all enjoyed very much and gave us much encouragement. We people are standing just where we have always stood and Gulledge men are mighty scared over this way. Mr. George Edwards presided over the meeting, and after Judge Reynolds had spoken there were calls for the chairman, and Mr. Edwards made a nice talk, one that we were all proud of; it reminded us of bygone days. He said, among other things, that he did not want any Democratic administration in his; said he had sold his place in Beat 6 and moved out because the Democrats had a majority of the school district trustees in that district, and so they could not have a school that amounted to anything, and he had moved to Beat 10 to get out from under Democratic rule. We are sure proud to have Mr. Edwards come among us, for he is a good citizen.

ONE OF THE BOYS.

Headquarters Alabama Division,
Southern Cotton Association.
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 17, 1906.

To the People of Alabama:

The world consumed last year 12,186,000 bales of cotton. It consumed not only all the cotton produced last year, but 840,000 bales that were carried over from the previous year. It consumed more cotton than was ever consumed any previous year, 348,000 bales more than in 1904-05, more than 2,000,000 bales more than in 1903-04. The average price paid was eleven cents, based upon New Orleans market. Spinners sold their products on a much higher basis, a basis the average of which was not less than 12 1-2 cents.

Trade conditions continue good, many mills having sold ahead. New mills are building and new spindles being put in action.

There has been a great deterioration in the present crop. Indications are there will be considerable less cotton raised east of the Mississippi than was raised last year. There will be, however, more cotton raised west of the Mississippi than was raised last year, but it is not thought there will be a great deal more.

With trade conditions as good as last year, a 12,000,000-bale crop, which does not now seem probable, ought to bring 12 1-2 cents, instead of 9 1-2 cents, the price now being paid. By concert of action we can make it bring what it ought to bring. Without concert of action we will have to take what we can get.

Looking to concert of action, the executive committee, at the Hot Springs meeting, prescribed an itinerary for President Jordan, Field Agent E. D. Smith and Executive Committeeman S. A. Witherspoon to cover the entire cotton belt, for the purpose of addressing the respective state divisions in state convention.

Tuesday, September 25, these gentlemen will be at Montgomery, and it is earnestly desired that all members of the association and all others who can do so will be present. Let each county send a good delegation, and let its members come prepared to take part in the deliberations; to give the association the benefit of their views, to the end that a practical business proposition may be evolved that will secure the desired results.

Reduced rates, on certificate plan may be had on all roads by applying to the local agent.

W. H. SEYMOUR,
President Alabama Division.

THORSBY.

Our popular mail carrier, Theo A. Lefstad, is back from a very enjoyable visit at Montgomery.

Monroe Sorrell is spending a few days at home.

The Misses Simpson are enjoying a visit from Mrs. Simpson and son, Joe, of Birmingham.

Lee Stabler stopped off here for a day with relatives on his way to school at Nashville.

Messrs. Lefstad and Husby came down from Birmingham to spend Sunday and Monday with the home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Reagan, of Calera, visited with relatives here Sunday.

Mrs. W. T. Moss visited over Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Smith and left Monday for her home in Fitzpatrick, Ala.

Mrs. Turnquist entertained the Swedish Ladies' Aid Thursday of last week.

Misses Lucy and Fannie Hawthorne, who were called here by the death of their father, have returned to Tuscaloosa.

Mrs. Flowers and Miss Sallie left for their home at Cottondale Saturday.

Mrs. Stanley left Wednesday for a visit with relatives at Wetumpka and Elmore.

School opened at the Thorsby Institute Monday morning. An interesting program was rendered, speeches or talks being made by Rev. A. T. Clarke, of Fort Payne; Rev. C. K. Helland, Mayor E. F. Mead and the members of the faculty, Prof. W. J. Lamkie and Rev. and Mrs. S. B. Groves. Mrs. L. V. Stabler and Miss Kirkeby rendered several musical selections, which were greatly enjoyed by all. At night a reception was given to the faculty, trustees and friends of the school. The school seems to be creating a very favorable impression and is expected to be a great help to the educational interests of the place.

Mrs. C. F. Wheelock arrived Monday from Talladega Springs, where she has been spending the summer. She was accompanied by her two daughters and son, and expects to remain, so that her children may attend school here.

JEMISON.

Jemison, Ala., Sept. 18, 1906.

Editor Union, Clanton, Ala.:

Judge Reynolds and wife were visiting friends and relatives here Sunday.

Rev. Miller, of M. P. church of south Alabama, is holding a tent meeting at this place. Great interest is manifested.

Rev. Turnipseed filled his regular appointment here Sunday and Sunday night.

The Methodist church of this place is newly painted.

Miss Neila Johnson was visiting home folks Sunday.

Miss Beatrice Crysell will leave this week to enter the Dudson.

Prof. Rasco has moved to Jemsion. We are glad to welcome as good a family as the professor's in our midst.

As everything is quiet around here and every one is busy at work, there is not much news, so will close, with best wishes to The Union and its many readers. BILL DOOLY.

OAK GROVE.

There will be an all-day song service at Oak Grove (two miles north of Jemison) the fifth Sunday in September. The books to be used will be "All in All Songs. Everybody is invited to come, bring dinner and spend the day with us. J. B. N.

tf

NOTICE.

Jemison, Ala., August 7th, 1906.

Lost—One light clay bank mare, branded on the left shoulder with a heart; the last time heard from she was at Ashby; she weighs about 700 pounds. I will reward any one liberally for information as to where she is, or if returned to me, I will pay well for the trouble.

T. S. DAVENPORT,
tf Jemison, Ala.

PROGRAM

Of Sunday School Convention, Maplesville District, Beats 7 and 8—Will Convene at Mt. Carmel Fifth Sunday in September, 1906.

9:30 a. m. Devotional exercise—J. T. Adams.

10 a. m. Relation of Sunday school to the church.

10:30 a. m. Home Department—S. R. Barnes and W. H. Connell.

11 a. m. Convention recites Sunday school lesson.

12 m. Dinner.

1:30 p. m. Song service.

2 p. m. Reports from Sunday schools.

2:30 p. m. "The Good of Sunday School Convention Work"—H. J. Grooms and P. G. Maness.

3 p. m. "Characteristics of the Good Sunday School Teacher"—Jeff Deason and T. F. Davis.

3:30 p. m. Adjourn.

T. G. MILLING, President.
AL VAN MARTER,
Vice-President.
MISS MOLLIE REYNOLDS,
tf Secretary.

FOR SALE.

Mare mule, 8 years old; fine animal, and will work anywhere you put her. Price, $150. I live three miles west of Jemison, on R. F. D. No. 1.

tf E. M. RAY.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order tf.

FOR SALE.

30 young cockerels. Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Golden Laced Wyandotts, Buff, Brown and White Leghorns. Prices 50c to $1.50. All birds pure bred and of good quality.

J. B. Downs,
tf Clanton, Ala.

GINNING SFASON 1906-7

We have engaged Joe and Walter Maddox to run and operate our gins for the coming season. We have the best machinery and with these men to operate it, we can guarantee entire satisfaction to those who patronize us. Bring us your cotton. Respectfully

Chilton Warehouse & M,f,g. Company. tf.

FOR SALE

At all times, high grade hogs and pigs, Berkshire and Poland China, crossed.

M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, Ala.

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 acres in cultivation. All in Sec. 6 T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles S. W. of Clanton. Good dwelling house and out buildings and 3 good tenant houses. Good and lasting well of water. This good farming land will be sold at a bargain. Call and see,

tf J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. No.

WATSON'S MAGAZINE.

The leading exponent of Democracy, edited by Thomas Watson, of Georgia, author of "Rural Free Delivery; author of "Life and Times of Napoleon," "Life of Thomas Jefferson," "Bethany" and other books. Watson was the People's party candidate for Vice-President in 1904. He is a candidate for President in 1908. He is the champion of the middle-class reform movement and is bound to sweep the country in a short time.

Watson's Magazine is a high-class monthly publication. It does not believe in the collective ownership of all the means of production. Mr. Watson believes in public or government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones, in municipal ownership of street railways, gas electric lights, water works, etc.; and he believes in the public ownership of all industries that are natural monopolies.

The middle class—the small merchants, farmers, small business men and small property owners—won Jefferson in 1800; won Jackson in 1828; won Lincoln in 1860; won Nick Biddle's money power; won Lincoln's victory in 1864; and in each time after the money power had died away they came into their own of their rights and were able to have slept a good portion of the time since 1865, but—

Watson's Magazine is waking up. Another great victory is coming. Keep in touch with the situation.

Fifteen cents a copy; $1.50 a year by mail. Send us four 2-cent stamps and we will send it to your reading friends. Address

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
121 West Forty-second Street,
New York City.

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFER.
WATSON'S MAGAZINE AND THE UNION A YEAR FOR $1.50.
WHY NOT SAVE THIS MONEY?
LEAVE ORDERS AT THIS OFFICE.
tf

PROGRAM OF THE DISTRICT SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Of the First District of Chilton county, To Be Held at the Antioch Church on the Fourth Sunday in September, 1906.

9:30 a. m. Devotional exercises conducted by W. H. Conway.

9:45 a. m. Welcome address—Caddell.

9:50 a. m. Response.

9:55 a. m. Music.

10 a. m. "The Growth of the Sunday School Work," J. H. Armstrong and H. Conway.

10:30 a. m. Music.

10:40 a. m. "The Sunday School as a Character Builder."

11 a. m. "The Influence of the Sunday School for Good," J. H. Armstrong, Reynolds and others.

11:30 a. m. "Reasons Why We Should Not Attend Sunday School"—Rev. W. J. Parrish and E. G. Higgins.

2 p. m. Song and prayer.

2:10 p. m. "The Importance of a Good School Teacher." Papers by Miss Nellia Johnson, Miss Dessie Caddell and Miss Pearl Meroney.

2:40 p. m. "Problems of the Sunday School"—J. W. F. Garner, G. W. Caddell, Skaggs and others.

3:10 p. m. Music.

3:20 p. m. "Relation of the Sunday School to the Church"—Rev. Peacock, J. P. Gentry and others.

3:50 p. m. Dismission.

tf COM.

THE NEW YORK WEEKLY

Thrice-a-Week Edition

Read Wherever the English Language Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World will be in 1906 a better paper than ever before, and its arrangements accordingly. Its service covers the entire world, reports everything fully, promptly, accurately. It is the only thrice-a-week daily, which is as good as a daily, which will keep you as well informed of what is happening all over the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fearless in its political reports. You get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat. That is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes each year the best authors in the world, which in book form sell for $1.50, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

The THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is $1.00 per year, and this pays for the paper. We offer this unequaled newspaper and THE UNION together for one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.

JOHN W. HA... Jemison, A...

Photographer. ... all grades of ... Frames made to ... Work done at ... home by appoint...

CLANTON AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.

... Term—Third Monday in May.
... Term—Fourth Monday in No...
... S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
...—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

... Term—Second Monday in ...
... Term—Second Monday in ...
...cellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
...ister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton.

County Court.

...t Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

...nd Monday February, first Monday April, first Monday June, second Monday July, second Monday August and Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

...ge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...surer—W. T. Cullen.
...iff—J. M. Morgan.
...icitor—W. M. Adams.
...x Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
...x Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—Alex Glasscock.
Third District—R. P. Kendrick.
Fourth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

Prof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

J. P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

Hon. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

MISSIONARY BAPTIST.

BETHANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pastor. First Sunday and Saturday before. D. L. Hand, clerk.

BETH-SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish, pastor. E. B. Popwell, clerk.

CANE CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbee, pastor. First Sunday and Saturday before. W. E. Thomas, clerk.

COLLINS CHAPEL—Rev. J. ... Thomas, pastor. Third Sunday and Saturday before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

MARS HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. First Sunday and Saturday before. G. W. Scott, clerk.

MACEDONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Fourth Sunday and Saturday before at 3:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

PLEASANT GROVE—Rev. J. ... Thomas, pastor. Fourth Sunday and Saturday before at 11 a. m. D. ... Higgins, clerk.

PROVIDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robinson, pastor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. Riley Robinson, clerk.

REHOBOTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. ... Thomas, pastor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. D. C. Smitherman, clerk.

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

BETHEL—Elder J. P. Nobles, pastor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. J. T. Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

ROCKY MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Vaughn, pastor. Second Sunday, Sunday every second and fourth Sunday afternoon. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night. Ladies' prayer meeting every Saturday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—Second Saturday, Clanton.

Amanda Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—First Saturday, Clanton.

Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—First Saturday, Billingsley.

Roseman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 534—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.

Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...—Tuesday on or before full moon, Clanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Mondays.

Thaxton Lodge, No. 284—Second and fourth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

Black Jack Camp, No. 198—First and third Mondays.

I. C. R. M.

Cheaumne Tribe, No. 90—First and third Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs cordially invited. E. B. Langston, C. R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

Osceola Tribe No. 48—2nd and 4th Saturday sleeps. Visiting chiefs cordially invited. J. M. Grant, Sachem; W. Parrish, C. of R.

Waxahatchee Tribe, No. 9, meets second and fourth Tuesdays' sleeping chiefs cordially invited.

J. P. VAN DERVEER, Sachem.
E. ROBINSON, C. of R.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 18, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Sep. 20, 1906.

Union Clubbing List

The Union And Yellow Jacket	$1.00
The Union And Southern Ruralist	1.00
The Union And Union Educator	1.00
The Union And Home and Farm	1.00
The Union And Weekly Age-Herald	1.35
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.35
The Union and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.00
The Union and Tri-Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.00
The Union And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.00
The Union and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.00
The Union And Rural South	1.00
The Union And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.00

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

NOMINEES OF THE People's Primary

Held August 6, 1906, under the direction of the Republican and Populist Executive Committees of Chilton County, Ala.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
J. Osmond Middleton.

FOR SHERIFF.
Felix J. Fitts.

FOR COMMISSIONER.
First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—S. E. Waldrup.
tf

BOND ELECTION.

The electors of Clanton on Tuesday voted to issue the $5,000 bond issue (asked for by the town to pay indebtedness, etc.) by a vote of 92 for to 9 against. In the conference of citizens held last Friday night at the court house, we hear that there was quite an animated discussion as to the legality of the call for the election, and a committee was appointed to consider the question. As the election was held we suppose the committee must have found everything legal; however, the buyers of the bonds generally do some investigating themselves. In the talk about the city finances, P. D. Wilson said he wanted to see the city have the necessary money, but that he would like to see a public statement. Frank Criton said the county had not made a public statement for two or three years, which statement turned out to be true, as the present county treasurer has not made an itemized statement, such as the code of Alabama says must be done, since he has been in office. The writer has paid $20 to the city this year, and if the authorities will raise all in the same proportion he is willing to pay $50 for 1907.

1906 TAX ASSESSMENT.

Assessor L. B. Pounds has completed the assessment of Chilton county for the year 1906, and it shows that the value of real and personal property in our county is $3,324,852, a gain over 1905 of $627,438. This makes a good showing for the way the assessor's office is run, as the increase in valuation is almost 25 per cent.

KILLGORE REPUDIATES THE FACTION.

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 18, 1906.

Hon. W. R. Jackson, Jemison, Ala.:

Dear Sir—If I can, I will be at Thorsby on the 19th inst., at the meeting, but if I fail to be there you will please tell the committee that I am the same old Moses yet. I shall stand by you and your committee. I understand that the other wing elected me on their committee. I should have repudiated that before now, had it not been that I thought I might hold them down so they could not hurt the ticket nominated on August 6, 1906. It seems that some people can't believe that I am a Republican and that I stand by my word, but maybe they will be convinced some day. Please read this to the committee at the meeting, and if you see fit you can have it published in the county paper. Very truly yours, MOSES A. KILLGORE.

AN ELECTION SOLILOQUY.

By "Gant" Riggins.

The politician is my shepherd; he leadeth me through the campaign for my vote's sake. He carrieth me into saloons and filleth my pockets with good cigars, and my cup of beer runneth over. He inquireth concerning the welfare of my family, even unto the third and fourth generations thereof. Lo! when he is elected, he forgetteth me and knoweth me no more, although I meet him at his home he knoweth me not. Yea, verily, of a surety the wool has been pulled over my eyes. So I will hie myself to the land of Pumps and dwell therein hereafter and so avoid the snares of the ungodly ones. Selah.

BETHEL CHURCH.

Last Saturday night Judge L. H. Reynolds and Hon. J. Osmond Middleton addressed the citizens of this community on the political issues of the day, and they were greeted by a good sized audience.

Mr. George Edwards presided over the meeting and introduced the speakers. Mr. Middleton, candidate for the Legislature, was first introduced, and he made a capital speech. He dwelt at length on national issues; pointed out the great remedial legislation and vividly contrasted the splendid brought about by the Republican party prosperity which the country is enjoying today with the gloomy days of Clevelandism. Coming down to local affairs, and his own candidacy, Mr. Middleton impressed the Republicans and Populists with the fact that he was in the race at their command and that it was their fight. He paid his respects to Mr. Gulledge, and made the assertion that Mr. Gulledge was not standing squarely on his own "platform;" and pointed out facts to prove it. Mr. Middleton closed with an eloquent appeal to the boys to stand firm in this fight and promised a faithful discharge of duty if elected. Mr. Middleton made a fine impression, and strengthened the already existing opinion that he is the man to represent Chilton county in the next Legislature.

Judge Reynolds was then introduced, and, as usual for the Judge, made a fine speech. In his characteristic way he went after the Democrats with his gloves aff, and said that the only hope for relief was to build up a strong opposition to the Democratic party in the state and in the South. He ridiculed the Democratic party in the county and characterized them with some apt and amusing anecdotes which elicited much laughter from the audience. He paid a fine tribute to the character and ability of Mr. Middleton and advised the people to vote for him.

At the conclusion of Judge Reynolds' speech, Chairman Edwards took the floor and in a few appropriate and well chosen words advised the Republicans and Populists to remain steadfast in the fight. He endorsed Mr. Middleton for the Legislature; felt sure of his election, and that he would represent the county ably and faithfully.

Mr. Gulledge was invited to be present and speak, but failed to attend; he wrote that he was sick.

REPUBLICAN.

KINCHEON.

Sept. 11, 1906.

Editor Union:

Please give a little space in your valuable paper to say a few words to the voters of Chilton county about politics, and the Legislature especially. There are two men before the people, and from these two one will be selected to represent us.

While I have nothing against Mr. F. A. Gulledge personally, yet I fail to see any special claims that he has on the voters of Chilton county. He has been urging his claims on the ground that he is a farmer, and it seems that he has tried to prejudice the people against Mr. Middleton because he is a lawyer. Now, I wish to say to Mr. Gulledge that we are not going to send a man to the Legislature to plow, but to make laws for the common good of our county. While it is true that Mr. Middleton is not a farmer, yet raised, as he was, on the farm; living in a farming district, some of his very best and closest friends being of the farming class, in addition to being a man of culture and education, it seems to me that he is peculiarly well qualified to represent our county in the Legislature.

A word to Mr. Griffin: This is the first time I have heard it advanced that Mr. Gulledge was running his business in the interest of the people. We all know that Mr. Gulledge is a very rich man, and he has made his money off the people of this county, but I do not know of any of them that he has made rich.

Now, boys, Republicans, Populists and all, let's line up for J. Osmond Middleton, and elect him by the biggest majority in the history of the county. Mr. Middleton will do to tie to. We can trust him.

Here's success to Middleton, The Union and its many readers. Respectfully, MADISON POPWELL.

NOTICE, REPUBLICANS.

To the Republicans of Alabama:

For months every effort possible has been made to bring about a meeting of the Republicans of Alabama for the purpose of nominating candidates for state offices as well as transacting other party business, as has been the time-honored practice in the state. Our state committee has been called, called off and recalled quite often, yet we are further from being in a position of making nominations than ever. In an attempt to pacify the people, a primary election was called, which it was impossible to be legally carried out by our party, and an attempt to do so would have cost them thousands of dollars, besides having to hold the same under the direction and authority of Democratic officers, some of whom the Republicans would be forced to pay to see that they were honest in naming the candidates of their choice.

The Republicans rightfully resented this action of a few members of the committee, from one end of the state to the other.

Having no assurance that provision will be made to have our party represented at the polls in the coming contest without immediate action, a mass convention of the Republicans of Alabama is hereby called to meet in the city hall in the city of Birmngham on the 27th day of September, 1906, for the purpose of placing in nomination a full state ticket and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the convention.

This 11th day of September, 1906.

JULIUS W. DAVIDSON,
JOHN B. SHIELDS,
JAMES M. CRAWFORD,
DANIEL N. COOPER,
SAMUEL L. STUDDARD,
JAMES B. SLOAN,
GEORGE B. RANDOLPH,
F. A. MERRELL,
GEORGE W. PHILLIPS,
W. R. LOLLER,
J. H. HAYS,
L. M. ELLIS,
J. W. ANDERSON and others.

LIBERTY HILL.

Dear Editor:

It has been quite awhile since I saw anything from these diggings, so if you'll permit me to give a few of the happenings I'll do so with pleasure. Pastor Albert Foshee filled his regular appointment here Sunday to a large congregation. Charlie Ward, we are sorry to say, is confined to his bed with the measles. Aunt Polly Childress seems to be growing weaker every day; she says she longs for death to come and relieve her. Willie Culp has a new buggy which is a very good inducement; guess he can take the day at J. M.'s now; all he lacks is a derby hat. Emmett Blankenship looked long-faced Sunday. I wonder if he got beat? Misses Callie Eiland and Abbie Lowery were welcome guests of Miss Dovie Smith Sunday. Willie Mims came out to church Sunday, and had an invitation to dinner, which was much appreciated. Say, what has become of Nobody's Pet? Also One Alone and others? Come again. What is the matter with our union members? Our president was absent Saturday. Come out and let's all do our duty and stick together. Our county lecturer, C. N. Eiland, passed through this community Saturday on his way to Stanton to lecture. We hope he had a large crowd and that he will not become discouraged. We will surely win if we do as we have vowed we would. Wishing success to the readers of The Union, the kind editor and especially to the members of the F. E. and C. U. of A., I am,

A UNION MEMBER.

SPEAKING AT BETHEL.

Mr. Editor:

I was at a speaking at Bethel church last Saturday night, and I was sorry you were not there to take down some dots of the gathering, for there was a good crowd present. Hon. J. O. Middleton made a fine speech and convinced his hearers that he is amply able to take care of himself during the coming campaign. Why, bless you, after we heard Middleton talk we could easily understand why Gulledge was sick. After Mr. Middleton had concluded Judge Reynolds made one of his usual speeches, which we all enjoyed very much and gave us much encouragement. We people are standing just where we have always stood and Gulledge men are mighty scared over this way. Mr. George Edwards presided over the meeting, and after Judge Reynolds had spoken there were calls for the chairman, and Mr. Edwards made a nice talk, one that we were all proud of; it reminded us of bygone days. He said, among other things, that he did not want any Democratic administration in his; said he had sold his place in Beat 6 and moved out because the Democrats had a majority of the school district trustees in that district, and so they could not have a school that amounted to anything, and he had moved to Beat 10 to get out from under Democratic rule. We are sure proud to have Mr. Edwards come among us, for he is a good citizen.

o ONE OF THE BOYS.

Headquarters Alabama Division,
Southern Cotton Association,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 17, 1906.

To the People of Alabama:

The world consumed last year 12,186,000 bales of cotton. It consumed not only all the cotton produced last year, but 840,000 bales that were carried over from the previous year. It consumed more cotton than was ever consumed any previous year, 348,000 bales more than in 1904-05, more than 2,000,000 bales more than in 1903-04. The average price paid was eleven cents, based upon New Orleans market. Spinners sold their products on a much higher basis, a basis the average of which was not less than 12 1-2 cents.

Trade conditions continue good, many mills having sold ahead. New mills are building and new spindles being put in action.

There has been a great deterioration in the present crop. Indications are there will be considerable less cotton raised east of the Mississippi than was raised last year. There will be, however, more cotton raised west of the Mississippi than was raised last year, but it is not thought there will be a great deal more.

With trade conditions as good as last year, a 12,000,000-bale crop, which does not now seem probable, ought to bring 12 1-2 cents, instead of 9 1-2 cents, the price now being paid. By concert of action we can make it bring what it ought to bring. Without concert of action we will have to take what we can get.

Looking to concert of action, the executive committee, at the Hot Springs meeting, prescribed an itinerary for President Jordan, Field Agent E. D. Smith and Executive Committeeman S. A. Witherspoon to cover the entire cotton belt, for the purpose of addressing the respective state divisions in state convention.

Tuesday, September 25, these gentlemen will be at Montgomery, and it is earnestly desired that all members of the association and all others who can do so will be present. Let each county send a good delegation, and let its members come prepared to take part in the deliberations; to give the association the benefit of their views, to the end that a practical business proposition may be evolved that will secure the desired results.

Reduced rates, on certificate plan, may be had on all roads by applying to the local agent.

W. H. SEYMOUR,
President Alabama Division.

THORSBY.

Our popular mail carrier, Theo A. Lefstad, is back from a very enjoyable visit at Montgomery.

Monroe Sorrell is spending a few days at home.

The Misses Simpson are enjoying a visit from Mrs. Simpson and son, Joe, of Birmingham.

Lee Stabler stopped off here for a day with relatives on his way to school at Nashville.

Messrs. Lefstad and Husby came down from Birmingham to spend Sunday and Monday with the home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Reagan, of Calera, visited with relatives here Sunday.

Mrs. W. T. Moss visited over Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Smith and left Monday for her home in Fitzpatrick, Ala.

Mrs. Turnquist entertained the Swedish Ladies' Aid Thursday of last week.

Misses Lucy and Fannie Hawthorne, who were called here by the death of their father, have returned to Tuscaloosa.

Mrs. Flowers and Miss Sallie left for their home at Cottondale Saturday.

Mrs. Stanley left Wednesday for a visit with relatives at Wetumpka and Elmore.

School opened at the Thorsby Institute Monday morning. An interesting program was rendered, speeches or talks being made by Rev. A. T. Clarke, of Fort Payne; Rev. C. K. Helland, Mayor E. F. Mead and the members of the faculty, Prof. W. J. Lamkie and Rev. and Mrs. S. B. Groves. Mrs. L. V. Stabler and Miss Kirkeby rendered several musical selections, which were greatly enjoyed by all. At night a reception was given to the faculty, trustees and friends of the school. The school seems to be creating a very favorable impression and is expected to be a great help to the educational interests of the place.

Mrs. C. F. Wheelock arrived Monday from Talladega Springs, where she has been spending the summer. She was accompanied by her two daughters and son, and expects to remain, so that her children may attend school here.

JEMISON.

Jemison, Ala., Sept. 18, 1906.

Editor Union, Clanton, Ala.:

Judge Reynolds and wife were visiting friends and relatives here Sunday.

Rev. Miller, of M. P. church of south Alabama, is holding a tent meeting at this place. Great interest is manifested.

Rev. Turnipseed filled his regular appointment here Sunday and Sunday night.

The Methodist church of this place is newly painted.

Miss Neila Johnson was visiting home folks Sunday.

Miss Beatrice Crysell will leave this week to enter the Dudson.

Prof. Rasco has moved to Jemsion. We are glad to welcome as good a family as the professor's in our midst.

As everything is quiet around here and every one is busy at work, there is not much news, so will close, with best wishes to The Union and its many readers. BILL DOOLY.

OAK GROVE.

There will be an all-day song service at Oak Grove (two miles north of Jemison) the fifth Sunday in September. The books to be used will be "All in All Songs. Everybody is invited to come, bring dinner and spend the day with us. J. B. N.

tf

NOTICE.

Jemison, Ala., August 7th, 1906.

Lost—One light clay bank mare, branded on the left shoulder with a heart; the last time heard from she was at Ashby; she weighs about 700 pounds. I will reware any one liberally for information as to where she is, or if returned to me, I will pay well for the trouble.

T. S. DAVENPORT,
tf Jemison, Ala.

PROGRAM

Of Sunday School Convention, Maplesville District, Beats 7 and 8—Will Convene at Mt. Carmel Fifth Sunday in September, 1906.

9:30 a. m. Devotional exercise—J. T. Adams.

10 a. m. Relation of Sunday school to the church.

10:30 a. m. Home Department—S. R. Barnes and W. H. Connell.

11 a. m. Convention recites Sunday school lesson.

12 m. Dinner.

1:30 p. m. Song service.

2 p. m. Reports from Sunday schools.

2:30 p. m. "The Good of Sunday School Convention Work"—H. J. Grooms and P. G. Maness.

3 p. m. "Characteristics of the Good Sunday School Teacher"—Jeff Deason and T. F. Davis.

3:30 p. m. Adjourn.

T. G. MILLING, President.
AL VAN MARTER,
Vice-President.
MISS MOLLIE REYNOLDS,
tf Secretary.

FOR SALE.

Mare mule, 8 years old; fine animal, and will work anywhere you put her. Price, $150. I live three miles west of Jemison, on R. F. D. No. 1.

tf E. M. RAY.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order tf.

FOR SALE.

30 young cockerels. Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Golden Laced Wyandotts, Buff, Brown and White Legherns. Prices 50c to $1.50. All birds pure bred and of good quality.

J. B. Downs,
tf Clanton, Ala.

GINNING SFASON 1906-7

We have engaged Joe and Walter Maddox to run and operate our gins for the coming season. We have the best machinery and with these men to operate it, we can guarantee entire satisfaction to those who patronize us. Bring us your cotton.

Respectfully
Chilton Warehouse & M,f,g. Company. tf.

FOR SALE

At all times, high grade hogs and pigs, Berkshire and Poland China, crossed.

M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, Ala.

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 acres in cultivation. All in Sec. 6 T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles S. W. of Clanton. Good dwelling house and out buildings and 3 good tenant houses. Good and lastiug well of water. This good farming land will be sold at a bargain. Cali and see,

tf J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. No.

WATSON'S MAGAZINE.

The leading exponent of Democracy, edited by Thos. E. Watson, of Georgia, the Sage of Free Delivery; author of "Life and Times of Napoleon," "Life of Napoleon," "Life of Jefferson," "Bethany" and other books. Watson was the People's party candidate for Vice-President in 1896, and for President in 1904. He is a radical middle-class reformer and his paper is bound to sweep the country in short time.

Watson's Magazine is a high-class publication. It does not believe in collective ownership of all means of production. Mr. Watson believes that public or government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones, and in municipal ownership of street railways, gas electric lights, water works, etc.; and he believes in the abolishment of all industries and monopolies.

The middle class—the small merchants, farmers, small business men and property owners—won Jefferson's victory in 1800; won Jackson's victory in 1828; won Nick Biddle's money power; won Lincoln's victory in 1860, and each time after the power had died away they came into their own of their rights and went to work and have slept a good portion of the time since 1865, but—

Watson's Magazine is waking up. Another great victory is coming. Keep in touch with the situation.

Fifteen cents a copy at all news stands, $1.50 a year by mail. Send us four 2-cent stamps and we will send you a sample copy for your reading friends. Address

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
121 West Forty-second Street,
New York City.

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFER. WATSON'S MAGAZINE AND THE UNION A YEAR FOR $1.50. WHY NOT SAVE THE DIFFERENCE? LEAVE ORDERS AT THIS OFFICE.

tf

PROGRAM OF THE DISTRICT SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Of the First District of Chilton County, to Be Held at the Methodist Church on the Fourth Sunday in September, 1906.

9:30 a. m. Devotional exercises conducted by W. H. Conway.

9:45 a. m. Welcome address—Dr. Caddell.

9:50 a. m. Response.

9:55 a. m. Music.

10 a. m. "The Growth of the Sunday School Work," J. H. Armstrong and H. Conway.

10:30 a. m. Music.

10:40 a. m. "The Sunday School as a Character Builder."

11 a. m. "The Influence of the Sunday School for Good," Rev. W. W. Reynolds and others.

11:30 a. m. "Reasons Why People Do Not Attend Sunday School"—Rev. W. J. Parrish and E. G. Caddell.

2 p. m. Song and prayer.

2:10 p. m. "The Model Sunday School Teacher." Papers by Miss Nella Johnson, Miss Dora Hand and Miss Pearl Meroney.

2:40 p. m. "Problems"—Rev. J. W. F. Garner, G. W. Caddell, W. J. Skaggs and others.

3:10 p. m. Music.

3:20 p. m. "Relation of the Sunday School to the Church"—Dr. Caddell, J. P. Gentry and others.

3:50 p. m. Dismission.

tf Committee.

THE NEW YORK WEEKLY TRIBUNE

Thrice-a-Week Edition

Read Wherever the English Language Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World will be in 1906 a better paper than it has ever been before, and it will have arrangements according to which its service covers the entire world, reports everything fully, promptly and accurately. It is the only newspaper published daily, which is as good as a daily, which will keep you as well informed of what is happening in all parts of the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is absolutely fearless in its political reports. You can depend upon the truth from its columns, whether they are Republican or Democratic, which is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes only the best authors in the world, which in book form sell for $1.50, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

The THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is $1 per year, and this pays for the paper. We offer this unequaled newspaper and THE UNION together for one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.

JOHN W. HA... Jemison, A...

Photographer. ... all grades of ... Frames made to ... Work done at ... home by appoint...

COUNTY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS.

Circuit Court.

...g Term—Third Monday in May.
...Term—Fourth Monday in No...

...—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
...—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

...ng Term—Second Monday in ...
...l Term—Second Monday in Sep...
...ber.
...cellor—Hon. W. W. Whitsett...
...gister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Cla...

County Court.

...t Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

...ond Monday February, first Mon...
...April, first Monday June, second ...day July, second Monday August, ...t Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

...dge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...reasurer—W. T. Callen.
...herif—J. M. Morgan.
...erk—W. M. Adams.
...ax Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
...ax Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

...irst District—W. H. Conway.
...econd District—Alex Glasscock.
...hird District—R. P. Kendrick.
...ourth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

...rof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

...P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

...n. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

MISSIONARY BAPTIST.

...ETHANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas... First Sunday and Saturday be... D. L. Hand, clerk.

...ETH-SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish, ...tor. E. B. Popwell, clerk.

...ANE CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey, ...tor. First Sunday and Saturday ...ere. W. E. Thomas, clerk.

...OLLINS CHAPEL—Rev. J. H. ...omas, pastor. Third Sunday and ...urday before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

...ARS HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ...tor. First Sunday and Saturday ...ore. G. W. Scott, clerk.

...ACEDONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ...tor. Fourth Sunday and Saturday ...ore at 3:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong, ...rk.

...LEASANT GROVE—Rev. J. H. ...omas, pastor. Fourth Sunday and ...urday before at 11 a. m. D. H. ...iggins, clerk.

...ROVIDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robin..., pastor. Second Sunday and Sa... ...ay before. Riley Robinson, clerk.

...EHOBOTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H. ...omas, pastor. Second Sunday an... ...urday before. D. C. Smitherman, ...rk.

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

...ETHEL—Elder J. P. Nobles, pa... ...d Sunday and Saturday b... ...e. J. T. Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

...ROCKY MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Va... ...er, pastor. Second Sunday. Sin... ...every second and fourth Sunda... ...ternoon. Prayer meeting every Wed... ...day night. Ladies' prayer meetin... ...ery Saturday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

...Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—... ...rd Saturday, Clanton.

...Amanda Lodge, A. F. and A. M., N... ...—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

...Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., N... ...—First Saturday, Clanton.

...Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., N... ...—First Saturday, Billingsley.

...Boseman Lodge, A. F. and A. M. ... 534—Saturday on or before fu... ...n, Marbury.

...Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., N... ...—Saturday on or before full moo... ...nson.

...Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., N... ...—Tuesday on or before full moo... ...nton.

I. O. O. F.

...Jemison Lodge—First and third ... ...ays.

...Clanton Lodge, No. 284—Second a... ...rth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

...Black Jack Camp, No. 136—First a... ...d Mondays.

I. O. R. M.

...Tecumseh Tribe, No. 90—First a... ...d Mondays sleep. Visiting chie... ...dially invited. R. B. Langston, ...; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

...Osceola Tribe No. 48—2nd and ... ...urday sleeps. Visiting chiefs c... ...ally invited. J. M. Grant, Sache... ...P. Parrish, C. of R.

...Waxahatchee Tribe, No. 9, me... ...cond and fourth Tuesdays' sle... ...iting chiefs cordially invited. J. P. VAN DERVEER, Sachem. ...E. ROBINSON, C. of R.

WATSON'S

The leading exponent of Democracy, edited by Thos. E. Watson, of Georgia, is the Rural Free Delivery; and his Life of Napoleon, "Life and Times of Thomas Jefferson," "Life of Andrew Jackson," "Bethany" and other books. Watson was the People's party candidate for Vice-President in 1904. He is a candidate for President in 1904. He is a middle-class reform magazine and is bound to sweep the country in a short time.

Watson's Magazine is a 25-cent publication. It does not believe in collective ownership of all means of production. Mr. Watson believes that public or government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones, and in municipal ownership of street railways, gas electric lights, water works, etc.; and he believes in private ownership of all industries not strictly monopolies.

The middle class—the small merchants, farmers, small business men and small property owners—won Jefferson's victory in 1800; won Jackson's victory when Nick Biddle's money power fought him; won Lincoln's victory in 1860, and in each time after the fight seemed to have had died away they became stronger, and the people of their rights and went to sleep, but have slept a good portion of the time since 1865, but—

Watson's Magazine is waking up. Another great victory is coming. Keep in touch with the movement.

Fifteen cents a copy at news stands, $1.50 a year by mail. Send us four 2-cent stamps and four reading friends. Address,

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
121 West Forty-second Street,
New York City.

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFER.

WATSON'S MAGAZINE AND THE UNION A YEAR FOR $1.50.

WHY NOT SAVE THE DIFFERENCE?

LEAVE ORDERS AT THIS OFFICE.

tf

PROGRAM OF THE DISTRICT SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Of the First District of Chilton County, to Be Held at the Methodist Church on the Fourth Sunday in September, 1906.

9:30 a. m. Devotional exercises conducted by W. H. Conway.
9:45 a. m. Welcome address, Caddell.
9:50 a. m. Response, Jones.
9:55 a. m. Music.
10 a. m. "The Growth of the Sunday School Work," J. H. Anderson, H. Conway.
10:30 a. m. Music.
10:40 a. m. "The Sunday School a Character Builder."
11 a. m. "The Influence of the Sunday School for Good," Jones, Reynolds and others.
11:30 a. m. "Reasons Why We Do Not Attend Sunday School," W. J. Parrish and E. G. Cook.
2 p. m. Song and prayer.
2:10 p. m. "The Ideal Sunday School Teacher." Papers by Nella Johnson, Miss Dell and Miss Pearl Meroney.
2:40 p. m. "Problems in the Sunday School," J. W. F. Garner, G. W. Goodgame, Skaggs and others.
3:10 p. m. Music.
3:20 p. m. "Relation of the Sunday School to the Church," Cook, J. P. Gentry and others.
3:50 p. m. Dismission.

tf COM

THE NEW YORK WEEKLY

Thrice-a-Week Edition

Read Wherever the English Language Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World will be in 1906 a better paper than ever before, and it has made arrangements accordingly. Its news service covers the entire globe and reports everything fully, promptly and accurately. It is the only newspaper published daily, which is as good as a weekly, which will keep you as completely informed of what is happening in all the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is absolutely fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns whether you are Republican or Democrat. It prints all the news—that is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes stories by the best authors in the world, many of which in book form sell for $1.50, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

The THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is $3.00 per year, and this pays for the paper. We offer this unequaled newspaper and THE UNION together for one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.

JOHN W. HARRIS
Jemison, Ala.

Photographer. Does all grades of work. Frames made to order. Work done at your home by appointment.

COUNTY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.

First Term—Third Monday in May.
Second Term—Fourth Monday in September.

Judge—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
Solicitor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
Clerk—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

First Term—Second Monday in March.
Second Term—Second Monday in September.

Register—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
Solicitor—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton.

County Court.

First Monday in each month.

County Commissioners' Court.

First Monday February, first Monday April, first Monday June, second Monday July, second Monday August, first Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

Judge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
Treasurer—W. T. Callen.
Sheriff—J. M. Morgan.
Solicitor—W. M. Adams.
Tax Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
Tax Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—Alex Glasscock.
Third District—R. P. Kendrick.
Fourth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

Prof. J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

A. P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

Hon. W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

MISSIONARY BAPTIST.

BETHANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pastor. First Sunday and Saturday before. D. L. Hand, clerk.

BETH-SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish, pastor. E. B. Popwell, clerk.

CANE CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey, pastor. First Sunday and Saturday before. W. E. Thomas, clerk.

COLLINS CHAPEL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Third Sunday and Saturday before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

MARS HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. First Sunday and Saturday before. G. W. Scott, clerk.

MACEDONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Fourth Sunday and Saturday before at 3:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

PLEASANT GROVE—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Fourth Sunday and Saturday before at 11 a. m. D. H. Collins, clerk.

PROVIDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robinson, pastor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. Riley Robinson, clerk.

REHOBOTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. D. C. Smitherman, clerk.

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

BETHEL—Elder J. P. Nobles, pastor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. J. T. Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

ROCKY MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Vanlue, pastor. Second Sunday, Sunday every second and fourth Sunday afternoon. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night. Ladies' prayer meeting every Saturday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—First Saturday, Clanton.

Amanda Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. —Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. —First Saturday, Clanton.

Century Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. —First Saturday, Billingsley.

Bozeman Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 434—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.

Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. —Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. —Tuesday on or before full moon, Clanton.

I. O. O. F.

Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.

Clanton Lodge, No. 284—Second and fourth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

Black Jack Camp, No. 196—First and third Mondays.

I. O. R. M.

Governor Tribe, No. 90—First and third Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs cordially invited. E. B. Langston, C. of R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

Osceola Tribe No. 48—2nd and 4th Saturday sleeps. Visiting chiefs cordially invited. J. M. Grant, Sachem; J. P. Parrish, C. of R.

Wanahatchee Tribe, No. 9, meets second and fourth Tuesdays' sleep. Visiting chiefs cordially invited.

J. P. VAN DERVEER, Sachem
J. E. ROBINSON, C. of R.

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

Chilton Co. Division Officers.

J. H. Thomas, President, Jemison, Rte. 1.
J. W. Hayes, Vice Pres., Thorsby, Rte 1.
J. N. Dennis, Sec-Treas., Clanton, Rte 6.
G. W. Thomas, Chaplain, Clanton, Rte 2.
J. W. Sorrell, Bus. Agent, Jemison, Rte 4.
C. N. Eiland, Lecturer, Clanton, Rte 4.
N. A. Bobbs, Asst. Lect., Clanton, Rte 2.
W. J. Bean, Conductor, Clanton, Rte 4.
W. F. Culpepper, Doorkeeper, Clanton, Rte 3.
W. A. Barnett, Ex. Committee, Jemison, Rte 2.
E. H. Mims, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 1.
J. Wiley Foshee, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 4.

TO FARMERS.

As county business manager for the F. E. and C. U. of A., I have been to the two banks in Clanton to ascertain on what terms they will loan money on cotton to those who wish to hold their cotton in the warehouse. The Clanton Bank will loan 75 per cent, and the People's Savings Bank 65 per cent, of the value of the cotton on the date of the loan, this loan to bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent.

J. W. SORRELS,
Bus. Manager Chilton Co. F. E. and C. U. of A. tf

NOTICE TO SINGERS.

There is to be a called meeting of the old Southern Union Singing Convention, to be held at Corinth Church (five miles east of Verbena) on Saturday before the fifth Sunday in September at 10 a. m. All singers are invited to come and bring your books and baskets. Now, we want it understood that we want all leaders unhampered as to what books we use, leaving it to the leaders to use such books as they see fit. Devotional exercises Saturday at 10 a. m. conducted by E. L. Jones. Welcome address, Rev. E. L. Manning; response, R. T. Grant. Formers officers were W. H. Robinson, president, and Joe Goss, secretary. tf

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Clanton, Sept. 11, 1906.

Pursuant to the third article of the objects and aims of the F. E. and C. U. of A., the last County Union agreed to meet in delegated form at Cedar Grove and give one day to the science of crop diversification and scientific agriculture, or to farmers' institute work.

Dr. C. A. Cary, of Auburn, director of Farmers' Institutes of Alabama, and Col. J. M. Thornton, of Talladega, have agreed to lecture for us on that day. Also State Business Agent P. F. Parker has been invited to make us a speech on that day. The date has been fixed on Friday, October 12, 1906. Everybody is invited to come. Yours respectfully,

J. N. DENNIS,
tf County Secretary.

NOTICE TO LAND-OWNERS.

I wish to say that I am preparing maps or plats of each land-owner's property, giving a written description of the land, as it should be described in assessments. I am preparing these plats for the purpose of getting all errors corrected, and at the same time furnish every party an easy and correct way to keep their property correct and avoid future mistakes and annoyance, as well as (sometimes) considerable expense. These plats are made of excellent bond paper and will last a lifetime, and only cost 25 cents each, except where plats are very large, when they will cost 50 cents. Every one that has seen the plats I am making pronounce them splendid and worth many times their cost and well calculated to save their cost many times over. Any one wishing a plat can obtain it by coming to my office in Clanton with their deeds, so as to insure an accurate description.

L. B. POUNDS,
tf Tax Assessor.

REGISTRATION NOTICE.

Beat No. 4, at Clanton, on Sept. 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 1906, for the purpose of registering voters.

Beat No. 4, at Clanton, on Friday and Saturday before the election in November, 1906.

R. H. GAINES,
B. L. JONES,
P. M. MOORE,
Board of Registrars Chilton County.
tf

STRAYED OR STOLEN.

From near my residence on June 25, one iron gray mare colt, one year old; one iron gray horse colt, with star on face, and scar on left hind leg above hock, one and a half years old. Any information leading to their recovery will be liberally rewarded.

C. C. MARTIN,
tf Calera, Ala., Rte 1.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Sept. 19, 1906.. 283
Price same date 9 1-8
Receipts same time in 1905.....1,077
Price same date 10.00

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Messrs. M. J. Barrett, J. A. Carlson, K. A. Ekblad, H. H. Dahl and S. E. King were in Clanton Thursday buying milch cows, of which there has been a carload bought here. We hear that they took about a dozen head to Thorsby.

G. W. Williams, of Tyns, was in town Thursday.

A. C. Maddox was in Clanton Friday.

J. R. Collins was in town Friday.

T. W. Atchley, of Kellerman, who has been visiting his parents here for several days, returned to his home Friday. His mother, who has been very ill, is convalescing.

C. B. Huett and Rev. J. L. Neeley were in Clanton Friday.

T. F. Patterson and ... F. Williams were in town Friday.

F. W. Johnson of Billingsley was a pleasant visitor Friday.

R. T. Grant and J. T. Rockett were in Clanton Friday, collecting money to help the people at Cross Roads, two miles this side of Cooper's, build them a church. The two gentlemen are good canvassers and we are glad to say met with good success in their righteous cause.

R. Brandt, of Thorsby, was in town Saturday.

G. W. Scott was in Clanton Saturday. He has been in Elmore county organizing union locals and is meeting with good success. Good boy, Bro. Scott.

C. N. Northcutt was in town Friday.

'Squire Alf Childress was in Clanton Saturday.

J. J. Dennis was in town Saturday.

Gant Riggins was in Clanton Friday, entertaining his numerous friends.

J. H. Golden was in town Saturday.

Miles Collins was in Clanton Saturday.

T. J. Bates was a welcome caller Saturday.

J. T. Jones was in town Saturday.

H. A. Littleton was in Clanton Saturday.

J. M. Hill and D. L. Hand were pleasant visitors Saturday.

Dr. Junkerman, Charles Howard, Blaine Burnett, Ernie Hanson and Teddy Lefstad, all of Thorsby, were Clanton visitors Saturday.

J. L. Robinson and S. J. Goodgame were pleasant visitors Saturday.

Calvin Dennis was in Clanton Saturday.

Judge Reynolds and family spent Sunday in Jemison attending the tent meeting.

J. M. Martin, superintendent of the Prattville Cotton Mills, was in Clanton Saturday. Mr. Martin wants some more help in the mills. See his ad. in this paper.

W. D. Cherry was a pleasant visitor Monday; he now lives at Newbern, in Hale county, being employed on the Southern railroad. Mr. Cherry has pretty near recovered from a severe injury he received while on duty July 20. Mrs. Cherry's mother is very ill at Rev. Mr. Bone's.

J. W. Sorrells was in Clanton Tuesday looking after the business end of the Farmers' Union.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

J. L. Abbott and Miss Nettie Poole; L. Calfee and Miss Lillian M. Oden; John Jones and Miss Ida Dutton.

Colored.

Anthony Cowline and Ada Edwards.

Speaking

Judge L. H. Reynolds and Hon. J. O. Middleton will speak at Corinth (Beat 10, 5 miles east of Verbena) at 7 p. m. on Saturday, September 22, 1906. Everybody is invited to come, especially the ladies.

WANTED! WANTED!

A number of good families to work in the Prattville Cotton Mills. Good wages, good houses, good water and a nice place to live. Apply to, J. M. Martin, Superintendent, Prattville, Ala.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for sheriff of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people at the November election, 1906.

ROLLEFFE BATES.
adv (tf)

TAX NOTICE

Tax Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes of Chilton County for the year 1906 and assessing the taxes for the year 1907:

	1906.
Kincheon, Beat 6	Oct. 1
Pletcher, Beat 8	Oct. 2
Stanton, Beat 8	Oct. 3
Shoults, Beat 7	Oct. 4
Maplesville, Beat 7	Oct. 5
Benson, Beat 3	Oct. 6
Macedonia, Beat 3	Oct. 8
Providence, Beat 2	Oct. 9
Jemison, Beat 2	Oct. 10
Mineral Springs, Beat 1	Oct. 11
Flint Hill, Beat 11	Oct. 12
Cane Creek, Beat 4, until 12 m	Oct. 13
Thorsby, Beat 9	Oct. 15
Clanton, Beat 4	Oct. 16
Cooper, Beat 10	Oct. 17
Verbena, Beat 5	Oct. 18

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.
T. J. HUBBARD,
tf Tax Collector.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.

J. P. Van Derveer, Plaintiff, vs. National Stamping and Electric Works, a Corporation, Defendant. In the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama.

To National Stamping and Electric Works, a corporation, the defendant in the above stated cause, who resides in the city of Chicago, in the State of Illinois, U. S.A.:

You will take notice that J. P. Van Derveer, plaintiff in said cause, sued out an attachment against you, the said National Stamping and Electric Works, a corporation, on the 24th day of July, 1906, in the said court, to enforce the collection of a debt due him by you in the sum of $750, with interest thereon at 8 per cent per annum.

You will further take notice that the said attachment was levied upon the following property-towit: Six (6) transformers, two (2) bundles of transformer hangers, one (7) box of electric goods, six (6) boxes of electric fan motors, twenty-five (25) rolls or coils of rubber and weather-proof insulated copper electric wire, as the property of the said National Stamping and Electric Works, a corporation, the defendant, by the sheriff of said Chilton county, on the 25th day of July, 1906, and that on said 25th day of July, 1906, a writ of garnishment was duly served upon the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company, a corporation, by the said sheriff, in the above stated cause.

Let this notice be published in The Union, a weekly newspaper published in said Chilton county, for three successive weeks next following, and a copy of each issue of the said newspaper containing said notice be sent by mail to said National Stamping and Electric Works, a corporation, the defendant, properly addressed and postage prepaid.

Witness my hand this the 5th day of September, 1906.

SAM W. COLLINS,
Clerk of the Circuit Court, Chilton County, Alabama. 9-6-06-3w

MONEY TO LOAN

On real estate. Call or write me at my abiding place with Mr. G. O. Foshee, one mile northeast of Clanton, R. F. D. No. 1. Come during banking hours, as I keep my money in the bank.

tf JAMES GLASS.

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

The best whiskey in the country is here. If you don't believe it, try me.

J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera, Ala.
tf.

Thorsby Institute

—Opens—

SEPTEMBER 17th, 1906.

A Strong Corps of Teachers.

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Classics, Modern Languages, Histories, Economics, Music, Elocution, etc.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those who care to go no higher. Broad enough for all. Allows for specialization.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped, modern, up to date in every particular.

EXPENSES:
Tuition low enough to meet the needs of every boy and girl in Alabama.

Particulars Address:

W. J. Lamkie, Ph. B., Principal,
Thorsby, Ala.

Fall and Winter Hardware

Heating Stoves, Coal Hods, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Vases, Fire Guards, Window Panes and Putty,

PIPE AND FITTING.

Can secure repairs for machinery from us much cheaper and in less time than from Birmingham or Montgomery. We carry Inspirators, Lubricators, Glass Oil Cups, Check and Globe Valves, Jets, Packing, Rubber Belting and Gandy Stitched Belt, Engine and Cylinder Oil, Axle Oil and Axle Grease.

ROOFING.

We have in stock Galvanized and Iron Roofing, and our price will make this roofing cheaper for you than shingles, and is much easier to put in use.

PAINTS.

The Hammar Paint and Sun Proof Paint are as good as any on the market. We have pure Linseed Oil and Lead, and if you prefer to do your own mixing, we are prepared to furnish you the necessary coloring.

BUILDERS' HARDWARE.

We can save you money on this line. Have a full stock of Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Sash Cord. Call on us for prices before placing your order.

SPIGENER & JONES

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton, Alabama

E. G. Rollins & Co.

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise, Clothing, Shoes and Fancy Groceries.

CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN FARM.

Barred Plymouth Rocks

PURE BRED

Setting of 15 fresh eggs for 50c. Packing for shipping 10c extra.

PURE BRED

Duroc Jersey Hogs.

Write us for prices before you buy. Address,

W. Y. NIX,
Maplesville, Alabama.

A. A. JACKSON

Lomax, Alabama.

General merchandise, corn, hay, shorts, shoes, men's hats, Ladies hats. Best quality and lowest prices in all goods.

Highest Market Price Paid for Chickens and Eggs

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes, FURNITURE,

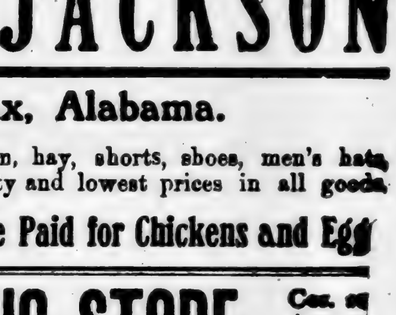
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton, Alabama

Bank Saloon

CALERA, ALA.



Fine Wines, Whiskies, Brandies, Beer, Cigars and Tobacco

DAWNING DAY.

Where dawn the dawn comes to the eyes that wake;
Where long her chariot lingers on the hills
Before she finds the little, hidden rills,
And glossy fishes from the waiting lake.
Where long, from every nest on bush and tree,
Impatient murmurs from each nestling rise,
Before day's flame lights up the eastern skies,
And wings released flash upward, glad and free.

Where long the pale moon lingers in the west,
Guarding the portals of the realm of night,
Before the eager sun begins his quest,
And men awake to life, and life's delight,
And they who sought sweet sleep and rest in vain,
May in day's busy hour forget their pain.
—Annette M. Lowater, in New York Sun.

OUT OF THE DEPTHS

By A. BEATLEY.

[This is not an impossible story, as one might suppose. Many cases of telepathy quite as remarkable as this have been reported in actual experience. Webster's Dictionary defines telepathy as "the sympathetic affection of one mind by the thoughts, feelings or emotions of another at a distance without communication through the ordinary channels of sensation."]

It was a wild night. Across the barren mountain-top the wind swept in moaning, fitful gusts, with ever-increasing force, and lashed the surface of the deep, silent lake into angry turbulence. Ever and anon a few pale moonbeams struggled through the tempest-driven clouds, revealing their inky blackness, and weird, fantastic shapes, and bringing into view, in the midst of the desolation, a solitary human figure.

On the shore of the gloomy lake stood a young man, whose attitude spoke but one word—despair! A dark purpose filled Humphrey Greenfield's soul as he gazed into the soundless depths before him, and mentally reviewed his past.

He saw himself, just arrived at man's estate, kneeling by the bedside of the beautiful young stepmother whom he adored, and promising to be a true elder brother and faithful guardian to her small daughter, soon to be fatherless and motherless.

For a time he had fulfilled the sacred trust unswervingly, and little Joyce's childhood has been surrounded with all the love and care the mother's heart could desire.

Then came a day when he was seized with a passion for speculating. Humphrey's brow darkened as he thought of the false friend whose words had kindled the fatal flame—and from that time his history was that of thousands who become slaves to the longing to acquire riches speedily and easily.

Encouraged by a few initial successes he staked more and more boldly, and when presently the tide set in against him, he lost not only his own, but—oh, bitter thought!—the small interest left by Joyce's mother, which he held in trust for her daughter. He had also borrowed heavily, and the lenders began to press for payment.

Large sums passed through his hands in his daily employment, and, as the months Humphrey Greenfield fell before the temptation that so constantly assailed him. He appropriated certain checks, and—the gambling fever being still strong upon him—risked these in the vain hope of recovering what was lost.

But little Fortune no more smiled upon him, each fresh venture proved disastrous as the last, and now he stood face to face with the fact that he must shortly reap the fruits of what he had sown—ruin, exposure, disgrace, perhaps a convict's cell.

Added to his sorrow and remorse, Joyce—merry, light-hearted Joyce—lay sick of deadly fever in the great city whose lights he could dimly see in the far distance, many miles away. He thought, with keenest self-reproach, how, since the absorbing desire for wealth possessed him, he had neglected the bright, loving-hearted girl who, from the time she was a wee, toddling baby, had made a hero of her elder brother and worshiped devotedly at his shrine.

As Humphrey gloomily reflected upon these things, a look of grim resolve settled on his haggard features.

"Yes," he said, half aloud, "the world is well rid of such a life as mine. It has been a failure—it's better to end it." He stepped nearer to the perilous brink.

Suddenly there came a lull in the storm. The wind ceased its dismal wailing, and in the momentary stillness a voice, pleading, reproachful, loving, fell on his ear. He started and turned as the impassioned accents rang out. The moon shone through a rift in the clouds, and in the pale light he saw Joyce, her fair young face full of imploring eagerness, her hands stretched out to draw him from the peril.

Silently, impelled by an irresistible force, he followed her away from that dreary shore, and in a few minutes found himself descending the mountain side.

The clouds united, the moonlight fled, and Humphrey saw his sister's face no more; but her sweet, pure presence was that of a guiding angel, ever with him as he wended his way in the darkness down the rugged path he had climbed so despondingly, and ere he reached the valley the deadly loathing which bowed him to that lonely spot forsook him.

Nobler, worthier thoughts, new resolves, began to fill his mind. He would rise from the depths in which he had sunk, and, after clearing away the debris of his failures, build up a life for which the world should be the better. He would bear the consequences of his sin, and then start afresh with a free conscience.

The next day found Humphrey back in the city, making a clean breast of his misdeeds before his chief, with no attempt to excuse himself. He expected no leniency; for John Orben, or Orben & Co., Limited, was well known to be a hard, stern man from whom no offender need look for mercy.

He listened with grave displeasure till Humphrey had finished, and then said coldly: "I am glad you have, of your own accord, confessed your dishonesty, Greenfield; otherwise, I could not have condoned the offence. For the sake of your father, who once rendered me a great service, I shall take no proceedings, and you can retain your place in the firm, though, I need hardly say, I shall guard against large amounts passing through your hands. I hope the time may come when I shall feel justified in reinstating you in your former position in my confidence and trust. You can go now. I shall not require you any more to-day."

Murmuring a few words of grateful thanks for this unhoped-for clemency, Humphrey withdrew, and quickly made his way to the house where Joyce lay. He half feared that she was already dead, that it was her spirit winging its way to the unseen world that had drawn him from destruction.

But good news awaited him. Contrary to the doctor's expectations, the young girl had lived through the dreaded crisis, and hopes of recovery were entertained.

"Your sister was unconscious for a long time last night," said Nurse Madeline, "and we feared the end was near; but gradually she passed into a natural sleep, and awoke quite conscious. In her delirium yesterday she was continually calling your name in great distress, apparently thinking that you were in some kind of danger, but now the delusion has left her and her mind is at rest."

A few weeks later, when Joyce was convalescent, she said one day to her brother: "Humphrey, I had such a strange dream about you when I was ill. It was the night before I began to get better. I thought you were in some terrible danger, I couldn't tell what, and if only I could reach you I could save you. For a long time I tried, but wasn't able to get to you—something always held me back. At last I saw you standing by the lake on Sam's Point, but it was not beautiful, blue and sunlit, as I had seen it before, but black and rough and cruel-looking, while all around an awful storm was raging. You looked so wretched and unhappy, and I thought you were going to throw yourself into the water. It was all so real, Humphrey, it makes me shudder even now to think of it. I cried to you to come away, and you turned and followed me away from that fearful place, and down the mountain-side. Then I awoke, but I didn't feel anxious about you any longer, for I felt sure you were safe, and would soon come to me."

"It was not all a dream, Joyce," said her brother, as he bent down and kissed the winsome, girlish face. "You did save me from a very real danger, and when you are stronger I will tell you all about it."

Humphrey Greenfield kept the vow made as he descended the mountain that stormy night, and has built up a name which is honored and loved in the city where he dwells, and many are the better for his living. Nor does he forget the debt of gratitude he owes to the sister whose strong, deep love for him enabled her to break away from the limitations of time and place, and save him in an hour of peril, leading him upward out of the depths of despair till he saw the light of hope shining on his path once more.—London S. S. Times.

Two of a Kind.

The Rev. Mr. Roberson was called upon to attend two workers who had received fatal injuries in a riot. The reverend gentleman was most anxious that the men should confess who had been their accomplices. One of them died without uttering a word on the subject. As the other lay at the point of death he beckoned Mr. Roberson, who hastened to his side in the full expectation that he was about to learn the fateful tidings. This belief was strengthened by the first words of the sufferer. "Can you keep a secret?" he gasped. "I can," was the eager response of the clergyman. "So can I," said the dying man, and immediately afterward he calmly passed away.—Westminster Review.

The Judge's Notes.

When the Standing Committee on Trade resumed consideration, at the House of Commons yesterday, of the Town Tenants (Ireland) bill, objections were raised to Clause 2, which stipulates that appeals from county court decisions shall come before the Court of Appeal. Mr. Campbell, K. C., the Unionist member for Dublin University, said it was monstrous to send a man right up to Dublin from the bottom of Ireland. It was frequently found in the Court of Appeal that the County Court Judge had taken no notes of the evidence. On one occasion the Judge's note was found to consist merely of a caricature of one of the counsel.—London Tribune.

Town That Needs No Taxes,

And Its Mayor Hopes Yet to Show a Profit—Port Arthur, Canada, Strong For Municipal Ownership and Has Figures to Support Its Argument—Water Power Owned by the Town Source of Wealth.

With what emotions would a property holder receive an official statement from the assessor's office that he would not be required to pay taxes thereafter? asks a correspondent of the Washington Star writing from Port Arthur, Canada. And the same citizen would probably not survive the shock of later being requested to call at the district building to receive a check as his share of the profits of the municipal government. This state of affairs is about to be realized in Port Arthur.

Every stranger who drops into this hospitable little city at the head of Lake Superior, on the Canadian side, is forced to become familiar with the town's method and manner of doing business before he can make any sort of headway at all in any other direction. He may not be interested, but that matters not a whit. He must listen! Every citizen of the town is loaded to the guards with information about municipal ownership and carries around with him the last quarterly statement of the railway and light commission. He knows to a cent just how much profit there was in the operation of the water works and can tell you to a mill the profits of the last quarter from the telephone system. Incidentally, he will explain between grins and chortles that the rival town of Fort William, six miles away, is helping to pay the taxes due on Port Arthur's real estate, because the street railroad which connects the two towns of approximately the same population is owned by the municipality of Port Arthur. Therefore, when a Fort William resident pays five cents to the street car conductor he contributes a mite to every individual taxpayer in the rival town. That fact seems to tickle the Port Arthurians to death. If you are with a Port Arthur resident for half an hour and he doesn't mention the above conditions thirteen times it is considered remarkable by the natives.

Although the street railroad doesn't give the citizens any reduction in car tickets which other cities do not enjoy, the telephone service is much cheaper. The enthusiastic advocate of municipal ownership in this town—and every citizen is in this class—will not forget to explain the the Bell company used to charge $36 a year for a business telephone which is now supplied for $24, and that a residence telephone now costs only $12 a year. He knows, too, that Port Arthur is the only town on the American continent which owns and operates all of its utilities, and is very fond of explaining how all this came about.

The most conspicuous citizen of this town is a member of the railway and light commission. The membership of the commission is restricted to three, and one member is elected each year. It is by far a greater honor to be a member of the commission than it is to be a mayor or alderman. As member of the board the citizen who has been so honored by the municipality must serve without pay.

Nobody rides on passes in this town, and perhaps that is one of the reasons why municipal ownership is possible; but there are even better reasons than that, for the falls of the Current River are almost in the city itself, and all the power necessary for electrical operation of any kind, including manufacturing, is supplied by this kindly and convenient stream. The city has appropriated everything and the manufacturer must do business with it, but the terms are easy and no one seems to have a kick.

The controlling officials serving without pay saves all of the salaries which go to eat up the profits of public utilities elsewhere, and because of these and other reasons one would hardly be justified in pointing to this town of 10,000 people as proof positive that municipal ownership is justifiable in all American cities.

One-half of the taxes of Port Arthur are paid from the revenues derived from its water works, lighting plant, street railway and telephone. The total investment by the municipality was $150,000, and last year the net income was $36,000. Of course it would be impossible to continue these proportional figures if the city should grow to a larger population, and it would be likewise impossible in a city where millions were involved to have the officials devote their entire time to enterprises without compensation. Just now the members of the railway and light commission meet only after business hours and perhaps not oftener than twice a week.

Port Arthur and Fort William are the lake shipping points for the western Canada wheat belt. Each has a magnificent harbor and gigantic elevators. Port Arthur and the Canadian Pacific Railway have been for years and are now at war with each other. If there had never been a quarrel between the two there would never have been a story to tell about municipal ownership under a Port Arthur date line.

Disinterested persons say that both the town and the road were at fault and that a hot headed and chesty person of importance to each made their differences grow and finally become irreconcilable. Port Arthur concluded that the railroad was trying to dodge the payment of taxes on property the title to which was under dispute, and a very self-asertive mayor caused a passenger train to be attached and held—like the elephant of the bankrupt circus—until payment was enforced. This little courtesy naturally made the Canadian Pacific Railroad officials feel kindly toward Port Arthur.

Sir William Van Horn, president of the Canadian Pacific, is pretty quick on the trigger anyhow, and his wrath on this particular occasion was something wonderful to see. After the power of speech had returned Sir William is reported to have waved his carefully manicured Smithfield over his head and declared that he would "make the grass grow in the streets of Port Arthur." The development of the rival town of Fort William began with a rush, and for a while it looked very much as if Sir William would make his threat good.

But the good folks of Port Arthur are not of the Micawber family. They began to sit up and take notice. They had a harbor, an ideal location for a city and a splendid waterfall just outside the city limits. If the railroad would not bring its tracks to Port Arthur they were determined to make their town getable by means of an electric railway, and so the municipal ownership proposition had its inception. From the very beginning the system was enough of a success to demonstrate that ultimately it would be a pronounced success, and the story which tells the tale most eloquently is the statement of income and expenditures issued by the corporation of the town of Port Arthur. It shows that from the street railroads the gross income was last year $42,936, the cost of administration $28000 and the profit $10,180; from the electric lighting plant the same relative figures were $36,228, $2100 and $11,840, and from the telephone system $8571, $1100 and $2301.

The figures given under "cost of administration" include the salary for superintendence and the clerical staff required for the operation of these industries. The street railroad is carrying charges on some $156,000 worth of bonds. Of these, $12,000 were devoted to improvement of the Current River. The lighting and telephone systems are bonded proportionately. The Mayor of Port Arthur reviewed the figures for me and remarked:

"I expect to see the day when the property owners of this town will walk up to the auditor's office and receive a check as his proportionate share of the profits from the operation of our public utilities."

To Account For Strange Dreams.

I think very often our dreams are a jumble of ideas that we have inherited, and that dreaming is largely a kind of free play of what I have called ancestral memory.

We dream of things which we have never experienced in our waking moments. I remember a very realistic dream. It was a battle, and I was in a regiment of cavalry that received an order to charge. The whole scene is vividly before me as I write, and were I an artist I could sketch the face of a man who rode by my side. I can feel the throb of eagerness, the thudding of the horses' hoofs in the mad rush as we quickened our pace to get to closer quarters with those we were pursuing.

Suddenly the squadron of men in front opened, wheeling off to the right and left, and we were looking into the iron throats of a masked battery. They opened fire upon us—a moment after the ear splitting thunder, and I was in a hell of smoke, dust, blood and metal; every piece seemed to sing a war chant of its own. Then I awoke, and I was shouting "God! I never knew it was anything like this." Here surely is something experienced by an ancestor which has descended from generation to generation and taken its place in my collection of impressions. —Nineteenth Century.

Contentment.

Let us learn to be content with what we have. Let us get rid of our false estimates. Set up all the higher ideals—a quiet home, vines of our own planting; a few good books full of the inspiration of a genius, a few friends worthy of being loved, and able to love us in return; a hundred innocent pleasures that bring no pain or remorse, a devotion to the right that will never swerve, a simple religion empty of all bigotry, full of trust and hope and love—and to such a philosophy this world will give up all the empty joy it has. — David Swing.

Early Cotton Raising.

Records have been recently published in Savannah showing that cotton was raised and manufactured in the neighborhood of that city as early as the year 1748 in sufficient quantity to be the subject of official notice. But Great Britain at that time would not permit the colonies to manufacture the cotton, compelling them to buy the manufactured article of the "home country."

For the Younger Children....

THE DIFFERENCE.

This is my dog, my very own. You'll think it strange, but we
Have ages that are just alike, and I am young, you see,
While he's as old, or most as old, as any dog can be.

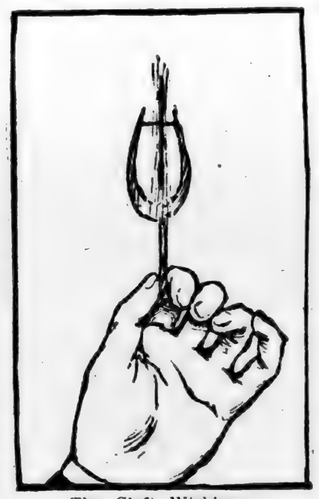
He is no higher than my waist, and he is grown up, too,
And I am quite as tall as Jane, and I'm not nearly through
With growing, for I mean to be as big, perhaps, as you.

The things we like are not the same: I romp, and race, and run,
And he lies down before the fire, or stretches in the sun;
But each of us would be forlorn without the other one.
—Caroline McCormick, in St. Nicholas.

AFTER-DINNER TRICK.

Here is a little trick that any of you can master. The next time you have chicken for dinner, save the wishbone and wind some strong thread several times about the extremities of it, passing it around both ends. Insert a match between the two passes of thread thus formed and turn it in a circle several times, until the thread is very tight and the ends of the wishbone are drawn closely together. Then suddenly let the match go and it will describe a complete circle, producing the most curious optical illusion.

The rotary motion of the match is so quick that no eye can follow it, and it seems as if the free end actually cleft the wishbone in passing from one side to the other.



The Cleft Wishbone.

No matter how often the trick is done nor how closely the audience are watching, the illusion will remain. Try it and see for yourselves. —New York Evening Mail.

UNCLE PHIL'S STORY.

"Tell us a story, Uncle Phil," said Rob and Archie, running to him.

"What about?" said Uncle Phil, as Rob climbed on his right knee and Archie on his left.

"Oh, about something that happened to you," said Rob.

"Something when you were a little boy," said Archie.

"Once, when I was a little boy," said Uncle Phil, "I asked my mother to let Roy and myself go out and play by the river."

"'Was Roy your brother?" asked Rob.

"No, but he was very fond of playing with me. My mother said yes, so we went and had a great deal of sport. After a while I took a shingle for a boat, and sailed it along the bank. At last it began to get into deep water, where I couldn't reach it with a stick. Then I told Roy to go and bring it to me. He almost always did what I told him, but this time he did not. I began scolding him and he ran toward home.

"Then I was angry. I picked up a stone, and threw it at him as hard as I could."

"Oh, Uncle Phil!" cried Archie.

"Just then Roy turned his head, and it struck him."

"Oh, Uncle Phil!" cried Rob.

"Yes. He gave a little cry, and lay down on the ground.

"But I was still angry with him. I did not go to him, but waded into the water for my boat.

"But it was deeper than I thought. Before I knew it, I was in a strong current. I screamed as it carried me down the stream, but no men were near to help me.

"Good fellow! Was he your cousin?" asked Rob.

"No," replied Uncle Phil.

"What did you say to him?" asked Archie.

"I put my arms around the dear fellow's neck and cried, and asked him to forgive me."

"What did he say?" asked Rob.

"He said, 'Bow, wow, wow!'"

"Why, who was Roy anyway?" asked Archie, in great astonishment.

"He was my dog," said Uncle Phil—"the best dog I ever saw. I have never been unkind to a dog or to any other animal since, and I hope you will never be."—Sydney Dayre, in Our Dumb Animals.

KEEP RIGHT AT IT, BOYS.

"I have seen boys," said the master, "who would start to make a sled, and by the time the first runner was finished decided they'd have a wagon. When one sawed out, they would make rabbit traps. After for two hours for just the of a hollow tree, they notion to go skating what kind of men such We smiled and said we did.

"You ought to," said "you have seen plenty When a boy of that kind he will rent a farm, and the crop is half made, the span of mules, sell the put up a little grocery grocery store fails, and be a carpenter. He gets hand set of tools, and a job, quits it so often charged. Then he borrows o' his wife's father to and the first time he gets of hauling, goes off duck

"That kind of a fellow three days over a seven clock, and put in a month plowing weather trying windmill.

"It was not a bad plan had of teaching their boys so they had to swim.

"If you want to succeed make yourself finish what take. No matter how hard matter how much better else looks, do what you have to do.

"Get that habit, boys, is half won. It is very try to do a half-dozen things finishing of them, but road to failure. Centre on the thing before you and do it the best you Boys' World.

TWO KINGS.

Usually there was one ward who reigned over children and in the heart "grown-ups," through superiority over the other tients. But, once upon were two kings who equal popularity over white-cribbed kingdom.

Visitors could never was the more attractive extremely friendly, spoiled. Both were much freckled, and at the falling of the first one far above his fellows made equally amusing And no real kings could have been more

When a doctor would with John, Paul would and display all his visitor gave John would wait for hours until he could eat it before Paul. And that people who came did much to kindle Both happily were age when childhood innocent and funny.

I happened to be ward one day when eating their luncheon. sitting in their red low table devouring hash.

John stared at Paul and then announced, hash is made."

"Pooh! So do I," "My mother puts it then she chops it and chops it."

"And then what does manded John, well up on the various making.

Paul had thought suddenly a happy him.

"Then she puts in salt," he returned "And then what?"

Paul had told all John slowly and "She puts it in a bug."

"In a bug!" screamed doesn't either, she der."

"Well," asked John, self up, "isn't a spider cago News.

A Smile or Two

Laird—"Well, Sandy, ting very bent. straight up like me, man."

Sandy—"Eh, mon, field o' corn over there?"

"I do."

"Weel, ye'll notice heids hang down, and stand up."—Glasgow News.

Dogs Clean Sewers.

The municipality of trained dogs to draw a brush fixed to the end of the small sewers of the clean them.

The population of time of consolidation it is now 1,358,000, a 000, relatively larger tan's.

Quill pens came into the first steel ones in the first gross of them

The first top buggies peared frightened than automobiles do now.

...'S NEGLECT

...S THE SURE PENALTY

...e Lost Is Restored by Lydia ...'s Vegetable Compound.

...y women do you know who ...ly well and strong? We ...y day the same story over and ..."I do not feel well; I am ...l the time!"

...ss Kate McDonald

...han likely you speak the same ...urself, and no doubt you feel ...well. The cause may be easily ...some derangement of the fe... ...ans which manifests itself in ...on of spirits, reluctance to go ...re or do anything, backache, ...down pains, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness, or other fe... ...akness.

...symptoms are but warnings ...re is danger ahead, and unless ...life of suffering or a serious ...is the inevitable result. ...ever failing remedy for all these ...is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable ...Compound.

...Kate McDonald of Woodbridge, ...rites:

"...Pinkham: ...ored health has meant so much to me ...annot help from telling about it for ...of other suffering women. ...long time I suffered untold agony ...female trouble and irregularities, ...de me a physical wreck, and no one ...I would recover, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has entirely ...ed, and made me well and strong, and ...y duty to tell other suffering women ...lendid medicine it is."

...wenty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, ...er-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, ...der her direction, and since her ...been advising sick women free ...ge. Her advice is free and ...helpful. Address, Lynn, Mass.

A Wonderful Child.

...ree years of age John Stuart ...gan the study of Greek, with ...etic as an ever ...g relaxation," ...uel Wellington puts it in the ...nster Review. ...ght he began Latin, Euclid and ...and had to act as tutor to the ...children. He was a stern and ...tutor. ...elve he began scholastic logic ...litical economy—the latter his ...ework. ...teen, while paying a long visit Samuel Bentham in South... ...ance, he learned French as a ...on from studying two or three ...before breakfast, five hours be... ...breakfast and dinner and two ...e in the evening. Being for ...me master of his own hours, ...t subject to a stern father, he ...sons also in his spare hours in ...singing, dancing, fencing and ...but never became proficient. ...ixteen Mill could speak in de... ...ith adults with ease and free... ...At eighteen he contributed to ...estminster Review. At twenty... ...was made assistant in the In... ...ce and received a large salary ...ee days. ...Mill was bald at twenty-two, ...not marry until he was forty... ...He himself said: "I never was a ...It is better to let nature have ...n way."

Why She Wanted Park Lane.

...dy carrying a little dog got ...n omnibus and wanted to know ...y turning was Park lane. She ...asking the question at Putney ...peated it at intervals all along ...ute until at last she was told. ...intense relief of everybody in ...nibus, that Park lane was reached ...fore her eyes. But they were ...to see the last of her even then. ..." she said in ecstatic tones, ...s up the dog to the window, ...where your mother was born!" ...don Chronicle.

WELL PEOPLE TOO

Doctor Gives Postum to Convalescents.

...wise doctor tries to give nature ...est chance by saving the little ...gth of the already exhausted ...t, and building up wasted ...with simple but powerful nourishment.

..."Five years ago," writes a doctor, ...mmenced to use Postum in my ...family instead of coffee. I was ...ll pleased with the results that ...two grocers place it in stock, ...nteeing its sale. ...then commenced to recommend ...my patients in place of coffee, ...nutritious beverage. The consequence is, every store in town is ...selling it, as it has become a ...hold necessity in many homes. ...m sure I prescribe Postum as ...as any one remedy in the Materia Medica—in almost every case ...digestion and nervousness I ...and with the best results. ...When I once introduce it into a ...y, it is quite sure to remain. I ...continue to use it and prescribe ...families where I practice. ...convalescence from pneumonia, ...id fever and other cases, I give ...a liquid, easily absorbed diet. ...may use my letter as a reference ...any way you see fit." Name ...by Postum Co., Battle Creek, ...Read "The Road to Wellville" ...in pkgs. "There's a reason."

DAWNING DAY.

How clear the dawn comes to the eyes that wake;
How long her chariot lingers on the hills
Before she finds the little, hidden rills,
And glossy flashes from the waiting lake.
How long, from every nest on bush and tree,
Unquiet murmurs from each nestling rise,
Before day's flame lights up the eastern skies,
And wings released flash upward, glad and free.
How long the pale moon lingers in the west,
Guarding the portals of the realm of night,
Before the eager sun begins his quest,
And men awake to life, and life's delight,
And they who sought sweet sleep and rest in vain,
Blur in day's busy hour forget their pain.
—Annette M. Lowater, in New York Sun.

OUT OF THE DEPTHS

By A. BEATLEY.

[This is not an impossible story, as one might suppose. Many cases of telepathy quite as remarkable as this have been reported in actual experience. Webster's Dictionary defines telepathy as "the sympathetic affection of one mind by the thoughts, feelings or emotions of another at a distance without communication through the ordinary channels of sensation."]

It was a wild night. Across the barren mountain-top the wind swept in moaning, fitful gusts, with ever-increasing force, and lashed the surface of the deep, silent lake into angry turbulence. Ever and anon a pale gale moonbeams struggled through the tempest-driven clouds, revealing their inky blackness, and weird, fantastic shapes, and bringing into view, in the midst of the desolation, a solitary human figure.

On the shore of the gloomy lake stood a young man, whose attitude spoke but one word—despair! A dark purpose filled Humphrey Greenfield's soul as he gazed into the fathomless depths before him, and mentally reviewed his past.

He saw himself, just arrived at man's estate, kneeling by the bedside of his beautiful young stepmother whom he adored, and promising to be a true elder brother and faithful guardian to her small daughter, soon to be fatherless and motherless.

For a time he had fulfilled the sacred trust unswervingly, and little Joyce's childhood has been surrounded with all the love and care the mother's heart could desire.

Then came a day when he was seized with a passion for speculating —Humphrey's brow darkened as he thought of the false friend whose words had kindled the fatal flame—and from that time his history was that of thousands who become slaves to the longing to acquire riches speedily and easily.

Encouraged by a few initial successes he staked more and more boldly, and when presently the tide set in against him, he lost not only his own, but—oh! bitter thought!—the small fortune left by Joyce's mother, which he held in trust for her daughter. He had also borrowed heavily, and the traders began to press for payment.

Large sums passed through his hands in his daily employment, and, in his straits, Humphrey Greenfield fell before the temptation that so constantly assailed him. He appropriated certain checks, and—the gambling fever being still strong upon him—risked these in the vain hope of recovering what was lost.

But fickle Fortune no more smiled upon him, each fresh venture proved disastrous as the last, and now he stood face to face with the fact that he must shortly reap the fruits of what he had sown—ruin, exposure, disgrace, perhaps a convict's cell.

To add to his sorrow and remorse, Joyce—merry, light-hearted Joyce—lay sick of deadly fever in the great city whose lights he could dimly see in the far distance, many miles away. He thought, with keenest self-reproach, how, since the absorbing desire for wealth possessed him, he had neglected the bright, loving-hearted girl who, from the time she was a wee, toddling baby, had made a hero of her older brother and worshiped devotedly at his shrine.

As Humphrey gloomily reflected upon these things, a look of grim resolve settled on his haggard features.

"Yes," he said, half aloud, "the world is well rid of such a life as mine. It has been a failure—it's better to end it." He stepped nearer to the perilous brink.

Suddenly there came a lull in the storm. The wind ceased its dismal wailing, and in the momentary stillness a voice, pleading, reproachful, loving, fell on his ear. He started and turned as the impassioned accents rang out. The moon shone through a rift in the clouds, and in the pale light he saw Joyce, her fair young face full of imploring entreaty, her hands stretched out to draw him from the peril.

Silently, impelled by an irresistible force, he followed her away from that dreary shore, and in a few minutes found himself descending the mountain side.

The clouds united, the moonlight fled, and Humphrey saw his sister's face no more; but her sweet, pure presence, as that of a guiding angel, went with him as he wended his way by the darkness down the rugged path he had climbed so despondingly, and ere he reached the valley the deadly impulse which brought him to that lonely spot forsook him.

Nobler, worthier thoughts, now resolves, began to fill his mind. He would rise from the depths in which he had sunk, and, after clearing away the debris of his failures, build up a life for which the world should be the better. He would bear the consequences of his sin, and then start afresh with a free conscience.

The next day found Humphrey back in the city, making a clean breast of his misdeeds before his chief, with no attempt to excuse himself. He expected no leniency; for John Orben, or Orben & Co., Limited, was well known to be a hard, stern man from whom no offender need look for mercy.

He listened with grave displeasure till Humphrey had finished, and then said coldly: "I am glad you have, of your own accord, confessed your dishonesty, Greenfield; otherwise, I could not have condoned the offence. For the sake of your father, who once rendered me a great service, I shall take no proceedings, and you can retain your place in the firm, though, I need hardly say, I shall guard against large amounts passing through your hands. I hope the time may come when I shall feel justified in reinstating you in your former position in my confidence and trust. You can go now. I shall not require you any more to-day."

Murmuring a few words of grateful thanks for this unhoped-for clemency, Humphrey withdrew, and quickly made his way to the house where Joyce lay. He half feared that she was already dead, that it was her spirit winging its way to the unseen world that had drawn him from destruction.

But good news awaited him. Contrary to the doctor's expectations, the young girl had lived through the dreaded crisis, and hopes of recovery were entertained.

"Your sister was unconscious for a long time last night," said Nurse Madeline, "and we feared the end was near; but gradually she passed into a natural sleep, and awoke quite conscious. In her delirium yesterday she was continually calling your name in great distress, apparently thinking that you were in some kind of danger, but now the delusion has left her and her mind is at rest."

A few weeks later, when Joyce was convalescent, she said one day to her brother: "Humphrey, I had such a strange dream about you when I was ill. It was the night before I began to get better. I thought you were in some terrible danger, I couldn't tell what, and if only I could reach you I could save you. For a long time I tried, but wasn't able to get to you—something always held me back. At last I saw you standing by the lake on Sam's Point, but it was not beautiful, blue and sunlit, as I had seen it before, but black and rough and cruel-looking, while all around an awful storm was raging. You looked so wretched and unhappy, and I thought you were going to throw yourself into the water. It was all so real, Humphrey, it makes me shudder even now to think of it. I cried to you to come away, and you turned and followed me away from that fearful place, and down the mountain-side. Then I awoke, but I didn't feel anxious about you any longer, for I felt sure you were safe, and would soon come to me."

"It was not all a dream, Joyce," said her brother, as he bent down and kissed the winsome, girlish face. "You did save me from a very real danger, and when you are stronger I will tell you all about it."

Humphrey Greenfield kept the vow made as he descended the mountain that stormy night, and has built up a name which is honored and loved in the city where he dwells, and many are the better for his living. Nor does he forget the debt of gratitude he owes to the sister whose strong, deep love for him enabled her to break away from the limitations of time and place, and save him in an hour of peril, leading him upward out of the depths of despair till he saw the light of hope shining on his path once more.—London S. S. Times.

Two of a Kind.

The Rev. Mr. Roberson was called upon to attend two workers who had received fatal injuries in a riot. The reverend gentleman was most anxious that the men should confess who had been their accomplices. One of them died without uttering a word on the subject. As the other lay at the point of death he beckoned Mr. Roberson, who hastened to his side in the full expectation that he was about to learn the fateful tidings. This belief was strengthened by the first words of the sufferer. "Can you keep a secret?" he gasped. "I can," was the eager response of the clergyman. "So can I," said the dying man, and immediately afterward he calmly passed away. — Westminster Review.

The Judge's Notes.

When the Standing Committee on Trade resumed consideration, at the House of Commons yesterday, of the Town Tenants (Ireland) bill, objections were raised to Clause 2, which stipulates that appeals from county court decisions shall come before the Court of Appeal. Mr. Campbell, K. C., the Unionist member for Dublin University, said it was monstrous to send a man right up to Dublin from the bottom of Ireland. It was frequently found in the Court of Appeal that the County Court Judge had taken no notes of the evidence. On one occasion the Judge's note was found to consist merely of a caricature of one of the counsel.—London Tribune.

Town That Needs No Taxes,

And Its Mayor Hopes Yet to Show a Profit—Port Arthur, Canada, Strong For Municipal Ownership and Has Figures to Support Its Argument—Water Power Owned by the Town Source of Wealth.

With what emotions would a property holder receive an official statement from the assessor's office that he would not be required to pay taxes thereafter? asks a correspondent of the Washington Star writing from Port Arthur, Canada. And the same citizen would probably not survive the shock of later being requested to call at the district building to receive a check as his share of the profits of the municipal government. This state of affairs is about to be realized in Port Arthur.

Every stranger who drops into this hospitable little city at the head of Lake Superior, on the Canadian side, is forced to become familiar with the town's method and manner of doing business before he can make any sort of headway at all in any other direction. He may not be interested, but that matters not a whit. He must listen! Every citizen of the town is loaded to the guards with information about municipal ownership and carries around with him the last quarterly statement of the railway and light commission. He knows to a cent just how much profit there was in the operation of the water works and can tell you to a mill the profits of the last quarter from the telephone system. Incidentally, he will explain between grins and chortles that the rival town of Fort William, six miles away, is helping to pay the taxes due on Port Arthur's real estate, because the street railroad which connects the two towns of approximately the same population is owned by the municipality of Port Arthur. Therefore, when a Fort William resident pays five cents to the street car conductor he contributes a mite to every individual taxpayer in the rival town. That fact seems to tickle the Port Arthurians to death. If you are with a Port Arthur resident for half an hour and he doesn't mention the above conditions thirteen times it is considered remarkable by the natives.

Although the street railroad doesn't give the citizens any reduction in car tickets which other cities do not enjoy, the telephone service is much cheaper. The enthusiastic advocate of municipal ownership in this town—and every citizen is in this class—will not forget to explain the the Bell company used to charge $36 a year for a business telephone which is now supplied for $24, and that a residence telephone now costs only $12 a year. He knows, too, that Port Arthur is the only town on the American continent which owns and operates all of its utilities, and is very fond of explaining how all this came about.

The most conspicuous citizen of this town is a member of the railway and light commission. The membership of the commission is restricted to three, and one member is elected each year. It is by far a greater honor to be a member of the commission than it is to be a mayor or alderman. As member of the board the citizen who has been so honored by the municipality must serve without pay.

Nobody rides on passes in this town, and perhaps that is one of the reasons why municipal ownership is possible; but there are even better reasons than that, for the falls of the Current River are almost in the city itself, and all the power necessary for electrical operation of any kind, including manufacturing, is supplied by this kindly and convenient stream. The city has appropriated everything and the manufacturer must do business with it, but the terms are easy and no one seems to have a kick.

The controlling officials serving without pay saves all of the salaries which go to eat up the profits of public utilities elsewhere, and because of these and other reasons one would hardly be justified in pointing to this town of 10,000 people as proof positive that municipal ownership is justifiable in all American cities.

One-half of the taxes of Port Arthur are paid from the revenues derived from its water works, lighting plant, street railway and telephone. The total investment by the municipality was $150,000, and last year the net income was $36,000. Of course it would be impossible to continue these proportional figures if the city should grow to a larger population, and it would be likewise impossible in a city where millions were involved to have the officials devote their entire time to enterprises without compensation. Just now the members of the railway and light commission meet only after business hours and perhaps not oftener than twice a week.

Port Arthur and Fort William are the lake shipping points for the western Canada wheat belt. Each has a magnificent harbor and gigantic elevators. Port Arthur and the Canadian Pacific Railway have been for years and are now at war with each other. If there had never been a quarrel between the two there would never have been a story to tell about municipal ownership under a Port Arthur date line.

Disinterested persons say that both the town and the road were at fault and that a hot headed and chesty person of importance to each made their differences grow and finally become irreconcilable. Port Arthur concluded that the railroad was trying to dodge the payment of taxes on property the title to which was under dispute, and a very self-asertive mayor caused a passenger train to be attached and held—like the elephant of the bankrupt circus—until payment was enforced. This little courtesy naturally made the Canadian Pacific Railroad officials feel kindly toward Port Arthur.

Sir William Van Horn, president of the Canadian Pacific, is pretty quick on the trigger anyhow, and his wrath on this particular occasion was something wonderful to see. After the power of speech had returned Sir William is reported to have waved his carefully manicured Smithfield over his head and declared that he would "make the grass grow in the streets of Port Arthur." The development of the rival town of Fort William began with a rush, and for a while it looked very much as if Sir William would make his threat good.

But the good folks of Port Arthur are not of the Micawber family. They began to sit up and take notice. They had a harbor, an ideal location for a city and a splendid waterfall just outside the city limits. If the railroad would not bring its tracks to Port Arthur they were determined to make their town getable by means of an electric railway, and so the municipal ownership proposition had its inception. From the very beginning the system was enough of a success to demonstrate that ultimately it would be a pronounced success, and the story which tells the tale most eloquently is the statement of income and expenditures issued by the corporation of the town of Port Arthur. It shows that from the street railroads the gross income was last year $42,936, the cost of administration $28000 and the profit $10,180; from the electric lighting plant the same relative figures were $36,228, $2100 and $11,840, and from the telephone system $8571, $1100 and $2301.

The figures given under "cost of administration" include the salary for superintendence and the clerical staff required for the operation of these industries. The street railroad is carrying charges on some $156,000 worth of bonds. Of these, $12,000 were devoted to improvement of the Current River. The lighting and telephone systems are bonded proportionately. The Mayor of Port Arthur reviewed the figures for me and remarked:

"I expect to see the day when the property owners of this town will walk up to the auditor's office and receive a check as his proportionate share of the profits from the operation of our public utilities."

To Account For Strange Dreams.

I think very often our dreams are a jumble of ideas that we have inherited, and that dreaming is largely a kind of free play of what I have called ancestral memory.

We dream of things which we have never experienced in our waking moments. I remember a very realistic dream. It was a battle, and I was in a regiment of cavalry that received an order to charge. The whole scene is vividly before me as I write, and were I an artist I could sketch the face of a man who rode by my side. I can feel the throb of eagerness, the thudding of the horses' hoofs in the mad rush as we quickened our pace to get to closer quarters with those we were pursuing.

Suddenly the squadron of men in front opened, wheeling off to the right and left, and we were looking into the iron throats of a masked battery. They opened fire upon us—a moment after the ear splitting thunder, and I was in a hell of smoke, dust, blood and metal; every piece seemed to sing a war chant of its own. Then I awoke, and I was shouting "God! I never knew it was anything like this." Here surely is something experienced by an ancestor which has descended from generation to generation and taken its place in my collection of impressions. —Nineteenth Century.

Contentment.

Let us learn to be content with what we have. Let us get rid of our false estimates. Set up all the higher ideals—a quiet home, vines of our own planting; a few good books full of the inspiration of a genius, a few friends worthy of being loved, and able to love us in return; a hundred innocent pleasures that bring no pain or remorse, a devotion to the right that will never swerve, a simple religion empty of all bigotry, full of trust and hope and love—and to such a philosophy this world will give up all the empty joy it has. — David Swing.

Early Cotton Raising.

Records have been recently published in Savannah showing that cotton was raised and manufactured in the neighborhood of that city as early as the year 1748 in sufficient quantity to be the subject of official notice. But Great Britain at that time would not permit the colonies to manufacture the cotton, compelling them to buy the manufactured article of the "home country."

For the Younger Children....

THE DIFFERENCE.

This is my dog, my very own. You'll think it strange, but we
Have ages that are just alike, and I am young, you see,
While he's as old, or most as old, as any dog can be.

He is no higher than my waist, and he is grown up, too,
And I am quite as tall as Jane, and I'm not nearly through
With growing, for I mean to be as big, perhaps, as you.

The things we like are not the same: I romp, and race, and run,
And he lies down before the fire, or stretches in the sun;
But each of us would be forlorn without the other one.
—Caroline McCormick, in St. Nicholas.

AFTER-DINNER TRICK.

Here is a little trick that any of you can master. The next time you have chicken for dinner, save the wishbone and wind some strong thread several times about the extremities of it, passing it around both ends. Insert a match between the two passes of thread thus formed and turn it in a circle several times, until the thread is very tight and the ends of the wishbone are drawn closely together. Then suddenly let the match go and it will describe a complete circle, producing the most curious optical illusion.

The rotary motion of the match is so quick that no eye can follow it, and it seems as if the free end actually cleft the wishbone in passing from one side to the other.

The Cleft Wishbone.

No matter how often the trick is done nor how closely the audience are watching, the illusion will remain. Try it and see for yourselves. —New York Evening Mail.

UNCLE PHIL'S STORY.

"Tell us a story, Uncle Phil," said Rob and Archie, running to him.

"What about?" said Uncle Phil, as Rob climbed on his right knee and Archie on his left.

"Oh, about something that happened to you," said Rob.

"Something when you were a little boy," said Archie.

"Once, when I was a little boy," said Uncle Phil, "I asked my mother to let Roy and myself go out and play by the river."

"Was Roy your brother?" asked Rob.

"No, but he was very fond of playing with me. My mother said yes, so we went and had a great deal of sport. After a while I took a shingle for a boat, and sailed it along the bank. At last it began to get into deep water, where I couldn't reach it with a stick. Then I told Roy to go and bring it to me. He almost always did what I told him, but this time he did not. I began scolding him and he ran toward home.

"Then I was angry. I picked up a stone, and threw it at him as hard as I could."

"Oh, Uncle Phil!" cried Archie.

"Just then Roy turned his head, and it struck him."

"Oh, Uncle Phil!" cried Rob.

"Yes. He gave a little cry, and lay down on the ground.

"But I was still angry with him. I did not go to him, but waded into the water for my boat.

"But it was deeper than I thought. Before I knew it, I was in a strong current. I screamed as it carried me down the stream, but no men were near to help me.

"But as I went down under the deep waters, something took hold of me and dragged me towards shore. It was Roy. He saved my life."

"Good fellow! Was he your cousin?" asked Rob.

"No," replied Uncle Phil.

"What did you say to him?" asked Archie.

"I put my arms around the dear fellow's neck and cried, and asked him to forgive me."

"What did he say?" asked Rob.

"He said, 'Bow, wow, wow!'"

"Why, who was Roy anyway?" asked Archie, in great astonishment.

"He was my dog," said Uncle Phil—"the best dog I ever saw. I have never been unkind to a dog or to any other animal since, and I hope you will never be."—Sydney Dayre, in Our Dumb Animals.

KEEP RIGHT AT IT, BOYS.

"I have seen boys," said the master, "who would start to make a sled, and by the time the first runner was finished decided they would have a wagon. When one was sawed out, they would quit to make rabbit traps. After working for two hours for just the chance of a hollow tree, they would get a notion to go skating. No matter what kind of men such boys make, we did.

"You ought to," said the master, "you have seen plenty of them. When a boy of that kind grows up he will rent a farm, and when the crop is half made, trade the span of mules, sell the farm, and put up a little grocery store. The grocery store fails, and he decides to be a carpenter. He gets a second-hand set of tools, and when he gets a job, quits it so often to be recharged. Then he borrows money of his wife's father to start again, and the first time he gets a chance of hauling, goes off duck-shooting.

"That kind of a fellow will work three days over a certain clock, and put in a month plowing weather trying to start a windmill.

"It was not a bad plan to start with. They had of teaching their boys to swim. They just threw them in the water, so they had to swim.

"If you want to succeed, you must make yourself finish what you undertake. No matter how hard it is, no matter how much better something else looks, do what you have undertaken to do.

"Get that habit, boys, and success is half won. It is very well to try to do a half-dozen things, but the finishing of them, but the habit leads to failure. Centre your mind on the thing before you, finish it, and do it the best you can."—Boys' World.

TWO KINGS

Usually there was one child in a ward who reigned over the other children and in the beginning of "grown-ups," through some fancied superiority over the other patients. But, once upon a time, there were two kings who reigned with equal popularity over their little white-cribbed kingdom.

Visitors could never decide which was the more attractive. Both were extremely friendly, and both were spoiled. Both were troubled much freckled, and at the time of the falling of the first tooth. But one far above his fellows, and made equally amusing grimaces. And no real kings sitting on their could have been more sought after.

When a doctor would stop to play with John, Paul would scowl fiercely and display all his charms. If the visitor gave John an apple, Paul would wait for hours, if necessary, until he could eat it with his brother before Paul. And so it happened that people who came into the ward did much to kindle the fire of envy. Both happily were still in the age when childhood learns to be unconscious, and their little arts were all innocent and funny.

I happened to be looking in the ward one day when the children were eating their luncheon. They were sitting in their red chairs around a low table devouring their bread and hash.

John stared at Paul for a moment and then announced, "I like hash is made."

"Pooh! So do I," replied Paul. "My mother puts it in a pan, and then she chops it and chops it."

"And then what does she do?" demanded John, who was well up on the various stages of hash making.

Paul had thought this matter out, and suddenly a happy thought struck him.

"Then she puts in pepper and salt," he returned triumphantly.

"And then what?" persisted John.

Paul had told all he knew, and John slowly and distinctly said, "She puts it in a bug."

"In a bug!" screamed Paul. "She doesn't either, she puts it in the oven."

"Well," asked John, drawing himself up, "isn't a spider a bug?"—Chicago News.

A Smile or Two.

Laird—"Well, Sandy, you're getting very bent. Why don't you stand straight up like me, man?"

Sandy—"Eh, mon, do you see a field o' corn over there?"

"I do."

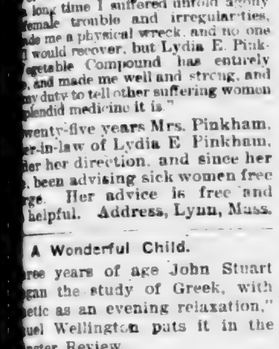
"Weel, ye'll notice that the heids hang down, and the stalks stand up."—Glasgow News.

...'S NEGLECT

...THE SURE PENALTY

...e Lost Is Restored by Lydia ...e Vegetable Compound.

...y women do you know who ...ly well and strong? We ...day the same story over and ... "I do not feel well; I am ... the time!"



...iss Kate McDonald

...han likely you speak the same ...urself, and no doubt you feel ... well. The cause may be easily ... some derangement of the fe... ...ans which manifests itself in ...ss of spirits, reluctance to go ...e or do anything, backache, ...down pains, flatulency, nerv... sleeplessness, or other fe... ...kness.

...symptoms are but warnings ...re is danger ahead, and unless ... life of suffering or a serious ...n is the inevitable result ... ...ever failing remedy for all these ...ns is Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg... ...Compound ...Kate McDonald of Woodbridge, ...rites:

...E. Pinkham: ...ved health has meant so much to me ...annot help from telling about it for ...of other suffering women. ...a long time I suffered untold agony ...female trouble and irregularities, ...de me a physical wreck, and no one ...I would recover, but Lydia E. Pink... ...getable Compound has entirely ..., and made me well and strong, and ...ay duty to tell other suffering women ...splendid medicine it is."

...wenty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, ...r-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, ...der her direction, and since her ..., been advising sick women free ...rge. Her advice is free and ...helpful. Address, Lynn, Mass.

A Wonderful Child.

...ree years of age John Stuart ...gan the study of Greek, with ...etic as an evening relaxation," ...uel Wellington puts it in the ...inster Review.

...ht he began Latin, Euclid and ... and had to act as tutor to the ... children. He was a stern and ... tutor.

...elve he began scholastic logic ...litical economy—the latter his ...tework.

...urteen, while paying a long vis... ...r Samuel Bentham in South... ...rance, he learned French as a ...on from studying two or three ...before breakfast, five hours be... ...breakfast and dinner and two ...e in the evening. Being for ...e master of his own hours, ...t subject to a stern father, he ...ssons also in his spare hours in ... singing, dancing, fencing and ... but never became proficient. ...ixteen Mill could speak in de... ...ith adults with ease and free... At eighteen he contributed to ...estminster Review. At twenty... ...was made assistant in the In... ...ce and received a large salary ...se days.

...Mill was bald at twenty-two. ...not marry until he was forty... ...He himself said: "I never was a ...It is better to let nature have ...n way."

Why She Wanted Park Lane.

...dy carrying a little dog got ...n omnibus and wanted to know ...y turning was Park lane. She ...asking the question at Putney ...peated it at intervals all along ...ute until at last she was told. ... intense relief of everybody in ...nibus, that Park lane was reached ...fore her eyes. But they were ...o see the last of her even then. ...t" she said in ecstatic tones, ...s up the dog to the window, ...s where your mother was born!" ...don Chronicle.

WELL PEOPLE TOO

Doctor Gives Postum to Convalescents.

...wise doctor tries to give nature ...st chance by saving the little ...gth of the already exhausted ...nt, and building up wasted en... ...with simple but powerful nour...ent.

..."Five years ago," writes a doctor, ...mmenced to use Postum in my ...family instead of coffee. I was ...ll pleased with the results that ...two grocers place it in stock, ...nteeing its sale.

...then commenced to recommend ...my patients in place of coffee, ...nutritious beverage. The con...nce is, every store in town is ...selling it, as it has become a ...hold necessity in many homes. ...m sure I prescribe Postum as ...as any one remedy in the Ma... ...Medica—in almost every case ...digestion and nervousness I ... and with the best results. ...When I once introduce it into a ...y, it is quite sure to remain. I ...continue to use it and prescribe ...families where I practice. ...convalescence from pneumonia, ...old fever and other cases, I give ...a liquid, easily absorbed diet. ...may use my letter as a refer... ...any way you see fit." Name ...by Postum Co., Battle Creek, ... Read "The Road to Wellville" ...gs. "There's a reason."

...r the ...unger ...ildren...

finished decided they ... have a wagon. When ... sawed out, they would ... make rabbit traps. Af... for two hours for just the ... of a hollow tree, they ... notion to go skating. ... what kind of men such ... We smiled and said ... we did.

"You ought to," said th... "you have seen plenty ... When a boy of that kind ... he will rent a farm, and, by ... the crop is half made, tra... span of mules, sell the ... put up a little grocery ... grocery store fails, and he ... be a carpenter. He gets ... hand set of tools, and wh... a job, quits it so often ... charged. Then he borro... o' his wife's father to st... and the first time he gets ... of hauling, goes off duck-h...

"That kind of a fellow ... three days over a seven... clock, and put in a month ... plowing weather trying to ... windmill.

"It was not a bad plan th... had of teaching their boys ... They just threw them in, ... so they had to swim.

"If you want to succeed, ... make yourself finish what y... take. No matter how hard ... matter how much better ... else looks, do what you ha... to do.

"Get that habit, boys, an... is half won. It is very te... try to do a half-dozen thing... finishing of them, but th... road to failure. Centre y... on the thing before you, an... and do it the best you c..." Boys' World.

TWO KINGS.

Usually there was one ch... ward who reigned over t... children and in the hear... "grown-ups," through som... superiority over the other ... tients. But, once upon a t... were two kings who rei... equal popularity over t... white-cribbed kingdom.

Visitors could never dec... was the more attractive. ... extremely friendly, and ... spoiled. Both were typi... much freckled, and at the ... the falling of the first t... one far above his fellow... made equally amusing naive... And no real kings sitting o... could have been more envi...

When a doctor would sto... with John, Paul would soo... and display all his charms. ... visitor gave John an or... would wait for hours, if ... until he could eat it with m... before Paul. And you ma... that people who came into ... did much to kindle thi... Both happily wore still ... age when childhood learns ... scious, and their little arts ... innocent and funny.

I happened to be loiteri... ward one day when the ... eating their luncheon. T... sitting in their red chairs a... low table devouring cor... hash.

John stared at Paul for ... and then announced, "I ... hash is made."

"Pooh! So do I," retor... "My mother puts it in a ... then she chops it and cho... chops it."

"And then what does sh... manded John, who was ... well up on the various stag... making.

Paul had thought this w... suddenly a happy thoug... him.

"Then she puts in pe... salt," he returned triumph...

"And then what?" persi...

Paul had told all he ... John slowly and distinctly ... "She puts it in a bug."

"In a bug!" screamed J... doesn't either, she puts it ... der."

"Well," asked John, dra... self up, "isn't a spider a bu... cago News.

A Smile or Two.

Laird—"Well, Sandy, yo... ting very bent. Why don't ... straight up like me, man?"

Sandy—"Eh, mon, do yo... field o' corn over there?"

"I do."

"Weel, ye'll notice that... heids hang down, and the e... stand up."—Glasgow News.

Dogs Clean Sewers.

The municipality of ... trained dogs to draw a cle... brush fixed to the end of it... the small sewers of the ci... clean them.

The population of Brook... time of consolidation was ... it is now 1,353,000, a gai... 000, relatively larger than ... tan's.

Quill pens came into us... the first steel ones in 18... the first gross of them sold ...

The first top buggies ... peared frightened horses ... than automobiles do now.

NEGLECT

ITS SURE PENALTY

...t is Restored by Lydia ... Vegetable Compound.

...y women do you know who ...ly well and strong? We ...ay the same story over and ... "I do not feel well; I am ... the time."

Miss Kate McDonald

...ften likely you speak the same ...urself, and no doubt you feel ... well. The cause may be easily ... some derangement of the fe... which manifests itself in ... of spirits, reluctance to go ... or do anything, backache, ... pains, flatulency, nervo... sleeplessness, or other fe... symptoms are but warnings ... danger ahead, and unless ... life of suffering or a serious ... is the inevitable result.

...ever failing remedy for all these ... is Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg... Compound.

...Kate McDonald of Woodbridge, ... writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"...ydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has meant so much to me ... cannot help from telling about it for ... benefit of other suffering women. ... a long time I suffered untold agony ... from female trouble and irregularities, ... was a physical wreck, and no one ... thought I would recover, but Lydia E. Pink... Vegetable Compound has entirely ... cured and made me well and strong, and ... a pleasure for me to tell other suffering women ... what a splendid medicine it is."

...For thirty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, ... daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, ... has been under her direction, and since her ... death has been advising sick women free ... of charge. Her advice is free and ... always helpful. Address, Lynn, Mass.

A Wonderful Child.

...ree years of age John Stuart ... began the study of Greek, with ... Mill as an evening relaxation," ... Westminster puts it in the ... Review.

...At five he began Latin, Euclid and ... had had to act as tutor to the ... children. He was a stern and ... tutor.

...While he began scholastic logic ... political economy—the latter his ... "pièce de résistance," while paying a long visit ... to Sir Samuel Bentham in South... ...ce, he learned French as a ... from studying two or three ... before breakfast, five hours be... breakfast and dinner and two ... in the evening. Being for ... the master of his own hours, ... subject to a stern father, he ... also in his spare hours in ... games, dancing, fencing and ... never became proficient.

...James Mill could speak in de... with ease and free... At eighteen he contributed to ... Westminster Review. At twenty... was made assistant in the In... office and received a large salary ... three days ... Mill was bald at twenty-two. ... not marry until he was forty-... He himself said: "I never was a ... It is better to let nature have ... own way."

Why She Wanted Park Lane.

...A lady carrying a little dog got ... on a bus and wanted to know ... the turning was Park lane. She ... kept asking the question at Putney ... repeated it at intervals all along ... route until at last she was told, ... to the intense relief of everybody in ... that Park lane was real... before her eyes. But they were ... to see the last of her even then. ... she said in ecstatic tones, ... up the dog to the window, ... "there's where your mother was born!" ... Punch chronicle.

WELL PEOPLE TOO

...Doctor Gives Postum to Con... talescents.

...The doctor tries to give nature ... chance by saving the little ... of the already exhausted ... and building up wasted cells ... with simple but powerful nourishment.

..."Two years ago," writes a doctor, "I ... commenced to use Postum in my ... family instead of coffee. I was ... well pleased with the results that ... two grocers place it in stock, ... considering its sale.

..."I soon commenced to recommend ... it to my patients in place of coffee, ... as a nutritious beverage. The con... sumption is every store in town is ... selling it, as it has become a ... household necessity in many homes. ... I am sure I prescribe Postum as ... often as any one remedy in the Ma... Materia Medica—in almost every case ... of indigestion and nervousness I ... find with the best results. ... When I once introduce it into a ... family it is quite sure to remain. I ... continue to use it and prescribe ... it in families where I practice.

..."In convalescence from pneumonia, ... typhoid fever and other cases, I give ... it as a liquid, easily absorbed diet. ... You may use my letter as a refer... in any way you see fit." Name ... given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, ... Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville" ... in pkgs. "There's a reason."

PRESERVE THE BUFFALO.

Ernest Harold Baynes Talks on "Our Grandest American Animal."

Ernest Harold Baynes gave a talk before the Society of Arts on the "American Bison: Our Grandest American Animal." Mr. Baynes is secretary of the American Bison Society, president of which is Theodore Roosevelt and which count among their members the governor general of Canada. The object of this society is to promote a public sentiment that will influence congress to provide for the perpetuation of the American bison. At present there is a bill before Congress providing for the appropriation of $15,000 for the maintenance of a herd.

Mr. Baynes said that the bison was the most numerous of all mammals of modern times. The numbers that at one time lived on this continent was in the millions, and it seems remarkable that they could have become almost exterminated in so short a time. There are but two wild herds of buffalo in existence today, one in the Yellowstone National Park and another in Canada. There are a few private herds, but all of these are, without exception, for sale to anyone who will pay a reasonable price.

Before the white men who are responsible for this depletion invaded the West the Indians killed the buffalo themselves, and depended upon the buffalo generally for their living.

When the white men came they began killing the buffalo, and the Indians were instructed to kill as many as possible and to bring their hides to the trading stations. The white hunters also took up the slaughter and there are white men living today who have killed 10,000 buffaloes with one rifle. There is on record a case where 1500 buffaloes were killed in fifteen minutes by a hunting party. Whole herds were exterminated at one time by driving them over precipices, and by corralling and slaughtering them by the wholesale.

Many people ask if the preservation of the buffalo is of any practical value. In an attempt to answer this question satisfactorily, Mr. Baynes has trained two buffaloes to work in harness or under yoke. These animals were exhibited at the Sportsman's Show last fall and are doubtless remembered by many people. They have been found to be very tractable and fully as strong as oxen.

Mr. Baynes showed various lantern slides of the domesticated buffaloes drawing various wagons and carts, and in one case drawing a snow plow through snow up to their shoulders. The buffalo hide is very much more valuable than cow hide, and it has been found possible to weave their fur or wool into coarse cloths. Another valuable use for buffalo is in crossing them with our cattle, and so forming a race that is much stronger, healthier and less susceptible to cattle diseases. The hair of these crosses is also valuable, resembling very closely fine bear fur.—Boston Transcript.

A LOCAL MANAGER WANTED.

An Independent Income Assured.

We are going to place at once a local manager in every town or county in the United States. We want men and women of character, tact and perseverance to represent us. The reward is complete independence and a remunerative most generous. Our proposition is without exception the most liberal and best paying one ever offered capable, ambitious men or women. You can secure at once a steady and assured income. Previous experience is not necessary. All you need is confidence in your ability. We have a straight, clean-cut money-maker. It is the kind of a money-maker that you have been looking for. There is no limit to the income that you can make. We want to hear from every man or woman who desires to secure a regular income and are willing to make money. We have just what you want and can start you at once. Write us to-day before others secure your district. Address CIRCULATION, No. 182 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Charleston's Remarkable Taxpayers.

The number of delinquents on city taxes when the tax-year closed last November was 424. By the end of December this number had been reduced to 141, and today there are only 19 persons in the city of Charleston who have not paid their taxes for last year, the amount due the city by them aggregating only $449.76. At the close of the tax year on the first of November the total amount of city taxes uncollected aggregated $3,907.79, or eight-tenths of 1 percent.

The amount of city taxes collected up to that date aggregated $477,027.86, or 99.2 percent of the total taxes due the city. We do not believe that there is another city in the country that can make anything like so good a showing, and the credit is largely due to the efficiency with which the city tax department is managed.

The total amount of state and county taxes in Charleston county is $233,058.44. At the close of the last county tax year the amount of uncollected taxes turned over to the sheriff for collection was $6,005.54. The amount collected without resort to the sheriff for the state and county was $227,052.90.—Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier.

Japan has the least number of suicides of any country.

Japan believes in government ownership of railways.

Japan has only three national holidays.

Suffer in Silence

Thousands of Women

suffer every month in silence, tortures that would drive a man to the edge of despair. The ailments peculiar to women are not only painful but dangerous and should receive prompt treatment before they grow worse. If you suffer from pain, irregular functions, falling feelings, headache, side ache, dizziness, tired feeling, etc., follow the example of thousands of women who have been relieved or cured, and take Wine of Cardui.

Sold by all Druggists

WINE OF CARDUI

C 7

Carlyle's Bad Shilling.

A farmer in Manitoba wears on his watch chain a blackened metal disk with an interesting history. Thirty years ago the farmer was a ticket agent in the railway station in Dumfriesshire, England. One day Thomas Carlyle took a ticket for a short run by rail and laid down a shilling. The clerk, eager to obtain a souvenir of the famous countryman, secured the coin. Ultimately, although sorely against the grain, he was driven to part with the treasured Carlyle shilling. But it would not stand the ring test. Somebody had palmed off on the "sage of Chelsea" a spurious shilling.

FITS, St. Vitus' Dance: Nervous Diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. H. R. Kline, Ld., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Dancers in India wear nose rings set with precious stones.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle

Raw cotton was first brought to England from Cyprus in the year 1600 and made into fustian and dimity.

Six new English peerages are created by the king's list of birthday honors.

WORST FORM OF ECZEMA

Black Splotches All Over Face—Affected Parts Now Clear as Ever—Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

"About four years ago I was afflicted with black splotches all over my face and a few covering my body, which produced a severe itching irritation, and which caused me a great deal of annoyance and suffering, to such an extent that I was forced to call in two of the leading physicians of my town. After a thorough examination of the dreaded complaint they announced it to be skin eczema in its worst form. They treated me for the same for the length of one year, but the treatment did me no good. Finally my husband purchased a set of the Cuticura Remedies, and after using the contents of the first bottle of Cuticura Resolvent in connection with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, the breaking out entirely stopped. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for six months, and after that every splotch was entirely gone and the affected parts were left as clear as ever. The Cuticura Remedies not only cured me of that dreadful disease, eczema, but other complicated troubles as well. Lizzie E. Sledge, 540 Jones Ave., Selma, Ala. Oct. 28, 1905."

Divorce Among the Burmese.

The marriage customs of the Burmese are simple in the extreme. A man and woman are married or are not married, according to whether they live as husband and wife or not. A man may have several wives, though in practice he rarely has more than one.

A woman may have only one husband. Divorce is a matter for the village elders. No court is necessary, no decree, no appeal to legal or ecclesiastical authority. Divorce is but the breaking of a status. A wife retains control of all her property when married; she has a half share in all property acquired during marriage. If she is divorced, she takes her own property and half that jointly acquired. There is no blending of her authority with that of her husband. She may do what she will with her own.

There is no rule of primogeniture and no power of bequeathing property by testament. All the children inherit equally. No Buddhist may make a will. Whatever a man or woman dies possessed of must be divided according to the rules of consanguinity. There is no preference of either sex. All children are equal in this matter. The eldest son shares alike with the youngest daughter.—Lahore Tribune.

A Vital Point.

First Veteran Compositor—This here ignorant reporter has went and spelled "victuals" v-i-t-a-l-s.

Second Veteran Compositor—Well, fix 'er up an' shove 'er in. We've only got three minutes to go to press.

And in the paper the next morning the story ran:

"The verdict was that deceased came to his death from a pistol shot in the victuals."—Chicago Journal.

American Wheat in Italy.

American wheat has been introduced into Italy, the first cargo of 145,000 bushels arriving at Catania and Messina in March. This was macaroni wheat. The island of Sicily buys over $2,500,000 of wheat per annum, nearly all of it heretofore from Russia, and the consul thinks that the market for American wheat should be a good one.

NEVER TAKE POISON YOURSELF

And remember you have no right to give it to your WIFE AND LITTLE ONES

When you ask for medicine be sure that you take it pure and free from DANGER. In asking you to use OXIDINE in your home we do so because we know it will CURE CHILLS and FEVERS, BAD COLDS and LA GRIPPE, and because there never has been, there is not now, and there never will be the slightest particle of poison in it. If anyone tells you that this statement is untrue, point your finger to OUR GUARANTEE. We make this guarantee unconditional and open

TO THE WORLD

OUR GUARANTEE We will give $1,000.00 IN GOLD to any chemist in the world who finds any ARSENIC, MORPHINE, STRYCHNINE or other poisonous drugs in OXIDINE

Not only do we give the above guarantee as to its being free from Poison, but we go further and guarantee that

OXIDINE

WILL CURE YOU OR YOUR FAMILY OF

CHILLS, FEVERS, MALARIA, BAD COLDS AND LA GRIPPE

And if it fails to cure you your druggists give you back your money; in other words, OXIDINE is pure, contains no poison, and there is a GUARANTEE TO CURE that goes with every bottle.

MADE IN REGULAR AND TASTELESS FORM
50c Per Bottle to All
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS AND EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED

Manufactured by
PATTON-WORSHAM DRUG CO.
DALLAS, TEXAS, AND MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE

OXIDINE, THE CHILL CURE THAT CURES CHILLS

Webster's Retainers.

Edward M. Nason, superintendent of buildings for the state of New Hampshire, tells the following anecdote of Daniel Webster:

One day a man came to Webster's office and consulted him in regard to a prospective lawsuit. At the close of the conference he paid the attorney a retainer of $100 to look after the matter. Upon returning to his place of business he found that his partner had already settled the suit, obtaining the sum demanded without an attorney. He thought $100 was altogether too much for an office fee, so he dispatched his clerk to look after the subject.

"Mr. Webster," said the young man, "my employer thinks you should return a part of your retainer. That case has been settled."

"Young man," said the lawyer, "you go back and tell your employer than a retainer is something to be retained."—Boston Herald.

FADED TO A SHADOW.

Worn Down by Five Years of Suffering From Kidney Complaint.

Mrs. Remethe Myers, of 180 South Tenth St., Ironton, O., says: "I have worked hard in my time and have been exposed again and again to changes of weather. It is no wonder my kidneys gave out and I went all to pieces at last. For five years I was fading away and finally so weak that for six months I could not get out of the house. I was nervous, restless and sleepless at night, and lame and sore in the morning. Sometimes everything would whirl and blur before me. I bloated so badly I could not wear tight clothing, and had to put on shoes two sizes larger than usual. The urine was disordered and passages were dreadfully frequent. I got help from the first box of Doan's Kidney Pills, however, and by the time I had taken four boxes the pain and bloating were gone. I have been in good health ever since."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Even-Handed Justice.

Frank Smith has a number of mail-carrying contracts in San Francisco. His wagons take the mails to and from the postoffice and trains. He was not able to operate his wagons on the day of the earthquake, but he got them going the second day. The Postoffice Department complimented him for getting his wagons out the second day, but fined him for not having them at work the first day.

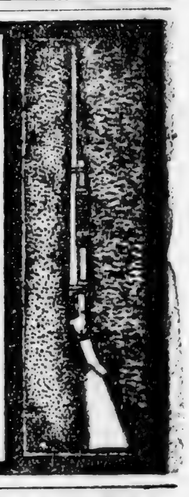
That reminds one of a mail carrier in Maine who took the mails part of the way in a canoe. One day the canoe upset and the carrier was drowned. The Postoffice Department sent an inspector up to the route, found how much of his route the carrier had covered up to the time he was drowned, and pro-rated his pay to that point.—San Francisco Argonaut.

WINCHESTER
REPEATING SHOTGUNS

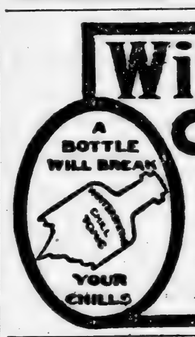
are strong shooters, strongly made and so inexpensive that you won't be afraid to use one in any kind of weather. They are made 10, 12 and 16 gauge.

A FAVORITE OF AMERICAN SPORTSMEN

Sold Everywhere.



Wintersmith's CHILL TONIC



CURES CHILLS AND ALL MALARIAL FEVERS.

Has been a standard household remedy for over 40 years. Pleasant to take; leaves no bad effects like quinine; harmless for children. Guaranteed by all druggists. Put up in 50c and $1 bottles. Sent express paid on receipt of price, if not on sale at the home drug store. Address

ARTHUR PETER & CO., General Agents, Louisville, Ky.

The Tulane University OF LOUISIANA

NEW ORLEANS.

EDWIN B. CRAIGHEAD, L. L. D., Pres.

The Tulane University of Louisiana, founded in 1847 as the University of Louisiana, is the logical head of the entire system of public educational institutions of the State.

Full courses are offered in Languages, Sciences, Engineering, Law, Medicine. Splendid department for women in Newcomb College. Tulane makes leaders in all vocations. Its facilities for instruction in engineering are unsurpassed. Unexcelled opportunities for the study of Sugar and Industrial Chemistry. Many Scholarships in academic department. Expenses low. Board and accommodations in dormitories at low rates. Next session begins October 1st. Send for catalogue. Address

B. K. BRUFF, Secretary.

Sport.

"Have good luck on your fishing trip?"

"No; poor. Guides awful scarce this season; only got one and winged another."

"Get any deer?"

"Oh, yes. Five or six."—Puck.

De safes' path fer er young niggah ter follow is de cotton row.

10,811,000,000 cigarettes were manufactured last year.

CAPUDINE CURES INDIGESTION and ACIDITY It acts immediately—you feel its effects in 10 minutes. You don't have to wait a week to know its good. It cures HEADACHES ALSO by removing the cause. 10 cents.

Am. 38, 1906.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 & $3.00 Shoes

BEST IN THE WORLD

W.L.Douglas $4 Gilt Edge line cannot be equalled at any price

To Shoe Dealers: W. L. Douglas' Jobbing House is the most complete in this country. Send for Catalog

SHOES FOR EVERYBODY AT ALL PRICES

Men's Shoes, $5 to $1.50. Boys' Shoes, $4 to $1.25. Women's Shoes, $4.00 to $1.50. Misses' & Children's Shoes, $2.50 to $1.00.

Try W. L. Douglas Women's, Misses' and Children's shoes; for style, fit and wear they excel other makes.

If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W. L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than any other make.

Wherever you live, you can obtain W. L. Douglas shoes. The name and price is stamped on the bottom, which protects you against high prices and inferior shoes. Take no substitute. Ask your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes, and insist upon having them.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy. Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Dept. 15, Brockton, Mass.

MONARCH STEAM PULLER

Fleet in Motion. Guaranteed for 12 months. Monarch Rubber Co., Lowell, Mass.

You Look Prematurely Old

Because of those ugly, grizzly, gray hairs. Use "LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER. Price, $1.00, retail.

Stylish Clothing For Young Men.

Make up your mind to have the best suit possible this season, it must be smart, the very latest weave and color. You can have all these things if you get an I. & S. Bing Suit.

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for spring wear is now complete, the styles are decided and we are showing absolutely correct styles. New Dress Goods, New Waist Goods, New Hats, New Shirts, New Neckwear.

Spring Models in Footwear

See our new line of Star Brand Oxfords for men, women and children. Our stock is complete and the prices are right. Let us show you the goods.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, - - Alabama.

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 FIRST AVENUE. BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Imported Jack "LIJE"

Fee $8.00, Insured

Stands for service at his owners', JOHN THAMES, 1 mile East of Rocky Mount Church, Beat 1.

"JUST A VOTER."

Well, I've been quiet for some time for there has got to be so many smart folks in our party that I'm getting kind of bashful. Now, that "Verbena Kid," isn't he a daisy? It is only when I realize that I live in Clanton that I get courage to come out, for that gives me an awful big advantage over common country folks; you see, we Clanton folks are the smartest in the world. I believe Mr. Gulledge is the only man on top of this globe that is as smart as we Clantonites, and he would not be so smart if it wasn't for the campaign committee he has here. Speaking of how smart we are here, we're so "cute" we've got careless, for instance, when we demmies fixed up our tickets for our primary, we left off some names ,and after the sheriff had sent the boxes out we had to have new tickets printed and have him go to the expense of sending them out again; now this was not because we didn't know better, but we were just so smart we were careless. A few cranks are making a great to-do over the fact that we did not send out a list of registered voters and a list of those who had paid poll tax in our primary on the 27th of August. Now, that was not because we didn't know that the law required us to do this, but we are smarter than the law. You see, we Democrats made the law and fixed it for Republicans and Populists to abide by. We've got so smart here in Clanton that these country folks can't understand us, and some of them are a little slow in going into our primary, so by not sending out these lists that the law says must be done, we got a larger vote, for the managers could not tell who were qualified to vote and who were disqualified, and they had to take all that came, so you see we made a bigger showing at our primary. We had over 500. Oh! I tell you, you can't get ahead of us. What! we folks in Clanton not smart? Such an idea; some Populist must have said that. Why, we hire a lawyer here and pay him $250 to fix up an advertisement for us to have an election to issue bonds here in Clanton, and then some mean people say that the advertisement is no good. By the way, there is another smart man in the county; that is Mr. Martin Sorrell, of Thorsby, Mr. Gulledge's campaign manager, but then folks say he mixed up so with the Republicans and Populists in the past few years (while he was growing) that he got most of his smartness from them. I tell you, Mr. Gulledge is too smart a man to put in a little place like representative; he's so smart the people can't understand why up at Jemison some time ago he liked to have got into a serious difficulty about something he said about The Union, and only saved himself by "taking it back"; he is always taking something back. But where did the ex-Pops appear in the Democratic primary? If a Democrat can barely get in, what chance is there for a Pop? But when some of these ex's get to peddling books and electioneering at the same time, look out, Demmies; your jobs will be in danger. I really think sometimes that I'll have to join the Democrats; I just feel my importance so much that it looks like I'll have to get in with a "cute" crowd But if I do join them, I'm going to be smarter than these Pops that have already joined, for I'm going to announce that I am a candidate for the balance of my life and four years after I'm dead. Now, some of you people may think that is funny about a fellow being a candidate when he is dead, but let me tell you, some of the candidates in the primary on August 27 were dead then and are dead now, and they don't realize it. I hear some one say, "How do you know you'll be a candidate if you join the Democrats?" Well, because no Populist ever joins the Democrats unless he wants office, or is a fool, and I know I'm not the last. It does look like if a Pop ever goes up in the Democratic party it will have to be in a balloon, and then as the gas explodes, down he comes, Pop! Pop!! I reckon after the great Democratic party gets through with these ex's the good Lord will sweep down and take them up in a chariot of fire, like he did to the other Elijah in olden times. Well, hasn't Bryan made a "bust?" Do you know, whenever I get scared thinking about Democratic success, I just remember how, if you give the Demmies a little time, and rope, they always hang themselves; it looms providential. Did you notice that cotton started down as soon as the papers began to talk of Bryan for President? I tell you, the Democrats down everything they try to manage. Now, Bryan has killed his chance, I reckon cotton will go up. I wonder what has become of Mr. Gulledge's Cotton Association? I reckon he thought he rode it into office, but, bless your soul, he got down too quick; they've all scattered. But Mr. Gulledge made a fine officer of that association, even if people do say that he sold all his cotton last year after he went to Texas, and all the time was telling the members of the association to hold their cotton. Say, I'm sort of anxious for the Adamses and the Sorrells to start their campaign; won't it be a show, though? But I want to say right here that we Democrats don't have to put out our strongest men for office, for you see we have had one sober, honest man for sheriff put in by the Democrats and he was not satisfactory to the bosses; he looked after his business too well and treated all men alike and that did not suit us. Yes, I tell you people right now, If we are to elect our officers we must boss the job. It has taken us Democrats twenty-five years to get a sober man in for sheriff, and he had to be appointed by the Governor, and we are not going to make such a mistake any more. JUST A VOTER.

TEACHER WANTED.

In Union Point School District No. 44, for a five (5) months school. Apply to JOHN S. DENNIS, J. P. tf.

Notice No. 20795.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 28, 1906.

Notice is hereby given that William F. Armstrong, of Clear Creek, Ala., has filed notice of his intention to make final five years proof in support of his claim, viz., homestead entry No. 32166, made September 6, 1899, for the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter, section 22, township 24 north, range 13 east, and that said proof will be made before clerk of Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on November 1, 1906.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of the land, viz.: Joseph M. Broadhead, W. Rufus Holditch, William M. Aldritch, Lee Busby, all of Calera, Ala.

ROBERT D. JOHNSTON,
8-30-06 tf Register.

CONGREGATIONAL H. M. SOCIETY

Fort Payne, Ala., Sept. 8, 1906.

Editor Union:

I purpose to visit churches of the Clanton conference as follows:

Fourth Sunday, September 23, Mountain Springs church, of Clanton, in the morning; Shady Grove church, of Verbena, at night.

Fifth Sunday, September 30, at Kingston.

First Sunday, October 7, Lightwood, in the morning; Marbury at night.

Second Sunday, October 14, Pine Grove church, of Deatsville, in the morning; South Calera at night.

Yours truly,
tf A. T. CLARKE.

Boll Weevil.

New Orleans.—The eastward migration of the cotton boll weevil, in which it is expected to cross the Mississippi river this year, is now proceeding rapidly, according to reports received by the state crop pest commission. Within the past month the pest has flown a distance eastward averaging forty miles.

In central Louisiana during the past week migrating weevils are reported to have traveled about fifteen miles. The nearest point from the state of Mississippi which the weevil has reached is Wilkinson county, a distance of thirty miles from Mississippi.

King Signs Decree.

Madrid.—King Alfonso has signed a decree nominating Marquis de Ojeda as ambassador to the vatican. This appointment is regarded as indicating a relaxation in the strained relations between Spain and the vatican.

Much Business on Docket.

Athens, Ga.—The city court of Athens convened Monday. There is much business on the docket.

Potted duck is now proved to be genuine, according to the Atlanta Journal, because the packing house employes are required to wear white duck suits

NEWSY GLEANINGS.

Boys of Newtown, Pa., dynamited a schoolhouse.

More than 1500 infants took part in the Coney Island baby show.

The annual report of the B. R. T. Railway showed large gains in earnings.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and the United States Express Company were accused of blacklisting.

Crop reports issued in Washington showed the condition of the corn crop to be much improved over last month.

The United States sued the Utah Fuel Company, a Gould corporation, to recover possession of 30,000 acres of coal land.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson told a deputation of meat packers that the labels on canned products must be explicit.

The Charleston, with Secretary Root on board, arrived at Callao; the party at once went to Lima, and received a warm welcome.

It was announced that the suicide president of the Real Estate Trust Company, of Philadelphia, held life insurance policies for only $7500.

Comptroller Metz discovered that New York City owns $1,200,000 worth of land at Coney Island overlooked since John Y. McKane's time.

Mayor McClellan, of New York City, requested the resignation of Park Commissioner Walgrove, of The Bronx, and appointed Joseph I. Berry.

Walter R. Addicks, Vice-President of the Consolidated Gas Company, testified that the actual cost of gas per 1000 cubic feet was 69.36 cents during 1905.

The German army maneuvres were marked by an engagement between the cavalry and artillery divisions; motor cars have had a prominent part in the operations.

Thorsby, Alabama

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. HORN
LICENSED PHARMACIST.
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

Thorsby Winery Co.
Lofthus & Brunberg, Props.

Thorsby Real Estate
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, Pres.
G. H. GERALD, Sec.
G. C. MICHELSON, Treas.

OLAF SCHIV
Watchmaker & Jeweler
FRANZEN, BUILDING
Full line of watches jewelry etc. Repair work guaranteed.

A. Langville & S
Blacksmith and Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BUGGIES

P. C. SMITH
Brown Leghorn Fowls and Eggs.
BERKSHIRE PIGS

The Thorsby In
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.

J. J. Stanley
General Merchandise

MRS. MARY R. RASBERR
General Merchandise

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens.

. . The . . Sermon in San Francisco's . . Stones . .

By H. H. Suplee.

THE ruins of San Francisco mark the failure of ordinary [illegible] set with ordinary care, in ordinary lime mortar. The mings of fancy tile, of moulded terra-cotta, of marble, granite, or other stone, all went down in the fire after having been shattered by the tremor. Such work at its very best is almost inelastic and cannot be expected to stand heavy vibration, and it is not often at its best. San Francisco should grasp the occasion so to revise its building laws as to check the use of any such dangerous construction, and open wide the opportunity to encourage the use of the one appropriate system of construction for such purposes, that of reinforced concrete. While many and varied systems, so called, of reinforced-concrete construction are in service in all parts of the world, the principle is open to all, and proprietary interests cover only special modifications, so that there is no reason why this most appropriate, safe, and rapid method of construction should not be applied.

By using light skeletons of rod, small structural material, etc., wrapped with wire, and stretched with netting, the whole imbedded in first-class concrete, a method at once earthquake-proof, fireproof, and capable of effective artistic development, is found, and it is to this method that San Francisco should turn to rebuild her shops, town residences and moderate buildings. The method of construction also has the great advantage that much of the work under proper supervision, can be readily and rapidly done by unskilled labor, so that the labor cost, otherwise certain to be a heavy item in the rebuilding of the city, may be kept at a minimum. The experiments of Considere, though at first questioned, appear to have demonstrated the fact that properly imbedded metallic rods increase the elastic limit of concrete to a great extent, probably by distributing the stresses throughout the mass and preventing the localization of strains as would otherwise cause the formation of cracks. If this fact alone shows the immediate applicability of reinforced concrete to the reconstruction of the shattered and burned buildings to which the [illegible] steel-case system cannot be applied.—Harper's Weekly.

Subscribe for this paper

COLLEGE BOYS ON FARMS.

A Place for Graduates to Learn Applied Economics.

Kansas has sent forth her annual cry for harvest hands. She wants 21,000 young men to bring in her crops from the fields, and offers the usual promises of "high wages." As usual, Kansas so times her demand that the colleges have turned out their thousands. The quota of workers will be largely made up of college graduates, who will here learn their first valuable lessons in the practicalities.

They will work blisters on their hands and their muscles will ache from two months of unrelieved physical toil, at any price their shrew employers choose to pay, for, being far from home and moneyless, they may not rebel.

All of which is a wholesome experience for young men who thus learn the ways of the world. In addition to learning to earn their own living in the sweat of their faces, and to bear disappointment, they may in Kansas learn much of applied economics, for every Kansas farmer is a past master of larger politics, and, knowing how to run a state, so runs it. Sitting at the feet of such wisdom the young collegian cannot but absorb much knowledge that will benefit him and his community when he shall have journeyed home—by the best route.

Indeed, it would be well to make obligatory upon all college men to serve a turn in the Kansas fields to fit him for the affairs of life. Kansas is something of a "model state" in its governing, and its older citizens are qualified professors of political economy.

It should be recognized as a university and all young men compelled to attend it, as those in Germany are compelled to serve a term in the army. "Graduate of Kansas" would be a certificate of worthy citizenship.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Silk waists for travelling will always be favored, for while they do not look so fresh at the beginning of the journey their appearance on arrival at the journey's end is far more attractive than a soiled and rumpled linen.

Alabam
irectory.
horsby Real Estate
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, Pres.
G. H. GERALD, Sec.
G. C. MICHELSON, Treas.
OLAF SCHIV
Watchmaker & Jeweler
FRANZEN, BUILDING
Full line of watches jewe
e. Repair work guaranteed
. Langville & So
Blacksmith and Horseshoer
DEALER IN
AGONS AND BUGGI
P. C. SMITH
rown Leghorn Fowls a
Eggs.
ERKSHIRE PIG
he Thorsby In
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.
J. J. Stanley
General Merchandise
MRS. MARY R. RASBER
General Merchandise
J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens.
e . .
Francisco's es . .
plee.
mark the failure of ordinary bric in ordinary lime mortar. Tr
olded terra-cotta, of marble, gr ed down in the fire after havi mon. Such work at its very best ot be expected to stand heavy at its best. San Francisco sho evise its building laws as to ch erous construction, and open w e one appropriate system of c d concrete. While many and ete construction are in service n to all, and proprietary interes re is no reason why this most uction should not be applied.
structural material, etc., wrap whole imbedded in first-class c fireproof, and capable of effecti o this method that San Francis ences and moderate buildings. T advantage that much of the wo d rapidly done by unskilled la be a heavy item in the rebuildi
The experiments of Considere emonstrated the fact that prope limit of concrete to a great exte thout the mass and preventing ause the formation of cracks, capability of reinforced concrete rned buildings to which the la r's Weekly
this paper un a state, so runs it. Sit he feet of such wisdom the yo rkian cannot but absorb wledge that will benefit h his community when he journeyed home—by the box deed, if would be well to mak gatory upon all college men
e a turn in the Kansas fields best possible postgraduate co t him for the affairs of life.
is something of a "model st s governing, and its older citi qualified professors of pol omy.
should be recognized as a
and all young men compelled nd it, as those in Germany
pelled to serve a term in the duate of Kansas" would ficate of worthy citizenship
s Globe-Democrat.
lk waists for travelling be favored, for while they look so fresh at the beginning journey their appearance on at the journey's end is far ctive than a soiled and
.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL, SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL IV. CLANTON, ALA., SEPTEMBER 27 1906 NO. 30

W. WADSWORTH ACCEPTS.

...Autauga Co., Ala.,
September 24, 1906.

...nomination for ...ands of the Re... Autauga, Chilton and ...which compose the ...district of our ...after soliciting ...in my behalf, ...against my op... of Autauga, but ...upon my character ...position to which ...sought this nor ...been nomi... by the el... I feel that I am ...so if I should be ...here state my plat... some reasons why ...roads, and as an ...fact and state that I ...road overseer in ...road overseer a ...since ever since, and ...overseer in my ...will say without ...that in the past ...spent on the public ...to keep up the road ...men in Autauga count ...to do so.

...favor internal improve... they are great devel... country.

...cause of education and ...of the girls of our ...believing that when a girl ...the nation receives the ...when you educate a boy ...educate the generation. ...of my love for the ...cause. I will state that ...trustee for the public ...than thirty years, dur... time I have never ...meeting of the school board, ...the teacher from my ...never allowed an or...phan child to pay any supplement for tuition in the public school of my district. I have recently constructed at my own expense, near Rushton, Ala. one of the best built country school houses in the state. I was for nearly five years a state trustee for the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo, during the building of the school. I labored earnestly for the school to be located at Montevallo, and was successful in securing that place as a location. During the time I was on the school board I was the only trustee that never missed a meeting. If there is any one thing in the world I wish to see a success it is the Montevallo school, which is very near to my heart. When funds ran low at the time of building the school I used my own personal funds and credit, and when the architect was taken sick and unable to perform his duties, I continued the work without him, and when he died I did not employ another architect, but had the work carried on under my supervision at a very great sacrifice of my private interest. Although tendered pay for this work, I would not accept it, but stated to the board that every dollar I could contribute to that school would be given.

I favor liberal appropriations for old soldiers (no bums), having been one of the number, and the many wounds that my body bears are substantial evidence that I was at the front. When the veteran camps were established in the Southern States my comrades in Autauga county did me the honor to name their camp for me, though I was only a private—something that will seldom be found among the many Confederate veteran camps that exist. This honor I appreciate more highly than anything that has ever been bestowed upon me, and no old soldier nor his widow have ever been denied anything in the way of necessities that I could supply to them. For years I have been furnishing more than one old soldier a home, and when one dies his widow occupies the premises as long as she wishes without charge. Many old soldiers, to my knowledge, were forced to shoulder arms during the period of '61-65; they were taken there without their consent, and now in their old age it is truly the State's duty to at least give them comforts to live on in their fast declining days, for at the rate they are now passing away a few more years and we will all be numbered with the past.

I favor rate reform of railroads, but not to the extent of injuring the roads, for I want the roads to stay in the hands of their proper owners, my past experience in dealing with railroad officials having demonstrated to me that they can, and will, conform to all reasonable regulations. I believe that corporations of all kinds should be compelled to obey all laws the same as an individual citizen, and that there should not be one rate for service to the rich and another to the poor, but give all the same service for like compensation. I believe in "equal rights to all special privileges to none." I am a Republican because I believe in Republican principles, which give to us a sound and flexible currency, and also a tariff on all articles imported, as well as an internal revenue tax, that brings sufficient revenue to furnish sufficient funds to pay all government expenses properly administered. As I do not drink whisky, I do not have any tax to pay on it, but the man who drinks the whisky he must pay it. I believe that the tariff on necessaries should be as low as possible and very high on luxuries.

If you can consistently vote for me I will appreciate the favor and will so strive to do my duty by you, if elected, that you will not regret having supported me.

Yours respectfully,
W. W. WADSWORTH.

CORINTH.

...of this section were ...last Saturday ...A. C. Smith and Hon. ...Middleton came down and ...the political issues ...

...presided as ...the speakers. ...introduced first ...ess. He appealed ...work out the po... and decide for them... ...believed to be right; ...that this was a young ...and the young men of ...were being called ...political activity. The ...stress on the fact that ...men of Chilton county ...their rightful position ...government they must ...prejudice and look at con... ...practical way, and urged ...aside that old, time-worn ...daddy was a Democrat," ...of this country shows ...Democratic party is wrong. ...dealt at length on condi... ...State and county, and ...scathing arraignment of ...party. He compli... ...the personnel of ...nominated in the People's ...were in every ...of the suffrages of the ...county. The colonel's ...a good one, and he made ...on his hearers.

...next introduced ...Middleton as the ...Chilton ...began by ex... ...that so many ...honored him by ...regrette! ...Coolidge, was ...at a month ...was frothing ...discussion. ...twice it had ...to meet him ...an ap... Corinth on ...and that ...Manager, W. M. ...that Mr ...that time. ...could not at... this time. ...turned into a ...fallacies ...and showing ...Republican policies were ...ever since the days of Jef... Jackson, he said, has the ...party had anything like ...unanimity in its ranks; ...Democratic party was a heter... ...of conflicting and con... The history of the Dem... presented the cowardly ...spectacle of the party ...dictated an avowed protec... President and a free trader ...Speaker de... ...showed that the party stood not for principle, but for place. He said that the Democratic party had been in the uninterrupted control of the state for thirty years and that during all this time they had failed to bring the state up to that high place of power and development which it should rightly occupy. He said that Alabama, in natural resources, stood away up at the top, but that from an educational standpoint she was today groping along about the tail end of the column. He charged the Democratic party with this deplorable condition and said that it was time for the people of Alabama to repudiate that party. He said it was the duty of Alabama to educate its boys and girls and it was amply able to do so; in speaking of this duty Mr. Middleton grew very eloquent, and drew a touching picture of the poor boys and girls all over Alabama struggling for an education, and who were not being equipped for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship simply because the Democratic party had failed to do its duty. He said that there was an awakening all over Alabama; that the people were coming to their own, and the time was not far distant when they would repudiate the intolerant Democracy and the Republicans would control the state. Although Mr. Middleton continued to assert that he was not making a speech, he did, in fact, make a splendid speech, and his argument was unanswerable. He paid a graceful tribute to the ladies and thanked them for honoring him with their presence. Mr. Middleton spoke for an hour and commanded the closest attention throughout.

Mr. Manning, at the conclusion of Mr. Middleton's speech, introduced Mr. Felix J. Fitts as the "next sheriff of Chilton county." Mr. Fitts, in a graceful way, thanked the people for their support in the primary, and that he felt confident that those who were against him then were for him now. He promised a faithful discharge of duty if elected, and said, "We want Mr. Middleton to make our laws and I will certainly execute them."

Chairman Manning then took the floor and made an interesting talk. He urged the people to stand by Mr. Middleton, and said that his speech showed that he was able to take care of himself and our interests in the legislature. He said we needed a man for the legislature who would go as the servant of the people, and not a man who would write down a few things, call it a "platform," and put it through simply because he liked it himself.

Mr. Anderson Baker, Sr., next took the floor and make a good talk, complimented the whole ticket, and paid a fine tribute to the character and worth of Mr. Fitts.

Mr. Gulledge was invited, but did not attend; it is said that he is still sick.

THORSBY.

The Republicans of Chilton, Shelby and Autauga counties, comprising the Fifteenth Senatorial district, held a meeting here Wednesday, September 19, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Senator. A fuller account of the meeting will be found in another column.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has a force of men here working on its long distance line.

Mrs. J. R. Parnell is visiting her mother at Billingsley.

Miss Maude Gerald left Saturday morning for Minneapolis, Minn. Miss Gerald has made many warm friends while she has been in Thorsby and she will be greatly missed by them.

Mr. Sarber has sold the water works to P. C. Smith. He is now putting in new pipes and overhauling the plant, preparatory to turning it over to the new owner. He has also placed a fire-plug near the railroad in front of Parnell's store.

P. W. Peterson and family returned to Thorsby September 22, after a pleasant visit with relatives in the North.

Work has been begun on the Baptist church, will be located one block north of Jones street.

The public school house and premises are being put into shape for the opening of school October 1. William Foss is doing the painting and H. Ellefson the carpenter work.

Charles A. Adkins, of Mountain Creek, was here on the 21st trying to organize a lodge of the National Benevolent Society.

Ernie Hanson made a business trip to Montgomery Monday.

Rev. A. T. Clarke went to Clanton on the 21st, after spending several days here.

C. F. Wheelock, of Fixico, spent Sunday with his family here. Mr. Wheelock and daughter, Miss Daisy, returned to Fixico Monday morning.

D. H. Gentry is running the cotton gin for J. Bice.

Dairying seems to have taken a great hold on many of the people here. Quite a number of registered and grade Jersey cows were bought, recently, M. J. Barrett, J. A. Carlson, S. E. King, L. Y. Anderson, K. A. Ekblad, H. H. Dahl and C. M. Johnson being among the purchasers. Dairying surely pays, and it ought to receive more attention.

The attendance at Thorsby Institute is growing, and quite a number of new local pupils will come in when cotton picking is over. The school is also in correspondence with a number of prospective students and some of them are expected soon.

To THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY.

It has been agreed that the joint discussion of the issues of the day between Mr. F. A. Gulledge and Mr. J. O. Middleton shall take place at the following times and places:

Beat 10, Corinth Church, Tuesday, October 2, 7 p. m.

Beat 6, Fairview Church, Thursday, October 4, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Pleasant Grove Church, Friday, October 5, 7 p. m.

Beat 4, Littlejohn school house, Saturday, October 6, 7 p. m.

Beat 9, Collins' Chapel, Monday, October 8, 7 p. m.

Beat 10, Bethel Church, Tuesday, October 9, 7 p. m.

Beat 6, New Cedron Church, Thursday, October 11, 7 p. m.

Beat 8, Pilgrim's Rest Church, Friday, October 12, 7 p. m.

Beat 8, Riderville, Saturday, October 13, 7 p. m.

Beat 7, Maplesville, Tuesday, October 16, 7 p. m.

Beat 7, Sardis Church, Thursday, October 18, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Macedonia, Friday, October 19, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Benson's Cross Roads, Saturday, October 20, 7 p. m.

Beat 1, Blow's school house or church, Monday, October 20, 7 p. m.

Beat 1, Union Church, Tuesday, October 30, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Jemison, Wednesday, October 31, 10 a. m.

Beat 2, Rocky Mount, Wednesday, October 31, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Providence, Thursday, November 1, 7 p. m.

Beat 9, Cedar Grove Church, Friday, November 2, 7 p. m.

Beat 11, Cane Creek Church, Saturday, November 3, 7 p. m.

Beat 4, Walnut Grove Church, Monday, November 5, 7 p. m.

WM. M. ADAMS,
Chm. Dem. Cam. Com.
A. C. SMITH,
tf Chm. Rep. Cam. Com.

Program for Alabama Home-Coming and State Fair, Birmingham, Ala.

Monday, October 15—Governor's Day and registration day for Home-Comers.

Tuesday, October 16—Old Alabama Day, for Home-Comers. Speeches by distinguished Alabamians. Grand reunion. Horse show free for registered Home-Comers at night.

Wednesday, October 17—Farmers' Day, Alumni Day. Opening of grand tournament.

Thursday, October 18.—Merchants' and Traveling Men's Day. Finals to grand tournament and awarding of prizes. Free concert. Singing of prize Alabama song.

Friday, October 19—Birmingham Day, Children's Day. Excursion over district for Home-Comers. Grand ball at night.

Saturday, October 20—Home-Comers' farewell. Appropriate exercises. tf

(Communicated.)

Thorsby, Ala., Sept. 26, 1906.

Editor The Union, Clanton, Ala.:

Dear Sir—In the Banner of August 30 I noticed an article by Rev. H. F. H. Hartelius criticizing the article against the Concordia Land and Improvement Association, which appeared in The Union of August 9. Although the article is rather lame, and the "Ghost" has evidently not considered it worthy of a reply, I think that some of the impressions which it seeks to create are misleading and ought to be corrected.

In the article by the "Ghost" there was no reflection whatever on the conduct of Rev. Hartelius—not a word to indicate that he had done anything blameworthy or censurable. Neither was there a single statement which the reverend gentleman has denied in his reply. Why, then, has he replied at all? Was it because of love of truth or was it because of a bias in favor of the parties attacked? Or was it because they could not reply themselves and wanted someone else to do it for them?

In his article the reverend gentleman asks why "the Ghost did not state It as a fact that Professor ——— first insulted and assaulted Mr. ——— etc." Very likely it was not stated as a fact because that was precisely what the professor was tried for, and he was found not guilty. And the disturbance was not conducted quietly, as the reverend gentleman insinuated, for, either during or immediately after the assault, talking or shouting at the "scene of action" was very loud and was heard by several persons hundreds of yards away and even on the other side of the railroad.

I shall say nothing more at this time about the matter, or about the party's well known friendship with the parties attacked by the "Ghost," though more could be said. I shall simply state that a minister of the gospel—of all men—ought to be most careful to keep himself free from all entanglements of questionable business friendships or dealings. Yours truly,

"LOVER OF FAIR PLAY."

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for sheriff of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people at the November election, 1906.

ROLLEFFE BATES.

adv (tf)

SOUTH BESSIE.

Probably a few lines from beautiful South Bessie may be interesting to some of your many readers. Did we say beautiful? Yes. Why, in addition to other reasons, many can call this locality home, and there is no place on the earth where the birds sing more sweetly, or the golden sunlight of evening has more charms as its bright beams of each day fade away and yield to the evening stars; where mother, sweet mother, has caressed her darling child. Go where he will no place can ever supplant childhood's happy home, sweet home.

Thomas Moore, in eulogizing the sweet evening bells, said:

"Then so it will be when I am gone,
The tuneful peal will still ring on,
While other bards shall walk these dells
And sing thy praise, sweet evening bells."

Prof. Walker's school closed here Friday. The professor left next day for his home at Plantersville.

Mr. Erven, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Maude, left for Aliceville Saturday, where Miss Maude will enter school.

Joseph Waldrup, of Ocampo, was here Sunday. Jody Atchison accompanied him home. Mr. Atchison will make that part his home for awhile.

We notice the cane crops are beautiful. The pea crop promises a fine yield; looking at the lovely pea blooms we think of the poet Logan, when addressing the cuckoo, who said:

"Soon as the pea puts on the bloom
Thou fliest the vocal vale."

But some writer has discovered that the sweetest of all sweet peas are "Pardon, Peace, Purity, Paradise."

Mr. Jones and family have been spending some time at the Miller-Aldrich meeting at Jemison. They report the preaching very fine.

Well, this has been a year of conventions, and large gatherings. Never in the history of the county has there been so many in one year. Only a few more and the great gatherings of the year of 1906 will be in the past.

We are now on the fourth Sunday in September at the anniversary of the annual meeting of the well remembered Mulberry Baptist Association that in olden times drew such vast crowds of people from fifteen miles beyond Centreville, on the west to New Salem, on the east. Ah, we can almost hear many of the older people say, "Yes, I was there." We remember back in the seventies, at one of its sessions at Centre Hill, there were present such leaders as Hobson, Langston, Lee, Hicks, Honeycutt, Allen, Hill and others. Now we look around to see who is filling their places and we find W. A. Wood, S. Smitherman, J. M. Gothard, Thomas Meroney, that were present at that session, who are aided by others.

A section of the old Shelby Springs road running north and south through South Bessie is being revived. This is the road that Sheriff Cooley searched for when he was road apportioner and never could find, extending from Jimmy Atchison's to the Kelly York place.

Your correspondent took in the Sunday school convention at Jemison's Sunday, and among the good talks delivered we think none excelled Miss Nelia Johnson on the "Ideal Sunday School Teacher," showing that to be such required spirituality, a holy life. How true.

S. N. Waldrup was in Jemison Sunday attending the Miller-Aldrich meeting and Sunday school convention. Long live The Union.

"ONE OF THE BOYS."

PROGRAM

Beat 9 Sunday School Convention, to Be Held at New Salem Church, Sunday, September 30, 1906.

10 a. m. Devotional service, by the president.

10:30 a. m. "Advantages Gained by Superintendent Visiting Other Schools"—T. G. Williams.

11 a. m. "What Is the Home Department?"—A. Horn.

11:30. "Sunday School Ditches—Why We Fall Into Them"—J. W. Hayes.

"How to Get Out of Them"—William M. Pierce.

12. Report of secretary and report and enrollment of delegates.

12:30. Dinner.

Afternoon.

2 p. m. "What Is the Best Method of Getting Our Churches Interested in the Sunday School?"—W. J. Billingsley.

2:30 p. m. "Teaching in the Primary Department"—Mrs. S. E. Morton, Miss Mary C. Gibson.

3 p. m. "How to Interest Young People in the Sunday School"—J. J. Stanley T. W. Caton.

COMMITTEE.

Opposition is growing in Germany to the present system of education, which gives so much time to the study of dead languages.

Professional Cards.

William M. Adams,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
OFFICE; Room 1, Court House.
"Practices in all Courts
Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.
CLANTON, - - - ALA.

J. EARLE GOWAN,
DENTIST.
Office in Kicker Building
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

A. C. Smith,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in All Courts
Office 6th St. opp. Court House
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON
Office at Residence
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

J. Osmond Middleton,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St. Court House
CLANTON, -:- ALABAMA

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tyson Mullins' Building
CLANTON

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
To
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

LAND FOR SALE.

Eighty acres land in Beat 10, close to Cooper's. For sale cheap. Call on or address L. H. GENTRY,
Mt. Creek, Ala.
tf R. F. D. No. 4.

MEETS ITS MATCH

Warfare is Begun by the Lobor Unions of the Country.

MAY TIE UP THE BUSINESS.

Fight, Which Begins With Strike in Indiana Town, Likely to Spread Through the West.

Chicago, Ill.—The Chronicle says: Warefare between the Standard Oil Company and the labor unions of the country was begun when the Whiting, Ind., employes of the company quit work to enforce their demands for an increase in wages. The strike, which already threatens to tie up the business of the big corporation in the Middle West, is likely to assume gigantic proportions before it is ended.

It was predicted it might involve all of the employes of the company in the country and become a general one. Already the Chicago labor unions are preparing to seize the opportunity presented by the Whiting strike to make trouble for the company.

The Chicago men were wholly unprepared for the trouble, which started at Whiting because of the fact that the employes there were not members of a union, but after a hasty conference it was said that they would support the men that went out and that no one from Chicago would take their places.

Three hundred firemen employed by the Standard Oil Company left their places. More than 5,000 employes who are working with the firemen are scheduled to leave their places Monday morning. These include engineers, skilled mechanics, laborers and others, the officials of which said they would refuse to permit the members of their organizations to work with new men who might be put to work in the places of the strikers.

The strike of the firemen was called because the representatives of the Standard Oil Company refused to advance wages from 22 1-2 cents an hour to 25 cents an hour and agree to grant to all of the workmen the eight-hour day. They also refused to recognize the union.

Russian Campaign Opens.

St. Petersburg.—Active work in the autumn electoral campaign was inaugurated by the Octoberists, who opened the Kazan congress with delegates from twelve of the Volga provinces and the vast central districts of Russia in attendance. The main subject of discussion was consolidation with the peaceful regenerationists and a plan to give the twelve provinces a preponderation voice in the national convention. Alexander Guchkoff, the Octoberist leader, was present, laboring tooth and nail.

Owing to the failure of the Octoberists to obtain official sanction the congress was held behind closed doors, and members of the press were excluded.

The most remarkable development of the week has been the change in sentiment concerning the late General Trepoff. The universal chorus of malediction and condemnation has given place since his death to a non-partisan appreciation of his real merits and defects, and his career has been the subject of fair and even laudatory criticisms in nearly all circles.

Improvements in Opelika.

Opelika, Ala.—The improvements in this city are marked this fall. Four handsome store houses have just been finished, and one is nearing completion. Mr. Sam Dakes' two new stores on Avenue A are very attractive; Mr. Ralph Williams' store, occupied by Ingram Bros., on Eighth street, is handsome, as is Mr. A. L. Dowdell's, on South Railroad street. The store houses owned by W. C. Harrell, on Ninth street, and by T. H. Clower, on Eighth street, have been made into beautiful and attractive buildings.

Institute Closes.

Albertville, Ala.—The Marshall County Annual Teachers' Institute closed a two days' session at High Point, five miles west of town. The institute was attended by a large number of the teachers and several visitors from other places.

Armour Will Not Retire.

Chicago, Ill.—Representatives of Armour & Co. declare that there is no truth in the report that Mr. Armour is about to close out his holdings in Armour & Co. to the Swifts. It was declared that Mr. Armour was not anxious to retire from business, and probably would not do so for many years.

Gobbled by Standard Oil.

H. Clay Pierce, chairman of the board of Waters-Pierce Oil Company, admitted during an examination in St. Louis that Standard Oil gobbled his company under protest after being the cause of Texas ousting the independent company.

Corn and Cotton Records.

Nothing but a heavy early frost can, apparently, prevent a record yield of corn and cotton.

RACE RIOT

Negroes Dragged From Street Cars and Beaten to Death. Citizens Are Furious.

EIGHT COMPANIES OF MILITIA

Called Out by Governor, but They Are Only Jeered at by Crowds as They Appear on Streets.

Atlanta, Ga.—Four attempts at assault on white women by negroes within or near the limits of the city wrought white citizens here to a high pitch of excitement Saturday night. The assaults of Saturday followed two others of a similar nature within the past week, and at least half a dozen others within the last two months, and brought a climax Saturday night.

At midnight Governor Terrell issued an order calling out eight companies of the Fifth infantry and one battery of light artillery. This order was not issued until three negroes had been killed and fifteen taken to the hospitals, five of whom will die. These include only those cases of which the police have official knowledge.

The local newspaper men claim the number of dead is larger.

Pull Negroes From Street Cars and Beat Them.

The mob began its work in the evening, pulling negroes from street cars and beating them with clubs, bricks and stones. Black men and women innocently riding to their homes after the work of the day were ruthlessly torn from the cars or attacked on the streets. In a few cases negroes retaliated during the early part of the night, but after 10 o'clock they were scarce in public places.

The fire department was called out to disperse the mob on Decatur street, a street most frequented by negroes, and for a time seemed to hold the crowd at bay. The police reserves were called out and held the fort until the troops could be mobilized.

The mob seemed to lack leadership, and this doubtless prevented greater slaughter.

Takes Form of Active and Bitter Race War.

The disturbance here has taken the form of an active and bitter race war. The incidents of the day, which were given in numerous extras by the local papers early Saturday evening, added immensely to the usual Saturday night crowds on the streets. A negro walking along Whitehall street, the principal shopping section, was attacked about 7 o'clock, beaten and escaped with few clothes.

The news of this attack spread rapidly, and within a few moments the appearance of a negro was the signal for a riot. The negroes scattered from the streets, going to their homes by back alleys, or flocked to Decatur street, the home of the tougher negro element.

Barber Shop Stormed and One Man Killed.

Soon street cars were attacked and negroes going to their homes were taken from the cars and beaten, stamped upon and in several cases fatally hurt. The barber shops where negroes were employed next became objects of attack. One of the hardest fights of the night took place about the postoffice. A negro barber shop across the street was the object of attack, and in less time than it takes to tell the shop was wrecked and the negroes were beaten, one to death, the other proprietors escaping by aid of the police.

Hard Fight Near Terminal Station.

On Peters street, near the Terminal railroad station, a hard fight took place. This was started by a negro shooting at the crowd below from a second story window. A brick hit him and he fell back and died in a few moments. One negro who was found with a pistol in his hands was beaten to death on the Forsyth street viaduct, in the center of the city and a block from the Associated Press office.

At 1:30 a. m. the down-town streets are quiet, occasionally a member of the local militia passes and is jeered and hooted by the mob. The possibility of retaliation by the negroes is among the serious things discussed in the streets and newspaper offices.

Tobacco Growers Meet.

Nashville, Tenn.—Between 25,000 and 30,000 people are attending the annual rally of the dark tobacco growers of Tennessee and Kentucky at Guthrie, Ky. A barbecue and speech-making were the features of the day. In the parade there were 1,500 negro tobacco planters in line.

Badly Scalded.

Florence.—William McKinney, engineer at the Florence ice factory, was dangerously scalded by falling into a tank of boiling water. He was walking beside the condensing tank when his foot slipped and he was precipitated into the boiling water. He was immediately rescued, but not before he had been badly scalded about the arm and shoulder. He will recover.

FROM CANADA TO MEXICO.

Harriman Plans System That Will Traverse the Entire Pacific Coast.

San Francisco, Cal.—It has been apparent for some time that Harriman was seeking to control the Pacific coast, and the Southern Pacific has announced the plans of the new coast line from Portland to San Francisco by the way of Eureka. The magnitude of the plans of Harriman have just been made public. When all has been completed he will have a railroad extending from the border of Canada to the heart of Mexico. It is announced that Harriman has succeeded in securing terminal right in the cities of Seattle and Tacoma.

The road from Portland to Seattle is now being built and will be completed in a year. This part of the line will compete with the Hill lines running from Portland to Seattle.

From Portland south along the coast the plans for a road have been in preparation by the officials of the Southern Pacific for some time. The line from San Francisco to Los Angeles is now in operation and will form another link in the long chain. From Los Angeles south the Sunset route will be used to Yuma, where the trains will turn along the shore of the Gulf of California to Guaymas to Guadalayjara, which road is now building, and orders have been received to rush construction as much as possible. From Guadalayjara the next step will be to the City of Mexico, and Harriman will have a line down the entire length of the Pacific coast.

Will Enter by Force.

San Pedro, Cal.—A fleet of eight gasoline launches started for Avalan, Catalina Island, having on board several hundred passengers who are going over with the avowed intention of making a landing on the island without paying the $2.25 per head which the Banning Company, owners of the island, demanded.

Commodore H. B. Keller, owner of the launch San Diego, is in command of the expedition and it is in the nature of a retaliatory measure, as the Southern Pacific Company and the Banning Company, who control the wharves here, have refused to give the San Diego a berth. The men on the launches are armed with wire nippers to cut the barbed wire fences which the Banning Company has placed along the shores at Avalon.

The matter of making Avalon an open port has been in the courts for over a year.

Will Fight for Money.

New Orleans, La.—A letter stating that about half a dozen of Colonel Roosevelt's former Rough Riders now at Phoenix Ariz., wish to enlist in Cuba to fight in the present imbroglio was made public here by Sam H. Selp, of Chicago, owner of a Cuban tobacco plantation. Mr. Selp said that the letter came from a former captain of Rough Riders, who commanded the men now seeking to enlist, and that it requested information as to which side paid the largest bounty for hired soldiers, the men having declared their intention to fight for the party paying the most money.

Weekly Holidays for Railroad Men.

Paris.—Although the railroads of France are specifically exempt from the operation of the Sunday rest law, the chairmen of the six leading railroad companies have notified Minister of Public Works Barthou that they have arranged to grant within eighteen months fifty-two holidays a year to their entire staffs, numbering inall 28,000 men.

The chairmen pointed out that it is impossible to make this day of rest fall on Sunday, but that it would come for the different men in rotation. This new system will place the railroad man on an equality with other workmen in the matter of holidays.

Mystery of Stolen Box.

Birmingham, Ala.—It is learned from an authentic source that the Jefferson county grand jury will continue the investigation of the stolen Lewisburg ballot box, containing the votes cast for Stiles and Higdon, candidates for sheriff.

According to this authoritative source the grand jury has investigated the matter to a certain extent, and the facts leading to a true bill are said to be fast crystallizing. During the recess this probing and investigating will be continued, and the jury expects to arrive at a conclusion immediately after reconvening, November 5.

Troops for Bulgarian Frontier.

Salonica.—Altogether 40,000 troops will be stationed along the Bulgarian frontier in the direction of Palanka, with headquarters at Istip, ostensibly for maneuvers. Another army corps will concentrate at Damumumaibala, and three battalions of artillery will be sent to Serres.

Furnace Will Blow In.

Gadsden.—It was announced that the charcoal furnace of the Quinn Furnace Company in this city would be blown in either Saturday or Sunday, everything being in readiness. The furnace has a capacity of seventy-five tons and has been idle several years. Since it has been out of commission the furnace has been completely remodeled and overhauled.

BABY ALIVE FIVE DAYS BESIDE DEAD MOTHER

Found Gasping Near Body When Door Was Broken Open.

INFANT BRAVELY FIGHTS DEATH

Mrs. Catherine Denham, a Lone Woman and a Fourteen-Months-Old Foundling Discovered in Brooklyn After Many Days.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Struggling for life with all the resoluteness of a prehistoric child and with the intelligence of a civilized one, John Boyle, fourteen months old, through five terrible days kept himself from death, though alone in a little flat in No. 4201 Third avenue, with the body of Mrs. Catherine Denham, his mother by adoption. He was found there by the dead woman's aunt, who, obtaining no answer to repeated calls, got a patrolman to break in the door of the flat for her. Mrs. Denham's body lay in the middle of the kitchen floor, close to the stove. Apparently, she had died of heart disease when about to light the fire five days before, for in her stiffened fingers a match was clutched, and the Coroner and ambulance surgeon said she had been dead at least that long. Beside the body little John was close to his last hour. He had eaten everything his strong young jaws could nibble, edible or inedible, and had come to the end of his strength. Yet so great was his vitality, medical men said he would pull through.

Little John's tongue was black and swollen with thirst when they found him. His voice had dwindled to a gasping whisper. One would have said his eyes were falling out of his head. The once rosy cheeks were sunken. His wrists and ankles had gone down to nothing. From top to toe he was as emaciated as children in the horror pictures of Indian famines. The fatal bloating of the stomach from prolonged starvation had not occurred, but it would have happened in a day or two—had the child survived his experience that much longer.

Guessing was all Mrs. Denham's sister, the policeman and the doctors could do when they gazed about the tiny flat and tried to imagine what had taken place there. It was enough. On all sides were strewn crusts the baby had gnawed until they became too hard even for his rare pluck to conquer. He had broken a milk bottle to get at the contents—at any rate, he had dragged the bottle off a low table and evidently had lapped up the milk off the floor when the glass was shivered. How he avoided swallowing splinters from the bottle was a mystery, yet the physicians found no symptoms that he had done so. The little chap, not old enough to toddle stoutly, nevertheless had swept the bottom shelf of the pantry bare in a hunt for food, and a chair placed near showed that the baby must have tried to climb up to reach the higher ones. A small pail which had contained lard was empty, licked empty by the starving baby, the neighbors believed. He had eaten flour from a broken bag until the agony of thirst made him stop.

Enough injurious substances went into that small stomach to kill an ordinary child. Physicians said a Fifth avenue baby would have succumbed in two days. Little John, being a waif—Mrs. Denham had adopted him from the Guardian Angel Home, Twelfth avenue and Sixty-fifth street—fought it out for five. Instinct led him to food as long as there was any to be had. When there was no more, he gnawed a little cloth horse stuffed with sawdust—gnawed it until his sharp little teeth worked through the cloth, and doubtless he swallowed a good deal of the stuffing. A rubber teething ring was found beside him, gnawed to shreds.

Small John evidently slept where sleep overtook him. There were signs that he had inhabited each of the three rooms. Fortunately, he was too young to think. A child a few years older, if not clever enough to unlock the door, might have died of fright at being shut in with a corpse. The baby had pulled at the old woman's hair—Mrs. Denham was close to sixty years—and tugged at her dressing sack in efforts to arouse her from the sleep of death. Failing that, he perhaps ceased to notice the body. Yet—whether by chance or instinct—he had fallen beside it when at last his little legs gave way under him, and his hand, shrunk to the seeming of a bird's claw, was stretched toward the dead woman.

Neighbors said they did not recall hearing the baby's cries. They hardly noticed the fact that Mrs. Denham was not in evidence in the first few days, and when at last they did, they assumed she had gone away on a visit.

Mrs. Denham became lonesome a year ago when her husband, William J. Denham, a civil engineer, died, and from the sisters of the Home of the Guardian Angel she obtained an orphan. In such a case a foster mother is allowed $8 a month for the care of the child, and this she accepted, as her husband's death had left her impoverished. Johnnie Boyle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Boyle, had died within a few weeks of each other soon after the death of Mr. Denham, and he had been in the home only a month when Mrs. Denham adopted him.

10,000 DEAD AT HONGKONG.

Six Hundred Fishing Junks Lost in the Great Typhoon.

Hongkong.—Six hundred fishing junks, the entire fleet, were lost in the typhoon. This increases the mortality to 10,000 persons. The dead here are being carried off in carloads. A relief subscription of $10,000 has been received from the Chinese of San Francisco.

Stylish Clothing for Young Men.

Make up your mind to have the best suit possible this season, it must be smart, the very latest weave and style. You can have all these things if you get an I. & S. Suit.

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for spring wear is now complete, the styles decided and we are showing absolutely correct styles in Dress Goods, New Waist Goods, New Hats, New Shoes, New Neckwear.

Spring Models in Footwear

See our new line of Star Brand Oxfords for men and children. Our stock is complete and the prices right. Let us show you the goods.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, - - Alabama

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind you've been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1
Weiler's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	1
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1
J. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1
Wilson Whiskey	85	1
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	1
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50
Old Mountain Due Corn	75
Old Lincoln County	65
Old Holland Gin	50
Old Crown Gin	75	1
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50
California Sherry or Port	50

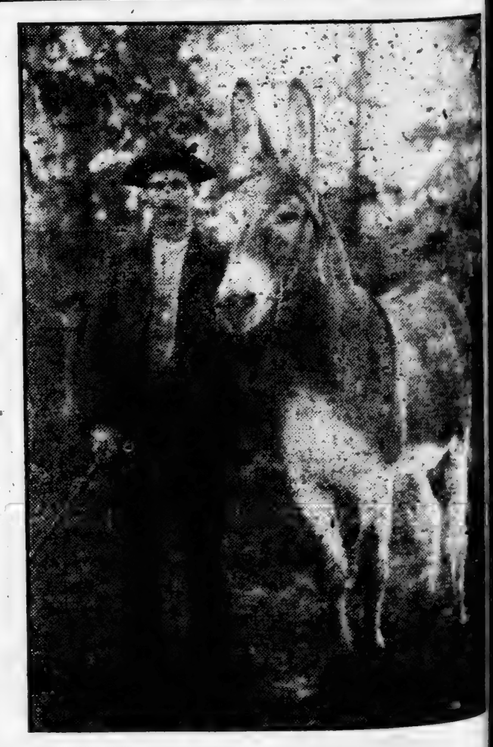
Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

Per Gallon			Per
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.



Imported Jack "LIJE

Fee $8.00, Insured

Stands for service at his owners', JOHN T... ½ mile East of Rocky Mount Church, Beat 1.

THE PULPIT.

EARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY REV. DR. F. W. GUNSAULUS.

Subject: The Shut Door.

New York City.—The Rev. Frank... Gunsaulus, D. D., LL.D., of Chi... is filling Dr. Donald Sage ...'s pulpit in the Collegiate ... of St. Nicholas, and Sunday ... to a very large congrega... preached on "The Shut ... His text was Matthew vi ... the Door." Dr. Gunsaulus ...

...h I could by some contrast ...ible for me and possible only ...experience of your own heart's ...ce the difference between ... ...d, as it comes to us load... ...finite love, and the chamber ...me out of recollection ... ...d, that might ... ...t the day ... ...s from which the world ... ...owing into the infinite ... ...'s life, into which we are in... ...al to that "Shut the ... ...s the instant demand ... ...upon American lives, with ... ...veins and arteries, its various ...ons and starry look and stupi... ...eet, is to get out of the whirl... ...r a voice speaking with de... ...thority saying to us as we ... ...e life, with its cares, duties, ...ents and contradictions, ... the door." This is the voice ...s. He is telling us the secret ...er, in the closet—secret pray... ...which the human soul comes ...into the presence of God; pray... ...which man finds his true alti... ...nd attitude; prayer in which ... man is able to look into me... ...perceiving the values of life, in ... he gains his spiritual heredity ...which he assumes his sonship ...ed through God's grace ... one thing that Jesus seems ...intent about, that you and I ... enjoy the privilege of prayer ...ceive its benefits, is all ex... ...d and emphasized in these ..."Shut the door." We are liv... a time when prayer is a fact ...force. The world of the mate... has passed; the world of the ...it is here. The scientists of to... telling us, "Let us pray." It ... strange that we should begin ...lize the unifying and exalted ...ce of prayer upon man's men... What, after all, is there to... life, when life's issues are so ...nd and even tragic, that will ...all one's powers—the powers ...mind and of the affections—as ...ayer? When I pray in secret ...unified as a man. If man is to ...made, if he is to be made whole ...t his various parts shall be no ...fragments, each afar from the ... he must be divinely unified. ...y brother, if that is to be your ...ence, "Let us pray." Here is ...aster coming quietly from the ...of Galilee into your heart and ... urging upon us, as the old ...harmonies of the religions of ...es sweep into His soul, urging ... only that we should pray, but ...alone. We see Him at Gethse... ...at the very crisis of His life, ...g Peter and James and John ... and going alone to pray. I ...the most significant announce... ...with regard to Saul, who was ...ome Paul, and his experience ...e road to Damascus was made ...sciously by the one who said, ...ld, he prayeth." What an en... ...transformation! What a pro... ...of his future!

...you think that Christ is calling ...o an easy task when He says ... the door?" Do you even know ...thway back to the old closet of ...days? The road is now all ...grown. But since that day there ...grown up brambles over the ...ay. First of all, we must find ...ath, if we are to find our man... ...and womanhood. Is it not an ...nding fact how little secret ... there has been in our lives? ...this passion for publicity has ... itself to our willingness to re... ...away from the secret place. ...a while ago, when we were in ...le, we found our way back. ...sweet it was! But that was not ... prayer, for we did not "shut ...oor." It was prayer with the ...wide open, through which we ...looking back at the things from ... we were trying to escape. You ...I can get back to that place," ...you quite sure that you can? ..."shut the door." How we like ...k out and see what the majority ...thinking—how our neighbors ...about things. How we want the ...just a little way open in order ... we may hear the sounds of the ...s of good causes, in which we ...terested! Surely, there is noth... ...wrong about that. "Shut the ... Let us take the words of ... into our hearts to-day as sim... ...as we can and sincerely accept ... "Shut the door. Why ..., you say, "that is something ...n do with one hand, while ... other things with the othe... No, both hands must be in... There must be no effort to ...things without. "Well," you ..."what shall I shut the door ...st, there are so many things ...which I must keep in touch ...t know; He says, "Shut the ... "But," you reply, "there is ...urch, my family, my relatives, ...ur friends." O, poor soul! if ...s such ordinary talk does it not ...e presence of the great, sweet ..., Who is saying, "Shut the ... I must be alone with God; I ...feel again my personal rela...hip to my Father; I must realize ... that if there were only one ...s in the world, and I were that ..., while the moral universe sub...d, still there must be a cross. ...a Christ, still Gethsemane, still ...morning of the ascension, still ...open sepulcher. The only way to ...id of our enemies is to "shut the ..." The real truth is that, when ...real crises of life come, my only ...ay is myself. This is the one I ...to conquer. Here are passions ...adices, hates, lusts. Oh, my ...nd, whatever your gain or loss ...like this, that never until you shut ...door will you go into the presence ...God; never until in secret prayer ...are alone with your enemies ...at can any man do to harm me ...ess I harm myself? If ever you ...tossed about upon seas of dark...

ing h
den.
ave the best suit possibl very latest weave and
s if you get an I. & S. in Furnishin is now complete, the sty absolutely correct styles oods, New Hats, New S
ls in Footwear
Brand Oxfords for me
k is complete and the pric goods.
JONES,
- Alaban
You Lik
S FOR LESS MONEY?
tting? Then send your or IL ORDER HOUSE
but the purest goods and g
If it's drugs or whiskies
THE PRICE.

	Our Price.	Regular
	75	1
	75	1
	75	1
	50	1
	60	1
	65	1
	75	1
	75	1
Rye	85	1
key	1 00	1
	1 25	1
	84	1
	1 00	1
	1 00	1
	1 00	1
	1 00	1
	85	1
	1 00	1
	1 25	1
	1 50	1
a headache	1 00	1
	50	1
	75	1
	65	1
	50	1
	75	1
	50	1
	50	1

Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per G
Old Mason's Pure Rye
Private Stock Virginia Rye
J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye
Old Style Country Club
Old Lincoln County
Richmond Club Virginia Rye
R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye

UG COMPANY,
Rate Drug Store
BIRMINGHAM, ALA

Jack "LIJE
00, Insured
s owners', JOHN TH
nt Church, Beat 1.

THE PULPIT.

REGULARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY REV. DR. F. W. GUNSAULUS.

Subject: The Shut Door.

The Rev. Frank ... LL.D., of Chi... Dr. Donald Sage ... the Collegiate ... and Sunday ... congrega... "The Shut ... Matthew vi:4 ... Dr. Gunsaulus ...

... contrast ... possible only ... own hearts ... between this ... us loaded ... commands ... tions of our ... some ... life, ... heart is al... ranges ... we are in... the Door." ... and, espe... life, with its ... its various ... ok and stum... t of the whirl ... with deep, ... to us as we go ... its cares, duties, ... contradictions. ... This is the voice ... telling us the secret ... closet—secret pray... human soul comes ... ne of God; pray... needs his true alti... prayer in which ... to look into mo... the values of life, in ... gains his spiritual heredity ... which he assumes his sonship ... God's grace.

... thing that Jesus seems ... about, that you and I ... the privilege of prayer ... its benefits, is all ex... and emphasized in these ... the door." We are liv... when prayer is a fact ... the world of the mate... the world of the ... The scientists of to... "Let us pray." It ... that we should begin ... unifying and exalted ... of prayer upon man's men... What, after all, is there to... when life's issues are so... and even tragic, that will ... all one's powers—the powers ... mind and of the affections—as ... When I pray in secret ... as a man. If man is to ... made, if he is to be made whole ... his various parts shall be no ... each afar from the ... be divinely unified. ... brother, if that is to be your ... Let us pray." Here is ... coming quietly from the ... of Galilee into your heart and ... upon us, as the old ... harmonies of the religions of ... sweep into His soul, urging ... only that we should pray, but ... We face Him at Gethse... ... the very crisis of His life, ... Peter and James and John ... and going alone to pray. I ... most significant announce... with regard to Saul, who was ... Paul, and his experience ... to Damascus was made ... by the one who said: ... he prayeth." What an en... information! What a pro... ... think that Christ is calling ... task when He says: ... Do you even know ... back to the old closet of ... The road is now all ... But since that day there ... up brambles over the ... First of all, we must find ... if we are to find our man... womanhood. Is it not an ... fact how little secret ... has been in our lives? ... passion for publicity has ... to our willingness to re... from the secret place. ... when we were in ... we found our way back. ... was. But that was not ... for we did not "shut ... It was prayer with the ... open, through which we ... back at the things from ... trying to escape. You ... back to that place." ... sure that you can? ... How we like ... and see what the majority ... — how our neighbors ... How we want the ... way open in order ... the sounds of the ... in which we ... Surely, there is noth... about that. "Shut the ... us take the words of ... into our hearts to-day as sim... we can and sincerely accept ... "Why ... that is something ... with one hand, while I ... with the othe... hands must be in... no effort to ... "Well," you ... I shut the door ... are so many things ... I must keep in touch?" ... He says, "Shut the ... you reply, "there is ... my family, my relatives, ... friends." O, poor soul! it ... ordinary talk, does it not, ... presence of the great, sweet ... Who is saying, "Shut the ... I must be alone with God; I ... again my personal rela... to my Father. I must realize ... if there were only one ... world, and I were that ... the moral universe sub... there must be a cross, ... still. Gethsemane, still, ... of the ascension, still ... sepulcher. The only way to ... our enemies is to "shut the ... The real truth is that, after ... crises of life come, my only ... myself. This is the one I ... conquer. Here are passions ... hates, lusts. Oh, my ... whatever your gain or loss ... that never until you shut ... will you go into the presence ... never until in secret prayer ... alone with your enemies ... can any man do to harm me ... I harm myself? If ever you ... about upon seas of dark ...

ness, it will be because you neglected to put the anchor on board and your ship is at the mercy of the waves. "Shut the door."

After all the limitations of life that are serious are the limitations that come to us through loved ones. If there is one thing that a man needs, it is in some holy and grand way to be separated from these friends. I know of no other right, gentle and loving way but the way of prayer, and as I shut the door. Inside of that door I will never lose my power of friendship, my soul's friendship is real, lighting her altar fires for her friend, and when the prayer is over and the door open my friendship will be tenderer and deeper and I shall say: "My own, dear friend, I come back to you with a friendship that is all divine. Thou art my friend. I have been inside where the door was shut."

I wonder where this door is to be found. I wonder, sometimes, when I try to have a secret moment in my own life, if there might not have been a second meaning in the word when He said: "I am the door." For surely there is nothing in this universe responsive enough, great enough to shut everything else out and to shut the soul in—great enough in tenderness—so that the slightest touch of an infant soul will "shut the door." Here is the authority of Jesus Christ. No one knew the world outside as He knew it; no one knows the world inside as He knows it; no one else will take my thoughts, my feelings, my soul; no one else can shut the world out and the soul in. Here is a man who has been trying to pray and shut the door as Jesus told him to do. It takes more intellect to shut that door than to write Hindustanee or Shakespeare; more character than to marshall an army and lead it to battle. No muscular power will do it; no intellectual refinement or process of philosophical investigation, no wealth. Ah, you will have to leave your wealth outside. "Shut the door." It is only the man in the grandeur of his solitude, in the presence of God, when he means more to God than ever before, it is only then that finally he gets the door shut—just because Jesus is our entrance. He is the door. I realize, day by day, how finite He is when I touch Him; how infinite He is when He touches me.

How about that past? There it is. Nothing rankles more than man's past, that will lift its head up and say: "Ah, here I am. Look at me. I know you. I have heard you pray before. Those hands, I know where they have been. That heart. I know how dark it is." Have you ever tried to shut the door against a past like that? Have you ever known what it is to have the past hiss and sting? Sometimes you think you have the door shut, but oh, how that past, that seems a giant, fully armed, too big to get into the door, suddenly transforms, flattens itself out, lies like a serpent, and by and by you hear it wiggling at the door, hissing. Oh, I must have a door accurately fitting, that whether the past slithers like a serpent or comes like a giant, I can shut that door. Oh, how at last the soul takes hold of one thing and severs all from the past, and that one thing is Jesus Christ.

I am interested in men's problems. Do you know anything that is interesting enough in this world to keep the past out, except Jesus Christ? Is there anything that so appeals to your interest that you actually turn your back upon the past and say: "I have a present. Thank God. I have a present. I am looking to Him who says, 'Follow Me.' He has never yet told us we have followed Him too far. Since He says that, and as long as my heart pulses and as long as my will keeps in harmony with Him, I have a future." Your past is out of doors; your present and your future here, simply because you have "shut the door." I tell you, brethren, the manliest, the grandest, the greatest thing you can do this morning is simply to accept Jesus Christ as the door into the communion. The door moves upon such hinges of love that you need but to say: "I am a sinner: I want to be alone with God," to start it moving—to get in, with the past outside. My friends I will look for them by and by. And my enemies? I want to consider only one of them. I want to be alone. I will "shut the door." May God's holy Spirit, who is here this morning, quicken every heart. Get back this very day—now, and "shut the door." You need not be afraid that the world will lose anything. You will be a better man when you go out, with a whiter face, cleaner hands, a more loving and a braver heart. "Shut the door."

Dependence on God.

Our heavenly Father keeps us constantly in the condition of uttermost dependence on Him. Were it otherwise with us how wanton would we become. Therefore, He writes the sentence of death upon ourselves, and also upon our choicest temporal mercies—not that He always means to remove them, but to hold them as a special gift from Him; and, despairing of all succor but His own, that we should place our trust not on self, not on valued fellow-creatures, but on God, who can raise up to help us even the very dead (2 Cor. 1:8-10). He is considering our weakness, and our need, and our work; and in perfect wisdom and love has already arranged for the very best.

The Only Hindrance.

What hinders that you should be a child of God? Is not salvation free? Is not the invitation to it hung out to you on every page of the New Testament? Is not Christ offered to you in all His offices, and are you not welcome to all His benefits if you want them? Is not the Holy Spirit promised to them that ask Him? Nothing can hinder you from being a Christian, but your own worldly, selfish, proud, obstinate, unworthy and self-righteous heart.—Ichabod Spencer.

Take God With Us.

To enjoy God and heaven it does not require that we wait till the last touch of death reveals all things in the light of eternity. We may take God and heaven along with us every day, and carry their peace and glory into all the dull and prosaic scenes of earth.—Thomas Lathrop.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR SEPTEMBER 30.

Temperance Lesson, Gal. v., 15-26, Gal. vi., 7, 8—Golden Text, Prov. xx., 1—Memory Verses, 7, 8—Topic: Life Contrasts.

I. The Spirit and the flesh at enmity (vs. 15-18). 15. "If ye bite and devour." In contrast to the love of verses 13, 14. These are terms drawn from the habits of wild beasts in the order of climax. Bite designates the momentary outbursts; devour, the steady purpose of injury; consume, the final result probable to both parties. "Take heed," etc. As wild beasts contend sometimes until both are slain. The idea is that in their contentions they would destroy the spirituality and happiness of each other; their characters would be ruined; the church would be overthrown.

16. "This I say then." Having pointed out the effects of violating the law of love, the apostle now proceeds to show how this law may be obeyed. "Walk." This word is often equivalent to "live." "In the Spirit." This is differently explained: 1. By, or according to the rule of the Spirit. 2. By the guidance of the Spirit. 3. By the help of the Spirit. Notice. 1. The antagonism between the Holy Spirit in all that he is and produces, and the flesh with its appetites and works. 2. The certainty of victory over the flesh to all those who walk in or by the Spirit. "Shall not fulfil." The strongest negative possible. Ye shall in no wise fulfil. If the Spirit of God dwell in and rule your heart, the whole carnal mind will be destroyed; and then, not only carnal ordinances will be abandoned, but also the works and propensities of the flesh. "Lust." Desires. "Flesh." That is, the evil impulses which have their seat in the body. 17. "Flesh lusteth against the Spirit." The two are antagonistic; each seeks to control the man and be supreme. One or the other rules in every soul.

18. "But." This internal strife may be ended. "Be led." By submitting to the Spirit and by following His drawings. "Not under the law." Not under the restraints of the Mosaic law or dispensation, but under the control of the Spirit.

II. The works of the flesh (vs. 19-21). 19. "Works of the flesh." The works which are done when the man exalts the flesh and its desires to a controlling influence.

20. "Idolatry." The worship of false deities. "Witchcraft." Or sorcery. The use of charms, incantations, etc., to produce preternatural effects. "Variance." Strife; a disposition to dissent. "Emulations." Jealousies, rivalry, endeavoring to excel at the expense of another. "Strife." "Factions." R. V. "Heresies." Parties. Nothing is more in line with the selfish, independent, fleshly nature than strife, contention, factions and parties in the church. 21. "Murders." Omitted in the Revised Version. But if not rightly in the text it is certainly one of the works of the flesh. "Drunkenness, revelings." These are the sins that follow the indulgence of appetite. Revelings include drinking, feasting, dancing, ribald songs and debauchery in general. The seeds or possibilities of all these sins are in every unregenerate heart. Many of them may lie dormant for a time; many may never come into actual life; but under favoring circumstances, away from restrains, they will appear in the life and character. Every one of these evils is promoted and encouraged by the use of intoxicating liquors. Intemperance excites every evil passion, arouses wrath and hatred, leads to murders, is the friend of revelings. Intemperance is a work of the flesh. It exalts the flesh above the Spirit.

III. The fruit of the Spirit (vs. 22-26). 22. "Fruit of the Spirit." The fruit of the Spirit is one, yet manifold. He who has the Spirit of Christ has in him the root of all Christian graces.

23. "Temperance." Self control in the gratification of appetites. While this includes the abstinence from strong drink it must not be limited to this. "No law." There is no law to condemn those whose lives are adorned by these virtues.

24. "Have crucified." The apostle uses the strong figure of crucifixion to show how completely Christians—those "that are Christ's"—have forsaken and renounced the old life. They are dead to sin.

25. "Live in the Spirit." The Revised Version has "by the Spirit" in both clauses. That is, if we have entered into a spiritual life, let us continue in that life. 26. "Let us not," etc. The apostle again points which were destroying their spiritual life.

IV. Sowing and reaping (vs. 7, 8). 7. "Be not deceived." This is a warning against self-deception, which, strange as it may seem, is common. "Not mocked." God is not deceived or deluded. "Soweth—reap." This is a universal law of God's government which He will not relax.

8. "To his flesh." He that gratifies his carnal desires and lives a life of ease and self-indulgence. "Reap corruption." A strong figure. He will reap ruin and spiritual death. A course of self-indulgence corrupts the moral nature and ends in destruction. "To the Spirit." He who follows and obeys the Spirit. "Life everlasting." In this promise is included all that God has provided for His people in the world to come.

Old Merchant Assassinated.

Mariana, Ark.—Word was received here of the assassination of S. B. Kelley, an old and respected merchant, about ten miles southwest of this place. There is no clue to the perpetrators of the murder, and the affair is shrouded in mystery.

Colon.—In a head-on collision near Mammal between two canal working trains three Americans and two West Indians were killed.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

Burning Off Paint Makes Insurance Void.

It seems that considerable danger to property exists in the practice of burning off old paint before re-painting. The question has long been a subject of debate in the technical journals, and now house-holders and the newspapers have begun to discuss it. Those of us who, with trembling, have watched the painters blow a fiery blast from their lamps against our houses, and have looked sadly at the size of our painting bill because of the time wasted on this preliminary work, are interested in the investigation by the Greenfield (Mass.) Gazette and Courier, which gives considerable space to the reasons for the practice, questions its necessity and suggests ways to prevent the risk of burning down one's house in order to get the old paint off. It says:

"There is a good deal of discussion among house-holders as to the desirability in painting houses, of burning off the old paint, a practice that has grown very common of late in Greenfield and elsewhere. Insurance men are strongly opposed to this method. It makes void insurance policies for fires caused in this manner. Several houses in Greenfield have gotten afire as the result of this method, and in some places houses have burned as a result.

"It is undoubtedly true that when a house has been painted over and over again there comes to be an accumulation of paint in bunches. If new paint is put on top of these accumulations it is almost sure to blister. To burn it off is the quickest and cheapest and perhaps the surest method of getting rid of this old paint."

The Gazette and Courier quotes certain old patrons to the effect that accumulations of paint are unnecessary. These old-timers lay the blame partly on the painter who fails to brush his paint in well, partly on the custom of painting in damp weather or not allowing sufficient time for drying between coats, and partly to the use of adulterated paints instead of old-fashioned linseed oil and pure white lead. The paper says:

"Many of the older house-holders say that if care is taken at all these points, it is absolutely unnecessary to have paint burned off. They advise that people who have houses painted should buy their own materials, and to have them put on by the day, so as to be sure to get good lead and oil. Of course the burning off of paint greatly increases the cost of the job."

The trouble house-holders everywhere have with paint is pretty well summed up by our contemporary, and the causes are about the same everywhere. By far the most frequent cause of the necessity for the dangerous practice of burning old paint is the use of poor material. The oil should be pure linseed and the white lead should be real white lead. The latter is more often tampered with than the oil. Earthy substances, and pulverized rock and quartz, are frequently used as cheapeners, to the great detriment of the paint.

Painters rarely adulterate white lead themselves and they very seldom use ready prepared paints—the most frequent causes of paint trouble. But they do often buy adulterated white lead because the property owner insists on a low price and the painter has to economize somewhere. The suggestion is therefore a good one that the property owner investigate the subject a little, find out the name of some reliable brand of white lead, and see that the keg is marked with that brand.

The linseed oil is more difficult to be sure of, as it is usually sold in bulk when the quantity is small; but reliable makers of linseed oil can be learned on inquiry and, if your dealer is reliable, you will get what you want.

Pure white lead and linseed oil are so necessary to good paint that the little trouble necessary to get them well repays the house owner in dollars and cents saved.

According to Edwin Markham in Success Magazine, never before was there so much study of poetry and the drama. This is due to the modern extension of education and to the spread of reading matter among the masses. Poetry in not the fashion of an hour: it is an eternal need of the soul—a need that increases with the increase of intellectual light.

The New York World thinks the utmost vigilance in protecting the people from poisoning by adulterated food and drugs is needed. But the actual damage done by all other food adulterants and sophistications combined is perhaps less than that fairly ascribed to bad milk alone. With pure milk and a pure water supply the modern city community has gone a long way toward guaranteeing general health.

It is only Paris that could be expected to serve horse meat as lark pie. A man who can tell lark from horse after a Parisian chef has had his way with both would face no competition in a test to choose a universal taster.

According to a sensational report from the United States Consul at Kiel to the Bureau of Manufactures in Washington, there were not less than 6000 prosecutions for food adulterations in Germany during the year 1903. This is what serves to account for the violent opposition in Germany to importations of adulterated foods from this country. They have more than enough of their own.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,
Furniture and Rugs.
—SOLE AGENTS—
Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.
Catalogue for the asking.
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association
OF ALABAMA.
CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
By the People and for the People.
Chilton County Branch
Organized February 3, 1900.
W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.
INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man
Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent.
Full particulars furnished upon application to
WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER
We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue
—of the—
St. Louis Globe-Democrat
—With—
THE UNION
—For—
$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.
The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly Republican in Politics but is above all
A Great Modern Newspaper.
It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.
This Liberal Clubbing Offer
is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and we must receive the cash with order. Address
THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

PAUL CALAME,
205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.
Practical Watchmaker and Optician
Eyes Correctly Fitted
Mail orders promptly filled

SUBSCRIBE FOR THIS PAPER

DO YOU WANT
Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,
OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?
Then Call at
THE UNION OFFICE
and See Fine Work at Low Prices.
500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00
Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines.
Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.
DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER
We guarantee water or no charge made.
Estimates given. Address
L. E. SARBER CO.
Thorsby, Alabama.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 18, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Sep27. 1906.

Union Clubbing List

The Union And Yellow Jacket	$1.00
The Union And Southern Ruralist	1.00
The Union And Union Educator	1.00
The Union And Home and Farm	1.00
The Union And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
The Union and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.00
The Union and Tri-W'kly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
The Union And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.00
The Union and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.00
The Union And Rural South	1.00
The Union And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.00

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

NOMINEES OF THE People's Primary

Held August 6, 1906, under the direction of the Republican and Populist Executive Committees of Chilton County, Ala.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
J. Osmond Middleton.

FOR SHERIFF.
Felix J. Fitts.

FOR COMMISSIONER.
First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—S. E. Waldrup.
tf

POSTPONED.

Owing to the large amount of communications, etc., received this week, we are obliged to carry some over to next week. We are sorry, but we can't help it. We even have to postpone an editorial in regard to the nomination of Col. W. W. Wadsworth for State Senator; but we say, Hurrah for Wadsworth, he is a sure winner.

WADSWORTH FOR SENATOR.

In pursuance of the call issued by Chairman W. R. Jackson, of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton county, a mass meeting of Republican and other opponents of organized Democracy was held at Thorsby on Wednesday, September 19, 1906. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Jackson, who stated the objects of the meeting, chief of which was electing delegates to the Fifteenth Senatorial convention, to be held in Thorsby the same day. On motion a temporary organization was effected by the election of W. R. Jackson and Wallace C. Edler as chairman and secretary respectively. On motion the temporary organization was made permanent. The following were elected as delegates to the Fifteenth Senatorial District convention, viz: Lee Vickers, B. E. Collum, J. J. Grant, W. P. Cleckler and J. R. Short. The meeting then took a recess to await the action of the Senatorial convention.

Fifteenth Senatorial District Convention.

The Senatorial convention was called to order by Judge L. H. Reynolds, and on motion a temporary organization was effected by the election of W. F. Aldrich, as Shelby, as chairman, and Wallace C. Edler, of Chilton, as secretary. The secretary then called the roll of the delegates as shown by the credentials on his table, viz:

Autauga county—W. W. Wadsworth, Knox Booth, J. Lewis Johnson, L. D. Hicks and Charles Booth.

Chilton county—Lee Vickers, B. E. Collum, J. J. Grant, W. P. Cleckler and J. R. Short.

Shelby county—W. F. Aldrich, F. F. Crowe, J. C. MacElroy, Charles Johnson and Leo Friedburger.

All answered present except Mr. Leo Friedburger, of Shelby county. On motion the temporary organization was made the permanent one. Nominations for State Senator were then called for, and Hon. W. W. Wadsworth, of Autauga county, was unanimously nominated as candidate for State Senator from the Fifteenth Senatorial District of Alabama. In obedience to calls from the delegates Mr. Wadsworth made a little speech, thanking the convention for the unsought honor it had conferred upon him and stating his acceptance of the duty, with a full intention to do his fully duty in the premises and to represent the Fifteenth District in the Legislature, if elected, to the best of his ability, and also giving his reasons for his belief in Republicanism. It was moved and seconded that "this convention proceed to nominate and elect an Executive Committee of the Fifteenth Senatorial District to serve for four years." The motion was carried, and the following names were put in nomination and unanimously elected:

Autauga county—L. D. Hicks, Autaugaville; Charles Booth, Prattville.

Chilton county—Samuel Pate, Thorsby; J. J. Grant, Clanton.

Shelby county—W. F. Aldrich, Aldrich; Leo Friendburger, Columbiana.

The new committee then assembled and organized by electing Hon. W. F. Aldrich as chairman and Wallace C Edler as secretary. On motion, which carried, Col. W. W. Wadsworth was authorized to appoint his campaign committee, which he announced as follows: Autauga county, Knox Booth, Prattville, and J. A. Alexander, Prattville; Chilton county, L. H. Reynolds, Clanton, and Lee Vickers, Clanton R. F. D. No. 4; Shelby county, W. F. Aldrich, Aldrich, and Judge Longshore, Columbiana. The Senatorial convention then adjourned.

W. F. ALDRICH, Chairman.
WALLACE C. EDLER, Secretary.

On the reassembling of the mass meeting Judge Reynolds stated to the meeting that as we were honored by the presence of the Hons. W. F. Aldrich and Charles H. Scott, the first named having been our former Congressman and at present a member of the Republican State Committee, and the latter gentleman being the member representing the State of Alabama on the Republican National Committee, that they be requested to address the assemblage, and his motion to that effect was enthusiastically carried. Mr. Aldrich was the first speaker, and after he had complimented the audience on their choice for State Senator and highly eulogizing Colonel Wadsworth, he drew a vivid picture of the difference in the methods and practices of the two parties, mercilessly flaying the Democratic oligarchy. Mr. Aldrich also alluded to the pleasures (?) of the Cleveland administration, and congratulated his hearers on now living under a Republican administration. Then came Captain Scott, and he also pleased his audience highly. He dissected the Democratic platform as adopted at the Montgomery convention, and compared Democratic "promises" with Republican performance. In alluding to the theme of free public schools he gave some figures showing the difference in illiteracy between "sure" Democratic States and "sure" Republican States, which same figures did not flatter the "sure demmies," and he brought out a volley of applause with the epigram, "School houses make Republicans, but Democrats, like dog fennel, grow in the fence forners." Amidst loud calls for "Middleton" Hon. J. O. Middleton, Chilton county's next Representative, took the floor and made a highly effective talk, which pleased his hearers mightily. Then followed a short talk by Mr. Wadsworth, who gave his hearers a sketch of the many "offices" (without pay attached) that he has filled in the past years in striving to do his full duty by his State. Judge Reynolds was loudly called for, but refused to talk long, though he got in some hard cracks on the "honest elections?" the demmies have been having among themselves, and referred to the "Bankhead buggy" in the Sixth and stealing ballot boxes in Jefferson county. Gant Riggins also spoke and recited his famous soliloquy on the "candidate," and told his hearers how to "bell that Democratic cat," and incidentally took up a collection for the "Jim Collins string band," which had been making sweet music between speeches. The mass meeting then adjourned amid many congratulations on the enthusiasm and unity displayed.

After dinner at the Thorsby Inn the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton county met and transacted various matters of business and also passed the following resolution: "We, the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton county, recognizing Capt Charles H. Scott as a man of high character and ability, do hereby recommend him to the Republican party of Alabama as a proper and suitable candidate for Governor of Alabama."

SECRETARY.

X RAY AGAIN.

Editor Union:

I wish to say that I had the pleasure and satisfaction of being at the Senatorial convention which met at Thorsby on the 19th inst., which resulted in the nomination of Capt. W. W. Wadsworth, of Autauga county, as the Republican candidate of this Senatorial district, and while the Captain evidently did not seek or electioneer for the nomination, yet he heartily accepted the honor and showed by a statistical data of the vote as cast in the three counties of Shelby, Chilton and Autauga at the last election that, even though we should make no gains at all in the coming election, that we were sure of success just even to hold the vote we had then, but there can be no reasonable doubt but we will make great gains in the coming election, as Shelby has nominated the Hon. W. F. Aldrich for the Legislature, and Chilton has Middleton sure, and these three wil make a strong and vigorous campaign.

Well, to proceed with the features of the convention, which was composed of delegates from Autauga, Chilton and Shelby, among whom was Hon. W. F. Aldrich himself, who was chosen temporary and then made permanent chairman, and Wallace C. Edler, secretary. The work of the convention was soon complete, everything going smoothly and without a hitch or jar, but with life and enthusiasm. Then we had some good speeches from Captain Scott, national committeeman of the Republican party from Alabama. Captain Scott showed himself to be a strong and forcible speaker, abounding in statistical facts and figures, showing a vivid contrast between conditions existing under Republican and Democratic administrations of government, though he said it requires school houses and schools to make Republicans, while Democrats, like dog fennel, would grow in the fence corners. He also arraigned the Democratic party in this State for their inconsistencies, unfairness even to themselves, inasmuch as it requires five white men in the white counties of the State to equal one white man in the Black Belt, thus giving five times the legislative or law-making power to that portion of the State where the negro population largely dominates over actual white voters, although they may vote the Democratic ticket. So you see that, though they claim to have eliminated the negro from voting, they have not eliminated him from politics, and I want to say right here that it is astounding to me how the Democrats in the white counties never catch on to how they are buncoed in this very thing, not to mention the fraudulent and unequal distribution of the public school funds, which goes in about the same proportion, and these conditions have been in operation all along, and we Populists and Republicans continually calling attention to them, but it seems that the average Democrat can never divest his mind of prejudice and blind egotism engendered by the scheming and sophistry of his party leadership, and again it is equally as puzzling to me to see that they can't understand the ridiculously absurd condition of the party as to the great problem of the railroads and transportation rates. With two members of the United States Senate squarely opposing the lawful regulation of those corporate abuses, and as is generally termed robbery, yet they with a wild whoop and yell nominate a man for Governor who says, "Let us bring those monster corporations to time." And yet, again, they ought to know that so far as the legislative body is concerned they will be utterly unable to enact any measure or law within the next four years that will be in any way effective against those evils, seeing that the Senate at least is already dominated by railroad attorneys. I believe, I said, seeing, but there, sir, is the great difficulty. They have never yet seen those things, and it seems that most of them are like the fellow who could not "see the rats," and many others would rather die and go to Jerry Jones than to acknowledge those things when you make them so plain that the wayfaring man, though blind, might see. X RAY.

JUST A VOTER.

Editor Union:

In this good year of our Lord 1906 I thought I'd write a few lines. I'm so sorry that Mr. Gulledge is so sick, and my prayer is that he may get well and meet Mr. Middleton on the stump. I'm not uneasy about Mr. Gulledge dying, for he seems to be able to go everywhere and do most everything, except meet Mr. Middleton. I reckon the reason that he can't meet Mr. Middleton is that the medicine Mr. Middleton gives him is not good for his disease. I see him on the train nearly every day, and as he goes down the Hon. Martin will escort him as far as Clanton and catch the next train back to Thorsby. I tell you, it makes the Pops and Republicans look mighty scared when they see such men as the Hon. W. M. Adams and Martin Sorrell and the rest of this campaign committee gather around the depot to see Mr. Gulledge as he passes through. Sometimes I think it must be Bryan coming to help Mr. Gulledge in the county for "old times' sake." But, Pops and Republicans, you had better look out: you know you and the Democrats also used to say that as long as the Democratic party was run in the county the way it was it never could beat us, but now you see there is a new deal, and we can't depend upon that old power to elect our ticket; so we must hustle. You see they say that they never had such strong men to handle the Democratic party in this county before, and that Mr. Gulledge is the smartest man in the world. Why Hon. T. M. Crumpton is not a circumstance to him, and they say it seems foolish to compare Mr. Crumpton and his managers to Mr. Gulledge and his helpers. Why, see how much help Mr Gulledge can get, so much extra help, when any trouble arises about a postoffice; he does not have to explain it; some one rushes in and does it for him. When he wants an endorsement some one in Elmore is ready to deliver the goods. I tell you it is a sight to see the help he gets. The only hope I see for Middleton is that the prospect for a big potato crop is good; these rains are making them grow so fast that they are liable to get as big as a carload of dynamite. But I'm looking for this campaign to take a new turn any moment, for some are talking of fighting it out on the morality issue, and let me say right here if they want a battle on that ground we accept the challenge and hurry to pick up the cudgel, but some yellow women had better hide out, and fellow that have hidden criminals in their cellars that killed honest Populists must look shy. When we start the fur will fly, and when the battle is over you will not think that some folks are angels. I'm looking forward to October, when the campaign is billed to open in earnest. I hope good crowds will turn out to the different speakings, and all of you that can come to Jemison next Monday night to the speaking. I'm going to be there and though some of you may not know me, it will do me a lot of good to see a big crowd. But, say, haven't we nominated a good and strong man for State Senator from this district? I tell you Col. W. W. Wadsworth is a good man, and he'll be elected by a large majority, and I'm glad of it, for it is time we put some good business men in the State Senate. Hurrah for Wadsworth. Well, I was just going to quit, but some one said that they had found out the diagnosis in Mr. Gulledge's case, and it is this: You know he says the doctor tells him he must not stand. Well, that is a political doctor, and he means that it would be better for Mr. Gulledge not to "stand" for Representative. See? JUST A VOTER.

PITTS NAILS THE LIE.

Maplesville, Ala., Sept. 25, 1906.

Editor Union:

I ask a short space in your paper to make some remarks relative to an article which appeared in last week's Banner signed by Arthur D. Latham, of Lawley, Ala. In this article Mr. Latham makes a savage attack upon the character of some man who is a candidate for sheriff by stating that the candidate was out at the baptizing under the influence of strong drink and with a buggy full of beer and whiskey. Were I to act according to my own feelings I would treat this article with a silent contempt which it rightly deserves, but realizing that I was the only candidate for sheriff present on this occasion, and feeling it a duty that I owe to my friends throughout the county to clear up all charges which seemingly would put a stain on my character, I hereby denounce the article as malignantly false. I can and will establish by reliable men that I had neither beer nor whiskey in my buggy, with me or about me on that day.

Another reason that causes me to give notice to this pernicious article is that after I had seen the publication I went to Mr. Latham and he admitted that it was directed at me. Latham admitted to me in the presence of George F. Stringer and Robert Hicks that he did not see me with any whiskey that day, or other intoxicants and that he did not detect the fumes of whiskey on my breath or notice anything about me that indicated in toxication. He further admitted that he had never in his life seen me take a drink; he said further that he based his statement upon what some small boys had told him and that he regretted very much having written the article. I desire to state further that I was in the company of Mr. W. Y. Nix through the greater part of that day and he bears me out in the statement that the Latham article is false.

It would seem that a man who walks so conspicuously the path of righteousness as Mr. Latham pretends to do would be slow to slander the character of any man, especially when it is based upon the talk of idle boys. It is not my intention to have more to say about this matter and I am sure that this statement will satisfy the impartial voters of this county.

FELIX J. FITTS.

W. Y. NIX ON CAMPAIGN LIARS.

Well, Mr. Editor, I guess you saw that infamous letter in the Banner last week about the bottles of whiskey and beer over at the baptizing, said to be in the buggy of some of our candidates. The writer of the article acknowledged that he had reference to F. J. Fitts. Now, that did look mighty had, but just think how bad that writer-fellow did look and feel when the other morning, he had to stand before F. J. Fitts and swallow the thing whole, for Fitts did not give him time to chew it a bit. Now, Mr. Editor, with all of that stuff in his stomach, unchewed, don't you think it will be mighty hard to digest? Poor fellow, he wanted to know in his letter if we "could vote for such a man." Yes, we all can vote for a man like Fitts, for he is all right. When a fellow makes such a false statement as that, Fitts will make him eat it. Now, boys, just keep your hand upon the throttle and your eye upon the rail and all will go right. I'll quit now, as I might want to come again.

W. Y. NIX.

TEACHER WANTED.

In Union Point School District No. 44, for a five (5) months school. Apply to JOHN S. DENNIS, J. P. tf.

POPULIST MASS MEETING.

A People's Party mass meeting will be held at Jemison on Monday, October 1, 1906, at 7 p. m.

W. H. SHAW, Chairman.
J. D. COLLINS, Sec'y.

REPUBLICAN MASS MEETING.

A Republican mass meeting will be held at Jemison on Monday, October 1, 1906, at 7 p. m.

A. C. SMITH, Secretary.
W. R. JACKSON, Chairman.

DR. CHANDLER'S LETTER.

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 15, 1906.

To the Voters of Chilton:

I want to say, you all should vote for Mr. Middleton, for he wrote the best piece I ever read in a newspaper and told the truth all the way through. Send him to the Legislature, and he will make laws for the working people; he is not afraid to talk to men that are called "big men." He is the sort that we want, and all that vote any other way will lose their vote. From the way people talk I don't think he can help being elected. I've been watching close, and am about as old a man as there is in the county, and I say if Mr. Middleton don't win out there is no use to run anybody.

D. E. CHANDLER.

CHILTON COUNTY HOME-COMERS

The following letters explain themselves. Send in to Mr. C. W. Reynolds at Jemison the names of all your friends and relatives that are away from Alabama, so that they can have a formal invitation sent to them to COME HOME for a week (if not longer), and many will be glad to take advantage of the cheap railroad fare:

Birmingham, Aug. 30, 1906.

Mr. C. W. Reynolds, Jemison, Ala.:

Dear Sir—You are hereby duly appointed and commissioned Home-Coming Commissioner for your county. It will be your duty to arouse as much interest locally and otherwise in this movement as possible. You will send in such names as can be procured, so that the invitations may be issued to those formerly residing in your county to return. During the week you, if possible, come to Birmingham and take charge of the booth and register from your county. You have authority to appoint a vice-commissioner to assist you in this work. Do not hesitate to call on us for any assistance.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH B. BABB,
Director.

Birmingham, Sept. 19, 1906.

C. W. Reynolds, Esq., Jemison, Ala.:

Dear Sir—Let me impress upon you the importance of sending in list of names and addresses of former residents of your county. Please have your local paper publish notice of program and anything else pertaining to the Home-Coming movement from a local standpoint inserted. Of course we cannot afford to pay for any adxertising, and most of the papers are making notice of it from the news value and because of State pride.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH B. BABB,
Director.

Notice No. 20795.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 28, 1906.

Notice is hereby given that William F. Armstrong, of Clear Creek, Ala., has filed notice of his intention to make final five years proof in support of his claim, viz., homestead entry No. 33166, made September 6, 1899, for the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter, section 22, township 24 north, range 13 east, and that said proof will be made before clerk of Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on November 1, 1906.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of the land, viz.: Joseph M. Broadhead, W. Rufus Holditch, William M. Aldritch, Lee Busby, all of Calera, Ala.

ROBERT D. JOHNSTON,
8-30-06 tf Register.

CONGREGATIONAL H. M. SOCIETY.

Fort Payne, Ala., Sept. 8, 1906.

Editor Union:

I purpose to visit churches of the Clanton conference as follows:

Fourth Sunday, September 23, Mountain Springs church, of Clanton, in the morning; Shady Grove church, of Verbena, at night.

Fifth Sunday, September 30, at Kingston.

First Sunday, October 7, Lightwood, in the morning; Marbury at night.

Second Sunday, October 14, Pine Grove church, of Deatsville, in the morning; South Calera at night.

Yours truly,
tf A. T. CLARKE.

FOR SALE.

Mare mule, 8 years old; fine animal, and will work anywhere you put her. Price, $150. I live three miles west of Jemison, on R. F. D. No. 1.
tf E. M. RAY.

MONEY TO LOAN

On real estate. Call or write me at my abiding place with Mr. G. O. Foshee, one mile northeast of Clanton, R. F. D. No. 1. Come during banking hours, as I keep my money in the bank.
tf JAMES GLASS.

PROGRAM

Of Sunday School Convention ville District, Beats 7 Convene at Mt. Carmel in September, 1906.

9:30 a. m. Devotional T. Adams.

10 a. m. Relation of S to the church.

10:30 a. m. Home R. Barnes and W. H.

11 a. m. Convention school lesson.

12 m. Dinner.

1:30 p. m. Song service

2 p. m. Reports from S

2:30 p. m. "The Good School Convention Grooms and P. G. Manes

3 p. m. "Characteristics Sunday School Teacher and T. F. Davis

3:30 p. m. Adjourn.

T. G. MILLING, P.
AL. VAN MARTER, Vice-P.
MISS MOLLIE RE
tf

NOTICE.

Jemison, A
Lost—One branded on the heart; the last was at Ashby pounds. I wi ally for inform is, or if return for the trouble.

T. S.
tf

SPECIAL OFFER!

The Union, Weekly Mon
vertiser, and a great map of Alabama, United world, three in one, with of every president from to Roosevelt, all for $1.

WATSON'S MAGAZ

The leading exponent of Democracy, edited by Hon.
Watson, of Georgia, the Father Free Delivery; author of of France," "Life of Napo and Times of Thomas
"Bethany" and other books
son was the People's party
Vice-President in 1896, and dent in 1904. He is today middle-class reform move is bound to sweep the co
short time.

Watson's Magazine is an publication. It does not st lective ownership of all production. Mr. Watson public or government ow railroads, telegraphs and in municipal ownership of ways, gas electric lights, w etc.; and he believes in pr ship of all industries not nopolies.

The middle class—the farmers, small business m
erty owners—won Jeffers in 1800; won Jackson's Nick Biddle's money pow won Lincoln's victory each time after the flush had died away they becam of their rights and went to have slept a good portion since 1865, but—

Watson's Magazine is up. Another great victory
Keep in touch with the Fifteen cents a copy at $1.50 a year by mail. S four 2-cent stamps and reading friends. Address
TOM WATSON'S MAG
121 West Forty-second
New

SPECIAL CLUBBING
WATSON'S MAGAZINE
UNION A YEAR FOR
WHY NOT SAVE THE
LEAVE ORDERS AT THIS
tf

WANTED! WA
A number of good to work in the Cotton Mills. Good good houses, good
a nice place to live.
to, J. M. Martin,
tendent, Prattville,

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mo
and all official for Justices of the Peace for sale at The Union
Only best approved are used. Come in us your order.

FOR SALE

30 young cockerels
Spangled Hamburgs,
Laced Wyandotts,
Brown and White L
Prices 50c to $1.
birds pure bred and quality.

J. B. Dow
Clanton,
tf

TY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
ng Term—Third Monday in May.
Term—Fourth Monday in No
—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
ng Term—Second Monday in
Term—Second Monday in Sep
cellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
ister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan

County Court.
Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.
ond Monday February, first Mon
April, first Monday June, second day July, second Monday August, Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
ge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
surer—W. T. Callen.
riff—J. M. Morgan.
ditor—W. M. Adams.
Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
t District—W. H. Conway.
ond District—Alex Glasscock.
rd District—R. P. Kendrick.
rth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

MISSIONARY BAPTIST.
THANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas
First Sunday and Saturday be
D. L. Hand, clerk.

TH-SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
r. E. B. Popwell, clerk.

NE CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey,
r. First Sunday and Saturday
e. W. E. Thomas, clerk.

LLINS CHAPEL—Rev. J. H. as, pastor. Third Sunday and day before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

RS HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
r. First Sunday and Saturday
e. G. W. Scott, clerk.

CEDONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
r. Fourth Sunday and Saturday
e at 3:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong.

EASANT GROVE—Rev. J. H.
as, pastor. Fourth Sunday and day before at 11 a. m. D. H.
ins, clerk.

OVIDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robin
pastor. Second Sunday and Sat
before. Riley Robinson, clerk.

HOBOTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H. as, pastor. Second Sunday and day before. D. C. Smitherman,

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.
THEL—Elder J. P. Nobles, pas
Second Sunday and Saturday be
J. T. Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.
CKY MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Van
, pastor. Second Sunday. Sing
very second and fourth Sunday
noon. Prayer meeting every Wed
y night. Ladies' prayer meeting
Saturday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.
ion R. A. Chapter, No. 116—
Saturday, Clanton.
ado Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Fourth Saturday, Cooper.
nton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
First Saturday, Clanton.
tury Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
First Saturday, Billingsley.
man Lodge, A. F. and A. M.,
24—Saturday on or before full
Marbury.
ison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday on or before full moon,
on.
nton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Tuesday on or before full moon,
on.

I. O. O. F.
ison Lodge—First and third Sat
n.
nton Lodge, No. 304—Second and Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.
k Jack Camp, No. 190—First and Mondays.

I. C. R. M.
ermo Tribe, No. 90—First and Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs
lly invited. H. B. Langston, C.
J. H. Patton, Sachem.
erete Tribe No. 48—2nd and 4th day sleeps. Visiting chiefs cor invited. J. M. Grant, Sachem; Parrish, C. of R.
nahatchee Tribe, No. 9, meets
d and fourth Tuesdays' sleep.
ng chiefs cordially invited.
J. P. VAN DERVEER, Sachem
. ROBINSON, C. of R.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Sep27, 1906.

Union Clubbing List

The Union And Yellow Jacket	$1.00
The Union And Southern Ruralist	1.00
The Union And Union Educator	1.00
The Union And Home and Farm	1.00
The Union And Weekly Age-Herald	1.00
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.00
The Union and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.00
The Union and Tri-Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.00
The Union And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.00
The Union and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.00
The Union And Rural South	1.00
The Union And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.00

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

NOMINEES OF THE People's Primary

Held August 6, 1906, under the direction of the Republican and Populist Executive Committees of Chilton County, Ala.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
J. Osmond Middleton.

FOR SHERIFF.
Felix J. Fitts.

FOR COMMISSIONER.
First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—S. E. Waldrup.
tf

POSTPONED.

Owing to the large amount of communications, etc., received this week, we are obliged to carry some over to next week. We are sorry, but we can't help it. We even have to postpone an editorial in regard to the nomination of Col. W. W. Wadsworth for State Senator; but we say, Hurrah for Wadsworth, he is a sure winner.

WADSWORTH FOR SENATOR.

In pursuance of the call issued by Chairman W. R. Jackson, of the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton county, a mass meeting of Republican and other opponents of organized Democracy was held at Thorsby on Wednesday, September 19, 1906. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Jackson, who stated the objects of the meeting, chief of which was electing delegates to the Fifteenth Senatorial convention, to be held in Thorsby the same day. On motion a temporary organization was effected by the election of W. R. Jackson and Wallace C. Edler as chairman and secretary respectively. On motion the temporary organization was made permanent. The following were elected as delegates to the Fifteenth Senatorial District convention, viz: Leo Vickers, B. E. Collum, J. J. Grant, W. P. Cleckler and J. R. Short. The meeting then took a recess to await the action of the Senatorial convention.

Fifteenth Senatorial District Convention.

The Senatorial convention was called to order by Judge L. H. Reynolds, and on motion a temporary organization was effected by the election of W. F. Aldrich, as Shelby, as chairman, and Wallace C. Edler, of Chilton, as secretary. The secretary then called the roll of the delegates as shown by the credentials on his table, viz:

Autauga county—W. W. Wadsworth, Knox Booth, J. Lewis Johnson, L. D. Hicks and Charles Booth.

Chilton county—Lee Vickers, B. E. Collum, J. J. Grant, W. P. Cleckler and J. R. Short.

Shelby county—W. F. Aldrich, F. F. Crowe, J. C. MacElroy, Charles Johnson and Leo Friedburger.

All answered present except Mr. Leo Friedburger, of Shelby county. On motion the temporary organization was made the permanent one. Nominations for State Senator were then called for, and Hon. W. W. Wadsworth, of Autauga county, was unanimously nominated as candidate for State Senator from the Fifteenth Senatorial District of Alabama. In obedience to calls from the delegates Mr. Wadsworth made a little speech, thanking the convention for the unsought honor it had conferred upon him and stating his acceptance of the duty, with a full intention to do his fully duty in the premises and to represent the Fifteenth District in the Legislature, if elected, to the best of his ability, and also giving his reasons for his belief in Republicanism. It was moved and seconded that "this convention proceed to nominate and elect an Executive Committee of the Fifteenth Senatorial District to serve for four years." The motion was carried, and the following names were put in nomination and unanimously elected:

Autauga county—L. D. Hicks, Autaugaville; Charles Booth, Prattville.

Chilton county—Samuel Pate, Thorsby; J. J. Grant, Clanton.

Shelby county—W. F. Aldrich, Aldrich; Leo Friendburger, Columbiana.

The new committee then assembled and organized by electing Hon. W. F. Aldrich as chairman and Wallace C Edler as secretary. On motion, which carried, Col. W. W. Wadsworth was authorized to appoint his campaign committee, which he announced as follows: Autauga county, Knox Booth, Prattville, and J. A. Alexander, Prattville; Chilton county, L. H. Reynolds, Clanton, and Lee Vickers, Clanton R. F. D. No. 4; Shelby county, W. F. Aldrich, Aldrich, and Judge Longshore, Columbiana. The Senatorial convention then adjourned.

W. F. ALDRICH, Chairman.
WALLACE C. EDLER, Secretary.

On the reassembling of the mass meeting Judge Reynolds stated to the meeting that as we were honored by the presence of the Hons. W. F. Aldrich and Charles H. Scott, the first named having been our former Congressman and at present a member of the Republican State Committee, and the latter gentleman being the member representing the State of Alabama on the Republican National Committee, that they be requested to address the assemblage, and his motion to that effect was enthusiastically carried. Mr. Aldrich was the first speaker, and after he had complimented the audience on their choice for State Senator and highly eulogizing Colonel Wadsworth, he drew a vivid picture of the difference in the methods and practices of the two parties, mercilessly flaying the Democratic oligarchy. Mr. Aldrich also alluded to the pleasures (?) of the Cleveland administration, and congratulated his hearers on now living under a Republican administration. Then came Captain Scott, and he also pleased his audience highly. He dissected the Democratic platform as adopted at the Montgomery convention, and compared Democratic "promises" with Republican performance. In alluding to the theme of free public schools he gave some figures showing the difference in illiteracy between "sure" Democratic States and "sure" Republican States, which same figures did not flatter the "sure demmies," and he brought out a volley of applause with the epigram, "School houses make Republicans, but Democrats, like dog fennel, grow in the fence forners." Amidst loud calls for "Middleton" Hon. J. O. Middleton, Chilton county's next Representative, took the floor and made a highly effective talk, which pleased his hearers mightily. Then followed a short talk by Mr. Wadsworth, who gave his hearers a sketch of the many "offices" (without pay attached) that he has filled in the past years in striving to do his full duty by his State. Judge Reynolds was loudly called for, but refused to talk long, though he got in some hard cracks on the "honest elections?" the demmies have been having among themselves, and referred to the "Bankhead buggy" in the Sixth and stealing ballot boxes in Jefferson county. Gant Riggins also spoke and recited his famous soliloquy on the "candidate," and told his hearers how to "bell that Democratic cat," and incidentally took up a collection for the "Jim Collins string band," which had been making sweet music between speeches. The mass meeting then adjourned amid many congratulations on the enthusiasm and unity displayed.

After dinner at the Thorsby Inn the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton county met and transacted various matters of business and also passed the following resolution: "We, the Republican Executive Committee of Chilton county, recognizing Capt Charles H. Scott as a man of high character and ability, do hereby recommend him to the Republican party of Alabama as a proper and suitable candidate for Governor of Alabama."

SECRETARY.

X RAY AGAIN.

Editor Union:

I wish to say that I had the pleasure and satisfaction of being at the Senatorial convention which met at Thorsby on the 19th inst., which resulted in the nomination of Capt. W. W. Wadsworth, of Autauga county, as the Republican candidate of this Senatorial district, and while the Captain evidently did not seek or electioneer for the nomination, yet he heartily accepted the honor and showed by a statistical data of the vote as cast in the three counties of Shelby, Chilton and Autauga at the last election that, even though we should make no gains at all in the coming election, that we were sure of success just even to hold the vote we had then, but there can be no reasonable doubt but we will make great gains in the coming election, as Shelby has nominated the Hon. W. F. Aldrich for the Legislature, and Chilton has Middleton sure, and these three will make a strong and vigorous campaign.

Well, to proceed with the features of the convention, which was composed of delegates from Autauga, Chilton and Shelby, among whom was Hon. W. F. Aldrich himself, who was chosen temporary and then made permanent chairman, and Wallace C. Edler, secretary. The work of the convention was soon complete, everything going smoothly and without a hitch or jar, but with life and enthusiasm. Then we had some good speeches from Captain Scott, national committeeman of the Republican party from Alabama. Captain Scott showed himself to be a strong and forcible speaker, abounding in statistical facts and figures, showing a vivid contrast between conditions existing under Republican and Democratic administrations of government, though he said it requires school houses and schools to make Republicans, while Democrats, like dog fennel, would grow in the fence corners. He also arraigned the Democratic party in this State for their inconsistencies, unfairness even to themselves, inasmuch as it requires five white men in the white counties of the State to equal one white man in the Black Belt, thus giving five times the legislative or lawmaking power to that portion of the State where the negro population largely dominates over actual white voters, although they may vote the Democratic ticket. So you see that, though they claim to have eliminated the negro from voting, they have not eliminated him from politics, and I want to say right here that it is astounding to me how the Democrats in the white counties never catch on to how they are buncoed in this very thing, not to mention the fraudulent and unequal distribution of the public school funds, which goes in about the same proportion, and these conditions have been in operation all along, and we Populists and Republicans continually calling attention to them, but it seems that the average Democrat can never divest his mind of prejudice and blind egotism engendered by the scheming and sophistry of his party leadership, and again it is equally as puzzling to me to see that they can't understand the ridiculously absurd condition of the party as to the great problem of the railroads and transportation rates. With two members of the United States Senate squarely opposing the lawful regulation of those corporate abuses, and as is generally termed robbery, yet they with a wild whoop and yell nominate a man for Governor who says, "Let us bring those monster corporations to time." And yet, again, they ought to know that so far as the legislative body is concerned they will be utterly unable to enact any measure or law within the next four years that will be in any way effective against those evils, seeing that the Senate at least is already dominated by railroad attorneys. I believe, I said, seeing, but there, sir, is the great difficulty. They have never yet seen those things, and it seems that most of them are like the fellow who could not "see the rats," and many others would rather die and go to Jerry Jones than to acknowledge those things when you make them so plain that the wayfaring man, though blind, might see. X RAY.

JUST A VOTER.

Editor Union:

In this good year of our Lord 1906 I thought I'd write a few lines. I'm so sorry that Mr. Gulledge is so sick, and my prayer is that he may get well and meet Mr. Middleton on the stump. I'm not uneasy about Mr. Gulledge dying, for he seems to be able to go everywhere and do most everything, except meet Mr. Middleton. I reckon the reason that he can't meet Mr. Middleton is that the medicine Mr. Middleton gives him is not good for his disease. I see him on the train nearly every day, and as he goes down the Hon. Martin will escort him as far as Clanton and catch the next train back to Thorsby. I tell you, it makes the Pops and Republicans look mighty scared when they see such men as the Hon. W. M. Adams and Martin Sorrell and the rest of this campaign committee gather around the depot to see Mr. Gulledge as he passes through. Sometimes I think it must be Bryan coming to help Mr. Gulledge in the county for "old times' sake." But, Pops and Republicans, you had better look out: you know you and the Democrats also used to say that as long as the Democratic party was run in the county the way it was it never could beat us, but now you see there is a new deal, and we can't depend upon that old power to elect our ticket; so we must hustle. You see they say that they never had such strong men to handle the Democratic party in this county before, and that Mr. Gulledge is the smartest man in the world. Why Hon. T. M. Crumpton is not a circumstance to him, and they say it seems foolish to compare Mr. Crumpton and his managers to Mr. Gulledge and his helpers. Why, see how much help Mr. Gulledge can get, so much extra help, when any trouble arises about a postoffice; he does not have to explain it; some one rushes in and does it for him. When he wants an endorsement some one in Elmore is ready to deliver the goods. I tell you it is a sight to see the help he gets. The only hope I see for Middleton is that the prospect for a big potato crop is good; these rains are making them grow so fast that they are liable to get as big as a carload of dynamite. But I'm looking for this campaign to take a new turn any moment, for some are talking of fighting it out on the morality issue, and let me say right here if they want a battle on that ground we accept the challenge and hurry to pick up the cudgel, but some yellow women had better hide out, and fellow that have hidden criminals in their cellars that killed honest Populists must look shy. When we start the fur will fly, and when the battle is over you will not think that some folks are angels. I'm looking forward to October, when the campaign is billed to open in earnest. I hope good crowds will turn out to the different speakings, and all of you that can come to Jemison next Monday night to the speaking. I'm going to be there and though some of you may not know me, it will do me a lot of good to see a big crowd. But, say, haven't we nominated a good and strong man for State Senator from this district? I tell you Col. W. W. Wadsworth is a good man, and he'll be elected by a large majority, and I'm glad of it, for it is time we put some good business men in the State Senate. Hurrah for Wadsworth. Well, I was just going to quit, but some one said that they had found out the diagnosis in Mr. Gulledge's case, and it is this: You know he says the doctor tells him he must not stand. Well, that is a political doctor, and he means that it would be better for Mr. Gulledge not to "stand" for Representative. See? JUST A VOTER.

FITTS NAILS THE LIE.

Maplesville, Ala., Sept. 25, 1906.

Editor Union:

I ask a short space in your paper to make some remarks relative to an article which appeared in last week's Banner signed by Arthur D. Latham, of Lawley, Ala. In this article Mr. Latham makes a savage attack upon the character of some man who is a candidate for sheriff by stating that the candidate was out at the baptizing under the influence of strong drink and with a buggy full of beer and whiskey. Were I to act according to my own feelings I would treat this article with a silent contempt which it rightly deserves, but realizing that I was the only candidate for sheriff present on this occasion, and feeling it a duty that I owe to my friends throughout the county to clear up all charges which seemingly would put a stain on my character, I hereby denounce the article as malignantly false. I can and will establish by reliable men that I had neither beer nor whiskey in my buggy, with me or about me on that day.

Another reason that causes me to give notice to this pernicious article is that after I had seen the publication I went to Mr. Latham and he admitted that it was directed at me. Latham admitted to me in the presence of George F. Stringer and Robert Hicks that he did not see me with any whiskey that day, or other intoxicants, and that he did not detect the fumes of whiskey on my breath or notice anything about me that indicated intoxication. He further admitted that he had never in his life seen me take a drink; he said further that he based his statement upon what some small boys had told him and that he regretted very much having written the article. I desire to state further that I was in the company of Mr. W. Y. Nix through the greater part of that day and he bears me out in the statement that the Latham article is false.

It would seem that a man who walks so conspicuously the path of righteousness as Mr. Latham pretends to do would be slow to slander the character of any man, especially when it is based upon the talk of idle boys. It is not my intention to have more to say about this matter and I am sure that this statement will satisfy the impartial voters of this county.

FELIX J. FITTS.

W. Y. NIX ON CAMPAIGN LIARS.

Well, Mr. Editor, I guess you saw that infamous letter in the Banner last week about the bottles of whiskey and beer over at the baptizing, said to be in the buggy of some of our candidates. The writer of the article acknowledged that he had reference to F. J. Fitts. Now, that did look mighty had, but just think how bad that writer-fellow did look and feel when, the other morning, he had to stand before F. J. Fitts and swallow the thing whole, for Fitts did not give him time to chew it a bit. Now, Mr. Editor, with all of that stuff in his stomach, unchewed, don't you think it will be mighty hard to digest? Poor fellow, he wanted to know in his letter if we "could vote for such a man." Yes, we all can vote for a man like Fitts, for he is all right. When a fellow makes such a false statement as that, Fitts will make him eat it. Now, boys, just keep your hand upon the throttle and your eye upon the rail and all will go right. I'll quit now, as I might want to come again.

W. Y. NIX.

TEACHER WANTED.

In Union Point School District No. 44, for a five (5) months school. Apply to JOHN S. DENNIS, J. P. tf.

POPULIST MASS MEETING.

A People's Party mass meeting will be held at Jemison on Monday, October 1, 1906, at 7 p. m.

W. H. SHAW, Chairman.
J. D. COLLINS, Sec'y.

REPUBLICAN MASS MEETING.

A Republican mass meeting will be held at Jemison on Monday, October 1, 1906, at 7 p. m.

A. C. SMITH, Secretary.
W. R. JACKSON, Chairman.

DR. CHANDLER'S LETTER.

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 15, 1906.

To the Voters of Chilton:

I want to say, you all should vote for Mr. Middleton, for he wrote the best piece I ever read in a newspaper and told the truth all the way through. Send him to the Legislature, and he will make laws for the working people; he is not afraid to talk to men that are called "big men." He is the sort that we want, and all that vote any other way will lose their vote. From the way people talk I don't think he can help being elected. I've been watching close, and am about as old a man as there is in the county, and I say if Mr. Middleton don't win out there is no use to run anybody.

D. E. CHANDLER.

CHILTON COUNTY HOME-COMERS

The following letters explain themselves. Send in to Mr. C. W. Reynolds at Jemison the names of all your friends and relatives that are away from Alabama, so that they can have a formal invitation sent to them to COME HOME for a week (if not longer), and many will be glad to take advantage of the cheap railroad fare:

Birmingham, Aug. 30, 1906.

Mr. C. W. Reynolds, Jemison, Ala.:

Dear Sir—You are hereby duly appointed and commissioned Home-Coming Commissioner for your county. It will be your duty to arouse as much interest locally and otherwise in this movement as possible. You will send in such names as can be procured, so that the invitations may be issued to those formerly residing in your county to return. During the week you, if possible, come to Birmingham and take charge of the booth and register from your county. You have authority to appoint a vice-commissioner to assist you in this work. Do not hesitate to call on us for any assistance.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH B. BABB,
Director.

Birmingham, Sept. 19, 1906.

C. W. Reynolds, Esq., Jemison, Ala.:

Dear Sir—Let me impress upon you the importance of sending in list of names and addresses of former residents of your county. Please have your local paper publish notice of program and anything else pertaining to the Home-Coming movement from a local standpoint inserted. Of course we cannot afford to pay for any adxertising, and most of the papers are making notice of it from the news value and because of State pride.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH B. BABB,
Director.

Notice No. 20795.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 28, 1906.

Notice is hereby given that William F. Armstrong, of Clear Creek, Ala., has filed notice of his intention to make final five years proof in support of his claim, viz., homestead entry No. 33166, made September 6, 1899, for the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter, section 22, township 24 north, range 13 east, and that said proof will be made before clerk of Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on November 1, 1906.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of the land, viz.: Joseph M. Broadhead, W. Rufus Holditch, William M. Aldritch, Lee Busby, all of Calera, Ala.

ROBERT D. JOHNSTON,
8-30-06 tf Register.

CONGREGATIONAL H. M. SOCIETY

Fort Payne, Ala., Sept. 8, 1906.

Editor Union:

I purpose to visit churches of the Clanton conference as follows:

Fourth Sunday, September 23, Mountain Springs church, of Clanton, in the morning; Shady Grove church, of Verbena, at night.

Fifth Sunday, September 30, at Kingston.

First Sunday, October 7, Lightwood, in the morning; Marbury at night.

Second Sunday, October 14, Pine Grove church, of Deatsville, in the morning; South Calera at night.

Yours truly,
tf A. T. CLARKE.

FOR SALE.

Mare mule, 8 years old; fine animal, and will work anywhere you put her. Price, $150. I live three miles west of Jemison, on R. F. D. No. 1.
tf E. M. RAY.

MONEY TO LOAN

On real estate. Call or write me at my abiding place with Mr. G. O. Foshee, one mile northeast of Clanton, R. F. D. No. 1. Come during banking hours, as I keep my money in the bank.
tf JAMES GLASS.

PROGRAM

Of Sunday School Convention ville District, Beats 7 ... Convene at Mt. Carmel ... in September, 1906.

9:30 a. m. Devotional ... T. Adams.

10 a. m. Relation of S... to the church.

10:30 a. m. Home D... R. Barnes and W. H. ...

11 a. m. Convention ... school lesson.

12 m. Dinner.

1:30 p. m. Song service.

2 p. m. Reports from S...

2:30 p. m. "The Good ... School Convention ... Grooms and P. G. Manes.

3 p. m. "Characteristics of ... Sunday School Teacher ... and T. F. Davis.

3:30 p. m. Adjourn.

T. G. MILLING, P...
AL. VAN MARTER, Vice-P...
MISS MOLLIE RE...
tf

NOTICE.

Jemison, A...

Lost—One light ... branded on the left ... heart; the last time ... was at Ashby ... pounds. I wi... ally for information ... is, or if returned to ... for the trouble.

T. S. DAV...
tf

SPECIAL OFFER!

The Union, Weekly Mont... vertiser, and a great white ... map of Alabama, United ... world, three in one, with ... of every president from ... to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

WATSON'S MAGAZ...

The leading exponent of ... Democracy, edited by Hon. ... Watson, of Georgia, the Farm... Free Delivery; author of "... of France," "Life of Napo... and Times of Thomas ... "Bethany" and other books. ... son was the People's party ... Vice-President in 1896, and ... dent in 1904. He is today ... middle-class reform move... is bound to sweep the co... short time.

Watson's Magazine is a ... publication. It does not st... lective ownership of all the ... production. Mr. Watson ... public or government ow... railroads, telegraphs and ... in municipal ownership of ... ways, gas electric lights, ... etc.; and he believes in pro... ship of all industries not ... nopolies.

The middle class—the ... farmers, small business men ... erty owners—won Jefferson ... in 1800; won Jackson's ... Nick Biddle's money power ... won Lincoln's victory in ... each time after the flush ... had died away they became ... of their rights and went to ... have slept a good portion of ... since 1865, but—

Watson's Magazine is wi... up. Another great victory a... Keep in touch with the mo...

Fifteen cents a copy at ne... $1.50 a year by mail. Samp... four 2-cent stamps and four ... reading friends. Address

TOM WATSON'S MAGA...
121 West Forty-second ...
New ...

SPECIAL CLUBBING ...
WATSON'S MAGAZINE ...
UNION A YEAR FOR ...
WHY NOT SAVE THE ...
LEAVE ORDERS AT THIS ...
tf

WANTED! WA...

A number of good ... to work in the ... Cotton Mills. Good ... good houses, good ... a nice place to live. ... to, J. M. Martin, ... tendent, Prattville, ...

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mo... and all official for... Justices of the Peace ... for sale at The Union ... Only best approved ... are used. Come in ... us your order.

FOR SALE.

30 young cockerels ... Spangled Hamburgs, ... Laced Wyandotts, ... Brown and White L... Prices 50c to $1.50 ... birds pure bred and ... quality.

J. B. Dow...
Clanton, ...
tf

...TY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.

...g Term—Third Monday in May. ... Term—Fourth Monday in No...

...—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee. ...—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville. ...—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

...g Term—Second Monday in ...

... Term—Second Monday in Sep...

...cellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides. ...ister—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

County Court.

...t Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

...nd Monday February, first Mon... April, first Monday June, second ...day July, second Monday August, ...Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

...ge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds. ...surer—W. T. Callen. ...riff—J. M. Morgan. ...erk—W. M. Adams. ...x Assessor—L. B. Pounds. ...x Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

...t District—W. H. Conway. ...nd District—Alex Glasscock. ...rd District—R. P. Kendrick. ...rth District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

...J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

...P. R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

...W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

MISSIONARY BAPTIST.

...THANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas... First Sunday and Saturday be... D. L. Hand, clerk.

...TH-SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish, ...r. E. B. Popwell, clerk.

...NE CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey, ...r. First Sunday and Saturday ...e. W. E. Thomas, clerk.

...LLINS CHAPEL—Rev. J. H. ...nas, pastor. Third Sunday and ...day before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

...RS HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ...r. First Sunday and Saturday ...e. G. W. Scott, clerk.

...CEDONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ...r. Fourth Sunday and Saturday ...e at 3:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong, ...

...EASANT GROVE—Rev. J. H. ...as, pastor. Fourth Sunday and ...day before at 11 a. m. D. H. ...ins, clerk.

...OVIDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robin... pastor. Second Sunday and Sat... before. Riley Robinson, clerk.

...HOBOTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H. ...as, pastor. Second Sunday and ...day before. D. C. Smitherman, ...

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

...THEL—Elder J. P. Nobles, pas... Second Sunday and Saturday be... J. T. Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

...CKY MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Van... pastor. Second Sunday. Sing... every second and fourth Sunday ...noon. Prayer meeting every Wed... night. Ladies' prayer meeting ... Saturday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

...ton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—... Saturday, Clanton.

...nde Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

...nton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...First Saturday, Clanton.

...tury Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...First Saturday, Billingsley.

...man Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...4—Saturday on or before full ... Marbury.

...ison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Saturday on or before full moon, ...on.

...nton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Tuesday on or before full moon, ...on.

I. O. O. F.

...ison Lodge—First and third Sat... ...

...nton Lodge, No. 304—Second and ... Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

...k Jack Camp, No. 190—First and ...Mondays.

I. O. R. M.

...sermo Tribe, No. 90—First and ...Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs ...ally invited. E. B. Langston, C. ... J. H. Patton, Sachem.

...rmo Tribe No. 48—2nd and 4th ...day sleeps. Visiting chiefs cor... invited. J. M. Grant, Sachem; ...Parrish, C. of R.

...ahatchee Tribe, No. 9, meets ...d and fourth Tuesdays' sleep. ...g chiefs cordially invited. ... J. P. VAN DERVEER, Sachem ... ROBINSON, C. of R.

PROGRAM

Of Sunday School Convention ... ville District, Beats 7 ... Convention at Mt. Carmel ... in September, 1906.

9:30 a. m. Devotional ... T. Adams.

10 a. m. Relation of Sunday ... to the church.

10:30 a. m. Home Department ... R. Barnes and W. H. ...

11 a. m. Convention ... school lesson.

12 m. Dinner.

1:30 p. m. Song service.

2 p. m. Reports from Sunday ...

2:30 p. m. "The Good of ... School Convention Work" ... Grooms and P. G. Maness.

3 p. m. "Characteristics of ... Sunday School Teacher"—... and T. F. Davis.

3:20 p. m. Adjourn.

T. G. MILLING, Pres.
AL. VAN MARTER, Vice-Pres.
MISS MOLLIE REYNOLDS, Sec.

tf

NOTICE.

Jemison, Ala., August ...

Lost—One light clay hound ... branded on the left shoulder ... heart; the last time heard from ... with Ashby; she weighs ... pounds. I will reward any one ... gives information as to her ... or if returned to me, I will pay ... the trouble.

T. S. DAVENPORT,
Jemison, Ala.

tf

SPECIAL OFFER!

The Union, Weekly Montgomery ... vertiser, and a great white ... map of Alabama, United States ... world, three in one, with ... of every president from Washington ... to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

WATSON'S MAGAZINE.

The leading exponent of Jeffersonian Democracy, edited by Hon. Thos. E. Watson, of Georgia, the Father of Free Delivery; author of "Napoleon and the Marshals of France," "Life of Napoleon," "Life and Times of Thomas Jefferson," "Bethany" and other books. Mr. Watson was the People's party candidate for Vice-President in 1896, and for President in 1904. He is today the leading middle-class reform movement and is bound to sweep the country in short time.

Watson's Magazine is not a money making publication. It does not stand for collective ownership of all the means of production. Mr. Watson believes in public or government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones, and in municipal ownership of street railways, gas electric lights, water works, etc.; and he believes in private ownership of all industries not natural monopolies.

The middle class—the home owners, the farmers, small business men—are the thrifty owners—won Jefferson the election in 1800; won Jackson's victory; won Nick Biddle's money power; won Lincoln's victory in 1860; and each time after the flush times had died away they became conscious of their rights and went to work to have slept a good portion of the time since 1865, but—

Watson's Magazine is waking up. Another great victory is coming. Keep in touch with the movement.

Fifteen cents a copy at newsstands, $1.50 a year by mail. Sample copy and four 2-cent stamps and four names of reading friends. Address.

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
121 West Forty-second Street,
New York.

SPECIAL CLUBBING RATE.
WATSON'S MAGAZINE AND THE UNION A YEAR FOR ONLY $1.50.
WHY NOT SAVE THE MONEY?
LEAVE ORDERS AT THIS OFFICE.

tf

WANTED! WANTED!

A number of good families to work in the Prattville Cotton Mills. Good wages, good houses, good water, a nice place to live. Apply to, J. M. Martin, Superintendent, Prattville, Ala.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages and all official forms for Justices of the Peace for sale at The Union office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and see us or send us your order.

FOR SALE.

30 young cockerels, Pure Spangled Hamburgs, Barred and Laced Wyandotts, Buff, Brown and White Leghorns. Prices 50c to $1.50. Fine birds pure bred and of high quality.

J. B. Downs,
Clanton, Ala.

tf

COURTS AND COUNTY OFFICIALS.

Circuit Court.

... Term—Third Monday in May.
... Term—Fourth Monday in Nov.

Judge—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
Solicitor—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
Clerk—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

... Term—Second Monday in ...

... Term—Second Monday in Sept.

Chancellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
Register—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton.

County Court.

... Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

... Monday February, first Monday April, first Monday June, second Monday July, second Monday August, first Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

Judge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
Treasurer—W. T. Callen.
Sheriff—J. M. Morgan.
Solicitor—W. M. Adams.
Tax Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
Tax Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

... District—W. H. Conway.
... District—Alex Glasscock.
... District—R. P. Kendrick.
... District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

... J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

... R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.

... W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

MISSIONARY BAPTIST.

BETHANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pastor. First Sunday and Saturday before. D. L. Hand, clerk.

SOUTH SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish, pastor. E. B. Popwell, clerk.

WAHALAK CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey, pastor. First Sunday and Saturday before. W. E. Thomas, clerk.

COLLINS CHAPEL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Third Sunday and Saturday before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

BEARS HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. First Sunday and Saturday before. G. W. Scott, clerk.

MACEDONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Fourth Sunday and Saturday before at 3:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

PLEASANT GROVE—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Fourth Sunday and Saturday before at 11 a. m. D. H. Collins, clerk.

PROVIDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robinson, pastor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. Riley Robinson, clerk.

MACEDONIA (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. D. C. Smitherman, clerk.

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

MT. ZION—Elder J. P. Nobles, pastor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. J. T. Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

ROCKY MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Vanpastor. Second Sunday. Singevery second and fourth Sunday noon. Prayer meeting every Wedday night. Ladies' prayer meeting Saturday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—... Saturday, Clanton.

Mimosa Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ... Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ... First Saturday, Clanton.

Calera Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ... First Saturday, Billingsley.

Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ... Saturday on or before full ... Marbury.

Verbena Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ... Saturday on or before full moon, ...

Thorsby Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ... Tuesday on or before full moon, ...

I. O. O. F.

Verbena Lodge—First and third Sat...

Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and ... Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

Oak Jack Camp, No. 190—First and ... Mondays.

I. O. R. M.

Powhatan Tribe, No. 90—First and ... Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs ... invited. E. B. Langston, C. ... I. H. Patton, Sachem.

Alabama Tribe No. 48—2nd and 4th ... sleeps. Visiting chiefs cor... invited. J. M. Grant, Sachem; ... Perdue, C. of R.

Tuskahatchee Tribe, No. 9, meets ... and fourth Tuesdays' sleep. ... chiefs cordially invited. J. P. VAN DERVEER, Sachem. R. ROBINSON, C. of R.

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

Chilton Co. Division Officers.

J. H. Thomas, President, Jemison, Rte. 1.

J. W. Hayes, Vice Pres., Thorsby, Rte 1.

J. N. Dennis, Sec-Treas., Clanton, Rte 6.

G. W. Thomas, Chaplain, Clanton, Rte 2.

J. W. Sorrell, Bus. Agent, Jemison, Rte 4.

C. N. Eiland, Lecturer, Clanton, Rte 4.

N. A. Dobbs, Asst. Lect., Clanton, Rte 3.

W. J. Bean, Conductor, Clanton, Rte 4.

W. F. Culpepper, Doorkeeper, Clanton, Rte 3.

W. A. Barnett, Ex. Committee, Jemison, Rte 2.

E. H. Mims, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 1.

J. Wiley Foshee, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 4.

TO UNION MEN.

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 25, 1906.

Editor Union:

Allow me space in your paper in your paper to say a few words to the union brethren in Chilton county. Now is the time to make our unionism count; we have now our greatest trial on hand. The cotton market has opened up below the minimum price fixed by the union, which is 11 cents. This price can be reached by holding the cotton off of the market and not selling it for any less. The market is governed by the supply and demand. All reports show that there is not going to be a large crops made, as some claim. Last year the world used 12,000,000 bales of cotton, and as the demand increases every year, it follows that more than 12,000,000 bales will be used this time.

It is true that some men in the union cannot hold their cotton without help; in such cases as this it is the duty of those who have the money to help them by taking the cotton. We are not prepared yet to store all the cotton that is under mortgages in Chilton county in warehouses. There are certain business men in Chilton who are telling the farmers to bring on their cotton the market, that the price is not going to be any better. Brethren, have they not told us this every year, even when the price was gradually going up? Let's look at the right side of things and not ask our enemies what to do, for we have had enough experience in the past to see that some of the local cotton buyers are nothing but tools in the hands of the speculator to fleece from us the value of our farm products.

Did you ever stop and think that when you sell your cotton below the minimum price that you not only hurt yourself, but the other brethren whom you are to assist in buying and in selling?

I hope that every non-union man who is able will also hold his cotton: in so doing he will help himself, the union and the country.

Success to The Union and the F. E. and C. U. of A. C. N. EILAND.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Clanton, Sept. 11, 1906.

Pursuant to the third article of the objects and aims of the F. E. and C. U. of A., the last County Union agreed to meet in delegated form at Cedar Grove and give one day to the science of crop diversification and scientific agriculture, or to farmers' institute work.

Dr. C. A. Cary, of Auburn, director of Farmers' Institutes of Alabama, and Col. J. M. Thornton, of Talladega, have agreed to lecture for us on that day. Also State Business Agent P. F. Parker has been invited to make us a speech on that day. The date has been fixed on Friday, October 12, 1906. Everybody is invited to come. Yours respectfully, J. N. DENNIS,

tf County Secretary.

NOTICE TO SINGERS.

There is to be a called meeting of the old Southern Union Singing Convention, to be held at Corinth Church (five miles east of Verbena) on Saturday before the fifth Sunday in September at 10 a. m. All singers are invited to come and bring your books and baskets. Now, we want it understood that we want all leaders unhampered as to what books we use, leaving it to the leaders to use such books as they see fit. Devotional exercises Saturday at 10 a. m. conducted by E. L. Jones. Welcome address, Rev. E. L. Manning; response, R. T. Grant. Formers officers were W. H. Robinson, president, and Joe Goss, secretary. tf

REGISTRATION NOTICE.

Beat No. 4, at Clanton, on Sept. 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 1906, for the purpose of registering voters.

Beat No. 4, at Clanton, on Friday and Saturday before the election in November, 1906.

R. H. GAINES,
B. L. JONES,
P. M. MOORE,
Board of Registrars Chilton County.

tf

PUHLIC SPEAKING!

Hon. J. Osmond Middleton will speah at Jemison on Monday, Oct. 1, 1906 at 7 p. m. Mr. F. A. Gulledge has been invited to attend the meeting and a division of time offered to him. everybody is invited to come out, especially the ladies.

Campaign Committee.

SPEAKING!

Hon J. O. Middleton will speak at Popular Springs Church on Saturday, Sept. 29 at 7 p. m. Mr. F. A Gulledge is hereby invited to come. Everybody is invited, especially the ladies.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Sept. 26, 1906..	689
Price same date	9.00
Receipts same time in 1905.....	1,998
Price same date	10 3 8

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

B. M. Maddox was a pleasant visitor Thursday.

J. M. Bean and W. A. Gore were in Clanton Thursday.

A. E. Jackson was in town Thursday.

L. C. Cleckler, of Brookwood, was a welcome caller Thursday.

B. F. Sasnett was in Clanton Friday.

J. J. Dennis was in town Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Scott were Clanton visitors Friday.

W. W. Wilkins and sister, Miss Lillie, were in Clanton Friday.

S. S. Scott and J. W. Taylor were in town Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Dorming, of Union Grove, were Clanton visitors Friday.

Commissioner W. H. Conway was in town Friday.

W. C. Scarborough went to Livingston Saturday to attend college there.

W. B. McDowell, who has been visiting his parents here, returned to Durham Saturday.

L. E. Coburn, of Tuscaloosa, visited his home folks near Jemison last week.

D. W. Scott was a pleasant visitor Monday.

W. H. Bean was in Clanton Monday.

Elder J. W. Howell and family, E. H. Sayers, J. M. Cox, son and daughter, J. T. Abernathy, J. R. Patterson, Joe Kelley, of Cooper's, and H. J. Guy, of Elmore, passed through Clanton Monday on their way home from Wetumpka Association of Primitive Baptists, which met with Ebenezer church in Shelby county.

W. N. Childress was in Clanton Tuesday.

F. J. Fitts was in town Tuesday, fresh from his hunt after the campaign liars.

Judge Reynolds spent Tuesday in Birmingham.

J. N. Dennis was in Clanton Tuesday.

J. Wiley Smith is quite ill with what the doctor thinks is pneumonia. We hope for his speedy recovery.

Quite a number of the delegates appointed by Judge Reynolds to attend the Cotton Association meeting in Montgomery Tuesday went there that day; among them we noted P. D. Wilson and W. H. Conway.

Joe Maddox, in charge of the Chilton warehouse's gins, happened to a bad accident Tuesday. While cleaning one of the gins, his left arm was caught and so badly mangled that Dr. Johnson had to amputate it just below the shoulder. At last accounts he was resting quite well, considering the circumstances.

Candidate Doster, of Prattville, was in Maplesville the other day, beseeching some of the Democrats to work for him and help pull him out of Wadsworth's way, but we hear he did not get much encouragement. He might just as well come down and save himself bother.

The warehouse gins are doing a big business; the improved machinery there gives them a big advantage over their competitors.

J. S. Jones, of Cooper, was in Clanton Wednesday.

The S. C. A. of Chilton county will meet in Clanton on Saturday, October 6th.

Don't forget to come to Clanton this week and register, if you are not on the roll. The Board of Registrars sit in Clanton all this week to register people all over the county who have been prevented by various causes from meeting the registrars in their beat visits.

Hon. Charles H. Scott, of Montgomery, member of the Republican National Committee from Alabama, will be in Jemison next Monday night to attend the rally there.

Come out and hear him, and you will be well repaid for your trouble.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

C. J. Hayes and Miss Mary A. Latham; J. P. Jackson and Miss Beatrice DeLoach; J. W. Huckabee and Miss Bessie DeVaughan; Henry Irvin and Miss Allie Moore; P. W. Porter, Jr., and Miss Leila Brewer.

Colored.

Dave Allen and Della Freeman; Dunk Carr and Lula Coachman.

TAX NOTICE

Tax Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes of Chilton County for the year 1906 and assessing the taxes for the year 1907:

	1906.
Kincheon, Beat 6	Oct. 1
Pletcher, Beat 8	Oct. 2
Stanton, Beat 8	Oct. 3
Shoults, Beat 7	Oct. 4
Maplesville, Beat 7	Oct. 5
Benson, Beat 3	Oct. 6
Macedonia, Beat 3	Oct. 8
Providence, Beat 2	Oct. 9
Jemison, Beat 2	Oct. 10
Mineral Springs, Beat 1.....	Oct. 11
Flint Hill, Beat 11.....	Oct. 12
Cane Creek, Beat 4, until 12 m	Oct. 13
Thorsby, Beat 9.....	Oct. 15
Clanton, Beat 4	Oct. 16
Cooper, Beat 10	Oct. 17
Verbena, Beat 5.....	Oct. 18

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.
T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

tf

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's Second Round.

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes of Chilton County for the year 1906 and assessing the taxes for the year 1907:

Kincheon, Beat 6, November 7, 1906.
Enterprise ,Beat 6, November 8, 1906.
Pletcher, Beat 8, November 9, 1906.
Clanton Ford, until 12 m., Beat 8 November 10, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 12, 1906.
Valley Creek, Beat 8, November 13, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 14, 1906.
Shoults, Beat 7, November 15, 1906.
Maplesville, Beat 7, November 16, 1906.
Benson, Beat 3, November 17, 1906.
Macedonia, Beat 3, November 19 1906.
Gentry & Cofer's Mill, Beat 2, November 20, 1906.
Hayes' Mill, Beat 2, November 21 1906.
Providence, Beat 2, November 22, 1906.
John Killingworth's till 12 m., Beat 2, November 23, 1906.
Jemison, Beat 2, November 24, 1906.
Smith's School House; Beat 1, November 26, 1906.
Mineral Springs, Beat 1, November 27, 1906.
Flint Hill, Beat 11, November 28 1906.
Providence, Beat 10, November 29 1906.
Corinth Church, Beat 10, November 30, 1906.
Thorsby, Beat 9, December 3, 1906.
Clanton, Beat 4, December 4, 1906.
Cooper, Beat 10, December 5, 1906.
Verbena, Beat 5, December 6, 1906.
Mountain Creek, Beat 5, December 7, 1906.
James Maddox's Mill, Beat 4, December 8, 1906.

When you come to assess your property, bring your deeds, as the last grand jury suggested.

T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Assessor.
TT. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

I will be at Clanton the last 10 days in the year, commencing December 20th, 1906. All taxes not paid by January 1st, 1907, will become delinquent. Take notice of above and save extra expense. T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

Notice.

I will not attend to assessment of Tax on last 10 days of year, as such practice has become a nuisance, and the tax payers must meet me at the regular times and places, or become delinquent. L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.

GINNING SFASON 1906-7

We have engaged Joe and Walter Maddox to run and operate our gins for the coming season. We have the best machinery and with these men to operate it, we can guarantee entire satisfaction to those who patronize us. Bring us your cotton.

Respectfully
Chilton Warehouse & M,f,g. Company. tf.

FOR SALE

At all times, high grade hogs and pigs, Berkshire and Poland China, crossed.

M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, Ala.

Fall and Winter Hardware

Heating Stoves, Coal Hods, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Vases, Fire Guards, Window Panes and Putty,

PIPE AND FITTING.

Can secure repairs for machinery from us much cheaper and in less time than from Birmingham or Montgomery. We carry Inspirators, Lubricators, Glass Oil Cups, Check and Globe Valves, Jets, Packing, Rubber Belting and Gandy Stitched Belt, Engine and Cylinder Oil, Axle Oil and Axle Grease.

ROOFING.

We have in stock Galvanized and Iron Roofing, and our price will make this roofing cheaper for you than shingles, and is much easier to put in use.

PAINTS.

The Hammar Paint and Sun Proof Paint are as good as any on the market. We have pure Linseed Oil and Lead, and if you prefer to do your own mixing, we are prepared to furnish you the necessary coloring.

BUILDERS' HARDWARE.

We can save you money on this line. Have a full stock of Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Sash Cord. Call on us for prices before placing your order.

SPIGENER & JONES

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton, Alabama

E. G. Rollins & Co.

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise, Clothing, Shoes and Fancy Groceries.

CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN FARM.

Barred Plymouth Rocks

PURE BRED

Setting of 15 fresh eggs for 50c. Packing for shipping 10c extra.

PURE BRED

Duroc Jersey Hogs.

Write us for prices before you buy. Address,

W. Y. NIX,
Maplesville, Alabama.

A. A. JACKSON

Lomax, Alabama.

General merchandise, corn, hay, shorts, shoes, men's hats, Ladies hats. Best quality and lowest prices in all goods.

Highest Market Price Paid for Chickens and Eggs

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes, FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton. Alabama

Bank Saloon

CALERA, ALA.

Fine Wines, Whiskies, Brandies, Beer, Cigars and Tobacco

CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT.

LITTLE MISS HURRY.

Little Miss Hurry,
All bustle and flurry,
Comes down to her breakfast ten minutes too late;
Her hair is a-rumple,
Her gown is a-rumple,
She'd no time to button and hook herself straight.

She hunts and she rushes
For books and for pencils this upstairs and down;
If ever you find her,
Just follow behind her
A trail of shoe buttons and shreds of her gown.

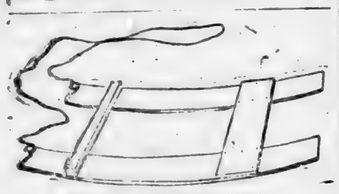
But little Miss Steady
By school time is ready,
All smiling and shining and neat in her place;
With no need to worry,
She pities Miss Hurry,
Who but yesterday sat here with shame on her face.

Her heart beating lightly,
With duty done brightly,
She vows she will never again change her name;
For, though you'd not guess it,
I'm bound to confess it—
These two little maidens are one and the same.

—C. W. Bronson, in Philadelphia Record.

COASTING IN SUMMER.

It seems odd, does it not, to think of sliding down hill while the thermometer is away up in the nineties and the sun pours down so fiercely that snow would not last an instant, even if there should be a foot of it on the ground? Still you may coast to your heart's content provided you can find a hill covered with—not snow, but short grass.



The Barrel Stave Sled.

Summer coasting is not easy to contrive for the city boy, for about the only grass-covered hills he has access to are in the parks, and the "Keep off the grass" signs forbid just such amusements. But if he is spending some days in the country or lives in the suburbs there are hills aplenty for him.

In the first place you will need a special sled. The one you used last winter, with its iron-shod runners, will not do at all, for the runners must be broad, and the whole sled must be both low and light. Still, you can make a sled so easily and with such simple materials that, provided you can use a hammer and nails—and what boy can not—you need not let this condition of the sport worry you at all.

About all you really need for the construction of your warm-weather sled is a barrel, or part of one. Indeed, two good stout barrel staves and a couple of odd bits of wood make just exactly the right sort of sled for the sport.

Get two barrel staves, as long and as broad as possible, but be sure to have them the same length. Should one be slightly longer than the other saw off the end till it is the right length. Now get a stout piece of wood about two and one-half feet long and, laying your barrel staves side by side about fourteen inches apart, nail the piece of wood to them about four inches from the ends, as shown in the accompanying picture. Be very careful to drive the nails first through the barrel staves, so that their points will come out on top of the block of wood. Drive the nails in so deeply that their heads are below the surface of the barrel staves, for these rounded, or lower, sides are to be the bottom of your runners, and you do not want any nailheads sticking out and catching in things, holding back your sled when you start to slide.

When this is done, get a piece of board the same length as the first piece and nail it in the same way across the other end of the barrel staves. Bend over the points of nails which may protrude above the wood, and hammer them flat so that they will not catch in your clothes.

A couple of screw eyes in the front end of the staves, as shown in the picture, will furnish places to fasten your sled rope.

Now you are ready for a coast. Get an old candle and rub it on the bottoms of curved sides of your sled runners, rubbing it as hard as you can until they are so slippery that they will not take any more candle grease. You will find that this sled will slide easily over anything but bare dirt, and when you take it to the top of a steep, grassy hill, sit on the broad board, cock your feet on the smaller crosspiece and start, you will fly down at a speed which will compare very favorably with your fast winter sled on a snow or ice covered hill.

Two or three boys can make several summer sleds in an hour or so, and when once the sport of summer coasting has been tried, it will be a very fascinating pastime indeed which will coax you away from your screaming runners and grass-covered hill.

It is a good thing to carry a candle end in your pocket and to grease your runners afresh after the first few slides. After that the grass gets so slippery that you will shoot down like a rocket, needing to grease the staves only after every dozen or fifteen slides.—New York Mail.

THE GAME OF TARGET FLIP.

Get a piece of smooth board—pine or any other wood convenient—that may be placed on the ground or on the porch. In the centre of it lay a large-sized dinner plate, around the edge of which you draw a circle with chalk or colored crayon, so that it is perfectly distinct. Remove the dinner plate, and in its place put a breakfast plate, drawing a circle around it inside the larger circle. Then use a saucer, a teacup and an afterdinner cup in the same way, until you have five circles, one within the other.

On the inner, and smallest, circle mark the number 100; on the second, the number 50; on the third, 25; on the fourth, 10, and on the fifth, 5.

Now supply to each player six common white beans, and each in turn flips his six beans, one at a time, from the edge of the board to the circles, allowing room only to rest the hand, if desired. When the six beans have been flipped, the sum is made of the numbers of the various circles in which they rest, and counted to the score of that person, who then takes up his six beans.

The second player follows, and each player takes his turn in order, until all have "flipped." Then the first player takes a turn again, ten turns for each player making a game, and the highest score winning.

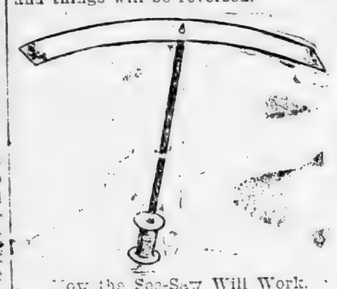
When a bean is not fully in a circle, but rests between two of them, the one of lower value is scored. If two beans rest in the same circle, its value is counted twice, a value for each bean.

A FLY SEE-SAW.

Here is an amusing little trick that you will find lots of fun:

Stick a long lead pencil in the end of a spool of thread so that it will stand upright. Now get a piece of very stiff blotting paper and from it cut a strip two inches wide and about a foot long. On each end of this put a drop of molasses or syrup.

Now balance the strip of blotting paper, with the syrup side up, on the point of the pencil. You should have two players, although one will do. Each player chooses an end of the paper. In a moment a fly will alight on one end, attracted by the syrup, and that end of the paper will go down a trifle. Then another fly will light on the other end, or perhaps several will come there for the sweets and things will be reversed.



How the See-Saw Will Work.

As more flies come, alighting on the ends, the paper will lean first this way, then that, till it overbalances and falls to the table. Then the player whose end grew so heavy as to cause the tumble wins.

We would not advise you to try this in the house, but rather out of doors in the warm sunshine, where the flies will not bother any one.—New York Mail.

THE FLYING GAME.

"The Flying Game" is a popular one in Mexico.

A tree is cut, its branches removed, and steps are made out of ropes. Others affixed to the corners of the frame are then wound around the pole. Four boys, dressed as eagles or hawks, climb up the steps, and each taking a rope, swing off, while another boy whirls the square frame around. This unwinds the ropes, and makes the boys fly, round and round in large circles, until they reach the ground. While the birds are flying down, one boy stands on top of the pole, waving a flag and beating a drum.

SOME BIRDS GOOD SURGEONS.

Certain birds seem to possess a remarkable instinct for surgery. The woodcock, the partridge and some others are said to be able to dress their wounds with considerable skill. A naturalist observes that he has shot several woodcock that were recovering from wounds previously received. In every instance he found the injury neatly dressed with down plucked from the stems of feathers and skilfully arranged over the wound, evidently by the long beak of the bird. In other cases ligatures had been applied to wounded or broken limbs.

Edinburgh has adopted a scheme for collecting for charity through a central office on the lines of the Liverpool system.

WOMEN: THEIR FADS, THEIR FASHIONS, THEIR WORK, THEIR ART.

SHORTER HONEYMOONS.

A sign of the times is the change in the honeymoon. The usual thing in smart circles is a week, or perhaps only a few days, at a smart country house, and then a return to civilization. A recently married couple went merely for a week-end into the country.—Vanity Fair.

TOO MUCH MOTHERING.

The exits and the entrances of the mother during the daughter's courtship acts need to be well timed. If she possesses the tact to retire gracefully at the proper times and seasons the curtain is likely to fall on a happy ending to the piece. But the marriages of thousands of girls are marred by "over-mothering."—The World and His Wife.

WORKERS IN POLITICS.

To prove to what length women political workers will go for the cause they are supporting, I may cite the case of a woman of my acquaintance— a woman of great refinement—who at the Marylebone election held some dead rabbits' skins in the street while the man who sold them went to the polling booth. Would many men workers from the amateur ranks have done such a thing?—London News.

WOMAN'S CHANGING INFLUENCE

A man admires nothing more in a woman than helplessness. He thinks it, like patience, a sign of womanliness; and womanliness is the one quality he can never resist. Now, the helpless female is rapidly becoming extinct—golf and tennis and hockey, hunting, fencing and Sandow have killed her. With the development of her muscular powers it would seem that she is losing a great deal of her influence over man.—Ladies' Friend.

VINE SAP TO DARKEN EYES.

Languishing dark eyes, such as the Spanish senoritas charm their suitors with, are within the reach of the plainest Yankee lass, declares the New York Press, according to the inducements held out by a girl who says she has solved the riddle. This young woman asserts that the Spanish beauties use the juice of the grape vine to make their orbs dark and dreamy, but not the juice which sparkles in the rosy wine. No, this juice comes from the grape vine proper, and it must be procured very carefully, or it will injure the sight and perhaps kill the vine. This girl, coached by a Cuban belle, probed a small opening in a seasoned vine and applied a glass tube, which was fixed to a bottle. In two days, a few drops of sap flowed in the bottle and this was diluted with ten times it weight of rose water. Then it was used nightly in the eyes, through the aid of a dropper. The result is said to be that light eyes turn dark and small pupils become large and brilliant—in short, the most ordinary eyes can be transformed into glorious vehicles of light and love.

CAUCASIAN IDEAS OF BEAUTY.

When the Gaekwar of Baroda as a parting word on his American trip found a lack of beauty in American women he dropped a stone into the summer pool of newspaper discussion which will go on rippling in article and paragraph.

But what the Gaekwar said was the most natural thing in the world for —the Gaekwar. A man uniformly admires the type of feminine beauty standard in his own land and known in his own youth.

No Japanese at first sight admires the European or American woman. Their noses seem unduly large, their teeth are too prominent and their eyes are too bulging. No Arab admires the hour-glass waist and corset-shaped figure. To most Asiatic races the white woman seems pale and colorless, too self-possessed and lacking in suppleness, swaying, willowy grace, dear to the Oriental.

The European races, including the American as an off-shoot, have a practically interchangeable standard and code on this delicate subject. Thanks to Hellenic art, Roman manners and Teuton or North Europe prowess, Europe and the Americas admire substantially the same feminine type, with minor variations. Some high caste Asiatics have accepted this standard, as the premium on Circassian women shows. They are few, limited to the Mediterranean.

Beyond, in the great Asiatic deep of humanity, the Gaekwar's opinion would be accepted. It is always true of "Sally," as the song runs, that she is "the prettiest girl in all the land," first and foremost, because

She lives in our alley.

—Philadelphia Press.

HOW TO MAKE PIN-MONEY.

Three times every day the same perplexing question presents itself to the housewife with monotonous regularity, "What shall I prepare for breakfast, for luncheon, for dinner?" To the busy woman there is no greater relief than having this puzzle satisfactorily solved for her. Then she does not need to worry about what she shall prepare, but immediately goes to work, following out the plan laid down for her. It is the solving of this puzzling question for my busy friends and neighbors that brings in my supply of pin-money. The work is all done at home and without the expenditure of one cent. I make out menus for my friends for the meals of the entire week; but more often my services are in demand for special occasions, such as teas, luncheons and "at-homes." My friends say that when the menu is all planned for them the work is half done. Many women have not the time, and others lack the ability, to do this planning for themselves, and are glad to pay a good price for having it done. Those who are in society, and obliged to entertain frequently, must have variety in their menus.

I also plan the table-decorations, the arrangement of the centrepiece, the silver and the place-cards. Whenever I read an account of a dinner or tea, some new and striking table-decoration, or in fact anything which I think will be suggestive or helpful to me in my work, I make a note of it for future reference.

I can think of nothing so easy or profitable as the line of work I have suggested, and it has the twofold advantage of requiring no capital and of taking very little of one's time. Most of the home occupations for women demand a great deal of skill or natural talent, but this work calls for neither—just a little hard thinking and systematic planning is all one needs. The field is a wide one, and the work much in demand. —Woman's Home Companion.

NEW KIND OF GRAFT.

"I have discovered a new wrinkle in graft," declared a Washington lady who resides in Mt. Pleasant, "and the discovery has decreased my faith in human kind.

"I was standing at my window one afternoon recently, watching the gathering of a storm. The heavens in the southeast were black, there were flashes of angry lightning and mutters of thunder. Chancing to look down I saw a lady, dressed all in white, standing under a small tree directly in front of my house. She stood close up under the little tree, seeing that the conditions were growing worse every moment, but making no move to get from under.

"Soon there came a blinding flash, a deep roll of thunder and the wind tore up the street. Her umbrella was almost wrenched from her hand, but there she stuck. The big drops had begun to fall and in a few moments the rain came down in torrents. It beat up and down and all around her, and I could see she was getting drenched. I raised my window and called to her to come in. At the second call she heard me, and made for the house. I flew down and let her in and took her into my parlor.

"'I am soaked,' she said. 'It was so foolish for me to come out, for I saw the storm coming, but had an errand which I thought could not wait, so I risked it. I thought perhaps it would be only a little shower, soon over. I cannot afford to be wet; I am afraid it would make me sick.'

"She took off her hat and shook it and laid it on a chair. Her skirt was dripping, so she said she would take that off and hang it up while she waited. I ran upstairs and brought her one of mine, together with a linen waist, almost new.

"The rain continued to pour, so I told the woman to be seated, and I stayed with her and entertained her as best I could. There was an almost continual downpour for about an hour and a half. She made several starts, when it held up a little, and said she would wear my things home and send her maid for hers; but before she could get started the rain would begin again and she would have to give it up. She had not given me her name nor told me where she lived, although I gave her several opportunities to do so.

"At about six o'clock I mentioned that we had a telephone, and if she wished I would call a cab, as she had seemed anxious to be gone, but she said no, that she lived just around the corner, and it was not worth while. In the meantime the members of my family had come in one by one, and soon I was called into the dining-room to see about dinner. She begged me not to let her interfere with my duties, so I went into the dining-room, which was separated from the parlor only by the reception hall and thin madras curtains. I had been there only a few moments when I heard the front door shut, and going out found my visitor had gone, without calling 'good-bye' or saying 'thank you,' or anything. I went into the parlor and found she had put on her wet skirts and left mine; but she had worn my linen waist and taken hers—in fact, everything belonging to her except a pair of white lisle gloves which were on a foot-stool behind a chair.

"That was three weeks ago, and I have never seen the lady or my waist since. I am glad I did not bring her my gold buttons to fasten it with, as I came very near doing. I fear I will not be so ready to call anyone in out of the rain another time."—Washington Star.

ARTICHOKES, WHITE SAUCE.

Wash them well, peel and shape them to a uniform size. Throw them into boiling salted water, and let them boil fifteen to twenty minutes; drain them at once thoroughly. Put them on a dish and serve with the following sauce poured over them: Mix over the fire one and one-half ounces of butter with a tablespoonful of flour, add one-half pint of boiling water, white pepper and salt to taste; stir till the sauce thickens, then take the saucepan off the fire and stir in the yolks of two eggs beaten up with the juice of a lemon, and strain.—New York Witness.

CUCUMBER JELLY.

This is delicious with cold meat, fish or salads: Pare some cucumbers and sieve enough of the pulp to fill two breakfast cups, and stir into this salt and pepper to taste, and the juice of a lemon; dissolve from one-half ounce to three-quarters of an ounce of gelatine in half a breakfast cup of hot water; stir this thoroughly into the pulp (which should be kept in a cool place), then pour this mixture into the mold, and turn out when cold. The cucumber pulp never goes onto the fire, but only the gelatine. A drop or two of vegetable green coloring would probably be an addition.—Indiana Farmer.

MAKING NUT CRISP.

Chop your nut meats, and for each cupful of these have one cupful of granulated sugar; put the chopped nuts where you can reach them from the stove where you cook the sugar, and have a buttered pan at hand. Put the sugar in the skillet, and put nothing with it save a spoon for stirring; stir and watch closely until it is melted in a pale yellow liquid, then instantly pour in the nuts and take off the stove, pouring at once into the buttered pan. Try a little at first, as the whole process must be very rapid. This makes a delicious confection, if prepared right. A hodge-podge of nuts and fruit is nice in this candy.—S. M., in The Commoner.

CONUNDRUM PIE.

Find as many riddles which you can answer with an object as you have guests. Many can be taken from the lists given for the picture galleries game. Write the conundrums upon tiny slips of paper and put them in English walnut shells tied together with baby ribbon. Have a long ribbon reaching from the nut at each place to the centre of the pie, which is covered, child party fashion, with tissue paper. The guests are asked to read their riddles when they first sit down and after the meal is finished, each pulls out his answer from the pie. For instance, "When is a lady's arm not a lady's arm?" pulls out a little white bear, or any other small bear from the pie, which is left as a souvenir, and from which the real answer to the riddle has still to be worded: "When it is a little bare." "Where is happiness always to be found?" is answered by a tiny dictionary. "What is it that is always ready for action?" is answered by a pair of scissors.

Soak ink stains in sour milk. If a dark stain remains, rinse in a weak solution of chloride of lime.

Stick a few cloves into the meat for making stock. It will impart an agreeable flavor to it.

A woman who enjoys cooking says she finds that thickened soups require nearly double the seasoning used for thin, clear soups.

When creaming butter for sugar for a cake, beat with a fork instead of a spoon. The work will thereby be hastened.

In putting away knives and other steel instruments, oil them slightly, and wrap them in tissue paper. This will prevent their rusting.

If when making apple sauce you find you are without a lemon for flavoring, use in place, if convenient, the grated peel of a very tart orange and the apple sauce will be found delicious.

Rag carpet rugs are having a renaissance in homes where old-fashioned furniture is used. The colors are woven into a harmony much more pleasing than the crudities of old-style rag carpet.

When preparing biscuits, shortcakes or piecrust do not rub the batter through the flour too thoroughly. To make them flaky the shortening should run in streaks or flakes through the dough.

In hot weather, when stocks and gravies are kept from day to day, it is well to reheat them each day, putting them into freshly scalded jars. In spring and autumn; when the weather is mild, every other day will be sufficient. Keep them in as cool a place as possible.

DEATH AND WRECK IN TYPHOON AT H

Terrific Storm Casts Go... From the Harbo...

MANY NATIVES LOS...

Crowded River Swept... Perish—American ... Disaster—Structures ... Streets Blocked

Hongkong—A... irresistible vi... city in the ea... its fury for tw... bor and the w... hundred pers... twenty-one sh... including ... sels of diff... wrecked or ba... on water and l... millions.

The visitat... the China S... wind storm of t... Valley of the ... a velocity of m... hour. Its power w... an instant it had ... into the city st... buildings and h... though from th... ands of cannon ...

Although th... a condition tha... typhoon. But is ... lowed by one, th... of the coming ... cane. Under ... the usual harb... gress when the s... ping without w... pitched ashore, ... sea walls were s... Steamers, sailing ... pans and ferry ... the streets and ... were blocked with ...

The greatest lo... the natives. Peak R... ed with boats, ... hundreds to the l... sible now to estimate ... that perished.

Among the few s... which escaped dam... of Japan. An ... lided with the Britis... more, seriously dam... The British steamer L... lided with the Britis... Shing, with slight d... boat Fatshang for... mailboat Polynesia.

The British st... the German steam... man steamer Em... British steamer Ch... man steamer Septa... ryboat and a wat... ashore. The Am... sogon and the G... hanne are awash. A ... er is stranded on K... British river gun... leaking badly, th... boat destroyer Fran... and two others dra... the entire length o...

The American ... cock was driv... shore. The Brit... Kwong Chow. Sa... Lee foundered. T... Charles Hardoin ... little Chinese steame... beached.

Numerous st... lighters founder... wooden piers on th... demolished.

The British G... immediately start... homeless. A C... the damage will no... weeks. No Americ... to have been killed or ...

Hongkong is an ... the China Sea off th... from which it is ... row strait. It was ... Britain by treaty ... stead has a well ... Victoria, the c... called Hongko... magnificent ... setting up into the ... island. Hongk... of the foreign ... exports are ... $125,000,000 and ... 000,000. As a ... Chinese soil it is the ... in its political ... and is the he... tary, naval and ... ments. The ... the city, is ab...

UNA PRAISED.

ESTHER M. MILNER

Box 321, DeGraff, Ohio
artman, Columbus, Ohio

Sir:—
I a terrible sufferer from weakness and had headache mously. I was not able to do my rk for myself and husband e you and described my condition s well as possible. You recommended I took four bottles of it and was ly cured. I think Peruna a ful medicine and have recom- it to my friends, with the very results.

Esther M. Milner.

few of the great multitude of wom- have been relieved of some pelvic or weakness by Peruna ever con- give a testimonial to be read by lic.

are, however, a few courageous nking women who will for the sake suffering sisters allow their cures- blished.

Milner is one of these. In her e for her restoration to health she is willing that the women of the whole world should know it. A chronic inva- lid brought back to no small matter. Words are in e to express complete gratitude.

ATEFUL TER TO ARTMAN

Divorce Among the Burmese.

The marriage customs of the Burmese are simple in the extreme. A man and woman are married or are not married, according to whether they live as husband and wife or not. A man may have several wives, though in practice he rarely has more than one.

A woman may have only one husband. Divorce is a matter for the elders. No court is necessary, no decree, no appeal to legal or ecclesiastical authority. Divorce is simply the breaking of a status. A wife has control of all her property after marriage; she has a half share in the property acquired during marriage. If she is divorced, she takes back her own property and half that jointly acquired. There is no blending of property or authority with that of her husband. She may do what she will with her own.

There is no rule of primogeniture and no power of bequeathing property by testament. All the children inherit equally. No Buddhist may make a will. Whatever a man or woman may have possessed of must be divided according to the rules of consanguinity. There is no preference of either sex. Children are equal in this matter. The eldest son shares alike with the youngest daughter.—Lahore Tribune.

...'s dairy and food commissioner ...ers "nothing worse than veal" ...ample can of "potted chicken." ...s more encouraging to the ...g Post than the "twenty-cent" ...n of Omaha brandy, which con- ... "traces of ferrous sulphate, ...ric acid, colocynth, colchicum, ...us indicus, strychnine, tobacco, ..., and acetate of lead."

THE WAY OUT

...e of Food Brought Success and Happiness.

...ambitious but delicate girl, ...failing to go through school on ...t of nervousness and hysteria, ...in Grape-Nuts the only thing ...eemed to build her up and fur- ...er the peace of health.

...om infancy," she says, "I have ...en strong. Being ambitious to ...at any cost I finally got to the ...School, but soon had to aban- ...y studies on account of nervous ...ation and hysteria.

...y food did not agree with me, I ...thin and despondent. I could ...njoy the simplest social affair ...suffered constantly from nerv- ...s in spite of all sorts of medi- ...

...is wretched condition contin- ...ntil I was twenty-five, when I ...e interested in the letters of ... who had cases like mine and ...were being cured by eating ...-Nuts.

...had little faith but procured a ...and after the first dish I ex- ...ced a peculiar satisfied feeling ...I had never gained from any ...ary food. I slept and rested ...that night and in a few days ...to grow stronger.

...had a new feeling of peace and ...ilness. In a few weeks, to my ...joy, the headaches and nerv- ...s left me and life became ...and hopeful. I resumed my ...s and later taught ten months ...ease—of course using Grape- ...every day. It is now four years ...I began to use Grape-Nuts, I ...e mistress of a happy home and ...old weakness has never re- ...d." Name given by Postum ...attle Creek, Mich.

...here's a reason." Read the lit- ...book, "The Road to Wellville."

ADMIRAL CHICHESTER

He Was the Man Who ... Dewey's Fleet at M...

Gibraltar.—Rear-A... ward Chichester, ... the British squadron a... ing the Spanish-Am... here of pneumonia af... a few days.

It was Sir Edward C... according to report, ... Americans in Manila Ba... when friction ... Dewey and the German ... seemed likely to lea... sequences.

Accused of Embezzling

Suspected of embezzling ... Bland von den Berg, a ... rector of the South Holla... Rotterdam, has been arr... shares of the bank dropp... cent. on the Bourse.

Old Merchant Assas...

Mariana, Ark.—Word w... here of the assassination of ... ley, an old and respected ... about ten miles southwest ... place. There is no clue to ... trators of the murder, and ... is shrouded in mystery.

Colon.—In a head-on ... Mammal between two ... trains three Americans and ... Indians were killed.

DEATH AND WRECK IN TYPHOON AT HONG KONG

Terrific Storm Casts Great Vessels From the Harbor

MANY NATIVES LOSE

Crowded River Swept, [illegible] Perish—American [illegible] Disaster—Structures [illegible] Streets Blocked.

Hongkong.—A cyclonic storm of irresistible violence broke over this city in the early afternoon, its fury for two hours upon the sea and the water front. Several persons perished, many ocean-going ships and sailing craft, including ocean liners and steamers of different nations, were wrecked or badly damaged, and property and landed property amounting to millions of dollars was destroyed.

The visitation was the most severe that Hongkong, exactly in the path of typhoons which sweep the China Sea, has experienced in many years. The wind swept the Pearl River Valley of the United States, a velocity of more than 100 miles an hour. Its power was so great that for an instant it had the effect of stopping the clocks of the city. Even the massive granite buildings trembled from the force of the wind, and many of them suffered damage from the impact of cannon balls.

Although the barometer was not a complete indication of the storm's approach, it is only fair to say that, followed by one, there was no warning of the coming of the whirlwind. Under ordinary circumstances the usual harbor work was progressing when the storm struck. Vessels were pitched ashore, and the docks and sea wall were strewn with wreckage. Steamers, sailing vessels, junks, sampans and ferryboats were piled in the streets and the flooded houses were blocked with the wreckage.

The greatest loss of life was on the sea. Pearl River was filled with boats, and the storm descended to the bottom. It is impossible to estimate the number of persons who perished.

Among the few steamers in the harbor which escaped damage is the British steamer Lennox, of Glasgow. An unknown steamer was filled with the British steamer Shina, with slight damage. The mail boat Fatshang foiled the mailboat Polynesian.

The British steamer Moon, the German steamer Signal, the German steamer Emma Luise, the British steamer Changsha, the Japanese steamer Soyta, the Kowloon ferryboat and a waterboat were driven ashore. The American steamer Nanking and the German steamer Namoa are aweash. A Japanese steamer is stranded on Kellett's Island. The British river gunboat Moorhen is leaking badly, the French gunboat Decrouy is aground, and two or three dragged their anchors the entire length of the harbor.

The American steamer S. P. Shortridge was driven high and dry ashore. The British river steamer Kwong Chow, Sze Chuan and Lee Foo foundered. The French steamer Charles Hardouin was damaged. Both Chinese steamer Wing-on-Tai and Wing-beached.

Numerous steam launches, lighters foundered, and many wooden piers on the water front were demolished.

The British Government immediately started to succor the homeless. A complete estimate of the damage will not be obtainable for weeks. No Americans are reported to have been killed or injured.

Hongkong is an island situated on the China Sea off the coast of China, from which it is separated by a narrow strait. It was ceded to Great Britain by treaty in 1842, and is well protected. Victoria, the capital (itself also called Hongkong), is situated on the magnificent bay of the same name, which runs up into the north side of the island. Hongkong is a great entrepot of the foreign trade of China. Exports are roughly estimated at $125,000,000 and imports at $100,000,000. As a British colony Hongkong is important in its political and commercial aspects, and is the headquarters of military, naval and mercantile establishments. The population of the city is about 275,000.

ADMIRAL CHICHESTER

He Was the Man Who Met Dewey's Fleet at Manila.

Gibraltar.—Rear-Admiral Edward Chichester, who commanded the British squadron at Manila during the Spanish-American war, died here of pneumonia after an illness of a few days.

It was Sir Edward Chichester who, according to report, "stood by" the Americans in Manila Bay on the day when friction between Admiral Dewey and the German commander seemed likely to lead to serious consequences.

Accused of Embezzling $1,000,000.

Suspected of embezzling $1,000,000, Bland von den Berg, a notary public and director of the South Holland Trust Co. of Rotterdam, has been arrested. The shares of the bank dropped 20 per cent. on the Bourse.

Old Merchant Assassinated.

Mariana, Ark.—Word was received here of the assassination of Thomas Ridley, an old and respected merchant, about ten miles southwest of this place. There is no clue to the perpetrators of the murder, and the affair is shrouded in mystery.

Colon.—In a head-on collision between two canal construction trains three Americans and seven Indians were killed.

PERUNA PRAISED.

MRS. ESTHER M. MILNER.

Box 321, DeGraff, Ohio.

"I was a terrible sufferer from weakness and had headache constantly. I was not able to do my housework for myself and husband. I wrote you and described my condition as well as possible. You recommended Peruna and I took four bottles of it and was entirely cured. I think Peruna a wonderful medicine and have recommended it to my friends, with the very best results.

Esther M. Milner.

Among the great multitude of women who have been relieved of some pelvic ailment or weakness by Peruna ever consider it a testimonial to be read by the public.

There are, however, a few courageous, noble women who will for the sake of suffering sisters allow their cures to be published.

Mrs. Milner is one of these. In her letter to Dr. Hartman, giving the history of her restoration to health she says she is willing that the women of the whole world should know what Peruna has done for her. A chronic invalid brought back to health is no small matter. Words are inadequate to express complete gratitude.

GRATEFUL WOMEN TO DR. HARTMAN

Divorce Among the Burmese.

The marriage customs of the Burmese are simple in the extreme. A man and woman are married or are not married, according to whether they live as husband and wife or not. A man may have several wives, but in practice he rarely has more than one.

A woman may have only one husband. Divorce is a matter for the elders. No court is necessary to decree, no appeal to legal or ecclesiastical authority. Divorce is the breaking of a status. A wife has control of all her property whether married; she has a half share in property acquired during marriage. If she is divorced, she takes her own property and half that jointly acquired. There is no blending of authority with that of her husband. She may do what she will with her own.

There is no rule of primogeniture in the matter of bequeathing property in marriage. All the children inherit. No Buddhist may make a will. Whatever a man or woman may be possessed of must be divided according to the rules of consanguinity. There is no preference of either sex. Children are equal in this matter. The eldest son shares alike with the youngest daughter.—Lahore Tribune.

The dairy and food commissioner considers nothing worse than veal" and a sample can of "potted chicken." It is more encouraging to the reading Post than the "twenty-cent" bottle of Omaha brandy, which contains traces of ferrous sulphate, aconite and colocynth, colchicum, nux vomica, strychnine, tobacco, opium and acetate of lead."

THE WAY OUT

Use of Food Brought Success and Happiness.

An ambitious but delicate girl, failing to go through school on account of nervousness and hysteria, found in Grape-Nuts the only thing that seemed to build her up and further the peace of health.

"From infancy," she says, "I have been a sufferer. Being ambitious to graduate at any cost I finally got to the High School, but soon had to abandon my studies on account of nervous prostration and hysteria.

"Certain food did not agree with me, I became morbid and despondent. I could not enjoy the simplest social affair and suffered constantly from nervousness in spite of all sorts of medicine.

"This wretched condition continued until I was twenty-five, when I became interested in the letters of people who had cases like mine and were being cured by eating Grape-Nuts.

"I had little faith but procured a package and after the first dish I experienced a peculiar satisfied feeling that I had never gained from any ordinary food. I slept and rested well that night and in a few days began to grow stronger.

"I had a new feeling of peace and happiness in a few weeks, to my great joy, the headaches and nervousness left me and life became bright and hopeful. I resumed my studies and later taught ten months without ease—of course using Grape-Nuts every day. It is now four years since I began to use Grape-Nuts, I am the mistress of a happy home and the old weakness has never returned." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

HOUSE APRONS.

A friend says: "I use flour sacks for my every day aprons. They are cheap and easily washed, as they can be boiled, and they are good for afternoon aprons, too. One always looks neat in a white apron and they are so much nicer to cook in than colored aprons. They can be made in different ways. I have ruffles on mine, and always have a supply on hand, so that when one gets dirty I can put on a clean one."—Indiana Farmer.

TIME SAVERS.

Among the many useful and time saving kitchen utensils that cause the old-fashioned housekeeper to open her eyes in amazement, are olive stoners, potato and orange peelers, pea shellers, almond grinders, ice shavers and crushers, cheese toasters, corn scrapers, pineapple snips (for taking out the eyes of pineapples, which every housekeeper knows is a difficult process with an ordinary knife), flower scissors, alarm bell egg broilers, salad oil droppers (an arrangement for pouring oil in dressing drop by drop), clothes sprinklers, pie and cake lifters, fruit jar holders for holding hot glass jars when preserving, sandwich cutters (these are for various fancy shapes), etc. To these are now added odorless stewing pots.

A HOME EMERGENCY OUTFIT.

In the country, where medical aid is often far off, many precious hours must elapse before a physician's skill can be secured, and it is needful for the housemother to know "what to do until the doctor comes." Very often life may depend upon proper management during this period.

Every household should have an emergency outfit made up of clean linen rags, or sterilized gauze, a roll of absorbent cotton, several rolls of bandages, from one-half to two and a half inches wide (each roll containing about five yards), a spool of adhesive plaster a half inch wide, an ounce of boracic acid powder, a two or three ounce bottle of carbolic acid, a bag of clean salt, a cake of clean aseptic soap, a bottle of lysol, a clean white, porcelain washbowl, clean towels, a piece of stout new muslin bandage about a yard long, smooth stick eighteen inches long and a half inch in diameter, a graduated measuring glass. Besides these, two fomentation cloths a yard wide by two yards long.

All these should be made clean and sterile, or free from germs, and wrapped in a clean sheet, and then in a square of clean, new Mackintosh, and then placed where they can be gotten at at once.—Housekeeper.

RECIPES.

Orange Pudding—Mix thoroughly together one and one half cups fine dry bread crumbs, one scant cup fine chopped suet, one cup sugar, two well beaten eggs, one-half cup milk, the juice and grated yellow rind of one orange and a tablespoonful orange extract. Have ready six cups well greased, fill with the mixture, set in a steamer or saucepan where the water reaches up two-thirds of the moulds, cover and steam thirty minutes. Turn out on a dish and serve with hard sauce flavored with orange.

Stuffed Tangerines—Mince and mix three bananas, two lemons, two apples, the pulp of six oranges, half a pineapple, and a half pound seedless raisins. Cut a hole in the stem end of tangerines or other oranges, and scoop out the inside of the fruit, mixing it with the other ingredients. Pack the mince in the orange shells and freeze.

Shirred Eggs—Mix together three tablespoonfuls of cold minced chicken, a pinch of chopped parsley, two or three drops of onion juice, one tablespoonful of minced cold boiled ham or tongue, a dash of cayenne pepper and sufficient sweet cream to form a paste, line with this four individual shirring dishes, breaking into the center of each a raw egg, sprinkle lightly with salt and dot with bits of butter, running into a hot oven only until the eggs are set. Serve immediately in the baking dishes, garnished with plumes of parsley.

Ragout of Eggs—Boil six eggs for half an hour (which renders them more digestible), then carefully remove the shells and cut in halves; when quite cold scoop out the yolks and mash to a paste, adding a saltspoonful of salt, half the amount of white pepper, a teaspoonful of tomato catsup, a pinch of celery salt and a tablespoonful of grated bread crumbs; blend thoroughly and fill into the egg whites, heating in a thick brown sauce to which a half a cupful of chopped olives have been added. Serve on a hot platter, with the sauce poured over and surrounded by a border of toast triangles.

Little Savory Potato Cakes—Twelve tablespoonfuls of floury potatoes, eight tablespoonfuls of white flour, two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese, one tablespoonful of cream, the yolks of two eggs, one teaspoonful of baking powder, salt and cayenne to taste. Boil the potatoes and rub through a fine seive. Add the butter, flour, cheese, baking powder and seasoning and blend thoroughly. Mix into a light dough with the cream and the yolks of the eggs. Roll out about half an inch thick, cut into little rounds and brush over with the beaten egg. Bake in a rather quick oven until a nice brown. Split in two, butter and sprinkle with a very little finely chopped parsley

A Successful Man.

The successful man of to-day is the one who has an education that has a market value, contends the Louisville Courier-Journal. This applies to all classes of men. The writer, the lawyer, the surgeon, the merchant and the engineer, can measure his value to the world largely by what men are willing to pay for his service. The conception of an education has been greatly modified in recent years. A man is educated who is skilled in doing some useful thing; who manifests an interest in all men engaged in useful work; who is always striving to be more skillful and better informed in his own work. The beauties of art, literature and philosophy do not belong to any class of men.

Reform moves on to the accomplishment of good, regardless of the motives and purpose of those who become its instruments, philosophises the Memphis News-Scimitar.

FITS, St. Vitus' Dance, Nervous Diseases permanently cured by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. H. R. Kline, Ld., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Five thousand Russian Jews emigrated to Palestine in June.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle

Vegetables are capable of producing intoxication.

A Pittsburg clergyman preached a sermon on "Successful Sin," and he had a good many of his congregation fidgeting, according to the Washington Post, until it turned out that he had no intention of mentioning names.

After a number of repeaters and other defiers of the law of the land have studied matters in the enforced privacy of prison walls, suggests the New York Tribune, it is probable that breaking laws will not be considered such great fun as it has been in the past.

TYNER'S DYSPEPSIA REMEDY.

Many Have Dyspepsia and Don't Know It.

Do you belch up wind? Taste your food after eating? See specks before your eyes? Are you pale and haggard? Does your heart flutter? Are you dizzy? Do you have pains in side or back? Risings or pimples on the skin? Are you low-spirited? Is there a sour taste? Breath bad? Headache? Weak kidneys? Bilious? Constipated? Are you nervous? If so, you have Dyspepsia, and it is a dangerous condition. To cure, take Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy. It is made for just such troubles and symptoms. Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy removes acids from the stomach, strengthens weak stomachs and cures the worst Dyspepsia or Indigestion. Druggists or by express 50 cents a bottle. Money refunded if it fails to cure. Medical advice and circular free by writing to Tyner Remedy Co., Augusta, Ga.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer notes that the new Illinois uniform primaries law curtails the power of the bosses and gives the voters a far wider field of choice than the nominating system usually employed. It is good, as far as it goes; but no law can compel lazy or indifferent voters to do their duty either as party men or citizens.

SORES FROM HEAD TO FOOT.

Covered With Crusted Scaly Eczema When One Month Old—Cured by Cuticura at Expense of $4.50.

"When I was one month old I was taken with eczema. After being under the treatment of two doctors for one month, and no improvement, my mother was advised by a druggist to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I was one crust of sores from head to foot. My mother could brush the scales off my body, and my finger and toe nails fell. After using six cakes of Cuticura Soap and about as much Cuticura Ointment I was completely cured. I am now seventeen years old, and my skin has not a scar. I am still finding wonders in Cuticura; after washing a fever blister two days it was completely gone. Your Cuticura friend, Miss Eola Glasscock, Marksville, La., Oct. 27, 1905."

It is a significant fact, observes the New York Sun, that in June, when the price of brick was declining, the building statistics for twenty-three of the leading cities of the United States indicated an investment of $50,000,000 in new constructions, as against $48,000,000 in the same month a year ago.

The paramount object in the culture of the grape in most parts of the world has been the obtaining of wine. The extent of this will not be surprising and hardly believed by those not acquainted with the statistics. Thus, for instance, there are annually produced on the globe over 4,000,000,000 gallons of wine. Of this amount, the United States produces only about 50,000,000 gallons.

Tired, Nervous Mothers

Make Unhappy Homes—Their Condition Irritates Both Husband and Children—How Thousands of Mothers Have Been Saved From Nervous Prostration and Made Strong and Well.

Mrs. Chester Curry — Mrs. Chas. F. Brown

A nervous, irritable mother, often on the verge of hysterics, is unfit to care for children; it ruins a child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The trouble between children and their mothers too often is due to the fact that the mother has some female weakness, and she is entirely unfit to bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves; it is impossible for her to do anything calmly.

The ills of women act like a firebrand upon the nerves, consequently nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability? Are your spirits easily affected, so that one minute you laugh, and the next minute you feel like crying?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the abdominal region, and between the shoulders; bearing-down pains; nervous dyspepsia and almost continually cross and snappy?

If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous prostration than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women can testify to this fact.

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

Mrs. Chester Curry, Leader of the Ladies' Symphony Orchestra, 42 Saratoga Street, East Boston, Mass., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"For eight years I was troubled with extreme nervousness and hysteria, brought on by irregularities. I could neither enjoy life nor sleep nights: I was very irritable, nervous and despondent.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and proved to be the only remedy that helped me. I have daily improved in health until I am now strong and well, and all nervousness has disappeared."

Mrs. Charles F. Brown, Vice-President of the Mothers' Club, 21 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I dragged through nine years of miserable existence, worn out with pain and nervousness, until it seemed as though I should fly. I then noticed a statement of a woman troubled as I was, and the wonderful results she derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I decided to try it. I did so, and at the end of three months I was a different woman. My nervousness was all gone, I was no longer irritable, and my husband fell in love with me all over again."

Women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine that holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of female ills, and take no substitute.

Free Advice to Women.

Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write to her for advice. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with female troubles enables her to advise you wisely, and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat declares that we can and we should either enforce or change the law. We should either legalize lynchings or stop them. There can be no middle ground, no compromise on any question which involves the integrity of the law.

The New York Mail suggests that nobody is really sane now except the insanity experts, and there is getting to be a good deal of doubt about them.

The first music book was printed in 1495.

Raw cotton was first brought to England from Cyprus in the year 1600 and made into fustian and dimity.

Some plants are affected by chloroform just as animals.

Street beggars in London make $1,560,000 a year.

1905's output of coke exceeded any other year.

Positions GUARANTEED BY A $5,000 BANK DEPOSIT

R. R. Fare Paid. Notes Taken. 500 FREE COURSES. Board at Cost. Write Quick.

GEORGIA-ALABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

Am. 39, 1906.

WANTED Address of (1) persons of part Indian blood who are not living with any tribe, (2) of men who served in the Federal army, or (3) the nearest kin of such soldiers or sailors, now deceased. NATHAN BICKFORD, Washington, D. C.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 & $3.00 Shoes

BEST IN THE WORLD

W. L. Douglas $4 Gilt Edge line cannot be equalled at any price.

To Shoe Dealers: W. L. Douglas' Jobbing House is the most complete in this country. Send for Catalog.

SHOES FOR EVERYBODY AT ALL PRICES.

Men's Shoes, $5 to $1.50. Boys' Shoes, $3 to $1.25. Women's Shoes, $4.00 to $1.50. Misses' & Children's Shoes, $2.25 to $1.00.

Try W. L. Douglas Women's, Misses' and Children's shoes; for style, fit and wear they excel other makes.

If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W. L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than any other make.

Wherever you live, you can obtain W. L. Douglas shoes. His name and price is stamped on the bottom, which protects you against high prices and inferior shoes. Take no substitute. Ask your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes and insist upon having them.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles. W. L. DOUGLAS, Dept. 15, Brockton, Mass.

Japan gets 188,000 recruits yearly for her regular army.

YOU CANNOT CURE

all inflamed, ulcerated and catarrhal conditions of the mucous membrane such as nasal catarrh, uterine catarrh caused by feminine ills, sore throat, sore mouth or inflamed eyes by simply dosing the stomach.

But you surely can cure these stubborn affections by local treatment with

Paxtine Toilet Antiseptic

which destroys the disease germs, checks discharges, stops pain, and heals the inflammation and soreness.

Paxtine represents the most successful local treatment for feminine ills ever produced. Thousands of women testify to this fact. 50 cents at druggists.

Send for Free Trial Box

THE R. PAXTON CO., Boston, Mass.

CAPUDINE

CURES It acts immediately—you feel its effects in a few minutes. You don't wait a week to know its good. It cures INDIGESTION and ACIDITY HEADACHES ALSO by removing the cause. 10 cents.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.

Removes all swelling in from 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B, Atlanta, Ga.

Wintersmith's CHILL TONIC

CURES CHILLS AND ALL MALARIAL FEVERS.

Has been a standard household remedy for over 40 years. Pleasant to take; leaves no bad effects like quinine; harmless for children. Guaranteed by all druggists. Put up in 50c and $1 bottles. Sent express paid on receipt of price, if not on sale at the home drug store. Address

ARTHUR PETER & CO., General Agents, Louisville, Ky.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c. package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. Perfect to any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Unionville, Missouri

THERE IS ONE REMEDY

THAT IS NOT AFFECTED BY THE PURE FOOD AND DRUG LAW

AND THAT IS

OXIDINE

IT IS PURE AND ALWAYS HAS BEEN

REMEMBER, in offering it for sale we guarantee to you that it contains no poison; and we go further and give with every bottle the straightforward additional guarantee that

Oxidine is the Chill Cure that cures Chills and Fevers, and that as a Malaria Remedy it positively has no equal

Sold by druggists everywhere, who guarantee every bottle.

PRICE 50 CENTS — Made in Regular and Tasteless forms.

Read the following letters from grateful ones who have been cured:

Kennedale, Texas.

Patton-Worsham Drug Co., Dallas, Texas.

Dear Sirs:—I want to inform you that Oxidine has cured me and my family of the worst siege of chills and malaria that I ever saw.

After paying the doctors $50.00 I began the use of Oxidine with the most gratifying results. We are all entirely well now and there has been no reappearance of malaria in the family for over two months.

You are at liberty to use this testimonial if you desire.

Yours truly, J. H. FIELDING.

Omaha, Texas.

Patton-Worsham Drug Co., Dallas, Texas.

Gentlemen:—

I have used Oxidine for years, and I think it the finest chill cure I ever saw; one should not be without it.

yours truly, MRS. JUTTIE CASON.

MANUFACTURED BY

Patton-Worsham Drug Co. DALLAS, TEXAS MEMPHIS, TENN.

OXIDINE, THE CHILL CURE THAT CURES CHILLS

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed

To Cure, or Money Refunded by Your Merchant. So, Why Not Try IT? Price, 50c. Retail.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The Sunday school convention of District No. 1 met with Jemison Baptist church September 23, 1906. Devotional exercises conducted by Judson Strock. The convention was called to order by President W. H. Shaw, followed by a short welcome address by J. A. Caddell, with response by the president. "The Growth of the Sunday School" was discussed by Messrs. J. A. Skeggs and J. P. Gentry. "The Sunday School as a Character Builder," Prof. R. A. Rasco; "Influence of the Sunday School for Good," Judson Strock and J. A. Caddell. "Why Adults Do Not Attend the Sunday School," Messrs W. H. Shaw, A. Glasscock, J. A. Skeggs, J. P. Gentry and Judson Strock. "The Ideal Sunday School Teacher," Miss Helia Johnson, with a very fine talk also by R. A. Rasco. "Problems in the Sunday School," J. A. Skeggs, J. A. Caddell and C. B. Northcutt. "The Relation of the Sunday School to the Church," C. L. Glasscock, J. P. Gentry and J. A. Skeggs. We also had a recitation by Miss Anna Lowery. The convention will hold its next session with Rocky Mount church. Sunday school workers, let us get new life in us and work as we have never worked. I hope to see every Sunday school represented in our next convension.

J. F. LOWERY,
Secretary.

PREACHING AT MT. PLEASANT.

Rev. B. H. Vickers will preach at Mt. Pleasant church on the fifth Sunday in September at 11 a. m.

Rev. W. P. Lowery will preach at Mt. Pleasant church the first Sunday in October at 11 a. m. tf

CEDAR GROVE.

Farmers are busy cotton picking in this part of the globe. Rev. T. J. Ledbetter filled his regular appointment Sunday and baptized six converts. Will Mims and Lee Vickers attended the singing at Highlands Sunday and report a nice time. W. F. Littlejohn and wife spent Sunday at W. L. Collins'. Misses Stella Pounds and Minnie Price visited Miss Media Collins Sunday. Miss Flosie May Robertson, of Clanton, is visiting Mrs. Alphia Hayes. Misses Zula and Hattie Littlejohn were guests of J. W. Hay's family Sunday. Mrs. Reuben Chilcress, of Pleasant Grove, is visiting in this vicinity. We are glad to learn that Mrs. Lula Mims, who is now in the hospital at Birmingham, is improving, and hope she will soon be able to return home. Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Riggins spent Saturday night with Frank Price's family. Say to "Union Member" come again and often for your letter is all "O. K."

CEDAR GROVITE.

CEDAR GROVE.

The prayer meeting here every Sunday night is well attended. Lee Pate is building him a nice dwelling. T. W. Childress and J. W. Hays will erect their new barn soon. A boy commences work every Monday morning and the point he works to is Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Scott were in Clanton Friday. We welcome "Bill Dooley," of Jemison, with his weekly letter. I thank "Union Member" for wanting to hear from me. Lee Vickers, Marion Mims and Will Mims all attended the singing convention at Highland last Sunday. Mrs. J. W. Riggins has returned from a visit to Birmingham. We've got to pick cotton and can't think of much news. O. J. Poole and David Childress visited Mose Fletcher on the 15th inst. Success to The Union.

"ONE ALONE."

KINCHEON.

Editor Union:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words. I understand your law is getting warm in Beats 3 and 6. Well, I want to ask the people if they know what they want, or what they are voting for, when they vote for stock law? What will we do if we have stock law and boll weevil? We have not to make cotton to buy it with. Now are we going to raise corn and meat without fertilizer to raise corn with? Well, when we have stock law we will also have no school in a few years to educate our children, for the people will move out till there won't be enough left in the county to run a school. The white people will move out and the negro will move in, so we will be well fixed. Boys, don't let any one gag you with the idea that if you have stock law in the beat joining your beat that they can ant we can in the stock out of the stock law into your beat and you will have to be devised with them, for there will be no way to prevent that. So when the time comes to vote on stock law, vote just like you did not intend to have it, and if you can keep it down you will see in the end which will prosper. With best wishes to The Union and its many readers.

D. J. ROLLAN.

LIBERTY HILL.

Editor Union:

Farmers of this place are very busy picking cotton, but having lots of rain and cotton is wasting. The Sunday school here is still doing nicely. We sure do miss Rev. A. L. Foshee when he is absent; wish he could be with us every Sunday, but as he can't we are glad to see the third Sunday come. There was a large crowd from here at the all-day singing at Highland among whom we noticed Sam Shaw and his lovely sister, Miss Nicey; Misses Lucinda and Cynthia Littlejohn. R. A. S., T. H. S. and H. G. F. are regular visitors at Liberty, taking part in the Sunday school.

"A COTTON PICKER."

BETHANY.

Editor Union:

Mrs. W. H. Aron and son, "Jim," of Pratt City, were visitors at her brother's, J. M. Parker. Miss Minnie Price and Miss Stella Pounds were welcome guests of Miss Meadie Collins Sunday. O. P. looked long-faced Sunday. I wonder if he got left? Success to The Union. MISS LOGWOOD.

NEED MORE.

Everybody is so busy picking cotton I've not much news to write, but those good pieces in our paper last week makes me want to say an encouraging word. I know the farmers are sorry to see so much rain, for what cotton there is looks like it was all open. Mr. and Mrs. Seaborn Riggins were visitors at W. C. Jones' Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones visited near Lomax Sunday. John Massey was shaking hands with his many friends in this vicinity last week. Bro. A. D. Masse paid us a short call Sunday. Wishing The Union success.

BUTTERFLY.

JEMISON.

Jemison, Ala., Sept. 24, 1906.

Editor Union:

Rev. J. A. Beal paid friends here a pleasant visit last Tuesday and conducted prayer meeting, to the delight of all there.

Sunday school convention was held here Sunday and was a success in every particular. A large crowd was in attendance.

Mr. W. E. Lowery and daughter and Misses Mattie Patton and Nelia Johnson attended the opening of Howard College at East Lake last week.

M. H. Toland, of Oxford, is a visitor here this week.

Mrs. Frank Turnblom and little son paid home folks a pleasant visit last week.

Mr. I. N. Langston is able to be out again, to the delight of his many friends.

P. E. Keller, of Randolph, was a pleasant visitor at the home of W. R. Jackson Sunday.

Jeff Hand, of this place, has entered Howard College.

W. R. Jackson and family and "Hop" Killingworth, of Kalona, spent Sunday here with friends attending the Sunday school convention and tent meeting.

P. L. Harper, our obliging agent of this place, made a flying trip to Sagginaw Monday night.

A great deal of rain has fallen for the last few days and the farmers are behind with their cotton picking.

As everybody seems to be busy and very well satisfied, I will close, with best wishes to The Union and it many reads. Yours truly,

BILL DOOLY.

THE NEW YORK WORLD.

Thrice-a-Week Edition—Read Wherever the English Language Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World, now that a great Presidential campaign is foreshadowed, hopes to be a better paper than it has ever been before, and it has made arrangements accordingly. Its news service covers the entire globe, and it reports everything fully promptly and accurately. It is the only newspaper, not a daily, which is as good as a daily, and which will keep you as completely informed of what is happening throughout the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes novels by the best authors in the world, novels which in book form sell for $1.50 apiece, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Union together for one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2. tf

A WOMAN'S HAIR-PIN.

An exchange says that "there is scarcely anything that a woman can't do with a hair-pin. She uses it to pick her teeth, button her shoes, fasten up stray locks of hair, clean the children's ears, scratch her head, clean out her husband's pipe, run into cakes to see if they are done, and many other purposes that poor deluded men know nothing about."

FOR SALE.

A fine yoke of oxen, about 3 years old, to be sold cheap. I live five miles east of Jemison.

MARION GLASSCOCK.
tf Jemison, R. F. D. 2.

Life Philosophy of a Gilded Youth

By Wilson Mizner.

(He married the middle-aged, millionaire widow of Charles T. Yerkes.)

TIME belongs to no union. He never goes on a strike. While we sleep our enemy is ever at work. Sooner or later he gets us all. Life is always a disappointment. It is a big practical joke.

Work! Don't speak of it. It is the poorest excuse of an occupation I know of. No one ever got a snapshot at me doing manual labor. I hate work like the Lord hates St. Louis. But why should I work? I never committed any crime. Ugh! I wouldn't mind getting up at 7 in the morning. But if I had to I couldn't. I'd lie awake all night long thinking about it. Work is a curse. I can't understand people making such work out of pleasure.

There's this skating rink fad in New York. It's too much effort. And I never could understand a man's going to a dance with four collars in his hat extracting pleasure hopping around and perspiring. I'd get operated on for anything that would make me energetic. The ideal state of existence is rest. Sleep and food; then food and sleep, and then reverse the process. Be sure it's light, then go to bed. The sun just lulls me to sleep.

People take me for a clothes-rack; a namby-pamby jackass; a peaceful baboon who wouldn't raise his hand to help a fellow, capable of only the most elementary knowledge, two ideas being an unlawful assemblage. Dress is a secondary consideration with me. I'm a perfect slob. I only go around so the health commissioners won't complain. As for money, I don't care for that either. I have always made a lot, but I never can keep it. If I had $8 at the end of a year I'd break out in a rash.

* * *

Japan's Trade Invasion of Europe

By Major-Gen. Sir Alexander Tulloch.

SOME fifteen years ago, when there was a possibility of the manufacturers of warlike stores being too busy in England to supply what we might require in Australia, I got our minister of defense in Victoria to try what Japan could do in making rifles to special patterns. We sent a cadet's rifle (Francott) and a Wilkinson officer's sword. In a wonderfully short time we got a dozen perfectly made rifles at the same price we had hitherto given, and a dozen swords quite equal to the Wilkinson for £1 each—just one-third of our contract price for the same article from England.

In articles of ordinary use, such things as cricket bats and tennis racquets made in Japan are in Australia cutting out similar articles made in England. Last summer, when in the Highlands, I was informed that a consignment of Japanese-made nail-brushes similar to English ones had actually found its way to a town in the east of Scotland.

I found Japanese boots made to measure when I was in Yokohama so good that I now get my boots from Japan by parcel post. The material—American leather—and the make are both excellent; the price, including carriage, just one-half of what I have hitherto paid for similar boots in London.

* * *

How to Limit Big Fortunes

By Professor James Walter Crook, of Amherst College.

FORTUNES may be considered as swollen beyond healthy limits which yield from $5,000,000 to $20,000,000 a year. The methods of relief sometimes proposed are an arbitrary limit to the amount an individual may accumulate; progressive taxation of incomes, and progressive inheritance taxes. Where should the limit be drawn? The limitation is repressive and is meant to be so. It would put a premium upon relative inefficiency and deprive society of the advantage of beneficial enterprises. A progressive tax on incomes high enough to accomplish the purpose aimed at has the same disadvantages. There is left the progressive tax on inheritance. As a tax measure aiming at revenue, I approve of it. It is easily collected. As a measure to limit fortunes, however, it seems to me more doubtful. To accomplish the purpose the rate must be very high. A tax heavy enough would involve a problem of administration. Even so low a rate as 30 percent would mean a tax of $15,000,000 for every estate of $50,000,000, and there are now many fortunes of that size.

There are said to be fifty men in Pittsburg alone whose fortunes exceed that amount, and in the case of some well known fortunes the tax would amount to upward of $43,000,000. The greatest objection is the encouragement which the heavy taxation of the wealthy will give to extravagant public expenditures.

* * *

Demoralizing Effect of Money

By Walter Beverley Crane.

THE first and most conspicuous of the moral influences of money, as they are developing themselves in our actual society, is a consequence of the undeniable but prodigious fact that most rich people are radically convinced that to be rich is in itself a merit.

It is amazing, but it is so.

There are persons of this description who positively scorn other people because they are not rich, too; who look upon dollars as the one test of merit, and who regard poverty as a condition of low inferiority, if not, indeed, of absolute degradation and disgrace.

It is deplorable, but it is so.

To ask such persons, men or women, to believe that their money is nothing but a mere accident, a simple hazard of the game of life, would be like telling them that two and two make five; they could not comprehend it—the allegation would surpass their understanding. Of course, your plutocratic readers will laugh and quote Voltaire: "It is more easy to write about money than to have it; and those who have it laugh at those who can only write about it."

Yes, it is laughable, and it is so.

Thorsby, Alabama
Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. HORN
LICENSED PHARMACIST.
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

Thorsby Winery Co.
Lofthus & Brunberg, Props.

Thorsby Real Estate
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, Pres.
G. H. GERALD, Sec.
G. C. MICHELSON, Treas.

OLAF SCHIV
Watchmaker & Jeweler
FRANZEN, ... BUILDING
Full line of watches je... etc. Repair work guaran...

A. Langville & S...
Blacksmith and Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BUGGI...

P. C. SMITH
Brown Leghorn Fowls ...
Eggs.
BERKSHIRE PIG...

The Thorsby I...
G. C. Michelson, Pro...
Good Beds and Meals

J. J. Stanley
General Merchandise

MRS. MARY R. RASBER...
General Merchandise

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens

NOTICE TO LAND-OWNERS.

I wish to say that I am preparing maps or plats of each land-owner's property, giving a written description of the land, as it should be described in assessments. I am preparing these plats for the purpose of getting all errors corrected, and at the same time furnish every party an easy and correct way to keep their property correct and avoid future mistakes and annoyance, as well as (sometimes) considerable expense. These plats are made of excellent bond paper and will last a lifetime, and only cost 25 cents each, except where plats are very large, when they will cost 50 cents. Every one that has seen the plats I am making pronounce them splendid and worth many times their cost and well calculated to save their cost many times over. Any one wishing a plat can obtain it by coming to my office in Clanton with their deeds, so as to insure an accurate description.

L. B. POUNDS,
tf Tax Assessor.

TO FARMERS.

As county business manager for the F. E. and C. U. of A., I have been to the two banks in Clanton to ascertain on what terms they will loan money on cotton to those who wish to hold their cotton in the warehouse. The Clanton Bank will loan 75 per cent, and the People's Savings Bank 65 per cent, of the value of the cotton on the date of the loan this loan to bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent.

J. W. SORRELS,
Bus. Manager Chilton Co. F. E. and C. U. of A. tf

OAK GROVE.

There will be an all-day song service at Oak Grove (two miles north of Jemison) the fifth Sunday in September. The books to be used will be "All in All Songs. Everybody is invited to come, bring dinner and spend the day with us. J. B. N.

tf

STRAYED OR STOLEN.

From near my residence on June 25, one iron gray mare colt, one year old; one iron gray horse colt, with star on face, and scar on left hind leg above hock, one and a half years old. Any information leading to their recovery will be liberally rewarded.

C. C. MARTIN,
tf Calera, Ala., Rte 1.

NOTICE TO SINGING PEOPLE.

I am authorized to state through the columns of The Union that there will be an all-day singing at Jackson's Chapel on the first Sunday in October. Everybody cordially invited to come and bring somebody with them; also bring all your song books and also well filled. Yours. B. F. ...
tf

BUSINESS PROPOSITI...

The best whiskey in ... country is here. If y... don't believe it, try me.
J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera, A...
tf

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 ac... in cultivation. All in Sec... T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles S. ... of Clanton. Good dwell... house and out buildings ... 3 good tenant houses. G... and lasting well of wa... This good farming land ... be sold at a bargain. C... and see,
tf J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. No...

JOHN W. HARREL...
Jemison, Ala.
Photographer. Dealer ... all grades of enlarg... Frames made to or... Work done at your o... home by appointment

Thorsby Institu...
—Opens—
SEPTEMBER 17th, 19...
A Strong Corps of Teachers.

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Classics, Mo... Languages, Histories, ... nomics, Music, Kinder... etc.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those who ca... go no higher. Broad ... for all. Allows for spe... ization.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped, modern, ... to date in every parti...

EXPENSES:
Tuition low enough to m... the needs of every boy ... girl in Alabama.

Particulars Address:
W. J. Lamkie, Ph. B., Prin...
Thorsby, Ala.

T...

VOL IV.

THORSBY ITEMS.

Public school opened Monday with ... good attendance. The teachers are ... Miss Nash, principal, with Miss Nelia ... Jemison, of Jemison, and Miss Alma ... Strand, of Thorsby, as assistants. ... recent rain and wind storms have ... the great damage to cotton and oth... crops in this vicinity. Telegraph ... telephone communication was cu... Friday and no trains for the third ... hours ending Saturday night. M... Bill's mill was carried away ... Freeman's dam and Honeycutt's mi... Prof. R. S. Mackintosh, state ... horticulturist, was here last Wednes... and inspected John L. Winslow's ... cery and made other investigations. ... Reynolds, of Jemison, was here ... day. Scott Caverno is collecting ... taxes now and will be at the ... Thorsby Savings bank on the 10th ... and 31st of October to collect. ... Andrew Arneson, from near ... Wis., arrived here last week and ... gets to make Thorsby his home. ... O. Larson and C. F. Wheelock ... last Sunday here. James Boswor... wife returned to Birmingham Sun... Mrs. J. B. Simpson and son ... returned to their home in Bir... ham Monday after spending some ... here for the benefit of "Joe's ... Rev. A. T. Clarke is here at ... Alvin Heaton is at home ... Last week "Gant" Riggins sold ... farm to T. J. Jackson, and has ... some land from Alfred Col... near Bethel church. Monday N. ... Kicker, Carl Langville and C. W. ... appraised the value of the ... property of the Denison Lumber and ... manufacturing Company, bankrupt; ... property is for sale and bids will ... received until October 15. I. E. ... and family moved to Elmore ... week, where Mr. Sarber has ... a fine farm. P. C. Smith has ... into the Sarber house. L. ... returned last week from his ... to Minnesota. Monroe Sorrell is ... a few days at home.

BEAT NINE.

Union:

... to say this to farmers: When ... stock law and have to set ... and your bread made up with ... only, you will wish you could ... your old cow out where she could ... some grass and you could get ... milk. I've lived in stock law ... never saw so many people with ... milk in my life. Some rich men ... a pasture, and if you want ... the cow in the fee for the pas... will soon take the cow, and that ... way the poor widow's cow will ... Boys, I never heard anything ... stock law till so many people ... dinner bells round the beat; just ... ringing the bells and the cows ... come home. With best wishes ... Union. GOOD LUCK.

MAPLESVILLE.

Union:

... to say a few words to the ... of Chilton about stock law. I ... if those that are working for ... what they want? I think if ... were acquainted with the evils ... attend it, they would be far from ... a petition for it. Last winter ... man came into our settlement ... some cattle; on looking at the ... and the stock feeding on it, he ... "You people have a God-blessed ... here in Chilton. I live under ... law and we can't have scarcely ... stock at all. If you people want ... happy and agreeable, don't ... allow stock law here. I was ... that it was the thing we ... and voted for it, but I regret ... and shall as long as I live. ... can't sell my land and have ... there and be tormented all my ... I will admit that it will help ... but the question is, will it ... the poor, and I say it will. Now, ... to the honest, liberty-loving ... of Chilton, you that think you ... do right, are you going to vote ... such a thing on your neigh... and put them entirely without ... and butter and meat? That is ... what you are fixing to do if you ... for stock law. As a God-fearing ... can you with a clear conscience ... such a thing on the poor peo... this God-blessed country? I ... surely not. W. Y. NIX.

...OD ROADS DELEGATES.

... Reynolds has sent in to Sec... Rountree the following names ... gates to the Good Roads Con... to be held in Birmingham Oc... 17: Commissioners W. H. Con... Alex Glasscock, R. P. Kendrick ... Robinson, Messrs. T. J. ... Wallace C. Edler, J. W. Sor... R. Jackson, J. N. Dennis, A. ... T. U. Crumpton and J. P. ... The Judge also intends to be ... himself. Every delegate ... go, as they will learn some... about the practical upbuilding ... reads. tf

Alabam
irectory.
horsby Real Estate
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, Pres.
G. H. GERALD, SEC.
G. C. MICHELSON, Treas.
OLAF SCHIV
Watchmaker & Jeweler
FRANZEN, BUILDING
Full line of watches jew
Repair work guarante
Langville & S
Blacksmith and
Horseshoer
DEALER IN—
AGONS AND BUGGI
P. C. SMITH
own Leghorn Fowls
Eggs.
RKSHIRE PIG
he Thorsby In
C. Michelson, Prop
Good Beds and Meals.
J. J. Stanley
eneral Merchandis
RS. MARY R. RASBER
General Merchandise
J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens.
all your song books and a ba filled, Yours. B. F.
SINESS PROPOSITI
he best whiskey in t
ntry is here. If y
't believe it, try me.
J. M. COLLINS,
ace Saloon, Calera, A
tf.
FOR SALE!
oo acres land, 150 ac
ultivation. All in Se
20, R., 14, 9 miles S.
Clanton. Good dwell
se and out buildings
od tenant houses. G lasting well of wat
s good farming land
old at a bargain.
see,
J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. No.
HN W. HARREL
Jemison, Ala.
hotographer. Dealer
grades of enlargi
nes made to ord
k done at your e by appointment
orsby Institu
—Opens—
TEMBER 17th, 19
Strong Corps of Teachers.
RICULUM:
Sciences, Classics, Mod
Languages, Histories,
nomics, Music, Elocut
etc.
ARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those who car go no higher. Broad en for all. Allows for spec zation.
DINGS:
Well equipped, modern.
to date in every particul
NSES:
Tuition low enough to m
the needs of every boy
girl in Alabama.
ulars Address:
Lamkie, Ph. B., Prin
Thorsby, Ala.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., OCTOBER 4 .1906 NO. 31

THORSBY ITEMS.

Public school opened Monday with a good attendance. The teachers are Mr. Nash, principal, with Miss Nelia Johnson, of Jemison, and Miss Alma Ashford, of Thorsby, as assistants. The recent rain and wind storms have done great damage to cotton and other crops in this vicinity. Telegraph and telephone communication was cut off Friday and no trains for the thirty-six hours ending Saturday night. Mc-Cain's mill was carried away, also Thurman's gin and Honeycutt's mill. Prof. R. S. Mackintosh, state agriculturist, was here last Wednesday and inspected John L. Winslow's farm and made other investigations. Mr. Reynolds, of Jemison, was here last week. Scott Caverno is collecting staves now and will be at the Thorsby Savings bank on the 10th, 20th and 31st of October to collect them. Andrew Arneson, from Lindsborg, Wis., arrived here last week and expects to make Thorsby his home. O. Larson and C. F. Wheelock left Sunday here. James Bosworth and wife returned to Birmingham Sunday. Mrs. J. B. Simpson and son, Ralph, returned to their home in Birmingham Monday after spending some time here for the benefit of "Joe's" health. Rev. A. T. Clarke is here at present. Alvin Heaton is at home now. Last week "Gant" Riggins sold his farm to T. J. Jackson and has bought some land from Alfred Colvin near Bethel church. Monday N. Kicker, Carl Langville and C. W. Thomason appraised the value of the property of the Denison Lumber and Manufacturing Company, bankrupt; the property is for sale and bids will be received until October 15. I. E. Sarber and family moved to Elmore last week, where Mr. Sarber has bought a fine farm. P. C. Smith has moved into the Sarber house. L. Ingram returned last week from his trip to Minnesota. Monroe Sorrell is visiting a few days at home.

BEAT NINE.

Mr. Union:

I want to say this to farmers: When you get a stock law and have to set up and your bread made up with corn only, you will wish you could get your old cow out where she could get some grass and you could get some milk. I've lived in stock law and never saw so many people without milk in my life. Some rich men have a pasture, and if you want to put the cow in the fee for the pasture will soon take the cow, and that is the way the poor widow's cow will go. Boys, I never heard anything about stock law till so many people got their bells round the beat; just hanging the bells and the cows will come home. With best wishes to the Union. GOOD LUCK.

MAPLESVILLE.

Mr. Union:

I want to say a few words to the people of Chilton about stock law. I know if those that are working for it know what they want? I think if they were acquainted with the evils that attend it, they would be far from circulating a petition for it. Last winter a man came into our settlement with some cattle; on looking at the cattle and the stock feeding on it, he said: You people have a God-blessed country here in Chilton. I live under no law and we can't have scarcely any stock at all. If you people want to be happy and agreeable, don't allow stock law here. I was misled that it was the thing we signed and voted for it, but I regret it now and shall as long as I live. I can't sell my land and have to live here and be tormented all my days. I will admit that it will help the poor, but the question is, will it help the poor, and I say it will. Now, appeal to the honest, liberty-loving people of Chilton: You that think you ought to do right are you going to vote to license such a thing on your neighbors and put them entirely without bread and butter and meat? That is what you are fixing to do if you vote for stock law. As a God-fearing man can you with a clear conscience vote such a thing on the poor people of this God-blessed country? I scarcely no.

W. Y. NIX.

GOOD ROADS DELEGATES.

Gov. Reynolds has sent in to Secretary Rountree the following names of delegates to the Good Roads Convention to be held in Birmingham October 16: Commissioners W. H. Conner, Alex Glasscock, R. P. Kendrick and Thomas Robinson, Messrs. T. J. Kinney, Wallace C. Edler, J. W. Sorrell, W. R. Jackson, J. N. Dennis, A. Smith, T. U. Crumpton and J. P. Mims. The Judge also intends to be present himself. Every delegate should go, as they will learn something about the practical upbuilding of good roads. tf

HAPPY HOLLOW.

The people are preparing to chop their second crop of cotton as soon as the rain sorter stops. J. W. Mims went to Birmingham Friday to visit Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Mims, and didn't get back home till Saturday night, on account of washouts on the railroad. We were glad to learn that Mrs. Lula Mims, who is in the hospital there, is improving fast and hope she will be home soon. W. H. Aaron and wife, of Birmingham, visited J. M. Parker's Sunday. "Jim Collins' string band," accompanied by Messrs. Alvin and Terrell Bussy, gave an extraordinary concert at J. M. Parker's Saturday night. "Uncle John" says there is a lot of good music, but nothing to compare with Whistling Rufus. M. W. M. was lonely Sunday; was it the rainy weather or her absence? I notice that the derby hat has not been so lucky for the last two Sundays. I wonder if W. M. and L. V. have been off on another visit since they got back from Highlands? Miss Logwood, come again; we all like to read what you say. SHORTIE'S PET.

PROVIDENCE, BEAT 10.

Editor Union:

Our Sunday school is still moving along well, though the attendance was small Sunday, but we hope for brighter days and more scholars. Some of our people are interested in Sunday school work and will keep at it until the Lord says come up higher and enjoy the reward of the faithful. Others give evidence of the fact that they are satisfied by staying away. The rain has damaged our cotton badly and some neighbors' fences have been washed away, leaving their crops exposed. Our union is still "doing business" and doing nicely. GUESS.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

The funeral sermon of Mr. J. J. Thompson will be preached at Mountain Springs church on the second Sunday in October at 11 a. m., by Rev. Mr. Chastain, of Morgan, Jefferson county, Alabama. tf

PENSACOLA, FLA.

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 29, 1906.

Editor Union:

Pleas give me room in your good paper to say a few words to the good people of Chilton. I guess they all are having a good time picking cotton; there isn't any cotton to pick in Florida. There was a storm here Wednesday night and it tore up things right bad, wrecked 137 L. & N. cars and left ships and steamboats all over the streets. I haven't fell out with Alabama, but don't know what anybody wants to stay in one place for all the time; I'm only satisfied when I am traveling. Well, I guess politics is strong in Chilton now. I am anxious to know how bad Gulledge will be beat for representative. If he should be elected I don't want to come back to Chilton any more. He might make a good one, but I would hate to risk him, as I have known him so long and know what kind of a man he is. Good luck to The Union and its good readers. J. C. H.

JEMISON LETTER.

Editor Union:

September came in with a splash of rain and has rained almost continually all through, and brought as bad a gale as ever visited our country for years. The melancholy days are almost here, the saddest of the year. Our eyes love to roam over the fields of verdant beauty, which tell of bountiful harvest. Butterflies flit hither and thither, now and then pausing to sip the honey from some gorgeous flower. Show me a discord in nature, it is all beautiful. Leaves teach a lesson; they are more beautiful when dying than when budding; thus should our souls be. The more we study and admire pure, lovely things the purer will be our hearts.

A crowd of our young folks spent a pleasant day at Mineral Springs one day last week.

Our friend Rev. J. A. Beal was shaking hands with friends here again; there is something stronger than friendship that brings him back here so often; say, girls, what is it?

In the near future there will be bells a-ringing in our little village, but not the bells of "Angelus."

Miss Beatrice Crysell has come home from the Judson on account of it being so crowded.

The Eastern Star will give an ice cream supper Friday night; all are invited to come. Come all and have a good, sociable time at ten cents a sociable.

Say, isn't Mr. Bryan having a good time? Well, I like for everybody to have a good time, but I think he is as near his haven as he will ever get. We have not forgot the four years of grief and Grover. Once upon a time we voted our dinner pails empty, the factories were silent, the furnace was cold, and now far removed from our lost situation, the tears of regret did intrusively swell; we learn for Republican administration that serves us so well. Well, we will still have good times if Bill Dooly can have anything to say in it. In those days people hunted work, but now work hunts people.

Dick Gains made a flying trip to Montgomery Thursday; also Hop Killingworth.

Mr. Lowe's daughter, Mrs. Mattie Mann, made home folks a pleasant visit last week.

Miss Maud Tench has returned from Birmingham, where she spent a pleasant visit.

R. B. McNeill's millinery is in its full display, and Miss Cora Bristow, the obliging milliner, is ever ready to do her best for you.

Mrs. Hal Harrison made a flying trip to Birmingham.

W. R. Jackson made a business trip to Birmingham last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Reynolds, of Clanton, were visiting here to attend the Eastern Star chapter and Miller-Aldrich meeting Wednesday.

I think the same about home as "One of the Boys"; the sun shines brighter, the birds sing sweeter in our home, sweet home.

Success to the good Union and its readers. Yours truly.

BILL DOOLY.

NEWSY GLEANINGS.

China is to have a constitution.

The price of diamonds keeps soaring.

Pittsburg is to have an all-night bank.

Valparaiso will be rebuilt on the same site.

A plot to massacre Jews in Odessa was frustrated.

English is being introduced into 5000 new schools in China.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has agreed to put on steel postal cars.

Russian Government decided to continue its policy of rigorous repression.

The Postoffice Department is planning the experiment of collecting mail in automobiles.

Marconi is building a station in Ireland for regular wireless traffic across the Atlantic.

Governor Magoon reports twenty-three schools in the Canal Zone, with an attendance of 1128.

The city of New York has 60,948 employes on its pay roll. The total pay roll is $57,068,253.13.

Under a recent London ordinance, a man caught throwing a banana skin on the pavement is liable to a fine of forty shillings.

The Savannah (Ga.) Theatre, built in 1818 and next to the oldest theatre in America, was destroyed by fire. It was once managed by Joseph Jefferson.

A mysterious automobile which the Russian police believed was used as the base for a terrorist conspiracy affecting the safety of the Czar, has been captured.

Edward M. Ellis, a grandson of Red Cloud, the famous Sioux chief, is one of the young Indians educated at the Carlisle Indian School in Pennsylvania who have become recruits for the Navy.

LABOR WORLD.

There are at present fifty-six different union labels and ten shop cards.

The California Labor party has declared against the nomination of a State ticket.

A Royal Commission is to be appointed to inquire into the sweating prevailing in Tasmania.

The United Garment Workers of America have won their strike in Legum's factory at Baltimore, Md.

Boilermakers and machinists at the Wabash Railroad shops in Springfield, Ill., struck for an increase in wages.

The remittances to China made by coolies or laborers at work in other countries is now estimated to reach $50,000,000 annually.

The Master Builders' Association, of Budapest, Austria-Hungary, decided upon a lockout of all the men employed in the building trades.

There is a movement on foot in Pittsburg, Pa., to organize a new union labor party. Prominent trades union officials are the projectors.

Labor unions are being formed in Mexico, and when they are conducted along legitimate lines the Government does not interfere with them.

After a twenty months' strike the employes of the Ideal Manufacturing Company, at Detroit, Mich., won the closed shop, for which they went out.

Sydney, New South Wales, boot trade employers have started a technical school for boot instruction, which is to be subsidized by the Government.

Wages of captains and engineers employed on the municipal ferries at New York City have been raised, the captains from $1000 to $2000 a year, and the engineers to $1600, according to the length of service.

Pike's Peak Celebration.

The centenary of the discovery of Pike's Peak by the man whose name it bears was held at Colorado Springs, Col., with a great parade, which was reviewed by Vice-President Fairbanks.

ALABAMA GLEANINGS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

Hilton is Given Hearing.

Anniston, Ala.—A hearing under a writ of habeas corpus was had before Judge Pelham in chambers to secure bail for Forney Hilton, of Chambers county, who is charged with the murder of Charles McKee with a mattock in Cleburne county some time ago. Bail was granted in the sum of $3,000, which it is said friends will make up. The defendant, Forney Hilton, was transferred to the Calhoun county jail some two or three weeks ago, where he has since been confined. Quite a large number of witnesses were present at the hearing, and considerable testimony was adduced.

Captain Swartz to Retire.

Decatur, Ala.—The steamer Buck Lindsay, which has been on the Tennessee river here for some time, will now go to southern waters. Her owner, Capt. G. W. Swartz, has sold her to R. T. Hamilton, of Morgan City, La., and she will be in the trade on the Mississippi river. She left here for her new home loaded with cedar poles. Captain Swartz will retire from steamboating.

Millions of Union Men.

New York.—A report of the state department of labor, just issued, states that there are now upwards of 8,000,000 wage workers in labor unions, one-fourth of whom are in the United States. Great Britain and Germany each have nearly as many unionists as the United States, but the countries in which the movement is comparatively new—Austria-Hungary, Italy, etc.—are now making rapid progress.

Corporations Chartered.

Montgomery, Ala.—The secretary of state has been informed of the following new corporations being organized: Thomasville Manufacturing, Electric Light and Power Company; capital stock, $11,000; incorporators, W. A. Scott, Jr., John S. Henson and others. First Baptist church, of Thomasville; incorporators, James S. Cunningham, Thomas W. Kimbrough and others.

New Wood Working Pant.

Gadsden, Aa.—A company, headed by D. W. Thornton and associates, are establishing a large saw mill and wood working plant at Pollard's Bend, on the Coosa river, above this city, and will manufacture building material on a large scale for this market. The company owns large bodies of timber land there.

Will Hold Bond Election.

Decatur, Ala.—On October 31 an election will be held in New Decatur to decide whether or not that city will issue $25,000 worth of bonds for the purpose of building more school houses and for the purpose of improving the ones already built.

Tug Boat Sinks in Collision.

New Orleans, La.—The tug bot Wm. Wood was sunk in collision with the steamer Preston thirty-nine miles below here in the Mississppi river. The crew escaped. The Preston was not injured.

Emrick Farm is Sold.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Emrick farm, one of the finest tracts of land in the vicinity of Madison, has been purchased by R. A. Patton, of Hanna City, Ill., breeder of fine hogs. He paid $9,000 for the place, an expects to establish a stock and cattle farm here.

Candidates File Expenses.

Centre, Ala.—Although the law requiring candidates to file within thirty days after the primary a statement of expenses has not been complied with by a number of the candidates in the recent primary, an inspection of the accounts on file in the probate office shows that it costs very little to run for office in this state.

Killed in Runaway.

Knoxville, Tenn.—J. W. Neil, a prosperous young merchant, while driving with his wife and children near Blountville, Sullivan county, was thrown from his buggy and killed. His wife and children were painfully hurt. Neil's neck was broken and death was instantaneous.

Rumors of Couch's Capture.

Decatur, Ala.—There are many rumors on the streets to the effect that Percy Couch, who broke jail here, has been arrested in as many different places. None of them can be verified. The latest rumor is that he was arrested at Garden City, Ala. This cannot be substantiated.

DAMAGE TO COTTON.

Alabama Suffered Severely by the Heavy Storm.

Montgomery, Ala.—The storm of last week has done the cotton crop of those states in which it prevailed incalculable harm. An already small yield will be cut down many thousand bales as a result of the wind and rain blowing and knocking the cotton from the bolls. It will require many days of sunshine to allow a resumption of picking.

Local cotton men say that the reports from all over this section are that not only will thousands of bolls be knocked out and consequently ruined, but the weather conditions will lower the grade as much as half a cent a pound. Additional damage will also result because of delay in getting back to picking. Because of lack of labor there was more open cotton in the field than is usual at this time of the year.

Reports from sections in the state indicate general losses to the crop.

Colbert County at Fairs.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—Colbert county will be represented with creditable displays at both the Birmingham State Fair and the Montgomery County Fair, which are to be held this month. W. H. Sadler, of Sheffield, has charge of the display at Birmingham, while Dr. F. T. Gilmore, of Tuscumbia, will look after that at Montgomery. They are both collecting fine displays of agricultural, mineral and manufactured articles. One of Dr. Gilmore's collections at Montgomery will be ten watermelons, the aggregate weight of which exceeds 500 pounds.

Boy Fatally Kicked.

Athens, Ala.—Hagan, the 10-year-old son of Mr. C. C. Black, a prominent farmer living eight miles west of Athens, was kicked by a horse on his father's farm and his frontal skull crushed so badly that a part of it had to be removed. It is believed he will hardly recover. He had been sent to turn some horses into a pasture, and it is presumed he crowded the stock as they were entering the gate and one of them kicked him. He was found in an unconscious condition by a farm hand and carried home.

Prisoner Takes Leg Bail.

Athens, Ala.—Sheriff Puryear arrested a man named Carter at the cotton mills, north of town, for assaulting and beating his wife. He came readily with the sheriff until the sheriff began to unlock the jail doors, when Carter took leg bail and fled for the woods, with pistol bullets singing near his head. The sheriff is not built for running, but he did some of the nicest sprints seen in a race for years, but Carter outstripped him and was last seen headed for the tall timber. The pistol shots created some excitement, but were soon explained.

Damage in Greene.

Eutaw, Ala.—The recent rain and wind storm has resulted in great damage to the crops of Greene county. It is variously estimated that between 10 and 20 per cent of the cotton open in the field was blown out upon the ground. That the county has suffered thousands of dollars damage is conceded by all. While damage to other property is slight, the wind was hard enough to blow down trees, fences, telephone wires, etc.

Anniston Publishing Company.

Anniston, Ala.—The Anniston Publishing Company was incorporated at $25,000, of which $15,000 is paid in. The company publishes the Evening Star and Anniston Weekly Republic. T. R. Gordon is editor and president of both papers, with E. B. McKee, a Pennsylvania capitalist, business manager, secretary and treasurer. E. F. Crook is vice-president of both.

Serious Cutting Affray.

Athens, Ala.—News comes from the southwest part of the county, near Pettey, that a man named Smith has been seriously cut by a man named Jones. They were in a fight, and both received serious cuts, but Smith was the worst hurt, having several very serious and dangerous cuts.

Banker Robbed of $5,500.

New York.—In the absence of the family a "Raffles" entered the home of David Taylor, at Madison, N. Y., by daylight Wednesday and escaped with jewelry valued at $5,500. Mr. Taylor is vice-president of the Coal and Iron National Bank of New York and is reputed to be a millionaire.

Alabama Postmasters.

Washington, D. C.—Postmasters appointed: Gainesville, Sumter county, William J. Monette; Herring, Pike county, John H. Howard. Herbert A. Taylor appointed regular and Harry O. Taylor substitute rural carrier, Route 2, at Georgiana.

Professional Cards.

William M. Adams,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
OFFICE; Room 1, Court House.
Practices in all Courts
Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.
CLANTON, - - - ALA.

J. EARLE GOWAN,
DENTIST.
Office in Kicker Building
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

A. C. Smith,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in All Courts
Office 6th St. opp. Court House
CLANTON, -:- ALABAMA.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON
Office at Residence
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

J. Osmond Middleton,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St. Court House
CLANTON, -:- ALABAMA

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Moffett Building
CLANTON

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.
I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
to
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
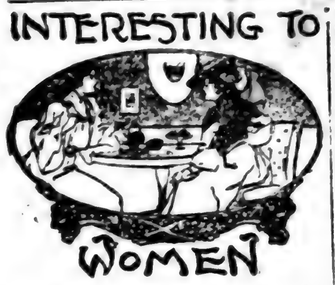
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C

LAND FOR SALE.
Eighty acres land in Beat 10, close to Cooper's. For sale cheap. Call on or address L. H. GENTRY,
Mt. Creek, Ala.
tf R. F. D. No. 5.

INTERESTING TO WOMEN



CHINA'S EMPRESS AS A BIRD CHARMER.

In her book "With the Empress Dowager" (The Century Company), Miss Katherine Carl gives this pretty picture of the strange power over birds exercised by the Empress:

"On one of our promenades in the park I saw a curious instance of her wonderful personal magnetism and her power over animals. A bird had escaped from its cage, and some eunuchs were making efforts to catch it, when her Majesty and suite came into that part of the grounds. The eunuchs had found it impossible to entice the bird back into its cage; nor would it come upon a long stick, with a perch attached, which they held up near the tree where it rested. The eunuchs scattered at the approach of her Majesty, and she inquired why they were there. The chief eunuch explained what they were doing, and the Empress Dowager said, 'I will call it down.' I thought this was a vain boast, and in my heart I pitied her. She was so accustomed to have the whole world bow to her that she fancied even a bird in the grounds would obey her mandate, and I watched to see how she would take her defeat. She had a long wand-like stick, which had been cut from a sapling and freshly stripped of its bark. She loved the faint forest odor of those freshly cut sticks and in the spring often carried one when she went out. They were long and slender, with a crook at the top. I used to think she looked like the picture of fairies when she walked with these long, white wands. She would use them for pointing out a flower she wished the eunuchs to gather, or for tracing designs on the gravel when she sat down. Today she held the wand she carried aloft and made a low, bird-like sound with her lips, never taking her eyes off the bird. She had the most musical of voices, and its flute-like sound seemed like a magnet to the bird. It fluttered and began to descend from bough to bough until it lighted upon the crook of the wand, when she gently moved her other hand up nearer and nearer until it finally rested on her finger. I had been watching with breathless attention, and so tense and absorbed had I become that the sudden cessation when the bird finally came upon her finger caused me a throb of almost pain. No one else, however, of her entourage seemed to think this anything extraordinary. After a few moments she handed the bird to one of the eunuchs, and we continued our promenade."

HOW NOT TO SPOIL THE HAIR.

Don't use a comb to spread the pompadour by pulling the hair over the forehead.

Don't comb the hair from the forehead over backward when arranging it. If the hair be long and heavy the strain comes on the front hairs with each stroke of the brush if they do not fracture and fall out at once, they become loosened in the follicle, kink up, and drop out later.

Avoid vigorous brushing; bear in mind that one hair on the head is worth two in the brush.

Don't grasp the front hair by the points or ends and comb upward from points to roots, "roughing it" in order to make a full, round pompadour. This needless abuse destroys life and lustre, fractures the hair shaft, renders it knotty and produces a frumpy, aged appearance.

Don't use bleach without first protecting the hair line by saturating the short hairs with sweet almond or cocoanut oil.

Don't scrub the hair line with a facial brush; pin a small towel over the hair before you commence operations with a facial brush.

Don't rub facial cream into the hair line when using it on the face as it fills the follicles with fatty substance and prevents proper growth.

Don't use strong alkalies to lighten the color, or shampoo too frequently to keep the hair fluffy.

Don't linger on the beach after bathing and allow the salt to dry in the hair.

Don't take everybody's advise and do all sorts of things to your hair and scalp.—Delineator.

A CITY'S AUNT ON THE TRAIL OF A TAX-DODGER.

William Hart, writing about Chicago's Five Maiden Aunts in The American Magazine tells how one of them, Miss Margaret Haley, added millions of dollars to the income of the city of Chicago.

"Miss Haley was a school teacher," says Mr. Hard, "the leader of the Teachers' Federation. The salaries of the teachers had been cut. The reason given was lack of money. Why a lack of money in a city like Chicago? Among other explanations Miss Haley discovered the Union Traction Company, the gas company, the electric light company et al. They were paying no taxes on the value of their franchises.

Miss Haley went down to see the State Board of Equalization. They didn't like her. They said afterwards that with a woman in the room it was difficult to smoke at ease and that their embarrassment made them nervous and irritable. But here was a case of feminine tact. Miss Haley went to the Supreme Court and secured a mandamus. She brought this mandamus back to the State Board of Equalization and shared it up among the members. They were at once mollified. They levied franchise taxes on all the public utility corporations of Chicago. And they have continued levying from that day to this. Little Miss Haley has added several million dollars to the income of the city of Chicago."

WHITE SHOES AND STOCKINGS.

For house wear white shoes and stockings take the place of the tan ones worn during the day and strings of pink coral adorn the plump little necks. For very best, white lawn frocks and blue sashes are provided. A rosebud organdy frock, made in a simple style, the square neck edged with lace, threaded with black velvet, is worn at the children's dances or on drives, a coral necklace and pink sash making an extremely pretty toilet.

A lingerie hat and the sun bonnets comprise their entire headwear, and the only addition to their wardrobes are Red Riding Hood cloaks of bright red serge, the hoods lined with ivory cloth, which are drawn over the head as weather conditions call for.

Without counting in the cost of shoes and stockings, the entire wardrobe, or rather material, for each article was made at home, was purchased for a sum of twenty-five dollars, and two little maidens, it must be remembered, had to be provided for. It just goes to show that taste and judgment will really often go farther than money, for these little tots were smartly and appropriately dressed on every occasion—the secret, after all, of good dressing. Over elaboration is so entirely out of place in the children's wardrobe, yet so prevalent, that simple styles and materials when met with are actually refreshing.—New York Telegram.

COMPROMISES IN MARRIED LIFE.

"If marriage meant the wedding of a saint and an angel there would be no problems to solve, no perfection to attain, no progress to make. This may be why there are no marriages in heaven. On earth, it is different; husband and wife are strongly human. No matter how lovingly united or how sweet their accord, they never have the same temperaments, tendencies or tastes. Their needs are different, their manner of looking at things is not identical and in varying ways their individualities assert themselves. At any critical moment if both express at the same time, a desire to defer to the other's taste, the result is foreordained for happiness. This makes matrimony not merely union, but unison and unity. The spirit of compromise does not mean a continuous performance in the way of self-surrender and self-sacrifice; it does not mean ceasing to be a voice and becoming an echo; it does not imply or justify the loss of individuality; it means simply the instinctive recognition of the best way out of a difficulty, the quickest tacking to avoid a collision, the kindly view of tolerance in the presence and errors of another, the courage to meet an explanation half way, the generosity to be first to apologize for a discord, the largeness of mind that does not fear a sacrifice of dignity in surrendering in the interests of the highest harmony of the two rather than the personal vanity of one.—From the Delineator.

TABLEAUX FOR HOTEL.

In the hotel parlors a series of impromptu tableaux was enacted the other night which was worthy of a far larger audience, although the sum realized for charity was a goodly one, owing to the generosity of the appreciative audience. The subject was "The Seven Ages of Woman." The scenes shown were "Infancy," a real live baby hastily borrowed for the occasion with an angel bending over it; "Childhood," which was modeled after Jessie Wilcox Smith's the "First Love;" then the "School girl," with books and slate; "Maidenhood," "Wifehood" and "Motherhood" were followed by "Old Age."

Space forbids giving the details of each picture, but it may readily be seen how each could be worked out. It is a very simple matter to have colored lights thrown on and they greatly enhance the beauty of the tableaux. If music fitting each scene is played while it is being enacted the pleasure is doubled, and it is not a difficult thing to do. For instance, "Auld Lang Syne" during the "old age" scene, or "Long, Long Ago;" the "Wedding March" for the "wifehood" and "Hush-a-by Baby" for the first of the "seven" ages.

Frappe was served and everyone was delighted with the entertainment.

Most Unkindest Cut.

With reference to the humors of "society" reporting, Melville Stone tells of the account of a wedding published in a Kansas paper.

The story, which described the marriage in the usual flowery adjectives, concluded with this surprising announcement:

"The bridegroom's present to the bride was a handsome diamond brooch, together with many other beautiful things in cut glass."—Harper's weekly.

In Bengal in 1904 the ratio of insane was 2.93 per 1,000 population, against 34.71 in England.

WHAT PAUPERIZES INDIANS

LAND SPECULATORS GROW RICH ON THE WHITE EARTH RESERVATION.

Get Farms on Mortgage—Half-breeds Released From Government Guardianship an Easy Prey to Schemers—Citizenship a Curse to Them.

With the minds of the 5,000 Indians on the White Earth Reservation, in Northern Minnesota, muddled by liquor and their eyes dazzled by the sight of money, the value of which they do not appreciate, the Government allotments recently given to them are rapidly passing into the hands of the land speculators. If the present campaign is maintained, the reservation as a home for Indians will soon be a thing of the past.

The Indians are full-fledged citizens and can buy liquor easily. When drunk they become easy victims of the unscrupulous land agents. Detroit City, in Becker County, and Manhnomen, in Norman County, are the scenes of the bitter competitive war for the Indians' land.

"Skin the Indian" is the motto in these towns, and the Indians, knowing that they can no longer live the wild life of their forefathers, have decided to become "civilized" by drinking to excess and squandering their money on trinkets which have no value save as playthings for children.

The law making the half-breed Indians citizens and allowing them to sell their allotments of land went into effect on June 21 last. For the first time in their lives the Indians can live as they please, and the land speculators, knowing that they were not dealing with the Government, were on the ground ready to open the campaign. Apparently nobody wanted to buy Indian lands, but every one was willing to loan a little money on them at a fair rate of interest.

The mortgages are hastening the downfall of the newly made citizens. It suits the Indian best, for he believes he will continue to hold his land and the money indefinitely. Of course the mortgage is the best thing for the speculators, for they have in it a valid defense, with their ready offer to return the money when it is paid.

On the day the law went into effect the mortgages began to show up. The Indians wanted money quickly, and they found no trouble in getting it. Convinced that they were full-fledged business men, because they were no longer under the eye of the Government, they listened to the offers of money attentively. The land speculators were wise enough to allow the Indians to visit the saloons. Then they talked business. If the Indians had no ready money with which to buy liquor, it came to them mysteriously, and was thankfully received. For several days it was hard to find a sober Indian. In the meantime the mortgage business was progressing rapidly.

An average of eleven mortgages has been filed every day with the Recorder of Deeds at Detroit City since June 21, and undoubtedly many others have been signed and are in the hands of attorneys or of the men who loaned the money. Approximately 250 farms have been taken from the Indians in this way. Most of the mortgages are for short terms, and the lands will sooner or later fall into the hands of the mortgagees. The Indians, knowing little or nothing of farming, are not cultivating their land, and have no other source of income. Each received from the Government an allotment of eighty acres. Only 1,500 full-blooded Indians are under the control of the Indan agent, Simon Michilet. The rest of the tribe seem to be condemned to pauperism.—New York Times.

WILD HORSES IN A CHASE.

Sport of the Vaqueros in Eastern Washington.

"Blood will tell," said a horseman well known among the reckless vaqueros of eastern Washington, in relating stories of the last great round-up of wild horses in the far Northwest State. "Blood will tell, and it will tell even more noticeably in a wild horse than in one that never has been outside the corral and that had been halter-broken before it was weaned.

"Any bunch of wild horses gives the riders trouble, but for sheer, unadulterated deviltry and meanness, the youngsters bred from the fleet old Arabian stallions are the hardest proposition we ever get up against.

"And yet, while they are the hardest to capture, there's a zest about the chase that a true rider never tires of. It gets the rider on his nerve, like a fight with a silver bass, right out of cold water, affects a fisherman who has been fooling with big-mouth blacks in a mill pond.

"One Saturday, about the last of April, we were sweeping Saddle Mountain for the wild herd. We spread our men well, arranged to give them fresh mounts at proper intervals, and by nightfall we had about nine hundred wild horses rounded up. But even at that a herd of one hundred or one hundred and fifty of these young Arabian bloods could not be captured, in spite of our craft and efforts.

"They composed what is known throughout that section of the State as the 'wild goose band.' They all run from white to gray or spotted black and white in color. The herd gets its name from the prevailing color and from the straightaway runs which these transplanted half-sons of the desert make when pursued. When the herd leaders started to make a break we riders had to give way or be overturned, and the best and freshest mount in our bunch could not keep pace with the worst of them, even for a dozen rods.

"It is a beautiful sight to see the long line of gray swiftly rounding a butte or taking a side down passes that would hurl any other animal except a mountain goat into the chasms below. But these half-Arabs are surefooted, if possible, than the goats themselves. Thus far few of them ever have known the slip of the lasso, noose over the neck.—Washington Post.

APPLE TREES 80 YEARS OLD.

Planted by Indians at a Historic Michigan Spot.

Planted by the Indians eighty years ago, when the spot was an Indian reservation and burying ground, two apple trees still stand side by side on the bank of the Shiawassee River near here.

The trees are now of mammoth size, measuring respectively six and eight feet in circumference, and notwithstanding their age they are still in healthy condition and bear fruit each year.

Near where they stand were located the first settlements made by white men in Shiawassee county about 100 years ago. In those early days the spot was one of the chief trading points in this locality. It was located on one of the first trails hereabouts, and being also on the river bank was accessible by water. In those days water was used for travel a good deal more than it is now.

So large was the business done by Indians and fur traders that in 1840 a bank was established here. It was one of the wildcat variety so common in those days, and issued a great amount of the wildcat currency.

Tradition has it that while the bank was doing a flourishing business some of the large holders of its currency became uneasy about the security for the redemption of the paper and planned a raid to loot the bank. The bank officials, hearing of the plan, took the bank's specie and buried it near the river. There still live in that vicinity some old-timers who believe that the money is buried there yet, and many excavations have been made in the hope of uncovering some of it.

The trend of progress has been away from this spot, and any one visiting there today will find a peaceful farming community, but if one chooses to spend a little time cultivating the acquaintance of the older inhabitants he will find a wealth of historic lore and quaint traditions of pioneer life which will reward the effort.—Vernon correspondent of the Detroit Free Press.

A COW AND A FAUCET.

Would not Walk All the Way to the River for a Drink.

The Portland (Ore.) Poor Farm has, according to the assertion of the inmates, the cleverest cow in the State. The animal is an old red Jersey that has been on the farm for years. The matron at the farm last summer discovered that the faucet on the hydrant in the back yard was frequently turned on, but constant watching failed to disclose the turner-on.

The same trouble occurred again this summer. The matron noticed the water was turned on about the same time every afternoon. While she watched she saw the old red Jersey come leisurely up the road into the back yard and walk straight to the hydrant. The cow pushed the faucet with her nose, but it did not seem to work. So she tried her horns, and when that method failed she opened her mouth, took hold of the faucet and turned it.

Mrs. Bossy then drank her fill of cold water and turned away toward the green fields, evidently pleased that she did not have to go a quarter of a mile to the river to satisfy her thirst.

The next day the cow seemed much puzzled to find a new faucet and appeared dejected when after half an hour of hard work she could not get her drink. Then the matron had a watering place made, and the cold water was allowed to run at all times.—Baltimore Sun.

Liquified Air.

The price of liquified air has previously been $2.500 per quart, but recent discoveries have made it possible to manufacture liquified air and sell it at about the same price as ammonia, which is exceedingly cheap. Air, or atmosphere, is turned into a liquid at a temperature of 312 degrees below zero; thus liquid air is the coldest thing known to science. We call attention to this subject owing to the fact that liquid air must become a great factor in refrigeration. Liquid air will make it possible to preserrve fruits in cold storage with greater ease and success than heretofore. Liquid air will be used to cool rooms on hot days in Summer, and for various practical purposes. Since ice is only 32 degrees above zero and liquid air 312 degrees below zero, you will get some idea about the coldness of liquid air. Pour liquid air on the ice and it will boil at once.—Green's Fruit Grower.

Having supported himself as a peddler for seventy-five years, James O'Dwyer, of Kilmihil, Ireland, who is now 102 years old, has, for the first time in his life, been compelled to ask for relief from the Kilrush Board of Guardians.

Hon. Thomas W. Bucknell, of Providence, R. I., is known as the "champion monument raiser," having started more monument funds and assisted at more monument dedications than any man in the country.

LITTLE THINGS Worth Knowing

Fully one-third of the land in Great Britain is owned by members of the House of Lords.

For speaking French to him, a landlord of a Duesseldorf hotel recently charged a guest extra in his bill.

Men serve the purposes of wagons in China. They are able to carry two heavy loads hung on the ends of poles.

There is no speed limit for autos outside the city of Shanghai, China. Within the city thirty miles an hour is allowed.

The average size of a laborer's family in England and the United States is three persons; in Germany, five persons.

Tigers appear to be on the increase in Burma, owing to the restrictions on the possession and carrying of arms.

Babylon was probably the first city to attain a population of a million. The area of the city was 225 square miles.

Labor unions are no new invention. Accurate records of their existence in Roman times have been dug up in Pompeii.

"Balkan" is a Turkish generic term, referring to a range or mass of wooded hills with pasturage and meadow land in their slopes.

Professor Eulenburg has collected data showing that no fewer than 950 school children in Germany committed suicide in the years 1883 to 1900.

German women collect what are supposed to be the smallest potted plants in the world. They are cacti growing in pots about the size of a thimble.

It is a peculiar fact that Africans never sneeze, neither do their descendants, if they be pure blooded, although domiciled in other parts of the world.

The smallest thing with a backbone is the sinarpan, a little fish recently discovered by scientists in the Philippine Islands. It measures about half an inch in length.

In the gardens of the Raby castle, Durham, England, is a fig tree which has a spread of branches from twenty to twenty-four feet. It was brought from Italy in 1786, and is kept under glass.

FATE OF THE OLD ST. LOUIS.

The Second Oldest Ship in Our Navy May Be Broken Up.

After years of buffeting by the waters of many seas the one time receiving ship St. Louis lies in the Delaware River at the foot of Catherine street, Philadelphia, awaiting final orders.

These may be to hand her battered timbers over to unsentimental junk dealers, or to preserve her as the oldest vessel, outside of the famous Constitution, in Uncle Sam's navy. According to the Philadelphia Record, it is seventy-eight years since the then proud frigate was launched at Washington, where she had been built for service in the Far East. At that time she was regarded as one of the best vessels in the young navy.

During the first ten years of her service pirates were the pest of the West Indies and the Pacific. The St. Louis, then one of the swiftest vessels in the navy, was sent after the men who sailed under the skull and crossbones and to her efforts is partly due the extermination of the looters.

On one occasion one of the rakish crafts, closely pursued by the coming Union Jack, ran aground on one of the large islands and her crew escaped to the wooded interior. Lieutenant Horton, a gallant young officer of that day, led a cheering company of his men, armed with cutlasses and pistols, to rout out the desperadoes.

Over hills and copse the chase continued, for a mile, when the fleeing buccaneers ambushed the pursuers and a pitched battle resulted. After a fierce hand-to-hand combat the pirates were all killed or captured and the latter were hanged the following day from the yardarm of the St. Louis.

At the time of the naming of the St. Louis there was much opposition to thus honoring a city of such small importance and size as that place was then. Much discussion finally ended in victory for the St. Louis partisans, and it was only recently the Government changed her name to the Keystone State, on account of there being another vessel in the navy called the St. Louis. However, the new name was hardly ever applied except in official ways.

Trade Active.

J. F. Mickler received a handsome black Percheron stallion from Kansas yesterday in exchange for some tombstone work which he did for the stallion's owner. — Carthage (Mo.) Press.

SCIENTIFIC SCRAPS.

More than 50 kinds of bark are used in the manufacture of [illegible] nana skins, pea vi[illegible] hay, straw, water [illegible] ings, corn husks, a[illegible] used for the same purpose.

The roaring heard when the covers the ear has been [illegible] physiological experimenter [illegible] muscles of the palate [illegible] work. The sound was [illegible] the ear was closed [illegible] roaring became [illegible] of the muscles was [illegible]

The origin of the [illegible] long in dispute. [illegible] South Africa were [illegible] of gravels to the [illegible] agglomerate filling [illegible] volcanoes—it was [illegible] real matrix had [illegible] it has since appe[illegible] monds were picked [illegible] from an older for[illegible] canic eruptions. [illegible] logist of New South Wa[illegible] described a small dia[illegible] edic dyke, finding th[illegible] tified that the crystal[illegible] formed in this igneous [illegible] cooled or solidified from [illegible] state.

Quite violent explosions [illegible] and flashes of light [illegible] by Herr Doelter in ba[illegible] cium on an anvil, and [illegible] of rust on the iron [illegible] the explosibility. One [illegible] that absorbed hydrogen [illegible] the phenomenon. [illegible] made extensive observations [illegible] dicate that the explosion [illegible] vaporization of the met[illegible] edge, where the pressure [illegible] and a combination of the [illegible] atmospheric oxygen. In [illegible] the flashes were much more [illegible] Similar results were obtained [illegible] other metals, sodium and [illegible] yielding colored flames, [illegible] ting brilliant flashes with a [illegible] sparks, and powdered aluminum [illegible] magnesium giving sparks with [illegible] plosion.

The radium-collecting laboratory [illegible] Professor Battelli, at the [illegible] springs of San Guidhano, near [illegible] an experiment whose outcome [illegible] awaited with interest. The [illegible] tive water is continuously pumped [illegible] to a vacuum receptacle [illegible] the spring; this separates the [illegible] consisting of carbonic anhydride, [illegible] nitrogen, carrying practically [illegible] the radium emanation—and [illegible] it to a gasometer, while the [illegible] capes through a discharge tube [illegible] gas is then liquefied by compression [illegible] a brass retainer. As it is [illegible] by a stopcock, most of the [illegible] is left behind, and the rest is [illegible] by caustic soda solution. The [illegible] remaining being filtered through [illegible] ice soaked in sulphuric acid [illegible] tract the water, and finally [illegible] a bath of liquid air. This [illegible] radium emanation, when the [illegible] is passed off through a tube.

The brightness of the sky on a moonless night is one of the [illegible] astronomers are trying to [illegible] stars appear to shine from a [illegible] luminous background, and in a [illegible] paper G. J. Burns, a British [illegible] er, considered that the total [illegible] be roughly taken as equal to [illegible] one thousand first magnitude [illegible] while the height of all stars [illegible] one time has been estimated [illegible] only to that of 70 first [illegible] stars. A common theory [illegible] light of the sky is due to [illegible] stars. If this were the [illegible] however, the luminosity should [illegible] ish near the horizon, but [illegible] increase in brightness is [illegible] ceptible. This and a variation [illegible] brightness observed at different [illegible] might be explained by assuming [illegible] the sky's luminosity [illegible] a stratum of luminous [illegible] moderate distance from the [illegible]

Submarine Scouts.

A new system of tactics [illegible] marines has been practised [illegible] Toulon. Hitherto it has [illegible] theory that the only means [illegible] for submarines was to [illegible] point over which [illegible] gave reason for belief that [illegible] of attack would pass. The [illegible] the operations was to determine [illegible] er submarines, themselves [illegible] shelter of the shore [illegible] could not advance to search [illegible] meet their enemy. Nine [illegible] took part in the attack, which [illegible] made upon the reserve division [illegible] ing the forenoon somewhere [illegible] Point Orens. The flotilla made [illegible] attempts against the division, [illegible] general result was held to [illegible] that an operation of the kind [illegible] feasible.—London Globe.

How Topaz is Colored.

The finding of a blue topaz [illegible] desia is an interesting discovery, [illegible] the London Globe. It is not, [illegible] as has been stated, a new [illegible] although the normal color of [illegible] is yellow, a blue variety is [illegible] means uncommon. The Siberian [illegible] have a bluish tinge, while those [illegible] the Highlands of Scotland [illegible] sky-blue color.

The pink topaz of the jewelry [illegible] probably always an artificial [illegible] as regards its color. In 1750 [illegible] ian peweler, Dumelle, discovered [illegible] the yellow Brazilian topaz when [illegible] erately heated acquired a [illegible] color.

An ordinary crop of corn [illegible] from the soil, in one acre, [illegible] 26 pounds of chemical salts.

...RANGE SALAD.

...Directions for making a ...ange salad: Chop half ...bbage fine, fine and put it in a ...l bowl. In a small saucepan over ...fire put a half cupful of vine...and let boil while the other in...dients are mixed as follows: Put ...nother saucepan, over a slow fire, ...a pan of hot water over the fire, ...enerous teaspoonful of butter, a ...poonful salt, a small saltspoon...of red pper, a teaspoonful of ..., a teaspoonful of dry mustard, ...the yolk of a raw egg. Stir all ...ther till well blended, then add ...stir in the vinegar, a little at a ...me. Stir the mixture till it is ...e thick, but do not let it cook ...r it thickens.

...hen as thick as rich cream and ...e still hot pour this dressing ...r the chopped cabbage in the dish ...and set it away to cool. When ...salad is quite cool whip up a cup ...of rich cream, stir it through the ...d and serve with the toasted ...ers.—Presbyterian Banner.

YORKSHIRE PUDDING

...ft together one heaping pint of ..., half a teaspoonful of salt, a ...poonful and a half baking powder, ...a teaspoonful of sugar. Add a ...espoonful of butter and with the ... of the fingers rub fine in the ... Beat two eggs until light and ...hem one pint milk and mix gently ...with the flour into a rather stiff ...er. Pour a few spoonfuls of the ... drippings from the roast into a ... tin pan, brushing all over the ...or, if preferred, use small goose ... hearing and greasing in the ...e way. Pour in the batter and ...e in a medium hot oven thirty or ... minutes, basting frequently with ...ings from the beef. In serving ...he meat on a hot platter and garnish ... with pudding cut in squares or ...ll puddings. Another way is to ...e the pudding baked underneath ...meat. In this case, when the ...t is half cooked lift onto the rack ...set the pan with pudding under...h the meat, so that the drippings ...fall upon the pudding below.

APPLE JELLY.

...or making apple jelly, a tart ... kind of apple is needed. The ...Astachan combines all the qualities ... for a perfect apple jelly, the ...of its skin giving a delightful ...e to the jelly. The apples should ...be quite ripe; "mealy apples" ...ld not be used as these have not ...amount of juice needed. Wash ...apples, remove the stems and ...som ends and the seeds; cut the ...into small fourths the height of ...fruit in the kettle, and cook slowly ...until the fruit is perfectly soft, ...ing the kettle tightly closed and ...ing to keep from burning. Then ...the contents of the kettle into ...ez made of doubled cheese cloth, ...hang out of a current of air. Allow ...one pound of sugar to one pint ...ice; place the juice over the fire, ...boil slowly for just twenty minutes, ...leaving the kettle uncovered; ...the sugar in the oven, and when ...the boiling, turn the sugar into ...juice; it will hiss as it enters the ...e. Cook for three minutes after ...oiling, then strain into jelly ...ses. A thin slice of lemon added ...each glass gives a pretty effect ... helps to flavor the jelly. Cut ...lemon very thin, place it in the ...s and pour the hot liquor over it; ...lemon will float on the top. When ...e cold, pour a little melted paraffine ... over the top of the jelly.—The ...moner.

BROILED FISH.

...he following method was given at ...ooking school conducted by Miss ...g. First she showed the house...s how to broil a fish in their gas ...es. A big white fish was laid ...the broiler, skin side down, the ...s having first been greased to ...vent the fish from sticking. A ...rous seasoning of butter, pepper ... salt was put over the fish. ...When the flesh separates from the ...e the fish is done," said Miss ...g.

...The sooner the fish is sent to the ...e after it is taken from the water ... better. Nothing else spoils so ...kly. There is also more danger ... ptomaine poisoning in fish than ...other articles of diet. The flesh ...uld be hard and the eyes full if ...ger is to be avoided when eating ... fish."

...ith the fish was served a sauce ...e of grated cucumber with seasoning of salt, pepper, vinegar and ...The sauce was placed on the ... to become cold.

...he vegetable course was stuffed ...on, which is nice with fish. The ...s were removed and the onion ...boiled for ten minutes in salted ...r and the centers removed. The ...ities were filled with a mixture ... finely minced chicken, bread ...mbs, green pepper and tomato ...e.

...or dessert a fruit cocktail was ...ved. It was made of diced ...anges, pineapples and strawberries, ...sprinkled with powdered sugar and ...ked in ice to become very cold. ...rries can be used instead of the ...wberries.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

...utumn leaves may be preserved ... decorative purposes by pressing ...both sides with a slightly warmed ... that has had wax rubbed over ...smooth surface. Parafine will also ...the same work equally as well.

SCIENTIFIC SCRAPS.

More than 50 kinds of bark [illegible] in the manufacture of [illegible] fish skins, pen [illegible], straw, water [illegible], corn husks, [illegible] for the same purpose.

The roaring heard when the [illegible] the ear has been traced [illegible] physiological experimenter to [illegible] of the palm and arm [illegible]. The sound was absent [illegible] ear was closed by a book, [illegible] became louder as the [illegible] the muscles was increased.

The origin of the diamond has [illegible] in dispute. When the stone [illegible] South Africa were traced from the [illegible] gravels to the "blue grounds" [illegible] concentrate filling the pipes of [illegible] volcanoes—it was supposed that [illegible] matrix had been discovered. [illegible] has since appeared that the [illegible] beds were picked up by this [illegible] from older rock pierced by the [illegible] eruptions. The government [illegible] of New South Wales has [illegible] found a small diamond from [illegible] glass, finding the assumption [illegible] that the crystal was [illegible] found in this igneous rock [illegible] fused or solidified from a [illegible].

[illegible] violent explosions, with [illegible] of light, have been [illegible] Doermer on hammering [illegible] an anvil, and the pressure [illegible] on the iron seemed to [illegible] One suggestion [illegible] absorbed hydrogen might [illegible] to combustion. Dr. Ohmann [illegible] the extensive observations which [illegible] to that the explosion is due [illegible] porization of the metal near [illegible] ge, where the pressure is great [illegible] d a combination of the vapor [illegible] nospheric oxygen. In pure [illegible] e flashes were much more brilliant [illegible] milar results were obtained [illegible] her metals, sodium and potassium [illegible] elding colored flames, lithium [illegible] g brilliant flashes with a reposeful [illegible] arks, and powdered aluminum [illegible] agnesium giving sparks without [illegible] osion.

The radium-collecting laboratory [illegible] rofessor Buttelli, at the mineral [illegible] rings of San Guiduano, near Pisa, [illegible] experiment whose outcome is [illegible] waited with interest. The radium [illegible] e water is continuously pumped [illegible] a vacuum receptacle 30 feet [illegible] e spring; this separates the [illegible] sisting of carbonic anhydride [illegible] trogen, carrying practically [illegible] e radium emanation—and conducts [illegible] to a gasometer, while the water [illegible] pes through a discharge pipe [illegible] is then liquefied by compression [illegible] brass retainer. As it is drawn [illegible] a stopcock, most of the ammonia [illegible] left behind, and the rest is removed [illegible] caustic soda solution, the gas [illegible] maining being filtered through [illegible] soaked in sulphuric acid to [illegible] ract the water, and finally condensed [illegible] bath of liquid air. This liquid [illegible] adium emanation, when the air [illegible] passed off through a tube.

The brightness of the sky on a [illegible] oonless night is one of the mysteries [illegible] tronomers are trying to explain. [illegible] ars appear to shine from a [illegible] amous background, and in a [illegible] ower G. J. Burns, a British astronomer [illegible] considered that the total light [illegible] roughly taken as equal to that [illegible] e thousand first magnitude stars. [illegible] hile the height of all stars visible [illegible] e time has been estimated as [illegible] ly to that of 70 first magnitude [illegible] ars. A common theory is that [illegible] ht of the sky is due to telescopic [illegible]. If this were the sole [illegible] wever, the luminosity should [illegible] h near the horizon, but instead [illegible] crease in brightness is plainly [illegible] sible. This and a variability [illegible] ightness observed at different [illegible] ght be explained by assuming [illegible] e sky's luminosity is partly [illegible] stratum of luminous particles [illegible] derate distance from the earth.

Submarine Scouts.

A new system of tactics for [illegible] arines has been practically tested [illegible] ition. Hitherto it has been [illegible] ry that the only means of [illegible] submarines was to lie in wait [illegible] rt over which prior information [illegible] ve reason for belief that the [illegible] attack would pass. The purpose [illegible] e operations was to determine [illegible] submarines, themselves without [illegible] elter of the shore fortifications [illegible] uld not advance to search for [illegible] et their enemy. Nine submarines [illegible] ok part in the attack, which [illegible] ade upon the reserve division [illegible] g the forenoon somewhere [illegible] oint Orens. The flotilla made [illegible] tempts against the division, [illegible] neral result was held to [illegible] t an operation of the kind [illegible] asible.—London Globe.

How Topaz is Colored.

The finding of a blue topaz [illegible] esia is an interesting discovery, [illegible] e London Globe. It is not, [illegible] has been stated, a new gem, [illegible] though the normal color of the [illegible] yellow, a blue variety is [illegible] cans uncommon. The Siberian [illegible] ve a bluish tinge, while those [illegible] e Highlands of Scotland are [illegible] y-blue color.

The pink topaz of the jewelers [illegible] obably always an artificial [illegible] s regards its color. In 1739 a [illegible] n peweler, Dumelle, discovered [illegible] e yellow Brazilian topaz when [illegible] utely heated acquired a rose [illegible] lor.

An ordinary crop of cotton [illegible] om the soil, in one acre, more [illegible] 5 pounds of chemical salts.

CABBAGE SALAD.

[illegible] per,
[illegible] Directions for making a [illegible] salad: Chop half [illegible] fine and put it in a [illegible] In a small saucepan over [illegible] put a half cupful of vinegar [illegible] let boil while the other ingredients [illegible] are mixed as follows: Put [illegible] saucepan, over a slow fire [illegible] pan of hot water over the fire, [illegible] teaspoonful of butter, a [illegible] salt, a small saltspoonful [illegible] pper, a teaspoonful of [illegible] a teaspoonful of dry mustard, [illegible] yolk of a raw egg. Stir all [illegible] well blended; then gradually [illegible] the vinegar, a little at [illegible] Stir the mixture till it is [illegible] Do not let it cook [illegible].

[illegible] as rich cream and [illegible] hot pour this dressing [illegible] cooped cabbage in the salad [illegible] away to cool. When [illegible] is quite cool whip up a half [illegible] cream, stir it through the [illegible] and serve with the toasted [illegible].—Presbyterian Banner.

YORKSHIRE PUDDING.

[illegible] one heaping pint of [illegible] a teaspoonful of salt, a [illegible] and a half baking powder [illegible] teaspoonful of sugar. Add a [illegible] of butter and with the [illegible] fingers rub fine in the [illegible] two eggs until light, add [illegible] pint milk and mix quickly [illegible] flour into a rather stiff [illegible] a few spoonfuls of the [illegible] from the roast into a [illegible] brushing all over the [illegible] preferred, use small gem [illegible] and greasing in the [illegible] Pour in the batter and [illegible] in a hot oven thirty or [illegible] baking frequently with [illegible] roast. In serving [illegible] on a hot platter and garnish [illegible] cut in squares or [illegible]. Another way is to [illegible] baking underneath [illegible] in his case, when the [illegible] are cooked lift onto the rack [illegible] with pudding underneath, so that the drippings [illegible] from the pudding below.

APPLE JELLY.

[illegible] apple jelly, a tart [illegible] apple is needed. The [illegible] combines all the qualities [illegible] a perfect apple jelly, the [illegible] often giving a delightful [illegible]. The apples should [illegible] ripe; "mealy apples" [illegible] used as these have not [illegible] juice needed. Wash [illegible] remove the stems and [illegible] and the seeds; cut the [illegible] fourths the height of [illegible] kettle, and cook slowly [illegible] fruit is perfectly soft. [illegible] the kettle tightly closed and [illegible] keep from burning. Then [illegible] of the kettle into [illegible] of doubled cheese cloth, [illegible] out of a current of air. Allow [illegible] pint of sugar to one pint [illegible] juice over the fire [illegible] for just twenty minutes [illegible] the kettle uncovered. [illegible] sugar in the oven, and after [illegible] boiling, turn the sugar into [illegible] it will hiss as it enters the [illegible] Cook for three minutes after [illegible] then strain into jelly [illegible] A thin slice of lemon added [illegible] glass gives a pretty effect [illegible] to flavor the jelly. Cut [illegible] very thin, place it in the [illegible] pour the hot liquor over it; [illegible] will float on the top. When [illegible] pour a little melted paraffine [illegible] the top of the jelly.—The [illegible].

BROILED FISH.

[illegible] cooking method was given at [illegible] cooking school conducted by Miss [illegible]. First she showed the housekeepers [illegible] how to broil a fish in their gas [illegible]. A large white fish was laid [illegible] skin side down, the [illegible] having been greased to [illegible] it from sticking. A [illegible] dressing of butter, pepper [illegible] was put over the fish. [illegible] which separates from the [illegible] when the fish is done," said Miss [illegible]. "The sooner the fish is sent to the [illegible] after it is taken from the water [illegible]. Nothing else spoils so [illegible]. There is also more danger [illegible] of poisoning in fish than [illegible] other articles of diet. The flesh [illegible] be hard and the eyes full if [illegible] is to be avoided when eating [illegible].

[illegible] the fish was served a sauce [illegible] of grated cucumber with sea [illegible] of salt, pepper, vinegar and [illegible]. The sauce was placed on the [illegible] to become cold.

The vegetable course was stuffed [illegible], which is nice with fish. The [illegible] were removed and the onion [illegible] cooked for ten minutes in salted [illegible] and the centers removed. The [illegible] were filled with a mixture [illegible] finely minced chicken, bread [illegible], cream pepper and tomato [illegible].

For dessert a fruit cocktail was [illegible]. It was made of diced [illegible] pineapples and strawberries, [illegible] sprinkled with powdered sugar and [illegible] put in ice to become very cold [illegible]. Cherries can be used instead of the [illegible].

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Autumn leaves may be preserved [illegible] decorative purposes by pressing [illegible] both sides with a slightly warmed [illegible] that has had wax rubbed over [illegible] smooth surface. Paraffine will also [illegible] the same work equally as well.

DRINKING MORE PULQUE.

Mexico City Gets Away With 800,000 Litres Every Day.

The consumption of pulque in Mexico city is rapidly increasing, and the hauling of the drink is becoming one of the principal sources of revenue on a number of lines entering the city.

On nearly every railroad entering the city a special pulque train is run into the city daily and many of the regular freight trains carry large numbers of cars containing the popular drink.

During the month of June three railroads, the Hidalgo, the Mexican and the Interoceanic, carried into the city 59,861 barrels and 234 skins full of the pulque gathered within a radius of sixty miles of the city. The National, the Central and the smaller lines brought in an amount probably half as great.

Allowing that the population of Mexico city is 400,000 men, women and children, the quantity of pulque brought into the city daily is sufficient to supply almost two litres to every individual. Do you drink your share? During the month of June 14,985,290 litres of pulque were brought into the city, as in one barrel there are 250 litres and in one skin sixty litres. During each day of the month an average of 748,263 litres was brought into the city.

The amount thus reckoned is exclusive of the pulque brought to the city in wagons and on muleback from the nearby haciendas.—Mexican Herald.

Doves Trained For Funerals.

Having experienced more or less trouble in securing a white dove to be let loose at the grave in the funeral ceremonies of the Red Men, Ousamiequin tribe some time ago appointed a committee to buy a pair of carrier doves and to train the young birds. The committee have had the rare good fortune to raise some fine clear white doves that are being trained to fly back to the dove cote. The birds are taken out to a greater distance in each trial two or three times a week. The last flight from Oak Grove Cemetery was very successful, the birds rising in increasingly larger circles and then suddenly darting straight for home.—Springfield Republican.

Working For the Tribe.

Portuguese South Africa furnishes an excellent example of "collectivism" as it works out in a primitive society. Every year the chiefs of the tribes send a band of their young men to the Transvaal to earn the hut-tax for the whole tribe. By this arrangement the majority of the tribe lives in ease, while a small portion of their number work under the end of which time they return home and surrender eighty or ninety per cent. of their earnings to the chief for the uses of the tribe.—New York World.

Smart London Churchgoing.

Of course it does seem sad that "the West End churches are empty." But is it all our fault? Sunday is such an impossible day for church. About the fullest day of the seven. And besides we're hardly any of us in town. If the services could be changed to a more convenient day, say Tuesday, when we're all back from week-ending, I'm sure we'd simply roll up, especially if a reformation sermon were on the program. —London Punch.

Easily Conjectured.

"I see you had ham and eggs for breakfast," observed the amateur detective, with a far-away, inscrutable, Sherlock H. Gillette look in his eyes.

"Ha!" exclaimed the man in the faded Prince Albert, frowning darkly; "you inferred the eggs, maybe, from the traces in me beard! But you guessed at the rest, by Jove!"

"Not at all. 'Ham' is written all over you."—Chicago Tribune.

Youngest Civil War Veteran.

The officials of the Pension Office at Washington have discovered in Lyston D. Howe, of Streator, Ill., the youngest volunteer of the Civil War. He enlisted first in 1861, when only ten years and nine months old, and served for four months, when he was discharged on account of his age. He enlisted again in 1862 and served until the end of the war.—New York World.

Not to Be Trifled With.

The colonial wife is not to be trifled with. When her husband goes "up country" and neglects to return within a fair and reasonable time she simply advertises for him.

Here is a recent advertisement from an Australian paper: "If my husband, A. B., does not answer this advertisement in three weeks I intend to get married. Signed C. D." —Royal Magazine.

Modern Punctuation.

By a scandalous shifting of the burden of authority, nobody punctuates any more, it is all thrown upon the printer to do his best. In the art preservative the custom varies. Some offices insert a comma after every fifth word, close punctuation, others after the seventh, which is open or free punctuation.—New York Sun.

There is a great demand for flax all over the world, and a great effort is being made to induce Americans to cultivate it.

THOUGHTS FOR THE QUIET HOUR.

THE SUNDERING FLOOD.

How shall I bear me in the hour to be,
When Thy great Sundering Flood comes rushing down,
And I shall feel the coldness of that sea
In which all mortal men shall one day drown?

Shall I be glad who have been sad so long,
So weary of life's ceaseless care and fret?
Shall I be blithe and sing a joyous song,
When with that icy foam my feet are wet?

Or will the sweetness of the happy earth
Sweep over me, and friends hold me in chain?
And shall I feel that love has had new birth,
And every rose of life will bloom again?

God knows I have been brave up to this hour;
No coward drop in all my languid blood;
Bid me not part from courage, O thou Power;
That hold'st in leash e'en Thy great Sundering Flood!

—Hattie Tyng Griswold, in Independent.

Religion and Social Conditions.

A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you.—Ezekiel xxxvi., 26.

An old satirist says, "We cannot live with men and yet we cannot live without them." This expresses at once the necessity of society and yet the evils attendant upon it. Man is a social being and hence arise brotherhoods, tribes, States and Governments.

To this organization into society he owes his greatest blessings, and yet it affords opportunity for the grossest abuses. To the correction of these abuses and to the remedying of these wrongs the best statesmen, the wisest political economists and the noblest moralists have given their closest study and their strongest effort. Through such a crisis as this we are just now passing in our own country. Many had imagined that with the marvellous advances in education, science and industrialism in our modern age civilization was emerging from the bogs and quagmires of the past.

But we have suddenly experienced a rude awakening from this pleasing dream, and now thoughtful men on every side, reinforced by an active and courageous President, are casting about for a remedy.

What is imperatively needed is a moral reformation. And the power to effect this cannot be found in politics or economics, or even in ethics, but alone in religion.

It is only when men look to God and realize their responsibility to Him that there will come a quickening of the human conscience. It is only when they have that holy fear of wrongdoing which inspired Joseph that they can put away temptation with his pious answer: "How can I do this great wickedness and sin against God?" It is only when they bow to His law who has said, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," that they can subdue that selfishness which is the master passion imbelling to most social enormities. It is only when they see in God the champion of the poor and the avenger of the defrauded widow and orphan that greed can be tempered by the sense of right and humanity. And it is only when they see in God a Father with a heart of love to all His children that, instead of wolfish rapacity and pitiless avarice, there will everywhere glow the genial rays and kindly warmth of brotherhood.

What is demanded, then, to heal the disease, to quiet the alarm, to banish the injustice and to safeguard against the impending disaster, over which all thoughtful minds are musing, is the regenerative power of religion. It places the emphasis on a new moral birth. The unique force of religion is that it creates man anew in the divine image. The Spirit of God is inbreathed into the spirit of man. It is the "ye must be born again" of the Great Teacher, Jesus Christ.

Religion presents a wholly new ideal of life. The natural heart finds pleasure but in material things, and in its grasping ardor to possess these the finer sensibilities are throttled. Hence the dishonest practices in business we see condoned by men of repute. But when one attains to a nobler ideal and finds happiness in right and in making others happy, then ensues the golden reign of brotherhood.

Religion, then, holds the key to the present problem. And she must be true to her holy office. She must not turn aside to mere ethics or to attacking particular sins, but she must go down to the root. She must endeavor to give men a sober, sane conversion. She must give them that new heart and spirit which she can do alone by faithful preaching of the quickening, renewing word of God.—Junius B. Remensynder, St. James' Lutheran Church, New York City, in the Sunday Herald.

What Shall We Seek?

Jesus says, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God." How shall we seek for anything until we consider for what we are to look? The apostle Paul saith, "The kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit," and Jesus said, "The kingdom of God is within you." We have not far to go to seek for such things. "His righteousness" we shall scarce find on earth, yet it is said, "Seek and ye shall find." We cannot miss the way if we only trust God in love and faith.—Rev. E. Howard Leggett.

The Wrong Way.

You cannot reach the Divine by climbing up on your dignity.

What Not to Expect.

If you prepare a dish of food carelessly, you do not expect Providence to make it palatable; neither, if through years of folly you misguide your own life, need you expect divine interference to bring round everything at last as if you had done right. —John Ruskin.

Merely Mercenary.

Some men could have nothing to do with the church if they could not get a dollar chicken dinner for two bits there.—Ram's Horn.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR OCTOBER 7.

Subject: The Two Great Commandments—Mark xii., 28-34 and 38-44—Golden Text: Mark xii., 30—Memory Verses, 30, 31.

I. The two great commandments (vs. 28-31). 28. "One of the scribes." Matthew calls him a lawyer. A doctor of divinity. A professional interpreter of the law of Moses. "Came." Probably at the request of the Pharisees who were determined to catch and overthrow the Saviour. "Having heard—perceiving." He had listened attentively to the discussion of Jesus with the Herodians about the tribute money and with the Sadducees about the resurrection and had been pleased at the answers Jesus gave. "The first commandment." This was a disputed question among their doctors of the law. Some ascribed first place to the law of sacrifices, others to the law of circumcision, others to the law of the Sabbath, while some gave this distinction to the law of meats. But Jesus, with much better reason, decided in favor of a commandment inclusive of the whole of piety, and leading to every holy temper, word and work.

29. "Jesus answered." He quoted from Deut. 6:4-9. "One Lord." Faith in the absolute unity of the Godhead is the point where the Christian religion antagonizes all heathen religions.

30. "Thou." Christ makes this a personal matter; He does not speak in a general way, but He brings the truth home to His questioner. "Shalt." There is no chance for cavil here; no ambiguous expressions. "Love the Lord." It is impossible to obey this commandment only as the love of God has first been shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost (Rom. 5:5). "Heart—soul—mind—strength." We may understand this fourfold enumeration as a command to devote all the faculties to the love of God.

31. "The second." The first table of the law defines our duty to God; the second, our duty to our neighbor. "Is like." Of a like nature, embracing the whole of our duty to man. "Neighbor as thyself." See Lev. 19:18. The Jews understood neighbor as meaning fellow-Jew, but Jesus taught differently (Luke 10:25-37).

II. A discreet answer (vs. 32-34). 32. "The scribe said." He expressed his disapproval of Christ's answer. 33. "Is more than—offerings." The scribe gathers up in his reply some of the great utterances of the prophets which prove the superiority of love to God and man over all mere ceremonial observances. See 1 Sam. 15:22; Psa. 51; Hos. 6:6.

34. "Discreetly." With knowledge and understanding. "Not far." He was near, but still on the outside. It is possible to be near and yet be lost. "No man," etc. No one undertook to entangle Him in His talk after this.

III. A warning against hypocrisy (vs. 38-40). In verses 35-37 Jesus asks the Jews a question which they could not answer. 38. "In His doctrine." "In His teaching." R. V. "Beware." Be on your guard. "Long clothing." Literally, in stoles, long robes reaching to the feet, such as ladies of rank were accustomed to wear, and kings, and nobles, and certain priests, and other high personages. "Salutations." They loved appellations of honor and respect, such as Rabbi, Father, Master, Teacher. "Marketplaces." Any thoroughfare or public square. Their ambition was to show themselves off in these public places. 39. "Chief seats." The chief seats were at the upper end of the synagogue near the chest containing the Book of the Law. "Uppermost rooms." "Chief places." R. V.

40. "Devour." Like ferocious beasts they devour the substance of the widows, the most defenseless and the most deserving of the poor. "For a pretense." Hypocrites indeed! They made religion a mask, and through their pretended piety they sought to gain the confidence of those whom they were planning to rob. "Greater damnation." Or "condemnation." R. V. Implying a most terrible punishment. For the double sin of hypocrisy and fraudulent injustice they should meet a terrible doom. Pride, hypocrisy and injustice are kindred sins.

IV. A lesson on giving (vs. 41-44). If this narrative is taken in connection with the discourse just given it places the hypocrisy of these Pharisees in a most glaring light. They were religious for gain, while she, one of the very class they were planning to rob, had a religion that led her to cast into the treasury all she had. 41. "Sat." Probably to rest. "Over against." Opposite. "The treasury." A name given by the rabbins to thirteen chests, called trumpets from their shape, which stood in the court of the women.

42. "Poor." The word rendered poor is a very strong one, nearly equivalent to "beggar." It implies utter destitution. The condition of a poor man's widow in that country was most helpless. "Two mites." The smallest Jewish coin, about the value of one-fifth of a cent.

43. "Called — disciples." Jesus directed their attention to this act. "More." More in proportion to their ability to give, and thus more in the estimation of God. 44. "For," etc. The worth of a gift is to be determined, not by its intrinsic value, but by what it costs the giver.

Kuehne Beveridge will provide the model for the monument to be erected by San Francisco as a reminder of the great disaster. The symbolic figure is that of a young woman, weeping, leaning against a closed Gothic door.

The Baroness Burdett-Coutts, who is now ninety-two, takes long drives every day and gives her personal charities her active attention. King Edward VII. once said of her: "After my mother, she is the most remarkable woman in England."

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,
Furniture and Rugs.
—SOLE AGENTS—
Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.
Catalogue for the asking.
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association
OF ALABAMA.
CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
By the People and for the People.
Chilton County Branch
Organized February 3, 1900.
W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.
INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man
Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent.
Full particulars furnished upon application to
WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER
We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the
St. Louis Globe-Democrat
With
THE UNION
For
$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.
The St. Louis Globe-Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly Republican in Politics but is above all
A Great Modern Newspaper.
It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.
This Liberal Clubbing Offer
is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and we must receive the cash with order. Address
THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala

PAUL CALAME,
205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.
Practical Watchmaker and Optician
Eyes Correctly Fitted
Mail orders promptly filled

SUBSCRIBE FOR THIS PAPER

DO YOU WANT
Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,
OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?
Then Call at
THE UNION OFFICE
and See Fine Work at Low Prices.
500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00
Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines. Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.
DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER
We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address
I. E. SARBER CO.
Thorsby, Alabama.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 18, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Oct 4., 1906.

Union Clubbing List

The Union And Yellow Jacket	$1.00
The Union And Southern Ruralist	1.00
The Union And Union Educator	1.00
The Union And Home and Farm	1.00
The Union And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
The Union and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.00
The Union and Tri-Wkly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
The Union And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.50
The Union and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.25
The Union And Rural South	1.00
The Union And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.50

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

NOMINEES OF THE People's Primary

Held August 6, 1906, under the direction of the Republican and Populist Executive Committees of Chilton County, Ala.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
J. Osmond Middleton.

FOR SHERIFF.
Felix J. Fitts.

FOR COMMISSIONER.
First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—S. E Waldrup.
tf

FACTION KNOCKED OUT.

The following letter speaks for itself, as the majority of our readers had heard of a "faction" that was trying to usurp the place of the regular Republican committee in this county:

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 1, 1906.

Hon. W. R. Jackson, Jemison, Ala.:

Dear Sir—After having been shown that the chairman and members of his committee, headed by Mr. A. J. Glasscock, participated in a call meeting, and in the meeting which elected you to your present position [illegible] one thing open to me, and that is to recognize you and your committee as the regular Republican county organization of Chilton county.

I have so notified the secretary of the State Committee and filed with him the papers in the case.

I am pleased to know that the Republicans are all united in the support of your county ticket, and I feel and hope that you will win the greatest victory in the history of the party in your county. Very respectfully,

JOS. O. THOMPSON.
Chairman Republican State Executive Committee.

TIMELY WORDS TO OUR YOUNG MEN.

Editor Union:

While this "equinoctial" gale has been raging out its fury o'er hill and plain, confining both man and beast to such shelter as they may be fortunate enough to find, or happy enough to own, although it may and does perhaps give one a feeling and sensation akin to that of the criminally condemned who must bide their time behind closed doors, the area of whose liberties extend not beyond the narrow confines of his cell. Yes, for two days we have paced the room, sometimes venturing a promenade of the porch, when the guests of wind and rain would allow, then to relieve the tedium, we have read the papers, perused some books, and when the mind and thoughts could not be held and controlled by these means, then it would leap the barriers, and meander back to the days of childhood, and roam over the history of past life, reviewing the troubles and trials, the sorrows and difficulties, together with joys and triumphs, interspersed with intermingled through it all, making of life one grand kaleidoscopic panorama, which to us all is perhaps more of a huge puzzle and conundrum than otherwise.

Yes, while all these scenes have marched themselves along in the parade for review, many of the characters of our acquaintances have loomed up to view, some of whom have held at one time the very highest place in our highest regard for men, but ah! alas! the ideal has vanished, the glamour subsided and we were forced to admit that they were only clay, and that of a very common sort. Yet again there are others who have never betrayed our trust, who through all the long lane of trials and temptations, yet they hold fast their integrity, they are yet fighting the good fight, they are keeping the faith. And when our mind turns to the future of our country, and views its prospects, its hopes and its fears, we must take into account all such factors as are destined to play their part in the affairs of the future, and while time and space forbid us to mention the many important factors of future affairs and conditions, yet you must allow me to call attention to one at least which seems to me to be one of most vital importance, namely, the future men and women of the time. What of them, what maner of men are they to be? Are we really rearing and training our young men so they will be sturdily honest, sober, strong, capable and qualified to grapple with the great problems of the future, and be able to control events to the general good of all? Or shall they drift along with the tide of vice, indolence and insolence, as if you will look around, you may see strong evidence that such is the tendency among our boys of today, both in town and country. It is exceedingly refreshing to find here and there a young man who is putting forth every effort to make of himself a man, to educate and equip himself for the duties of life, to cultivate his mind, to establish his character in moral rectitude, that he be fortified in mind, character and general education to be able to accept and fulfill the highest duties and honors that may be accorded him by his fellow-men.

And now, as we write, there are various young men of our county whose names and history pass before our mind who are thus struggling and working to achieve such measure of success; and let us just mention one, and then we will bow ourselves off the stage. We refer to our young friend, Willie H. Bean, son of our esteemed citizen and countryman, William H. Bean, of Beat one. Willie, as he is commonly known, has grown up on his father's farm with perhaps no more or greater advantages than the average country boy, except, perhaps, the good advice and moral training of a good and upright father and mother. Willie, it seems, had an early predilection or desire for an education, instead of misusing his time, as many boys do in what they call fun, he gave his spare time to his books, and when opportunity afforded for school he eagerly snatched every opportunity. If he did not have the chance of the highest talent as teachers, he used to the very best advantage such as he could get, and soon he was able to acquire a license to teach himself in the public schools. But not satisfied to shut off his education at a half-finished stage, although he acquired a second grade(with which many would have been content) he placed himself in the Florence Normal, where he is, we understand, to soon enter the graduating class, after which he will come to us fully equipped for the very highest grade of school work. And let me say that we, the people of Chilton county hold ourselves ready to show ourselves capable of appreciating such young men, or they must find a field for their talents elsewhere, and that they are sure to do if they are neglected at home. But we need our young men ourselves; there are others beside Willie Bean, and let Chilton's school boards and trustees and patrons look out for home talent and give it full and proper recognition. It will stimulate others to try to make the best possible of themselves. Now I have been saying all this for the boys and young men, simply because I had not space for the girls, for they deserve more than can here be said, and if I shall hear a favorable response, then some day I will tell you what I think on that line. Yours,

L. B. POUNDS.

HOLD FAST WHAT YOU'VE GOT.

There is a good deal being said about stock law in this county. I came from a stock law county; lived under it three years, and I think you had better hold fast to what you have got. I came to Chilton last February; I saw more or less home made meat in many of the stores in Clanton and heard of it being carried to Verbena. I never saw that under stock law, which means corn bread and sorghum. It means less cattle and better, but they don't get better fast. It means no hogs, nor sheep, nor goats. It means no geese, for though the law don't say geese, they've got such a long neck that it will get broke sure and then the women get mad and raise cain. It means law-suits between neighbors and friends and friendships broken for life. Consider these things and go slow with this thing called stock law; it isn't like putting on a new plow, that if you don't like it you can knock it off and take another that you know is all right. If you get stock law and don't like it, it will worry you to get rid of it. Then think of your neighbor, his farm may be in such shape that stock law would ruin him. While some have got enough land to make good pasture, the most of this land won't make a pasture worth anything. Some people think crab-grass will be all right for pasture, and it is when it comes, but it is too long getting ready to graze on. Where I used to live one man said that when he got stock law he was going to raise hogs for sale, he had a nice bunch to start with (in 1903), but last fall he did not have even a little shote to kill for fresh meat. This is the way they all raised more meat and better meat, as some men say. I've seen the poor old cow trim the bushes just as high as she could reach and then die. Stock see a lot of long, hungry days under stock law. If you have to tote all the feed to a hog to raise it and then to fatten it, it will cost you 50 cents a pound, and that isn't any joke, either. I advise you, brother farmers, to hold fast to what you have got, for you seem to be doing pretty well, and that is hard to beat. You'll find it a big job to water your stock 365 days in the year, and when you all want to go from home over night, then there is more trouble. Hold fast to what you have got. Yours truly,

G. W. LEWIS,
Clanton, Route 3.

VERBENA.

Mr. Editor:

Here I come again; I've been in feeble health lately, but some of the writings in the Banner of late are so amusing that I want to give you my opinion of them. Yousee, the Bannerman seems to think that nobody should be allowed to patronize anything but his sheet. He keeps referring to our paper, The Union, as "The Birmingham Union," notwithstanding that the best part of the Banner is printed in Birmingham. Then there is Neighbor Gulledge; he don't think that a farmer ought to be allowed to buy anything except from his local merchant; you know, he said it was bad to have a catalogue of Sears, Roebuck or Montgomery Ward in your house, but that was before we knew he was going to run for the legislature. Neighbor Gulledge has been saying for several years, "Dad burn it, there are men in Chilton county that can't tell who the Governor of the state is, or the Probate Judge; but they've got a catalogue of some supply house and won't patronize their home industries, don't you know." Now, Mr. Editor, if we could get a law passed to compel the people to patronize the local people only, and such like, we'd soon be acclimated and ready for a king. I see one T. J. Griffin has popped up his head, and no doubt he thought he threw a great stone in our midst; but we would gently remind him that as he lives in a glass house it is dangerous to throw stones. It is well remembered that Bro. Griffin was one of Neighbor Gulledge's confederates when he (Gulledge) tried to force stock law on the people of Beat 5. Bro. Griffin did not have one neighbor around Enterprise that wanted stock law, but Bro. Gulledge wanted stock law, and that was enough for Bro. Griffin. Now, dear reader, bear in mind that it is not a question of whether stock law was beneficial or not, but it was this: Will you let F. A. Gulledge, B. F. Higgins, Jr., and a few others run over the people? Bro. Griffin says Mr. Gulledge didn't do anything but sign the formal application sent him to get the postoffice at Verbena (ye gods and little fishes, wild asses, loons and other congenial creatures). Did you ever hear of a man being bound and gagged and forced to take a postoffice before, that paid as much as the Verbena office? Bro. Griffin says Neighbor Gulledge has furnished more poor people homes at good prices on long time than anybody. Fie, fie, Jeffey; you seem to know a lot, and we fancy you do know a heap about Bro. Gulledge that would do us good to know. So we ask Bro. Griffin one question as a pointed, and maybe he will open up his "bladder-mill" and tell us all. Now, just to illustrate the matter, if a poor man were to go to a "money-king" to get him to furnish him a home at a fair price, and there was a farm worth $500 and could be bought for that price, would it be fair for that "money-king" to furnish that poor man $500 and then take his notes for $600, and charge him interest on the $600 from date? Tell us what would be a fair interest on money, Bro. Griffin? You say, Bro. Griffin, that you guess Mr. Middleton and the Verbena Kid don't charge anything for what they do; well, well, Jeffey, the Kid believes in honestly acquired wealth, also that everything mortal ought to have a reasonable margin for his labor; but the Kid don't believe in extortionate prices nor loaning money at usurious interest, and then taking the proceeds and buying legislators to pass laws for a dozen men over the protests of hundreds of their neighbors, so the few can still oppress the poor. Well, well, didn't our Sam get letters of encouragement during his candidacy? It seems, to judge from his writing to the Banner about his letters as if he got more encouragement than votes in the primary on August 27. But I see he is on the campaign committee, so maybe he will keep on writing those sympathetic letters to us, telling us how sorry he is for us poor mortals. Now, Neighbor Gulledge, permit me to ask you one more question. If my memory serves me right, the law governing primary elections in Alabama is that none but registered voters that have paid all poll taxes due can vote. Isn't it a fact that you say in your "platform" that you believe in enforcing the laws strictly? Now, isn't it a fact that you got after Jack Leadlow at Clanton, on the day of the Republican-Populist rally, to vote for you and he told you he wasn't registered in Chilton county, and you and W. M. Adams told him it was all right, just go ahead and vote? I only ask this for information, you know.

VERBENA KID.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court.

In pursuance of the directions and terms of a commission, dated the 2d day of October, 1906, issued to the undersigned by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said county, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder, for cash, at public auction,

ON THE 25TH DAY OF OCTOBER 1906,

between the hours of 11 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., at the court house door in Clanton, Alabama, the following described property:

Northwest quarter of northeast quarter, section 31; southwest quarter of southeast quarter of southwest quarter, and twelve acres in southwest quarter of southwest quarter, and southwest quarter of southeast quarter, less six acres, section 30, all in township 21, range 11, containing 96 acres, more or less, situated in Chilton county, Alabama; which said property is to be sold under the order of said Probate Court, for the purpose of division and partition between the several joint owners thereof, viz.: J. R. Lovelady, Susan Lovelady, W. D. Lovelady, J. M. Lovelady, Bedie Hamrick, Sallie Carter, Mattie Smith and Lessie McFarland.

This October 2d, 1906.

SAM W. COLLINS,
10-4-06-3wks Commissioner.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Under and by virtue of an order and decree of the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton county, rendered on Monday, the 24th day of September, 1906, I, Wallace C. Edler, was appointed and directed, as Commissioner, to sell at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the court house door of Chilton county, Alabama, on

MONDAY, THE 29TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1906,

during the hours of legal sale, the following described land, to-wit:

All that part of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter lying west of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, in section 1, township 21, range 14, containing 35 acres, more or less; and the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter, and the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter, except about four acres formerly deeded to L. H. Stewart, on the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter, section 2, township 21, range 14; also fourteen acres in the northwest quarter of the west half of the southwest quarter, section 1, township 21, range 14, bounded as follows, to-wit: Commencing at the northwest corner of the southwest quarter, section 1, township 21, range fourteen, and running thence south 348 yards; thence east 178 yards thence north 348 yards to a point 198 yards east from the point of beginning, thence 198 yards back to the point of beginning. And beginning at the southwest corner of the "Pritchett lot," situated in the south half of the northwest quarter of section 1, township 21, range 14 east, and running thence south 6 degrees 45 minutes west 11 chains and 90 links to a post; thence east 20 chains and 17 links to the right of way of the Louisville and Nashville railroad; thence north 23 degrees 30 minutes west along said right of way to southeast corner of said "Pritchett lot"; thence west along the west line of said lot 13 chains and 5 links to place of beginning, containing twenty and 6-100 acres, all in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of an equitable division among the following named joint owners thereof: W. M. Wilson, Marvin H. Wilson, Charlie L. Wilson and Will S. Wilson.

WALLACE C. EDLER,
10-4-06-3wks. Commissioner.

FOR SALE.

Mare mule, 8 years old; fine animal, and will work anywhere you put her. Price, $150. I live three miles west of Jemison, on R. F. D. No. 1.
tf E. M. RAY.

MONEY TO LOAN

On real estate. Call or write me at my abiding place with Mr. G. O. Foshee, one mile northeast of Clanton, R. F. D. No. 1. Come during banking hours, as I keep my money in the bank.
tf JAMES GLASS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for sheriff of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people at the November election, 1906.

ROLLEFF BATES.
adv (tf)

To THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY.

It has been agreed that the joint discussion of the issues of the day between Mr. F. A. Gulledge and Mr. J. O. Middleton shall take place at the following times and places:

Beat 10, Corinth Church, Tuesday, October 2, 7 p. m.

Beat 6, Fairview Church, Thursday, October 4, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Pleasant Grove Church, Friday, October 5, 7 p. m.

Beat 4, Littlejohn school house, Saturday, October 6, 7 p. m.

Beat 9, Collins' Chapel, Monday, October 8, 7 p. m.

Beat 10, Bethel Church, Tuesday, October 9, 7 p. m.

Beat 6, New Cedron Church, Thursday, October 11, 7 p. m.

Beat 8, Pilgrim's Rest Church, Friday, October 12, 7 p. m.

Beat 8, Riderville, Saturday, October 13, 7 p. m.

Beat 7, Maplesville, Tuesday, October 16, 7 p. m.

Beat 7, Sardis Church, Thursday, October 18, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Macedonia, Friday, October 19, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Benson's Cross Roads, Saturday, October 20, 7 p. m.

Beat 1, Blow's school house or church, Monday, October 20, 7 p. m.

Beat 1, Union Church, Tuesday, October 30, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Jemison, Wednesday, October 31, 10 a. m.

Beat 2, Rocky Mount, Wednesday, October 31, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Providence, Thursday, November 1, 7 p. m.

Beat 9, Cedar Grove Church, Friday, November 2, 7 p. m.

Beat 11, Cane Creek Church, Saturday, November 3, 7 p. m.

Beat 4, Walnut Grove Church, Monday, November 5, 7 p. m.

WM. M. ADAMS,
Chm. Dem. Cam. Com.
A. C. SMITH,
Chm. Rep. Cam. Com.

THE NEW YORK WORLD.

Thrice-a-Week Edition—Read Wherever the English Language Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World, now that a great Presidential campaign is foreshadowed, hopes to be a better paper than it has ever been before, and it has made arrangements accordingly. Its news service covers the entire globe, and it reports everything fully, promptly and accurately. It is the only newspaper, not a daily, which is as good as a daily, and which will keep you as completely informed of what is happening throughout the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes novels by the best authors in the world, novels which in book form sell for $1.50 apiece, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Union together for one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2. tf

Program for Alabama Home-Coming and State Fair, Birmingham, Ala.

Monday, October 15—Governor's Day and registration day for Home-Comers.

Tuesday, October 16—Old Alabama Day, for Home-Comers. Speeches by distinguished Alabamians. Grand reunion. Horse show free for registered Home-Comers at night.

Wednesday, October 17—Farmers' Day, Alumni Day. Opening of grand tournament.

Thursday, October 18.—Merchants' and Traveling Men's Day. Finals to grand tournament and awarding of prizes. Free concert. Singing of prize Alabama song.

Friday, October 19—Birmingham Day, Children's Day. Excursion over district for Home-Comers. Grand ball at night.

Saturday, October 20—Home-Comers' farewell. Appropriate exercises. tf

NOTICE TO SINGING PEOPLE.

I am authorized to state through the columns of The Union that there will be an all-day singing at Jackson's Chapel on the first Sunday in October. Everybody cordially invited to come and bring somebody with them.; also bring all your song books and a basket well filled. Yours, B. F. S.
tf

PREACHING AT MT. PLEASANT.

Rev. B. H. Vickers will preach at Mt. Pleasant church on the fifth Sunday in September at 11 a. m.

Rev. W. P. Lowery will preach at Mt. Pleasant church the first Sunday in October at 11 a. m. tf

FOR SALE.

A fine yoke of oxen, about 3 years old, to be sold cheap. I live five miles east of Jemison.

MARION GLASSCOCK,
tf Jemison, R. F. D. 2.

SALEM BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. W. W. Robinson, pastor. Fourth Sunday and Saturday before. B. H. Glenn, clerk. tf

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Chancery Court. Seventh District. Northeastern Division. In Vacation. 1906.

Rosa Lee Holloman, Complainant, vs.
Ocie Holloman, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by affidavit on file of J. Osmond Middleton, counsel for complainant, that the defendant, Ocie Holloman, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and that his residence is unknown to affiant; and further that in the belief of said affiant, the defendant, Ocie Holloman, is over the age of 21 years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Ocie Holloman, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 24th day of November, 1906, and failing so to do within thirty days after the expiration of this summons, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 2d day of October, 1906.

S. A. STEWART
Register in Chancery.

TEACHER WANTED.

In Union Point School District No. 44, for a five (5) months school. Apply to JOHN S. DENNIS, J. P.
tf.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and blue map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

WATSON'S MAGAZINE.

The leading exponent of Jeffersonian Democracy, edited by Hon. Thos. E. Watson, of Georgia, the Father of Rural Free Delivery; author of "The Story of France," "Life of Napoleon," "Life and Times of Thomas Jefferson," "Bethany" and other books. Mr. Watson was the People's party nominee for Vice-President in 1896, and for President in 1904. He is today heading a middle-class reform movement which is bound to sweep the country in a short time.

Watson's Magazine is not a Socialist publication. It does not stand for collective ownership of all the means of production. Mr. Watson believes in public or government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones; in municipal ownership of street railways, gas electric lights, water works, etc.; and he believes in private ownership of all industries not natural monopolies.

The middle class—the home owners, farmers, small business men and property owners—won Jefferson's victory in 1800; won Jackson's victory over Nick Biddle's money power in 1832; won Lincoln's victory in 1860. But each time after the flush of victory had died away they became careless of their rights and went to sleep. They have slept a good portion of the time since 1865, but—

Watson's Magazine is waking them up. Another great victory is in the air. Keep in touch with the movement.

Fifteen cents a copy at news stands. $1.50 a year by mail. Sample copy for four 2-cent stamps and four names of reading friends. Address,

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
121 West Forty-second Street,
New York City.

SPECIAL CLUBBING RATE.

WATSON'S MAGAZINE AND THE UNION A YEAR FOR ONLY $1.75. WHY NOT SAVE THE 75 CENTS? LEAVE ORDERS AT THIS OFFICE.
tf

WANTED! WANTED!

A number of good families to work in the Prattville Cotton Mills. Good wages, good houses, good water and a nice place to live. Apply to, J. M. Martin, Superintendent, Prattville, Ala.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order.
tf.

FOR SALE.

30 young cockerels. Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Golden Laced Wyandotts, Buff Brown and White Leghorns. Prices 50c to $1.50. All birds pure bred and of good quality.

J. B. Downs,
tf Clanton, Ala.

OTICE TO NON-RESIDENT.

tate of Alabama, Chilton Co
ncery Court. Seventh heastern Division. In Y

ee Holloman,
Holloman, Defe
his cause it is made to appe
Register, by affidavit on file ond Middleton, counsel for co t, that the defendant, Ocie Ho is a non-resident of the bama, and that his residence an to affiant; and further the belief of said affiant, th ant, Ocie Holloman, is over th 21 years.
therefore ordered by the Re hat publication be made in th a newspaper published in Ch a., once a week for four co e weeks, requiring him, the sai dollomon, to answer, plead to the bill of complaint in th cause on or before the 2d da mber, 1906, and failing so to d thirty days after the servic summons, a decree pro confes
e taken against him in sa

ss my hand, this 2d day
, 1906.
S. A. STEWART,
Register in Chancery.

TEACHER WANTED.

ion Point School District No.
a five (5) months school. Ap
JOHN S. DENNIS, J. P.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

ion, Weekly Montgomery Ad
, and a great white and black Alabama, United States and three in one, with a picture y president from Washington
evelt, all for $1.50.

WATSON'S MAGAZINE.

eading exponent of Jeffersonian racy, edited by Hon. Thos. E. of Georgia, the Father of Rural elivery; author of "The Story ce," "Life of Napoleon," "Life mes of Thomas Jefferson," y" and other books. Mr. Wat the People's party nominee for esident in 1896, and for Presi 1904. He is today heading a lass reform movement which d to sweep the country in a me.
on's Magazine is not a Socialist ion. It does not stand for co ownership of all the means of on. Mr. Watson believes in or government ownership of s, telegraphs and telephones;
cipal ownership of street rail
as electric lights, water works, d he believes in private owner
all industries not natural mo

iddle class—the home owners, small business men and prop
ners—won Jefferson's victory won Jackson's victory over ddle's money power in 1832; ncoln's victory in 1860. But ne after the flush of victory l away they became careless rights and went to sleep. They pt a good portion of the time 65, but—n's Magazine is waking them
ther great victory is in the air.
touch with the movement.
cents a copy at news stands;
ear by mail. Sample copy for nt stamps and four names of friends. Address,
WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
21 West Forty-second Street,
New York City.
CIAL CLUBBING RATE.
ON'S MAGAZINE AND THE
A YEAR FOR ONLY $1.75.
OT SAVE THE 75 CENTS?
ORDERS AT THIS OFFICE.

NTED! WANTED!
ber of good families
rk in the Prattville
Mills. Good wages,
ouses, good water and place to live. Apply
M. Martin, Superin-
t, Prattville, Ala.

NOTICE.

k Deeds, Mortgages,
l official forms for
s of the Peace, etc.,
at The Union Office.
best approved forms
d. Come in and give r order tf.

FOR SALE.

oung cockerels. Silver
ed Hamburgs, Golden Wyandotts, Buff
and White Leghorns.
50c to $1.50. All ure bred and of good

J. B. Downs,
Clanton, Ala.

D COUNTY OFFICIALS.
Circuit Court.
—Third Monday in May
Fourth Monday in No
L. Tower, Tuskegee.
W. Bowling, Dadeville.
Collins.

Court.
—Second Monday in
Second Monday in Sep
Hon. W. W. Whiteside
Jos. S. A. Stewart, Cl

County Court.
day in each month.
sioners' Court.
day February, first Mon
First Monday June, second
, second Monday August,
November.

NTY OFFICERS.
Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
W. T. Callen.
H. Morgan.
W. M. Adams.
—L. B. Pounds.
—T. J. Hubbard.

ty Commissioners.
rict—W. H. Conway.
rict—Alex Glasscock.
rict—R. P. Kendrick.
rict—Moses Robinson.

t. of Education.
N. Moore, Clanton.

unty Surveyor.
bal. Calera.

State Senator.
L. Oliver, Calera.

NTY CHURCHES.
IONARY BAPTIST.
T—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas
Sunday and Saturday be
Hand, clerk.

LEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
R. Popwell, clerk.

EEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey,
rst Sunday and Saturday
R. Thomas, clerk.

CHAPEL—Rev. J. H.
stor. Third Sunday and fore. J. D. Collins, clerk.

ILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
rst Sunday and Saturday
W. Scott, clerk.

NIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
rst Sunday and Saturday
30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong,

T GROVE—Rev. J. H.
stor. Fourth Sunday and fore at 11 a. m. D. H.
rk.

RCE—Rev. W. W. Robin-
Second Sunday and Sat-
. Riley Robinson, clerk.

H (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H.
stor. Second Sunday and fore. D. C. Smitherman,

TIVE BAPTIST.
—Elder J. P. Nobles, pas
Sunday and Saturday be
Abernathy, clerk.

ODIST EPISCOPAL.
MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Van-
r. Second Sunday. Sing-nd and fourth Sunday
Prayer meeting every Wed-
. Ladies' prayer meeting
day afternoon.

RNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.
L. A. Chapter, No. 116—day, Clanton.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday, Cooper.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
turday, Clanton.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
turday, Billingsley.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M.,
turday on or before full

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
on or before full moon.

I. O. O. F.
dge—First and third Sat-ton, No. 104—Second and days.

men of the World.
Camp, No. 190—First and

L. O. R. M. e Tribe, No. 96—First and days. Visiting chiefs
ited. E. B. Langston, C.
Pelton, Sachem.
e No. 43—2nd and 4th
. Visiting chiefs cor-
. J. M. Grant, Sachem;
R. e Tribe, No. 9, meets
North Tuesdays' sleep.
ly invited.
AN DEERVEER, Sachem
SON, C. of R.

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

Chilton Co. Division Officers.

J. M. Thomas, President, Jemison, Rte. 1.
J. W. Hayes, Vice Pres., Thorsby, Rte 1.
J. N. Dennis, Sec-Treas., Clanton, Rte 4.
G. W. Thomas, Chaplain, Clanton, Rte 2.
J. W. Sewell, Bus. Agent, Jemison, Rte 4.
C. N. Bland, Lecturer, Clanton, Rte 4.
N. A. Dobbs, Asst. Lect., Clanton, Rte 3.
W. J. Bean, Conductor, Clanton, Rte 4.
W. F. Culpepper, Doorkeeper, Clanton, Rte 3.
W. A. Barnett, Ex. Committee, Jemison, Rte 3.
E. M. Mims, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 1.
J. Wiley Foshee, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 4.

TO THE UNIONS OF CHILTON COUNTY.

The Farmers' Institute will be held at Cedar Grove on October 12, and I want every farmer that can to lay aside his work and attend. Dr. Carey of Auburn, and Mr. Thornton and others will speak. You ought to hear Dr. Carey; he is the veterinary professor at Auburn, and he can tell you what ails your horse or your mule just as soon as he looks at it. Come everybody, especially Union people. Yours truly, J. H. THOMAS.
tf

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Clanton, Sept. 11, 1906.

Pursuant to the third article of the objects and aims of the F. E. and C. U. of A., the last County Union agreed to meet in delegated form at Cedar Grove and give one day to the science of crop diversification and scientific agriculture, or to farmers' institute work.

Dr. C. A. Cary, of Auburn, director of Farmers' Institutes of Alabama, and Col. J. M. Thornton, of Talladega, have agreed to lecture for us on that day. Also State Business Agent P. F. Parker has been invited to make us a speech on that day. The date has been fixed on Friday, October 12, 1906. Everybody is invited to come. Yours respectfully, J. N. DENNIS,
tf County Secretary.

NOTICE TO SINGERS.

There is to be a called meeting of the old Southern Union Singing Convention, to be held at Corinth Church (five miles east of Verbena) on Saturday before the fifth Sunday in September at 10 a. m. All singers are invited to come and bring your books and baskets. Now, we want it understood that we want all leaders unhampered as to what books we use, leaving it to the leaders to use such books as they see fit. Devotional exercises Saturday at 10 a. m. conducted by E. L. Jones. Welcome address, Rev. E. L. Manning; response, R. T. Grant. Formers officers were W. H. Robinson, president, and Joe Goss, secretary. tf

REGISTRATION NOTICE.

Beat No. 4, at Clanton, on Sept. 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 1906, for the purpose of registering voters.

Beat No. 4, at Clanton, on Friday and Saturday before the election in November, 1906.

R. H. GAINES,
B. L. JONES,
P. M. MOORE,
Board of Registrars Chilton County.
tf

Notice No. 20795.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 28, 1906.

Notice is hereby given that William F. Armstrong, of Clear Creek, Ala., has filed notice of his intention to make final five years proof in support of his claim, viz., homestead entry No. 33166, made September 6, 1899, for the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter, section 22, township 24 north, range 13 east, and that said proof will be made before clerk of Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on November 1, 1906.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of the land, viz.: Joseph M. Broadhead, W. Rufus Holditch, William M. Aldritch, Lee Busby, all of Calera, Ala.

ROBERT D. JOHNSTON,
8-30-06 tf Register.

NOTICE.

Jemison, Ala., August 7th, 1906.

Lost—One light clay bank mare, branded on the left shoulder with a heart; the last time heard from she was at Ashby; she weighs about 700 pounds. I will reware any one liberally for information as to where she is, or if returned to me, I will pay well for the trouble.

T. S. DAVENPORT,
tf Jemison, Ala.

ATTENTION

Mrs. S. J. Watts is with J. C. Jones and will be pleased to wait on friends and customers. We make a specialty of all styles of "Puritan Corsets" Dress Goods and Trimmings, design dresses and order patterns. tf

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Oct. 3, 1906.... 755
Price same date 10c
Receipts same time in 1905.....2,582
Price same date 9 3-4c

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Prof. A. L. Grant was a pleasant visitor Friday. He opened his school at Lawley for eight months Monday. Mr. Grant has taught at the same place for several years, and is so satisfactory as a teacher that the patrons keep raising his salary. This speaks well for both sides.

A. C. Maddox was in Clanton Saturday.

J. M. Atchley was in town Saturday, having recovered from his illness, and says Mrs. Atchley is getting better fast.

J. B. Littlejohn was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

W. M. Aldridge was a welcome caller Saturday.

Lee Vickers and ... H. Collins were in Clanton Saturday.

C. C. Burkhalter and D. L. Hand were in town Saturday. Mr. Hand's baby is very ill, but Dr. N. S Johnson is now attending the child.

A. D. Massey was in Clanton Saturday, looking well.

Mr. and Mrs. Fate Popwell, of Kincheon, have a fine 13-pound girl at their house. The young lady arrived Saturday night and mother and child are doing well. Dr. J. P. Hays is in attendance.

G. W. and C. E. Jones were in Clanton Monday.

J. S. Rollins, son of our old friend E. G. Rollins, went to Memphis Sunday to continue his medical studies. He is a junior at the Medical College of Memphis, Tenn.

The members of New Harmony Primitive Baptist church, near Lomax, are building them a church house. A. E. Teel is soliciting donations to help along the good work Contribute what you can. Elder John E. Dykes, of Shelby, is the pastor.

M. C. Williams, W. Y. Keel, S. E. Neeley and C. B. Huett, of Enterprise were in Clanton Monday.

Judge Reynolds, Col. A. C. Smith and Chairman W. R. Jackson went to Birmingham Monday on a business trip.

J. J. Grant went to Montgomery Sunday to see his daughter, Mrs. Boswell, who is in the infirmary there; he reports that she is not doing very well at present.

H. W. Devaughan was in Clanton Monday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Jasper N. Dennis, a fine boy, on Wednesday, September 26. Dr. N. S. Johnson is in attendance and mother and child are both doing well.

J. P. Jackson and Miss Beatrice D. Loach were married Wednesday evening, September 26, at Rev. J. L. Neeley's residence, that gentleman tieing the knot. The wedding party then adjourned to J. W. Neeley's, where they had a fine singing. Everybody and the Union wishes the young couple long life and prosperity.

S. M. Yates, Jr., and J. T. Rockett were pleasant visitors Monday.

T. C. Jones was in Clanton Monday.

R. E. L. Ward and B. F. Sasnett were in town Monday.

J. C. Jones, the merchant, has the best flour for $4.40 per barrel. Call on him.

Wm. Bearden, Thos. McCormick, J. R. Lovelady and W. E. Nichols were pleasant visitors Tuesday.

R. W. Ward, J. J. Culp, W. G. and Albert Culp were in Clanton Tuesday.

H. C. Martin, of Beat 2, was in town one day last week, and says his corn and cotton are fine.

The Hotel Wilson has been leased to Messrs. T. L. Carter and J. P. Elliott, of Birmingham, who say they intend to run a first-class house in every respect. These gentlemen have also rented the store formerly owned by J. Wiley Smith, and will fill the building with furniture of all kinds and prices. Furniture will be their specialty, and from their connections with manufacturers they no doubt will suit you if you call on them.

J. P. Rushing was in Clanton Tuesday.

Circuit Clerk Sam W. Collins went up to Calera Tuesday night on business. There is some talk of Mr. Collins taking a house in Clanton and residing here on account of the many calls he has to make out deeds, etc.

Mr and Mrs. H. C. Martin were in Clanton Tuesday, and Mr. Martin says his good crop prospects of a week ago have gone glimmering.

The Republicans and Populists had a good gathering Monday night, considering the weather. Col. Smith, Mr. Middleton and Judge Reynolds made talks, which seemed to suit their hearers. Mr. Gulledge had been invited and came down from Calera on the went to Clanton and spent the night accommodation, but wouldn't stop; he among more congenial company (to him).

TAX NOTICE

Tax Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes of Chilton County for the year 1906 and assessing the taxes for the year 1907:

	1906.
Kincheon, Beat 6	Oct. 1
Pletcher, Beat 8	Oct. 2
Stanton, Beat 8	Oct. 3
Shoults, Beat 7	Oct. 4
Maplesville, Beat 7	Oct. 5
Benson, Beat 3	Oct. 6
Macedonia, Beat 3	Oct. 8
Providence, Beat 2	Oct. 9
Jemison, Beat 2	Oct. 10
Mineral Springs, Beat 1	Oct. 11
Flint Hill, Beat 11	Oct. 12
Cane Creek, Beat 4, until 12 m	Oct. 13
Thorsby, Beat 9	Oct. 15
Clanton, Beat 4	Oct. 16
Cooper, Beat 10	Oct. 17
Verbena, Beat 5	Oct. 18

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.
T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's Second Round.

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes of Chilton County for the year 1906 and assessing the taxes for the year 1907:

Kincheon, Beat 6, November 7, 1906.
Enterprise, Beat 6, November 8, 1906.
Pletcher, Beat 8, November 9, 1906.
Clanton Ford, until 12 m., Beat 8 November 10, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 12, 1906.
Valley Creek, Beat 8, November 13, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 14, 1906.
Shoults, Beat 7, November 15, 1906.
Maplesville, Beat 7, November 16, 1906.
Benson, Beat 3, November 17, 1906.
Macedonia, Beat 3, November 19 1906.
Gentry & Cofer's Mill, Beat 2, November 20, 1906.
Hayes' Mill, Beat 2, November 21, 1906.
Providence, Beat 2, November 22, 1906.
John Killingworth's till 12 m., Beat 2, November 23, 1906.
Jemison, Beat 2, November 24, 1906.
Smith's School House, Beat 1, November 26, 1906.
Mineral Springs, Beat 1, November 27, 1906.
Flint Hill, Beat 11, November 28, 1906.
Providence, Beat 10, November 29, 1906.
Corinth Church, Beat 10, November 30, 1906.
Thorsby, Beat 9, December 3, 1906.
Clanton, Beat 4, December 4, 1906.
Cooper, Beat 10, December 5, 1906.
Verbena, Beat 5, December 6, 1906.
Mountain Creek, Beat 5, December 7, 1906.
James Maddox's Mill, Beat 4, December 8, 1906.

When you come to assess your property, bring your deeds, as the last grand jury suggested.

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.
T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

I will be at Clanton the last 10 days in the year, commencing December 20th, 1906. All taxes not paid by January 1st, 1907, will become delinquent. Take notice of above and save extra expense. T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

Notice.

I will not attend to assessment of Tax on last 10 days of year, as such practice has become a nuisance, and the tax payers must meet me at the regular times and places, or become delinquent. L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.

GINNING SFASON 1906-7
We have engaged Joe and Walter Maddox to run and operate our gins for the coming season. We have the best machinery and with these men to operate it, we can guarantee entire satisfaction to those who patronize us. Bring us your cotton.
Respectfully
Chilton Warehouse & M,f,g. Company, tf.

FOR SALE

At all times, high grade hogs and pigs, Berkshire and Poland China, crossed.
M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, Ala.

Fall and Winter Hardware

Heating Stoves, Coal Hods, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Vases, Fire Guards, Window Panes and Putty,

PIPE AND FITTING.

Can secure repairs for machinery from us much cheaper and in less time than from Birmingham or Montgomery. We carry Inspirators, Lubricators, Glass Oil Cups, Check and Globe Valves, Jets, Packing, Rubber Belting and Gandy Stitched Belt, Engine and Cylinder Oil, Axle Oil and Axle Grease.

ROOFING.

We have in stock Galvanized and Iron Roofing, and our price will make this roofing cheaper for you than shingles, and is much easier to put in use.

PAINTS.

The Hammar Paint and Sun Proof Paint are as good as any on the market. We have pure Linseed Oil and Lead, and if you prefer to do your own mixing, we are prepared to furnish you the necessary coloring.

BUILDERS' HARDWARE.

We can save you money on this line. Have a full stock of Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Sash Cord. Call on us for prices before placing your order.

SPIGENER & JONES

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton, Alabama

E. G. Rollins & Co.

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise, Clothing, Shoes and Fancy Groceries.

CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN FARM.

Barred Plymouth Rocks

PURE BRED

Setting of 15 fresh eggs for 50c. Packing for shipping 10c extra.

PURE BRED

Duroc Jersey Hogs.

Write us for prices before you buy. Address,

W. Y. NIX,
Maplesville, Alabama.

A. A. JACKSON

Lomax, Alabama.

General merchandise, corn, hay, shorts, shoes, men's hats, Ladies hats. Best quality and lowest prices in all goods.

Highest Market Price Paid for Chickens and Eggs

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

—is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes, FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton. Alabama

Bank Saloon

CALERA, ALA.

Fine Wines, Whiskies, Brandies, Beer, Cigars and Tobacco

STORIES OF CASTAWAYS.

Suggested by the Finding of a Stranded Hulk on a Chilean Island.

From Shipping Illustrated.

Like the old time Roman poet, some of the pioneers in exploration shuddered at the watery mountains in motion; but they were driven seaward, in many instances against their wills, by adverse gales. The virile Vikings, long before Columbus put in an appearance, had accidentally discovered what is now known as North America; and Leif, son of Eric the Red, is said to have founded colonies 900 years ago where Boston and New York now stand. Island after island in the Pacific was doubtless peopled in some measure by castaways who had started out from some lonely islet under auspicious omens, intending to return at nightfall, but who were caught in an unexpected cyclonic storm and driven many miles to leeward of their island home. Some of them perished miserably at sea; some died from exhaustion, after arrival at an unknown land, and some remained just where they gained safety, and eventually forgot whence they came. A recent number of the Chilean Times reminds us that even in the twentieth century successors to Robinson Crusoe are not altogether unknown, although their wanderings do not always have so happy a termination. It is reported that on the shore of Guafo Island there have been discovered the remains of a ship's hull, many packages of cargo, a number of skeletons, and a ship's spar bearing the inscription "Castleton, Newport."

Some years ago the American sailing ship Joseph Spinney, when about two hundred miles from the Pellew Islands, rescued an old chief and five other natives of that group who had been blown out to sea in an open boat. They had been eighteen days without food, were just about to kill and eat the sixteen-old son of the chief when the vessel bore down on the curious object to reconnoitre, and two of the castaways died despite the most careful nursing and the good food supplied to them by the master of the Joseph Spinney.

While on her way from Australia to China the American bark Tewkesbury L. Sweat was wrecked on one of the Caroline Islands during a hurricane. The castaways lived with the savages for seven months; then, grown tired of involuntary exile, they sailed 1000 miles in boat and canoes and were eventually picked up by another vessel and taken to Honolulu.

A few of the old time American whaleships met with curious adventures in the Pacific Ocean and the men not infrequently preferred a life of sensuality and ease on one of the islands rather than risk their lives in pursuit of the crafty cetacean for a return scarcely worth mentioning. And there were some whaleships under Old Glory in those days! Commodore Wilkes, U. S. N., in his renowned exploration cruise saw several American whalers during a run of a few miles, and Captain Coffin, of the Plymouth whaler Mary and Martha spoken by Commodore Wilkes off the southeast of New Zealand, in 1840, reported that there were at least 100 similar ships "fishing" in the neighborhood. One of the whaleships in 1864 under Captain Folger happened on the descendants of the castaways known for all time as the "Bounty" mutineers, who after sending adrift their commander and those who refused to join in the mutiny had settled at Pitcairn Island with some native and Tahitian women of Otaheite. Captain Folger apparently did not disclose his find, for six years had elapsed before the island was again visited by any one from the outside world. Forty years ago a Nova Scotia bark, the Angola, was wrecked on a reef six days after leaving Cavite, in the Philippines. Seventeen survivors remained on the reef until two rafts had been constructed and then attempted to reach the nearest dry land. During the night the smaller craft with five men disappeared and the twelve men of the large craft were fated to undergo a most terrible experience. After drifting twenty-five days, destitute of food and water, two men went raving mad and drowned themselves. Next day a French sailor killed the mate with an axe, quenched his thirst with the murdered officer's blood and was later on killed by the second mate. His body was eaten and cannibalism was resorted to again and again until only a Swede and a Spaniard were left to tell the horrible tale when the raft drifted ashore, after forty-eight days' experience, on an island of the South Nanuna group, where the natives attended on their every want until strong enough to proceed to Singapore in a junk.

In 1882 the metal bark Compadre caught fire at sea and was run ashore on Auckland Island to save the lives of all on board. There the castaways spent about as monotonous a hundred days as can be imagined, until rescued by a passing ship. Another metal bark, the Henry James, bound from New South Wales to California, piled up on a coral reef near Palmyra Island. Her crew and passengers sought safety on this inhospitable place; a boat, with the mate and four men who had volunteered, succeeded in reaching Samoa after a starvation trip covering 1300 miles in nineteen days, and the Mariposa of the Oceanic Steamship Company's fleet of San Francisco, Cal., went out of her way to rescue the castaways in compliance with the urgent request of the dauntless volunteer boat's crew.

Owing to the fact that quite a number of sailing ships have met their fate on the islets of the lone Southern Ocean, between the meridians of the Cape of Good Hope and Australia, the maritime nations have deemed it necessary to establish depots of food and clothing on a few of the most important of the islands along this route. On Hog Island, Croizet group, a French war vessel left a considerable supply of necessaries in a hut erected near the landing place, and a similar arrangement was made by the British warship Comus on Possession Island, where she landed provisions enough to last fifty people fifty days. Another French warship established similar depots at the islands of Amsterdam, St. Paul and Kerguelen. Nearer New Zealand there are also depots of a like nature on several of the islands, and a Government steamer visits the islands once or twice a year to replace such stores as may have become unfit for use and take off any castaways that may have arrived, irrespective of nationality. At Cape Beale and at Carmanah lighthouse, Vancouver Island, there are similar satisfactory stores for castaways. Needless to say, perhaps, the direction of the caches are clearly indicated on shore, so that the famishing arrivals may reach the provisions and clothing in the shortest possible intervals of time after landing, and notices with respect to them appear regularly in the Government publications issued to mariners by the several maritime nations.

If the report of the Chilean contemporary be true the unfortunate castaways escaped drowning only to die on shore. Very seldom indeed of recent years has such a sad find been recorded as that just made public in the lonely islet of the Pacific, for steam and telegraphy are utterly opposed to any casualty to shipping remaining hidden from the world for a long interval.

"DOCTORED" BASEBALLS.

Silk O'Loughlin Says There's a Rochester Man Who Makes Them.

"Well, well," remarked Silk O'Loughlin, as he read the stories about the row in the Southern League because Atlanta charges New Orleans with ringing in a "phony" ball in a recent game.

"That is like old times," the umpire is quoted in the Louisville Courier-Journal, "and reminds me of the seasons I spent as the arbitrator in minor leagues. Among the minors some years ago it was not such an uncommon thing as you might suppose to try to put over a ball that had too much rubber in it, and the umps had to be on the lookout for that little game all the time. We not only looked out for it, but occasionally were pretty sure that we had caught them with the goods and made them keep pitching out new balls until we got one that bounced right. I rejected twenty balls in succession in one game I umpired, and they finally got good and gave me what the rules called for.

"It is not generally known that the making of illegal balls, which even the jokiest of joke hitters can bang into the middle of next week and when they hit the ground bounce over the Chinese wall, is a regular and thriving business.

"The enterprising individual who has the largest and bounciest stock is an old stager at it whose headquarters are in Rochester. Give him the quiet tip that you want an assortment of nice lively balls, and send the coin along in advance, and he'll send you back a bunch that a tiny tot can knock so far that Larry Lajoie's longest drives would look like a beanbag toss.

"This enthusiastic supporter of the win at any price theory also makes legitimate baseballs, so unless you know him and give him the sign to show that you belong to the same lodge of baseball crooks, he'll ship you the usual line of goods, which necessitates a heap of hard work to keep your average up around .300.

"Nowadays in the big leagues they don't work the old lively ball gag often, if at all, but the various managers know all about it, and when they see a ball traveling far, far afield after being slapped at by some pitcher who hasn't put one out of the diamond for a couple of months they begin to do a heap of thinking and suggest that the umpire take a peep and bounce it a few times as a test. If it goes too high it goes out of the game.

"Keeping an eye on the ball is one of the big duties of an umpire. He doesn't have to look out for phonies so much as he does for those with loose covers or that have been cut, accidentally or by design, and he orders them out, as soon as detected."

Pleasure as a Business.

Society takes its pleasure seriously enough, as we in England are all wont to do. In the east end of London there is far more genuine enjoyment, hilarity, spirits—and spirit—than in Hyde Park on a Sunday evening, at Ascot or at Henley. Fashion is not the world which amuses itself, it amuses others far more. And as for the deeper side of the question, well, we are no worse than other peoples. Look at Ascot on the gold cup day. It is a sight unique in all the world—such frocks, such beauty, such wealth, such property! Would England be the better for the absence of it? Go ask Pretty Polly, that strange, sleek, "fast" mare, herself symbolic of the race who race with her.—London Observer.

THE SUBMARINE DIVER.

HIS ESSENTIAL AND COMPLICATED HELPLESSNESS UNDER WATER.

Even His Senses the Diver May Not Trust to Warn Him—The Very Laws of Nature Seemed Turned Against Him.

From his feet to his throat the diver is dressed in a one-piece, loose fitting, quarter-inch thick suit, consisting of the best rubber moulded between two layers of heavy canvas and terminating in a copper breast and shoulder plate to which is screwed the ponderous twenty-five pound helmet, provided with circular face plates in front and at either side, and at the back with a "goose neck" for the attachment of the air hose, says Appleton's Magazine. Each foot of the daring adventurer is fastened to a twenty-pound iron sandal, and about his waist are buckled a hundred pound leaden belt and a life line. Once inside this armor, so heavy and stiff and clumsy that a strong man barely staggers across a deck in it, the diver appears for all the world as if he were inside a huge, man-shaped balloon. And in this awkward outfit, hampering every free movement, dependent upon a hundred and one favorable conditions, the diver braves the unknown dangers lurking far below.

From the instant the helmet is screwed down and the helper grasps the life line and lowers the diver hand over hand, the "click-click-click" of the pumps bring fresh air and the hiss of the escape valve carrying away the used up air sound in the diver's ears. The "click-click-click" becomes part of his subconscious self. He is listening for it always, every not a "click" escapes him. He starts violently at the slightest irregularity of the sound. He listens for it so intently that to save his soul he cannot count correctly one hundred bricks into a bucket, taking them one at a time. It is the speech, the one speech, the speech of the pumps which tells him, "All is well as far as we are concerned."

The diver hears the acceleration of the "click-click-click" as the pumps work faster with his descent where he needs more air to counteract the increasing water pressure. The "click-click-click" tells him he is going deeper. So does the fast fading light. So does the water pressure which collapses the suit against him tight as a skin save beneath the helmet and breast plate, where his lungs require freedom. As his feet strike bottom the helpless man becomes even more helpless than before. He is as if cut off from the world above him. His sole means of speech consists of a few sentences communicated by tugging or shaking hose or life line. His one interpreter is the watchful helper, paying out or taking in hose and line and ever "feeling" the man below as a fisherman "feels" a fish.

And now the very laws of nature seem turned against his helplessness. Despite the 180 or 200 pounds of armor under which he staggers in daylight, he now feels light as a feather. He has lost practically all semblance of that most fundamental element of physical strength—gravity. So nearly equal is the balance between the air and lead and iron and copper that he finds that, like a man on the moon, he can make fabulous jumps by giving the slightest spring. For all practical purposes he is powerless as a man suspended in a swing and his muscles and sinews of steel become useless, almost like those of an eight year old child. So helpless is he that he may not stand erect without being swept from his feet by the drag of the current or tide against hose and life line. If he wants to progress, he must lean forward at an angle of 45 degrees and laboriously use his hands for paddles; or he must crawl on his hands and knees, digging his fingers into the muck, a gigantic human mudfish. If he strikes a blow with an axe it falls comparatively harmless. Oftenest he is in such pitch darkness that he cannot twice hit in the same place. If he uses a shovel he may not shove the blade into the mud lest he go backward like a crab, but he must scoop the blade full with his hands at the risk of cutting and tearing them against broken glass, in cans and other rubbage.

Even his senses the diver may not trust to warn him below water. He smells nothing except the stenches sucked in by the pumps above, these and the odor of rubber from the hose and the smells of the machine oil used on the cylinders clicking air to him.

His ears he may trust only in part, for, if loud enough, sounds come to him through the escape valve—under water noises. You might fire the sixteen-inch Sandy Hook gun over his head and he would not know it except for the quake of the mud under his feet. But he can hear an under water explosion three miles away; he can hear the thumping and stamping of submarine drills more than a mile away; he can hear the grating and grinding of splintered spars and timbers moving in the grasp of current or tide.—

FIRST MORMON TEMPLE.

A Massive Stone Structure Built by Prophet Joseph Smith.

The first shrine of Mormonism is still standing at Kirtland, Ohio. If the occupants of the little cemetery near it could rise, says the Ohio Magazine, they would tell how many a fevered zealot gave his lands, his home and his all to provide funds for the building of the Temple.

It was in 1830 that Smith appeared in Kirtland, and with his coming there was a social revolution the like of which Ohio had never witnessed. Husbands left their wives and children, mothers deserted their homes and babies were placed in the poor house. The end came when Joseph Smith was compelled to flee to the State of Ohio. The Temple was all that was left behind.

"A Store House of the Lord," as Smith called it, was begun in 1831 and by 1834 was completed. Its foundation was laid on seven small ridges, or hills, in imitation of the Rome of old. The dimensions were about 50 by 125 feet. The stone walls are 2 feet in thickness.

The Temple stands today about as it was when built. On the first floor is the main audience room, filled with walnut benches surrounded by a high railing. The doors to the pews have locks or catches, so that when closed whoever is speaking is reasonably sure of holding his audience.

At each end of the room a series of elevated thrones, one rising above the other, marks the position during worship used by the dignitaries of Joseph Smith's reign. Rows of hooks in the ceiling show how the curtains which were once used were arranged to divide the floor into four apartments.

The floor above is bare and desolate looking. About sixty chairs placed here indicate that it is used as a sort of lecture hall; but in the days of Smith curtains divided this apartment just as below.

Rollers fastened to the ceiling of this second floor, together with a system of pulleys, enabled the operator to raise or lower the curtains of both first and second floors at the same time. In the third story several partitions running north and south make a number of separate chambers.

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, the body which worships in this Temple now, tries to follow literally the Book of Mormon, which, be it known, prohibits polygamy. The doctrine of plural wives was one of Smith's "revelations." Yet this sect defies Joseph Smith, polygamy and all.

THE CURSE OF NEW YORK.

The Lack of the Home Spirit and the Gradual Decline of Private Life.

Half of New York lives in the street. Overflowing from their crowded flats and uncomfortable rooms, the people pour out onto the front streets, the sidewalks, the city parks and the great highways. Children play all over the street in continual danger, and their elders scatter about, singly or in groups, but always in the garish light. This, of course, is in the districts of the poor, where flats are stuffy and rooms crowded with humanity, but it is not so different in the other sections, where the flats become apartments and light and sunshine illumine them. The spirit is characteristic of New York, and the same restlessness that drives the poor to the curb sends the rich into public dining-rooms for a long drawn-out meal.

However comfortable a home a New Yorker has, his chief idea is to get out of it. The stores, the parks, the hotels and restaurants—every place of public resort is crowded with people whose motto seems to be, "Oh, don't go; home was never like this." And it is this lack of a home spirit, this gradual decline of the private life that is about the greatest curse which can settle on a great city.

Thousands of people live in boarding houses to avoid the extra expense and trouble of housekeeping. Two persons with all their belongings and plans and aspirations crowded into one room, with never a chance for solitary meditation or seemly seclusion, is a form of existence which might almost be called indecent. Every soul wants some moments to itself; it is a demand that rises from a necessity deeper than is often recognized, but always insistent, and when four restricting walls forbid it is the work of man combating the laws of God.

Finally the desperate boarders seek a flat and set up their household gods above their own hearthstone. Even here, though, the modern builder has done his deadly work. Two rooms are always built together, and often three open up as one. To have each room in the apartment separate and distinct is rare. The family is thrown together, and company for one is company for all. Privacy and seclusion are practically impossible. An alleged bedroom is nothing more than a passageway, and it is frequently necessary to walk through the parlor and dining room to reach the bath. It is quite evident that the architect crowds all he can into a small given space. The right of each individual to occasional privacy is scarcely ever considered. And the worst of it is that all New York accepts the situation, which must have a pernicious influence and which is the gradually growing curse of the city.—New York Mail.

The salaries committee of Stockport, England, has advanced the salary of the municipal draftsman $2.50 a year—about 4 cents a week.

An expedition to the South Pole on automobile sleighs is planned by Frederick A. Cook.

The Marquis of Breadalbane possesses the finest service of gold plate in Great Britain.

Manhattan Island post office affairs are particularly well administered, and it requires 5,212 persons to do it.

Reclamation of Marsh Lands in the S

The agricultural conditions of the coast and tidal river lands of South Carolina have been the subject of more or less discussion since 1873, at which time a report was submitted by a committee of the South Carolina Agricultural Society, suggesting certain radical changes in their management. Although many of the labor complexities then complained of have disappeared, the problem of the profitable utilization of these lands still confronts the proprietors. Mr. Elwood Mead, of the United States Department of Agriculture, has pointed out that the lands which may be used for agriculture are of two different classes—those of the coastal plain lying above high tide, a large portion of which are swampy and unfit for continued cultivation except in the most favored localities, and the bottom lands bordering the tidal rivers, which are unfit for use without the protection of banks or levees. Rice grows upon the river lands, and rice has long been a staple crop of the South Atlantic coast. It is a question, however, whether the plain lands may not be able to contribute more to the prosperity of their owners and the State than the more celebrated rice lands.

A strong sentiment has therefore developed in the eastern part of the United States for the drainage of tidal and swampy lands, especially in the South, where large areas of swampy land abound, so infested with malaria breeding mosquitoes that agricultural settlement and the successful establishment of manufacturing enterprises have been all but impossible. The irrigation and drainage investigators of the Department of Agriculture are co-operating with a drainage and sanitary commission appointed by the legislature of South Carolina for the purpose of improving the health of the communities about Charleston and increasing the land values. During the coming year plans for the drainage of new areas will be made, the work to be carried out by the State Drainage and Sanitary Commission with the aid of convict labor.

South Carolina and Virginia would, perhaps, be most benefited if the plans which have been formulated in various bills presented to Congress are carried out.

The surface of the watershed of the streams has been so modified by cultivation and especially by the removal of the primitive growths of timber and other vegetation, that the uniformity of flow in the streams found thirty years ago cannot be reasonably expected in the future. There has been, as a result, a falling off of the total annual rainfall, yet no apparent diminution in the maximum daily or monthly rainfalls. The flood height of the streams is greater at times, and less constant than formerly. The lesson taught by these observations are: First, that the diminution of annual rainfall does not necessarily lower the height of the river flood line, or the consequent height and strength of levees required to protect the land, though the maximum may not be reached as frequently as during periods of greater average rainfall; second, that the periods of light annual rainfall have a direct effect upon the quantity available at times when it is necessary to flood the rice. If this volume is too small the only water to be had is brackish or salt.

The South finds itself confronted by this dilemma: The growing of rice is too hazardous to be continued where there is danger from salt water. On the other hand, no other valuable field crop will grow on wet land.

In view of the investigation which was made by the Department of Agriculture, the area used for a century or more for the growing of rice must be abandoned and cultivated for other crops. The chief reason for this conclusion is to be found in the fact that the fresh-water supply required for flooding has become insufficient and uncertain. The use of brackish water and drainage has caused [illegible] plantation along [illegible] or eastern branch [illegible] has any assurance of a supply from that stream. [illegible] less than 2552 acres planted previous year were abandoned of salt water. In 1905 acres were planted on [illegible] and 1222 acres in the [illegible] making a total of 2227 [illegible] this acreage 300 were [illegible] reservoirs. Prior to [illegible] acres has been abandoned since 1890 two-thirds of formerly planted [illegible] branches has been abandoned.

Three things must [illegible] solve the problem. The [illegible] ecess must be strengthened and made high enough to [illegible] floods; the inclosed lands ditched so that soil water [illegible] moved to a depth of [illegible] pumping plants must be [illegible] remove all such drainage [illegible] cannot be removed [illegible] through sluices or trunks.

Ditches can be dug to drain the soil to a depth three feet, making it [illegible] able for the growing of crops and the use of [illegible] ery as will be required [illegible] tivation.

The improvement of [illegible] plain lands, which are [illegible] include an area of [illegible] only 50 000 of which [illegible] tivation, is a matter of [illegible] ance. These lands require drainage and proper [illegible] make them productive. [illegible] lands may be drained as [illegible] mosquito-ridden prairie [illegible] Illinois and Indiana now [illegible] most productive and [illegible] the land.

The first benefit to accrue [illegible] drainage of the low [illegible] Carolinas will be to make [illegible] tary free from malaria, [illegible] tive to those who contemplate purchase of farm homes [illegible] olina climate, which is [illegible] ous. With a general [illegible] tem, which may be easily [illegible] if equitable State drainage [illegible] enacted, the further drainage [illegible] the lands by means of the [illegible] orate system of [illegible] which has proved so effective [illegible] improvement of low lands [illegible] can be prosecuted by [illegible] desired. These lands [illegible] will require but a [illegible] artificial fertilizing used [illegible] er lands, and will be in addition that a rotation [illegible] to the climate may be [illegible] the fertility of the land [illegible] tained. If looked into [illegible] will be found that the [illegible] mercial fertilizers used [illegible] seasons upon the high [illegible] many cases meet the expense [illegible] a drainage system as [illegible] quired to make the [illegible] healthful and productive.

The entire drainage [illegible] be put as follows:

The coastal section [illegible] must be drained before [illegible] sufficiently healthful to [illegible] ty and intelligent farmers [illegible] be done in such a way as [illegible] the country sanitary, with [illegible] tion of the river lands [illegible] acre, and for high-class [illegible] for $10 or $15 per acre. [illegible] river rice lands, which [illegible] by salt water, should be [illegible] into drained fields, and [illegible] upland crops. This [illegible] a cost of $15 per acre. [illegible] done on the two branches [illegible] Cooper River, that section [illegible] free from malaria and [illegible] located residences could be [illegible] during the entire year.

A State drainage law [illegible] enacted by the next legislature, [illegible] in the meantime the [illegible] mates for the drainage [illegible] representative tracts should [illegible] and discussed for the information [illegible] the public.—Scientific American.

The Jamestown Exposition.

Indications all point to success for the Jamestown exposition. From the first definite start, beginning with the proclamation of President Roosevelt in March, 1905, inviting general participation, there have been alertness and activity on the part of the promoters. The United States Government has made appropriations aggregating $1,575,000, and its various departments will be represented there. The naval and military display will be greater than ever evoked for a similar enterprise, and interest will be added by the presence not only of foreign vessels, but of crack regiments from the armies of other lands.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Beats Willie.

Thirteen hours is now the record for waltzing in France, and belongs to an Italian. Ten competitors, including several energetic children, started dancing in Paris recently at 1 a. m. At 5 the last child had dropped down from exhaustion and was put—none too soon—to bed. At noon, of two competitors remaining, one gave up—and then there was one. He waltzed on for two hours longer, but his legs sank beneath him—and there was none. He had danced six women nearly to death during his performance. — Kansas City Journal.

London already has 3000 automobile omnibuses plying in the streets, and that number will soon be doubled.

Sleeping on His [illegible]

"Now," said Freddy [illegible] she got him ready for [illegible] aunt, "be sure you [illegible] breakfast, as you often [illegible] That won't do when [illegible] Freddy's triumph is [illegible] New York Tribune.

On her son's return [illegible] mother inquired if he was [illegible] time for the family breakfast. "Yes'm!" responded [illegible] triumphantly. "I was down [illegible] morning, soon's any of [illegible] up."

"You won't let me [illegible]

"Won't let you? Why [illegible]

"Well, you see, I [illegible] nighty on and slept in [illegible] so's to be nice and ready [illegible] ing."

A Doctor's Shrewdness.

Theodore Billroth, the [illegible] ennese surgeon, lecturing [illegible] in a medical school, said [illegible] tor needed two gifts—[illegible] free from any tendency [illegible] sea and he must be a good [illegible] He then poured a nauseous [illegible] a glass, dipped one of his [illegible] it and licked it off, whereupon [illegible] vited the students to follow [illegible] ample. Without flinching [illegible] so. With a broad grin [illegible] looked at them and said: [illegible] stood the first test heroically [illegible] so the second, for none [illegible] served that I dipped my [illegible] into the glass but licked my [illegible] —New York Tribune.

A Square Deal

[illegible] you buy Dr. Pierce's [illegible] for all the ingredients [illegible] them are printed on [illegible] and their formulas [illegible] as being complete [illegible] just what you are [illegible] the ingredients are [illegible] Pierce's laboratory, being [illegible] the most valuable native [illegible] roots found growing in our [illegible] while potent to cure [illegible] harmless even to the most [illegible] children. Not a drop [illegible] their composition [illegible] is used both for ex- [illegible] and internally in the [illegible] Preserve it in them, viz.—pure [illegible] cocine. This agent possesses [illegible] medicinal properties of its own, [illegible] valuable antiseptic and anti- [illegible] nutritive and soothing [illegible]

[illegible] plays an important part in [illegible] Golden Medical Discovery in [illegible] ed indigestion, dyspepsia and [illegible] nach, attended by sour [illegible] [illegible] foul breath, coated tong- [illegible] ite, gnawing, faint or sinking [illegible] ness and nervous depression [illegible] the stomach, liver and bowels. [illegible] curing all the above distressing [illegible] the "Golden Medical Discovery" [illegible] fects all diseases of the mucous [illegible] as catarrh, whether of the [illegible] ages or of the stomach, bowels [illegible] of urine. Even in its incipient [illegible] will yield to the sovereign rem- [illegible] use be persevered in. In Chronic [illegible] of the Nasal passages, it is well [illegible] ing the "Golden Medical Dis- [illegible] for the necessary constitutional [illegible] to cleanse the passages free [illegible] times a day, with Dr. Sage's [illegible] Remedy. This thorough course [illegible] ment generally cures the worst [illegible]

[illegible] and hoarseness caused by bron- [illegible] and lung affections, except con- [illegible] in its advanced stages, the "Golden [illegible] Discovery" is a most efficient rem- [illegible] edy. In those obstinate, hangon- [illegible] cases caused by irritation and congestion of [illegible] the mucous membranes. The "Dis- [illegible] Remedy" is good for acute coughs, [illegible] colds, nor must it be ex- [illegible] cure consumption in its advanced [illegible] stages, for even in such hopeless cases this [illegible] medicine will do much good, if not to cure, [illegible] chronic coughs, if neglected or badly treated, lead up to consumption. [illegible] the best medicine that can be taken.

[illegible] WITH HORSERADISH.

Kansas Man Derives Income from a Few Acres of It.

[illegible] is raising horseradish de- [illegible] mainly on rewetting it every [illegible] Many farmers are under the [illegible] that because it sends up [illegible] shoots the second season they [illegible] be plenty of horseradish with- [illegible] labor. A man here is mak- [illegible] $300 to $400 a year from [illegible] dish, and never more than [illegible] of land is used. His meth- [illegible]:

[illegible] sets about six or eight inches [illegible] plant just far enough apart [illegible] between the hills. The rows [illegible] enough apart to cultivate [illegible] The ground should be rich [illegible], and he says any land that [illegible] corn is suitable for horse- [illegible] This man started with a few [illegible] first year. The next spring [illegible] every bit, cutting all the small [illegible] off for planting and saving [illegible] top roots to grate for table [illegible] roots must be kept covered [illegible] until ready to plant, for if [illegible] the sun and wind one day [illegible] vel and are not fit to use [illegible] nepower is used for grating [illegible] dy day is always selected, [illegible] vapor from horseradish is [illegible] ere. He grates a 56-pound lard [illegible] and bottles it, selling it to [illegible] and butchers' shops at 10 [illegible] cents a bottle. He has bought [illegible] farm, has it well improved [illegible] making a comfortable living [illegible] vegetable alone, gathering [illegible] neat sum from the sale of [illegible] planting. He hangs out a [illegible] the effect that they are only [illegible] a hundred, and, as one good [illegible] make 20 or more cuttings, [illegible] it is large.

[illegible] time in April or May is the [illegible] time to set the cuttings. The [illegible] dish can be left in the ground [illegible] ter and dug out in times of a [illegible] freezing does not hurt it, [illegible] better to plough it all out [illegible] all, separate the roots for graf- [illegible] planting, put all in the cellar [illegible] over with dirt.—N. R. H., [illegible] Kan., in New York Tribune.

[illegible] the curious observations [illegible] students at the Bermuda Bio- [illegible] Station is that some of the [illegible] ets of the water there are able [illegible] the color of the rocks and [illegible] long which they swim.

RIGHT HOME

Recommends Postum From Personal Test.

[illegible] is better able to realize [illegible] rious action of caffeine—the [illegible] coffee—on the heart, than the [illegible]

[illegible] the doctor himself has been [illegible] by simply leaving off coffee [illegible] Postum, he can refer with [illegible] viction to his own case.

[illegible] physician prescribes Postum [illegible] of his patients because he [illegible] efited by it. He says:

[illegible] to add my testimony in re- [illegible] that excellent preparation— [illegible] I have had functional or [illegible] heart trouble for over 15 [illegible] and part of the time was un- [illegible] attend to my business.

[illegible] a moderate user of coffee [illegible] not think drinking it hurt [illegible], on stopping it and using [illegible] instead, my heart has got all [illegible] and I ascribe it to the change [illegible] coffee to Postum.

[illegible] prescribing it now in cases [illegible] ness, especially when coffee [illegible] agree, or affects the heart, [illegible] stomach.

[illegible] made right it has a much [illegible] flavor than coffee, and is a [illegible] tainer of the system. I shall [illegible] to recommend it to our peo- [illegible] I have my own case to refer [illegible] to given by Postum Co., [illegible] Creek, Mich. Read the little [illegible] "The Road to Wellville," in [illegible] "There's a reason."

...h Lands in the So...

...of brackish water and ... drainage has caused ... plantation along ... or eastern branch ... has any assurance of a ... supply from that stream. ... less than 2552 acres planted ... vious year were abandoned ... of salt water. In 1905 ... acres were planted on this ... and 1222 acres on the east ... making a total of 2237 acres. ... this acreage 306 were water ... reservoirs. Prior to 1905 ... acres has been abandoned, ... since 1900 two-thirds of the ... formerly planted on the ... branches has been abandoned.

Three things should be ... solve the problem: The ... ers must be strengthened ... not made high enough to ... floods, the inclosed lands ... ditched so that soil water ... moved to a depth of ... Drainage plants must be ... remove all such drainage ... cannot be removed by ... through sluices or trunks.

Ditches can be dug ... drain the soil to a depth ... three feet, making it firm ... able for the growing of ... crops and the use of such ... ery as will be required in ... tivation.

The improvement of the ... lain lands, which are estimated ... include an area of 400,000 ... only 50,000 of which are ... tivation, is a matter of vital ... ance. These lands require ... drainage and proper cultivation ... make them productive. ... lands may be drained as ... mosquito-ridden prairie ... Illinois and Indiana now are ... most productive and fertile ... the land.

The first benefit to accrue ... drainage of the low lands ... Carolinas will be to make them ... free from malaria, and ... to those who contemplate ... purchase of farm houses in ... climate, which is most ... ous. With a general drainage ... tem, which may be easily ... of equitable State drainage ... enacted, the further drainage ... the lands by means of the ... orate system of underdrainage ... which has proved so effective ... improvement of low lands ... can be prosecuted by landowners ... desired. These lands, when ... will require but a fraction ... artificial fertilizing used on ... er lands, and will be in such ... dition that a rotation of crops ... to the climate may be followed ... the fertility of the land ... tained. If looked into carefully ... will be found that the value ... mercial fertilizers used during ... seasons upon the high lands ... many cases meet the expense ... a drainage system as will be ... quired to make the low lands ... be fruitful and productive.

The entire drainage problem ... be put as follows:

The coastal section of the ... must be drained before it ... sufficiently healthful to attract ... ty and intelligent farmers. ... be done in such a way as ... the country sanitary, with the ... ion of the river lands, for ... acre, and for high-class cane ... for $10 or $15 per acre. The ... river rice lands, which are ... by salt water, should be ... into drained fields, and put ... upland crops. This may be ... a cost of $15 per acre. If ... done on the two branches of ... Cooper River, that section will be ... free from malaria and the ... located residences could be ... during the entire year.

A State drainage law should be ... enacted by the next legislature, ... in the meantime the plans and ... maps for the drainage districts, ... representative tracts should be ... and discussed for the information ... the public.—Scientific American.

Sleeping on His Arm.

"Now," said Freddy's mother ... she got him ready for a visit ... aunt, "be sure you are not ... breakfast, as you often are. ... That won't do when you are ... Freddy's triumph is recorded ... New York Tribune.

On her son's return his ... mother inquired if he was ... time for the family breakfast. ... "Yes'm!" responded Freddy ... promptly. "I was down ... morning, soon's any of 'em. ... "I am so glad; hope you ... up."

"You won't let me."

"Won't let you? Why ...

"Well, you see, I just ... nighty on and slept in my ... so's to be nice and ready in the ... ing."

A Doctor's Shrewdness.

Theodore Billroth, the ... ...enese surgeon, lecturing to ... in a medical school, said that ... tor needed two gifts—he ... free from any tendency to ... sea and he must be a good ... He then poured a nauseous ... a glass, dipped one of his ... it and licked it off; whereupon ... vited the students to follow ... ample. Without flinching ... so. With a broad grin the ... looked at them and said: ... stood the first test brilliantly ... so the second, for some of ... served that I dipped my ... into the glass but licked the ... —New York Tribune.

A Square Deal

...you buy Dr. Pierce's ... all the ingredients ... them are printed on ... and their formulas ... as being complete to ... how just what you are ... the ingredients are ... laboratory, being ... valuable native ... found growing in our ... potent to cure ... to the most ... Not a drop ... about cures, but ... ex-... will do that—not for all ... but for all ... coughs, ... those obstinate, hang-on ... by irritation and congestion of ... The "Discovery" ... for acute coughs, ... it be ex-... Besides, ... advanced ... out for all ... coughs, which, if neglected ... lead up to consumption. ... medicine that can be taken ... This agent possesses ... properties of its own, ... antiseptic and anti-... healing ... an important part in ... Discovery in ... deep-seated ... sour risings, ... coated tongue, ... in stomach, ... and bowels. ... distressing ... Medical Discovery" ... symptoms of the mucous ... catarrh whether of the ... of the stomach, bowels ... Even in its inveterate ... sovereign remedy ... In Chronic ... Medical Dis-... constitutional ... messages freely ... Dr. Sage's ... thorough course ... generally cures the worst ... cases caused by bron-... except con-... the "Golden ... efficient tem-... hang-on ... congestion of ... The "Dis-... for acute coughs and ... it be ex-... advanced ... out for all ... which, if neglected ... consumption. ... taken.

WORTH QUOTING

That English author who insists that he does most of his writing in his sleep is probably employed on some English comic paper.

"Justice travels with a leaden heel," good old Judge Jerry Black used to quote, "but she strikes with an iron hand."

A Cleveland paper tells its readers there is no excuse for idleness now. The editor ought to hear some of the short stories listened to by the women who take in washing to support their husbands.

The mountain lion who forced a woman to sing all night was killed early the next morning. This illustrates the danger that environs him who listens to a woman singing.

Tourists to the Yosemite valley can still experience a realistic touch of the Deadwood stage coach and the "touch" in a monetary sense is very real. If California wishes to encourage eastern tourists she will have to suppress her picturesque road agents.

"If any man wants to learn from practical experience the difference between 'original outlay' and 'cost of maintenance' let him buy a camera and then take a lot of pictures," says The Washington Star. Or an automobile.

Some men are so suspicious that if they went into the organ grinding business they would compel the monkeys to carry little cash registers.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

According to a Missouri court decision you don't have to pay any debt you may happen to owe a trust. One of the far reaching effects of this may be the general adoption of a strictly cash system on the part of the trusts.

Secretary Elihu Root, having looked abroad over the absolutely undeveloped resources of South America, declared to the people of Santiago, in Chile, that while the nineteenth century had been the century of the United States, the twentieth century would be that of South America.

The Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, of Cleveland, has added a "community parlor." The name sounds dignified enough, but it means a courting parlor, where girls who live in boarding houses and have no parlors may meet young men and court and marry them. It offers no help or suggestion to the girl who lives at home and has a parlor that is never occupied.

"Make soldiers of them" is the London Standard's plan for keeping the troublesome tribes of South Africa in order. It says the men now giving trouble to the Natal authorities would make "a powerful force of trained soldiers, whose bravery and marksmanship would be equal to those of the best European troops, while their marching powers and hardihood would be far superior."

Sydney Smith's cure for self-consciousness, as quoted in a popular magazine, comes home to most of us: "You are not of the least consequence; nobody is looking at you; nobody is thinking of you; make yourself comfortable." Also Dr. Hale's "Look out and not in, and lend a hand."

Governor Folk, of Missouri, said in a recent address: "The fact that this awakening has came at a time of unusual prosperity shows that it does not proceed from a spirit of discontent, but springs from the moral sense of the people." If a time of depression should come and a spirit of discontent and the moral sense should unite their forces, the grand juries would do a land office business, and a great many political machines would need radical reconstruction.

In Milwaukee the commissioner of health permits no milk to be sold that does not come up to standard, and no doubt today that city has a purer milk supply than any other town in this country. This excellent life-saving result is due—wholly due—to the close watch it keeps upon germs in its daily milk supply of 30,000 quarts. It wants no germ-infected milk.

In recent years much of the growth of the business of the department of justice is attributable to the enormous expansion of commerce and transportation legislation. At present trust prosecutions are swelling the volume of the department's business. Attorney General Moody expresses the opinion that as time goes on the general government will, by appropriate laws, exercise more and more its plenary power over commerce within its control.

Though willow grows in wet places, it is naturally one of the driest woods. It contains only 26 per cent of water. Oak contains 34 per cent.

Lord Northcote, Governor General of Australia was entertained at a banquet in a coal mine at Newcastle, New South Wales. The banqueting hall was 300 feet below the surface.

...WITH HORSERADISH.

...Kansas Man Derives from a Few Acres of It.

...is raising horseradish de-...ently on resetting it every ... Many farmers are under the ... that because it sends up ... from the second season they ... plenty of horseradish with-... labor. A man here is mak-... $100 to $500 a year from ... ish, and never more than ... of land is used. His meth-...

...ows about six or eight inches ... plant just far enough apart ... between the hills. The rows ... enough apart to cultivate ... The ground should be rich ..., and he says any land that ... corn is suitable for horse-... This man started with a few ... one year. The next spring ... very hill, cutting all the small ... of for planting and saving ... top roots to grate for table ... roots must be kept covered ... until ready to plant, for if ... the sun and wind one day ... and are not fit to use ... mower is used for grating ... day is always selected, ... paper from horseradish is ... He grates a 50-pound lard ... and bottles it, selling it to ... and butchers' shops at 10 ... cents a bottle. He has bought ... farm, has it well improved ... making a comfortable living ... vegetable alone, gathering ... neat sum from the sale of ... planting. He hangs out a ... the effect that they are only ... a hundred, and, as one good ... make 20 or more cuttings, ... is large.

...time in April or May is the ... time to set the cuttings. The ... can be left in the ground ... and dug out in times of a ... freezing does not hurt it, ... better to plough it all out ... separate the roots for grat-... planting, put all in the cellar ... over with dirt.—N. R. H., ... in New York Tribune.

...the curious observations ... students at the Bermuda Bio-... Station is that some of the ... of the water there are able ... the ... of the rocks and ... which they swim.

RIGHT HOME

Recommends Postum From Personal Test.

...one is better able to realize ...rious action of caffeine—the ...coffee—on the heart, than the ...

...the doctor himself has been ... by simply leaving off coffee ... Postum, he can refer with ... to his own case.

...physician prescribes Postum ... his patients because he ... benefited by it. He says:

...was to add my testimony in re... that excellent preparation—... I have had functional or ... heart trouble for over 15 ... and part of the time was un... attend to my business.

...was a moderate user of coffee ... did not think drinking it hurt ... but on stopping it and using ... instead, my heart has got all ... and I ascribe it to the change ... coffee to Postum.

...am prescribing it now in cases ... nervousness, especially when coffee ... nervousness, or affects the heart, ... or stomach.

...when made right it has a much ... flavor than coffee, and is a ... tonic to the system. I shall ... to recommend it to our peo... and I have my own case to refer ... Name given by Postum Co., ... Creek, Mich. Read the little ... "The Road to Wellville," in ... "There's a reason."

CURED OF GRAVEL.

Not a Single Stone Has Formed Since Using Doan's Kidney Pills.

J. D. Daughtrey, music publisher, of Suffolk, Va., says: "During two or three years that I had kidney trouble I passed about 2½ pounds of gravel and sandy sediment in the urine. I haven't passed a stone since using Doan's Kidney Pills, however, and that was three years ago. I used to suffer the most acute agony during a gravel attack, and had the other usual symptoms of kidney trouble—lassitude, headache, pain in the back, urinary disorders, rheumatic pain, etc. I have a box containing 14 gravel stones that I passed, but that is not ¼ of the whole number. I consider Doan's Kidney Pills a fine kidney tonic."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Poisoned Flour in China.

The trade in foreign flour from Amoy into the interior of China and in Amoy itself will disappear for some time to come if the evil effects of a most fortunate occurrence cannot be overcome at once. Somewhere between thirty and forty people have died as the result of eating products of flour sent to Amoy in a certain shipment from Hong-kong, and the natives in the interior as well as in Amoy have almost altogether ceased to use the product. All sorts of rumors have been spread broadcast and anti-foreign agitation has received a great impetus. —United States Consul Anderson, Amoy, China.

NO REST NIGHT OR DAY.

With Irritating Skin Humor—Hair Began to Fall Out—Wonderful Result From Cuticura Remedies.

"About the latter part of July my whole body began to itch. I did not take much notice of it at first, but it began to get worse all the time, and then I began to get uneasy and tried all kinds of baths and other remedies that were recommended for skin humors, but I became worse all the time. My hair began to fall out and my scalp itched all the time. Especially at night, just as soon as I would get in bed and get warm, my whole body would begin to itch, and my finger nails would keep it irritated, and it was not long before I could not rest night or day. A friend asked me to try the Cuticura Remedies, and I did, and the first application helped me wonderfully. For about four weeks I would take a hot bath every night and then apply the Cuticura Ointment to my whole body, and I kept getting better, and by the time I used four boxes of Cuticura I was entirely cured and my hair stopped falling out. D. E. Blankenship, 310 N. Del. St., Indianapolis, Ind. Oct. 27, 1905."

Japanese English.

There have been some slight disturbance among the foreign trade as to the appearance of those Baltic fleet. Yet. our sugar which has been importing from Manila and Java, has not been effected so far, as the present market is not very active.

The "Habutaye" market in Yokohame has been hindered toward India and Europe, while some brighter view has been entertained against Australian and American demand.

A firm in Kobe, one of the most reliable as an export house of chip as well as Strawdraids, wishes to secure a connection with a large and sound importing house in Europe.

One of the oldest houses in dealing the bronze wares in Osaka is seeking after some good correspondent in the United States.

A gentleman in Tokyo desires to write some articles to foreign papers in respect to this country for various subjects. He will take some reasonable compensation.—Industrial Review, Tokio.

A Pet Gazel.

Up the Shat-el-Arab river, lying off Bussorah, whence Sindbad the Sailor set forth on his famous journeys, we had given us, as a great table deliccacy, a young gazel. The little fellow was not more than two feet in height; his eyes were large and brown and lustrous; his little horns and roofs were as black and shining as ebony; his fawn-colored skin was like silk; his movements were the embodiment of grace. No one had the heart to contemplate killing such a beautiful creature; so when some men came aft to beg that they might have him to care for he was at once given to them.

"Sindbad" was a name not quite suited to him, but the sailors chose it from associations with the place. He was beloved by every one.—St. Nicholas.

"Yes, sir," said the jeweler, "this is the largest and purest diamond stud we have. It's worth $7500."

"I'll take it," said Nuritch, "if you can cut the price on it."

"No, sir, that's positively the lowest——"

"Aw! you don't know what I mean. I want yer to carve the price on this stone so people kin see it."—Philadelphia Press.

Oregon apples have been sold in England as high as $6.50 a bushel

SKINS OF WILD ANIMALS.

Many Are Becoming Scarce and Increasing in Value.

Skins of wild animals are daily becoming more rare and valuable. The spread of civilization is the extermination of the monarchs of the plain, the forest, the jungle and the hills, and their hides now ornament many a museum, clubhouse and drawing room.

The skin of the lion, the king of beasts, is among the most valuable of the rare skins. It is kingly, even as was the animal himself, and reveal the great strength and courage of the mighty form that it once protected. The skin of the full grown lion is about three yards long and one and one-half yards wide. Its hair is neither bright nor pretty, but its great shaggy mane crowns it like a rare jewel and makes it valuable.

The skin of the tiger is much prettier than the skin of the lion, and it, too, reveals the character of the beast which it once protected. Its bearded cheeks reveal the tiger's ferocity and cunning, and its yellow and black tiger stripes and its white belly tell of the stealthy nature of the great cat.

The American jaguar furnishes a pretty skin, despite its reddish white belly and its spots instead of stripes. The leopard, too, has a pretty pelt, its fur being light yellow with black spots. The skin of the black panther is also much admired.

Bear skins are trophies in many a civilized home. The black or the Canadian bear is the most common. The polar bear supplies a beautiful, soft, white, furry skin, but it is very rare. The skin of the American grizzly is now also quite rare. Although deer and moose are common game for hunters, yet few have succeeded in preserving their pelts with the fur on for any long period.

The American black wolf skin, with white spots on its snout and breast, is admired by some people. The Siberian wolf furnishes a fine, soft fur skin. Among farmer lads in this country it is popular to catch foxes during the winter and to tan their skins for rugs and for ornaments, but the fox skin today isn't by any means as valuable as are the skin of larger and fiercer animals, though the fox is growing more and more scarce.

A coat of skins of reindeer fawns only a few days old is said to be worth thousands of dollars. The skins match perfectly in color, and they are doubled so that the coat is the same inside as outside. This coat is as light a an ordinary raincoat, but warmer than heavy fur, and it is also waterproof.

Some skins of Manchurian tigers are also valuable. One skin is 14 feet long. A monster skin is that from a 220-pound grizzly. It measures 14 feet long, and the bear's head is two feet thick. Some rabbit skins from New Zealand may also be seen, though rabbit skins are not as rare or valuable.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

The peak of Apo, a huge volcanic mountain in the center of the Island of Mindanao, has been added to the category of mountains remarkable for possessing animal species peculiar to themselves, and differing from those of the surrounding lowlands. Dr. E. A. Mearns announces, as the result of a month's examination of Apo, that most of the species and several of the genera collected are new to science. It has added three genera and more than a score of specis to the list of birds inhabiting the Philippines

Quakers are very healthy; their average longevity being 61 years.

Cure For The Blues

ONE MEDICINE THAT HAS NEVER FAILED

Health Fully Restored and the Joy of Life Regained.

When a cheerful, brave, light-hearted woman is suddenly plunged into that perfection of misery, the BLUES, it is a sad picture. It is usually this way: She has been feeling "out of sorts" for some time; head has ached and back also; has slept poorly, been quite nervous, and nearly fainted once or twice; head dizzy, and heart beats very fast; then that bearing-down feeling, and during her periods she is exceedingly despondent. Nothing pleases her. Her doctor says: "Cheer up: you have dyspepsia; you will be all right soon."

But she doesn't get "all right," and hope vanishes; then come the brooding, morbid, melancholy, everlasting BLUES.

Don't wait until your sufferings have driven you to despair, with your nerves all shattered and your courage gone, but take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. See what it did for Mrs. Rosa Adams, of 819 12th Street, Louisville, Ky., niece of the late General Roger Hanson, C.S.A. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"I cannot tell you with pen and ink what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered with female troubles, extreme lassitude, 'the blues,' nervousness and that all-gone feeling. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it not only cured my female derangement, but it has restored me to perfect health and strength. The buoyancy of my younger days has returned, and I do not suffer any longer with despondency, as I did before. I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a boon to sick and suffering women."

If you have some derangement of the female organism write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Prince Bismarck, although in life snubbed by the present kaiser, is gratefully remembered by the German people.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle

Wireless telegraphy is likely to be put to a new use. In England experiments are being made with wireless burglar alarms. Steel safes are equipped with transmitters. When the safe is opened the electrical waves are radiated.

Reduced Rates.

Birmingham and return, Home-Coming Week via Queen and Crescent Route. Tickets on sale October 14th and 15th with return limit October 21st. Privilege of extension to November 21st. See Queen & Crescent ticket agants for particulars.

About 90,000 tons of butter are made yearly in Great Britain.

HICKS' CAPUDINE CURES ALL ACHES And Nervousness Trial bottle 10c At drug stores

Am. 40, 1906.

YOUNG

married women are amongst the worst sufferers from female diseases. Thousands write: "I have not known a well day since I was married." Unaccustomed as they are to the cares of married life, these weak women all need to give them strength to do their work. Says Mrs. J. Bennett, of El Paso, Tex.: "I suffered from painful periods, backache, dizziness and nervous prostration. Cardui gave me immediate relief." Try it.

WINE OF CARDUI

WOMAN'S RELIEF

At all Druggists

WRITE for Free Advice, stating age and describing your symptoms, to Ladies Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

YOU CANNOT

CURE

all inflamed, ulcerated and catarrhal conditions of the mucous membrane such as nasal catarrh, uterine catarrh caused by feminine ills, sore throat, sore mouth or inflamed eyes by simply dosing the stomach.

But you surely can cure these stubborn affections by local treatment with

Paxtine Toilet Antiseptic

which destroys the disease germs, checks discharges, stops pain, and heals the inflammation and soreness.

Paxtine represents the most successful local treatment for feminine ills ever produced. Thousands of women testify to this fact. 50 cents at druggists.

Send for Free Trial Box

THE R. PAXTON CO., Boston, Mass.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 & $3.00 Shoes

BEST IN THE WORLD

W.L.Douglas $4 Gilt Edge line cannot be equalled at any price

To Shoe Dealers: W. L. Douglas' Jobbing House is the most complete in this country. Send for Catalog

SHOES FOR EVERYBODY AT ALL PRICES

Men's Shoes, $3 to $3.50. Boys' Shoes, $2 to $2.25. Women's Shoes, $4.00 to $2.50. Misses' & Children's Shoes, $2.25 to $1.75.

Try W. L. Douglas Women's, Misses and Children's shoes; for style, fit and wear they excel other makes.

If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W. L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than any other make.

Wherever you live, you can obtain W. L. Douglas shoes. His name and price is stamped on the bottom, which protects you against high prices and inferior shoes. Take no substitute. Ask your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes and insist upon having them.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy. Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles. W. L. DOUGLAS, Dept. 18, Brockton, Mass.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

ORBES ORGANS

Is There Any Music in Your Home?

Send for our Catalog and learn our plan for placing a beautiful Organ in any home anywhere, for $10.00 and a few small payments. Ask for Catalog No. 4

E. E. FORBES PIANO CO., Memphis, Tenn.

"IF YOU DON'T GET WELL, I WILL GIVE YOU BACK YOUR MONEY"

THIS IS WHAT YOUR DRUGGIST TELLS YOU WHEN HE SELLS YOU

OXIDINE

HE DOES THIS BECAUSE HE KNOWS

IT WILL CURE CHILLS AND FEVERS

IT IS MADE IN TWO FORMS—REGULAR AND TASTELESS

(Sweet, children like it). Ask for either one. They are both guaranteed to cure Chills and Fevers. Sold by all druggists. It is the Chill Tonic that contains no poison.

Read the following analysis made by the state chemist who analyzed three bottles of Oxidine sent to him by the Secretary of the State Pharmaceutical Association (The Texas Retail Druggists Association):

Houston Laboratories
Chemical and Biological

Analysis and Valuation of Cotton Seed and Rice Products a Specialty. Waters, Soils, Oils, Ores, Etc., Carefully Examined and Reported Upon. Reports Made on Economic Geology.

P. S. TILSON, Director, Analytical and Consulting Chemist
218 1-2 MAIN STREET

HOUSTON, TEXAS, June 27, 1906.

Mr. R. H. Walker, Secretary Texas State Pharmaceutical Association, Gonzales, Texas.

DEAR SIR: Herewith I beg to hand you certificate of analysis of the Oxidine you submitted a few days since.

I trust this will be duly received and found entirely satisfactory. I have kept you waiting for a little while, but I appreciate the responsibility which you have seen fit to place upon me; for that reason I have taken my time to be certain and accurate about my results.

If I can serve you in the future please advise me. Thanking you, I beg to remain, Yours very truly,

P. S. TILSON, Chemist.

Houston Laboratories
Chemical and Biological

Analysis and Valuation of Cotton Seed and Rice Products a Specialty. Waters, Soils, Oils, Ores, Etc., Carefully Examined and Reported Upon. Reports Made on Economic Geology.

P. S. TILSON, Director, Analytical and Consulting Chemist
218 1-2 MAIN STREET

CERTIFICATE OF ANALYSIS

Of Three Bottles of Oxidine Submitted by R. H. Walker, of Gonzales, Texas, Secretary of the State Pharmaceutical Association.

HOUSTON, TEXAS, June 27, 1906.

I find this Oxidine to contain absolutely no poisonous or injurious drugs or chemicals and not a trace of Arsenic, Codeine, Morphine, Strychnine or Strychnine; nor, in fact, anything that would produce a harmful effect whatever.

Respectfully submitted,

P. S. TILSON, Chemist.

OXIDINE, THE CHILL CURE THAT CURES CHILLS

You Look Prematurely Old

Because of those ugly, grizzly, grey hairs. Use "LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER. Price, $1.00, retail.

"BING CLOTHES"

Are the Clothes for Men and Boys

Do you know that you can buy here Ready-to-Wear Clothes that no tailor can make for less than nearly double the price we ask?

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for fall is now complete; the styles are decided and we are showing absolutely correct styles. New Jackets, new Skirts, new Dress Goods, new Waist Goods, new Hats, new Shirts, new Neckwear. A complete line of Star Brand Shoes.

"Star Brand Shoes are Better"

Also a complete line of hardware, cooking stoves, harness, saddlery and Florence wagons. Come to see us before you buy elsewhere.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, :-: :-: Alabama.

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE.

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Sheehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Ash Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
J. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn $2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due 2.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee 2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin 2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin 3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy 2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry 1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Imported Jack "LIJE"

Fee $8.00, Insured

Stands for service at his owners', JOHN THAMES, ½ mile East of Rocky Mount Church, Beat 1.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Under-the-Table Manners.

By Dorothy Tilbury.

It's very hard to be polite
If you're a cat.
When other folks are up at table,
Eating all that they are able,
You are down upon the mat
If you're a cat.

You're expected just to sit
If you're a cat;
Not to let them know you're there
By a scratching at the chair,
Or a light respectful pat
If you're a cat.

You are not to make a fuss
If you're a cat;
Though there's fish upon the plate
You're expected just to wait,
Wait politely on the mat,
If you're a cat!

—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Husbandman and the Stork.

A Husbandman set a net in his field to take the cranes and geese which came to feed upon the newly springing corn. He took several, and with them a stork, who pleaded hard for his life, on the ground that he was neither a goose nor a crane, but a poor harmless stork. "That may be very true," replied the Husbandman; "but as I have taken you in bad company you must expect to suffer the same punishment."—Progressive Farmer.

How Sea Birds Quench Thirst.

The means by which seabirds quench their thirst when far out at sea is described by an old skipper, who tells that he has seen birds at sea far from any land that could furnish them water, hovering around and under a storm cloud, chattering like ducks on a hot day at a pond, and drinking in the drops of rain as they fell.

They will smell a rain squall a hundred miles distant or even farther off and scud for it with almost inconceivable swiftness.—Scrap Book.

A True Story.

A gentleman by the name of Marden, a resident of Troy, Me., several years ago owned a pet parrot which was remarkable for her great intelligence and voluble speech. One day she was out walking around in the door-yard, a large hawk swooped down seized her in his talons and then rose to the height of about 20 feet. Polly was delighted with the novelty of the situation and as she caught a glimpse of her master she screamed with ecstasy, "Marden, Marden, see me ride!" This so frightened the hawk that he dropped his intended prey and she fell to the ground. Disappointed and angry that her ride was so summarily ended, she screamed with rage, "Afraid of Poll, afraid of Poll, coward, coward. Marden, Marden, see the coward, see the coward. Shoot him, shoot him."

Knowledge of Architecture.

It is often said that a little learning is a dangerous thing, for it makes people, who know only a little, conceited and critical. But, on the other hand, we must have a little learning before we can have much, and a little learning may make us ambitious, instead of conceited. It may open our eyes to a thousand new, interesting things in everyday life.

A little knowledge about architecture is more of a help, too, than a little knowledge about most other subjects. It is more important for the average American to learn to look at his city intelligently than it is to know what are the tributaries of the Amazon, or how many men were killed at the battle of Salamis, or a hundred other things, no more important, which he has spent much of his time in learning.—From Lucia Ames Mead's "A Little Talk About Architecture" in St. Nicholas.

A Singular Incident.

Not long ago a singular incident occurred at the brickyard at Seabrook, illustrating a faculty in animals which closely approximates reason.

There are in the yard a horse and mule which are much attached to each other, the mule especially showing attachment to the horse.

After work hours they were turned loose on the high ground formed by the canal bank through the marsh, flanked on one side by marsh land which is not firm enough for them to walk over and on the other by a deep canal with steep banks.

The other evening they were turned loose as usual. Not long afterwards the hand who lodged in a little house by the brick kiln heard a most unearthly bray. At first he paid but little attention to it, recognizing that it was the mule's unmusical voice. Soon it was repeated even more startlingly than before. Leaving his supper the colored man went to the door and looking up the bank saw the mule standing on the verge of the canal with every indication of intense alarm. He repeated the bray and the man ran toward him. When he came near, the animal made a sound expressive of delight and remained looking into the canal.

The cause was soon found. The horse in grazing too near the canal had slipped in and with only his head out of water was vainly struggling to climb the steep bank. With difficulty he was finally brought to a place at the bridge where he could be helped out, the mule accompanying the process with every mark of delight. Without the mule's intelligent call for help the horse, a valuable one, would have been lost. We have often heard of horse sense but in this case the mule certainly exhibited a high degree of it.—Florida Commonwealth.

Has a Tame Snake Bird.

Says Forest and Stream: The snake bird is readily tamed when taken young. The Rev. John Bachman, who reared some of those birds, said: "My best pet was tamed from the beginning of its captivity, and followed me about the house, the yard and garden, until I thought it quite troublesome, in consequence of its peculiar attachment to me. It is a fearless bird, keeping at bay the hens and turkeys in the yard, and never sparing any dog that chanced to pass by it, dealing blows right and left with its sharp pointed bill, and occasionally posting itself in the trough where they are fed to prevent them from taking a morsel of food until he has tantalized them sufficiently, then he leaves them to share whatever he does not relish.

"It was not until my bird was fully fledged that I found it willing or anxious to go to the water, and then whenever it saw me going toward the pond it accompanied me as far as the gate, seeming to say, 'Pray let me go.' On my opening this gate it at once followed me, waddling like a duck and no sooner was it in sight of its favorite element than it immediately let itself in, not with a plunge or a dive, but by dropping from a plank into the stream, where for a while it would swim like a duck, then dipping its long neck it would dive for the purpose of securing fish.

"This bird sleeps in the open air, and during warm weather perches on the house or the bars of the fence, with its head under its wings, placed there from above its back, and in rainy weather it often sits in that same place for nearly the whole day. It appears to be very susceptible to cold, retreating to the kitchen, and near the fire, battling with the dogs or the cook for the most desirable place on the hearth."

Grandfather's Story.

There was once an old gentleman who wanted to tell a story to his grandchildren, so he began: "Once upon a time"—"No, no!" said the grandchildren, "that will never do. That's an old, old beginning."

The grandfather thought and pondered and pondered, and thought; but in spite of all he could do nothing came of it except:

"It happened one day"——

"No, no!" cried all the grandchildren, "that won't do. That's almost as old as the other."

Then the grandfather thought harder and harder and finally said:

"There was once a very beautiful"—

"No, no!" shrieked the grandchildren; "it's old, it's very old."

The old gentleman looked exceedingly sad at this and bowed his head and began thinking violently. Finally he said:

"Long, long ago"— But the grandchildren would have none of it. They declared this, too, to be very old, and the grandfather was in despair.

After he had been thinking for some time he looked up, brightly, smiling all over. "Well, then," he said, "suppose we leave out the beginning and plunge right into the middle; how would you like that?"

All the grandchildren clapped their hands at this. They thought the idea a fine one and it certainly was entirely new from that grandfather.

Then the grandfather plunged into the middle of a story without any beginning at all.

"Suddenly, to their great surprise," he said.

"No, no!" wailed the children. "That's an old middle of the story. We want something new!"

The grandfather plunged into the middle of the story again. "For a single moment," he began, anxiously looking at the grandchildren. "They were so frightened that they lost all hope of rescue."

"No, no!" cried the children. "It's too old; we've heard it before!"

The grandfather paused. I don't know what to do. You don't like the middle of the story any better than the beginning," said the grandfather. "What do you advise me to do?"

Then all the children consulted: "Oh never mind the middle; go on to the end; that's the best part of the story, anyway."

So the grandfather left out the middle just as he had left out the beginning and went right on to the end.

"And so they all lived happy ever after," he began.

"Oh, oh!" wailed the children. "Why that's worse than anything could possibly be. That's the oldest of all."

"How do you like this for an end?" asked the grandfather: "And so the prince and the princess were married."

"Don't like it!" cried the children "It's old."

"'The King relented and a great feast was held in the Prince's honor and everybody danced until morning.' How would that do?" asked the grandfather.

The grandfather yawned. "No," they said, but rather sleepily; "it won't do; it's an old, old ending."

The grandfather looked at them over his glasses. "Here is one you haven't heard," he said: "Then, after they have been very naughty, the grandfather spanked all the children very hard and put them all to bed.'"

"No, no," cried the grandchildren, "It isn't old, but we don't like it," and they scampered away as hard as they could go.

And the grandfather said:

"I'll tell you a story about Jack O'Morey,
And now my story's begun,
I'll tell you another about his brother,
And now my story's done."

—New York Herald.

Thorsby, Alaba

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. HORN
LICENSED PHARMACIST.
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

Thorsby Winery Co.
Lofthus & Brunberg, Props.

Thorsby Real Est
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, P
G. H. GERALD, Sec
G. C. MICHELSON, T

OLAF SCH
Watchmaker & Jew
FRANZEN, P
Full line of watches etc. Repair work gua

A. Langville &
Blacksmith and Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BU

P. C. SMIT
Brown Leghorn Fow
Eggs.
BERKSHIRE P

The Thorsby
G. C. Michelson, P
Good Beds and M

J. J. Stanl
General Merchan

MRS. MARY R. RAS
General Merchan

J. BICE
Charcoal Ove

NOTICE TO LAND-OWNERS.

I wish to say that I am preparing maps or plats of each land-owner's property, giving a written description of the land, as it should be described in assessments. I am preparing these plats for the purpose of getting all errors corrected, and at the same time furnish every party an easy and correct way to keep their property correct and avoid future mistakes and annoyance, as well as (sometimes) considerable expense. These plats are made of excellent bond paper and will last a lifetime, and only cost 25 cents each, except where plats are very large, when they will cost 50 cents. Every one that has seen the plats I am making pronounce them splendid and worth many times their cost and well calculated to save their cost many times over. Any one wishing a plat can obtain it by coming to my office in Clanton with their deeds, so as to insure an accurate description.

L. B. POUNDS,
tf Tax Assessor.

TO FARMERS.

As county business manager for the F. E. and C. U. of A., I have been to the two banks in Clanton to ascertain on what terms they will loan money on cotton to those who wish to hold their cotton in the warehouse. The Clanton Bank will loan 75 per cent, and the People's Savings Bank 85 per cent, of the value of the cotton on the date of the loan, this loan to bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent.

J. W. SORRELS,
Bus. Manager Chilton Co. F. E. and C. U. of A. tf

STRAYED OR STOLEN.

From near my residence on June 25, one iron gray mare colt, one year old; one iron gray horse colt, with star on face, and scar on left hind leg above hock, one and a half years old. Any information leading to their recovery will be liberally rewarded.

C. C. MARTIN,
tf Calera, Ala., Rte 1.

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 acres in cultivation. All in Sec. 6 T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles S. W. of Clanton. Good dwelling house and out buildings and 3 good tenant houses. Good and lasting well of water. This good farming land will be sold at a bargain. Call and see,

tf J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. No.

CONGREGATIONAL H. M.

Fort Payne, Ala., Sept.
Editor Union:

I purpose to visit churches Clanton conference as follows:

Fourth Sunday, September 2 tain Springs church, of Clan morning; Shady Grove church bena, at night.

Fifth Sunday, September 30 ston.

First Sunday, October 7, in the morning; Marbury at

Second Sunday, October 1 Grove church, of Deatsville morning; South Calera at

Yours truly,
tf A. T. CL

BUSINESS PROPOSI

The best whiskey country is here. don't believe it, try J. M. COLLINS, Palace Saloon, Calera

JOHN W. HARR
Jemison, Ala.

Photographer. De all grades of en Frames made to Work done at your home by appointment

Thorsby Inst
—Opens—
SEPTEMBER 17th,
A Strong Corps of Teac

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Classics, Languages, Histor nomics, Music, etc.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those wh go no higher. for all. Allows zation.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped, to date in every

EXPENSES:
Tuition low enough the needs of every girl in Alabama.

Particulars Address:
W. J. Lamkie, Ph. B., Thorsby, Ala.

T

VOL IV.

W. WA

dsworth, Autauga Co., Ala., September 24, 1906.

Citizens:

g received the nomination for enator at the hands of the Re party of Autauga, Chilton and counties, which compose th Senatorial district of write you this letter soliciting vote and influence in my behalf nothing to say against my o Mr. Doster, of Autauga, bu ly entirely upon my character bility to fill the position to which e. I have not sought this no her office, but have been u for the position solely by the of my friends. I feel that I am ent to serve you if I should be and I will here state my pla ogether with some reasons wh on it.

or good public roads, and as an of that fact will state that I irst a public road overseer in nd have been a road overseer part of the time ever since, and I am the road overseer in my borhood, and will say without contradiction that in the past ears I have spent on the public more money to keep up the roa my four men in Autauga coun ill continue to do so.

artily favor internal improve and think they are great of our country.

or the cause of education and especially of the girls of our fully believing that when a gir ucated the nation receives the , but when you educate a m imply educate the generation evidence of my love for the of education, I will state that e been a trustee for the public for more than thirty years, dur hich time I have never missed eting of the school board, and paid the teacher from my own

E STOCK LAW QUESTION.

ish to write a few lines on the law subject. In the start like to ask the question, What tion do the crops of Chilton have under the present law? what protection would they have y all had lawful fences, but what rtion do they have under the nt conditions?

e hard working farmers, who are ng the rural districts what they re at the mercy of a 25-cent ro k that may be owned by a ne egro. The animal may do $500 of damage, yet no damage can tained, and if he injures the pro animal he must pay twice the of the same, and still suffer the thing over again. Nine-tenths of rmers of Chilton have no protec against such when the lawful comes into question.

h a law is greatly against the es of civilization; and the good e of Chilton have it in their pow change the present evil.

me may ask what are the advan of a stock law. I will give fo of them. As soon as the people ompelled to shut up their stock hey will begin to study what and o prepare food for these animals right here the county will begin ogress. The poorer grades of live will give way for the better s. The stock will be at home such man fence against his stock and not against all other stock. well kept, thoroughbred in pro pastures is worth half a dozen ary animals as they now are s a demonstrated fact that th ughbred hog gives far better re for the food consumed than doe razorback, and does best with pens range and fed on different such as corn, shorts, peanuts, ge, chufas and cane. Some may he country cannot afford a stock he land is too poor. All that is d to make large yields of forage ay crops is the right crop, plant d cared for as it should be done acre here will yield far more feed the same amount of land in the e soil of other sections; feed can sed in abundance.

et beans planted for winter pas will give a splendid pasture for and mules whenever the land is ough to prevent packing of the This same field planted to a the next year will give splendid s with little fertilizer. I have n that corn following velvet yielded far better than corn e 200 pounds of fertilizer was ap also proven that potatoes follow peanuts yielded 36 bushels more acre than on land not previous nted to peanuts, all other condi being the same. The more crops that are raised the be comes the soil.

has been proved by experiments

"BING CLOTHES"

Are the Clothes for Men and Boys

Do you know that you can buy here Ready-to-Wear Clothes that no tailor can make for less than nearly double the price we ask?

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for fall is now complete; the styles are decided and we are showing absolutely correct styles. New Jackets, new Skirts, new Dress Goods, new Waist Goods, new Hats, new Shirts, new Neckwear. A complete line of Star Brand Shoes.

"Star Brand Shoes are Better"

Also a complete line of hardware, cooking stoves, harness, saddlery and Florence wagons. Come to see us before you buy elsewhere.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, :-: :-: Alabama.

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Sheban's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
J. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Imported Jack "LIJE"

Fee $8.00, Insured

Stands for service at his owners', JOHN THAMES, ½ mile East of Rocky Mount Church, Beat 1.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Under-the-Table Manners.

By Dorothy Tilbury.

It's very hard to be polite
If you're a cat.
When other folks are up at table,
Eating all that they are able,
You are down upon the mat
If you're a cat.

You're expected just to sit
If you're a cat;
Not to let them know you're there
By a scratching at the chair,
Or a light respectful pat
If you're a cat.

You are not to make a fuss
If you're a cat;
Though there's fish upon the plate
You're expected just to wait,
Wait politely on the mat,
If you're a cat!

—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Husbandman and the Stork.

A Husbandman set a net in his field to take the cranes and geese which came to feed upon the newly springing corn. He took several, and with them a stork, who pleaded hard for his life, on the ground that he was neither a goose nor a crane, but a poor harmless stork. "That may be very true," replied the Husbandman; "but as I have taken you in bad company you must expect to suffer the same punishment."—Progressive Farmer.

How Sea Birds Quench Thirst.

The means by which seabirds quench their thirst when far out at sea is described by an old skipper, who tells that he has seen birds at sea far from any land that could furnish them water, hovering around and under a storm cloud, chattering like ducks on a hot day at a pond, and drinking in the drops of rain as they fell.

They will smell a rain squall a hundred miles distant or even farther off, and scud for it with almost inconceivable swiftness.—Scrap Book.

A True Story.

A gentleman by the name of Marden, a resident of Troy, Me., several years ago owned a pet parrot which was remarkable for her great intelligence and voluble speech. One day she was out walking around in the door-yard, a large hawk swooped down seized her in his talons and then rose to the height of about 20 feet. Polly was delighted with the novelty of the situation and as she caught a glimpse of her master she screamed with ecstasy, "Marden, Marden, see me ride!" This so frightened the hawk that he dropped his intended prey and she fell to the ground. Disappointed and angry that her ride was so summarily ended, she screamed with rage, "Afraid of Poll, afraid of Poll, coward, coward. Marden, Marden, see the coward, see the coward. Shoot him, shoot him."

Knowledge of Architecture.

It is often said that a little learning is a dangerous thing, for it makes people, who know only a little, conceited and critical. But, on the other hand, we must have a little learning before we can have much, and a little learning may make us ambitious, instead of conceited. It may open our eyes to a thousand new, interesting things in everyday life.

A little knowledge about architecture is more of a help, too, than a little knowledge about most other subjects. It is more important for the average American to learn to look at his city intelligently than it is to know what are the tributaries of the Amazon, or how many men were killed at the battle of Salamis, or a hundred other things, no more important, which he has spent much of his time in learning.—From Lucia Ames Mead's "A Little Talk About Architecture" in St. Nicholas.

A Singular Incident.

Not long ago a singular incident occurred at the brickyard at Seabrook, illustrating a faculty in animals which closely approximates reason.

There are in the yard a horse and mule which are much attached to each other, the mule especially showing attachment to the horse.

After work hours they were turned loose on the high ground formed by the canal bank through the marsh, flanked on one side by marsh land which is not firm enough for them to walk over and on the other by a deep canal with steep banks.

The other evening they were turned loose as usual. Not long afterwards the hand who lodged in a little house by the brick kiln heard a most unearthly bray. At first he paid but little attention to it, recognizing that it was the mule's unmusical voice. Soon it was repeated even more startlingly than before. Leaving his supper the colored man went to the door and looking up the bank saw the mule standing on the verge of the canal with every indication of intense alarm. He repeated the bray and the man ran toward him. When he came near, the animal made a sound expressive of delight and remained looking into the canal.

The cause was soon found. The horse in grazing too near the canal had slipped in and with only his head out of water was vainly struggling to climb the steep bank. With difficulty he was finally brought to a place at the bridge where he could be helped out, the mule accompanying the process with every mark of delight. Without the mule's intelligent call for help the horse, a valuable one, would have been lost. We have often heard of horse sense but in this case the mule certainly exhibited a high degree of it.—Florida Commonwealth.

Has a Tame Snake Bird.

Says Forest and Stream: The snake bird is readily tamed when taken young. The Rev. John Bachman, who reared some of those birds, said: "My best pet was tamed from the beginning of its captivity, and followed me about the house, the yard and garden, until I thought it quite troublesome, in consequence of its peculiar attachment to me. It is a fearless bird, keeping at bay the hens and turkeys in the yard, and never sparing any dog that chanced to pass by it, dealing blows right and left with its sharp pointed bill, and occasionally posting itself in the trough where they are fed to prevent them from taking a morsel of food until he has tantalized them sufficiendy, then he leaves them to share whatever he does not relish.

"It was not until my bird was fully fledged that I found it willing or anxious to go to the water, and then whenever it saw me going toward the pond it accompanied me as far as the gate, seeming to say, 'Pray let me go.' On my opening this gate it at once followed me, waddling like a duck and no sooner was it in sight of its favorite element than it immediately let itself in, not with a plunge or a dive, but by dropping from a plank into the stream, where for a while it would swim like a duck, then dipping its long neck it would dive for the purpose of securing fish.

"This bird sleeps in the open air, and during warm weather perches on the house or the bars of the fence, with its head under its wings, placed there from above its back, and in rainy weather it often sits in that same place for nearly the whole day. It appears to be very susceptible to cold, retreating to the kitchen, and near the fire, battling with the dogs or the cook for the most desirable place on the hearth."

Grandfather's Story.

There was once an old gentleman who wanted to tell a story to his grandchildren, so he began: "Once upon a time"—"No, no!" said the grandchildren, "that will never do. That's an old, old beginning."

The grandfather thought and pondered and pondered, and thought; but in spite of all he could do nothing came of it except:

"It happened one day"——

"No, no!" cried all the grandchildren, "that won't do. That's almost as old as the other."

Then the grandfather thought harder and harder and finally said:

"There was once a very beautiful"—

"No, no!" shrieked the grandchildren; "it's old, it's very old."

The old gentleman looked exceedingly sad at this and bowed his head and began thinking violently. Finally he said:

"Long, long ago"— But the grandchildren would have none of it. They declared this, too, to be very old, and the grandfather was in despair.

After he had been thinking for some time he looked up, brightly, smiling all over. "Well, then," he said, "suppose we leave out the beginning and plunge right into the middle; how would you like that?"

All the grandchildren clapped their hands at this. They thought the idea a fine one and it certainly was entirely new from that grandfather.

Then the grandfather plunged into the middle of a story without any beginning at all.

"Suddenly, to their great surprise," he said.

"No, no!" wailed the children. "That's an old middle of the story. We want something new!"

The grandfather plunged into the middle of the story again. "For a single moment," he began, anxiously looking at the grandchildren. "They were so frightened that they lost all hope of rescue."

"No, no!" cried the children. "It's too old; we've heard it before!"

The grandfather paused. I don't know what to do. You don't like the middle of the story any better than the beginning," said the grandfather. "What do you advise me to do?"

Then all the children consulted: "Oh never mind the middle; go on to the end; that's the best part of the story, anyway."

So the grandfather left out the middle just as he had left out the beginning and went right on to the end.

"And so they all lived happy ever after," he began.

"Oh, oh!" wailed the children. "Why that's worse than anything could possibly be. That's the oldest of all."

"How do you like this for an end?" asked the grandfather: "And so the prince and the princess were married."

"Don't like it!" cried the children "It's old."

"The King relented and a great feast was held in the Prince's honor and everybody danced until morning.' How would that do?" asked the grandfather.

The grandfather yawned. "No," they said, but rather sleepily; "it won't do; it's an old, old ending."

The grandfather looked at them over his glasses. "Here is one you haven't heard," he said: "Then, after they have been very naughty, the grandfather spanked all the children very hard and put them all to bed.'"

"No, no," cried the grandchildren, "It isn't old, but we don't like it," and they scampered away as hard as they could go.

And the grandfather said:

"I'll tell you a story about Jack O'Morey,
And now my story's begun,
I'll tell you another about his brother,
And now my story's done."

—New York Herald.

Thorsby, Alaba

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. HORN
LICENSED PHARMACIST.
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

Thorsby Winery Co.
Lofthus & Brunberg, Props.

Thorsby Real Est
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, P.
G. H. GERALD, Sec.
G. C. MICHELSON, T.

OLAF SCH
Watchmaker & Jew
FRANZEN.
Full line of watches etc. Repair work gu

A. Langville &
Blacksmith and Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BU

P. C. SMIT
Brown Leghorn Fow
Eggs.
BERKSHIRE P

The Thorsby
G. C. Michelson, P.
Good Beds and M

J. J. Stanl
General Merchan

MRS. MARY R. RAS
General Merchan

J. BICE
Charcoal Ov

NOTICE TO LAND-OWNERS.

I wish to say that I am preparing maps or plats of each land-owner's property, giving a written description of the land, as it should be described in assessments. I am preparing these plats for the purpose of getting all errors corrected, and at the same time furnish every party an easy and correct way to keep their property correct and avoid future mistakes and annoyance, as well as (sometimes) considerable expense. These plats are made of excellent bond paper and will last a lifetime, and only cost 25 cents each, except where plats are very large, when they will cost 50 cents. Every one that has seen the plats I am making pronounce them splendid and worth many times their cost and well calculated to save their cost many times over. Any one wishing a plat can obtain it by coming to my office in Clanton with their deeds, so as to insure an accurate description.

L. B. POUNDS,
tf Tax Assessor.

TO FARMERS.

As county business manager for the F. E. and C. U. of A., I have been to the two banks in Clanton to ascertain on what terms they will loan money on cotton to those who wish to hold their cotton in the warehouse. The Clanton Bank will loan 75 per cent, and the People's Savings Bank 85 per cent, of the value of the cotton on the date of the loan, this loan to bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent.

J. W. SORRELS,
Bus. Manager Chilton Co. F. E. and C. U. of A. tf

STRAYED OR STOLEN.

From near my residence on June 25, one iron gray mare colt, one year old; one iron gray horse colt, with star on face, and scar on left hind leg above hock, one and a half years old. Any information leading to their recovery will be liberally rewarded.

C. C. MARTIN,
tf Calera, Ala., Rte 1.

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 acres in cultivation. All in Sec. 6 T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles S. W. of Clanton. Good dwelling house and out buildings and 3 good tenant houses. Good and lasting well of water. This good farming land will be sold at a bargain. Call and see,

tf J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. No.

CONGREGATIONAL H. M.

Fort Payne, Ala., Sept.
Editor Union:

I purpose to visit churches Clanton conference as follows:

Fourth Sunday, September 2 tain Springs church, of Clan morning; Shady Grove church bena, at night.

Fifth Sunday, September 30, aton.

First Sunday, October 7. L In the morning; Marbury at Second Sunday, October 1 Grove church, of Deatsville morning; South Calera at

Yours truly,
tf A. T. CL

BUSINESS PROPOSI

The best whiskey country is here. don't believe it, try J. M. COLLINS, Palace Saloon, Calera

JOHN W. HARR
Jemison, Ala.
Photographer. De all grades of en Frames made to Work done at your home by appointment

Thorsby Inst
—Opens—
SEPTEMBER 17th,
A Strong Corps of Teac

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Classics, Languages, Histo nomics, Music, etc.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those who go no higher. for all. Allows zation.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped, to date in every

EXPENSES:
Tuition low enough the needs of every girl in Alabama.

Particulars Address:
W. J. Lamkin, Ph. B., P
Thorsby, Ala.

Alaba
Directory.

Thorsby Real Est
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, Pr
G. H. GERALD, Sec.
G. C. MICHELSON, T

OLAF SCH
Watchmaker & Jewe
FRANZEN, BUIL
Full line of watches
etc. Repair work gua

A. Langville &
Blacksmith and
Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BUG

P. C. SMIT
Brown Leghorn Fowl
Eggs.
BERKSHIRE P

The Thorsby
G. C. Michelson, P
Good Beds and Mea

J. J. Stanl
General Merchan

MRS. MARY R. RASB
General Merchandi

J. BICE
Charcoal Ove

CONGREGATIONAL H. M. M

Fort Payne, Ala., Sept.
Editor Union:
I purpose to visit church
Clanton conference as follow
Fourth Sunday, September
ain Springs church, of Clanto norning; Shady Grove church
ena, at night.
Fifth Sunday, September 30,
ton.
First Sunday, October 7, Li the morning; Marbury at
Second Sunday, October 1
Grove church, of Deatsville,
norning; South Calera at nig
Yours truly,
tf A. T. CLA

BUSINESS PROPOSI
The best whiskey i ountry is here. I
on't believe it, try m
J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera

JOHN W. HARRE
Jemison, Ala.
Photographer. Dea
ll grades of enla
Frames made to Work done at your ome by appointment

Thorsby Insti
—Opens—
EPTEMBER 17th,
A Strong Corps of Teach
URRICULUM:
Sciences, Classics,
Languages, Histor
nomics, Music,
etc.
REPARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those who
go no higher.
for all. Allows for sation.
IILDINGS:
Well equipped, mod
to date in every
XPENSES:
Tuition low enough
the needs of every
girl in Alabama.
rticulars Address:
. J. Lamkie, Ph. B., P
Thorsby, Ala.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL, SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL IV. CLANTON, ALA., OCTOBER 11 1906 NO. 27

W. W. WADSWORTH ACCEPTS.

Wadsworth, Autauga Co., Ala.,
September 24, 1906.

To Citizens
Beg to announce my nomination for [illegible] hands of the Re[illegible] Autauga, Chilton and [illegible] which compose the [illegible] district of our [illegible] letter soliciting
[illegible] in my behalf.
[illegible] against my op-
[illegible] Autauga, but [illegible] my character
[illegible] position to which [illegible] sought this nor [illegible] ive been nomi-
[illegible] solely by the el-
[illegible] I feel that I am [illegible] if I should be [illegible] state my plat-
[illegible] me reasons why

[illegible] ads, and as an [illegible] will state that I
[illegible] road overseer in [illegible] ver since, and [illegible] oversee it my[illegible] say without [illegible] ar in the past
[illegible] on the public
[illegible] keeping the road
[illegible] in Autauga county.
[illegible] so
[illegible] eneral improve-
[illegible] any great devel-

[illegible] education and [illegible] ne girls of our [illegible] that when a girl
[illegible] receives the [illegible] educate a boy
[illegible] the generation.
[illegible] my love for the [illegible] I will state that [illegible] for the public
[illegible] thirty years, dur-
[illegible] time I have never missed
[illegible] meeting of the school board, and [illegible] paid the solicitor from my purse and have never allowed an orphan child to pay any supplement for tuition in the public school of my district. I have recently constructed at my own expense, near Rushton, Ala., one of the best built country school houses in the state. I was for nearly five years a state trustee for the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo, during the building of the school. I labored earnestly for the school to be located at Montevallo, and was successful in securing that place as a location. During the time I was on the school board I was the only trustee that never missed a meeting. If there is only one thing in the world I wish to see a success it is the Montevallo school, which is very near to my heart. When funds ran low at the time of building the school I used my own personal funds and credit, and when the architect was taken sick and unable to perform his duties, I continued the work without him, and when he died I did not employ another architect, but had the work carried on under my supervision at a very great sacrifice of my private interest. Although tendered pay for this work, I would not accept it, but stated to the board that every dollar I could contribute to that school would be given.

I favor liberal appropriations for old soldiers (no bums), having been one of the number, and the many wounds that my body bears are substantial evidence that I was at the front. When the veteran camps were established in the Southern States my comrades in Autauga county did me the honor to name their camp for me, though I was only a private—something that will seldom be found among the many Confederate veteran camps that exist. This honor I appreciate more highly than anything that has ever been bestowed upon me, and no old soldier or his widow have ever been denied anything in the way of necessities that I could supply to them. For years I have been furnishing more than one old soldier a home, and when one dies his widow occupies the premises as long as she wishes without charge. Many old soldiers, to my knowledge, were forced to shoulder arms during the period of '61-65; they were taken there without their consent, and now in their old age it is truly the state's duty to at least give them comforts to live on in their fast declining days, for at the rate they are now passing away a few more years and we will all be numbered with the past.

I favor rate reform of railroads, but not to the extent of injuring the roads. For I want the roads to stay in the hands of their proper owners, my past experience in dealing with railroad officials having demonstrated to me that they can, and will, conform to all reasonable regulations. I believe that corporations of all kinds should be compelled to obey all laws the same as an individual citizen, and that there should not be one rate for service to the rich and another to the poor, but give all the same service for like compensation. I believe in "equal rights to all, special privileges to none." I am a Republican because I believe in Republican principles, which give to us a sound and flexible currency, and also a tariff on all articles imported, as well as an internal revenue tax, that brings sufficient revenue to furnish sufficient funds to pay all government expenses properly administered. As I do not drink whisky, I do not have any tax to pay on it, but the man who drinks the whisky he must pay it. I believe that the tariff on necessaries should be as low as possible and very high on luxuries.

If you can consistently vote for me I will appreciate the favor and will so strive to do my duty by you, if elected, that you will not regret having supported me. Yours respectfully,

W. W. WADSWORTH.

THE STOCK LAW QUESTION.

[illegible] few lines on the [illegible] in the start. I [illegible] question. What [illegible] of Chilton
[illegible] present law?
[illegible] would they have [illegible] fences, but what [illegible] have under the [illegible] farmers, who are [illegible] districts what they [illegible] of a 25-cent ru-

[illegible] owned by a ten-
[illegible] animal may do $500
[illegible] no damage can
[illegible] injures the pre[illegible] pay twice the [illegible] still suffer the [illegible] loss. Nine-tenths of [illegible] men have no protec
[illegible] when the lawful
[illegible] question.
[illegible] greatly against the
[illegible] man and the good
[illegible] it in their pow-
[illegible] ent evil.
[illegible] are the advan-
I will give just
[illegible] soon as the people
[illegible] up their stock
[illegible] to study what and [illegible] for these animals
[illegible] county will begin
[illegible] ver grades of live
[illegible] for the better;
[illegible] will be at home
[illegible] against his stock
[illegible] all other stock
[illegible] roughbred in pre-
[illegible] with half a dozen [illegible] they now are.
[illegible] ed fact that the
[illegible] es far better re-
[illegible] sumed than does [illegible] does best with [illegible] fed on different
[illegible] shorts, peanuts,
[illegible] ne. Some may [illegible] afford a stock
[illegible] ver. All that is [illegible] yields of forage
[illegible] right crop, plant
[illegible] should be done.
[illegible] ld far more feed
[illegible] re of land in the [illegible] sections; feed can

[illegible] for winter pas[illegible] ondid pasture for [illegible] never the land is [illegible] nt packing of the [illegible] planted to a [illegible] will give splendid [illegible] ertilizer. I have following velvet
[illegible] better than corn
[illegible] fertilizer was ap-
[illegible] potatoes follow-
[illegible] 50 bushels more [illegible] n land not previous[illegible] ers, all other condisame. The more
[illegible] are raised the bet-
[illegible] been proved by experiments that the manure saved from a cow stabled for a year will pay for the food that cow consumed. I claim myself, based on actual test, that the manure carefully saved from a cow or mule for six months will grow more feed than that animal can eat in six months.

An animal kept under the stock law is of more value to the farm than if roaming the woodland in search of a few bitter weeds. Make the greater part of your fertilizer by growing legumes and saving barnyard manure.

As to schools, the better the soil and the stock the more able are the prosperous farmers to pay more school tax; hence the better the school. A person derives more benefit from tax money than from any money he spends.

Stock law improves the soil and improves the stock. And if the owner rightly uses the fertilizer obtained, and rotates his legume crops, his fertilizer bill will decrease and his income increase, and the community at large be greatly benefited.

So vote for the stock law, and help a good thing along.

A SUBSCRIBER.

PLEASANT GROVE.

Mr. Editor:

Here I come again, as I said I would in my last letter, though I haven't much news yet. But, seeing so many nice letters in last week's Union, I thought I'd try my old pen again and see if I could do better, though I believe I'll have to get a new one. Well, I know "Just a Voter" changes his pens every time, for his letters get better and better, so come on, "Voter," pens are cheap, or we think so when we get such good letters as the one you sent last. And where is "Little J?" He must be farther west than West Clilton, or he would come oftener. Don't stand back because there are others in our circle that can beat us. I know that there are many that can write better than I, but maybe they would not write just what I will, and again maybe I'll interest some one. Come again, "One of the Boys," and make our circle replete with interest. Health of this community is good at present; we've been well supplied with rain for the time being. Our Sunday school is moving along nicely; we had Rev. S. Smitherman with us the fifth Sunday and Saturday before, and he surely preached some as good sermons as this writer has ever heard, and we all hope to hear him again in the near future. Rev. J. H. Thomas has the care of our church again, and our revival meeting will begin on the regular meeting day, which is Saturday before the fourth Sunday in October. Now we would like to make this meeting one of the grandest old Pleasant Grove has ever seen, so let's all strive to this end. Just think how grand and noble it is to work for Jesus. Is there a nobler work than this? I'd like to say more along this line and hope I'll be more able soon. Success to The Union and its many readers.

GREEN HORN.

THORSBY R. F. D.

Editor Union.

I would like to have a sayso about some things. There are petitions going the rounds for stock law, carried by people who advocate "equal rights to all and special privileges to none." If we have fifty men who want to keep up their stock, "equal rights" gives them that right, and if there are forty men that don't want to keep up their stock, that is their right to turn out. Now we have so many advocates and preachers of the doctrine of "equal rights to all and special privileges to none," and then to act right directly in conflict with the doctrine they preach. What can we expect of them when they get the advantage? They are practicing or preaching false doctrine, or both, and the truth is not in them. God help them to get the eyes of their understanding open, that they may see their way clearer and lay aside their selfishness, for the love of the brethren.

UNCLE JACK.

LIBERTY HILL.

Editor Union:

Health of this part of the hills is good at the present time. We farming people have the blues on account of so much rain and stock law talk. I hope that talk will be all that it amounts to; if everybody is my notion they won't have any stock law. I've been where they had stock law and the people were all at enmity with each other. We have enough of enmity now, and if it gets worse they won't help bury the dead. People need something to make them love one another; love covereth a multitude of sins, so why not have harmony in the place of malice? Stock law means no milk and butter, nor hogs. The rich man will have the hogs, and if you get one from him you will have to pay three prices for it, or go without. We people that have been without meat and milk, know something about hard times. I stock law my meat was chicken and my drink was water. When stock law comes many that want it now will find out their mistake; then they can eat peas boiled in salt, which will be hard to beat.

UNION READER.

NOTICE.

Jemison, Ala., August 7th, 1906.

Lost—One light clay bank mare, branded on the left shoulder with a heart; the last time heard from she was at Ashby; she weighs about 700 pounds. I will reward any one liberally for information as to where she is, or if returned to me, I will pay well for the trouble.

T. S. DAVENPORT,
tf Jemison, Ala.

MAPLESVILLE ITEFS.

Two days' sunshine makes bright faces. The upland cotton is not damaged as bad as was thought at first. Mrs. Glover has returned from a visit to relatives in Florida. We regret that Mr. Saunders and Mrs. Ricketts' families will move to Montgomery. In the light of recent circumstances it is just to say that Mr. F. J. Fitts has carried himself in a sober way since he came to this town to live, and it looks like a "strange tale" that he should carry a lot of "booze" to drink and give away at divine service. I did not vote for him in the primary, but he will be elected, no matter what "fake stories" are gotten up. The victory will be his when he discharges the duties of Sheriff as a good officer should.

"O."

Lawley, Ala., Sept. 24, 1906.

Mr. F. J. Fitts, Maplesville, Ala:

Dear Sir and Friend—You remember what I said to you at the baptizing? So I see in the Banner some of the evidence of your enemies. Now, Felix, you know I am and ever have been a Democrat, but I want to say in your behalf that you are (as I see the situation) the choice of a good majority of the good people of Chilton county; and I want to say, furthermore, whatever you may have done at other times and places, you did NOT HAVE any bottles of whisky nor beer in your buggy at the baptizing. I call to mind at this writing what you said to a young man whose name I will not mention (I congratulate you and did then, as you may remember). You told him never to go to church with whisky on his breath; you said you would not for anything. If you did have whisky on your breath that day, I was with you as much as anyone else and I did not detect it. I've known you from a little barefooted boy, and I NEVER saw you drunk or the least bit out of the way on account of whisky. I know you used to take a drink now and then, and may yet for aught I know. But, Felix, again I say, keep up your end; you did not become popular from an hereditary standpoint, but worked yourself up, for which I congratulate you; you have done what every young man ought to do. You have submitted yourself into the hands of the citizens of your country, both your friends and enemies. Hold yourself above that which is mean; make few promises. Treat every man as you would like he should treat you. Of course, if you were unworthy of the position you seek, and I knew it, I would not hesitate to say so. Had you grown up in some of these "royal" families, your ability nor morality never would have been questioned. Well, Felix, I had no idea of writing you so much, just thought I would say a few things about you that I KNOW; there wasn't anyone told me what I've written. I know this. If you desire you can give this to your county paper. I have no personal interest further than to see fair treatment. As ever your friend,

R. W. EDWARDS,
A Democratic Voter.

(Communicated.)

Lawley, Ala., Route 1, Sept. 23, 1906.

Editor Union:

I see quite a loud letter from Lawley in the Clanton Banner from Mr. Arthur D. Latham, and I'll say to start with, I would guarantee him to be a Democrat from the word go, and he is slinging his mud at some Republican. Now, he says some one offered his father something to drink, and his brothers looked in some one's buggy and saw eight bottles of beer. It is real curious to me how these brothers of Mr. Latham's knew what beer was, he or his father either not touching the "unclean thing," and it seem to me boys with proper training would not plunder in people's buggies, especially at meeting. Now, Mr. Arthur Latham is a rural mail carrier from Lawley, on trial by the United States government. He is related to the postmaster at Lawley, where he now has his headquarters. Say, I was about to forget to tell you he lives right on Main street in Lawley, just moved there recently. He is also related to the Oakmulgee postmaster, where headquarters were taken when the route was first put in operation, and changed by the postmasters at the above named places for the benefit of Arthur D. Latham, and without the consent of a single patron, so far as I know, and the delay of mail at least a day. We people on the rural route get mail sometime next week sometimes, and sometime next month sometimes, and sometimes we skip a month, and some we haven't received yet. Mr. Arthur D. Latham delivered a letter to me last April that had been marked received at Lawley 47 days before I received it, and it had been in care of him and the postmaster at Lawley all that time, and besides that it had been unsealed and looked into. I told him when he delivered the letter the re-sealing was very common work for mail officials. I also mailed a letter same day to Sheriff Crawford at Centerville. I told Arthur D. Latham there was nothing of special importance in the letter, but to tell the postmaster at Lawley, for his own satisfaction, to look in if he saw proper. I will suggest that Mr. Latham sweep around his own door before he goes to Clanton, shoving strangers out of their own porch. Success to The Union and Felix Fitts for sheriff, and to the Republican party. Yours very truly,

CROCKET FOUNTAIN.

HAPPY HOLLOW.

Editor Union:

Health of our community is good at present. The owner of the "H. M. T." buggy says he will transfer it, for he can't get anyone to ride with him unless he overtakes one on the road, and then only a short distance. Several of our young people attended the singing at Jackson's chapel Sunday. L. H. called on his best girl Sunday afternoon. What's the matter, boys, last Sunday? You all seemed to be traveling alone. Boys, what do you think about Mr. Gulledge and Martin Sorrell. I can tell you what I think; they've enough of brass on their faces to make a brass wagon and enough of gas to run a power house. Success to The Union and its many readers.

SHORT & PET.

NOTICE.

The Chilton County Singing Convention, No. 1, will meet with Liberty church (3 miles west of Clanton) the First Sunday in November in a called session. All singers are invited to attend. We request that the members of this body be present if possible.

J. L. GORE, President
tf JAMES FRANKLIN, Secretary.

LIBERTY HILL.

Editor Union:

It has quit raining and is real cool. People are beginning to pick cotton again, and it sure does pick bad; it is sprouting in the boll; corn is also sprouting and souring. Well, we had the pleasure of attending a good speaking Saturday night at the Littlejohn school house; it sure was fine. We wish Mr. Gulledge could have been with us, but I guess he is sick when it comes to debating with Mr. Middleton. Gulledge men are mighty scattering round here, while Middleton men are as crowder peas in a pod. We are having a big Sunday school now and everybody is invited to come and be with us; it will teach both old and young something. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eiland were visitors at W. C. Jones' Saturday and Sunday. John Jones and wife were visitors at J. Wiley Foshee's Sunday evening. We are sorry to say Jones & Jackson's saw mill has had a breakdown, but hope they will be able to resume business soon. Success to all. I am a

COTTON PICKER.

BLACK JACK RIDGE.

Mr. Editor:

We've had another beautiful day and we are sure glad to see it. Well, Mr. Goole has moved from his Happy Hollow, and he has gone to Happy Hill, but he still has money, and we hope the Lord will go with him wherever he goes. We had a fine time at Jackson's chapel Sunday. Terrell Bussy went over the hill Sunday. I think we will get to work some, now the weather has turned.

HIGH STEPPER.

Oakmulgee, Ala., Ot. 8, 1906.

Editor Union:

As my name has been called into a newspaper controversy for the first time in my life, I feel called upon to answer. Mr. Arthur D. Latham gave my name as one who drank, or had an opportunity to drink, whiskey with Mr. Felix Fitts at a baptizing in Chilton county. Now I say that it is UNTRUE and has no foundation whatever.

S. W. GREEN.

CLANTON ACADEMY,

Clanton, Alabama,

Possesses superior advantages to pupils of all grades, prepares them to enter the best colleges and universities, trains teachers to stand examination for any grade certificate and qualifies them the better to fill a place in their profession.

L. J. THOMPSON,
tf Principal.

WANTED! WANTED!
A number of good families to work in the Prattville Cotton Mills. Good wages, good houses, good water and a nice place to live. Apply to, J. M. Martin, Superintendent, Prattville, Ala.

Professional Cards.

William M. Adams,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
OFFICE; Room 1, Court House.
"Practices in all Courts
Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.
CLANTON, - - - ALA.

J. EARLE GOWAN,
DENTIST.
Office in Kicker Building
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

A. C. Smith,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in All Courts
Office 6th St. opp. Court House
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON
Office at Residence
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

J. Osmond Middleton,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St. Court House
CLANTON, -:- ALABAMA

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullen' Building
CLANTON

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
to
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

LAND FOR SALE.

Eighty acres land in Beat 10, close to Cooper's. For sale cheap. Call on or address L. H. GENTRY,
Mt. Creek, Ala.
tf R. F. D. No. 2.

"Keep Boys on the Farm."

President James J. Hill, of the Great Northern Railroad, Makes a Remarkable Plea For Agriculture

The Minnesota State Fair Association, which meets at St. Paul, is the fair in which the entire agricultural and livestock raising industries of the Northwest are especially interested. A special feature at the last fair was the dedication of the new livestock amphitheatre, which has a seating capacity of 7000. The dedicatory exercises began with a brief address by Vice-President Nelson of the State Fair Association, who turned over the building to Governor Johnson, representing the State. Governor Johnson responded, and at the close of his address introduced J. J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad, who said:

Notwithstanding the addition of more than a million people a year from abroad, nearly all of them men and women who must work for a living, labor outside of the cities was never as scarce or wages as high as at the present time. Immigration lingers in the great centres and adds to the difficulties attending employment. The farms stretch out their hands in vain. Railroads in making extensions have to get help at the highest market price, and find a large percentage of those whom they employ mere hoboes, who desert as soon as they have succeeded in getting transportation from one part of the country to another. Farmers besiege the employment agencies in vain, and offer a tramp a sum for a day's work in the field unheard of in any other country in the world. The situation grows more embarrassing yearly. Hours of labor are being reduced in some of the States for farm as well as shop hands. Men are scarcer as the movement of population to the cities grows more pronounced. A considerable portion of this year's magnificent crop will be either reduced in quality or altogether lost by reason of the impossibility of getting labor to handle it properly. Discouraged small farmers now are selling their land to larger proprietors, who can profitably substitute machinery for men. The country needs more workers on the soil. Not to turn the stranger away, but to direct him to the farm, instead of the city; not to watch with fear a possible increase of the birth rate, but to use every means to keep the boys on the farm and to send youths from the city to swell the depleted ranks of agricultural industry is the necessary task of a well advised political economy and an intelligent patriotism.

Within twenty years we must house and employ in some fashion fifty million of additional population, and by the middle of this century there will be approximately two and a half times as many people in the United States as there are to-day. No nation in history was ever confronted with a sterner problem than this certain prospect sets before us. What are we to do with our brother, whose keepers we are? How are we to provide our children with shelter and their daily bread? Our arable public lands have almost disappeared.

Our one resource, looking at humanity as something more than the creature of a day, is the productivity of the soil. The reckless distribution of the public land, its division among all the greedy who choose to ask for it, the appropriation of large areas for grazing, have absorbed much of the national heritage. Only one-half of the land in private ownership is now tilled. The tillage does not produce one-half of what the land might be made to yield without losing an atom of its fertility. Yet the waste of our treasure has proceeded so far that the actual value of the soil for productive purposes has already deteriorated more than it should have done in five centuries of use.

On the new lands of the West, where once the wheat yield was from twenty to thirty bushels an acre, it is now from twelve to eighteen. Frankly, and without shame, this is attributated to the wearing out of the soil, as if the earth were a garment that must be destroyed by the wearing. If the earth, the mother of humanity, is to "wear out," what is to become of the race? The fact is that soils, properly treated, maintain their productiveness indefinitely under cultivation. The further fact is that, with the disappearance of pestilence and the discontinuance of war that belong to the future, all contributing to the growth of population, the productive capacity of the soil must be sustained at its highest point, or the world suffer.

Certain it is that the time has come for setting our household in order and creating a serious study of national activity and economy according to a truer insight and more rational mood.

The first step is to realize our dependence upon the cultivation of the soil. The next will be to concentrate popular interest and invention and hope upon that neglected occupation. We are still clinging to the skirts of a civilization born of great cities. We at this moment use a slang which calls the stupid man "a farmer." Genius has shunned the farm and expended itself upon mechanical appliances and commerce and the manifold activities whose favorable reactions filter back slowly to the plot of ground upon which stand solidly the real master of himself and of his destiny.—If we comprehend our problem aright all this will change, and a larger comprehension of agriculture as our mean resource and our most dignified and independent occupation will for the future direct to their just aim in the improvement of methods and the increase of yield the wisdom and the science and the willing labor of the millions, who thus may transmit to posterity an unimpaired inheritance.

Agriculture, in the most intelligent meaning of the term, is something almost unknown in the United States. We have a light scratching of the soil and the gathering of all that it can be made to yield, by the most rapidly exhaustive methods. In manufactures we have come to consider small economies so carefully that the difference of a fraction of a cent, the utilization of a by-product of something formerly consigned to the scrap heap, makes the difference between a profit and bankruptcy. In farming we are satisfied with a small yield at the expense of the most rapid soil deterioration.

When we have added to the national export trade $500,000,000 a year, the country rings with self-congratulation, and we ask the plaudits of the world. If a process for extracting metallic wealth from bricks were to be discovered to-morrow, such as to assure the country an added volume of $1,000,000,000 in wealth every year, the nation would talk of nothing else. Yet these things would be but a trifle when compared with the possibilities of agricultural development in the United States. The official estimated value of all products of the country last year was $6,415,000,000. Discount this for high prices and generally favorable conditions by 20 per cent., and over $5,000,000,000 remains. It is also officially recorded that of the appropriated farm area of the United States a little less than one-half is under cultivation. Utilize the other half, and, without any change whatever in method, the output would be practically doubled. Change methods only a little, not to high class intensive farming, but to an agriculture as far advanced as that of those other countries which have made the most progress, and without any addition whatever to the existing cultivated farm area, the product an acre would be doubled. We should be able, by directing surplus population to the land and by the adoption of a system of culture in full operation elsewhere, greatly to increase this minimum present yield of $5,000,000,000 per annum of farm products. That is, we may add $10,000,000,000 or $15,000,000,000 every year to the national wealth if we so choose. And this is only a beginning.

There are three essentials to any agriculture worthy of the name. The first is rotation of crops. Our low average yield is due to the antiquated system, all too prevalent, of raising the same crop indefinitely on the same land, until it has been worn out or so reduced that the owner is in danger of poverty. Even without fertilizing, the yield of a given area may be immensely increased and its productive diversity preserved from exhaustion merely by the restorative variety of change which seems to be a law of all living things. The second method of increasing yield and preserving soil productivity — the more liberal use of fertilizing material, such as is possible where farms are of small size and cattle are kept —gives abundant evidence of the extraordinary results that may be obtained. The third factor in improvement, better tillage, is most interesting of all, because it opens up unmeasured possibilities. We no more know what is the maximum food-bearing capacity of the earth or of any small portion of its surface than we do the rate at which people may be able to travel a century from now. But what has been done is sufficiently startling. A population of 45,000,000 people in Japan is supported on 19,000 cultivated square miles, aided by the food products obtained from the sea. This is because cultivation in Japan is truly intensive—that is, it is no longer even highly developed farming, but market gardening. As we approach that science the shelter of plants from frost and unfavorable elements, and the treatment of grains and vegetables by separate planting and individual nurture, all limitations upon earth's bounty appear to recede afar. From two and seven-tenths acres in the suburbs of Paris there have been grown in a single season 250,000 pounds of vegetables. A market gardener of Paris declares that all food, animal and vegetable, required for the 3,500,000 persons of two great departments could be grown, by methods already in use, on the 2250 square miles of gardens surrounding the city.

It can be shown that an average of two persons or more may be supported on every acre of tillable land by the highest form of intensive farming. But discussing this is unnecessary; it has been shown that a people like those of Belgium to-day, not an Oriental race, accustomed to a standard of living and of labor inapplicable to us, not living in virtual serfdom, like that of Russia, but an industrious, fairly intelligent and exceedingly comfortable agricultural community, raised from the soil food enough for the needs of 400 persons to the square mile. Adopting provisionally that ratio as a point of departure, though the actual ratio of area to population gives a figure considerably higher even than this, the 414,498,487 acres of improved farm land in the United States on the date of the last official report, an area materially enlarged by the present time, would support in comfort 317,350,405 people, enable them at the same time to raise considerable food for export and to engage in necessary manufacturing employments. Applying the same ratio to the entire acreage of farm lands within the United States, both improved and unimproved, which was at the same date 838,591,774 acres, the population indicated as able to live with comfort and prosperity on the actually existing agricultural area of this country, under an intelligent system and a fairly competent but by no means highly scientific method of culture, rises to 642,046,823. The conclusion is that if not another acre were to be redeemed from the wilderness, if the soil were treated kindly and intelligently and if industry were distributed duly and popular attention was concentrated upon the best possible utilization of the one unfailing national resource, there would be produced all necessary food for the wants of, in round numbers, 650,000,000 people.

Failing to understand the needs of the hour or to appreciate the moral to which we point, what fortune must await us? Within twenty years 125,000,000 people, and before the middle of the century over 200,000,000, must find room and food and employment within the United States. Where are they to live? What are they to do? By that time our mineral resources will have been so nearly exhausted that the industries related to them must fall into a minor place. By that time it is apparent that our dream of conquest of world markets will be a bursted bubble. Harold Boice has demonstrated that the peoples of the Orient, the hundreds of millions of Japan and China, with their imitative quality, their proved ability to operate modern machinery, and to create in it their own workshops after once using it, their enormous supply of coal and iron, their limitless cheap labor, and their patience, like that of Fate, are prepared to control the markets of the future. They must control, as against the policy which has established domestic conditions in manufacturing business, on lines which make production so expensive an affair that we could not hope to meet the mechanic of Germany, on even terms and must retire before the despised Chinaman. It is a mathematical fact that within twenty years under present conditions our wheat crop will not be sufficient for home consumption and seed, without leaving a bushel for export. Will these coming millions go into the factories? But where can we then expect to sell shop products in a world of competition, and who will furnish the payrolls? All industry stops when these are not forthcoming. That is the dead wall against which England stands dismayed.

Let us be warned in time. On every side there is menace if our national activity be not reorganized on the basis of the old-fashioned common sense. The safety valve for older peoples has been found in emigration. Their very relief has contributed to our danger. The United States cannot follow their example. It is against the genius of our people; and, besides, the circle of the northern hemisphere is closed. At home the problem must be worked out, and its terms have been clearly stated.

The conclusion reached points out and emphasizes a national duty so imminent and so imperative that it should take precedence of all else. It is the foe that has overthrown civilizations as proud, as prosperous and far more strongly fortified than our own. Nothing can stop the onward march of nature's laws, or close the iron jaws of her necessities when they open to crush their victims. Either we shall understand our situation and make such provision as her benignancy affords to meet it, or we shall meet conditions of overcrowding and artificial standards and food and employment inadequate to the national needs, and so be in danger of destroying the stately temple once reared with the highest hopes that ever animated humanity. Which is it to be?

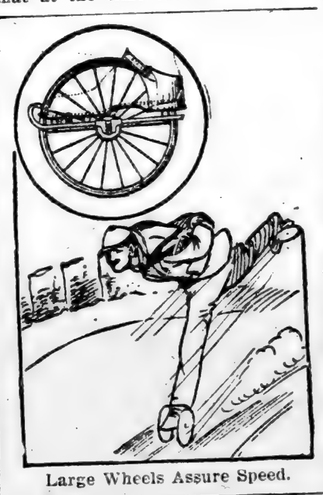
If we are to walk safely in the way of wisdom there is much to be done. It is time to begin. There must be, first, a return to conservative and economic methods, a readjustment of national ideas such as to place agriculture and its claims to the best intelligence and the highest skill that the country affords in the very forefront. There must be a national revolt against the worship of manufacture and trade as the only forms of progressive activity, and the false notion that wealth built upon these at the sacrifice of the fundamental form of wealth production can endure. A clear recognition on the part of the whole people, from the highest to the lowest, that the tillage of the soil is the natural and most desirable occupation for man, to which every other is subsidiary and to which all else must in the end yield, is the first requisite. Then there will be a check administered to the city movement that lowered the percentage of agricultural labor to the whole body of persons engaged in gainful occupations in the United States from 44.3 in 1880 to 37.7 in 1890 and 35.7 in 1900. With public interest firmly fixed upon the future of the country, in mere self-preservation we must give serious attention to the practical occupation of restoring agriculture to its due place in the nation.

J. P. Morgan's Million Dollar Art Gallery For His Private Collection.

Erected on Thirty-sixth street, New York City. The building is from Mr. Morgan's own design, and it is believed that he intends to bequeath it and its future contents to the city. It was recently reported that Mr. Morgan had bought the great Rodolphe Kann collection containing eight Rembrandts, six Van Dycks, four Rubens, and many other pictures by old masters for $5,500,000.

Fast Roller Skates.

At the present time roller-skating is receiving more attention than for many years. A revival of the sport seems imminent, the older admirers being as enthusiastic as the younger recruits. Probably the decline in the sport can be attributed to the fact that at the time roller-skating was popular everywhere no attempt was made to improve upon the stereotyped style of roller skate. At this late day, with good prospects of a boom in the sport, a Nebraska inventor brings forth a design which promises a revolution in the construction of roller skates. The accompanying illustration gives a good idea of its form. Two wheels, not rollers, are used, the wheels being half a dozen times as large as the old-fashioned rollers. Connecting the two wheels in the centre is an axle about the width of the foot. Suspended upon the axle is a plate which supports the shoe in the usual way. It is claimed that wearers of these skates can travel at a remarkable speed. Cushion tires are placed on the wheels, requiring only a minimum of effort to get over the ground. —Philadelphia Record.



Large Wheels Assure Speed.

A Public Bath in Stockholm.

The useful and the beautiful go hand in hand in Sweden; everything bears the stamp of the artistic. The central public bath in Stockholm is in a park; the interior is decorated in green, the right shade of lavender and white; the little dressing-rooms are daintily furnished; the swimming pools bordered with palms and growing plants, with a little island of them in the centre, and on the top floor are two large halls for indoor tennis, dances or other public amusements. —From "Social Sweden," in the Craftsman.

A Tar Heel John Burroughs.

"I like to watch the little squirrel run and play," said a Charlotte man.

"Do you really study him and his ways?" asked a local John Burroughs.

"I think I observe him closely."

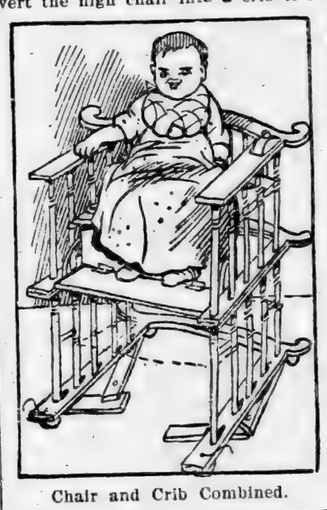
"Does the squirrel come down a tree headforemost or as the cat does?"

"Let me see! The cat back downs—yes, that is the way the squirrel does. He is very much like a cat."

About that time a squirrel ran down a large oak in full view of the gentlemen. His hind legs were sticking close to the tree on a line with his bushy tail. His head came first. —Charlotte Observer.

Child's Crib and Chair.

The crib and high chair are two of the needfuls of every household in which are young children. To combine the two in one piece of furniture is a recent invention of two California cabinet-makers. Besides serving the two purposes equally well, the appearance has not been slighted in the least, the combination being attractive rather than cumbersome. In the illustration it is shown in the position of a high chair, rollers being attached to the end frame. To convert the high chair into a crib it is only necessary to change the position, the rockers at the back of the high chair serving the same purpose as rockers on an ordinary crib. The seat in the high chair is readily removed, and the necessary pillows and coverings inserted. Every mother will at once recognize the advantage of having a crib in the dining-room, in which to place the baby for his regular naps without the necessity of carrying him to the upper floor.—Philadelphia Record.



Chair and Crib Combined.

Largest Artesian Well in the Pecos Valley,

NEAR ARTESIA, NEW MEXICO—THIS WELL FLOWS OVER 3000 GALLONS A MINUTE.

On the Beach.

"Skinnyman is so thin he has to wear a chuckee suit."

"How's that?"

"Why, if he wore stripes, he'd out between the bars."—Detroit Press.

The ancient Romans ate oysters the first course at banquets as a test of their quality of stimulating the appetite. Pliny recommends them and onions as condiments.

The great earthquake that caused much damage and loss of life early in April was recorded by a horizontal pendulum at Birmingham, England. The first record consisted of a series of irregular lines. Doctor Davison thinks that the course through the earth.

The lifting of massive steel plates weighing four tons, by magnetism is now a workday in a number of works. The magnets are suspended by chains from cranes, and pick up the plates by simple contact and release, the loss of time consequent on the adjustment of chain and hook of the older method.

PRAISES AMERICAN ART

Modern Schools in Europe Backward, Says J. C. Beckwith.

J. Carroll Beckwith and his family with arrived on the Grosser Kurfurst from Bremen, after a two months' stay abroad, in which Mr. Beckwith visited the art galleries of Dresden, Berlin and Cassel. Mr. Beckwith said he was particularly struck by the beautiful arrangement of the collection in the Friederich Museum at Berlin. The collection, which was formerly in the old museum, has now been placed there in conjunction with several important private collections lent for the exhibition. Mr. Beckwith went on to say:

Not only is the collection in a more logical and sympathetic arrangement more perfect than any I know of anywhere, but likewise in the hanging of the pictures, coloring of the walls and the general tonality and atmospheric effect of the galleries is more perfect than any I have seen in any other museum. Particularly is this noticeable in the cabinets containing the "Madonna della Robbias" and the fifteenth century Italians.

The Dresden collection, however, is very much the finer one, in the old pictures, the Italians and the Flemish and Hollandish painters being in undisputed evidence. But the conditions for studying and seeing the pictures do not compare with those of Berlin.

Mr. Beckwith said his greatest disappointment while abroad was in the Velasquez "Venus," which has recently been purchased for the National Gallery, in London. He was somewhat doubtful of its genuineness, but learned later that the painting has faded very much from ruthless cleaning in recent date, which has produced a hardness and crudity which one never associates with Velasquez. He continued:

In the Royal Academy John Sargent exhibits a picture which, in my opinion, is a great masterpiece. It is an enormous canvas, portraying four seated figures of doctors in their robes. The faces depicted are portraits, and the picture is intended for the Johns Hopkins University. The composition is beautiful, and the atmosphere of the room in which the professors are seated or about a large table is wonderful in quality. I hope sincerely that the academy will arrange for its exhibition here before it goes permanently to Baltimore.

I saw no works in painting, however, from one or two of the most distinguished modern men, that were inferior to what is now being done in America. It is delightful to see year after year that some of the best painting being done in the world to-day is by our own men here at home. —New York Tribune.

LOOSE TEETH

Made Sound by Eating Grape-Nuts.

Proper food nourishes every part of the body, because Nature makes from the different materials from the food we eat, to build bone, nerve, brain, muscle, teeth, etc.

All we need is to eat the right kind of food slowly, chewing it well, so the digestive organs take it up into the blood and the blood carries it through the body, to every living cell and corner.

If some one would ask you if Grape-Nuts good for loose teeth, you'd probably say, "No, I don't see how it could be." But a woman in Ontario writes:

"For the past two years I have used Grape-Nuts Food with excellent results. It seems to take the place of medicine in many cases, builds up the nerves and restores health generally.

"A little Grape-Nuts taken on retiring soothes my nerves and I get sound sleep." (Because it relieves the irritability of the stomach by supplying a predigested food.)

"Before I used Grape-Nuts my teeth were loose in the gums and were so bad I was afraid they would some day all fall out. Since I have used Grape-Nuts I have not been bothered any more with loose teeth.

"All desire for pastry has disappeared and I have gained in health, weight and happiness since I began to use Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

On the Beach.

Skinnyman is so thin he has to wear a checked suit.

How's that?

Why, if he wore stripes, he'd be between the bars."—Detroit Free Press.

The ancient Romans ate oysters as the first course at banquets because of their quality of stimulating thirst. Pliny recommends oysters as condiments.

The great earthquake that caused such damage and loss of life in Japan in April was recorded in Shropshire, England, by a horizontal pendulum at Shrewsbury. The first record of a series of tremors, which Professor Davison thinks took a course through the globe.

The lifting of massive iron and steel objects weighing four, six and ten tons, by magnetism is now done commonly every day in a number of large workshops. The magnets are suspended from cranes, and pick up and release by simple contact and without loss of time consequent to the adjustment of chain and hooks in the former method.

PRAISES AMERICAN ART.

Modern Schools in Europe Not Advancing, Says J. C. Beckwith.

J. Carroll Beckwith and Mrs. Beckwith arrived on the Grosse Kurfurst from Bremen, after a two months' tour abroad, in which Mr. Beckwith studied the art galleries of Dresden, Berlin and Cassel. Mr. Beckwith said he was particularly struck by the beauty and arrangement of the collection in the Friederich Museum at Berlin. The Dresden section, which was formerly in the royal museum, has now been placed here in conjunction with several important private collections lent for the exhibition. Mr. Beckwith went to Dresden

"Not only is the collection in charge of practical and sympathetic arrangement here perfect than any I know of elsewhere, but likewise in the hanging of the pictures, coloring of the walls, the general tonality and artistic effect of the galleries is more perfect than in any I have seen in any public museum. Particularly is this noticeable in the cabinets containing the Della Robbias" and the fifteenth century Italians.

"The Dresden collection, however, is very much the finer one, in point of pictures, the Italians and the Flemish Hollandish painters being in greater evidence. But the condition of drying and seeing the pictures I compare with those of Berlin. Mr. Beckwith said his greatest ointment while abroad was the Velasquez "Venus," which has recently been purchased for the National Gallery, in London. He was not doubtful of its genuineness, but he said that the painting has suffered very much from ruthless cleaning to date, which has produced a hardness and crudity which one is not associates with Velasquez. He

"At the Royal Academy John Sargent exhibits a picture which, Mr. Beckwith said, is a great masterpiece. It is an enormous canvas, portraying seated figures of doctors in robes. The faces depicted are fine, and the picture is intended for Johns Hopkins University. The composition is beautiful, and the atmosphere of the room in which the professors are seated or stand about a large table is wonderful. I hope sincerely that Mr. Sargent will arrange for its exhibition before it goes permanently to America.

"I saw no works in painting, sculpture or in one or two of the most distinguished modern men, that were superior to what is now being done in America. It is delightful to go year after year that some of the finest painting being done in the world is by our own men here at home."—New York Tribune.

LOOSE TEETH

Made Sound by Eating Grape-Nuts.

"Proper food nourishes every part of the body, because Nature supplies different materials from the food we eat, to build bone, nerve, muscle, teeth, etc.

"All we need is to eat the right food slowly, chewing it well, and the digestive organs take it up to the blood and the blood carries it through the body, to every little cell corner.

"If some one would ask you if Grape-Nuts good for loose teeth, you'd probably say, "No, I don't know how it could be." But a woman writes:

"For the past two years I have used Grape-Nuts Food with excellent results. It seems to be the ideal of medicine in many ways. It builds up the nerves and rests the health generally.

"A little Grape-Nuts taken before retiring soothes my nerves and brings sound sleep." (Because it is a predigested food.)

"Before I used Grape-Nuts my teeth were loose in the gums and were so bad I was afraid they would all fall out. Since using Grape-Nuts I have not bothered any more with bad teeth.

"All desire for pastry has disappeared and I have gained in weight and happiness since I began to use Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Our Great Criminals.

By Washington Gladden.

WHO are they? Burglars, highwaymen, train-robbers, safe-breakers? There are petty criminals. Our imagination invests them with terror and the newspapers set forth their deeds in staring headlines; but how slight, after all, are the injuries which they inflict upon life or property when compared with other depredators to whose malevolence we are continually exposed!

Of the enormous sums iniquitously wrung from the producers every year I will not stop to speak. Unjustly to deprive another of property by force is robbery; millions of dollars are every year unjustly taken by force—the force of law—from their rightful owners. By iniquitous interpretations of the forms of law from the fruits of honest industry great fortunes are built up. All this I pass by.

I am thinking of just now is the wholesale homicide which sends thousands of human beings to their graves every year, and which is committed with impunity. Upon whom, hitherto, scarcely a breath of censure has fallen. When a building inspector neglects to enforce the law which he is appointed to enforce, and as a consequence scores or hundreds of human beings are killed, the calamity is not an accident; it is a crime. If the neglect is due to a corrupt combination of the inspector with the owner, they may divide the responsibility between them; the share of neither is lessened by the fact that the other had done his duty the tragedy would have been equally his own. The blame in equal measure to both.

The same goes further back. Who appointed this inspector? What good reason for believing him to be a man who could be trusted?

The water supply of a city is inadequate, and its sources are defiled, so that it is threatened with pestilence, but the necessary provision is delayed by political squabbles and selfishness. The council will not authorize it because it is unwilling that the executive department, which it suspects, should have the spending of the money. Individual members may be in connection with the scheme, because they are suspected of nothing if are not friendly to their political ambitions. The matter drags on for years, and in the meantime an epidemic of typhoid breaks out and hundreds are prostrated. If the matter had been taken up when the danger was first discovered, this calamity would have been averted. It is no accident. It is a crime, and the criminals are in the council. Shall the guilt be brought home to them, or does a flabby and nerveless public sentiment pass all this slaughter of innocent human beings by as a matter of course? Who is to blame for this kind of public sentiment? Who is to blame for such men being in office? Who are the criminals?

Honorable Peace Only by Fighting

By Charles Bonaparte, Secretary of the Navy.

I SAW not long ago the prediction that in forty years war would be a lost art. This sapient deliverance rolled along in that flood of fatuous twaddle about the beauties of peace and the horrors of war which spreads around us just now, as it has from time to time during all the history of civilized mankind, too often as a prelude to blood, and disastrous wars.

I am not prepared to say that war will never become a lost art, for I am not afflicted with that confidence in my own omniscience which has been ascribed to some among my countrymen, but I am quite ready to say that this happy consummation will not be attained in forty years, or eighty, or as long as men have become either better or worse than men.

Mr John Stuart Mill thought there might be a planet wherein two and two make five, and a day may come when we shall have no need of policemen or soldiers, of lawyers or courts, of physicians or nurses, or even undertakers; but when that day comes it will, perhaps, be time to think whether we could do without soldiers and sailors, but not before.

The old English chronicler, in noting the death of an early Norman king, says concisely: "May God grant him peace, for he loved peace." A modern historian, referring to this entry, remarks that it may seem at first sight a strange comment on a prince nearly all of whose reign had been passed in arms. Nevertheless it embodied a large measure of truth.

The king in question "loved peace" so well that he fought during well-nigh his whole life to get and keep it. As with this medieval soverign, so with the great nations of modern times; if they love peace as, after all, every well-to-do good man does, they must fight when needful, and be ready to fight whenever needful to get and keep a peace founded on justice and good faith, honorable to themselves and useful to mankind.

No man "loved peace" such as this more truly than George Washington; and no one warned his countrymen more earnestly and frequently that only adequate preparation for war at any time and at all times could assure them the peace he loved.

And as you and your comrades, young gentlemen, I greet with confidence that you will see that America enjoys such peace and only such peace as Washington would wish her to have.

The Indian's View of The Effect of Civilization

By E. S. Curtis.

IN a cabin on the plains of Montana three of us sat talking; an educated plains Indian, a Government sub-agent, and myself. I was telling of the splendid advancement of the Apaches, and how well they would work. At the close of my story the agent turned to the Indian and asked him, "Why don't your people work like that?" All about the cabin as a decorative frieze, was a tow of Buffalo skulls. The Indian looked up at those skulls, saying, "They tell you why. While those buffalo were alive we did not have to work. Only niggers and white people farmed. We were a strong people and had nothing but contempt for those who worked. Do you suppose that I, a comparatively young man, know the days when if we wanted food we had but to ride out on the plains, shoot buffalo, or other game, and that we would go out and bring it into camp? Do you expect us, in the twinkling of a life-time, in the quarter of the age of an old man, to have changed our natures, and even to have forgotten the days of the old freedom when we were lords of all the great plains and mountains? In what way does your civilization benefit us? Before you had attempted to force your so-called civilization upon us we had every desire of the heart! An easy, simple, carefree life; and to the worthy and brave a certainty of a future life of plenty and comfort. What has your civilization done for us? Robbed us of our land, our strength, our dignity, our content. Even your religion has robbed us of our confidence in the hereafter. What have you given us in return? Desire, corruption, beggary, discontent. You have robbed us of our birthright and scarcely given us a husk. You said we did not make use of the land as the white man would, so you took it from us and gave it to one like. I could as well go to the man who has his millions loaned at three per cent. and say, 'You are only getting three per cent. for this. I can use and make ten. I will take it because I will make the best use of it.'"—Scribner's Magazine.

Did the Chinese Discover the Compass?

By Cyrus C. Adams.

SOME Asian people, perhaps the Chinese, discovered many centuries ago, that a kind of iron ore possessed a very peculiar quality. We call this ore magnetic or, in more common language, lodestone, and it is very widely distributed, especially in the older crystalline rocks. It was found that if a bit of lodestone were placed in water upon a piece of cork or straw braid it would turn till the axis of the stone assumed a north and south position. A phenomenon of magnetism had been discovered by means of an ore that is peculiarly susceptible to magnetic influence.

It is an open question whether the Chinese utilized the directive power of the lodestone, but it is certain that the first rude compass was not used on European vessels before the twelfth century of our era. By that time the true magnetic compass had been evolved through the discovery that if an iron or steel needle were stroked on a lodestone, it would receive the attractive and directive power of this ore. With this wonderful appliance placed at the service of navigation, the vessels that had hugged the coasts soon dared to venture even out of sight of land. A new impetus was gradually given to cartography, for now the true directions of the coast lines might be charted with some approach to accuracy. It was the happy fortune of Italian sailors to make the excellent surveys of the directions and lengths of the Black Sea and Mediterranean coasts and along the Atlantic and British waters that have come down to us in the so-called Portulan maps.—Harper's Magazine.

CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT.

IN MY POCKET.

Yes, I have it in my pocket,
But nobody put it there.
If you take it from my pocket
It will not be anywhere.

Curious thing this in my pocket
Something add, it's smaller still,
Yet you can, by adding nothing,
Make it larger if you will.

Funny thing this in my pocket;
Holding there its given space,
If you like, a second something
Easily fills the self-same place.

This odd thing within my pocket
Just its like was never seen,
Yet a hundred million billion
Of its kind have often been.

This queer thing within my pocket
(Don't tell any living soul,
It's a great, a wondrous secret),
This strange thing is just a hole.
—Harper's Young People.

KITE-FLYING.

The principal point in preparing a kite, and the one that shows skill in the maker is the arrangement of the string and the tail. But, first, about the making of it. A very pretty one may be made like that in the illustration, which is after a Japanese model, by taking the thin strips of bamboo that are found in Japanese fans and arranging them as shown and then covering them with tissue paper.

Several short strings should be tied to the frame, and these should be united by a knot, to which the string of the kite is afterward fastened. The knot must be so placed that when you lift the kite by it, before the tail has been attached, the kite should hang with its sides perfectly even, and the point where the tail is to be attached should fall slightly lower than the top. The proper flying of the kite depends on this knot, for if it is placed too high, the kite, in flying, will plunge sideways; if placed too low, it will whirl around.

A Japanese Bird Kite.

The tail, says the People's Home Journal, should not be less than twelve times the length of the kite, and it may be even twenty times its length. Folded papers, each about three inches long, may be made into stiff bobs and fastened with strings at intervals of three inches or so for the tail. If you use rags or pieces of cloth tied together the tail will have to be a little shorter, as they are heavier than the paper.

APPLEBLOSSOM.

Dick and Eugenia live in Boston, and every summer they go down to Maine with their mamma, to visit grandma and grandpa. Last summer, before it was quite time for them to go, Eugenia got a letter from grandma, telling her that grandpa had just brought home a dear little pink and white pig with a curly tail, and they wanted her to send them a name for it.

When the letter was read to Eugenia, she stood by her mamma and thought for a minute; then she said:

"Pink and white! Well, I think I'll call her Appleblossom."

Grandma laughed when she got the name, but the pig was called Appleblossom; and such a funny little piggie as she was! She would stand right up on her hind feet and try to catch an old whip, which the children would hold over the gate of her pen, and when she got it in her mouth—as she always did, for she was very quick—she would hold it tight in her teeth, and, bracing with all four feet, pull back as hard as she could. If they threw in a stick, she would play with it just as dogs do sometimes. She would get it in her mouth and run about with it, or whirl around and around. One day she got so excited she slipped and fell.

Dick and Eugenia were always asking for something to give Appleblossom to eat, and she always expected it. If they came into the barn she would jump up, rest her fore feet on the top of the gate, and squeal until they came to her.

One day Rowdy, grandma's pony, whose stall was next to Appleblossom's pen, rubbed against a door between the two and burst it open. Piggie at once ran out into the barn, and then such a time as they all had to get her back! She would run everywhere except through her gate. Grandpa, grandma, Aunt Deedie and both children worked as hard as they knew how, but Appleblossom got ahead of them every time.

They were almost ready to despair of ever getting her back to her pen when Aunt Deedie, who is a big, strong girl, suddenly made a dive, and caught piggie by one hind foot. Grandpa jumped quickly and caught the other one; and I don't know who was the most excited, grandpa, Aunt Deedie or the children.

They all did a great deal of jumping around and squealing; but they finally made Miss Appleblossom walk back into her pen on her two front feet, and got the gate closed once more.

Then the children rushed around and got her a great big dinner to keep her from feeling so sorry that she could not run out and play as they could. Appleblossom ate it with grunts of satisfaction; as much as to say that, even if she did not succeed in doing all she intended, she had really accomplished something.—Mabel Hastings Skinner, in Holiday Magazine.

A WHALE'S UNWELCOME GUESTS

The whale's huge body forms a convenient camping ground for innumerable smaller animals, and sometimes they are a source of great annoyance to their host. The whales try to get rid of them by rolling in the sand in shallow water or rubbing themselves on reefs, and one of them once made use of the sharp plate which projects from a bilge keel for this purpose. The boat was lying off the coast of Brazil when a continued tremor, varied by bumps, was felt. Soon a huge whale rose slowly out of the water alongside the boat, and the tremor ceased. It descended, and the tremor was again felt. Then the crew noticed barnacles and shellfish coming to the surface, and the secret was out. The whale had been using the vessel's bilge as a back scratcher. But the captain did not care for such neighbors, and before the huge creature could resume its toilet a shower of potatoes and coal fell around him. He paid no attention to the missiles until a piece of coal went into his mouth. Then he turned tail and steamed away, having first spouted a flood of sea water over the steamer.

WHAT THEY MEAN.

Now that every boy, and girl, too, is wearing an emblem of some sort on his collar or sleeve, it is interesting to know the meaning of some of them.

These emblems are mostly those used in the United States army, and it will be a good memory test to try to find just what the eagle or other emblem on your new reefer indicates.

A general wears two silver stars, with the arms of the United States between.

A lieutenant general shows three silver stars.

A major-general, two silver stars.

A brigadier-general, one silver star.

A colonel, a silver spread eagle.

A lieutenant-colonel, two silver leaves.

A major, two gold leaves.

A captain, two silver bars at each end.

A lieutenant, one silver bar at each end.

A second lieutenant, plain straps, without any marks.

SQUARE NUMBERS.

Every boy knows that a square number is a number produced by the multiplication of any number by itself. Thus 7 multiplied itself gives 49 as a result; 49 consequently is a square number, 7 being termed the square root from which it springs. In high numbers the extraction of the square root is an affair of time and trouble, and after all the necessary calculations have been made it may perhaps be found that the number is not a square number. This unnecessary trouble may be saved if the following instructions are remembered: Every square number ends with one of the figures 1, 4, 5, 6 or 9, or with two ciphers preceded by one or other of these figures. Again, every square number is equally divisible by 4, or when divided by 4 will have a remainder of 1. Thus, as shown above, the square of 7 is 49, which divided by 4 gives us a quotient 12 and 1 over; 64 again is a square number, and it is actually divisible by 4.

ANGELS' PEEP HOLES.

Marston and his father were walking home one night. The sky was very black, but every star was radiant.

"Papa," said Marston, "what are stars?"

"Why they are supposed to be other worlds, like this, my son," answered his father. "Many of them are much larger than the earth, and some of them are supposed to have people on them, just like this world."

Marston was silent. Seeing his serious face, his father asked: "What did you think they were, my son?"

Marston sighed, then answered: "Why, papa, I always thought the stars were holes in heaven that the angels looked through!"—Indianapolis News.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,
Furniture and Rugs.
—SOLE AGENTS—
Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.
Catalogue for the asking.
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association
OF ALABAMA.
CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
By the People and for the People.
Chilton County Branch
Organized February 3, 1900.
W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent.

Full particulars furnished upon application to
WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue
—of the—
St. Louis Globe-Democrat
—With—
THE UNION
—For—
$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and we must receive the cash with order. Address
THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

PAUL CALAME,
205 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.
Practical Watchmaker and Optician
Eyes Correctly Fitted
Mail orders promptly filled

SUBSCRIBE FOR THIS PAPER

DO YOU WANT
Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,
OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?
Then Call at
THE UNION OFFICE
and See Fine Work at Low Prices.
500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00
Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines.
Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.
DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER
We guarantee water or no charge made.
Estimates given. Address
I. E. SARBER CO.
Thorsby, Alabama.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1908, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Oct 11, 1906.

Union Clubbing List

THE UNION And Yellow Jacket	$1.05
THE UNION And Southern Ruralist	1.00
THE UNION And Union Educator	1.00
THE UNION And Home and Farm	1.00
THE UNION And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
THE UNION and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
THE UNION and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-W'kly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
THE UNION And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.50
THE UNION And Rural South	1.50
THE UNION And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.50

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

NOMINEES OF THE People's Primary

Held August 6, 1906, under the direction of the Republican and Populist Executive Committees of Chilton County, Ala.

FOR SENATOR, FIFTEENTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT, W. W. WADSWORTH, OF AUTAUGA. tf

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
J. Osmond Middleton.

FOR SHERIFF.
Felix J. Fitts.

FOR COMMISSIONER.
First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—S. E. Waldrup.
tf

CLANTON SCHOOL.

The Clanton Academy has an advertisement in this week's paper which all should look over. The teaching force at the academy is composed of Prof. L. J. Thompson, a graduate of the University of Georgia, with the degree of A. B. who is principal; he has had nine years' experience as a teacher. Prof. J. Will Moore, our county superintendent of education for twelve years, has charge of the first grade. Mrs. Leila Mullins and Miss Jones, the teachers of the intermediate and primary grades, respectively, are well fitted for their positions. The school is doing well and patrons are pleased.

WADSWORTH'S SUCCESS.

Col. W. W. Wadsworth is receiving the most flattering endorsements of his candidacy for State Senator from every part of the counties of Autauga Chilton and Shelby. The Populists have endorsed him and all indications point to his election.

SOME HOME TRUTHS.

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 8, 1906.

Editor Union:

After a week's tour of the southwestern portion of the county, to assess taxes, we are home for a few hours, then we must start out for the next week, and this gladsome sunshine is indeed most welcome, for all through last week there was almost continuous rain, and we found the crops in a very bad condition; there will be a great loss in the cotton crop, and in lowland overflowed land the corn is all or most of it swept away, besides it is considerably blown down and is rotting in the fields. We were well pleased at Dixie, Maplesville and Boynton, as nearly all the bridges were gone on the Mulberry and its tributaries. Well, a stray copy of the Banner fell into our hands, and noticing some of the correspondence, we were much surprised to see the renewal of the attack of the president of the Liars' Club on Mr. Fitts, and I tell you such abominable tactics are stirring the people fearfully, and it is simply an undying shame that there are to be found such base characters. And when you get at the bottom of the matter you will find that there has been a deeply concocted scheme to slander Fitts, and every one who is acquainted with the characters of those thus pursuing him are utterly unworthy of trust and confidence; and so far from being the sainted, sober, goody-goodies they would have others or the reading public believe, they are regular whisky soakers themselves and even worse, for when a man will wilfully tell or report a falsehood on his fellow-man with a purpose to injure, he is next thing to a murderer. The hidden snake that lurks in the grass, to strike with his deadly fangs behind your back, unseen in the dark. Now, all honorable men desire to conduct political campaigns on high planes of moral rectitude, dealing with the issues existing as to policy and purpose of the parties to which they may belong, and it is very unfortunate for the whole people that the ever present campaign liar must bob up and begin to agitate the people's minds by stirring a filthy stench, all based on miserable falsehood, and if you will just notice the last effort of Arthur D. Latham you will see that he drops the tale of the little boys and the buggy full of beer tale, after finding that lie was beheaded; now he says Fitts was simply out giving whisky to some parties, who no doubt are of the same caliber as Mr. Arth. D. himself, for if he told a falsehood in the first instance would he not naturally try to cover one falsehood by spreading on another. All such stock remind me of a brood of buzzards; their natural ("mental") food is carrion and filth ,like the buzzard when you see him perched on a limb; he certainly seems sanctified, so with the liemonger. Usually when you see him at church he is apt to occupy the front seats and try to appear among the best of the flock, as though he himself were a saint,

"With smooth dissimulation skilled to grace,
A devil's purpose with an angel's face."

Now, Mr. Fitts does not pose as a saint; he may sometimes take a drink of whisky, as many other men do when they like to (but understand we do not recommend any to even take one drink), but who will undertake to utterly condemn a man because he does so, for it is an honest fact that, where you find one man who is a teetotaler, you will find ten the other way. And again, has Fitts or any one of his party tried to down his opponent by ventilating to the public through the newspapers the private characters of the opposing candidates? Now, let me tell you that we are more than willing to measure up with them on this line, and while we detest such things, and have refrained, even to allude in print to the things we have heard as to the private conduct of some of the candidates of the Democratic party, for we have no liking for such things. Yet we say, "by the eternal," that unless this devilish business is stopped there must and will be things revealed that would make even the shameless ashamed. Not on whisky drinking, but unspeakable depths of prostitution can undoubtedly be traced to their very doors, and we give now a note of warning to the Banner man, and even appeal to all the higher and better element of the Democratic party to at once stop those infamous tactics or prepare for some revelations as to the kind of birds you have in your own coop. Now, understand, this is no bluff; it simply means stop or take what follows.

L. B. POUNDS.

A GOOD REPUBLICAN.

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 8, 1906.

Editor Union:

I want to say a few words to the voters of the county. I am glad to see Hon. W. W. Wadsworth nominated for State Senator from this, the Fifteenth Senatorial district, composed of Autauga, Chilton and Shelby counties. His majority in Shelby and Chilton will overcome his opponent in Autauga. It is well remembered that this same office was stolen from Judge L. H. Reynolds and given to his Democratic opponent six years ago. Our county ticket will be elected beyond a shadow of a doubt. Arthur D. Latham has got a little report started on Mr. Felix Fitts, but he will have to get a better move on him than he has. Mr. Fitts has been all over in this section of the county and nobody has ever seen him like Latham says he did. We, the voters, understand why that little talk was started on Mr. Fitts over in that little Democratic beat. When the Republican and Populists get ready for Latham's advice they will let him know, so he can go on and tend to his mail route, and if he gives satisfaction to his patrons he will do well enough. Wonder does F. A. Gulledge know that Governor Jelks and Governor Johnston both have appointed negroes to office in Alabama? He may not, but such is the case. If he or anyone else wants the proof I have got it, and will give it to anybody that want's it. Just Another Voter, from Beat 1, seems to be badly beset about Hons. J. O. Middleton and A. C. Smith changing their politics; why, he ought to remember that there have been thousands changed their politics since Cleveland's last administration. Several states have fell into the Republican columns. Republicans expect to carry Alabama some day in the near future. Here is our reason for knowing that we will: In 1892 our candidate received 9,197 votes and the Democratic candidate received 138,138; in 1904 Roosevelt received 22,472; Parker only received 79,857. The election this fall will show that Middleton and Smith are not the only ones that have quit the fraud cats of the county. Hon. J. O. Thompson's letter in last week's Union makes some of the Democrats talk as meek as if they had lost their wives. "Just Another Voter," what do you think about the late Sam Adams and Frank Critchen? Can you tell what their politics will be next? Have they changed their politics as much as Middleton and Smith have? Let Latham and Just Another Voter watch the Republicans and Populists elect their nominees in Chilton and many other counties in Alabama on the 6th of next November.

Success to the Republican and Populist ticket and The Union and its many readers. Yours sincerely,

LEE VICKERS.

LETTER FROM GEO. W. PECK.

Happyville, Ala., Oct. 8, 1906.

Editor Union:

By request of some of my friends I write a few lines to The Union. I've not written to you or any other paper since Henery got married (about thirty years ago). Henery is doing well now. His oldest son, "Just Billie," has been to school a good deal and seems to be very smart. I tell you, I use to think Henery was the smartest young man in the South, but pshaw! his son "Just Billie" is as far ahead of him as Henery was of me. "Billie" is the smartest grandson I'll ever have I know. His full (?) name is "Just Billie," but I always call him "Billie" for short. I tell you "Billie" is educated; he holds a "first grade sustifficate," a great big "reputification," a "delegatine office" and a hull lot of big things that no man raised in my time could call. He has talent, too; he can speak, he can write and quote scripture that I never heard of. Did you see the letter he wrote to the Banner week before last? Didn't it show talent? You know I was always a poor old Republican. Well, "Billie" has done passed that and completed several other things and got up to the Democrat class, and will soon be graduated I guess if his wind holds out. You know, when any one gets to that pass they are smarter than all their ancestors rolled together. Did you see some of the "scripture" he used in that letter to the Banner? I don't quite remember, but I think he said he got it from the twenty-toothed chap of one-eye John. It was sorter like this: "The lion is the king of beasts; he prowls around on nights like a roaring devil, a-seekin' if he can't catch somebody." You know "Billie" saw a falsehood in the Banner on our candidate for Sheriff. He doesn't know anything about lies—he was raised so that he believes all he sees and hears (from our people). As I came through Happy Hollow just before arriving at Happyville, I heard him reciting one of his great (?) big speeches. It was one he made up about the Republican meeting at Thorsby and the mistake (?) that fellow Latham put in the Banner about Mr. Fitts. I'll give you part of the chorus of his speech. It was as follows: "Away with them and their foilly; too rotten for me, by golly. Now Mr. Latham, watch and see, if they will listen all to me, Mr. Fitts will never be Sheriff of Chilton county. For I'll send this accusation, though false it surely be, to all parts of the whole creation, to help my own nominee." He was always sharp enough to lie against some one or other to help his Democratic brother. G. W. PECK.

W. Y. NIX TESTIFIES.

Maplesville, Oct. 10, 1906.

Editor Union:

I'll ask a little space to say a few words about this report that is being circulated on F. J. Fitts. Now, I want to say to the people of Chilton county that I was there at that baptizing, and I KNOW that Mr. Latham is mistaken and know that he is trying to saddle the wrong man with the "thing." If I didn't know what I am talking about I wouldn't say one word. Mr. Latham said that some little boys told him, and he admits that he told Mr. Fitts that if he was mistaken he was sorry of it. Now, I think that when we are dealing with another's character we should KNOW before we speak. I am as much opposed to any one drinking or disturbing public worship as Mr. Latham or any one else, and a man with his heart so full of grace should always well consider matters before he publishes them. Now, as to there being whisky or beer in Mr. Fitts' buggy on that day, I say it is a LIE. If Fitts had not been a candidate for Sheriff this thing would never have been said. A man with half sense and one eye can see what it means. I hope this will give satisfaction to all good people. W. Y. NIX.

SOUTH BESSIE.

October brings us the first intimation of the coming winter—October, the month of the opening chestnut and the falling hickory nut. Soon the forest will be clothed with a livery of scarlet and gold. October—ah! how many whose minds can flash backward and recall some other October, when they led their companion to the hymenial altar? It is also the revival season among some churches of the sweet long ago. We welcome its crisp nights and bright sunshine after so much rain. Another telephone line on the extreme south side—from Willie Merchant's to Randolph. J. L. Smith has a sick child. Everything in this highly favored locality is moving on nicely, notwithstanding the recent rain was the heaviest and most destructive we ever saw. South Bessie will be all right in November. She is not fretting about outside rumors, but moving on with marked assurance. Jody Atchison, of Ocampo, has been spending a few days with home folks. Say, all ye candidates and county officials, listen please. The Union is and has been one of your best friends, and as you are continually among the people, why not secure a great number of subscriptions for The Union, on which you must rely in the future? See the point, brother? Well, we noticed some fine articles on the stock law in the last Union. There is W. Y. Nix, a progressive man in stock raising, agriculture and politics. We consider him an authority on the stock law question. We well remember that sterling Dr. E. H. Moren, once Lieutenant-Governor of Alabama, also Representative in the General Assembly from Bibb county, who lived and died in Bibb, when he was making perhaps his last race for Representative, that a rumor had been circulated that the doctor was in favor of stock law. In answer to this, after describing the troubles of stock law, he said, I think these words, "We present a poor enough appearance now without the stock law." With such an authority as Dr. Moren then and Mr. W. Y. Nix now, speaking as they have, it is time for us all to stop and consider this stock law question before it is too late. H. H. Armstrong made a business trip to Jemison last week. Your correspondent from Jemison is a good one. We welcome him. That article by Mr. Pounds in the last Union was really good. Who can even attempt to describe the vast amount of energy and means even now being put forth by friends of truth and right, both political and religious, against the powers of darkness? It seems that the great adversary of man is unusually active in bringing on increasing calamities and distress, as well as indifference with people. On the other side, note the increased efforts of the friends of right. Look over our own section. We have fine political orators and The Union battling for the right and the people's cause. Religiously, we have had Honeycutt, Hubbard, Beeson, Brasher, L. P. Adams, Butler, Miller and Aldrich as champions for the truth. Then looking abroad, we hear of the great Welsh revival, of B. E. Warren in defense of the true church, of Dr. Godbey as a flame of fire, of noble young men and young women going to spend their lives for the uplift of the heathen, of the eminent Charles T. Russell addressing thousands in defense of the Bible and the cross. We would not forget the plain outspoken Claude L. Chilton. Ah! it is a fight to the finish. The late Miss Mary Story said she loved the battle. Yours for truth, progress, The Union and the people, "ONE OF THE BOYS."

LIBERTY HILL.

Editor Union:

Farmers are all smiles at the fair weather, and I guess they will make the 11-cent cotton fly this week. Our union at this place seems to be dying away. The farmers do not realize what they can do if they will only stick together, but they all are not looking for self, but trying to please some merchant who would not do one thing to benefit the farmers if they knew it. Sunday school at Liberty is progressing nicely. Howard Foshee and Albert Smith seem very much interested. That's right, boys; better be there than off gambling. We all enjoyed the speech of Mr. Middleton Saturday night. I sometimes get sorry for Gulledge. Poor fellow. People even put him to sleep on the floor; but no use to sympathize with him now, for Middleton will get the office. We were glad to have Lee Vickers with us Saturday night with his bright smiles. Come again, Mr. Vickers. Willie Mims seem to like Beat 4 all right, or perhaps some one in Beat 4 likes him all right, and his visits are to cheer some weary one. Willie C. is having a swell time with that new buggy of his. His girl comes out at the front door these days. What has stopped H. H. from this vicinity? Wishing success to the F. E. and C. U. of A. and all the readers of the dear old Union, I'll step aside. UNION MEMBER.

A process for aging wines by electricity has been patented in Germany.

The Australian mound bird builds the biggest nest in the world.

FOR SALE!

120 acres of good level land, 1 mile east of Collins Chapel school house, good pasture with never failing supply of water. House of 3 rooms and lot buildings, with good spring close to dwelling house,

ALSO

Grist Mill (for both corn and wheat), in running order, water power the year round, good location for cotton gin, (formerly known as Maddox's Mill) near Jumbo. All to be sold cheap for cash, together or separately. Call on or address K. A. E. Gronquist, Clanton, Route 4. tf

NOTICE—SINGING.

As the fifth Sunday in September was a rainy day and no singing, we have decided to recall the old Southern Union Singing convention, to be held at Corinth Church (five miles east of Verbena) on Sunday, October 21, at 9:30 a. m. All singers are invited to come and bring their books and baskets. Now, we wish it understood that we want all leaders unhampered as to what books we use, leaving it to the leaders to use such books as they see fit. Devotional exercises conducted by E. L. Jones. Welcome address Rev. E. L. Manning; response, R. T. Grant. Former officers were W. H. Robinson, president, and B. I. Gass, secretary.

Editor: Please publish this for us and oblige, E. L. ROBINNSON, tf E. A. NORRIS.

STOCK LAW PETITION.

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 8, 1906.

Editor Union:

I trust you will lend me a small space in your paper to correct some false reports that are being circulated in regard to our stock law petition. Some one has started it in the beats that want stock law, that our petitions are illegal and are also stating that the Hon. Judge Reynolds has said that they are illegal. And a number of other things that are unbecoming to any respectable man. I, for one, believe that such a person ought to be branded a liar, for whoever started such false reports has lied. I went to Judge Reynolds and asked him and he knew nothing of it; said he had never said any such things. So you see it has been started by some one opposed to stock law. When we people started out with our petition we meant to have an election honest, fair and open to all, and not to misrepresent anything to the people. And I want to say right here that if the people who are opposed to stock law will act fair and honest, I am sure all will be right with us. I am in favor of a law which prohibits any stock from running at large, simply because I believe it would suit me and my neighbors, and my reasons for so thinking would take up too much space in our valuable paper. We now have somewhere about enough to order an election, and I want it distinctly understood that, so far as I know, there is only one man in Clanton whose name appears on our petition, and I could not state positively whether he lives in Clanton or not. Now, if anybody has doubt about what I said, I only ask you to go to Judge Reynolds and he will tell you the same as he told me on Saturday night. So you people in the adjoining beats who have have petitions, go ahead and work your beat, and if anybody tells you that the stock law petitions in beat 4 are dead, tell them to wait until the 1st of December and you will see the biggest resurrection you ever saw in your life. Now, in conclusion, let me beg you to not start anything that would be unfair. Trusting Judge Reynolds will pardon me for using his name, I now close. B. F. MASSEY.

Notice No. 20795.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 28, 1906.

Notice is hereby given that William F. Armstrong, of Clear Creek, Ala., has filed notice of his intention to make final five years proof in support of his claim, viz., homestead entry No. 33166, made September 6, 1899, for the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter, section 22, township 24 north, range 13 east, and that said proof will be made before clerk of Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on November 1, 1906.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of the land, viz.: Joseph M. Broadhead, W. Rufus Holditch, William M. Aldritch, Lee Busby, all of Calera, Ala.

ROBERT D. JOHNSTON,
8-30-06 tf Register.

THAT JOINT DISCUSSION.

Riderville, Ala., Oct. 8, 1906.

We are glad to know that our candidates for Representative are to speak to us on the 13th. We extend to them a hearty welcome and assure them that our doors will be opened for their entertainment.

T. G. MILLING,
WILLIAM PRICE.
J. G. GAY.
W. T. DAVIS.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

The funeral sermon of Mr. J. J. Thompson will be preached at Mountain Springs church on the second Sunday in October at 11 a. m., by Rev. Mr. Chastain, of Morgan, Jefferson county, Alabama. tf

MONEY TO LOAN

On real estate. Call or write me at my abiding place with Mr. G. O. Foshee, one mile northeast of Clanton, R. F. D. No. 1. Come during banking hours, as I keep my money in the bank.
tf JAMES GLASS.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for sheriff of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people at the November election, 1906.

ROLLEFFE BATES.

adv (tf)

NOTICE.

ALTHOUGH MR. GULLEDGE BACKED OUT OF THE DISCUSSION AGREEMENT, MIDDLETON SHALL KEEP ALL DATES AS ABOVE. COME AND HEAR HIM.

To THE PEOPLE OF COUNTY.

It has been agreed that a discussion of the issues of the campaign between Mr. F. A. Gulledge and Hon. J. O. Middleton shall take place at the following times and places:

Beat 10, Corinth Church, October 2, 7 p. m.

Beat 6, Fairview Church, October 4, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Pleasant Grove Church, October 5, 7 p. m.

Beat 4, Littlejohn school house, Saturday, October 6, 7 p. m.

Beat 9, Collins' Chapel, Monday, October 8, 7 p. m.

Beat 10, Bethel Church, October 9, 7 p. m.

Beat 6, New Cedron Church, Thursday, October 11, 7 p. m.

Beat 8, Pilgrim's Rest, Friday, October 12, 7 p. m.

Beat 8, Riderville, Saturday, October 13, 7 p. m.

Beat 7, Maplesville, Tuesday, October 16, 7 p. m.

Beat 7, Sardis Church, Thursday, October 18, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Macedonia, Friday, October 19, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Benson's Cross Roads, Saturday, October 20, 7 p. m.

Beat 1, Blow's school house, church Monday, October 22, 7 p. m.

Beat 1, Union Church, Tuesday, October 30, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Jemison, Wednesday, October 31, 10 a. m.

Beat 2, Rocky Mount, Wednesday, October 31, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Providence, Thursday, November 1, 7 p. m.

Beat 9, Cedar Grove Church, Friday, November 2, 7 p. m.

Beat 11, Cane Creek Church, Saturday, November 3, 7 p. m.

Beat 4, Walnut Grove Church, Monday, November 5, 7 p. m.

WM. M. ADAMS,
Chm. Dem. Co. Ex. Com.
A. C. SMITH,
Chm. Rep. Co. Ex. Com.

THE NEW YORK WORLD

Thrice-a-Week Edition—Read by Over the English Language Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World is a great Presidential campaign shadowed, hopes to be a better than it has ever been before. It has made arrangements and its news service covers the globe, and it reports everything promptly and accurately. It is only newspaper, not a daily, as good as a daily, and will keep you as completely informed what is happening throughout the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is its political reports. You can truth from its columns whether are Republican or Democrat, is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been rial fiction. It publishes the best authors in the world, which in book form sell for apiece, and its high standard respect will be maintained in ture as in the past.

The Thrice-a-Week World's subscription price is only $1 and this pays for 156 papers, this unequalled newspaper and Union together for one year.

The regular subscription price two papers is $2.

Program for Alabama Horse and State Fair, Birmingham:

Monday, October 15—Gates and registration day for Home-Tuesday, October 16—Old Day, for Home-Comers. Special distinguished Alabamians. union. Horse show free for Home-Comers at night.

Wednesday, October 17—Day, Alumni Day. Opening tournament.

Thursday, October 18—and Traveling Men's Day. grand tournament and award prizes. Free concert. Singing Alabama song.

Friday, October 19—Day, Children's Day. Exercises district for Home-Comers. at night.

Saturday, October 20—Home farewell. Appropriate exercises.

FOR SALE.

A fine yoke of oxen, about old, to be sold cheap. I live east of Jemison.

MARION GLASS,
tf Jemison, Ala.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages and all official forms for Justices of the Peace for sale at The Union office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and see us your order

AND COUNTY OFFICIALS
Circuit Court.
Term—Third Monday in May, Fourth Monday in Nov.
Judge L. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
Sol.—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
Clerk W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
Term—Second Monday in Sept.
Second Monday in Sept.
Chancellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
Register—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton.

County Court.
Monday in each month.
Commissioners' Court.
Monday February, first Monday, first Monday June, second July, second Monday August, Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
Judge of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
Sheriff—W. T. Callen.
Clerk—J. M. Morgan.
Treasurer—W. M. Adams.
Tax Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
Tax Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
1st District—W. H. Conway.
2nd District—Alex Glasscock.
3rd District—R. P. Kendrick.
4th District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.
MISSIONARY BAPTIST.
CHANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pastor. First Sunday and Saturday before. D. L. Hand, clerk.

SHILOH-SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish, pastor. E. B. Popwell, clerk.

BEAR CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey, pastor. First Sunday and Saturday before. W. E. Thomas, clerk.

COLLINS CHAPEL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Third Sunday and Saturday before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

BETHEL HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. First Sunday and Saturday before. G. W. Scott, clerk.

MACEDONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Fourth Sunday and Saturday at 3:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong, clerk.

PLEASANT GROVE—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Fourth Sunday and Saturday before at 11 a. m. D. H. Thomas, clerk.

PROVIDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robinson, pastor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. Riley Robinson, clerk.

SHILOH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H. Thomas, pastor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. D. C. Smitherman, clerk.

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.
BETHEL—Elder J. P. Nobles, pastor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. J. T. Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.
ROCKY MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Vandiver, pastor. Second Sunday. Singing every second and fourth Sunday afternoon. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night. Ladies' prayer meeting every Saturday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.
Clanton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—First Saturday, Clanton.
Jemando Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 404—Fourth Saturday, Cooper.
Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 404—First Saturday, Clanton.
Billingsley Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 404—First Saturday, Billingsley.
Coosa Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 344—Saturday on or before full moon, Marbury.
Jemison Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 404—Saturday on or before full moon, Jemison.
Clanton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. 404—Tuesday on or before full moon, Clanton.

I. O. O. F.
Jemison Lodge—First and third Saturdays.
Clanton Lodge, No. 304—Second and fourth Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.
Chalk Jack Camp, No. 190—First and third Mondays.

I. O. R. M.
Powhatan Tribe, No. 90—First and third Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs cordially invited. E. B. Langston, C. of R.; J. H. Patton, Sachem.
Cheerie Tribe No. 48—2nd and 4th Saturday sleeps. Visiting chiefs cordially invited. J. M. Grant, Sachem; [illegible] C. of R.
Tanahatchee Tribe, No. 9, meets second and fourth Tuesdays' sleep. Visiting chiefs cordially invited.
J. P. VAN DERVEER, Sachem
W. ROBINSON, C. of R.

NOTICE.

ALTHOUGH MR. GULLEDG
BACKED OUT OF THE JO
CUSSION AGREEMENT, MR
DLETON WILL KEEP ALL
DATES AS ABOVE. COME AND HEAR HIM.

To THE PEOPLE OF CH COUNTY.

It has been agreed that the discussion of the issues of the ween Mr. F. A. Gulledge and Middleton shall take place at owing times and places:

Beat 10, Corinth Church, T
October 2, 7 p. m.

Beat 6, Fairview Church, T
October 4, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Pleasant Grove Ch
day, October 5, 7 p. m.

Beat 4, Littlejohn school ho
rday, October 6, 7 p. m.

Beat 9, Collins' Chapel, Mon
ober 8, 7 p. m.

Beat 10, Bethel Church, Tu
ober 9, 7 p. m.

Beat 6, New Cedron Church
day, October 11, 7 p. m.

Beat 8, Pilgrim's Rest Ch
day, October 12, 7 p. m.

Beat 8, Riderville, Saturday,
3, 7 p. m.

Beat 7, Maplesville, Tuesda
er 16, 7 p. m.

Beat 7, Sardis Church, Thur
ber 18, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Macedonia, Friday,
9, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Benson's Cross Roads
day, October 20, 7 p. m.

Beat 1, Blow's school ho
Church Monday, October 29, 7

Beat 1, Union Church, Tues
ober 30, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Jemison, Wednesday
er 31, 10 a. m.

Beat 2, Rocky Mount, Wed
October 31, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Providence, Thurs
vember 1, 7 p. m.

Beat 9, Cedar Grove Church,
November 2, 7 p. m.

Beat 11, Cane Creek Church
day, November 3, 7 p. m.

Beat 4, Walnut Grove Chur
day, November 5, 7 p. m.

WM. M. ADA
Chm. Dem. Cam
A. C. SMITH,
Chm. Rep. Cam

THE NEW YORK WORL

Thrice-a-Week Edition—Read ever the English Langua
Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World
great Presidential campaign hadowed, hopes to be a bett han it has ever been before.
as made arrangements acr its news service covers th lobe, and it reports everythi promptly and accurately.
nly newspaper, not a daily,
s good as a daily, and wi
eep you as completely info what is happening throughou orld.

The Thrice-a-Week World
s political reports. You can ruth from its columns, whet re Republican or Democrat, s what you want.

A special feature of the Week World has always bee inal fiction. It publishes n he best authors in the world
hich in book form sell fo piece, and its high standard espect will be maintained
ure as in the past.

The Thrice-a-Week World's ubscription price is only $1 nd this pays for 156 papers.
his unequalled newspaper a Union together for one year
The regular subscription pri wo papers is $2.

Program for Alabama Hom and State Fair, Birmingham
Monday, October 15—Govern nd registration day for Home
Tuesday, October 16—Old ay, for Home-Comers. Spe istinguished Alabamians.
nion. Horse show free for Home-Comers at night.
Wednesday, October 17—
ay, Alumni Day. Opening
ournament.
Thursday, October 18—M
nd Traveling Men's Day.
rand tournament and awa rizes. Free concert. Singin labama song.
Friday, October 19—Bir
ay, Children's Day. Excurs istrict for Home-Comers. G t night.
Saturday, October 20—Hom
arewell. Appropriate exercis

FOR SALE.

A fine yoke of oxen, about ld, to be sold cheap. I live ast of Jemison.
MARION GLASSC
tf Jemison, A

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mor
nd all official form
ustices of the Peace or sale at The Union
'nly best approved
re used. Come in a s your order.

AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
—Third Monday in May,
—Fourth Monday in No
L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville
W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
Term—Second Monday in
—Second Monday in Sep
—Hon. W. W. Whitesides,
—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan

County Court.
Monday in each month.
Commissioners' Court.
Monday February, first Mon
first Monday June, second
July, second Monday August,
day November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
—W. T. Callen.
—J. M. Morgan.
—W. M. Adams.
Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
District—W. H. Conway.
District—Alex Glasscock.
District—R. P. Kendrick.
District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

MISSIONARY BAPTIST.
HANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas
First Sunday and Saturday be
D. L. Hand, clerk.

H-SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
E. B. Popwell, clerk.

E CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey,
First Sunday and Saturday
W. E. Thomas, clerk.

LINS CHAPEL—Rev. J. H.
pastor. Third Sunday and day before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

S HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
First Sunday and Saturday
G. W. Scott, clerk.

EDONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
Fourth Sunday and Saturday
at 3:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong,

ASANT GROVE—Rev. J. H.
pastor. Fourth Sunday and day before at 11 a. m. D. H.
clerk.

IDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robin-
pastor. Second Sunday and Sat-
before. Riley Robinson, clerk.

ROFOTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H.
pastor. Second Sunday and
day before. D. C. Smitherman,

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

ETHEL—Elder J. P. Nobles, pas
Second Sunday and Saturday be
J. T. Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

OCKY MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Van-
pastor. Second Sunday. Sing-every second and fourth Sunday
noon. Prayer meeting every Wed-day night. Ladies' prayer meeting
Saturday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

ton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—
Saturday, Clanton.

ade Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

ton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
First Saturday, Clanton.

ury Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
First Saturday, Billingsley.

man Lodge, A. F. and A. M.,
—Saturday on or before full
Marbury.

ton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday on or before full moon,

ton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Tuesday on or before full moon,

I. O. O. F.

ton Lodge—First and third Sat-ton Lodge, No. 304—Second and Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.

Jack Camp, No. 190—First and Mondays.

I. O. R. M.

ermo Tribe, No. 90—First and Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs ally invited. E. B. Langston, C.
J. H. Patton, Sachem.

erte Tribe, No. 48—2nd and 4th ding sleeps. Visiting chiefs cor ially invited. J. M. Grant, Sachem;
R.

Hatchee Tribe, No. 9, meets
and fourth Tuesdays' sleep.
ing chiefs cordially invited.
P. VAN DERVEER, Sachem
E. ROBINSON, C. of R.

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

Chilton Co. Division Officers.

J. H. Thomas, President, Jemison, Rte. 1.
J. W. Hayes, Vice Pres., Thorsby, Rte 1.
J. N. Dennis, Sec-Treas., Clanton, Rte 6.
G. W. Thomas, Chaplain, Clanton, Rte 2.
J. W. Sorrell, Bus. Agent, Jemison, Rte 4.
C. N. Eiland, Lecturer, Clanton, Rte 4.
N. A. Dobbs, Asst. Lect., Clanton, Rte 3.
W. J. Bean, Conductor, Clanton, Rte 4.
W. F. Culpepper, Doorkeeper, Clanton, Rte 3.
W. A. Barnett, Ex. Committee, Jemison, Rte 2.
E. H. Mims, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 1.
J. Wiley Foshee, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 4.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Clanton, Sept. 11, 1906.

Pursuant to the third article of the objects and aims of the F. E. and C. U. of A., the last County Union agreed to meet in delegated form at Cedar Grove and give one day to the science of crop diversification and scientific agriculture, or to farmers' institute work.

Dr. C. A. Cary, of Auburn, director of Farmers' Institutes of Alabama, and Col. J. M. Thornton, of Talladega, have agreed to lecture for us on that day. Also State Business Agent P. F. Parker has been invited to make us a speech on that day. The date has been fixed on Friday, October 12, 1906. Everybody is invited to come. Yours respectfully, J. N. DENNIS,
tf County Secretary.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

TO THE UNIONS OF CHILTON COUNTY.

The Farmers' Institute will be held at Cedar Grove on October 12, and I want every farmer that can to lay aside his work and attend. Dr. Carey of Auburn, and Mr. Thornton and others will speak. You ought to hear Dr. Carey; he is the veterinary professor at Auburn, and he can tell you what ails your horse or your mule just as soon as he looks at it. Come everybody, especially Union people. Yours truly, J. H. THOMAS.
tf

REGISTRATION NOTICE.

Beat No. 4, at Clanton, on Friday and Saturday before the election in November, 1906.

R. H. GAINES,
B. L. JONES,
P. M. MOORE,
Board of Registrars Chilton County.
tf

WATSON'S MAGAZINE.

The leading exponent of Jeffersonian Democracy, edited by Hon. Thos. E. Watson, of Georgia, theFather of Rural Free Delivery; author of "The Story of France," "Life of Napoleon," "Life and Times of Thomas Jefferson," "Bethany" and other books. Mr. Watson was the People's party nominee for Vice-President in 1896, and for President in 1904. He is today heading a middle-class reform movement which is bound to sweep the country in a short time.

Watson's Magazine is not a Socialist publication. It does not stand for collective ownership of all the means of production. Mr. Watson believes in public or government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones; in municipal ownership of street railways, gas electric lights, water works, etc.; and he believes in private ownership of all industries not natural monopolies.

The middle class—the home owners, farmers, small business men and property owners—won Jefferson's victory in 1800; won Jackson's victory over Nick Biddle's money power in 1832; won Lincoln's victory in 1860. But each time after the flush of victory had died away they became careless of their rights and went to sleep. They have slept a good portion of the time since 1865, but—

Watson's Magazine is waking them up. Another great victory is in the air. Keep in touch with the movement.

Fifteen cents a copy at news stands; $1.50 a year by mail. Sample copy for four 2-cent stamps and four names of reading friends. Address,

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
121 West Forty-second Street,
New York City.

SPECIAL CLUBBING RATE.

WATSON'S MAGAZINE AND THE UNION A YEAR FOR ONLY $1.75. WHY NOT SAVE THE 75 CENTS? LEAVE ORDERS AT THIS OFFICE.
tf

ATTENTION

Mrs. S. J. Watts is with J. C. Jones and will be pleased to wait on friends and customers. We make a specialty of all styles of "Puritan Corsets" Dress Goods and Trimmings, design dresses and order patterns. tf.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Oct. 10, 1906.—1,085
Price same date 10 3-8
Receipts same time in 1905.....2,766
Price same date 9 3-8

PERSONAL AND LOCAL.

W. T. Reynolds, of Birmingham was a visitor to his nephew, Judge L. H. Reynolds, for several days the past week. Mr. Reynolds is an ex-Confederate soldier and a Republican, and says many of his camp are of the same faith and order.

G. W. Wilson was a pleasant visitor Saturday. O. E. Wilson, a son of G. Wash Wilson, is now a medical student at the college in Memphis, Tenn. Some of our young men are making good use of their time and their fatners' generosity.

T. W. Wilson was in Clanton Saturday.

A. M. Rollins was a pleasant visitor Saturday; he brought to town a hog five months old which weighed 115 pounds, and has about thirty more at his farm which he intends to market through this winter.

F. E. Gronquist and little daughter, Helene, were pleasant visitors Monday. Mr. Gronquist's son wishes to sell his farm and grist mill. See his ad.

T. F. Peterson was in Clanton Monday.

G. W. Lewis was in town Monday.

G. A. Conville was a Clanton visitor Monday.

G. H. Gerald, of Thorsby, left for the North Friday for a couple of weeks' visit.

I. E. Sarber, the well digger of Thorsby, has moved to Elmore, on a beautiful farm he has bought there, about a quarter of a mile from the depot. Mr. Sarber is still in the well business and expects to drill just as many, if not more, wells in the future than in the past in Chilton county. His machine is at Marbury now.

Judge Reynolds spent Tuesday in Shelby county, speaking to the voters at Saginaw in the evening by special request.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Clyde Atcherson and Miss Sallie Crumpton; J. R. Mims and Miss Lettie Henley.

BEAT ONE.

Editor Union:

Give me a little space in your paper to say a few word in reference to the letter written by Arthur D. Latham charging Felix J. Fitts with having beer and whisky at the baptizing. As soon as I begun to read the letter I thought it a false report started by Democrats, and after I read on down and saw where he said "Hooray for Gulledge and Traywick" I knew it was a Democratic rumor started for the mean purpose of injuring a good and deserving man. We, the people of Chilton county, have not forgot the faithful service Mr. Fitts has always rendered to our cause, and we will not be influenced by any such false reports. Now, Felix, don't you worry about these reports, for the people are with you and for you. Beat 1 is solid for you. You will be the next Sheriff of Chilton county and Middleton will be our Representative, and both by the biggest majority ever, and the same is true of our whole ticket. Yours for the people,
J. M. (DOC) ROBINSON.

CEDAR GROVE.

Mrs. Lulu Mims, who has been in the hospital at Birmingham, has returned, and we are all glad to see her back home. Mrs. R. W. Scott, who has been sick, is better, we are glad to say. We've had so much rain of late that all we study about now is getting our cotton out. Jess. Hayes took advantage of the wet weather to dig him a well. R. W. Littlejohn has moved into the house vacated by Fletcher Parker at Mims Bros.' saw mill. Mr. Editor, you and Judge Reynolds come up and be with us next Friday at our Union meeting. F. A. Gulledge and Tom Traywick were in this section one night last week. They were not asking for votes. They were asking for whisky. Several from here went down to Littlejohn's school house Saturday night to hear our next Representative, Hon. J. O. Middleton, speak. Candidate Gulledge did not show up, but Col. Smith was there and told how Gulledge had backed down at the last moment. Don't that show the white feather? What he had better do now, is to get him a threshing machine and go up to Jemison and canvass for votes. There was preaching here last Sunday by Bro. Lawley. He will preach here next first Sunday and Saturday night before. ONE ALONE.

SALEM BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. W. W. Robinson, pastor. Fourth Sunday and Saturday before. B. H. Glenn, clerk. tf

TAX NOTICE

Tax Assessor's and Collector's First Round.

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes of Chilton County for the year 1906 and assessing the taxes for the year 1907:

	1906.
Mineral Springs, Beat 1	Oct. 11
Flint Hill, Beat 11	Oct. 12
Cane Creek, Beat 4, until 12 m	Oct. 13
Thorsby, Beat 9	Oct. 15
Clanton, Beat 4	Oct. 16
Cooper, Beat 10	Oct. 17
Verbena, Beat 5	Oct. 18

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.
T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.
tf

TAX NOTICE.

Assessor's and Collector's Second Round.

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes of Chilton County for the year 1906 and assessing the taxes for the year 1907:

Kincheon, Beat 6, November 7, 1906.
Enterprise, Beat 6, November 8, 1906.
Pletcher, Beat 8, November 9, 1906.
Clanton Ford, until 12 m., Beat 8 November 10, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 12, 1906.
Valley Creek, Beat 8, November 13, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 14, 1906.
Shoults, Beat 7, November 15, 1906.
Maplesville, Beat 7, November 16, 1906.
Benson, Beat 3, November 17, 1906.
Macedonia, Beat 3, November 19, 1906.
Gentry & Cofer's Mill, Beat 2, November 20, 1906.
Hayes' Mill, Beat 2, November 21, 1906.
Providence, Beat 2, November 22, 1906.
John Killingworth's till 12 m., Beat 2, November 23, 1906.
Jemison, Beat 2, November 24, 1906.
Smith's School House, Beat 1, November 26, 1906.
Mineral Springs, Beat 1, November 27, 1906.
Flint Hill, Beat 11, November 28 1906.
Providence, Beat 10, November 29, 1906.
Corinth Church, Beat 10, November 30, 1906.
Thorsby, Beat 9, December 3, 1906.
Clanton, Beat 4, December 4, 1906.
Cooper, Beat 10, December 5, 1906.
Verbena, Beat 5, December 6, 1906.
Mountain Creek, Beat 5, December 7, 1906.
James Maddox's Mill, Beat 4, December 8, 1906.

When you come to assess your property, bring your deeds, as the last grand jury suggested.

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.
T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

I will be at Clanton the last 10 days in the year, commencing December 20th, 1906. All taxes not paid by January 1st, 1907, will become delinquent. Take notice of above and save extra expense. T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

Notice.

I will not attend to assessment of Tax on last 10 days of year, as such practice has become a nuisance, and the tax payers must meet me at the regular times and places, or become delinquent. L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.

GINNING SFASON 1906-7 We have engaged Joe and Walter Maddox to run and operate our gins for the coming season. We have the best machinery and with these men to operate it, we can guarantee entire satisfaction to those who patronize us. Bring us your cotton.
Respectfully
Chilton Warehouse & M,f,g. Company, tf.

FOR SALE.

30 young cockerels. Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Golden Laced Wyandotts, Buff, Brown and White Leghorns. Prices 50c to $1.50. All birds pure bred and of good quality.

J. B. Downs,
tf Clanton, Ala.

FOR SALE

At all times, high grade hogs and pigs, Berkshire and Poland China, crossed.
M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, Ala.

Fall and Winter Hardware

Heating Stoves, Coal Hods, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Vases, Fire Guards, Window Panes and Putty,

PIPE AND FITTING.

Can secure repairs for machinery from us much cheaper and in less time than from Birmingham or Montgomery. We carry Inspirators, Lubricators, Glass Oil Cups, Check and Globe Valves, Jets, Packing, Rubber Belting and Gandy Stitched Belt, Engine and Cylinder Oil, Axle Oil and Axle Grease.

ROOFING.

We have in stock Galvanized and Iron Roofing, and our price will make this roofing cheaper for you than shingles, and is much easier to put in use.

PAINTS.

The Hammar Paint and Sun Proof Paint are as good as any on the market. We have pure Linseed Oil and Lead, and if you prefer to do your own mixing, we are prepared to furnish you the necessary coloring.

BUILDERS' HARDWARE.

We can save you money on this line. Have a full stock of Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Sash Cord. Call on us for prices before placing your order.

SPIGENER & JONES

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton, Alabama

E. G. Rollins & Co.

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise, Clothing, Shoes and Fancy Groceries.

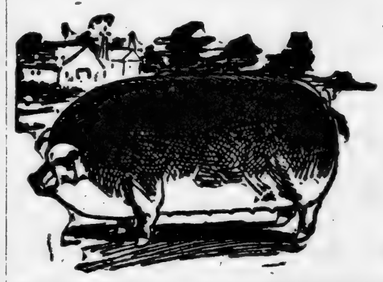
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN FARM.

Barred Plymouth Rocks

PURE BRED

Setting of 15 fresh eggs for 50c. Packing for shipping 10c extra.



PURE BRED

Duroc Jersey Hogs.

Write us for prices before you buy. Address,

W. Y. NIX,
Maplesville, Alabama.

A. A. JACKSON

Lomax, Alabama.

General merchandise, corn, hay, shorts, shoes, men's hats, Ladies hats. Best quality and lowest prices in all goods.

Highest Market Price Paid for Chickens and Eggs

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

THE BIG STORE,

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes, FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton, Alabama

Bank Saloon

CALERA, ALA.

Fine Wines, Whiskies, Brandies, Beer, Cigars and Tobacco

THE BLIND RUSH-SELLER

By EMMA GARRISON JONES.

The quaint, old town of Rouen lay glittering in the early sunlight of an autumn morning, clear, crisp, sparkling, with just a suggestion of winter in its bracing atmosphere. Every spire, and tower, and gable in the old town was aflame with splendor; every sail on the bosom of the Seine seemed touched with unwonted splendor; and the river itself, lapsing in drowsy waves upon its sunny shores, flashed, in every wave and bubble, like molten gold.

A royal morning and a royal day in Rouen. In the newer and more fashionable parts of the town, near the public garden and depot, gay equipages rolled along; and along the Rue de L'Imperatrice, gay ladies sauntered, and fluttered, and gathered in little, chattering bevies, like flocks of bright-plumaged birds. Sounds of stirring music filled the air, snatches of merry song, and bursts of happy laughter. In the older and quainter parts of the town, the voices of the tradespeople were heard crying their different wares. Now a pretty rustic trilled out her posies for sale in silvery notes, and anon a stout fish-woman bawled vociferously over her baskets. At intervals, in a patient, mournful monotone, came the cry, "Rushes, rushes for sale—who'll buy?"

But no one seemed to hear or notice. The busy crowd bustled onward, and the old Rush-Seller stood patiently in the sunlight, lifting his poor, sightless eyes to the glittering sky; while at his side, shy and pitiful as some little, motherless bird, clung his little, half-clad granddaughter. "Rushes, rushes—who'll buy?"

Over and over again the patient cry was repeated; and when the old man grew weary, the little thing at his side took it up and piped it out in her shrill, childish treble.

The morning wore away, and the October sun stood at noontide, flaming down upon the old town in cloudless splendor. The crowds began to disperse, the streets grew quieter. The old man dropped his head upon his breast, and the little child, nestling down at his feet, let her heavy, brown locks fall over her eyes to shut out the blinding glare, and, resting her dimpled cheeks in her little, brown palms, fell into a placid sleep, from which she started ever and anon, and half-unclosing her sleepy, brown eyes, took up the monotonous cry, "Rushes for sale!"

But nobody bought. The noontide waned and the evening shadows began to lengthen. The old man stooped, and, taking the child's hand, called, gently:

"Come, Matihl, we may as well plod homeward, little one, our chances are over for to-day."

The child roused up and started on ahead, leading the old man along the silent, sunny streets, until they reached their humble abode. At the door of the lowly habitation he paused, removing his hat, and turned his face westward, as if even through his sealed eyelids penetrated some sense of the glory and magnificence of the declining day. Just then there came a mellow peal of bells, and the rumbling music of an evening hymn from the grand old cathedral near at hand. Both went down upon their knees for a moment, then arose and entered.

A square, comfortless room, with a small, cheap bed, and a few articles of broken furniture, prominent among which was a huge arm-chair, made of some old-fashioned wood, elaborately carved and cushioned with tattered tapestry, which in its day had been gaudy both in tint and texture. Indeed, the old chair, despite its age and ill usage, was still rather an imposing object, and looked a good deal out of place in the squalid and poverty-stricken abode of the old Rush-Seller.

The old man entered, and, after depositing his bundle of rushes in one corner of the small room, threw himself down in the old chair with a heavy sigh.

"Another day," he murmured, "and not a penny, and the poor child half-famished. The good God pity us!"

In the meantime, little Matihl had crept to the hearth, and, raking open the coals, she sat swaying herself to and fro and whimpering in a babyish way.

"What is it, little one?" called the old man.

"Oh, grandpap! I'm so tired, and so cold, and so very, very hungry. If we only had some supper!"

By a kind of instinct he turned his sightless eyes toward the one window, through whose dingy panes the pomp and splendor of the closing day were visible, and his lips moved silently, as if asking help from some source more compassionate than man.

"Run down to the baker's, Matihl," he said, at last, his voice low and hesitating, as if the resolution pained him, "and ask him to trust me for a loaf. I think I can raise enough to pay him to-morrow."

The child went off like a bird on the wing, her brown hair streaming behind her in dishevelled masses; but in a few moments she returned, drooping and dispirited.

"He wouldn't let me have it, grandpap," she sobbed; "and ordered me out of the shop for a beggar."

The old man made no answer, but leaned his head upon his hand, while the tears fell silently. The weary child soon sobbed herself to sleep. But still he sat there, in the purple twilight, silent, and thinking of the past.

For even this poor, blind Rush-Seller had his happy memories. There had been a day, when he was young and strong, and as gallant a soldier, perhaps, as could be found in Rouen. His father, Piere De Courcy, was a wealthy and reputable citizen, and at his death Jacques had looked forward to the possession of a handsome income. But when that event occurred, he found, to his dismay and astonishment, that his father was a bankrupt. Too proud to remain in Rouen, he wandered off to the south of France. Here his wife died. Here, too, one fine day, when looking at a parade, a piece of artillery exploded, and the poor man was blind for life.

But he still had one blessing left, an only son, who was now growing to manhood. The son married, and of this union the little Matihl was the offspring. When she was a babe in her mother's arms, her father went off to the Austrian wars, and in less than a month fell fatally wounded. His wife, too frail to endure the shock, soon followed her husband, and little Matihl and her blind old grandfather were left alone in the world.

Actuated by that yearning, instinctive love of home, which is as deathless as the soul itself, they wandered back to Rouen. The quaint, old city was unchanged; but its streets were thronged with unfamiliar faces; and led along by his little grandchild, Jacques De Courcy found that he was as utterly unknown and forgotten in his native town as if he had never existed.

Friendless, nameless, and well-nigh penniless, yet too proud of heart to make himself known, he settled down in a humble quarter of the city, and took to selling rushes for a livelihood. A meager subsistence it brought him, but the poor old man could do nothing better; and he must do something, for the paltry sum which had accrued to him from the disposal of his household effects was well-nigh gone.

And one sunny afternoon, strolling along with his little guide, and amusing himself by listening to the idle chat of the bystanders, he chanced upon a small crowd collected around the sale of some old books and second-hand furniture. The auctioneer had just put up an old chair, and was descanting quite volubly upon its rare merits. "It was worth buying," he said, "as a relic, if nothing more. It had belonged to the De Courcies, one of the best families of Rouen in their day, and had been handed down from one to another as a kind of heirloom."

Old Jacques waited to hear no more. He arose, and, groping across to where the old chair stood, fell to passing his hands over its quaint carvings with a kind of caressing fondness. It was the same, the dear old chair in which he had seen his father, and his grandfather before him, sit so often. With tears running down his furrowed cheeks he bought it back, glad to get it, though it took the last sous from his pocket. He had it conveyed to his poor lodgings, and those who noticed, wondered what in the world old Jacques, the Rush-Seller, wanted with the De Courcy chair.

And thus, having spent the last of his little mite of money, he had nothing to fall back upon when his rush-selling failed him; and poor, little Matihl, as we have seen, was forced to go supperless to bed. She awoke in the morning with no prospect of breakfast. Her grandfather, worn out by hunger and anxiety, was still asleep. Noiselessly the little thing unbolted the door, and went out. The day was dawning grandly over quaint, old Rouen. The child went round to the window-ledge to look at her pansies. There were two pretty purple things, with lustrous, golden hearts. An old market-woman had given her the plant, and the child watched and nurtured it with a kind of adoration. Her pansy-pot was the shrine at which she worshiped. Looking at the dewy blossoms, a sudden thought flashed upon her. What if she should break them off and run out and sell them! Surely they would bring enough to buy them some breakfast! But her lips quivered, and tears filled her eyes. It almost broke her heart to give up her pansies. But she was so hungry, and poor grandpa would have no breakfast. At this last thought, she put out her hand resolutely and broke them off; then ran away as fast as she could.

At a corner of the market-place she paused breathless. A fine gentleman was passing by, and, extending the tiny, brown hand that held the blossoms, she said, timidly:

"Will you please, sir, buy my pansies?"

But he pushed on, well-nigh brushing them from her grasp. The next passer was an old country-man, with a wagon filed with milk-cans rattling ahead of him. The child put out her blossoms, and repeated her meek entreaty. The old man paused. His garden was overrun with such things, but the child's little, eager face touched him.

"Buy your pansies?" he said. "Why, bless your poor, little heart, to be sure I will, if you want to sell 'em. What do you want for 'em?"

"Only enough to buy a loaf, sir. We are so hungry, grandpap and I."

The countryman's eyes filled with tears.

"Give me the blossoms," he said. "I'll take 'em home to my little girl; and you come along, you poor, hungry, little bird, and get a drink of fresh milk."

The child followed him eagerly, drinking the milk, and clutched at the wheaten roll he gave her. But before she had swallowed the second mouthful she paused, holding the bread in her hand.

"Why don't you eat?" he said.

"Grandpap," she half sobbed, "he's so hungry, too!"

"Then take this," continued the man, drawing his sleeve across his eyes, "and run home and buy him some breakfast."

He put a silver piece in her hand. She grasped it with dilating eyes.

"The good God reward you!" she murmured, kissing his hands vehemently. Then, before he was aware of her motion, she had disappeared.

"Grandpap! Oh, grandpap! see what I've got," she cried, bursting into the little room a few minutes later; "see what I sold my pansies for. We'll have such a breakfast now, bread and sausage, and——"

But she stopped short, for, in the middle of the room the old man lay prone on his face. She flew to his side, with a startled cry, tossing her silver piece into the old chair.

"Oh, grandpap!" raising his head, "what is it? Speak to me, grandpap!"

The old man slowly roused, and tottered to his feet. His face looked ghastly, he had fasted so long, and he shook with weakness.

"Grandpap," the child continued, "you sha'n't be sick any more; it is because you are hungry—you shall have plenty of breakfast now. I've sold my pansies, and—oh, where is the money? I threw it in the chair when I was so frightened. Oh, it's gone, it's gone. It's slipped down behind the cushion," she said, examining it closely. "May I try to raise the cushion up and find it?"

"Yes; but don't hurt the old chair, Matihl," said the old man, anxiously.

The child ran her little fingers into every crevice, and at last she fell to working vigorously at the huge cushion. It was covered with leather beneath the brocatelle, but it was decayed and rotten, and a few vigorous tugs from her nervous little hands broke it loose with a crash.

"Oh, grandpap!" she cried, starting back in amazement, for, as it yielded, a glittering stream came flashing and tinkling to the floor.

The old man, hearing the sound, crossed over. A sudden light seemed to dawn upon him. He threw up his hands and cried:

"Shut the door, Matihl, and tell me what they are like."

The child obeyed, dropping on her knees before the old chair.

"Here's jewels, grandpap," she said, in an awed whisper, "just like the empress wore when she rode through Rouen that day—whole heaps of 'em, as bright as stars; and great piles of gold, and papers with Jacques De Courcy marked on 'em."

"Put them all back, Matihl," said the old man, quietly; "and then run down to the good abbe's and ask him to come here."

"But our breakfasts, grandpap?" said the child, pausing in the doorway.

"We can afford to wait a little while for that," replied the old man, smiling. "We shall never want for breakfasts any more, little Matihl."

"This is a letter from Piere De Courcy," said the abbe, after a careful examination of the contents of the chair, "telling his only son, Jacques De Courcy, that these treasures were concealed in the chair, in order that, if fortune went against him, he might have something to fall back upon. But the chair seems to have passed from the family. Where can this Jacques De Courcy be?"

"I am the man," said the old Rush-Seller, proudly. "Jacques De Courcy, son of Piere De Courcy, thank God!"

After that morning the market-people missed the old Rush-Seller and his little granddaughter, and, passing the sunny nook where they had stood so long, wondered what had become of them. If they had chanced to pass the ancestral villa, formerly occupied by the De Courcies, they would have found them. The old man sitting in his garden, and little Matihl tending her roses and pansies that grew along its borders, the happiest pair that could be found in the quiet, sunny, old city.—Good Literature.

Some Ancient Advertising.

Recent Egyptian explorations have resulted in the discovery of certain papyri, which prove to us that advertising is not as modern as it is supposed to be, and that the art of exploiting their wares found favor with the world's ancients. In King's College, London, there has lately been exhibited a fragment which is believed to be a part of the Gnomai of Epicharmus, although it is credited by some to Axiopistus, which contains an announcement that, for a consideration, "phrases for use on friend or foe, when speaking in court or in the assembly, on a rascal, a gentleman, a stranger, a bully, a drunkard or a boor, may be obtained." Since Epicharmus flourished between 540 and 450 B. C., it will probably be news to the "originators" of modern advertisement writing to learn that the seductive art in which they claim perfection was, apparently, countenanced almost twenty-five hundred years ago.—Wall Street Summary.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY BISHOP JOHN J. TIGERT

Subject: The God of Grace.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Union services of the First Reformed, the Grace M. E. Church, the Memorial Presbyterian and the Sixth Avenue Baptist were held in the last-named church. Sunday morning the preacher was Bishop John J. Tigert, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, who was elected to the bishopric in May last, at which time he was the editor of the Southern Christian Advocate. The bishop is a vigorous and lively preacher of the old-time Methodist order. His subject was "The God of Grace," and he took for his text the passage, II Corinthians, iv:6: "For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ." He said:

The great lesson that lies on the surface of this text is that the God of creation is also the God of grace and salvation. If you and I should think about it superficially we should be inclined to believe that the God who built the universe is a greater God than the One who saved the soul, but therein would lie a radical mistake. Many a man of great wealth and resources has found it easier to build a palace than to frame the life of a son, and many a man so situated would give all he ever earned in order that he might have a boy after his own liking. The Czar found it easier to accumulate resources, including men and material, for the war against Japan than he is finding it to pacify the people of Russia today. The more we think about it the more we shall be compelled to believe that every problem involving the government of moral matters is more difficult than the fashioning of material things. For the element of freedom enters into the former proposal; and wherever we are dealing with those who are free we cannot count on the result as we can when dealing with forces that are fixed. The free and the fixed—these are two realms, but the God of the fixed is also the God of the free; and the God of creation is also the God of revelation and grace and the salvation of the human soul: "For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts to give the light of knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ." Now there is certainly in this phrase as express reminiscence of the first chapter of Genesis: "God said, Let there be light: and there was light." It is very easy for us to imagine the annihilation of the world. I can conceive the sun to be blotted out; the moon and the stars no longer to shine; the foundations of the earth removed. But after I shall have imagined this I shall find that there is a void, eternal, infinite, that by no effort of thought can I annihilate. It may be nothing, and yet I cannot conceive it as if it were nothing. If I think a little more closely about it I am obliged to conceive this void as absolutely dark. That is to say, light is a positive entity; darkness is nothing. The removal of the source of light brings darkness, and since in this darkness there is no source of light it must be altogether dark. Now, just as darkness is the absence of light, so cold is the complete absence of heat. Everything, even ice, possesses a little heat; we cannot imagine what infinite cold is. Yet this void, eternal, infinite, is at once completely cold. Again, silence is the absence of sound. Silence does not require any absolute cause; in order to create silence in this house I have but to cease talking. Once more: This void cold, silent, dark, is also dead. Did you ever think about it? Death is nothing. You will never meet death, for while you are death is not, and while death is you are not. And so you and death can never come face to face. What terror you have of the gave is born of a false imagination. The horrors that creep over us and constitute physical fear of death are the imposition of imagination because we conceive of ourselves as being sensitive; as feeling the cold, damp cold of the grave, overwhelmed by its darkness. But death is only absence of life. Fix these four conceptions upon your mind for the sake of the lesson to follow: Silence is the absence of sound; Darkness is the absence of light; Cold is the absence of heat; Death is the absence of life.

Now, it was in these circumstances—this void, eternal, infinite, silent, cold, dead, that the voice of the Almighty was heard, breaking the silence of eternity, flinging the light out into this infinite and eternal void, and saying "Let there be light; and there was light." And Paul says that very God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, "hath shined in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of God in the face of Jesus Christ." I believe in depravity, in total depravity. That is to say, I believe the natural heart is totally dark and cold and silent and dead. That babe born into the world is a mere lump of flesh through which the blood is coursing; in which the sinews and bones and muscles are forming. It is the possibility of a man. It must be built up into a man. It must "attain unto the fullness of the stature of manhood in Christ Jesus." It requires God to handle the situation; to illuminate that natural darkness; to impart spiritual light and heat and life. It requires God to break the silence of nature. After all, this depravity arises from deprivation. It is not that there was any injection of a moral poison into the system by the hand of the Almighty. The human heart is not a foul pool sending up a stench. Depravity is pre-eminently a deprivation. It does not involve guilt. It involves a beginning. It is that it may be made a habitation of God through the Spirit of God. The God who commands the light to shine out of darkness shines in those dark, sad, cold, dead hearts of ours, and shows to us the beauties of religion and exhibits His matchless grace in the gift of His Son, in order that we may see "the light of the knowledge of the true knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ." Now there is a depravity that is not negative. It would be the greatest boon granted to many a man if past sin was easily shaken off; but there is not a single act of your life that has not left its deposit in your character. Although, on the authority of Huxley, the human body is completely renewed every twelve months, yet the old scars remain as a perpetual memorial. So, deep down in your moral nature, there is the record of your first lie, first impure thought and all that has blasted your life from then until now. It takes the power of God to break that bondage and it is only through Jesus Christ that you and I can shake off the awful incubus of the past.

There are vast differences in the forms and degrees of sin, and there are vast differences between becoming a Christian in early life, in advanced life and in old age. If you have not already become a Christian the practical thing is to begin now. There is no moment so absolutely sane and solid, so certain or altogether utilizable, as the present. There will never be another moment so golden as the moment you are allowing to slip away. The longer the devil has you in his grasp the more deadly the grip becomes and the severer will be the struggle required to secure your freedom in Christ Jesus. If I were an unsaved man, before all other duties I would assert the supreme duty of saving my soul. The supreme duty of life is to shake ourselves clear of the domination of sin by the help of Almighty God. But you say everybody does not see it that way. It was so in the apostle's day, and here in the context it gives the reason, "If our gospel is hid it is hid in them that are lost." Do you call a blind man to give testimony of the beauties of an electrical display? The devil has constructed many kinds of veils to blind the eyes of men. These are the veils of selfishness, worldliness, pride of life, the lust of the flesh, avarice and many others, to pull over the human heart. My friends, there is no more fatal mistake than to belittle and underestimate the task of the religious life and what has to be done in order that a human soul may be recreated in the likeness of God. It is a task of infinite delicacy, requiring divine power and wisdom and one which, if accomplished, ends in glories as eternal as the throne of God. Thank God that if we get the victory the victory is one that shall become greater and greater, certain and more certain in the midst of all this conflict we wage in this world with the enemy of our souls. I was not brought up to believe in the doctrine of "final perseverance," but I honor the doctrine and those who believe in it, but since the day when I first experienced the joy of sins forgiven I have been a fairly good soldier of Jesus Christ, and sometimes, in my middle age I experience a joy so satisfying that I can scarcely contain myself. That joy seems to be grounded upon this hope: that I am going to win the last fight and obtain the final victory; that I am in an enemy's land and assaulted by a powerful foe who hates me with diabolical hatred and would ruin me when I am setting my feet on the footsteps of the throne; that, by God's grace, I am going to win and celebrate the victory within the gates and at the footstool of Him who sits upon the throne. God grant that against all our spiritual foes we may "fight the good fight of faith and lay hold on eternal life!"

An Unsafe Investment.

It is not considered a good business transaction to invest all one's capital in a single venture. Yet so does every one who "layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God."

Two business men met. One said to the other: "Have you heard the sad news?" "No; what is it?" "Our neighbor, B——, is dead." "Ah! Is is so? How much did he leave?" "All."

Practically that story is as old as the race. No one of us brought anything into the world, and it is certain that no one of us can take anything out. We all leave all earthly possessions. Not every rich man is rich toward God, else our Saviour would never have uttered the parable of the rich fool. We know what the man said to his soul, but it would be worth a good deal to know also what the soul would have said to the man. —Rev. G. B. F. Hallock, D. D.

The Law That Gives Liberty.

The one and only law of life that sets a man free from all the forces that blight and destroy is the will of God. Show me a man who lives for one day wholly in word and thought and deed in the will of God and I will show you a man who is antedating heaven, and who for that day reaches the plane of life which is at once broadest, freest and gladdest.—Campbell Morgan.

Many Like This Well.

Some Christians are like the well of a man I know. The well is all right, with two exceptions—it freezes up in winter, and dries up in summer. —Moody.

Detailed for Cuban Service.

Tampa.—The government steamer Pickering, which is used between this city and DeSoto, at the mouth of the harbor, has been detailed from the service and is being prepared for use as a dispatch boat in Cuban waters.

Postoffice Appointments.

Washington, D. C.—John M. Minter appointed postmaster at Eleanor, Dallas county, vice R. H. Tuck, removed. Benton M. Hankins appointed regular and James W. Duck substitute carrier, route 2, at Covin.

On the Beach.

"Skinnyman is so thin he always has to wear a checked suit."

"How's that?"

"Why, if he wore stripes, he'd fall out between the bars."—Detroit Free Press.

THE SUNDAY

INTERNATIONAL ... MENTS FOR OCT...

Subject: The Ten Virg...

1-13—Golden Te...

13—Topic: ...

False Profession

I. The waiting virgins.

1. "Then ... At the ... Lord (Matt. 24:42-44) ... dom of heaven. The ... dom, or the state of ... visible church partic... acter, conduct and ... subjects of that kingdom ... ened." The parable of ... gins is based upon the ... toms of the East to w... lusions occur in Scrip... virgins." Ten as a ... sents completeness and ... represent the purity of ... church. The ten virgins ... merely a part of the ... whole of it. Took ... Each had a lamp, ... individuality, preparation, ... ence of others. The ... the outward profession. ... "The bridegroom." The ... means the Lord Jesus ... all who are making ... His coming may be said ... forth to meet Him.

2. "Were wise. The ... ing to be attended to ... ment; they were ... prepared. "Foolish." ... ligent. The visible ... on earth consists of ... false, members spiritually ... others spiritually alive ... their lamps." We ... note the contrast in the ... foolish the taking of the ... everything, but in the ... wise it is the taking of ... vessels. The foolish are ... sented as being vain ... less, looking only at ... and only in haste going for ... excited feelings. "Took ... them." The oil represents ... or love of God in the ... virgins represent a class ... Christians who make a ... religion, but who ... which worketh by love.

4. "Took oil." The ... vessel with oil to pour ... when necessary. The ... was not the lamp or ... Spirit, the spiritual life ... must have a lamp to ... Let us be careful not ... forms of religion. ... The Bridegroom tar ... who is come for the ... from "the far country" ... above. "Slumbered and ... time passed by the virgins ... represents merely the ... during which time the ... is fully prepared for ... the heavenly Bridegroom.

II. The coming of the ... (vs. 6-9).

6. "At midnight." The ... dings were generally ... night; yet they usually ... rising of the evening ... case there was a more ... delay. This was the ... for the virgins to obtain ... needed. The bride... Though Christ tarry ... come at last. "Go to ... Him." Here is a ... does this mean? It ... to receive the reward ... doings. 7. "All—arose ... something terrible in ... the foolish, they are ... that their fate is ... "Trimmed." The lamps ... burning, but they need ... and replenishing.

8. "Give us." They ... realize their serious ... are going out" (R. V.) ... that their lamps had ... Many who once have ... filled with faith and ... lowed a worldly spirit ... session of them, and ... entirely backslidden ... "lamps" have gone out ... enough." It was impos... der any assistance ... could tell them what ... was now too late ... sell." To God. "Pe... They must save ... Nothing short of perfect ... sufficient.

III. The shutting ... 10-13). While they ... What a dismal thing ... cover the emptiness of ... all that is good, and ... be saved. God only ... are thus deceived. ... ready." Those who ... who not only had ... godliness, but who ... holiness. The death ... place for repentance ... riage feast" (R. V.) ... glorified; to be in ... presence. "Door was ... comes a period after ... impossible. 11. "Open ... last prayer, when ... to much good, but ... his parable that there ... time when prayer ... be too late!

12. "I know you ... an estrangement of ... ites them from the ... 13. "Watch." ... alert; watch with ... gence. "Day nor the ... time is uncertain; we ... be ready and waiting ... and then we shall not ... surprise. "Wherein ... in the Revised Version.

The religion that ... good for common ... the pit.

Climbs Mt. ...

Dr. Frederick A. ... lyn, has reached the ... McKinley, which, ... feet above the Pacific ... lieves to be the highest ... North American ... Cook's feat is parallel ... as this is the first ascent ... tain on record and ... failures.

The meat packers ... Chicago organized a ... ive association.

N WHO CHARM

THE FIRST ESSENTIAL

...men to Win and Hold ...ration, Respect and Love greatest gift is the power to ...iration, respect, and love. ...beauty in health which is ...tive to men than mere regu...ature.

Chas. F. Brown

successful wife, to retain the ...dmiration of her husband, ...a woman's constant study. ...st indication of ill-health, ...r irregular periods, head...backache, secure Lydia E. ... Vegetable Compound and ...ee.

...s. F. Brown, Vice-President ...Club, 21 Cedar Terrace, Hot ...rk., writes:

...Pinkham:—

...years I dragged through a miser... ...e, suffering with inflammation ...weakness and worn out with ...orrhœa. I one day noticed a state... ...woman suffering as I was, but who ...ed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg... ...pound, and I determined to try it. ...of three months I was a different ...Every one remarked about it, and ...d fell in love with me all over ...dia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com... ...up my entire system, cured the ...d I felt like a new woman. I am ...ll make every suffering woman ...l and happy, as it has me."

...who are troubled with pain... ...regular periods, backache, ...(or flatulence), displacements, ...tion or ulceration, that "bear... ...feeling, dizziness, faintness, ...m, or nervous prostration ...restored to perfect health ...gth by taking Lydia E. ...'s Vegetable Compound.

...ositions GUARANTEED BY A ...000 BANK DEPOSIT

R. R. Fare Paid. Notes Taken. 500 FREE COURSES. Board at Cost. Write Quick.

...ABAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

...ess has been devised whereby ...ed for the blast in blast fur... ...dried by refrigeration before ...A practical application of the ...is being made at the Isabella ...near Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. ...imed that a saving of twenty ...in the fuel is made by the ...of the moisture from the air ...d.

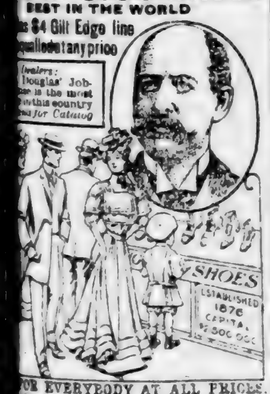
...ny had 2,406 strikes last year

HICKS' CAPUDINE IMMEDIATELY CURES HEADACHES Breaks up COLDS IN 6 TO 12 HOURS Trial Bottle 10c. At Druggists

L. DOUGLAS $3.00 & $3.00 Shoes BEST IN THE WORLD

...s $4 Gilt Edge line ...nsurpassed at any price

...dealers; Douglas' Job... ...line is the most ...in this country ...ss for Catalog



...SHOES ESTABLISHED 1876 CAPITAL $1,000,000

...OR EVERYBODY AT ALL PRICES. ...Boys' Shoes, $2 to $2.50. ...Women's Shoes, $4.00 to $1.50. ...'s Children's Shoes, $2.25 to $1.00. ...L. Douglas Women's, Misses and ...en's shoes for style, fit and wear ...they excel other makes. ...ould take you into my large ...es at Brockton, Mass., and show ...carefully W. L. Douglas shoes ...e, you would then understand ...y hold their shape, fit better, ...nger, and are of greater value ...y other make. ...er you live, you can obtain W. L. ...shoes. His name and price is stamped ...ttom, which protects you against high ...d interior shoes. Take no substitute ...k your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes ...upon having them. ...Express used: they will not wear brassy. ...for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles. ...DOUGLAS, Dept. 15, Brockton, Mass.

Dropsy CURED Given On Quick Relief.

...Removes all swelling in 24 to 36 ...hours; effects a permanent cure ...in 10 to 30 days. Trial treatment ...given free. Notice, positively no ...Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, ...Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

Reduced Rates.

...ingham and return, Home-Com... ...week via Queen and Crescent ...Tickets on sale October 14th ...with return limit October 21st. ...ge of extension to November 21st. ...een & Crescent ticket agents for ...ars.

Am. 41, 1906.

...NTED Address of (1) persons of part ...Italian blood who are not liv... ...ing with the tribe, (2) of men ...ave served in the Federal army, or (3) the ...NATHAN ROCKFORD, Washington, D. C.

...Persia Tree... We have limited sales. Send ...Co-Operative Nursery Co., Ogden, S. C.

THE SUNDAY

(INTERNATIONAL ... MENTS FOR OCTO...

Subject: The Ten Virgins. ...
1-13—Golden Text, ...
13—Topic: Guard...
False Profession.

I. The waiting virgins ...
1. "Then." At the co... Lord (Matt. 24:42-44). ... dom of heaven." The ... dom, or the state of th... visible church, particularly ... acter, conduct and condi... subjects of that kingdom ... ened." The parable of ... gins is based upon the ... toms of the East, to whi... lusions occur in Scrip... virgins." Ten as a sy... sents completeness, and ... represent the purity of th... church. The ten virgins ... merely a part of the chur... whole of it. "Took ... Each had a lamp, "whi... individuality, preparation ... ence of others." The l... the outward profession ... means the Lord Jesus ... all who are making pro... His coming may be said ... forth to meet Him.

2. "Were wise." The... ing to be attended to at ... ment; they were prudent ... prepared. "Foolish." Ca... ligent. The visible church ... on earth consists of bo... false, members spiritually ... others spiritually alive. ... their lamps." We must ... note the contrast: In the ... foolish the taking of the ... everything, but in the c... wise it is the taking of ... vessels. The foolish are ... sented as being vain and ... less looking only at ... and only in haste going for ... excited feelings. "Took ... them." The oil represents ... or love of God in the he... virgins represent a class ... Christians who make a pr... religion, but who lack ... which worketh by love.

4. "Took oil." The ... vessel with oil to pour in ... when necessary. The d... was not the lamp, but t... Spirit, the spiritual life; ... must have a lamp to h... Let us be careful not to ... forms of religion. 5. ... The Bridegroom far awa... who is come for the ma... from "the far country" ... above. "Slumbered and ... time passed by the virg... represents merely the w... during which time the tr... is fully prepared for th... the heavenly Bridegroom ...

II. The coming of the ... (vs. 6-9).

6. "At midnight." The ... dings were generally cele... night, yet they usually ... rising of the evening star ... case there was a more t... delay. This was the mo... for the virgins to obtain ... needed. "The bridegroo... Though Christ tarry lo... come at last. "Go ye ... Him." Here is a summ... does this mean? It mea... to receive the recompe... doings. 7. "All—arose ... something terrible in th... the foolish; they are ... that their fate is al... "Trimmed." The lamp ... burning, but they need ... and replenishing.

8. "Give us." They ... realize their serious ... are going out" (R. V.) ... that their lamps had ... Many who once have ... filled with faith and ... lowed a worldly spirit ... session of them, and ... entirely backslidden fro... "lamps" have gone out ... enough." It was impo... for any assistance. "C... could tell them what ... was now too late. "... sell." To God. "For ... They must have oil o... Nothing short of perso... sufficient.

III. The shutting of ... 10-13). "While they ... What a dismal thing it ... over the emptiness of ... all that is good, until it ... be saved. God only kno... are thus deceived. "R... ready." Those who w... who not only had a ... spotliness, but who p... holiness. The death ... place for repentance. ... "Supper" feast" (R. V.) ... glorified; to be in H... presence. "Door was ... comes a period after w... impossible. 11. "Ope... last prayer, when used ... too much good, but it ... his parable that there ... time when prayer even ... be too late!

12. "I know you ... an estrangement of he... ates them from the Sa... 13. "Watch." "Ke... alert; watch with the ... gence. "Day nor the ... time is uncertain; we ... be ready and waiting ... and then we shall not ... surprise. "Wherein," ... in the Revised Version ...

The religion that ma... good for common pe... the pit.

Climbs Mt. M...

Dr. Frederick A. C... lyn, has reached the s... McKinley, which, tr... feet above the Pacific ... lieved to be the highe... North American ... Cook's feat is partic... as this is the first ascen... tain on record and fo... failures.

The meat packers ... Chicago organized a ... ive association.

...N WHO CHARM

...S THE FIRST ESSENTIAL

...Women to Win and Hold ...ration, Respect and Love

...generates in her the power to ...ration, respect, and love. ...s health which is ... than mere regu...ture.

Mrs. Chas F. Brown

...cessful wife to retain the ...ration of her husband, ...a woman's constant study. ...indication of ill-health, ...r irregular periods, head...backache, secure Lydia E. ...Vegetable Compound and ...

...F. Brown, Vice-President ...gh, 21 Cedar Terrace, Hot ... writes:

...Pinkham:—

...years I dragged through a miser... ...suffering with inflammation ...weakness and worn out with ...ness. One day noticed a state... ...woman suffering as I was, but who ...ed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg... ...und and I determined to try it, ...d three months I was a different ...Every one remarked about it, and ...fell in love with me all over ...E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com... ...my entire system, cured the ...I felt like a new woman. I am ...make every suffering woman ...and happy as it has me."

...who are troubled with pain... ...regular periods, backache, ...flatulence), displacements, ...ation or ulceration, that "bear... ...feeling, dizziness, faintness, ...or nervous prostration ...restored to perfect health ...ough by taking Lydia E. ...Vegetable Compound.

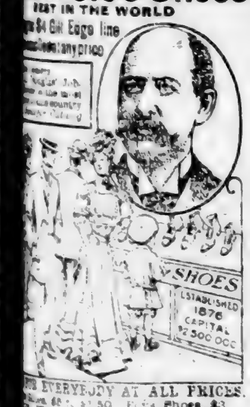
...sitions GUARANTEED BY A ...000 BANK DEPOSIT
R.R. Fare Paid. Notes Taken
500 FREE COURSES
Board at Cost. Write Quick
...AHAMA BUSINESS COLLEGE, Macon, Ga.

...has been devised whereby ...ce for the blast in blast fur... ...dried by refrigeration before ...a practical application of the ...being made at the Isabella ...near Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. ...that a saving of twenty ...in the fuel is made by the ...of the moisture from the air ...

...and 2.4% strikes last year.

HICKS' CAPUDINE
IMMEDIATELY CURES
HEADACHES
Breaks up COLDS
IN 6 TO 12 HOURS
Trial Bottle 10c. At Druggists

L. DOUGLAS
$3.50 & $3.00 Shoes
BEST IN THE WORLD
...$4 Gilt Edge line ...any price



...SHOES ESTABLISHED 1876 CAPITAL $2,500,000
...EVERYBODY AT ALL PRICES.
...Shoes, $3.50, $4.00 to $1.50.
...Shoes, $3.00 to $1.00.
...Douglas Women's, Misses and ...shoes for style, fit and wear ...excel other makes.
...take you into my large ...Brockton, Mass., and show ...carefully W. L. Douglas shoes ...you would then understand ...hold their shape, fit better, ...er, and are of greater value ...other make.
...you live, you can obtain W. L. ...Name and price is stamped ...which protects you against high ...shoes. Take no substi... ...your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes ...from having them.
...Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles. ...DOUGLAS, Dept. 15, Brockton, Mass.

Dropsy CURED Gives Quick Relief.
...all swelling in 8 to 20 ...effects, permanent cure ...Treatment ...Book of testimonials free. ...Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, ...Specialists, Box B, Atlanta, Ga.

...Reduced Rates. ...and return, Home-Com... ...via Queen and Crescent ...tickets on sale October 14th ...with return limit October 21st. ...of sellers on to November 21st. ...& Crescent ticket agents for ...rates.

WANTED ...Address of (1) persons of rural ...(2) persons who are not in... ...to engage in live, (3) of men ...the Patent Office, or (4) the ...of patents, now ...Washington, D. C.

...Nurserymen. Send ...Descriptive Nursery Co., Olga, N. C.

The Eskimo Canoe.

It is in Greenland that the hunting ability of the Eskimo reaches its highest development. He has a fine mechanical skill. Bones, ivory, stones, a little driftwood, skins and the sinew of the reindeer are the materials from which he must make his boat and weapons. There is nothing else. Says a Greenland traveler: "Of these the Eskimo builds a canoe, its frame of bones and driftwood, its covering of translucent sealskin sewed together with sinew. This kayak is decked over, except for a hole in the middle framed with a wooden ring. The Eskimo wriggles into his hole, his legs extended into the fore part of the boat.

"Round his waist there is a cylinder of sealskin, the lower edge of which draws over the wooden ring and is pulled tight with a thong, making all water-tight to the armpits. For heavy weather the cylinder is part of a skin shirt with a hood. Strings tighten this hood to the face and cuffs to the wrists, while a pair of long-sleeved mitts protect hands and arms.

"So rigged a good man can turn his canoe bottom upward and right himself again with sliding strokes of his paddle, for he is as waterproof as a duck. Moreover, his vessel is so flexible that it is almost safe from being crushed in the ice drift and, being limber, is extremely swift when propelled by the double-ended paddle.

"On the other hand, the vessel is so cranky that only about two-thirds of the native men have nerve and balance enough to hunt. Only three or four Danes in all Greenland have dared use a kayak."—New York Evening Post.

The last South Australia vintage yielded 2,655,947 gallons.

HANDS RAW WITH ECZEMA.

Suffered For Ten Years—Spread to Body and Limbs—Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

"I had eczema on my hands for ten years. At first it would break out only in winter. Then it finally came to stay. I had three good doctors to do all they could, but none of them did any good. I then used one box of Cuticura Ointment and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and was completely cured. My hands were raw all over, inside and out, and the eczema was spreading all over my body and limbs. Before I had used one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, together with the Ointment, my sores were nearly healed over, and by the time I had used the third bottle I was entirely well. I had a good appetite and was fleshier than I ever was. To any one who has any skin or blood disease I would honestly advise them to get the Cuticura Remedies, and get well quicker than all the doctors in the State could cure you. Mrs. M. E. Falin, Speers Ferry, Va., May 19, 1905."

Simple Remedies.

For bee and wasp stings, carbolic acid, soda or ammonia.

For poison ivy, a solution of baking soda or a weak solution of lead. Mackerel brine from the kit in the farm cellar or tomato from the vines will also be found effectual.

For burns, a dressing of saturated soda or equal parts of linseed oil and lime water, vaseline, sweet oil, butter—any bland oil—but on no account glycerin, which is irritating.

For sunburn, cloths wet in saturated soda and soft powders, like flour, laundry starch or cornstarch, dusted on.

For slivers, a fine needle. If too deep in the flesh to be reached by ordinary means, fill a rather wide-mouthed bottle two-thirds full of boiling water and hold the injured spot close over the opening. The suction draws the flesh down and a little additional pressure will take out the splinter.

For a bruise the best treatment is an immediate application of hot fomentations. After that witch hazel, vinegar, and hot water, or alcohol and water, put on with a bandage and often moistened.

TIRED BACKS.

The kidneys have a great work to do in keeping the blood pure. When they get out of order it causes backache, headaches, dizziness, languor and distressing urinary troubles. Keep the kidneys well and all these sufferings will be saved you. Mrs. S. A. Moore, proprietor of a restaurant at Waterville, Me., says: "Before using Doan's Kidney Pills I suffered everything from kidney troubles for a year and a half. I had pain in the back and head, and almost continuous aching in the loins and felt weary all the time. A few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills brought great relief, and I kept on taking them until in a short time I was cured. I think Doan's Kidney Pills are wonderful."

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Discriminating Chemical.

A chemical weed killer has been developed or tested by the Wisconsin experiment station in attempts to kill wild mustard mustard, cockle burr, yellow dock, etc. The peculiar thing claimed for this poison is that when sprayed on a growing grain crop infested by weeds it kills the weeks without injury to the cultivated crop. The solution used consists of 100 pounds of iron sulphate disolved in fifty-four gallons of water, which amount will spray an acre.—Farm and Ranch.

Verdict for Dr. Pierce

AGAINST THE

Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boots on," and no doubt hundreds of thousands of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1904) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the slanderous and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of woman's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit against the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal, for $200,000.00 damages.

Dr. Pierce alleged that Mr. Bok, the editor, maliciously published the article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business; furthermore, that no alcohol, or other injurious, or habit-forming, drugs are, or ever were, contained in his "Favorite Prescription"; that said medicine is made from native medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatever; and that Mr. Bok's malicious statements were wholly and absolutely false.

In the retraction printed by said Journal they were forced to acknowledge that they had obtained analyses of "Favorite Prescription," from eminent chemists, all of whom certified that it did not contain alcohol or any of the alleged harmful drugs.

These facts were also proven in the trial of the action in the Supreme Court. But the business of Dr. Pierce was greatly injured by the publication of the libelous article with its great display headings, while hundreds of thousands who read the wickedly defamatory article never saw the humble groveling retraction, set in small type and made as inconspicuous as possible. The matter was, however brought before a jury in the Supreme Court of New York State which promptly rendered a verdict in the Doctor's favor. Thus his traducers came to grief and their base slanders were refuted.

Spoiled a New One.

There was a slightly injured look on Mrs. Compton's face, and her husband hoped that his sister, who had been passing the day, had not attempted to give his wife advice about domestic affairs.

"Did you have a good time with Mildred?" he ventured at last.

"Oh, yes, very nice," and Mrs. Compton sighed. "We shopped together this morning, and this afternoon we went to the organ recital. It sprinkled when we came out, and I had to lend Mildred my umbrella," with a second sigh.

"Well, she'll return it all right," said Mr. Compton, slightly flushed at his wife's tone. "Mildred isn't the forgetful kind."

"It's not that, Henry," said Mrs. Compton, hastily. "It's only that it poured before Mildred got home, long before she could have, and it was my new umbrella. You know how a person feels about a new umbrella, Henry."

TYNER'S DYSPEPSIA REMEDY.

Many Have Dyspepsia and Don't Know It—Read Symptoms—Money Back if It Fails to Cure.

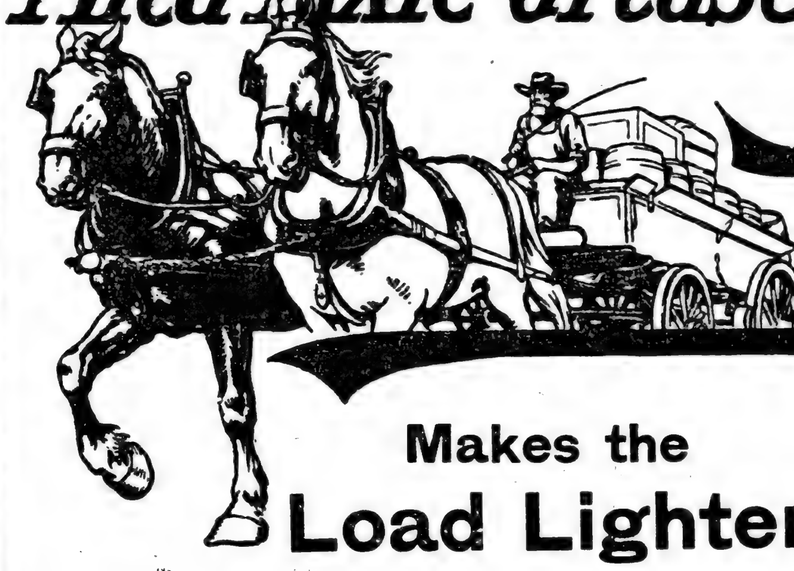
Dyspepsia in any form, gas belching, bitter taste, bad breath, dizzy spells, sour stomach, heart flutter, nervousness, specks or haze before the eyes, vomity feeling, pains in stomach, side or back, and all other symptoms of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy strengthens weak stomachs, stops colic and headache in 5 minutes. Heals canker sores, cures Catarrhal Dyspepsia with Hawking, Spitting, Coughing, also Kidney and Liver trouble, all of which arise from a weak stomach. Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy composed of pure ingredients; no poisonous drugs used. Safe cure and the best remedy for all diseases arising from stomach troubles. Druggists, or sent by express for 50c. Book, "Key to Health," Free by writing Tyner Dyspepsia Remedy Co., Augusta, Ga.

The Wizard of Flowers.

The man who was so-called was Anthony Cook, who died in Baltimore recently at the age of ninety. He was born in Germany, where his father was a florist to a royal family. He claimed to have introduced the geranium into the United States, bringing it from his old home, and to have propagated the American Beauty rose. While he loved all flowers, his favorite was the rose, and its cultivation was a specialty in which he accumulated a considerable fortune. He raised about six thousand rose plants a year, and sometimes grafted as many as 16,000 buds in a single season. In good years, when the rose plants flourished, he cut between 50,000 and 60,000 blossoms. With his vast knowledge of flowers, Mr. Cook not only grafted bud with bud, but was cognizant of the sexes, and hybridized them. It was in this manner, according to him, that he propagated the American Beauty. It was his story that he first raised the flower under the name of the Apoliona and under that name sold it to a woman enthusiast of Washington. A florist there finally secured an interest, and exported the rose to England, from which country it returned to its native land under its present name.—American Cultivator.

There are 125,000 Mormons in England.

Mica Axle Grease



Makes the Load Lighter

An ounce of grease is sometimes the only difference between profit and loss on a day's teaming. You know you can't afford a dry axle—do you know as well that Mica Axle Grease is the only lubricant you can afford? Mica Axle Grease is the most economical lubricant, because it alone possesses high lubricating property, great adhesive power, and long-wearing quality. Hence, the longest profitable use of your outfit is to be had only when the lubricant is Mica Axle Grease.

Mica Axle Grease contains powdered mica. This forms a smooth hard surface on the axle, and reduces friction, while a specially prepared mineral grease forms an effective cushioning body between axle and box. Mica Axle Grease wears best and longest—one greasing does for a week's teaming. Mica Axle Grease saves horse power—consequently saves feed. Mica Axle Grease is the best lubricant in the world—use it and draw a double load. If your dealer does not keep Mica Axle Grease we will tell you one who does.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c. package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Unionville, Missouri

NEVER TAKE POISON YOURSELF

And remember you have no right to give it to your WIFE AND LITTLE ONES

When you ask for medicine be sure that you take it pure and free from DANGER. In asking you to use OXIDINE in your home we do so because we know it will CURE CHILLS and FEVERS, BAD COLDS and LA GRIPPE, and because there never has been, there is not now, and there never will be the slightest particle of poison in it. If anyone tells you that this statement is untrue, point your finger to OUR GUARANTEE. We make this guarantee unconditional and open

TO THE WORLD

OUR GUARANTEE We will give $1,000.00 IN GOLD to any chemist in the world who finds any ARSENIC, MORPHINE, STRYCHNINE or other poisonous drugs in OXIDINE

Not only do we give the above guarantee as to its being free from Poison, but we go further and guarantee that

OXIDINE

WILL CURE YOU OR YOUR FAMILY OF

CHILLS, FEVERS, MALARIA, BAD COLDS AND LA GRIPPE

And if it fails to cure you your druggists give you back your money; in other words, OXIDINE is pure, contains no poison, and there is a GUARANTEE TO CURE that goes with every bottle.

MADE IN REGULAR AND TASTELESS FORM
50c Per Bottle to All
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS AND EVERY BOTTLE GUARANTEED

Manufactured by
PATTON-WORSHAM DRUG CO.
DALLAS, TEXAS, AND MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE

OXIDINE, THE CHILL CURE THAT CURES CHILLS

Love Will Find a Way.

A new record in elopements was set today when a loving couple escaped from a third-story window. The elopers came from Marengo, a small town near here, the girl being Miss Ruth Wilson and the man giving his name as L. S. Cummings of New York. They were stopped by the police and Miss Wilson spent the night in a third-story room of the St. James' Hotel. Cummings remained up all night playing cards, and when Miss Wilson rang for water at 5 o'clock in the morning he was allowed to take it up to her. He did not return, and when the officer searched the hotel he found his prisoners had flown.—Iowa City Special to Chicago Record-Herald.

When a fortnight old the oyster is not much larger than the head of a pin.

A Novel Dog Market.

The Vienna Fancy Dog Club has established a novel dog market. Persons with dogs for sale are invited to send the animals to the clubrooms every Wednesday, where they will be exhibited. Each animal will be examined by a veterinary surgeon, and also appraised by experts. Purchasers can therefore be assured that the dogs are quite free from disease and also worth the price demanded. And all this service will be performed entirely free of charge; neither buyer nor seller will be asked to contribute a penny. The club will bear all the expenses, as its only object in instituting the market is to promote the breding and traffic in dogs of good race.

The Australian mound bird builds the biggest nest in the world.

The first book containing musical characters was issued in 1495.

There are no paupers in the Gold Coast Colony.

H. H. GREEN'S SONS, of Atlanta, Ga., are the only successful Dropsy Specialists in the world. See their liberal offer in advertisement in another column of this paper.

Four thousand acres of cedar trees are annually used for pencils.

The ancient Chinese and Japanese did not count by the weeks.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle.

Pasco, in Peru, is the highest town in the world.

New York's postal income is $17,000,000.

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed

To Cure, or Money Refunded by Your Merchant. So. Why Not Try IT? Price, 50c, Retail.

"BING CLOTHES"

Are the Clothes for Men and Boys

Do you know that you can buy here Ready-to-Wear Clothes that no tailor can make for less than nearly double the price we ask?

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for fall is now complete; the styles are decided and we are showing absolutely correct styles. New Jackets, new Skirts, new Dress Goods, new Waist Goods, new Hats, new Shirts, new Neckwear. A complete line of Star Brand Shoes.

"Star Brand Shoes are Better"

Also a complete line of hardware, cooking stoves, harness, saddlery and Florence wagons. Come to see us before you buy elsewhere.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, :-: :-: Alabama.

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE.

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Buchan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Imported Jack "LIJE"

Fee $8.00, Insured

Stands for service at his owners', JOHN THAMES, ½ mile East of Rocky Mount Church, Beat 1.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Probate Court.

In pursuance of the directions and terms of a commission, dated the 2d day of October, 1906, issued to the undersigned by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said county, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder, for cash, at public auction,

ON THE 25TH DAY OF OCTOBER 1906,

between the hours of 11 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., at the court house door in Clanton, Alabama, the following described property:

Northwest quarter of northeast quarter, section 31; southwest quarter of southeast quarter of southwest quarter, and twelve acres in southwest quarter of southwest quarter, and southwest quarter of southeast quarter, less six acres, section 30, all in township 21, range 11, containing 96 acres, more or less, situated in Chilton county, Alabama; which said property is to be sold under the order of said Probate Court, for the purpose of division and partition between the several joint owners thereof, viz.: J. R. Lovelady, Susan Lovelady, W. D. Lovelady, J. M. Lovelady, Bedie Hamrick, Sallie Carter, Mattie Smith and Lessie McFarland.

This October 2d, 1906.

SAM W. COLLINS,
Commissioner.

10-4-06-3wks

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Under and by virtue of an order and decree of the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton county, rendered on Monday, the 24th day of September, 1906, I, Wallace C. Edler, was appointed and directed, as Commissioner, to sell at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the court house door of Chilton county, Alabama, on

MONDAY, THE 29TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1906,

during the hours of legal sale, the following described land, to-wit:

All that part of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter lying west of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, in section 1, township 21, range 14, containing 35 acres, more or less; and the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter, and the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter, except about four acres formerly deeded to L. H. Stewart, on the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter, section 2, township 21, range 14; also fourteen acres in the northwest quarter of the west half of the southwest quarter, section 1, township 21, range 14, bounded as follows, to-wit: Commencing at the northwest corner of the southwest quarter, section 1, township 21, range fourteen, and running thence south 348 yards; thence east 178 yards thence north 348 yards to a point 198 yards east from the point of beginning, thence 198 yards back to the point of beginning. And beginning at the southwest corner of the "Pritchett lot," situated in the south half of the northwest quarter of section 1, township 21, range 14 east, and running thence south 6 degrees 45 minutes west 11 chains and 90 links to a post; thence east 20 chains and 17 links to the right of way of the Louisville and Nashville railroad; thence north 23 degrees 30 minutes west along said right of way to southeast corner of said "Pritchett lot"; thence west along the west line of said lot 13 chains and 5 links to place of beginning, containing twenty and 6-100 acres, all in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of an equitable division among the following named joint owners thereof: W. M. Wilson, Marvin H. Wilson, Charlie L. Wilson and Will S. Wilson.

WALLACE C. EDLER,
Commissioner.

10-4-06-3wks.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Chancery Court. Seventh District, Northeastern Division. In Vacation 1906.

Rosa Lee Holloman, Complainant, vs. Ocie Holloman, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by affidavit on file of J. Osmond Middleton, counsel for complainant, that the defendant, Ocie Holloman, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and that his residence is unknown to affiant; and further, that in the belief of said affiant, the defendant, Ocie Holloman, is over the age of 21 years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Union, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Ocie Hollomon, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of compiaint in the above cause on or before the 2d day of November, 1906, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 2d day of October, 1906.

S. A. STEWART,
Register in Chancery.

10-4-06-tf

In French Vineyards.

Over 2,000,000 persons are employed in grape culture in France.

What we want from our poets, preachers and play-writers are new reasons for living the old life, avers Life.

AMERICAN BALLOON WINS

Lieut. F. P. Lahm Semi-Officially Deciared the Victor.

Santos-Dumont Hurt—Seven of Fifteen Competitors Who Started From Paris Reached England.

Paris.—The Aero Club semi-officially announced that Lieutenant Frank P. Lahm, of the Sixth United States Cavalry, one of the American contestants, was the victor in the first competition for the James Gordon Bennett Cup for international aeronauts. Signor Vonwiller, of Italy, with the Elf, was second, and Count de la Vaulx, of France, third. The race was started when fifteen balloons, representing seven countries, sailed away from the Tuileries Gardens in Paris. Seven of them reached England.

The performance of Lahm and Hersey in the balloon United States in reaching fifteen miles north of Scarborough, England, is the best record attained by any one of the fifteen starters. The members of the Aero Club are inclined to believe that the United States was only prevented from proceeding further because a current of air again threatened to carry it out over the North Sea, with no apparent prospect, unless the direction of the wind changed, of finding land before making the coast of Norway.

Lieutenant Lahm descended about one mile inland at Desmene Farm, Flyingdale. He said he had been carried by way of Caen across the channel to Chichester. The actual crossing took from 11 o'clock at night until 3 in the morning. He then passed to the northward, but finding that he was being carried toward the open sea he decided to alight. Owing to the dryness of the moors his anchors at first would not hold, and the balloon passed dangerously near some farm building. The balloon was in the air for twenty-three hours. Lieutenant Lahm is an instructor in cavalry practice at West Point, and with M. Santos-Dumont represented the Aero Club of America in the balloon contest. Mr. Frank Lahm, father of Lieutenant Lahm, was to have sailed in the balloon United States, but the Lieutenant replaced his father. Lieutenant Lahm's balloon has a capacity of 2000 cubic meters. Mr. Lahm, Sr., although he has lived in Paris for many years, where he is recognized as one of the leading merchants, is an American by birth.

In the meantime, news of an accident to Santos-Dumont aroused general sympathy, the Brazilian being very popular here, but his subsequent arrival at the Aero Club with one arm bandaged relieved the tension regarding the seriousness of his mishap. He explained that the sleeve of his coat caught in the mechanism while oiling the motor of his balloon, the flesh of his arm being torn. Later the arm became numb and stiff with the cold, and he had to descend to have the wound dressed.

MOBILE STRUCK BY HURRICANE.

Many Persons Killed and $8,000,000 Damages Done.

Mobile, Ala.—With 125 lives lost and property damaged to the extent of $8,000,000 in this city and its vicinity, the Gulf storm which raged for thirty-six hours has left behind a devastated section which it will take a long time to rebuild. Although in Mobile proper only the re-establishment of telegraph, telephone and railroad communication is needed to resume business on nearly a normal basis, it will be months before the residents of the outlying sections along Mobile Bay will be able to repair the damage done by the storm.

Pensacola, Fla.—The entire water front here is a mass of tangled wreckage. The big bridge of the Louisville & Nashville road, spanning Escambia Bay, was demolished, and trains eastward were stopped. Officials of the road believe, however, that the foundations of the bridge are intact and the work of rebuilding will start at once. Almost every house in the city was damaged in the storm, and it will be several days before the city even begins to emerge from the confusion.

THREE WOMEN KILLED.

Collision Between Two Trains on the Pennsylvania Railway.

Eddington, Pa.—Airbrakes went wrong on two fast trains of the Pennsylvania Railroad about the same time. The result was that a fast New York-Philadelphia express went smashing into the rear end of a stalled Long Branch "shore train," near this station. Three women were killed and twenty-eight others were more or less badly hurt.

The dead are: Mrs. W. H. Connell, forty years old, unidentified except by trip pass between Philadelphia and Trenton; Mary Cronin, 3511 Darien street, Philadelphia, internal injuries, died in a Philadelphia hospital; Mary A. O'Malley, sixty years old, identified by a Philadelphia savings bank account as the wife of a trainman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

W. J. Conners Chairman.

William J. Conners was chosen Chairman of the New York Democratic State Committee with but one dissenting voice.

KILLS GENERAL AT COURT.

Assassin Shot Down While Attempting Second Murder.

Askabad, Russia.—During the trial of the second section of the troops who mutinied here in June an unknown man entered the court room and killed the Judge Advocate, General Kinkevich, and attempted to shoot the president of the court, General Ushakoffsky. The assassin was shot down by an officer.

Thorsby, Alaba

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. HORN
LICENSED PHARMACIST.
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

Thorsby Winery Co.
Lofthus & Brunberg, Props.

Thorsby Real Est
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, P
G. H. GERALD, Sec
G. C. MICHELSON, T

OLAF SCH
Watchmaker & Je
FRANZEN, ▪ Sum
Full line of watches
etc. Repair work gua

A. Langville &
Blacksmith and Horseshoe
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BU

P. C. SMIT
Brown Leghorn Fow
Eggs.
BERKSHIRE P

The Thorsby
G. C. Michelson, P
Good Beds and M

J. J. Stan
General Merchan

MRS. MARY R. RA
General Merchan

J. BICE
Charcoal Ov

The London Lancet, that staid and stately organ of the British medical profession, has done two bold and startling things, announces the New York Press. It has championed the much-abused cigarette and attacked the decorated bridal cake. The cigarette it extols as the most benign form of tobacco, a real benefit to the human race, the "magic wand that far beyond to-day can conjure up to-morrow." But the bridal cake, with its frostings of cupids and wreaths and roses and love-knots is a hideous thing, filled with microbes blown thereon by pastry cooks, and spreads disease among the human race. Verily, this is a pulling down of the mighty from their seats and an exalting of them of low degree with a vengeance.

TO FARMERS.

As county business manager for the F. E. and C. U. of A., I have been to the two banks in Clanton to ascertain on what terms they will loan money on cotton to those who wish to hold their cotton in the warehouse. The Clanton Bank will loan 75 per cent, and the People's Savings Bank 65 per cent, of the value of the cotton on the date of the loan, this loan to bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent.

J. W. SORRELS,
Bus. Manager Chilton Co. F. E. and C. U. of A. tf

STRAYED OR STOLEN.

From near my residence on June 25, one iron gray mare colt, one year old; one iron gray horse colt, with star on face, and scar on left hind leg above hock, one and a half years old. Any information leading to their recovery will be liberally rewarded.

C. C. MARTIN,
tf Calera, Ala., Rte 1.

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 acres in cultivation. All in Sec. 6 T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles S. W. of Clanton. Good dwelling house and out buildings and 3 good tenant houses. Good and lasting well of water. This good farming land will be sold at a bargain. Call and see,

tf J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. No.

CONGREGATIONAL H.

Fort Payne, Ala., Sept
Editor Union:

I purpose to visit chur
Clanton conference as fol
Fourth Sunday, Septembe
tain Springs church, of Cl morning; Shady Grove chu
bena, at night.

Fifth Sunday, September
ston.

First Sunday, October 7,
in the morning; Marbury
Second Sunday, October
Grove church, of Deatsv
morning; South Calera at
Yours truly,

tf A. T.

BUSINESS PROPO

The best whiskey country is here don't believe it, try J. M. COLLI
Palace Saloon, Cal

JOHN W. HAR
Jemison, Al

Photographer. D
all grades of e
Frames made to Work done at y
home by appointme

Thorsby In
—Opens—
SEPTEMBER 17th
A Strong Corps of T

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Cla
Languages, E
nomics, Musi
etc.

PREPARES FOR COLL
Prepares thos
go no higher.
for all. Allow zation.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped to date in ev

EXPENSES:
Tuition low
the needy of girl in Alabam

Particulars Address:
W. J. Lamkie, Ph.
Thorsby, A

T

VOL IV.

Public Sp

The people are hereby
at the following places
Thorsby, Thursday, Nov
Enterprise (Beat 6), Fri
Mt. Creek (Beat 5), Friday, N
Clanton, Saturday, Nov
A division of time is
Ex-Congressman M.
eminent speakers will Come and hear the
of the people.

ABAMA GLEANINGS.

...e of Interest Gathered as ...y Transpire Over the Entire State.

Bucket Shops Win Out.

...ingham, Ala.—Judge Feagin, of ...erior criminal court, in the case ...H. Cothran and other managers ...e brokerage houses, who have ... contesting the validity of the ...ity ordinance excluding all forms ...e brokerage houses from operat... Birmingham, rendered a decis... favor of the brokers. The case ...ubmitted on an agreed statemen... ...ts. The exchange men contended ...the city had no power to restrain ...al business which the supreme ... of the United States had held ... It is said that the city attorney ...decided as to whether he will ap... ...from Judge Feagin's decision or ...to get an adequate law passed by ...ext legislature.

Depot Caught Fire.

...tumpka, Ala.—What might have ...a disastrous fire if it had not ...discovered in time occurred at ...depot. ...ere were several hundred bales of ..., as well as a number of barrels ...in, on the platform awaiting cars ...shipment. In some manner fire ... out in this cotton near the rosin, ...was making considerable headway ... discovered. Several bales of the ...n and a barrel of rosin was afire. ...fire had not burned its way ...gh the barrel to the rosin when ...vered, which fortunately prevent... ...serious conflagration.

Tendered to Smith.

...ma, Ala.—The chairmanship of ...campaign committee of the demo... ...e party of Alabama has been ten... ...d to J. Craig Smith by Chairman ...ory, of the state committee. Mr. ...ory returned to Selma Saturday ... Montgomery; where Friday night, ...a telephone conference with Mr. ...er, he offered the campaign chair... ...hip to Mr. Smith, who it is known ...r. Comer's son-in-law.

Reunion at Richmond.

...bile, Ala.—Gen. William E. Mickle ...tant-general, makes official an... ...cement that the seventeenth an... ...reunion of the United Confederate ...rans will be held in the city of ...mond, Va., on the 30th and 31st ...y and the 1st, 2nd and 3d of June. ...local committees, composed of the ... influential citizens, are already ...rk, and they promise that this ...on shall far surpass all heretofore

Building Bonded Warehouse.

...catur, Ala.—The Farmers' Union ...commence work at once on a large ...n bonded warehouse at Hartselle, ...teen miles south of this city. The ...ding will be of concrete and will ...$7,000. It will be used for the ...ers to store their cotton in. Farm... ...unions have been organized all ... this portion of the state. The ...ers are of the opinion that by or... ...zing they can control the price of ...on.

Hill's Houses Burn.

...dden, Ala.—Two houses of State ...erintendent of Education Hill, on ...th Sixth street, were destroyed by ... and two others were badly dam... ... The loss was about $3,000 and ...partly covered by insurance. The ...pants of the houses lost consider... ... household goods. A stiff wind ...blowing at the time, and this, with ...poor water pressure made the work ...the firemen very difficult.

French Parliament Convenes.

...ris.—An official decree convoking ...ament in extra session on Octo... ...25 has been issued.

Eight-Hour Law Applies.

...shington, D. C.—In response to ...quest from the secretary of the ...terior the attorney-general has pre... ...d an opinion, holding that the ...-hour law applies to work in con... ...ion with the irrigation and recla... ...n service.

"BING CLOTHES"

Are the Clothes for Men and Boys

Do you know that you can buy here Ready-to-Wear Clothes that no tailor can make for less than nearly double the price we ask?

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for fall is now complete; the styles are decided and we are showing absolutely correct styles. New Jackets, new Skirts, new Dress Goods, new Waist Goods, new Hats, new Shirts, new Neckwear. A complete line of Star Brand Shoes.

"Star Brand Shoes are Better"

Also a complete line of hardware, cooking stoves, harness, saddlery and Florence wagons. Come to see us before you buy elsewhere.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, :-: :-: Alabama.

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE.

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Buchan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	85	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	1 00	1 50
S. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 00	1 25
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	50	75
Old Shades Mountain Corn	75	1 00
Old Mountain Due Corn	65	1 00
Old Lincoln County	50	75
Old Holland Gin	75	1 00
Old Crown Gin	50	75
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Imported Jack "LIJE"

Fee $8.00, Insured

Stands for service at his owners', JOHN THAMES, 3 mile East of Rocky Mount Church, Beat 1.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County
Probate Court.

In pursuance of the directions and terms of a commission, dated the 2d day of October, 1906, issued to the undersigned by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said county, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder, for cash, at public auction,

ON THE 25TH DAY OF OCTOBER 1906,

between the hours of 11 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., at the court house door in Clanton, Alabama, the following described property:

Northwest quarter of northeast quarter, section 31; southwest quarter of southeast quarter of southwest quarter, and twelve acres in southwest quarter of southwest quarter, and southwest quarter of southeast quarter, less six acres, section 30, all in township 21, range 11, containing 96 acres, more or less, situated in Chilton county, Alabama; which said property is to be sold under the order of said Probate Court, for the purpose of division and partition between the several joint owners thereof, viz.: J. R. Lovelady, Susan Lovelady, W. D. Lovelady, J. M. Lovelady, Bedie Hamrick, Sallie Carter, Mattie Smith and Lessie McFarland.

This October 2d, 1906.

SAM W. COLLINS,
10-4-06-3wks Commissioner.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Under and by virtue of an order and decree of the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton county, rendered on Monday, the 24th day of September, 1906, I, Wallace C. Edler, was appointed and directed, as Commissioner, to sell at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the court house door of Chilton county, Alabama, on

MONDAY, THE 29TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1906,

during the hours of legal sale, the following described land, to-wit:

All that part of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter lying west of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, in section 1, township 21, range 14, containing 35 acres, more or less; and the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter, and the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter, except about four acres formerly deeded to L. H. Stewart, on the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter, section 2, township 21, range 14; also fourteen acres in the northwest quarter of the west half of the southwest quarter, section 1, township 21, range 14, bounded as follows, to-wit: Commencing at the northwest corner of the southwest quarter, section 1, township 21, range fourteen, and running thence south 348 yards; thence east 178 yards, thence north 348 yards to a point 198 yards east from the point of beginning, thence 198 yards back to the point of beginning. And beginning at the southwest corner of the "Pritchett lot," situated in the south half of the northwest quarter of section 1, township 21, range 14 east, and running thence south 6 degrees 45 minutes west 11 chains and 90 links to a post; thence east 20 chains and 17 links to the right of way of the Louisville and Nashville railroad; thence north 23 degrees 30 minutes west along said right of way to southeast corner of said "Pritchett lot"; thence west along the west line of said lot 13 chains and 5 links to place of beginning, containing twenty and 6-100 acres, all in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of an equitable division among the following named joint owners thereof: W. M. Wilson, Marvin H. Wilson, Charlie L. Wilson and Will S. Wilson.

WALLACE C. EDLER,
10-4-06-3wks. Commissioner.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Chancery Court. Seventh District, Northeastern Division. In Vacation 1906.

Rosa Lee Holloman, Complainant, vs. Ocie Holloman, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by affidavit on file of J. Osmond Middleton, counsel for complainant, that the defendant, Ocie Holloman, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and that his residence is unknown to affiant; and further, that in the belief of said affiant, the defendant, Ocie Holloman, is over the age of 21 years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Union, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Ocie Holloman, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 2d day of November, 1906, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 2d day of October, 1906.

S. A. STEWART,
10-4-06-tf Register in Chancery.

In French Vineyards.

Over 2,000,000 persons are employed in grape culture in France.

What we want from our poets, preachers and play-writers are new reasons for living the old life, avers Life.

AMERICAN BALLOON WINS

Lieut. F. P. Lahm Semi-Officially Declared the Victor.

Santos-Dumont Hurt—Seven of Fifteen Competitors Who Started From Paris Reached England.

Paris.—The Aero Club semi-officially announced that Lieutenant Frank P. Lahm, of the Sixth United States Cavalry, one of the American contestants, was the victor in the first competition for the James Gordon Bennett Cup for international aeronauts. Signor Vonwiller, of Italy, with the Elf, was second, and Count de la Vaulx, of France, third. The race was started when fifteen balloons, representing seven countries, sailed away from the Tuileries Gardens in Paris. Seven of them reached England.

The performance of Lahm and Hersey in the balloon United States in reaching fifteen miles north of Scarborough, England, is the best record attained by any one of the fifteen starters. The members of the Aero Club are inclined to believe that the United States was only prevented from proceeding further because a current of air again threatened to carry it out over the North Sea, with no apparent prospect, unless the direction of the wind changed, of finding land before making the coast of Norway.

Lieutenant Lahm descended about one mile inland at Desmene Farm, Flyingdale. He said he had been carried by way of Caen across the channel to Chichester. The actual crossing took from 11 o'clock at night until 3 in the morning. He then passed to the northward, but finding that he was being carried toward the open sea he decided to alight. Owing to the dryness of the moors his anchors at first would not hold, and the balloon passed dangerously near some farm building. The balloon was in the air for twenty-three hours. Lieutenant Lahm is an instructor in cavalry practice at West Point, and with M. Santos-Dumont represented the Aero Club of America in the balloon contest. Mr. Frank Lahm, father of Lieutenant Lahm, was to have sailed in the balloon United States, but the Lieutenant replaced his father. Lieutenant Lahm's balloon has a capacity of 2000 cubic meters. Mr. Lahm, Sr., although he has lived in Paris for many years, where he is recognized as one of the leading merchants, is an American by birth.

In the meantime, news of an accident to Santos-Dumont aroused general sympathy, the Brazilian being very popular here, but his subsequent arrival at the Aero Club with one arm bandaged relieved the tension regarding the seriousness of his mishap. He explained that the sleeve of his coat caught in the mechanism while oiling the motor of his balloon, the flesh of his arm being torn. Later the arm became numb and stiff with the cold, and he had to descend to have the wound dressed.

MOBILE STRUCK BY HURRICANE.

Many Persons Killed and $8,000,000 Damages Done.

Mobile, Ala.—With 125 lives lost and property damaged to the extent of $8,000,000 in this city and its vicinity, the Gulf storm which raged for thirty-six hours has left behind a devastated section which it will take a long time to rebuild. Although in Mobile proper only the re-establishment of telegraph, telephone and railroad communication is needed to resume business on nearly a normal basis, it will be months before the residents of the outlying sections along Mobile Bay will be able to repair the damage done by the storm.

Pensacola, Fla.—The entire water front here is a mass of tangled wreckage. The big bridge of the Louisville & Nashville road, spanning Escambia Bay, was demolished, and trains eastward were stopped. Officials of the road believe, however, that the foundations of the bridge are intact and the work of rebuilding will start at once. Almost every house in the city was damaged in the storm, and it will be several days before the city even begins to emerge from the confusion.

THREE WOMEN KILLED.

Collision Between Two Trains on the Pennsylvania Railway.

Eddington, Pa.—Airbrakes went wrong on two fast trains of the Pennsylvania Railroad about the same time. The result was that a fast New York-Philadelphia express went smashing into the rear end of a stalled Long Branch "shore train," near this station. Three women were killed and twenty-eight others were more or less badly hurt.

The dead are: Mrs. W. H. Connell, forty years old, unidentified except by trip pass between Philadelphia and Trenton; Mary Cronin, 3511 Darien street, Philadelphia, internal injuries, died in a Philadelphia hospital; Mary A. O'Malley, sixty years old, identified by a Philadelphia savings bank account as the wife of a trainman in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

W. J. Conners Chairman.

William J. Conners was chosen Chairman of the New York Democratic State Committee with but one dissenting voice.

KILLS GENERAL AT COURT.

Assassin Shot Down While Attempting Second Murder.

Askabad, Russia.—During the trial of the second section of the troops who mutinied here in June an unknown man entered the court room and killed the Judge Advocate, General Kinkevich, and attempted to shoot the president of the court, General Ushakoffsky. The assassin was shot down by an officer.

Thorsby, Alaba

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. HORN
LICENSED PHARMACIST.
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

Thorsby Winery Co.
Lofthus & Brunberg, Props.

Thorsby Real Est
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, P
G. H. GERALD, Sec.
G. C. MICHELSON, T

OLAF SCH
Watchmaker & Je
FRANZEN,
Full line of watches
etc. Repair work gua

A. Langville &
Blacksmith and Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BU

P. C. SMIT
Brown Leghorn Fow
Eggs.
BERKSHIRE P

The Thorsby
G. C. Michelson,
Good Beds and M

J. J. Stan
General Mercha

MRS. MARY R. RA
General Mercha

J. BICE
Charcoal Ov

The London Lancet, that staid and stately organ of the British medical profession, has done two bold and startling things, announces the New York Press. It has championed the much-abused cigarette and attacked the decorated bridal cake. The cigarette it extols as the most benign form of tobacco, a real benefit to the human race, the "magic wand that far beyond to-day can conjure up to-morrow." But the bridal cake, with its frostings of cupids and wreaths and roses and love-knots is a hideous thing, filled with microbes blown thereon by pastry cooks, and spreads disease among the human race. Verily, this is a pulling down of the mighty from their seats and an exalting of them of low degree with a vengeance.

TO FARMERS.

As county business manager for the F. E. and C. U. of A., I have been to the two banks in Clanton to ascertain on what terms they will loan money on cotton to those who wish to hold their cotton in the warehouse. The Clanton Bank will loan 75 per cent, and the People's Savings Bank 65 per cent, of the value of the cotton on the date of the loan, this loan to bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent.

J. W. SORRELS,
Bus. Manager Chilton Co. F. E. and C. U. of A. tf

STRAYED OR STOLEN.

From near my residence on June 25, one iron gray mare colt, one year old; one iron gray horse colt, with star on face, and scar on left hind leg above hock, one and a half years old. Any information leading to their recovery will be liberally rewarded.

C. C. MARTIN,
tf Calera, Ala., Rte 1.

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 acres in cultivation. All in Sec. 6 T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles S. W. of Clanton. Good dwelling house and out buildings and 3 good tenant houses. Good and lasting well of water. This good farming land will be sold at a bargain. Call and see,

tf J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. No.

CONGREGATIONAL H.

Fort Payne, Ala., Sept.
Editor Union:

I purpose to visit chur
Clanton conference as fo
Fourth Sunday, Septem
tain Springs church, of Cha morning; Shady Grove chu
bena, at night.

Fifth Sunday, September
ston.

First Sunday, October 7,
in the morning; Marbury
Second Sunday, October
Grove church, of Deatsv
morning; South Calera at
Yours truly.

tf A. T.

BUSINESS PROPO

The best whiskey country is here don't believe it, try J. M. COLLIN Palace Saloon, Cal

JOHN W. HAR

Jemison, Al

Photographer. D all grades of e Frames made to Work done at y home by appointme

Thorsby In

—Opens—

SEPTEMBER 17t

A Strong Corps of T

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Clas Languages, E nomics, Mus etc.

PREPARES FOR COLL
Prepares thos go no higher. for all. Allow zation.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped to date in e

EXPENSES:
Tuition low the needs of girl in Alabam

Particulars Address:
W. J. Lamkie, Ph. Thorsby,

T

VOL IV.

Public Sp

The people are hereby
at the following places
Thorsby, Thursday, No
Enterprise (Beat 6), Fri
Mt. Creek (Beat 5), Friday, N
Clanton, Saturday, Novembe
A division of time is Ex-Congressman M. W. eminent speakers will be Come and hear the
of the people.

ABAMA GLEANINGS.

of Interest Gathered as ey Transpire Over the Entire State.

Bucket Shops Win Out.

mingham, Ala.—Judge Feagin of perior criminal court, in the case H. Cothran and other managers re brokerage houses, who have contesting the validity of the ity ordinance excluding all forms re brokerage houses from operat Birmingham, rendered a decis favor of the brokers. The case ubmitted on an agreed statement ts. The exchange men contended the city had no power to restrain l business which the supreme of the United States had held It is said that the city attorney decided as to whether he will ap from Judge Feagin's decision or to get an adequate law passed by ext legislature.

Depot Caught Fire.

tumpka, Ala.—What might have a disastrous fire if it had not discovered in time occurred at epot.

ere were several hundred bales of n, as well as a number of barrels ia, on the platform awaiting cars hipment. In some manner fire out in this cotton near the rosin, was making considerable headway discovered. Several bales of the n and a barrel of rosin was afire. fire had not burned its way gh the barrel to the rosin when vered, which fortunately prevent serious conflagration.

Tendered to Smith.

ma, Ala.—The chairmanship of ampaign committee of the democ party of Alabama has been ten to J. Craig Smith by Chairman ry, of the state committee. Mr. ry returned to Selma Saturday Montgomery, where Friday night, a telephone conference with Mr. e, he offered the campaign chairhip to Mr. Smith, who it is known Comer's son-in-law.

Reunion at Richmond.

bile, Ala.—Gen. William E. Mickle tant-general, makes official anncement that the seventeenth an reunion of the United Confederate rans will be held in the city of mond, Va., on the 30th and 31st ay and the 1st, 2nd and 3d of June. local committees, composed of the influential citizens, are already ork, and they promise that this ion shall far surpass all heretofore

Building Bonded Warehouse.

catur, Ala.—The Farmers' Union commence work at once on a large n bonded warehouse at Hartselle, teen miles south of this city. The ding will be of concrete and will $7,000. It will be used for the ers to store their cotton in. Farmunions have been organized all this portion of the state. The ers are of the opinion that by ocding they can control the price of n.

Hill's Houses Burn.

aden, Ala.—Two houses of State erintendent of Education Hill, on h Sixth street, were destroyed by and two others were badly dam The loss was about $3,000 and partly covered by insurance. The pants of the houses lost consider household goods. A stiff wind blowing at the time, and this, with poor water pressure made the work e firemen very difficult.

French Parliament Convenes.

ris.—An official decree convoking ament in extra session on Octo 25 has been issued.

Eight-Hour Law Applies.

shington, D. C.—In response to quest from the secretary of the or the attorney-general has pre d an opinion, holding that the hour law applies to work in con ion with the irrigation and recla ion service.

Alaban
Directory.
Thorsby Real Estat
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, P
G. H. GERALD, SEC.
G. C. MICHELSON, T
OLAF SCHT
Watchmaker & Jewel
FRANZEN, BUIL
Full line of watches j
etc. Repair work guar
A. Langville &
Blacksmith and
Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BUG
P. C. SMIT
Brown Leghorn Fow
Eggs.
BERKSHIRE P
The Thorsby
G. C. Michelson, P
Good Beds and Me
J. J. Stanl
General Merchan
MRS. MARY R. RAS
General Merchan
J. BICE
Charcoal Ove

CONGREGATIONAL H. M.

Fort Payne, Ala., Sept.
Editor Union:
I purpose to visit church
Clanton conference as follo
Fourth Sunday, September
Twin Springs church, of Clan morning; Shady Grove chur
bena, at night.
Fifth Sunday, September 30
ston.
First Sunday, October 7, I in the morning; Marbury at
Second Sunday, October
Grove church, of Deatsville
morning; South Calera at
Yours truly,
tf A. T. C

BUSINESS PROPOS
The best whiskey
country is here.
don't believe it, try
J. M. COLLIN
Palace Saloon, Cale
JOHN W. HARE
Jemison, Ala
Photographer. D
all grades of en
Frames made to Work done at yo
home by appointme
Thorsby Ins
—Opens—
SEPTEMBER 17th
A Strong Corps of Te
CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Classi
Languages, Mu
nomics, Music,
etc.
PREPARES FOR COLLE
Prepares them
go no higher.
for all. Allows
sation.
BUILDINGS:
Well equipped,
to date in every
EXPENSES:
Tuition low
the needs of
girl in Alabama
Particulars Address:
W. J. Lamkin, Ph.
Thorsby, A

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL, SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL IV. CLANTON, ALA., OCTOBER 18 1906 NO. 30

Public Speaking.

The people are hereby invited to come out and attend public speaking at the following places and dates:
[illegible] Thursday, November 1, 7 p. m.
[illegible] Beat 6, Friday, November 2, 10 a. m.
[illegible] Beat 5, Friday, November 2, 7 p. m.
Clanton, Saturday, November 3, 10 a. m.
A [illegible] time is hereby offered to the opposition.
Congressman M. W. Howard, Judge A. P. Longshore and other [illegible] will be on hand.
Come and hear the issues of the day presented as they affect the interests of the people.
There will be music.
Ladies are especially invited.
PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

ALABAMA GLEANINGS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

Bucket Shops Win Out.

Birmingham, Ala.—Judge Feagin, of the criminal court, in the case of G. Cothran and other managers of bucket shop brokerage houses, who have been contesting the validity of the city ordinance excluding all forms of brokerage houses from operating in Birmingham, rendered a decision in favor of the brokers. The case was submitted on an agreed statement of facts. The exchange men contended that the city had no power to restrain a legal business which the supreme court of the United States had held legal. It is said that the city attorney has decided as to whether he will appeal from Judge Feagin's decision or try to get an adequate law passed by the next legislature.

Depot Caught Fire.

Wetumpka, Ala.—What might have been a disastrous fire if it had not been discovered in time occurred at the depot. There were several hundred bales of cotton, as well as a number of barrels of rosin, on the platform awaiting cars for shipment. In some manner fire got out in this cotton near the rosin, and was making considerable headway when discovered. Several bales of the cotton and a barrel of rosin was afire. The fire had not burned its way through the barrel to the rosin when discovered, which fortunately prevented a serious conflagration.

Tendered to Smith.

Selma, Ala.—The chairmanship of the campaign committee of the democratic party of Alabama has been tendered to J. Craig Smith by Chairman Taylor, of the state committee. Mr. Smith returned to Selma Saturday from Montgomery, where Friday night, over a telephone conference with Mr. Taylor, he offered the campaign chairmanship to Mr. Smith, who it is known is Mr. Comer's son-in-law.

Reunion at Richmond.

Wetumpka, Ala.—Gen. William E. Mickle, adjutant-general, makes official announcement that the seventeenth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans will be held in the city of Richmond, Va., on the 30th and 31st of May and the 1st, 2nd and 3d of June. The local committees, composed of the most influential citizens, are already at work, and they promise that this reunion shall far surpass all heretofore held.

Building Bonded Warehouse.

Decatur, Ala.—The Farmers' Union will commence work at once on a large cotton bonded warehouse at Hartselle, fifteen miles south of this city. The building will be of concrete and will cost $12,000. It will be used for the farmers to store their cotton in. Farmers' unions have been organized all over this portion of the state. The farmers are of the opinion that by organizing they can control the price of cotton.

Hill's Houses Burn.

Camden, Ala.—Two houses of State Superintendent of Education Hill, on South Sixth street, were destroyed by fire and two others were badly damaged. The loss was about $3,000 and was partly covered by insurance. The contents of the houses lost considerable household goods. A stiff wind was blowing at the time, and this, with poor water pressure made the work of the firemen very difficult.

French Parliament Convenes.

Paris.—An official decree convoking parliament in extra session on October 25 has been issued.

Eight-Hour Law Applies.

Washington, D. C.—In response to a request from the secretary of the interior the attorney-general has prepared an opinion, holding that the eight-hour law applies to work in connection with the irrigation and reclamation service.

New Corporations.

Montgomery, Ala.—A certificate of incorporation was filed with the secretary of state by the Osment Grocery Company, of West End, Birmingham. The new company begins operations with a capitalization of $2,500, the incorporators being C. E. Osment, Mary O. Osment and J. Milton Osment.

The Muscle Shoals Hydro-Electric Power Company, the $1,000,000 corporation formed in Montgomery for the purpose of developing the water power of the Tennessee river, filed its certificate of incorporation with the secretary of state. The names appended to the papers as incorporators included Frank S. Washburn, Charles H. Baker, William H. Lindsay, J. W. Worthington and Massey Wilson.

Court at Greensboro.

Greensboro, Ala.—The fall term of the Hale county circuit court convened here Monday, with Judge Coleman, of Birmingham, presiding, Judge Miller having exchanged circuits with Judge Coleman.

Judge Coleman gave a specially strong charge to the grand jury. Solicitor Thompson was at his post. The civil docket being docket of, Judge Coleman returned to Birmingham, after many a cordial greeting from friends here in his old home.

Judge Miller will take up the criminal docket next week.

Money for Lauderdale Schools.

Florence, Ala.—The Lauderdale county board of education finished its labors and adjourned after apportioning $13,000 among the schools of the county, $1,200 more than last year. Of this sum $11,241.06 goes to the country schools, and the balance to the city schools. The number of white children in the county outside of Florence is 5,625; colored, 1,581. Total, white and colored, 7,206. The average term last year for the country schools was five months, and this will be lengthened in proportion to the increased funds.

Court at Columbiana.

Columbiana, Ala.—The civil docket in the circuit court was gone through with last Thursday, and Judge Pelham and Solicitar Barr went to their homes.

The grand jury made its final report just before the adjournment of court. Their report showed an investigation of 142 cases, and forty indictments were found. Twelve of these were capital felonies.

Sues for Divorce.

Montgomery, Ala.—Divorce proceedings have been filed in the city court in equity by Thomas M. Barnett, of Chilton county, against his wife, Mrs. Jessie Forbes Barnett, who resides in Montgomery.

Hill Will Speak.

Scottsboro, Ala.—Hon. I. W. Hill, state superintendent of education, has appointments to address the citizens in several different towns in Jackson county this month. He will address the people at Scottsboro October 17, at night.

Twenty Men Burned.

Chicago, Ill.—A terrific explosion, in which fully twenty men are reported to have been injured, occurred at the plant of the Illinois Steel Company, South Chicago.

Tons of molten metal were scattered in all directions, and a huge converter was wrecked.

The victims were taken to the company's private hospital. Seventeen were able to proceed to their homes with th assistance of companions. Some of them were struck by flying missiles and others were burned or scalded.

The explosion was the second within a week, and was caused by some foreign matter getting into the converter.

More Fever in Havana.

Washington, D. C.—The marine hospital service has been advised of the appearance of three new cases of yellow fever at Havana and of a case at Cienfuegos and another at Guines.

Boiler Explodes and Kills Three.

Pittsburg, Pa.—A boiler of the government boat Blackwater exploded, completely wrecking the vessel, killing three men and injuring six others.

MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS IS DEAD

After Lingering Illness in Apartments at Hotel Majestic.

DIES IN NEW YORK.

Death Due to Pneumonia Induced by Severe Cold—Surrounded by Relatives.

New York.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the President of the Confederacy, who had been ill for a week at the Hotel Majestic in this city, died at 10:25 o'clock Tuesday night.

Death was due to pneumonia induced by a severe cold which Mrs. Davis contracted upon her return from the Adirondacks, where she had spent the summer months. Although grave fears were felt from the first, Mrs. Davis' wonderful vitality, which brought her safely through a similar attack a year ago, gave hope of ultimate recovery until Tuesday night, when a decided change for the worse was evident and the attending physicians announced that the end was near. It was then believed that Mrs. Davis could not survive the night, but she rallied slightly during the early hours.

Shortly after 7 o'clock she had a sinking spell, and Rev. Nathan A. Seagle, rector of St. Stephens Protestant Episcopal church, was hurriedly summoned to give religious comfort to the patient in her last moments of consciousness. The clergyamn remained some time. An hour later it was announced that Mrs. Davis had lapsed into a state of coma. The period of unconsciousness continued to the end.

At the bedside when death came were Mrs. Addison Hayes, of Newark N. J., the only surviving daughter of Mrs. Davis; Jefferson Davis Hayes, a grandson, who is a student at Princeton University; Mrs. Charles E. Bateson, a niece; Dr. and Mrs. Gustav Webb, the latter a granddaughter, and Dr. Robert H. Wylie, who with Dr. Webb cared for Mrs. Davis throughout her illness.

J. Addison Hayes, husband of Mrs. Davis' only living child, had been summoned from Colorado Springs and was hurrying across the continent when a message announcing Mrs. Davis' death intercepted him. Mrs. Davis had for some years made her home in this city, where she had a wide circle of friends. Throughout her illness solicitous inquiries in regard to her conditions were continually made at her apartments.

At the Majestic it was said that the body would be taken to Richmond, Va., on Thursday. Definite plans for the funeral had not been made Tuesday night, but it is understood services would be held here by her pastor, and it is definitely known that the body will repose beside that of the late President of the Confederacy in Richmond.

Four New Cases.

Havana.—Four new cases of yellow fever were reported in Havana, making a total of eight, against the largest previous total, six. No more new cases have been reported throughout the rest of the island and there is no special anxiety regarding the situation.

Peary Despaired Of.

New York.—The middle of October having been reached, the time-limit set for receiving news from the Peary Arctic expedition, hope was practically abandoned of hearing this year from the band of explorers who started from this port fifteen months ago.

The first word from Peary was expected to come to Morris K. Jesup, the principal backer of the expedition. At his office it was said that the hope of hearing from the explorer this year was abandoned.

Three Workmen Killed.

Roanoke, Va.—Three workmen employed at a quarry near Roanoke were killed by the premature explosion of a quantity of dynamite.

The dead, white: Wm. L. Switzer, Lithia, Va., aged 35, unmarried; John T. Purcell, Roanoke, aged 29, unmarried. Colored: Melvin Pollard, Lithia, Va., aged 25, married.

The men were thawing the dynamite in front of a fire and it is thought one of them kicked a stick of the explosive in the fire. Their bodies were horribly mangled. Other men at the works were not injured.

SAM JONES DEAD.

Noted Evangelist Died in Berth on Sleeping Car Monday.

Little Rock—The Rev. Sam P. Jones, the well known evangelist of Cartersville, Ga., died Monday of heart failure in a sleeping car on train No. 4 of the Rock Island railroad near Perry, Ark. Mr. Jones had been conducting a most successful revival at Oklahoma City, I. T., and left there for his home in Georgia. He desired to attend a family reunion, it being the fifty-ninth anniversary of his birth. Mrs. Jones and his daughters, Mrs. Annie Pyron and Miss Julia Jones, were with him when he passed away.

The body was embalmed and shipped to Cartersville, where interment was made. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. George Stuart, the Rev. J. A. Bowen, of Mississippi, and the Rov. Holcomb.

Birmingham Fair.

Birmingham.—The annual fair in Birmingham opened Monday and will be in operation for a week.

Despite the cool weather there was quite a number of people out. All the buildings are well filled and some nice exhibits are to be seen. The racing program began Monday.

A large number of good trotting and pacing horses are here for the event and some fine sport was presented.

The horse show was held every evening during the week and was well attended. The registration for homecomers showed quite a number of people in the city. The formal homecomers' exercises took place Tuesday at noon at the fair grounds. Mayor Ward delivered the address of welcome in behalf of the city.

Governor Jelks delivered the address of welcome in behalf of the state. Judge J. J. Banks, of Denver, Col., a former resident of Birmingham, made the reply for the home-comers. Mr. T. V. Boardman sang the homecoming song, which was awarded the prize. The song was composed by Miss Heeb and is a splendid piece of work.

Kopp's military band, of Cincinnati, rendered national airs and a specially prepared home-coming march.

A booth for registering was opened in the lobby of the city hall and every bona fide home-comer was given a pretty badge to be worn during the week.

Greensboros' Bad Fire.

Greensboro.—About 11 o'clock a. m. almost a panic was created here when it was found that the warehouse of Blunt & Ward, at the railway station, was on fire. The fire was caused by sparks from the engine of a gravel train coming by at the rate of thirty miles an hour. A thousand bales of cotton, a small store and a negro house were consumed in a short time. A number of bales inside the warehouse ready for shipment were saved. The entire loss is estimated at about $60,000. Blunt & Ward's $10,000 warehouse is partially covered by insurance. Most of the cotton destroyed was insured.

Awarded $500.

Montgomery.—Because she was taken to Cuthbert, Ga., from Montgomery, instead of her destination, Andalusia, Mrs. F. E. Ashley was awarded $500 damages against the Central Railway of Georgia by a city court jury. The railway company will appeal the case to the supreme court.

Campbell Makes Bond.

Gadsden.—Marion Campbell, of Mountainboro, who has been confined in the Birmingham jail in default of $5,000 bond upon a charge of operating an illicit distillery and conspiring to assault United States officers, has succeeded in making bond and has been released.

Street Railway to Issue Stocks.

Gadsden.—The stockholders of the Alabama City, Gadsden and Attalla Railway Company met in this city for the purpose of securing the consent of the owners of a majority of the capital stock to the proposed issue of $300,000 in thirty-year 5 per cent gold bonds. A resolution was introduced and passed authorizing the proposed issue and instructing the secretary to file same for record. The money will be used for paying for a power house and car barn now under construction and several additional lines of street railroad, including one to the top of Lookout mountain.

Flagman's Escape Miraculous.

Jonesboro, Ga.—Freight train No. 95 at a point almost in the center of the city ran into the rear of train No. 33 completely telescoping the caboose and demolishing four cars.

The flagman on train No. 95 had a miraculous escape from death, but was only slightly injured, and was sent to the hospital at Macon.

The track was cleared and traffic resumed.

TO SERVE TIME

Supreme Court Rules Adversely in Senator Burton's Case.

WANTS TO BEGIN IMMEDIATELY.

Burton Declares He Will Not Ask for Pardon or Accept Any Clemency If It Is Offered.

Washington.—The supreme court of the United States denied the petition of former United States Senator Burton, of Kansas, for a rehearing in the case in which he is under sentence of imprisonment and fine on the charge of accepting an attorney's fee in a case in which the government was interested while he was serving as senator.

The effect of the decision will be the immediate imprisonment of Burton, unless his attorneys devise some other means of postponing the execution of the sentence.

There was no formal announcement of the decision of the Burton case in open court, the chief justice merely handing a brief memorandum to the clerk of the court just before convening.

The case of Senator Burton has been before the court since 1903, when he was indicted in St. Louis on the charge of accepting a fee for representing the Rialto Grain Company, of that city, in an effrt to debar it from the use of the United States mails.

He was found guilty and sentenced to serve six months in jail and pay a fine of $2,500. On appeal to the supreme court the decision was reversed on a technicality and a second trial was ordered. The second verdict was identical with the first and it was affirmed by the supreme court.

This affirmation was announced just before the close of the term of court in May last. The motion for rehearing was then filed. It was claimed in Burton's behalf that the court had not had the real facts before it in considering the case.

Bailie Waggoner, of this city, one of Mr. Burton's attorneys said that he had not up to the present time received any communication from the former senator regarding his wishes in the matter, but said that Mr. Burton had previously expressed to him the wish to begin serving his sentence immediately if the supreme court should finally decide against him.

Mr. Waggoner expressed it as his opinion that the mandate of the court would be sent by the supreme court immediately to the district court at St. Louis, in which case it would be possible for Burton to begin serving his sentence some time this week.

Will Increase Salaries.

New York.—An important announcement was made in this city by First Assistant Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock, which will bring joy to the thousands of postal employes in the United States.

It was to the effect that in the postal estimate for the next fiscal year to be submitted by the postoffice department to the treasury department a radical change will be made in the regulations affecting salaries. Betterment in pay involving the entire postal system of the United States will be advised, Mr. Hitchcock said. The statement followed a prolonged conference between Mr. Hitchcock and Postmaster Wilcox, of New York.

New Orleans Protests.

New Orleans.—A protest against the decision of the Panama canal commission, stipulating half rates for contractors, supplies and employes to Panama over steamship lines which operate almost exclusively out of New York and San Francisco was adopted by the directors of the New Orleans Progressive Union.

The protest was based on the argument that New Orleans would be unable to meet the competition of other cities in shipping to Panama.

Entombed in Mine.

Durham, Eng.—As the result of an explosion in the Wingate colliery, near here, twenty-five miners were killed and fifty are temporarily entombed. It is fortunate that only a small portion of the thousand men employed in the mine were down when the accident took place. The cause is supposed to have been fire damp. The explosion was of terrific force and in Wingate town many windows were broken.

Hearing Is Continued.

Wetumpka.—The preliminary trial of the Rigsbys, charged with the murder of W. L. McCain, which was set for Tuesday, has been postponed until Friday.

Professional Cards.

William M. Adams,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
OFFICE; Room 1, Court House.
Practices in all Courts
Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.
CLANTON, - - - ALA.

J. EARLE GOWAN,
DENTIST.
Office in Kicker Building
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

A. C. Smith,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in All Courts
Office 6th St. opp. Court House
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON
Office at Residence
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

J. Osmond Middleton,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St. Court House
CLANTON, -:- ALABAMA

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
Office Hours: 8 to 12 a. m. 1 to 5 p. m.
CLANTON

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.
I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
to
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C

LAND FOR SALE.
Eighty acres land in Beat 10, close to Cooper's. For sale cheap. Call on or address L. H. GENTRY,
Mt. Creek, Ala.
R. F. D. No. 2.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association

OF ALABAMA.

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

By the People and for the People.

Chilton County Branch

Organized February 3, 1900.

W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent.

Full particulars furnished upon application to

WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

—With—

THE UNION

—For—

$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and we must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION, Clanton, Ala.

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street

Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmaker and Optician

Eyes Correctly Fitted

Mail orders promptly filled

SUBSCRIBE FOR THIS PAPER

DO YOU WANT

Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,

OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?

Then Call at

THE UNION OFFICE

and See Fine Work at Low Prices.

500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.00

Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines. Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Alabama.

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY DR. JAMES W LEE.

Subject: How We Know God.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—For a month the Rev. Dr. James W. Lee, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, South Atlanta, Ga., acted as pastor of three Brooklyn churches, Bethany Dutch Reformed, Simpson M. E. and Central Baptist. These churches united their congregations into one, and invited Dr. Lee to serve them. The sermon last Sunday was at Simpson Church. The subject was "How to Know God," and the text Hosea vi:3: "Then shall we know, if we follow on to know the Lord." Dr. Lee said:

For all our knowledge we are indebted to three forms of mental activity which are known as intuition, reflection and recollection, or to use different forms for the same things, we can call them perception, by means of which we recognize single things; conception, by which we deduce general terms from single things; and recollection, by which we recall previous perceptions and recollections. That is, the human mind can know the natural world, the human world and the spiritual world, by the activity of the intuitive, conceptive and recollective powers. From intuitions man generalizes conceptions or ideas of greater comprehensiveness, and he can call back past perceptions and conceptions through his powers of recollection. Man has three great intellectual endowments: he can perceive, he can conceive, he can remember.

Our intuitions, our perceptions, may be divided into three classes. We have intuitions of the world; these are sense perceptions; we have intuitions of ourselves; these are self-perceptions; and we have intuitions of the spiritual world; these are religious perceptions.

It must be understood, however, that we can have no cognitions or perceptions of either nature, man or God, unless nature, man and God come before the mind. In every perception there must be a perceiver, something perceived, and an act of perception. No world can be seen, unless there is a world before the mind; no man can be seen unless there is a man before the mind. No man can create perceptions either of nature, man or God, out of nothing. For all his perceptions of nature, man or God, he is shut up to the objects which produce them. He could no more have religious perceptions without God than he could have self-perceptions without man, or sense-perceptions without a world. Spiritual intuitions are as indubitable evidences of the presence of God, as sense intuitions are of the presence of the material world, or as self-intuitions are of the presence of man.

If religious intuitions do not imply God, as sense-perceptions imply nature, and self-cognitions imply man, then civilization is an unsubstantial dream. When a person objectifies himself into some one else and comes at length to believe himself a ruler of a nation when every one of his friends knows he is only John Smith, a jury is called to pass on his sanity. If a man continues to talk into one end of a telephone and to get answers back when there is no one at the other end of it, a jury is called to inquire into the state of his mind. Now, if for thousands of years the human race has been perceiving God in nature, in conscience, in history, and answering back through prayer and reverence and song and liturgy and doctrine and temple, when in fact no God has been perceived, then it is evident that human nature is constitutionally deranged. It is remarkable, however, that man should find himself led astray at none of the gateways through which he holds commerce with outside reality except the religious. The gateway of vision opens out directly into the kingdom of light. The gateway of sound exactly adjoins the kingdom of melody. The intellect borders on the realm of truth. The universe fits closely about and meets and matches every human sense except the religious. If man would breathe, there is the air; if he would satisfy his hunger, there is food; if he would slake his thirst, there is water; if he would talk there are vibrations to carry his words. Every door of the soul and body is an open port through which there is constant exchange of inside and outside merchandise, except the one opening into the religious regions. When through the spiritual sense he apprehends what he takes to be divine reality, he finds only the phantasmal forms of his own soul filling the horizon in front of him.

If we can know God by exactly the same methods we use to know the world and man, what becomes of faith? In reply, it may be answered that we have no knowledge of any grade of reality whatsoever without faith. For knowledge of things material we need sense-faith; for knowledge of things human we need self-faith; for knowledge of God we need religious faith. Faith does not come at the end of intellectual processes by means of which perceptions are worked up into conceptions and laws and general ideas. Faith stands at the outer door of the mind and all intuitions, whether of nature, man or God, must receive its approval before they can be initiated into the different degrees of knowledge.

Before we can reason about gravitation, force, atoms, and ether we must accept their existence by faith. Faith goes before proof. We cannot store up an item of knowledge of the tangible world even without making assumptions that no one can possibly prove. Those scientists who deride faith and take unction to themselves upon believing nothing without evidence, should remember that before there can be any experience of anything or any demonstration of anything whatsoever, they are under the necessity of making assumptions, every one of which must be accepted by faith. All confusion of thought on the subject of faith has grown out of the fact that it has been put at the end of mental processes, when it belongs at the beginning of them. Its function is to initiate knowledge. Its place is at the cradle of learning. It stands at the dawn of thought. Its work is to certify to the validity of our intuitions. The same argument that is brought by Haeckel against the existence of God was brought by Hume against the existence of man, and by Fichte against the existence of the world. The one thing that every man knows with the conviction of absolute certainty is the fact of his own existence. If the self is not known, nothing can be. Yet no one ever with the eye of sense saw himself thinking or willing or feeling. But he has as much confidence in his self-perceptions as in his sense-perceptions. Faith in our intuitions of nature, of man and of God, is the condition of physical science, psychological science and the science of religion.

Without faith in sense-impressions we become idealists. Without faith in self-impressions we become agnostics. Without faith in religious impressions we become materialists. Faith is impossible without evidence, and as sound and valid evidence is needed for our faith in God as for our faith in the world. But the evidence faith demands is not such as the reason presents, but such as the intuitions present.

Nature, man and God, the three terms which represent the entire sum of reality, must each be taken at the outset on faith based on the evidence of sense-intuition, self-intuition and religious intuition. Physical science is the knowledge of nature; but before the intelligence can make use of the cognitions of sense out of which to form it, nature itself must be accepted by faith. We must believe that God is before we can ever use the intuitions of Him to make theological science.

"Faith is an affirmation and an act, Which bids eternal truth be present fact."

In denying the existence of God to begin with, we close the door of the spirit through which God manifests Himself. If we start out with the understanding that there is no God, religious perceptions are strangled in their very birth. Of course, we can have no perceptions of God if we mutilate the noblest part of our nature by putting out the eyes of the religious sense. We have it within our power to destroy our physical senses. We can plug up our ears and shut the windows of vision and close all the doors through which the outside world impresses us. But one foolish enough to destroy his physical senses would be doubly stupid if he imagined afterward that he had more commerce with reality than those who kept open all the gateways of the body and soul.

Haeckel says that "human nature which exalts itself into an image of God * * * has no more value for the universe at large than an ant or the fly of a summer's day."

Unless the knowledge man gets of himself and the world and God by the reaction of intelligence on perceptions is valid and trustworthy, Haeckel is right; man is not of more value than the ant, or the fly of a summer's day. He is not of as much value as the bee, or the beaver, or the tailor bird; for they are all artists without the trouble of learning how to be, while he is left to accumulate knowledge as best he can by the use of his faculties. They know at the beginning what it has taken him thousands of years to find out, and even now the bee surpasses him in the application of the principles of mathematics.

If what man knows, or thinks he knows, of the world and himself and God is illusion, then the lower animals have the advantage of him. The knowledge built into their bodies does correspond with the facts with which they have to deal. They are not disappointed and deceived. The flock of wild geese from the Northern lakes have always found the South they felt in their blood was there. The beaver has always found the mud responsive to his tail, and the wood of the tree no harder than his teeth could cut. But, if the cognitions of man do not correspond to things, but are hallucinations, phantasmal forms of his own consciousness, then the bears and tigers and beavers and bees and ants and gnats have the advantage of him. Human beings who have exalted themselves, as Haeckel says, into images of God, are the greatest fools, and the only fools, on earth. The universe puts a higher value on genuine flat-footed tigers, who find as they roam on all fours the jungles matching their every want and anticipating their every item of constitutional knowledge, than upon the so-called lords of creation, who have only climbed to the top of animated existence in their conceit. They are like a company of plain laborers, imagining themselves to be King Georges, and, instead of occupying thrones, as they think they do, they are perched upon stools in the different rooms of an insane asylum. It were better to be a good, healthy tiger in the tall cane of the swamp any time than to be a crazy, self-inflated, self-conceited descendant of Adam, running at large in the high places of existence. It were better to be a real cow, grazing in the meadow, than an unreal human biped, walking with his head full of delusions in a paradise of fools.

A Rich Brother.

Mr. Dwight L. Moody used to tell of a young man he knew of who went into business in one of our Western towns. The people thought he was sure to fail; but he did not. After he had been going along for some years, showing no signs of failing, it was discovered that he had a brother in the East who was very rich, and who helped him along from time to time.

Just so is it with us in the Christian life; we have an Elder Brother who is very rich, and, joined in partnership with Him, He will help us to hold out. Joined to Christ we are in alliance with One who is not only able but willing to give us all needed grace and strength. "They that trust in the Lord shall not want any good thing." "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." Christian, young or old, or in whatever circumstance of need, take courage, take heart, look up! The promises of God can never fail. He is the same "yesterday, to-day and forever." "As thy days so shall thy strength be."—Rev. G. B. F. Hallock, D.D.

The lean Christian is sure to be nervous.

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your order to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	80
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	85
Private Stock Virginia Rye	75
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	85
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	1 00
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 25
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	84
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	1 00
Murray Hill Club	1 00
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00
Golden Cream Rye	1 00
I. W. Harper Rye	85
Wilson Whiskey	1 00
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 25
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 50
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	50
Old Shades Mountain Corn	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	65
Old Lincoln County	50
Old Holland Gin	75
Old Crown Gin	50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50
California Sherry or Port

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va Rye
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

A. A. JACKSON

Lomax, Alabama.

General merchandise, corn, hay, shorts, shoes, men's Ladies hats. Best quality and lowest prices in all

Highest Market Price Paid for Chickens and

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

THE BIG STORE,

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes

FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton. Alabama

Imported Jack "LIJE"

Fee $8.00, Insured

Stands for service at his owners', JOHN T... mile East of Rocky Mount Church, Beat 1.

...'S COMMON THINGS.

...of every day are all so sweet—
...ing meadows wet with dew,
...of daisies in the noon, the blue
...of hills where twilight shadows
...with a little tender mystery of
...ance, and God's starry sky;
...the whole life—is far too fleet,
...ngs of every day are all so sweet.

...mon things of life are all so
...ge—
...aking in the warm half gloom
...ngain the old familiar room,
...nds and sights and sounds that
...er fire,
...ily work, the plans, the lilt of
...y's laugh,
...ackle of the open fire,
...ting, then the footsteps coming
...or,
...pening door, your hand-clasp—
...d your kiss
...en not, after all, the Now and
...mmon things of life are all so
...ar?

...E. Allen, in the Democrat.

...T LAST.

...ra Waring had practically
...and mastered the art of be
...r, when Fate presented her
...ally with abundance. Every
...en she felt it to be more or
...ntastic happening
...ondered at first what she was
...do with it all; that was be ...learned that, along with a
...Fate always bestows meth
...its disposal sudden and un
...cts of duty, family claims that
...y been sleeping dogs until
...portunity awoke them to bark
...d out, also, that a great deal
...y may be expended upon the
...f simple things, if such hap
...reover, not to be the simple
...r which others ask.
...a sort of gasping relief she
...to the sea, to a household of
...ffectionate, noisy creatures
...once schooled and loved
...de much of her in their own
...fashion, quite unaffected by
...ge of circumstances except
...ave such an unfailing excuse
...g.
...as discovering among them
...girl in herself was not so
...shed and dead as neglected.
...cropping up and asserting
...the most unlooked for daily

...re getting prettier and young-
...day, Mother Bab," one of the ...laimed, watching a little ex-
...ruffle the quietness of her
...and flush her smooth cheek.
...e, Edward?" the girl cried
The man's watching eyes
...dden spark of something new
...nge. Barbara drew a blind
...torbidding over the youth in
Her cheeks flamed, not with
...of mere reproof, but some-...cer. The man saw it, and talk instantly with much de-
...mething else. She thanked ...secretly, but with that barb
...by the careless schoolgirl
...kling.
...so long that a man had
...her with that flash in his brief admiration of the mo-
...she called it to herself. She
...she could meet it calmly
...ow, yet the old savage throb
...d in response to that look.
...she was twenty she met a
...iously attracted to herself,
...y of her attributes—music,
...or mental quickness of per-
...but by herself. For the first
...wishes were anticipated, her
...ords remembered and quot-
...tates studied, in that old and
...ion never to be set aside or
...upon, in the primitive pleas-
...wooer. She opened like a
...the sun, until the blow fell.
...ot in earnest; it was a sum-
...usement, no more! The ...n came crashing across her
...roying not alone her hope
...faith in herself. What
...ttered was not so much the
...lover as the loss of herself.
...erged from the silent con-
...d only to herself. She had
...t part of her nature, she
...elf somewhat grandiosely,
...inly the corpse had shown
...of life until this afternoon,
...rl's nonsense drew that flash
...n's eye and that instinctive
...onse from herself.
Banks was an elder son of
...by another marriage. He
...ved by age and a certain dif-
...ot so much age as a change outlook, from the merry,
...oving throng of half broth-
...sisters, whom he secretly
...from themselves at every
...re was nothing superior in
...de. "Old Ted" was looked
...thingly, yet with much ear-
...underneath the fun, as ming-
...mself the joint roles of an
...nd a most susceptible chan-
...exchequer. He was inevita-
...biter of family destinies in conclusive way of decision.
stepped into the family at-
...ghtway. Oddly enough,
...er years and his own tal-
...regarded him much as his
...ers did, to his own amuse-
...rst. Lately a vague doubt
It was never expressly de-
...even when his flashing eyes
...ses dancing on the summer when they sat looking at
...waters of the bay beyond
...uk bushes at the garden's

...ped with only one thought
—not that again! A line of
...came to her, then and later,
...nation developed:
She had
...ow shall I say?—too soon
...o glad,
impressed.
...ot a comment that would

You like
OR LESS MONEY
g? Then send your ORDER HOUSE
t the purest goods and it's drugs or whiskies
E PRICE,

Our Price. Regular
75 1
75 1
75 1
80 1
80 1
85 1
75 1
75 1
85 1
1 00 1
1 25 1
84 1
1 00 1
1 00 1
1 00 1
1 00 1
85 1
1 00 1
1 25 1
1 50 1
1 00 1
50
75 1
65 1
50 1
75 1
80 1
50

es by the Gallon in Jugs.
Old Mason's Pure Rye
Private Stock Virginia Rye
J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye
Old Style Country Club
Old Lincoln County
Richmond Club Virginia Rye
R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye

COMPANY,
e Drug Store
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ACKSO
Alabama.
shorts, shoes, men's lowest prices in all for Chickens and STORE,
TURE,
AL NECESSITI
ULLINS,
Alabe

ack "LIJE" Insured
vners', JOHN TH
hurch, Beat 1.

LIFE'S COMMON THINGS.

If [illegible] of every day are all so sweet—
[illegible] meadows wet with dew,
[illegible] of daisies in the noon, the blue
[illegible] twilight shadows
[illegible] with [illegible] tender mystery of [illegible] starry sky;
[illegible] so sweet,
[illegible] things of life are all so
[illegible] warm half gloom
[illegible] familiar room,
[illegible] sights and sounds that [illegible] work the plans, the lilt of [illegible] then the footsteps coming
[illegible] your hand-clasp—
[illegible] the Now and
[illegible] things of life are all so
[illegible] in the Delineator.

T LAST.

[illegible] Waring had practically [illegible] mastered the art of be[illegible] whom Fate presented her [illegible] with abundance. Every [illegible] she felt it to be more or [illegible] happening.

[illegible] at first what she was [illegible] do with it all; that was be[illegible] learned that, along with a [illegible] Fate always bestows meth-
[illegible] its disposal sudden and un[illegible] of duty, family claims that [illegible] been sleeping dogs until [illegible] opportunity awoke them to bark.
[illegible] out, also, that a great deal
[illegible] may be expended upon the [illegible] simple things, if such hap-
[illegible] prove, not to be the simple
[illegible] which others ask.

[illegible] sort of gasping relief she [illegible] to the sea, to a household of [illegible] affectionate, noisy creatures
[illegible] once schooled and loved.
[illegible] much of her in their own
[illegible] fashion, quite unaffected by [illegible] change of circumstances except [illegible] have such an unfailing excuse
[illegible]

[illegible] was discovering among them
[illegible] girl in herself was not so
[illegible] crushed and dead as neglected.
[illegible] cropping up and asserting
[illegible] the most unlooked-for daily

[illegible] are getting prettier and young[illegible] day, Mother Bab," one of the [illegible] claimed, watching a little ex-
[illegible] ruffle the quietness of her
[illegible] and flush her smooth cheek.
[illegible], Edward?" the girl cried
The man's watching eyes hidden spark of something new Barbara drew a blind forbidding over the youth in her cheeks flamed, not with
of mere reproof, but some-
The man saw it, and talk instantly with much de-something else. She thanked severely, but with that barb
by the careless schoolgirl
[illegible]
so long that a man had her with that flash in his brief admiration of the moshe called it to herself. She could meet it calmly
[illegible], yet the old savage throb in response to that look.
she was twenty she met a strongly attracted to herself,
any of her attributes—music,
or mental quickness of per-by herself. For the first wishes were anticipated, her words remembered and quot-dates studied, in that old and [illegible] never to be set aside or upon, in the primitive pleas-woman. She opened like a
the sun, until the blow fell.
in earnest; it was a sum-[illegible], no more! The came crashing across her crying not alone her hope faith in herself. What feared was not so much the lover as the loss of herself.
merged from the silent con-[illegible] only to herself. She had [illegible] part of her nature, she [illegible] somewhat grandiosely,
[illegible] the corner had shown
[illegible] of life until this afternoon,
[illegible]'s nonsense drew that flash
[illegible] eye and that instinctive
[illegible] from herself.

[illegible] an elder son of [illegible] by another marriage. He [illegible] had a certain dif-
[illegible] age as a change
[illegible] from the merry,
[illegible] group of half broth-
[illegible] whom he secretly
[illegible] themselves at every [illegible] was donning superior in [illegible] "Old Ted" was looked [illegible] with much ear-
[illegible] the fun, as mingled [illegible] the joint roles of an [illegible] most susceptible chan-
[illegible]. He was inevita[illegible] of family destinies in [illegible] way of decision.
[illegible] stepped into the family at-[illegible]. Oddly enough, [illegible] years and his own tal-regarded him much as his [illegible] did to his own amuse-
[illegible]. Lately a vague doubt [illegible] was never expressly de-
[illegible] when his flashing eyes
[illegible] dancing on the summer
[illegible] when they sat looking at [illegible] waters of the bay beyond
[illegible] bushes at the garden's

[illegible] with only one thought [illegible] not that again! A line of [illegible] came to her, then and later,
[illegible] mation developed:
She had
[illegible] shall I say?—too soon
[illegible] glad.
[illegible] impressed.
[illegible] a comment that would have come from anybody else on this girl with the brown hair, and eyes at which few looked long enough to find the hidden light that sometimes redeemed them from insignificance to positive beauty. Edward Banks had discovered the latter and he looked again, always to encounter that instant withdrawal of the vague something that tantalized him beyond the soft reticence of voice and eye, that echoed in and out of the music she played to herself of an evening in the shadows of the great, and, as she thought, empty drawing room.

He watched and waited. Barbara eluded more than ever. He told himself that he was too old to make experiments, he must be sure, though every day caution became harder; she felt that what had been was returning, and would not let herself see the difference of this, the real thing, from that old imitation passion.

He hid his feelings far less cleverly than he imagined from their object. She was continually averting their slight expression, scheming against betrayal and against her own response day after day, until she felt forced to act. She dispatched a letter that would bring her a telegram and she would fly.

She looked across the gay dinner table and out of the oriel window at the pauses of laughter and talk of the sea came like a faint song between the pauses of laughter an dtalk of the pleasant company, a vague, sad refrain of waves that lapped the foot of the cliff below the gardens.

Barbara thought, not of the beauty of the evening, but of how desolate she would be tomorrow night away from them all, alone! The sound of her own name broke in.

"Why! You will be all by yourselves tonight, Ba, you and Ted: I hod forgotten we are all going out to this pastoral play rehearsal thing. How rude of us"—the speaker laughed without penitence. "You must entertain one another, Ba; play to him. Old Ted would like that—"

"He would," interpolated Edward.

"And if he's good he may smoke in the drawing-room; he could never be happy after dinner without."

"Couldn't he?" Barbara avoided the glance direct across the dinner table.

They went off in a body, bearing fiddles, mandolin, guitar and stage properties. "We shall be back at ten."

"It's really too bad to troop off and leave you—"

"Goodby, goodby!"

Without a word to one another the two left moved away. Barbara went upstairs to the drawing-room, its many windows open to the sea that entered like a song. She did not attempt to play for some time, but sat in the peace of the deserted room listening, fearing a step on the stairs. None came. He was smoking, after all, downstairs in his own room. She need not imagine her music was inducement to bring him here, she told herself, yet, just for tonight, the very last night—. She started. Edward was standing in the doorway. He stood watching her with that same strange flicker in his sober eyes. He crossed the room and sat opposite her, still silent and smiling.

"What shall I play? What would you like?" She did not wait for his answer, but began. The man, listening, knew that it was his presence, his obvious presence, that kept the magic out of her melody. He gave a grim attention to it for a few moments, then got up and went into the inner room. She thought he had gone, and a faint current of something mysterious crept into her music; it relieved her, soothed the unrest of her mood, flowed with a momentary healing over her jarred spirit.

As she ceased a servant entered with a telegram. She was looking at it unopened when he came back. She knew escape was too late.

"Come outside. You have had enough music."

"You mean you have," she corrected, trying to talk lightly.

"You sometimes make a mistake about me," he said abruptly.

There were winding steps that led from the drawing-room windows to the garden. He followed her, going carefully to escape her trailing gown.

There was a sort of rampart at one end with a low sandstone bench that overlooked the sea.

The air was full of soft sounds and scents. He could only just see her face and the soft sweep of cheek that gave distinction to her profile. A little fold of her gown trailed across the bench as they sat. He took it between his fingers. "I like your shadowy black frocks. I don't like women, as a rule, in black gowns. This is like twilight, fine and frail. Is that why you choose it, Barbara?"

For the first time he called her by name. She was dumb. There was piercing through her swiftly distaste and fear something stronger. He tried to see her face in the gloom.

From sheer capacity to finesse he took the one course that convinced—the direct one.

"I want you," he said. "It's not the way to put it: men don't say it bluntly like that—men who know how to woo. I never did, never tried, or wanted to before. I am too old to learn the rules of the difficult game. I only repeat I want you. Does it seem enough?"

He took her trembling hands.

"I want you to marry me. After all, it's what they come to in the end, those pretty tricks and speeches, those by-ways I can't learn. Let it bring me near you."

"But if I can't?"

There was an edge, half malice, half unconcealed content, in her voice.

"You must! I'll have to try and learn the other fellows' methods if you won't come to me like this!"

She shuddered, and for an instant, in the inexplicable ebb and flow of emotions, she seemed carried away from him.

"You don't know me yet," he went on; "you have taken other people's views of me. I shall be different to you—quite different, if you will let me show you myself, apart from everybody else. I have a prophetic feeling about us—I had it from the beginning. I suspect I am going to make you want me more than you know."

Insurgence returned—was overflowing all.

"You can't make me want you more—" She broke aff laughing, then suddenly timid. "Don't you see—why?"

He did, though to the latest day of their life together he could never be brought to understand how it came about.—Edith C. M. Dart, in M. A. P.

SHIPPING A HOUSE AS FREIGHT.

A Brownstone Dwelling Taken to Pieces and Rebuilt.

A house which a few years ago overlooked Lake Superior, in the city of Marquette, Mich., now stands in Brookline, a suburb of Boston, 1,000 or 1,200 miles from its original site. The removal was a remarkable achievement. The material taken from an old house is often used again in a different form, and brick and stone hoouses are now moved for a mile or two without being taken down or suffering much injury. Steel frame buildings, too, have been disjointed carefully and set up in new places. That sort of treatment of a stone dwelling, though, is unusual if not unprecedented. The owner of this one, J. M. Longyear, had personal reasons—perhaps those growing out of an attachment to his home—for wishing to preserve the identity of the structure when making a change of residence.

The house was composed of what is called "Marquette Raindrop," and the trimmings were of Marquette brownstone. The work of demolishing it was begun in March, 1903. Soon afterward excavation was begun for the new abode on Fisher Hill, Brookline. For some cause there was delay in the reconstruction, for the house was not occupied until April, 1906.

In its account of the performance, the Engineering Record says that 35 men were engaged in the task of taking the house down, and nearly three months were needed for that task and for putting the material on the freight cars for shipment eastward. When the work began the arches were numbered and marked consecutively, as were the piers and courses of the balustrade. Each stone, except in the body of the house, was numbered according to its order of location in course, arch of pier, and the number or letter of the arch, course or pier was also placed upon the stone. Photographs were also taken of the numbered stones before demolition took place, and one was also taken of a typical window casing, bay, sill and cornice, to facilitate erection in Brookline.

The house was surrounded by sandy ground, so that a large percentage of the stones could be dropped from their original locations without danger of chipping, cracking or breaking. Carved and moulded pieces of stone work were crated for shipment, and even the large stone fence which surrounded the grounds at Marquette was taken down, shipped to Brookline by freight and re-erected. About 190 freight cars of various types were required for the shipments. These cars were despatched from Marquette as they were loaded, and it is said that the cost of the freight shipment alone was in the vicinity of $30,000, or possibly one-tenth of the original cost of the house.

As it stood in Marquette, the edifice was 120 feet long, 60 feet wide and three stories high. In Brookline an ell for servants and a music room for servants were added, fresh stone being brought from Michigan for their construction, so that they might match the older part of the building.

Recovered from the Sea.

At Nishima, in Japan, there is a wonderful castle possessing a gold-lined well, which affords the garrison an abundant water supply. Not only does gold line the well, but it is also fashioned into two great golden dolphins which glitter on the castle roof. These dolphins are centuries old, and one of them was once taken down and sent for exhibtion to Vienna as a rare example of antique Japanese craftsmanship. The fate of Cleopatra's Needle befell the dolphin, as the ship on which it was sank, and the ornament remained for many years at the bottom of the sea. Numerous attempts were made to raise it, and at last one was successful, and the golden dolphin was re-instated in its original place, never (it is presumed) to leave it again.—London Tit-Bits.

Reinforced False Teeth.

A dentist held up a set of false teeth.

"See this stay here," he said, "this brace, and this reinforcement? The set is for a sailor, and sailors' false teeth are always made extraordinarily strong on ccount of the unconquerable salt beef and the granite ship biscuit that are eaten at sea.

"On this beef and biscuit a sailor would crush ordinary false teeth in no time. He would chew them up and swallow them in mistake for ordinary food.

"Hence false teeth for sea use are always reinforced with all manner of braces and backstays."

A PLEASANT THOUGHT.

If all the dollies came alive
How busy little girls would be!
Judith I think, has twenty-five.
And I myself have twenty-three

I know I'd very careful be
With all the babies that were mine,
I'd treat them as folks treated me
And scrub them till they all would shine.

I'd give them everything that's good,
And always have them dressed in style.
I'd paddle them when they were rude
And lecture them once in a while.

If at the table they should smear
Preserves and things around their place
I'd feel compelled to be severe,
And make a disapproving face.

These are the thing that I would do;
And in the end they'd grow to be—
If all that I've been taught is true—
The models of propriety!
—Marietta M. Andrews in "Echoes from a Washington Nursery.

"ONLY A GIRL."

"Do I please you now, Mrs. Mother?"

"Clean you are, down to the finger tips and up to the hair," his mother answered, smiling. "Now, Jessie, kindly step forward in your turn."

"Oh, there's never any need to make a girl come for examination," sniffed Howard. "She loves to scrub and dress up."

"Cleanliness is next to Godliness, sir!"

"Of course. But some women—like the farmer's wife where we went last Summer—spent so much time on their cleanliness they never get to the Godliness at all. Such a temper! and she kept the house like wax, as mother said."

"The two things don't necessarily go together," said his mother, "and the girls are not to be despised for paying attention to the pretty things."

"Now, Mother! I never said so. I'm not that sort of a fellow."

"No; I don't think you are. I believe you appreciate Jessie as much as she does you. Your words reminded me of something that happened when I was a child. Shall I tell you?"

"Please do," they cried together.

"Well, the Summer I was eleven we were spending on the shore of a beautiful lake in the northern part of the State. Among our guests was Archibald, a boy who was very vain of his strength and made believe to despise all girls. Especially he regarded with contempt a cousin of mine, the slenderest, daintiest little creature imaginable.

"He was bathing alone in the lake one day, when he discovered our favorite rowboat drifting away. He knew that we were on the bluffs above, and he wanted to 'show off,' so he struck out for it. The boat was too far away, however, and he tried to return. But he got into the icy currents and we were horrified to see him seized with cramp and struggling helplessly.

"As we gazed, unable to do anything, we saw a girl in a blue bathing suit go down with one of the prettiest dives I ever saw and in a minute she was going out with a long racing stroke. He clutched at her desperately but she was too quick for him and had him by the hair in a minute.

"Slowly she swam in, keeping his head up gallantly. How she did it we couldn't imagine. By the time they reached the wharf, people were running down to help.

"That night she didn't come down stairs; but the next evening she appeared as dainty as ever, and a very apologetic and grateful young athlete she found waiting her. I never heard Archibald say anything critical of girls after that."

"Shouldn't think he would," said Howard, emphatically.

"Now, in a storybook, they would have married some day, and lived happily ever after," said Jessie.

"But they didn't," answered her mother, smiling. "Though they really were good friends always, and I thing they both profited by the friendship so strangely begun.—New York News.

THE BARRED OWL.

The barred owl, which is only a little smaller than the horned owl, may be distinguished from it even in the dusk, by the absence of horns, or ear-tufts. This bird has a round facial disk, and its expressive, dark brown eyes give its face an almost human expression. It, too, is a great destroyer of the woodfolk. On muffled wings which carry no warning of impending danger to the creatures on which it preys, it floats through the gloomy forest on its errands of death. Its sensitive ears catch sounds which would be quite inaudible to us, and perhaps the faint squeak of a wood-mouse is heard as distinctly by it as the neighing of a horse would be heard by a man. The stirring of a small bird in its sleep; the patter of a shrew on the snow; the whisper of a mole pushing its way through the earth—all are taken note of. Soft as these sounds are, they may mean sudden death to the creatures which make them if an owl happens to be in the neighborhood. The horned owl usually nests in a hollow tree, and is said to be almost as formidable as the horned owl when its nest is in danger.

I once had a barred owl in captivity for some months, and when cornered it was very savage and would fly straight at my face. One moonlight night I set it free, and it flew first to a bare oak-tree, where it stopped and preened its feathers carefully before going further away. The next morning I heard a great commotion among the crows, and looking out I saw a flock of about a dozen sailing around the top of an apple-tree, and sometimes alighting on the outer branches. When I went to investigate, the crows flew away, and when I climbed the tree, from the middle of it arose the big owl, which flew across an open space to another tree, where it was quickly surrounded by the crows again. On the following morning there was another commotion, this time among the blue jays, and by following them up, I got another glimpse of the owl. He stayed in the neighborhood for some weeks, during which time it killed a number of rabbits; but as the jays and crows made no more fuss, I presume it found some secret place in which it could hide in the daytime. Most of the smaller birds seem to recognize an owl as an enemy, and are eager to mob it whenever an opportunity offers. — Woman's Home Companion.

DON'T FOR GROWN-UPS.

The pupils in one room in the Sabetha schools were each required to write a short composition. One of them, a boy of 13 years old, wrote the following:

"Us boys and girls are always bossed around, and everybody says don't to us. Here are some don'ts for you grown people that I am going to write in this essay, because I dassent speak up and say 'em to anybody's face:

"Don't tell us boys and girls what we can't eat and when we've got to quit eatin'. We don't try to give you advice about your eatin's.

"Don't get excited when we have been away from the house a few hours. We're all right. Ladies shouldn't get so nervous.

"Don't tell us you're going to lick us when we go to bed. There ain't any fun till after it is all over.

"Don't blame us when you can't find anyone else to blame. We're dead tired of getting the worst of it.

"Don't make us apologize. People ought to apologize to us lots of times, but they never do it. You bet we notice it, too.

"Don't be everlastingly grabbing us and straightening us out and pulling at our clothes and poking your fingers in our ears to get the dirt out. WE DON'T LIKE IT.

"Don't always make us do your way. We want to do our way once in a while.

Don't nudge each other and ask us silly questions. We're on to you old smart Alecs.

"Don't make fun of us. We've got feelings, although the big people never seem to know it.

"Don't make us 'show off.' How would you feel if somebody made you do tricks like an Irish setter?

"Don't make us 'thank you' and all that kind of business every time somebody hands us something. They don't do it because they want us to bow and scrape around. They do it because they were us themselves once.

"This ain't all the don'ts I know but I'll have to stop because the teacher won't let me make the piece any longer."—Kansas City Journal.

CHIPMUNKS CHIP, CHIP.

It was my good fortune to be born a country boy and grow up with the chipmunks in Orange county, New York. They do "chip, chip, chip" when suddenly startled. Nature has provided them with a pouch in each cheek where they can store four acorns. They can and will climb when cornered, but they do not like to.

I have hunted red squirrels, but do not remember ever seeing one jump from tree to tree; but how they can shin down a tree! My good old dad when he used to go hunting with his boys would discourse on the habits of animals, and in speaking about ed squirrel activity said if lightning would strike a tree top the red squirrel would get down to the bottom quickest.

To renew my youth I have just bought a farm in Monroe county, Pennsylvania. In looking it over the other day I find there is a stone to every square yard, and a chipmunk to every stone, so if this thing is not settled very soon I shall ask the "Oldest Inhabitant" and then he will be.—Ryerson W. Jennings, in the New York Sun.

PHILANTHROPIC SPARROWS.

For several days four or five sparrows had visited a certain place on the roof near my window. They always brought food for another little fellow, who never tried a flight from the spot. The visiting sparrows never came empty billed. They would drop tiny morsels of food near the little sparrow. When it began to eat the crumbs the others set up a great chirping, and then flew away.

After watching this for a few days I went out on the roof and approached the lone bird. It did not flutter away from me, and made no resistance when I picked it up.

The sparrow was blind. Its eyes were covered with a milk-like film.

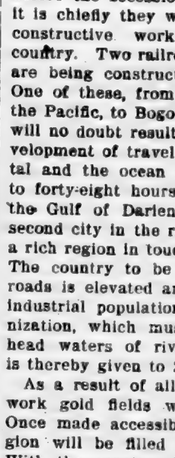
Spiders are met with in the forest of Java, whose webs are so strong that it requires a knife to cut through them.

Matrimonial tickets are supplied by the Canadian Pacific Railway to settlers in the Northwest Territory who wish to make a journey in order to secure a wife. On presenting the return coupon and the marriage certificate, the settler is entitled to free transport for his bride.

CURES CATARRH.

Disease Comes From Weak Stomach Wonderful Results Obtained by Taking Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy.

You know the symptoms: hawking and spitting by day, swallowing the poisonous mucus by night; bad breath, foul taste, constipation, stopped up nose, headache, dizziness, that awful dropping in the throat, nervousness, pains and aches in back, side or bones. It all comes from a weak stomach or dyspepsia. Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy acts on the digestive fluids, makes new rich blood and cures in this way the worst case of catarrh. Stop using sprays, blood purifyers or inhaling medicated vapors, when the real trouble is in the diseased stomach. Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy is the only real cure by strengthening your weak stomach, curing your indigestion or dyspepsia and vilest form of catarrh. Hundreds of cures made after all other treatments had failed. Druggists or by express 50 cents a bottle. Money refunded if it fails to cure. Book, "Key to Health," free by writing to Tyner Remedy Co., Augusta, Ga.



COLOMBIA'S INDUSTRIES.

Americans Have Charge of Most of the Constructive Work There.

Colombia's present attitude toward Americans is dignified and commendatory. Though scarcely meriting favorable treatment, they are preferred to other foreigners in the republic, and they obtain nearly all the concessions granted to aliens. They are as welcome in Colombia as they were before the secession of Panama, and it is chiefly they who have charge of constructive work throughout the country. Two railroads of importance are being constructed by Americans. One of these, from Buenaventura, on the Pacific, to Bogota, by way of Cali, will no doubt result in a thorough development of travel between the capital and the ocean from twelve days to forty-eight hours; the other, from the Gulf of Darien to Medellin, the second city in the republic, will place a rich region in touch with commerce. The country to be traversed by the roads is elevated and suitable for an industrial population, insuring colonization, which must start from the head waters of rivers. Employment is thereby given to 20,000 men.

As a result of all this constructive work gold fields will be developed. Once made accessible, the Choco region will be filled with prospectors. With the enactment of laws, similar to those prevailing in the Western American states, a great increase in the mining population will soon be brought about, and even a mining boom, "on the American plan," must occur. Important discoveries of gold will certainly be made. The purpose of President Reyes is to develop the country, and he realizes that mines are the best agents for the introduction of immigration on a large scale. The mining laws of Colombia, already the most liberal in South America, will be still further improved. Very probably the coinage tax on bar gold has been abolished, and before long mining will be made an untaxed industry. —Froncis P. Savinien in the American Monthly Review of Reviews.

Much of the Italian spaghetti is made at Torre Annunziata, near Vesuvius. The factories are great stone buildings, the recesses of which look like caverns, while the product lines the roadside, hung in festoons on racks to dry and acquires a flavor from the flies and lava dust.

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

How a Veteran Was Saved the Amputation of a Limb.

B. Frank Doremus, veteran, of Roosevelt Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., says: "I had been showing symptoms of kidney trouble from the time I was mustered out of the army, but in all my life I never suffered as in 1897. Headaches, dizziness and sleeplessness first, and then dropsy. I was weak and helpless, having run down from 180 to 125 pounds. I was having terrible pain in the kidneys and the secretions passed almost involuntarily. My left leg swelled until it was thirty-four inches around, and the doctor tapped it night and morning until I could no longer stand it, and then he advised amputation. I refused, and began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The swelling subsided gradually, the urine became natural and all my pains and aches disappeared. I have been well now for nine years since using Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 18, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Oct 18 1906.

Union Clubbing List

THE UNION And Yellow Jacket	$1.00
THE UNION And Southern Ruralist	1.00
THE UNION And Union Educator	1.00
THE UNION And Home and Farm	1.00
THE UNION And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
THE UNION and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
THE UNION and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-W'kly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
THE UNION And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.25
THE UNION and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.50
THE UNION And Rural South	1.50
THE UNION And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.50

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates.

NOMINEES OF THE People's Primary

Held August 6, 1906, under the direction of the Republican and Populist Executive Committees of Chilton County, Ala.

FOR SENATOR, FIFTEENTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT, W. W. WADSWORTH, OF AUTAUGA. tf

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
J. Osmond Middleton.

FOR SHERIFF.
Felix J. Fitts.

FOR COMMISSIONER.
First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—S. E. Waldrup.
tf

WAKING THEM UP.

At an informal meeting held by the State Democratic Campaign Committee in Birmingham last Friday, there were appeals for help made from Autauga, Chilton and Shelby, as well as other counties. To quote the Birmingham News: "Mr. White, who hails from Shelby, told of the fight on there between W. F. Aldrich, Republican, and Hosey Pearson, Democrat. He said that some good campaign work is needed in his county." "Judge Livingstone, of the Probate Court, of Autauga, spoke in the interest of Mr. Doster, who was also present. Mr. Doster is a candidate for the Senate from his district and a warm fight is being waged by the Republicans."

Yes, a warm fight is being made by W. W. Wadsworth, and it will get warmer before the 6th of November. Central Alabama will have a group (in the next Legislature) composed of Senator W. W. Wadsworth, Representatives W. F. Aldrich and J. O. Middleton, that we can well be proud of.

"A DAY AFTER THE FAIR."

Candidates Gulledge and Traywick were a day too late in putting in their sworn statements as to their primary expenses; the penalty is $100, which will make quite an addition to the cost of an empty honor. Mr. Gulledge admits having spent $99.55, in which the largest single item is $54.65 for postage; Mr. Traywick's account was $34.50.

STOCK LAW LITERATURE.

We will be compelled to call a halt on the writers for and against stock law, until after the election of November 6. There cannot be a stock law election ordered until the County Commissioners meet on November 12 and in case an election is ordered then, whether in special beats or the entire county, there will be sufficient time for argument. All hands now, "attend to your knitting," and elect the People's ticket on November 6 by such a large majority that it will take the starch out of the demmies.

A LOSS TO CLANTON.

Mr. J. Wiley Smith and family (11 in all) left Wednesday morning for their new home in Bristow, Okla., where Mr. Smith has made large investments in property. The depot was crowded with friends of the family to bid them farewell, many relatives also being there. We regret very much to lose so good a citizen, but Clanton's loss is Bristow's gain. May health and prosperity attend the Smiths in their new home.

JUST A VOTER.

Well, I've been so gloomy over my cotton sprouting in the boll that I've not felt like writing; but since the Gulledge wind combination has busted I must say a few words. But say, didn't he get into it with both feet, when he made that broad challenge to anybody to come out and meet him in joint debate? It is now clear to my mind what has been the matter with Mr. Gulledge all the time. I thought it mighty strange that the doctor was telling him he couldn't stand, but it's plain now; it was his political doctor that told him he couldn't stand before Mr. Middleton. I tell you, that doctor showed good judgment in his diagnosis, for Middleton knocked him out in the first round. Say! I feel sort of sorry for Mr. Gulledge, because he has had his own way in stock law and other things, even in calculating interest, so long that it is a sort of shock to him when he gets away from Verbena, and finds out that there are thousands of people in this county that don't care a "tinker's d—n" for Gulledge. Some say that it took Gulledge till midnight the next day after Fairview to find out "where he was at," for it was reported that he and Traywick got lost in trying to go to Pleasant Grove; got into a creek and then roamed around until way late in the night looking for a place to stay where they could have spring mattresses to sleep on, and finally started for Clanton. You know, we have everything of the best here. But while they were wandering round and it was so late they thought they ought to have something to stimulate their drooping spirits, so they stopped at Mr. Jess Hayes' and asked him for some whiskey, but all the whiskey Mr. Hayes had had asafoetida in it, and they would not have that, though it would have been just the thing for them if they had only known it. So they finally got to Clanton, where they could get spring beds and whiskey without asafoetida in it. You know you can get anything here in Clanton. We are just the smartest people on earth, though some of you call us fools and say we make mistakes in our campaigns. I heard some fellows talking the other day about Mr. Fitts, and they said the report that had been started about him had done him good; but I tell you it has sure done us demmies good, for you see our candidates are a long way from being angels, and if it hadn't been for those reports on Mr. Fitts some blamed fool would have let out something about them that we couldn't have explained. You see, there are a lot of stories going around here, in which appear a bootblack, a yellow woman and—well, too much to say anything about at present. You see, we Democrats believe in getting forgiveness for our sins, but these dod-blamed Pops believe "once in grace, always in grace." I wish all Democrats could be candidates when they die, so there would be no doubt of them being saved, for I just know the Lord could not refuse to take us in while we are candidates, for we are SO good, and if elected we'll be better, for we're going to help the churches IF we get elected. Respectfully,

JUST A VOTER.

MAKE-BELIEVE REPUBLICANS.

Editor Union:

Please allow space to say a few words to the Republicans of the county. I noticed in the Banner that one Lewis N. Henderson, who claims to be one of the greatest Republicans in the world, or thinks that the people ought to know him as such. I never saw him in a Republican meeting in my life, nor I never heard of him being a Republican until since Gulledge has come out for the legislature. It seems that he wants the Republicans to disband and support Gulledge. We Republicans have got Hon. J. O. Middleton as our nominee to vote for and we will do it. The Republicans would not know (if they voted for Gulledge) who they were voting for, if all reports on Gulledge are true. I would be glad if Mr. Henderson (as he is such a Republican and Gulledge man) would tell we Republicans who Gulledge voted for in 1896 for President. And has he always voted for the Democratic nominee for Congress in this district? If the reports are true he voted for bolters, Republicans and independents. Gulledge says he is a Cleveland, Bryan and Roosevelt Democrat, so you see he is three things right there. No, Mr. Henderson, you can't get the Republicans in this brightest day of their political life to forsake their nominee and vote for any other man. The Republicans don't care for your voting for Gulledge, for it may be for your interest to do so, but it is not to the individual interest of real Republicans to vote for Gulledge. Mr. Henderson, Gulledge is like Johnson's pet ram, he was in the wrong pen for Johnnie to claim; so Gulledge is in the wrong crowd for the Republicans to vote for him. Yours truly, LEE VICKERS.

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 15, 1906.

To the Voters of Chilton County:

As F. A. Gulledge has abandoned the joint discussion of the political issues before the people with J. O. Middleton, and assigned as his reasons therefor what he calls "good and sufficient reasons," I desire, as campaign manager for Mr. Middleton, to submit to you, as briefly as is consistent with perspicuity, a statement of the facts in the matter, so that you may be enabled to decide whether or not Mr. Gulledge has been unfairly treated.

During September, the exact date not now remembered, I made a list of about a half dozen places for the joint discussions between the two gentlemen, to take place during said month, and submitted same to W. M. Adams, as campaign manager for Mr. Gulledge. Mr. Adams took the list to Verbena, so he informed me the next day, when I saw him again, and he then submitted to me a list of about fifteen appointments, beginning October 2. I protested against putting it off until that time, but he said that Mr. Gulledge's physician had advised him that he must not go out before the first of October. I then yielded the dates on my list, and we arranged the times and places for the joint discussions to begin at Corinth Church October 2, which were published in the county newspapers. The joint discussion having been set so far ahead, I stated to Mr. Adams that we would probably have some apointments for speaking in the meantime, to which he replied. "That's all right; you will give us notice" (?) "Certainly," said I; "they will be published in the paper."

Now, the only agreement that Mr. Adams and I had concerning the joint discussions further than is stated above was that each speaker should have not exceeding one hour and a half to speak at any one appointment. One of them to open and close at one appointment, and the other to have the opening and closing at the next place, and so on alternately. And that no other speakers should be permitted to speak at these appointments, unless agreed to by Middleton and Gulledge, or by their respective campaign managers. Every appointment to speak that was made before the time set for the beginning of the joint discussions was published in The Union, to which paper Gulledge and Adams are subscribers, and Gulledge invited to be present in each announcement. I invited W. M. Adams, Esq., in person to meet with us, assuring him that we would gladly divide time with him and any others in the county that would meet us.

While, as you will see in his address to the voters, Gulledge don't charge that the agreement has been violated but he does charge that "the rules of justice and common courtesy" have been. Does it occur to you that "the rules of justice and common courtesy" have been violated by reason of these appointments, when the doors of each one of them were thrown open not only to Gulledge, but to every Democratic speaker in the county? It has been quite clear to a large number of our people, and even some Democrats, that Gulledge has not been anxious to meet Middleton in joint debate since they met in joint discussion at New Cedron and Pilgrim's Rest in July. Why, one of the most prominent Democrats in the county went so far as to predict that Gulledge would not meet Middleton at their appointments for joint discussion, and now claims to have won a Stetson hat on it. And sure enough, after he met Middleton at only one of their appointments he realized that the medicine administered to him by Middleton was so diametrically opposed to that given him by his physician that, notwithstanding his sweeping challenge, he became so very fastidious as to "the rules of justice and common courtesy" that he could not stand it any longer.

Now, I trust that his address to the voters of the county, published in the last week's issue of the Banner and also on circulars, may reach every voter in this county, as I feel sure that the matter contained therein will be viewed in the light that a prominent and leading Democratic views it, who in speaking of said addres said, "I never saw such a piece of gall and egotism in cold ink."

I do not believe that the voters of this good county of ours are yet ready to measure a man's "adaptability" to office by the number of dollars and cents he possesses, or the amount of taxes the law compels him to pay, without regard to competency or character. And Mr. Gulledge will be convinced that the voters of this county are not yet ready to vote for a man on account of his money when the votes are counted on the 6th of next November. Respectfully,

A. C. SMITH.

Jemison, Ala., Oct. 16, 1906.

Editor Union:

The month of October is a glorious season. The sun has contracted his heat, but not his splendor. He is less scorching, but not less bright. As he rises in the morning he dashes sparks of radiance over awakening nature as an Indian prince upon entering his presence chamber flings handfuls of gems and gold into the crowd, and the mountains seem to stretch forth their rocky heads and the woods to wave their lofty arms in eagerness to catch his royal largess. It is a feast to the eye to view the beauties of our country at this time of the year. Miss Quin, our obliging postmistress, has resigned her position here and accepted one as bookkeeper at the Montevallo Industrial School. We wish her success in her new undertaking. She will be greatly missed at this place. Miss Addie Henry is filling her place for the present. We are sorry to say Miss Bertha Durham has been very sick, but she is now improving. Langston Bros. are now in their new brick store. The sociable at P. L. Harper's last Friday night was enjoyed by all. Ask Cleve where are the sheep? Mrs. C. W. Reynolds and daughter, Miss Wasnene, Misses Toland and Fito made a flying visit to Clanton shopping. W. R. Jackson made a pleasant visit to Shelby Sunday. Miss Essie Honeycutt spent Sunday with Miss Gertie Jackson at Kalona. Miss Maud Linch has gone to Birmingham to study as a trained nurse. She will be greatly missed. We wish her well in her new undertaking. Sorry to say little Miss Wilder Simes went home to Birmingham very sick with fever. We hope for her soon to recover. A good show was here last week and was enjoyed by all, especially the school children, and ask W. T. H. and C. W. R. how did they like the show that night. Wel, Mr. Editor, on account of being sick Bill Dooly failed to get his letter in last week. I hope to meet all the correspondents and you, too, Mr. Editor, at the fair this week and I will tell you all I saw next time. Hoping you all will have a nice time, I will close.

The frost is on the pumpkin,
The fodder is in the shock,
The farmers are as happy over their cotton
As if they never lost a lock.

Yours truly,
BILL DOOLY.

KILLGORE ON THE SITUATION.

Editor Union:

I see the demmies are having so much to say about our candidates that I can't hold back any longer. I want to mix it with them a little. The first thing I wish to call the people's attention to is the boasting letter Mr. Gulledge wrote the Banner last week, in which he said he paid so much taxes and called upon the people to look up Mr. Middleton's tax, etc. I wish to say right here and now that I have been in politics twenty years and have met with many things, but never in my life did I hear tell of such a boast for votes. Now, gentlemen, most of us know Mr. Gulledge, and know he is very rich as to that, but I don't think that we owe him an office for his riches, but I think, to the contrary, if we owe it to any one, it is to those that haven't had such enormous good chances to get rich. Mr. Gulledge has made his fortune off of the people of Chilton county mostly, and I think he ought to be satisfied without trying to bulldoze his way into office by gloating on his wealth. So much for that. Now, I want to call your attention to the scandalous letters that have been written against Mr. Fitts, our next Sheriff. Those men I am not acquainted with, but I see that one man who they give as a witness has denied the charge; and then Mr. W. Y. Nix said it was not true, and Mr. Fitts said it was every word a lie. Now, gentlemen, I've known Mr. Nix and Mr. Fitts for the last ten years, and I don't hesitate to say that they are both perfect, high-toned gentlemen and worthy of all respect, instead of having to meet with such campaign lies. I give it the lie because I know it is not reasonable, and because I know Mr. Nix and Mr. Fitts are truthful. I don't advise Mr. Fitts to raise any difficulty about those lies, but I say this: If such was put up on me some one would get a whipping. There is another thing I wish to mention. If Mr. Fitts is such a bad man, why in the name of common sense did some of the leading Democrats try to get him to quit our party and run for Sheriff on the Democratic ticket for? Ah! they couldn't persuade him by offering him the nomination for Sheriff on their ticket. Knowing he was a strong man politically, they then turned their guns loose on him, and, like every other effort they make, every kick they make, the deeper they sink. Another thing, what has become of the negro? Ah, well, I reckon the demmies have decided to let the poor negro rest this time, and just run on Gulledge's platform. Now, gentlemen, you must keep your eyes open and your ears, too. An honest man don't mind being watched and a rascal ought to be. I suppose some one will jump on me with both feet in next week's Banner. I'm not taking the Banner, but if I hear of it I'll look after it, don't forget that. I want to tell you Democratic candidates that you don't stand any more show in this election than a hip shotten, wooden-legged man would at a dancing match. Respectfully,

MOSES A KILLGORE.

CARD FROM JUDGE REYNOLDS.

Editor Union:

I've just noticed an article in the Banner, where Mr. F. A. Gulledge takes me to task for speaking in Chilton county. Now, I know Mr. Gulledge feels his importance very much, and he may dictate to the Democratic party and tell them who to run for Sheriff, etc., but he can never dictate to me. He says I was at Corinth and proceeded to lambast him and his party. (Now if he has a party I know nothing of it.) He is mistaken in this. I had an invitation to go to Corinth and make a speech for Mr. Anderson Baker, but after I found out that Mr. Gulledge was going to be there I didn't go, for I've always believed in fair play, and I knew that Mr. Middleton was more than he could stand; so he is incorrect in that statement. I did speak at Bethel by invitation of the good citizens, and I would have been glad for Mr. Gulledge to have been there. I was also at the Davis school house, or Fairview, when Mr. Middleton and Mr. Gulledge spoke and several asked me to speak, and I told them that I did not believe in two jumping on one. I was also at Jemison, and if Mr. Gulledge had been there I would not have said one word, but he was not there, and I'm sure I had a right to speak if I wanted to. He tries to make it appear that he knew nothing of the appointments at Bethel, Corinth or Jemison. He got on the train at Calera the evening of the speaking at Jemison and told Mr. W. R. Jackson that he was going to stop at Jemison and speak. Several have told me that he wrote a letter and sent it to Corinth and had it read at the church, asking the people to put the appointment off so he could be there, and the appointment was changed to suit his convenience, and yet he says he knew nothing of these appointments until after they had been filled. It looks a little strange that Mr. Gulledge only found out that he had not been treated fair after he had met Mr. Middleton in joint debate at Fairview. But if the people all could have heard that joint debate they could understand why Mr. Gulledge had declined to go any further. I think it would have been a mere honorable in Mr. Gulledge to have come straight out and said that he had got into something that he could not get out. Now, I'll say in conclusion that I've always believed in fair play in politics as well as in anything else, and I am sure that I've never refused to divide time with any speaker at any appointment I've ever had to speak. I believe it but justice to the voters to know how candidates stand on public questions, and I believe they ought to hear both sides at the same time. Permit me to say to Mr. Gulledge that if I want to make any more speeches I shall not ask his permission, but if any speaker, I care not who, wants to represent him, I'll take pleasure in dividing time with him. Respectfully,

L. H. REYNOLDS.

PELHAM, SHELBY COUNTY.

Editor Union:

Health is good here. We are all just recovering from the effects of the flood of water we had a week ago, which did considerable damage among us farmers. But it was the Lord's will. Well, brother, we had a union rally on the 13th, and we sure did have some good talks by our State Organizer Morris and McElderry, the fertilizer manufacturer for union farmers. Everybody had a good time and plenty of dinner. I think our local will get along better since we all heard the good talks Saturday. Bro. Morris initiated four ladies on that day. We have some good union men up here and some not so good, but I guess that is the case everywhere. I sure do like to read The Union, with its many letters from our friends of mine in Chilton.

JUST A FRIEND.

Lawley, Ala., Oct. 13, 1906.

Editor The Union:

Dear Sir—In last week's Union I notice an article signed by Crocket Fountain, in which he states that last April he received a letter forty-seven days after it was post-marked at Lawley. In justice to myself, I wish to say that I was not postmaster at that time I did not get the office until June 12, 1906. I attend strictly to my own business, try to treat everybody right. No letter is kept in this office overtime. In regard to changing the schedule of the R. F. D. route here, I had nothing whatever to do with it. A petition properly signed was sent up for that purpose. Neither am I related to Mr. Arthur D. Latham, except by marriage. Friendship should not count when it comes to truth and honesty. So saying I am done with the controversy.

GEO. F. STRINGER.

MARS HILL.

Editor Union:

A few dots after my absence. After several days and nights of rain and gales, we're welcoming a few days beautiful sunshine. The light frosts at night are causing our people to hustle to save their seed ribbon-cane. Gulledge and Traywick, the Democratic candidates, came down Scotland road last Thursday, doing a lot of windjamming and handing out circulars, treating to cigars and squeezing people's hands. In passing one man's house and seeing the man gathering corn in his field, they called to him and asked him for his vote, but the man told them that he had never voted a Democratic ticket in his life and didn't intend to begin now. Mr. Cofer would be glad to have Mr. Gulledge come again, as well as we all, for Cofer would have to lay in a new stock of cigars, and us fellows with patched overalls would get to smoke more often. Our settlement is in mourning at this writing. F. M. Foshee's family, of Tutwiler, Miss., has been here on a visit for several days. Last Tuesday, about 2:30 p. m., the oldest son, Harrison, was taken with a congestive chill, which developed into meningitis and he died within twenty-four hours, never having been conscious in that time. Just two months and [illegible] prior to this death, a [illegible] in their Mississippi [illegible] are taking it very [illegible] numerous friends and [illegible] Fosbee was telegraphed [illegible] rived Thursday afternoon [illegible] neral was had at Mars [illegible] Friday morning, Rev. [illegible] ficiating. We mourn the [illegible] sole ourselves with the [illegible] by earnest preparation, we [illegible] them on the other [illegible]

THE CLA[illegible]

NOTICE.

ALTHOUGH MR. GULLEDGE BACKED OUT OF THE JOINT DISCUSSION AGREEMENT, MIDDLETON WILL KEEP ALL DATES AS ABOVE. COME AND HEAR HIM.

To THE PEOPLE OF [illegible] COUNTY.

It has been agreed that [illegible] discussion of the issues of the [illegible] tween Mr. F. A. Gulledge and [illegible] Middleton shall take place at [illegible] lowing times and places:

Beat 7, Sardis Church, Thursday, October 18, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Macedonia, Friday, October 19, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Benson's Cross Roads, Saturday, October 20, 7 p. m.

Beat 1, Blow's school house, [illegible] church Monday, October [illegible]

Beat 1, Union Church, Tuesday, October 30, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Jemison, Wednesday, October 31, 10 a. m.

Beat 2, Rocky Mount, Wednesday, October 31, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Providence, Thursday, November 1, 7 p. m.

Beat 9, Cedar Grove Church, Friday, November 2, 7 p. m.

Beat 11, Cane Creek Church, Saturday, November 3, 7 p. m.

Beat 4, Walnut Grove Church, Monday, November 5, 7 p. m.

WM. M. ALA[illegible]
Chm. Dem. Ex[illegible]
A. C. SMITH
Chm. Rep. Ex[illegible]

EXTRA.

In addition to the above [illegible] J. O. Middleton will fill the [illegible] extra appointments, this [illegible] special request of these [illegible]

Pleasant Grove Church, Wednesday, October 24, [illegible]

Mars Hill, Beat 2, Thursday, October 25, 7 p. m.

Poplar Springs, Beat [illegible] October 27, 7 p. m.

A. C. SM[illegible]
tf Chairman Campaign Com[illegible]

THE NEW YORK WO[illegible]

Thrice-a-Week Edition—Read over the English Language Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World [illegible] a great Presidential campaign [illegible] shadowed, hopes to be a better [illegible] than it has ever been before. [illegible] has made arrangements [illegible] Its news service covers the [illegible] globe, and it reports everything promptly and accurately. It [illegible] only newspaper, not a daily, [illegible] as good as a daily, and will keep you as completely informed [illegible] what is happening throughout the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World [illegible] its political reports. You can [illegible] truth from its columns, whether [illegible] are Republican or Democrat, [illegible] is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been [illegible] rial fiction. It publishes [illegible] the best authors in the world, which in book form sell [illegible] apiece, and its high standard [illegible] respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

The Thrice-a-Week World's subscription price is only $1, and this pays for 156 papers. Take this unequalled newspaper and Union together for one year.

The regular subscription price of two papers is $2.

Program for Alabama Home and State Fair, Birmingham.

Monday, October 15—Governor's [illegible] and registration day for Home-Comers.

Tuesday, October 16—Old Confederate Day, for Home-Comers. Speeches by distinguished Alabamians. Band concert by union. Horse show free for Home-Comers at night.

Wednesday, October 17—Children's Day, Alumni Day. Opening of [illegible] tournament.

Thursday, October 18—Knights of Pythias and Traveling Men's Day. Parade, [illegible] grand tournament and awarding of prizes. Free concert. Singing of Alabama song.

Friday, October 19—Home-Comers' Day, Children's Day. Excursions from every district for Home-Comers. Grand display of fireworks at night.

Saturday, October 20—Home-Comers' farewell. Appropriate exercises.

NOTICE.

The Chilton County Singing Convention, No. 1, will meet with [illegible] church (3 miles west of Clanton) on the First Sunday in November for a two days session. All singers are invited to attend. We request that the officers of this body be present if possible.

J. L. GORE, President.
tf JAMES FRANKLIN, Sec.

[illegible] COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
[illegible]—Third Monday in May, [illegible]—Fourth Monday in Nov.
[illegible]. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
[illegible]—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
[illegible] W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
[illegible] Term—Second Monday in [illegible]
[illegible]—Second Monday in Sept.
[illegible]—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
[illegible]—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton.

County Court.
[illegible]onday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.
[illegible] Monday February, first Monday [illegible]ril, first Monday June, second Monday July, second Monday August, [illegible]ond Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
[illegible] of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
[illegible]—W. T. Callen.
[illegible]—J. M. Morgan.
[illegible]—W. M. Adams.
[illegible]sessor—L. B. Pounds.
[illegible]llector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
[illegible] District—W. H. Conway.
[illegible]d District—Alex Glasscock.
[illegible] District—R. P. Kendrick.
[illegible]h District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
[illegible]. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

MISSIONARY BAPTIST.
[illegible]HANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pastor. [illegible]rst Sunday and Saturday be[illegible] D. L. Hand, clerk.

[illegible]H-SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish, [illegible]. E. B. Popwell, clerk.

[illegible] CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey, [illegible] First Sunday and Saturday [illegible] W. E. Thomas, clerk.

[illegible]LINS CHAPEL—Rev. J. H. [illegible], pastor. Third Sunday and [illegible]day before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

[illegible]S HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, [illegible] First Sunday and Saturday [illegible] G. W. Scott, clerk.

[illegible]EDONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas, [illegible] Fourth Sunday and Saturday [illegible]at 3:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong, [illegible]

[illegible]ASANT GROVE—Rev. J. H. [illegible], pastor. Fourth Sunday and [illegible]day before at 11 a. m. D. H. [illegible], clerk.

[illegible]VIDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robinson, [illegible]astor. Second Sunday and Saturday before. Riley Robinson, clerk.

[illegible]OBOTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H. [illegible], pastor. Second Sunday and [illegible]day before. D. C. Smitherman, [illegible]

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.
[illegible]THEL—Elder J. P. Nobles, pastor. [illegible]econd Sunday and Saturday before. J. T. Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.
[illegible]CKY MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Vanpastor. Second Sunday. Sing[illegible]very second and fourth Sunday [illegible]oon. Prayer meeting every Wed[illegible]y night. Ladies' prayer meeting Saturday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.
[illegible]ton R. A. Chapter, No. 116—[illegible]Saturday, Clanton.

[illegible]ndo Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. [illegible]Fourth Saturday, Cooper.

[illegible]ton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. [illegible]First Saturday, Clanton.

[illegible]bury Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. [illegible]First Saturday, Billingsley.

[illegible]man Lodge, A. F. and A. M., [illegible]4—Saturday on or before full [illegible] Marbury.

[illegible]son Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. [illegible]Saturday on or before full moon, [illegible].

[illegible]ton Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. [illegible]Tuesday on or before full moon, [illegible].

I. O. O. F.
[illegible]son Lodge—First and third Sat[illegible].

[illegible]ton Lodge, No. 304—Second and [illegible] Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.
[illegible]k Jack Camp, No. 190—First and [illegible] Mondays.

I. O. R. M.
[illegible]onermo Tribe, No. 90—First and [illegible] Mondays sleep. Visiting chiefs [illegible]lly invited. E. B. Langston, C. [illegible]; J. H. Patton, Sachem.

[illegible]ocmie Tribe No. 48—2nd and 4th [illegible]rday sleeps. Visiting chiefs cor[illegible]y invited. J. M. Grant, Sachem; [illegible] Parrish, C. of R.

[illegible]ahatchee Tribe, No. 9, meets [illegible]d and fourth Tuesdays' sleep. [illegible]g chiefs cordially invited. J. P. VAN DERVEER, Sachem. [illegible] ROBINSON, C. of R.

...me. Just two months ...
...rior to this death, a ...
...n their Mississippi ...
...e taking it very ...W, as ...
...merous friends and ...
...Foshee was telegraphed for ...
...ved Thursday afternoon and ...
...eral was had at Mars Hill ...
...day morning, Rev. J. H. Th...
...ching. We mourn the loss ...
...le ourselves with the thoug...
...earnest preparation we ...
...n on the other shore.

THE OLD

NOTICE.

...LTHOUGH MR. GULLEDG...
...ACKED OUT OF THE JOI...
...USSION AGREEMENT, MR...
...GLETON WILL KEEP AL...
...ATES AS ABOVE. COME ...
...ND HEAR HIM.

...O THE PEOPLE OF CH... COUNTY.

It has been agreed that t... discussion of the issues of the ...ween Mr. F. A. Gulledge and ...Middleton shall take place at ...owing times and places:

Beat 7, Sardis Church, Thur... ber 18, 7 p. m.
Beat 3, Macedonia, Friday, ... 9, 7 p. m.
Beat 3, Benson's Cross Roads ...ay, October 20, 7 p. m.
Beat 1, Blow's school ho... ...Monday, October 29, 7 ...
Beat 1, Union Church, Tues... ...ber 30, 7 p. m.
Beat 2, Jemison, Wednesday ...er 31, 10 a. m.
Beat 2, Rocky Mount, Wed... October 31, 7 p. m.
Beat 2, Providence, Thurs... ...ember 1, 7 p. m.
Beat 9, Cedar Grove Church, ...November 2, 7 p. m.
Beat 11, Cane Creek Church ...ay, November 3, 7 p. m.
Beat 4, Walnut Grove Churc... ...ay, November 5, 7 p. m.

WM. M. ADA...
Chm. Dem. Cam...
A. C. SMITH,
Chm. Rep. Cam...

EXTRA.

In addition to the above d... O. Middleton will fill the ... extra appointments, this bein... special request of these comm...
Pleasant Grove Church, ...Wednesday, October 24, 7 p. ...
Mars Hill, Beat 2, Thursday, ...5, 7 p. m.
Poplar Springs, Beat 10, ... October 27, 7 p. m.

A. C. SMI...
Chairman Campaign Com...

THE NEW YORK WORL...

Thrice-a-Week Edition—Read... ever the English Langu... is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World, ... great Presidential campaign ...shadowed, hopes to be a bet... than it has ever been before. ...as made arrangements acc... its news service covers the ...globe, and it reports everythi... promptly and accurately. It ...only newspaper, not a daily, ... as good as a daily, and wi... keep you as completely info... what is happening through... world.

The Thrice-a-Week World i... its political reports. You can ...truth from its columns, whet... are Republican or Democrat, ... as what you want.

A special feature of the ... Week World has always bee... rial fiction. It publishes ... the best authors in the world, ...which in book form sell fo... piece, and its high standard ...respect will be maintained in ...ure as in the past.

The Thrice-a-Week World's ...ubscription price is only $1 ... and this pays for 156 papers. ...his unequalled newspaper ... Union together for one year f...

The regular subscription pr... two papers is $2.

Program for Alabama Home... and State Fair, Birmingham, ... Monday, October 15—Gover... and registration day for Home... Tuesday, October 16—Old ... Day, for Home-Comers. Spe... distinguished Alabamians. G... union. Horse show free for r... Home-Comers at night.
Wednesday, October 17—... Day. Alumni Day. Opening ... tournament.
Thursday, October 18—Mi... and Traveling Men's Day. F... grand tournament and awa... prizes. Free concert. Singing ... Alabama song.
Friday, October 19—Bir... Day, Children's Day. Excurs... district for Home-Comers. G... at night.
Saturday, October 20—Hom... farewell. Anpropriate exercis...

NOTICE.

The Chilton County Singing ...tion, No. 1, will meet with ... church (3 miles west of Cl... First Sunday in November in ...session. All singers are inv... tend. We request that the ... of this body be present if p...

J. L. GORE, President.
JAMES FRANKLIN, Sec...

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

Chilton Co. Division Officers.

J. H. Thomas, President, Jemison, Rte. 1.
J. W. Hayes, Vice Pres., Thorsby, Rte 1.
J. N. Dennis, Sec-Treas., Clanton, Rte 6.
G. W. Thomas, Chaplain, Clanton, Rte 2.
J. W. Sorrell, Bus. Agent, Jemison, Rte 4.
C. N. Eiland, Lecturer, Clanton, Rte 4.
N. A. Dobbs, Asst. Lect., Clanton, Rte 3.
W. J. Bean, Conductor, Clanton, Rte 4.
W. F. Culpepper, Doorkeeper, Clanton, Rte 3.
W. A. Barnett, Ex. Committee, Jemison, Rte 2.
E. H. Mims, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 1.
J. Wiley Foshee, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 4.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

REGISTRATION NOTICE.

Beat No. 4, at Clanton, on Friday and Saturday before the election in November, 1906.

R. H. GAINES,
B. L. JONES,
P. M. MOORE,
Board of Registrars Chilton County.
tf

WATSON'S MAGAZINE.

The leading exponent of Jeffersonian Democracy, edited by Hon. Thos. E. Watson, of Georgia, theFather of Rural Free Delivery; author of "The Story of France," "Life of Napoleon," "Life and Times of Thomas Jefferson," "Bethany" and other books. Mr. Watson was the People's party nominee for Vice-President in 1896, and for President in 1904. He is today heading a middle-class reform movement which is bound to sweep the country in a short time.

Watson's Magazine is not a Socialist publication. It does not stand for collective ownership of all the means of production. Mr. Watson believes in public or government ownership of railroads, telegraphs and telephones; in municipal ownership of street railways, gas electric lights, water works, etc.; and he believes in private ownership of all industries not natural monopolies.

The middle class—the home owners, farmers, small business men and property owners—won Jefferson's victory in 1800; won Jackson's victory over Nick Biddle's money power in 1832; won Lincoln's victory in 1860. But each time after the flush of victory had died away they became careless of their rights and went to sleep. They have slept a good portion of the time since 1865, but—

Watson's Magazine is waking them up. Another great victory is in the air. Keep in touch with the movement.

Fifteen cents a copy at news stands; $1.50 a year by mail. Sample copy for four 2-cent stamps and four names of reading friends. Address,

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE,
121 West Forty-second Street,
New York City.

SPECIAL CLUBBING RATE.

WATSON'S MAGAZINE AND THE UNION A YEAR FOR ONLY $1.75. WHY NOT SAVE THE 75 CENTS? LEAVE ORDERS AT THIS OFFICE.
tf

MONEY TO LOAN

On real estate. Call or write me at my abiding place with Mr. G. W. Foshee, one mile northeast of Clanton, R. F. D. No. 1. Come during banking hours, as I keep my money in the bank.
tf JAMES GLASS.

FOR SALE!

120 acres of good level land, 1 mile east of Collins Chapel school house, good pasture with never failing supply of water. House of 3 rooms and lot buildings, with good spring close to dwelling house,

ALSO

Grist Mill (for both corn and wheat), in running order, water power the year round, good location for cotton gin, (formerly known as Maddox's Mill) near Jumbo. All to be sold cheap for cash, together or separately. Call on or address K. A. E. Gronquist, Clanton, Route 4. tf

ATTENTION

Mrs. S. J. Watts is with J. C. Jones and will be pleased to wait on friends and customers. We make a specialty of all styles of "Puritan Corsets" Dress Goods and Trimmings, design dresses and order patterns. tf.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Oct. 17, 1906....1,555
Price same date 10 3-4
Receipts same time in 1905.....3,062
Price same date 9 1-4

PERSONAL AND LOCAL.

"H. C. Russey has now ready for shipment what is probably the best consignment of horse-flesh ever shipped from this station. Altogether there will be seven carloads of thirty head each. Of these, four cars will be shipped about 15th of October three cars going to Clanton, Ala., and one car to Lake Charles, La. The destination of the later shipment of three cars has not yet been decided on."—From the Grand Valley News. Grand Valley, Col.

Mrs. Childress, or "Aunt Polly," as many called her, died on Monday and was buried in the Childress family cemetery Tuesday. She leaves five children and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. The children are Messrs. Alfred, Newton and Reuben, Mrs. John Hubbard and Mrs. Tilda Littlejohn.

B. M. Durbin was a pleasant visitor Thursday.

E. B. Owens was in Clanton Thursday.

Jim Wash Riggins was a welcome caller Thursday.

Rev. B. H. Vickers passed through Clanton Friday on his way home from Weogufka Association, which met with Sardis church, in Coosa county, last week. Bro. Vickers was re-elected moderator; Albert Kelly, clerk; J. S. Dennis, treasurer.

J. W. Neeley, W. Y. Keel, J. C. Courtney and G. G. Gray were in Clanton Saturday.

P. G. Hudman was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

J. A. Thomas was a welcome caller Saturday.

Albert Gore was in town Saturday.

J. R. Thompson was in Clanton Monday.

G. W. Scott and John S. Waldrop were in Clanton Monday.

Messrs. Z. J. Jones and J. L. Smith were in town Monday.

Look over Cooper Bros.' advertisement; it will pay you. They have genuine bargains.

Lee Wells and family passed through Clanton Tuesday on their way to their new home on W. M. Moore's place, near Billingsley.

S. S. Scott, the Farmers' Insurance Association's old reliable agent, was in town Tuesday.

W. M. Moore, of Billingsley, was a pleasant visitor Tuesday.

T. F. Patterson was in town Tuesday.

Assessor Pounds and Collector Hubbard filled their Clanton appointment Tuesday. They are about through with their first round. Those who did not meet them this time had best not forget their second round.

J. J. Grant returned home from Montgomery Tuesday, and says his daughter, Mrs. Boswell, is getting along nicely now.

Among the Chilton county people who took the train Wednesday morning for Birmingham, where they intended to take in the Good Roads Convention and the State Fair, we noticed Judge Reynolds, Mrs. Reynolds and little son, Omar; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Thomas, W. J. Watson and three little ones, County Commissioner W. H. Conway, J. Wilson Sorrells, J. T. Hand, C. L. Langston, S. S. Scott, J. H. Gore, Henry Cox and Col. A. C. Smith.

Chief Justice Samuel Arledge attended the Good Roads Convention in Birmingham Wednesday.

"Uncle" John Marcus left Clanton Wednesday for his home in Shelby county. He looks well and hearty.

Mr. Gulledge evidently has given up all hopes of success in his candidacy for he has gone to Oklahoma. Some people say that Oklahoma being a new state, there is a probability of some offices to run for there. "Quien sabe."

Prof. M. W. Mims will take up school at Union Grove, in Beat 1, next week. He went to Birmingham Wednesday to see "Good Roads" and the State Fair.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

L. C. Vance and Miss Lizzie Lavinsky; Sam Latham and Miss Mary Latham; Andrew ...iams and Miss Alice Gardner.

ALL-DAY SINGING.

There will be an all-day singing at Mount Moriah the fourth Sunday in October. Everybody is invited to come and bring their song books and baskets. We will use the following books. "Singing for Joy," "Songs of Triumph," "Windows of Heaven," "All in All Songs."
J. F. LOWERY.
tf

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order. tf.

SALE OF LANDS.

State of Alabama, Chilton County—Probate Court.

In the matter of the petition of Julia E. Cook et al., to sell lands for division and partition among joint owners or tenants in common thereof.

Under and by virtue of a decree rendered by the Honorable Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, on the 29th day of September, 1906, in said cause, ordering a sale of the hereinafter described lands for division and partition among the joint owners or tenants thereof, to-wit: Julia E. Cook, Carrie W. Martin, John T. Dugan, William R. Dugan, David B. Dugan, Joseph A. Dugan, Lillie B. Williams, John A. McLeod, Carl McLeod, Clara Sales, Bessie McLeod, Lillian McLeod, William Martin, Edward Martin, Annie Bell O'Neal, Willie B. Gandy and Jacob C. Vaughan, I William O. Perry, as the commissioner appointed by said decree, will proceed to sell, in front of the postoffice in Stanton, Chilton county, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, on

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1906,

the following described lands, to-wit: Northwest quarter of section sixteen (16), in township twenty (20), range eleven (11, containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres; also forty (40) acres of the southeast end of the west half of northeast quarter of section sixteen (16), in township twenty (20), range eleven (11), and situated, lying and being in Chilton county, Alabama, and known as "The Paul Estate Lands."

This the 16th day of October, 1906.

WILLIAM O. PERRY,
10-18-06 Commissioner.

FOR SALE.

A fine yoke of oxen, about 3 years old, to be sold cheap. I live five miles east of Jemison.

MARION GLASSCOCK,
tf Jemison, R. F. D. 2.

Notice No. 20795.
NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.
Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 28, 1906.

Notice is hereby given that William F. Armstrong, of Clear Creek, Ala., has filed notice of his intention to make final five years proof in support of his claim, viz., homestead entry No. 33166, made September 6, 1899, for the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter, section 22, township 24 north, range 13 east, and that said proof will be made before clerk of Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on November 1, 1906.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of the land, viz.: Joseph M. Broadhead, W. Rufus Holditch, William M. Aldritch, Lee Busby, all of Calera, Ala.

ROBERT D. JOHNSTON,
8-30-06 tf Register.

CLANTON ACADEMY,

Clanton, Alabama,

Possesses superior advantages to pupils of all grades, prepares them to enter the best colleges and universities, trains teachers to stand examination for any grade certificate and qualifies them the better to fill a place in their profession.

L. J. THOMPSON,
tf Principal.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for sheriff of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people at the November election, 1906.

ROLLEFFE BATES.

adv (tf)

GINNING SFASON 1906-7

We have engaged Joe and Walter Maddox to run and operate our gins for the coming season. We have the best machinery and with these men to operate it, we can guarantee entire satisfaction to those who patronize us. Bring us your cotton.

Respectfully
Chilton Warehouse & M,f,g. Company. tf.

FOR SALE.

30 young cockerels. Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Golden Laced Wyandotts, Buff, Brown and White Leghorns. Prices 50c to $1.50. All birds pure bred and of good quality.

J. B. Downs,
tf Clanton, Ala.

Fall and Winter Hardware

Heating Stoves, Coal Hods, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Vases, Fire Guards, Window Panes and Putty,

PIPE AND FITTING.

Can secure repairs for machinery from us much cheaper and in less time than from Birmingham or Montgomery. We carry Inspirators, Lubricators, Glass Oil Cups, Check and Globe Valves, Jets, Packing, Rubber Belting and Gandy Stitched Belt, Engine and Cylinder Oil, Axle Oil and Axle Grease.

ROOFING.

We have in stock Galvanized and Iron Roofing, and our price will make this roofing cheaper for you than shingles, and is much easier to put in use.

PAINTS.

The Hammar Paint and Sun Proof Paint are as good as any on the market. We have pure Linseed Oil and Lead, and if you prefer to do your own mixing, we are prepared to furnish you the necessary coloring.

BUILDERS' HARDWARE.

We can save you money on this line. Have a full stock of Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Sash Cord. Call on us for prices before placing your order.

SPIGENER & JONES

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton, Alabama

"BING CLOTHES"

Are the Clothes for Men and Boys

Do you know that you can buy here Ready-to-Wear Clothes that no tailor can make for less than nearly double the price we ask?

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for fall is now complete; the styles are decided and we are showing absolutely correct styles. New Jackets, new Skirts, new Dress Goods, new Waist Goods, new Hats, new Shirts, new Neckwear. A complete line of Star Brand Shoes.

"Star Brand Shoes are Better"

Also a complete line of hardware, cooking stoves, harness, saddlery and Florence wagons. Come to see us before you buy elsewhere.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, :-: :-: Alabama.

E. G. Rollins & Co.

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise, Clothing, Shoes and Fancy Groceries.

CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN FARM.

Barred Plymouth Rocks

PURE BRED

Setting of 15 fresh eggs for 50c. Packing for shipping 10c extra.

PURE BRED

Duroc Jersey Hogs.

Write us for prices before you buy. Address,

W. Y. NIX,
Maplesville, Alabama.

Bank Saloon

CALERA, ALA.

Fine Wines, Whiskies, Brandies, Beer, Cigars and Tobacco

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, fetid breath or bad taste in mouth, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea, at times and hundred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, so-called dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Queen's root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The following leading medical authorities, among a host of others, extol the foregoing roots for the cure of just such ailments as the above symptoms indicate: Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Med. College, Phila.; Prof. H. C. Wood, M. D., of Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., Author of American Dispensatory; Prof. Jas. M. Scudder, M. D., Author of Specific Medicines; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., Med. Dept. Univ. of N. Y.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., Author of Materia Medica and Prof. in Bennett Medical College, Chicago. Send name and address on Postal Card to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive free booklet giving extracts from writings of all the above medical authors and many others endorsing, in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient of which "Golden Medical Discovery" is composed.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They may be used in conjunction with "Golden Medical Discovery" if bowels are much constipated. They're tiny and sugar-coated.

Bat's Sixth Sense.

"If you blind a bat," said a biologist, "the creature, somehow, will still see. If you doubt this, consult Levy.

"Levy, the great authority, once removed the eyes of several bats, and covered the vacant sockets with leather patches. In this condition the bats flew about the room, avoiding the walls and corners, and when a door was opened they flew out of it without touching the jamb or the frame.

"Afterward, in flying through a sewer that made a right angle, the bats turned at the proper point without brushing the walls, and they flew through threads suspended from the ceiling without touching them, though between the threads there was only an interval sufficient for their passage with spread pinions.

"Bats, living in the dark, have found their eyes almost useless, and have developed a sixth sense that takes the place of eyesight."—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

The poverty of Southern Italy does not reveal itself in rags or leanness, but in the multitude of little things the people do—gathering twigs, scraping fertilizers from the roads, cutting handfuls of grass—in short, the intense economy of utilization, which seems odd and painful to the traveler from wasteful America.

Undertaking to live for twenty-one days on four meals a day of canned meat and fish, a man has offered himself to Armour & Company for exhibition in London.

The oldest stone axe known is claimed by M. B. Cotesworth, a Yorkshire man. The semi-circular blade is about eight inches across, an inch and a half thick, and ground down to a fine edge, with a stiff, stout haft, possibly cut to fit into a wooden cleft handle. Strited scratches prove its pre-glacial origin, and establish the existence of man in the north of England in pre-glacial times.

German women are long-lived.

NO DAWDLING

A Man of 70 After Finding Coffee Hurt Him, Stopped Short.

When a man has lived to be 70 years old with a 40-year-old habit grown to him like a knot on a tree, chances are he'll stick to the habit till he dies.

But occasionally the spirit of youth and determination remains in some men to the last day of their lives. When such men do find any habit of life has been doing them harm, they surprise the Osslerites by a degree of will power that is supposed to belong to men under 40, only.

"I had been a user of coffee until three years ago—a period of 40 years—and am now 70," writes a N. Dak. man. "I was extremely nervous and debilitated, and saw plainly that I must make a change.

"I am thankful to say I had the nerve to quit coffee at once and take on Postum without any dawdling, and experienced no ill effects. On the contrary, I commenced to gain, losing my nervousness within two months, also gaining strength and health otherwise.

"For a man of my age, I am very well and hearty. I sometimes meet persons who have not made their Postum right and don't like it. But I tell them to boil it long enough, and call their attention to my looks now, and before I used it, that seems convincing.

"Now, when I have writing to do, or long columns of figures to cast up, I feel equal to it and can get through my work without the fagged out feeling of old." Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Changes.

When I was a child,
And he was a child,
And he lived over the way—
My mother wouldn't let him come,
When I went out to play.

For he chewed gum—
And he said "darn,"
And "bully" too, and "hook!"
And mother said you'd hardly find
Such words in Webster's book.

And though I longed
To play with him,
He seemed to have such fun—
I had to stay inside our yard
With Jack, the Colonel's son.

And now—they're rich;
Have moved into
The biggest house in town,
And have a gorgeous coat-of-arms—
A lion and a crown.

But the queerest thing
About it all,
Is mother's change—not theirs.
For now—she say's he's most correct—
And I must stop my airs!

—Lippincott's Magazine.

OUT OF THE FOG

BY THEODORE ROBERTS.

The skipper, who had been leaning back with his shoulders against the after bulkhead, bent forward and squared his arms on the table. "I've often enough called myself hard names for treatin' that boy as I did," he said. "But hard names don't split cut ropes, Mr. Burke."

I nodded. It was not my place to comment freely, for at that stage of my varied career I was filling the humble position of mate of the stout bark Arctic Hare. However, I had nothing to complain of. Captain Halyard treated me, unofficially, as an equal—and where is the duke or king who can lay claim to more than that from a master mariner aboard his own ship?

"The boy was all for the sea, and wouldn't hear of any extra schoolin', so I gave him a chance," continued the skipper. "He signed on with me for a voyage to Brazil and back as an ordinary seaman. He bunked and ate for'ard. That was his place. That's where I was when I first went to sea. He was in the mate's watch and I told the mate to see that he did his work.

"On Sundays I called him aft and let him read in here; but other days I treated him just like the other men—which was fair and square, but pretty un-demonstrative. I thought it was all fine and noble of me, and used to brag about it to the mate. He wasn't enthusiastic though. He said that no boy could consider his father as nothing but the skipper. I told him that was the right way of it, and that the lad would thank me for it some day, when sailing with a stranger.

"'On work days,' said I, 'I am the skipper. On Sundays I am his father. He understands that it's for his own good.'

"You see I was mighty sure of myself in those days!"

Here Captain Halyard paused, and stared vacantly at the gay cage of the skylight above him.

"Evidently something went wrong. How was that, sir?" I ventured.

"How was that?" he exclaimed, sitting up, savagely. "Ah, if I could only forget how it was, Mr. Burke!"

His voice dwindled. He eyed me appealingly, and glanced away. "It was about his playing the accordion," he added.

I had nothing to say to that. I listened to the footsteps of the boatswain on the poop overhead. I could see that Halyard was anxious to tell me the story, and yet was ashamed of it. He fingered an almanac that lay before him, and fussed about in a most exasperating manner.

"Well," he said, "to make it short, the boy had a weakness for playing the accordion. He played it well, too. He kept the fo'castle gay with his music.

"But it jarred on me, somehow or other; and one night I called him aft and told him to quit—told him that a boy who was content to pump tunes for a lot of common seamen would never get aft of the galley himself. He took the word quietly, standing here on this very strip of carpet, with his cap in his hand.

"If he'd argued, maybe it would have been better for both of us. About a week after that, late one night, I awoke and went on deck by way of the after companion. I heard the accordion playing very softly and cautiously. The man at the wheel had the tail of his eye on me.

"I went for'ard, quiet as a thief in my canvas slippers. It was a fine night, with the moon clear and full and the trade blowing steady. The old girl was walking along as if a giant had her on a tow-line.

"For'ard of the men's deck-house I found Jack and the accordion. Both watches were squatting round. The lookout had his back to his business, and his eyes and ears on the player.

"I gave the boy a piece of what I thought was my mind. It was as nasty a tongue-lashing as you'd want to forget. At the end of it I told him I couldn't thrash him because he was a British seaman. Then I sent the men hopping, and went back to bed.

"Next Sunday Jack didn't come aft. Like a fool, I didn't send for him. So we made the round trip without another word between us. 'I'll fix him when we get ashore,' I used to say to myself.

"Well, Jack got paid off with the rest of the crew, and that's the last I have seen of him. I hear he is on the Banks, fishing with the Gloucester fleet now. About a year ago his mother received a letter from him, with a Boston postmark on the envelope."

Halyard stood up and pulled on his oilskins.

"That's the story, Mr. Burke," he said, quietly. "Please don't tell me what you think of it. I'm going on deck. You had better turn in."

Just then a seaman knocked on the door and opened it a crack.

"T'ickenin' up, sir!" he said. "Bo'sun wants to know if he'll get out de fog-horns."

"Yes," said the skipper. He pulled his sou'wester well down on his head, tied the strings under his chin, and followed the sailor. I hastened to my berth off the outer cabin, and, like the skipper, attired myself in rough-weather clothes.

When I reached the high deck of the poop the fog lay over us and round us, cold and damp. One horn was being worked on the fo'castle-head and another on the poop. The noise was appalling.

"That's too much! Make it once in two minutes and alternately!" shouted the skipper to the boatswain.

"Aye, aye, sir," replied the boatswain, briskly.

Then, aside to me, "What do he mean by dat?" he asked.

"One at a time—turn and turn about," I whispered.

Halyard and I stood side by side, with our hands on the windward rail and the fog smoking round us. The old bark pitched to the gray valleys and climbed again up the gray, unstable hills.

"No need of the lead to tell us we're in soundings," I remarked.

"We're on the Banks—just on the edge of them," replied the skipper.

"Queer we don't hear a horn or two in answer to the row we're making," I said, leaning over the iron rail of the poop and straining my eyes against the thickening fog.

"Hark!" said the skipper, with a hand on my shoulder. I turned an attentive ear to the wind.

"Don't you catch that?" he asked. His voice was low and eager.

I shook my head. I could hear nothing in the lull between the bellowings of our horns except the tumbling of the seas and the complaining passage of the ship.

"There! Dead to windward!" exclaimed Halyard, after a minute's silence.

This time I caught something—hardly more than a suggestion of sound—like a faint strain of music. Then the horns gave tongue again, like a pack of unearthly hounds hunting in the fog.

When their clamor was done, the skipper glanced at me shyly.

"Wasn't it music?" he asked.

"I am not sure that I heard anything," I replied.

He had nothing to say to that.

Presently I heard the noise again, loud enough to be sure of it.

"It's an accordion," I said.

"See here, Mr. Burke," said Halyard, "what's a man about, playing an accordion off there in the fog? Is he just amusing himself? Or is it a signal? Or is he trying to keep up the hearts of himself and his dory mates?"

"The last two reasons seem likely enough, sir," I replied. "The playing sounds pretty weak, too."

"Take the port life-boat, Mr. Burke, and men from your own watch. We'll lay to."

I nodded, and started down the ladder to the main-deck.

The port life-boat was soon swung out and lowered. My four men of Harbor Grace pulled her up to windward with every ounce of muscle, from toes to shoulders, in the stroke. I glanced back. The bark loomed like a shadow in the fog.

The waves swelled above us with dizzy regularity. Now the rowers were under me, with their red, set faces turned upward. Now they were high above me, with all their weight on their feet. But they pulled as steady as clockwork, with Bill Duncan giving them the stroke.

Suddenly the accordion sounded again, close in front.

Bow-oar turned his head.

"Easy, all!" I cried.

A crest of gray sank under our cutwater; and there, in the valley, lay a dory. She was drifting sullenly before the wind. A figure crouched astern, steering with a fragment of of board. A second figure sat forward, feebly closing and expanding a battered accordion!

The story was plain. The dory mates, fishing from a Banks' schooner, had been lost, probably for days, in the fog—a common enough accident there.

The dory wallowed to meet us. We drove along her gunwale, knocking the piece of deal from the steersman's hands. In less time than I'm taking to tell it we dragged the weak and bewildered voyagers into the boat, and pulled away from the dory. It was cleverly done, though I have say it myself.

We pulled back to the ship with only two oars. The others of the crew held each a half-conscious fisherman, and forced brandy between their blue lips. We ran under the lee of the bark and tackled on, fore and aft, in short order. Then I gave the men the word, and they went up the "falls" like monkeys, and over the side. Anxious faces stared down at us under black sou-westers. I held the boat off with an oar. The rescued fishermen lay between the seats.

"Hoist away!" I shouted.

Up we went, clear of the bulwarks, and were swung in by eager hands. I jumped to the deck, and in so doing collided violently with the skipper. He shouldered me aside without a glance, and caught up the limp figure of the youth with the accordion.

"Jack!" he cried. "Jack, boy, it's your old daddy!"

We made way for him as he started aft with his burden. At the cabin door he turned. We could see that the lad's arm was round his neck.

"Mr. Burke, you see to his dory mate," he said. "It's food and blankets they want, poor lads!"

"Well," exclaimed the boatswain, as we rolled the other castaway in blankets, "if dat don't put the comether on de story-books I has been readin', then ye may name me for a liar!"—Youth's Companion.

NEW LINEN PLANT.

A Brazilian Product Which Is More Abundant Than Flax.

In a recent report to the government in Washington the United States Consul General at Rio Janeiro describes a plant which resembles flax, but is remarkably abundant in Brazil. It is virtually a weed, reaching a height of twelve or fifteen feet in four or five months. Experiments in cultivation are now in progress on several plantations, the largest of the latter being at Rodeiro and Boa Vista. The product is to be sold in England and Ireland. The fibre is said to be equal to the best European flax, but the plant itself seems to be superior in two or three respects. It is hardy and requires little attention after sowing. It thrives equally well in wet and dry weather and in all kinds of soil. A corp matures in three months, and in the tropics three crops a year are possible. From the fact that Brazilian flax will grow on waste land, of which there is a vast amount in Brazil, and from the circumstances that no cultivation seems to be required, the Brazilians think that it will prove much cheaper than the best flax grown elsewhere.

The fibre runs generally into three grades, the finest of which corresponds to the best linen, the second to coarse linen and the third to European hemp. From the fibre of the plant, therefore, come both fine linen and strong rope. The residue of the plant is composed of high grade cellulos, said to be especially suitable for the manufacture of fine writing paper, the whiteness and clearness of the stem of the plant simplifying the process of manufacture. The fibre is adapted to dyeing and bleaching. The dyed samples have a lustre and silky appearance.

Samples of fibre have been transmitted to Washington, and portions will be loaned by the Bureau of Manufactures on application from American textile manufacturers. These were taken from a plant growing wild. The cultivated product shows a finer fibre with strands of greater length, being much longer than European linen or hemp. In fact, it is so long that it must be cut before being used for weaving purposes.

CAN CONCRETE BE WATERTIGHT?

Various Measures Adopted to Make It So.

In many of the kinds of construction for which concrete is now used—the building of embankments and houses, for instance—it does not matter much whether it is watertight or not. In others it does. Concrete would furnish a poor lining for a reservoir if any considerable quantity of water could soak through it. This would also be true, perhaps, of cellar walls that were liable to be surrounded outside by floods.

Now, here are two or three facts which have a bearing on the question of preventing leakage, or, as the civil engineers call it, seepage. In the first place, a concrete which is made rather wet is likely to have finer passages through it than concrete that is made pretty dry. It sets more slowly, but is equally strong. Sometimes a layer of one kind of concrete is covered with another. The last may be made in a different way from the first, and if plenty of water is used the grain will be fine.

It has also been observed that after a time the pores of concrete will become at least partially clogged with fine particles carried by the water in a stream or reservoir. Seepage will sometimes diminish, if it does not disappear, from this cause after a few months. Perhaps it would not be safe to count on that result always, but it would not be unreasonable to expect a slow improvement occasionally from the situation existing at first.

Some experiments were recently described by "The Engineering Record," the object of which was to hasten the development of a state of watertightness. Water, which had evidently not been treated with chemicals, was forced through the concrete under steady pressure. The author of the plan, Baldwin Wiseman, fancies that a part of the solid material is dissolved and then deposited elsewhere inside the stone. "The Engineering Record," however, regards it "doubtful whether reliance can generally be placed upon this procedure. It is so highly probable as to be practically certain that careful balancing of the materials, fine grinding of the cement and the most thorough and wet mixing must be chiefly, if not wholly, depended upon to produce the impermeable concrete."

WHO SHE WA

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PIN

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Com Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" C it to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug S

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert and investigating mind, an earnest seeker after knowledge, and above all, possessed of a wonderfully sympathetic nature.

In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness. They had four children, three sons and a daughter.

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies—calling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and experience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative properties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as nature so bountifully provides in the harvest-fields and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the field there are remedies expressly designed to cure the various ills and weaknesses of the body, and it was her pleasure to search these out, and prepare simple and effective medicines for her own family and friends.

Chief of these was a rare combination of the choicest medicinal roots and herbs found best adapted for the cure of the ills and weaknesses peculiar to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pinkham's friends and neighbors learned that her compound relieved and cured and it became quite popular among them.

All this so far was done freely, without money and without price, as a labor of love.

But in 1873 the financial crisis struck Lynn. Its length and severity were too much for the large real estate interests of the Pinkham family, as this class of business suffered most from fearful depression, so when the Centennial year dawned it found their property swept away. Some other source of income had to be found.

At this point Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world.

The three sons and the daughter, with their mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. ... argued that the medicine ... so good for their woman ... neighbors was equally good ... women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no ... little credit. Their first ... was the kitchen, where ... herbs were steeped or ... gradually filling a grave ... it, for always before they ... it away freely. They hired ... printer to run off some ... setting forth the merits of ... cine, now called Lydia E. ... Vegetable Compound, and ... distributed by the Pinkham ... Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever ... recommended it to others, and ... mand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts ... ily had saved enough money to ... mence newspaper advertising ... that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured. ... day Lydia E. Pinkham and her ... table Compound have become ... hold words everywhere, and ... tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of her work. She passed to her reward ... ago, but not till she had ... means for continuing her ... effectively as she could have ... herself.

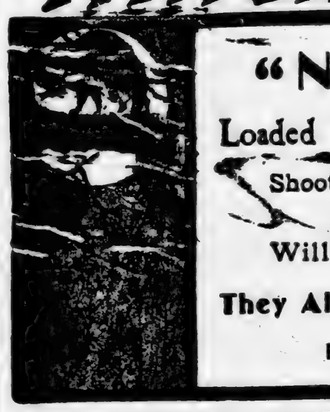
During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every woman who applied to her for ... and there were thousands ... careful study, and the details ... ing symptoms, treatment and ... were recorded for future reference. ... to-day these records, together with ... hundreds of thousands made ... available to sick women the ... over, and represent a vast collection of information regarding ... treatment of woman's ills, whose ... authenticity and accuracy cannot ... be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham's ... daughter-in-law, the present ... Pinkham. She was carefully trained ... in all her hard-won knowledge ... for years she assisted her in her correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when her ... tor passed away. For nearly ... five years she has continued ... nothing in the work shows ... first Lydia E. Pinkham drew ... pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham ... now the mother of a large family ... it up. With woman assistants ... capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, probably from the office of no other person have so many women ... vised how to regain health. ... men, this advice is "Yours for health freely given if you only write ... for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, ... from simple roots and herbs, ... great medicine for women ... and the fitting monument to the ... woman whose name it bears.

WINCHESTER



"NUBLACK"
Loaded Black Powder Shells
Shoot Strong and Evenly,
Are Sure Fire,
Will Stand Reloading.
They Always Get The Game
For Sale Everywhere.

Oysters live to the age of 12 to 15 years.

TERRIBLE SCALP HUMOR.

Head Covered With Humor Sores, With Loss of Hair—Another Speedy Cure by Cuticura Remedies.

"All my life I had been troubled more or less with humor in my scalp, but about a year ago it became worse, and my scalp was covered with little sores, which itched so it nearly made me crazy; my hair also began to get dry and fall out. I tried all kinds of hair restorers with no effect, and I was nearly discouraged, but one day I was reading in a paper what the Cuticura Remedies had done for scalp diseases, and decided to make a trial. I got a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent Pills. I used them according to directions, and soon noticed a difference; the tiny sores on my scalp began to heal, the itching stopped, and my hair began to grow thick. I have used only the one cake of Cuticura Soap, one box of Ointment and one vial of Pills, and now I have no humor on my scalp and my hair is soft and silky. Miss Mayzie C. Atkins, Box 32, East Orleans, Mass., Mar. 19, 1905."

The Exploitation of the ...

Five years ago we who live ... far west were wondering ... marvellous resources of ... the United States would be ... and exploited. To-day we ... find our forest stripped, and ... where we pitched our tents ... smudges, and fried our ... game made desolate by the ... and the freight car. The ... we speared our salmon and ... ing waters of the northwest ... we cast our seins have been ... fill the labelled tins of highly ... ized syndicates, until the ... of the "sock-eye," the most ... of all salmon, has become the ... of interstate conference. ... mense plains, whose phenomenal ... ductivity made legends of our ... Sloughs" and our "Yuba Dam" ... ing turned into irrigated ... into trolley-strewn highways ... dense social conditions of Ohio ... and Illinois.—Reader.

Cock-crowing competitions ... ular in Belgium.

A Lost Chance.

...ldren at the Neighborhood ... telling their embroidery ... teacher of a little girl who ... ght would be much benefited ... se of settlement instruction ... kind of simple Nora is," said ...ora's acquaintances. "There's ... things she ought to learn ... n't know how to take the ...ntages, Miss Marvin."

"...o you mean, Maggie?" asked ...cher, looking with inward ...t at the sober young face ... a somewhat grimy square ...

"...like this," said Maggie, rais... eyes for a moment. "Yester... was with me into the provi..., and she was sniffing away ...neapples, that you can smell ... and there was a piece of ... that the man hardly ever ... behind her back."

...rgantown, N. Y., one of the ...itnessed in the harvest field ... Hartz last season was his ...Moses Hartz, who although ...ven years of age, worked in ...binding wheat. He worked ... and stood it very well. The ... noted for logevity. Elias ... Reading, the goose-bone ...prognosticator, is a brother.

...RESTING CONTEST.

... Cost of Unpaid Postage.

...f the most curious contests ...re the public was conducted ... thousand persons under the ...the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., ... Creek, Mich., for prizes of ... of gold and 300 greenbacks ... making the most words out ...tters Y-I-O-Grape-Nuts.

...ontest was started in Febru... 6, and it was arranged to ... prizes awarded on Apr. 30.

... the public announcement ... many persons began to ... words from these letters, ...s the whole family being ... evenings, a combination of ...nt and education.

... a while the lists began to ... to the Postum Office, and be... the volume grew until it ... wagons to carry the mail. ...f the contestants were ...ss enough to send their lists ...fficient postage and for a ... cost the Company from ...ve to fifty-eight and sixty ... day to pay the unpaid post...

... ladies, generally those who ...uated from the high school, ...ployed to examine those lists ...t the correct words. Web...ictionary was the standard. ... list was very carefully cor...except those which fell below ... It soon became clear that ...below that could win. Some ...sts required the work of a ...dy for a solid week on each ...l list. The work was done ...efully and accurately, but ...any had no idea, at the time ... was made, that the people ...spond so generally, and they ...pelled to fill every available ...the offices with these young ...iners, and notwithstanding ...ked steadily, it was impossi...mplete the examination until ... over six months after the ...uld have been awarded. ...elay caused a great many ... and naturally created some ...ction. It has been thought ...make this report in practi... of the newspapers in the ...ates and many of the maga...order to make clear to the ...e conditions of the contest. ...lists contained enormous ... of words which, under the ...d to be eliminated. "Peg...ld count, "Peggers" would ...e lists contained over 50,... ...ds, the great majority of ...ere cut out. The largest ...e checked over two and in ...s three times to insure ac...

...00.00 gold prize was won by ...ne, 1227-15th St., Denver, ...h 9941 correct words. The ...10.00 gold prize went to S. ..., Lincoln, Pa., with 9921 ...ords.

...plete list of the 331 winners ...r home addresses will be ...y contestant enquiring on ...ard.

... and give name and address ...

...test has cost the Co. many ... dollars, and probably has ... a profitable advertisement, ...en, perhaps some who had ...ore tried Grape-Nuts food ... interested in the contest, ... trial of the food have been ... wonderful rebuilding pow...

...es in a practical manner ...tifically gathered food ele...ing be selected from the field ...ich nature will use for re...the nerve centres and brain ... that is unmistakable to ...rape-Nuts.

...'s a reason."

...HE WA...

...OF LYDIA E. PIN...

...he Vegetable Com...
...he "Panic of '73" C...
...lic Sale in Drug S...

...estore the family fortune...
...rgued that the medicine wh...
...good for their woman fri...
...ighbors was equally good...
...omen of the whole world.
The Pinkhams had no ma...
...ttle credit. Their first la...
...as the kitchen, where ro...
...erbs were steeped on th...
...radually filling a grass of...
...hen came the question of...
...for always before they ha...
...away freely. They hire...
...inter to run off some po...
...tting forth the merits of t...
...ne, now called Lydia E. Pi...
...egetable Compound, and th...
...stributed by the Pinkham...
...oston, New York, and Liver...
The wonderful curative prop...
...e medicine were, to a great...
...lf-advertising, for whoever...
...commended it to others, and...
...and gradually increased.
In 1877, by combined efforts...
...y had saved enough money...
...ence newspaper advertising...
...at time the growth and s...
...e enterprise were assured...
...y Lydia E Pinkham and h...
...ble Compound have become...
...old words everywhere, and...
...ns of roots and herbs are us...
...ly in its manufacture.
Lydia E. Pinkham herself...
...ve to see the great success...
...ork. She passed to her rewa...
...go, but not till she had...
...eans for continuing her...
...fectively as she could have...
...erself.
During her long and eventf...
...ence she was ever methodical...
...ork and she was always careful...
...rve a record of every case that...
...r attention. The case of ev...
...oman who applied to her for...
...d there were thousands...
...reful study, and the details...
...g symptoms, treatment and...
...re recorded for future refere...
...-day these records, togeth...
...ndreds of thousands made s...
...ailable to sick women the...
...er, and represent a vast co...
...on of information regard...
...eatment of woman's ills, w...
...thenticity and accuracy can...
...equaled in any library...
...orld.
With Lydia E. Pinkham wor...
...ughter-in-law, the present...
...nkham. She was carefully in...
...all her hard-won knowled...
...r years she assisted her in h...
...rrespondence.
To her hands naturally f...
...rection of the work when its...
...r passed away. For nearly...
...e years she has continued...
...thing in the work shows w...
...st Lydia E. Pinkham dropp...
...n, and the present Mrs. P...
...w the mother of a large fami...
...up. With woman assistants...
...pable as herself, the presen...
...nkham continues this great w...
...obably from the office of n...
...rson have so many women l...
...ed how to regain health. S...
...en, this advice is "Yours for...
...ely given if you only write...
...r it.
Such is the history of Lydia E...
...m's Vegetable Compound...
...om simple roots and herbs;...
...eat medicine for women's ail...
...d the fitting monument to th...
...oman whose name it bears.

...ESTER...
...BLACK"...
...ack Powder She...
...trong and Evenly.
...e Sure Fire,
...tand Reloading.
...ys Get The Gam...
...Sale Everywhere.

The Exploitation of the W...
...ive years ago we who lived...
...west were wondering wh...
...rvellous resources of one-th...
United States would be disc...
...exploited. To-day we awa...
...our forest stripped, and the...
...ere we pitched our tents, be...
...dges, and fried our bacon...
...ne made desolate by the ste...
...the freight car. The rivers...
...speared our salmon and the...
...waters of the northwest...
...cast our seins have been m...
...the labelled tins of highly...
...syndicates, until the produc...
...he "sock-eye," the most de...
...all salmon, has become the c...
...interstate conference. The...
...nse plains, whose phenome...
...tivity made legends of our...
...ughs" and our "Yuba Empire"...
...turned into irrigated plea...
...trolley-strewn highways, in...
...se social conditions of Chi...
...Illinois.—Reader.

...ock-crowing competitions...
...in Belgium.

...was in some western
...a farmer who hired a
...morning he told the
...the calf. The boy
...nd rubbed it all
...it into the hair.
...scented the salt and
...calf up. They licked all
...the poor calf's back. The
...to catch the calf to
...the calf, thinking he
...too, ran through a hole
...and disappeared down

A Lost Chance.

...ren at the Neighborhood
...their embroidery
...teacher of a little girl who
...would be much benefited
...of settlement instruction.
...of simple. Nora is," said
...acquaintances. "There's
...things she ought to learn.
...know how to take the ...ages, Miss Marvin."
"...you mean, Maggie?" asked
...looking with inward
...at the sober young face
...somewhat grimy square
...this," said Maggie, rais-
...for a moment. "Yester-
...with me into the provi-
...and she was sniffing away
...apples, that you can smell
...and there was a piece of
...that the man hardly ever
...behind her back."

...town, N. Y., one of the ...ressed in the harvest field
...Hartz last season was his
...Hartz, who although
...years of age, worked in ...binding wheat. He worked
...and stood it very well. The ...noted for logevity. Elias
...Reading, the goose-bone
...prognosticator, is a brother.

...RESTING CONTEST.
...Cost of Unpaid Postage.

...of the most curious contests
...the public was conducted
...thousand persons under the
...the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd.,
...Creek, Mich., for prizes of
...of gold and 300 greenbacks
...making the most words out
...letters Y-I-O-Grape-Nuts.
...contest was started in Febru-
..., and it was arranged to
...prizes awarded on Apr. 30,
...the public announcement
...many persons began to
...words from these letters,
...the whole family being
...evenings, a combination of
...and education.
...while the lists began to
...to the Postum Office, and be-
...the volume grew until it
...wagons to carry the mail.
...the contestants were
...enough to send their lists
...sufficient postage and for a
...cost the Company from
...five to fifty-eight and sixty
...day to pay the unpaid post-
...ladies, generally those who
...graduated from the high school,
...employed to examine those lists
...the correct words. Web-
...Dictionary was the standard,
...list was very carefully cor-
...except those which fell below
...it soon became clear that
...below that could win. Some ...who required the work of a
...day for a solid week on each
...list. The work was done
...carefully and accurately, but ...company had no idea, at the time
...it was made, that the people
...would respond so generally, and they
...were compelled to fill every available
...in the offices with these young
...members, and notwithstanding
...worked steadily, it was impossi...ble to complete the examination until ...nearly over six months after the
...should have been awarded.
...delay caused a great many
...and naturally created some
...criticism. It has been thought
...to make this report in practi...cal of the newspapers in the ...States and many of the maga-
...in order to make clear to the
...the conditions of the contest.
...lists contained enormous
...of words which, under the ...rule to be eliminated. "Peg-
...would count, "Peggers" would
...some lists contained over 50,-
...Here the great majority of
...were cut out. The largest ...was checked over two and in
...some three times to insure ac-
...racy.
...$10 00 gold prize was won by
...Pierce, 1227-15th St., Denver,
...with 9941 correct words. The
...$10 00 gold prize went to S.
...Lincoln, Pa., with 9921
...words.
...complete list of the 331 winners
...their home addresses will be ...any contestant enquiring on
...a card.
...Send give name and address
...contest has cost the Co. many ...dollars, and probably has
...a profitable advertisement.
...Others, perhaps some who had
...before tried Grape-Nuts food
...and interested in the contest,
...a trial of the food have been
...the wonderful rebuilding pow...ers.
...acted in a practical manner
...scientifically gathered food ele-
...must be selected from the field
...which nature will use for re-
...the nerve centres and brain
...for that is unmistakable to
...Grape-Nuts
...for a reason."

AN IDEAL DUSTER.

A soft chamois skin soaked in cold water and then wrung nearly dry is the ideal duster. It can be used on the finest furniture and it will leave a clean, bright surface.

A THREE-CORNERED TEAR.

A three-cornered tear is a nasty thing to mend neatly. If it comes where there is no strain or wear whatever it may be best darned by simply sewing the edges together with a plain "in-and-out" or adapted "herringbone" stitch. If the tear is near a seam and there is some wear on the part, put a square patch on the outside, baste it neatly on, putting one side into the seam, stitch it on with the sewing machine close to the edge and cut away the goods underneath, leaving just enough to overcast. This will be a less obnoxious patch than the old-fashioned one run underneath with the worn or torn goods hemmed down on the outside.

PROPER FOOD FOR CHILDREN.

A specialist advises the following as a guide to mothers who need advice in selecting nursery food:

Except in very rare cases, where it can not be taken, milk should always be the basis of diet for children from one to three years old. Give one quart daily without dilution unless the milk is very rich; have it warm and never iced.

Eggs must be soft-boiled or poached and never fried. Give eggs not oftener than three times a week.

After the child is eighteen months old and most of the teeth are present, give meat once a day, finely chopped or scraped. Rare roast beef, roast lamb, broiled mutton chop or beef steak, white meat of chicken, turkey and fresh fish boiled or broiled, after being sure to remove the bones, are all allowable.

For vegetables, give baked potatoes after a child is two years old, but not before. Peas, asparagus tops, spinach, string beans, boiled onions, stewed celery, all well and properly cooked in season and fresh, may also be given without danger of injury.

All cereals should be well cooked and given with milk, well salted and they are better without sugar. They will include oatmeal, wheat preparations, hominy, barley, rice, farina and arrowroot.

For broths, give beef juice extracted from half a pound of round steak, also mutton, beef or chicken broth.

Bread and crackers in some form should be given at every meal; toast sweiback, graham, oatmeal and graham crackers. Do not give crackers between meals.

After two and a half years give plain custards, ice cream, if pure, rice pudding without raisins and baked apples. Oranges, pears, grapes and berries may be eaten in moderate quantity if the fruit is fully ripe and free from decay.—E. R. Beach, in The Epitomist.

RECEIPS.

Soft Caramels—For a pound brown sugar allow one cupful milk, a tablespoonful and a half of butter, and half a cake grated chocolate. Cook nine minutes, take from the fire and stir steadily five minutes, but not until too stiff to pour. Turn into a buttered pan and mark in squares. This candy will be crumbly and rich.

Nut Caramels—Put into a saucepan a quarter of a pound grated unsweetened chocolate, four ounces butter, one pound brown sugar, a half cupful molasses, the same amount of cream and a half teaspoonful vanilla. Cook until a little dropped in cold water is brittle, then add a pound of nuts chopped fine. The nuts may be of one kind or mixed, as preferred.

Cheese Potatoes—Boil potatoes in salt water, rub them until soft, add three tablespoonfuls of grated cheese, a little milk and a little butter. Put them into a pudding dish, scatter bread crumbs over the top and bake for half an hour or more.

A Handy Salad Dressing—A jar of this easily made and wonderfully good dressing always at hand makes play of the salad course. Mix together one tablespoonful of salt, the same quantity of dry mustard, four tablespoonfuls of sugar and two of flour. Add four egg yolks slightly beaten, five tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one and one-half cupfuls of milk and a half cupful of vinegar, the latter added slowly. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until thick. Press through a fine sieve and add paprika. This dressing will keep for weeks.

Horseradish Sauce—Two ounces of horseradish, six tablespoonfuls vinegar, one tablespoonful sugar, one-half dozen peppers. Grate the horseradish, mix it with salt, sugar and pepper. Add the cream or milk gradually and heat the whole over the fire, stirring well all the time. If allowed to boil it will spoil. Serve with hot roast beef.

Toasted Cheese—Put a thick layer of cheese on strips of bread and butter; dust with a little salt, red pepper and a few drops of onion juice. Run into a hot oven until the cheese is melted. Serve at once.

Tomato Fondu—Put a half pint of tomato into a saucepan. When boiling add one pound of grated cheese and a level teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and a dash of red pepper. Stir until the consistency of cream. Pour on crackers or toast and serve at once.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3.50 & $3.00 Shoes
BEST IN THE WORLD

W.L.Douglas $4 Gilt Edge line cannot be equalled at any price

SHOES FOR EVERYBODY AT ALL PRICES.
Men's Shoes, $5 to $1.50. Boys' Shoes, $3 to $1.25. Women's Shoes, $4.00 to $1.50. Misses' & Children's Shoes, $2.25 to $1.00.
Try W. L. Douglas Women's, Misses and Children's shoes; for style, fit and wear they excel other makes.
If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W.L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than any other make.
Wherever you live, you can obtain W. L. Douglas shoes. His name and price is stamped on the bottom, which protects you against high prices and inferior shoes. Take no substitute. Ask your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes and insist upon having them.
Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.
Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Dept. 15, Brockton, Mass.

Derrick.

One of the big railroad systems is building new ferry slips on the North river front, and an enormous derrick was floating there the other day. A passenger crossing the stream said to his companion: "See that derrick? I'll bet you the best dinner at the St. Regis you don't know the origin of the name. You know what a derrick is, of course, and possibly have seen it at work, but why is it a derrick?" After some hesitation the companion gave it us; he had never thought of it before, as millions of smart folk would have to admit also. "Well," explained the quiz, "the earliest hangman whose name is known to mankind was called Derrick. He lived in the reign of James I. This powerful mechanism was named after him."—New York Press.

Home Cure for Women

WRITE US FREELY

and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling all your troubles, and stating your age. We will send you FREE ADVICE, in plain sealed envelope, and a valuable 64-page Book on "Home Treatment for Women." Address: Ladies' Advisory Department, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.
G 92

If You Fear

the ordeal of describing your sickness by word of mouth, why not try the Cardui Home Treatment, and see if it will not help you, as it did Mrs. Ellen Gilbert, of Villa Ridge, Ill., who writes: "I suffered from female trouble and those choking, fainting spells. I was very nervous, and grew weaker and weaker. Friends came to see me die, but I began to take which relieved me right away. Now I am getting along fine and recommend it to all my friends." The merits of Cardui, as a reliable and effective remedy for all the diseases peculiar to women, have been known for the past 50 years. It is a pure and non-intoxicating preparation of vegetable ingredients, having a peculiar curative effect on the female organs and functions. Cardui has been found to relieve pain, regulate fitful functions and restore the disordered organs to health. Try it.

WINE OF CARDUI Woman's Relief

At Every Drug Store In $1.00 Bottles

When Webster Was Wrong.

It is easy for even a good man to be mistaken.

Daniel Webster was a good man. Yet Daniel was positive that a steam railroad could never be made to work.

He was quite willing to concede that a locomotive might be able to skate along at a pretty good clip while attached to a string of cars running on iron or wooden rails.

But having admitted this much, he arose to call attention to an insurmountable obstacle to the further success of the undertaking. He said the train, once under way, could not be stopped—that it would keep right on going and ultimately crash into something and kill everybody aboard.

Thus we see that even with the best intentions it is easy to make mistakes.

Daniel Webster didn't own any canalboat stock nor was he for any other selfish reason desirous that railroads should not come into existence. He simply was expressing an opinion about something he had never seen in operation. And unfortunately for his reputation as a railway expert, he saw things that weren't there.—Detroit Times.

A special postage stamp was issued by the Japanese Government to commemorate the return of the troops from war. Two of these stamps, of the face value of one-half and three sens, respectively, were issued, and they were available for postage for letters only on the day of the recent great review. Not more than one of each kind was sold to every applicant at the geenral postoffice.

Railroad detectives at Chickasha, Okla. T., searching for lost tools taken by shopmen, found that one employe had hauled away a locomotive cab and attached it to his house for use as a kitchen.

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists; price, 75c. per bottle.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

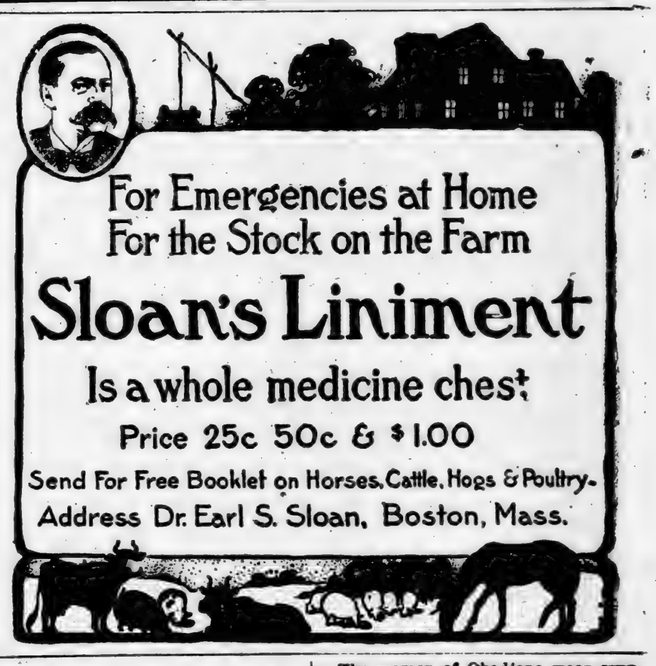
Asia bought $105,000,000 worth of American goods in the last fiscal year, a decrease of $23,000,000 from 1905, but an increase of $36,500,000 over 1904.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle

Two Sides of the Story.

An aged Scotch minister about to marry for the fourth time was explaining his reason to an elder: "You see, I am an old man now, and I canna expect to be verra lang. When the end comes I wad like to have some one to close my eyes."

The elder nodded and said: "Aweel, meenister, I have had twa wives and baith of them opened mine."—London News.



For Emergencies at Home
For the Stock on the Farm
Sloan's Liniment
Is a whole medicine chest
Price 25c 50c & $1.00
Send For Free Booklet on Horses, Cattle, Hogs & Poultry.
Address Dr. Earl S. Sloan, Boston, Mass.

The Egyptian week was once ten days.

HICKS' CAPUDINE CURES ALL ACHES And Nervousness
Trial bottle 10c At drug stores

The women of Obadjona wear ornaments on the upper lip, which is enlarged by inserting small pieces of wood or stone until the lip protrudes sufficiently.

Am. 42, 1906.

CHOICE Pecan Trees. We have thousands. Send for prices. Co-Operative Nursery Co., Okla., U.T.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

You Look Prematurely Old

Because of those ugly, grizzly, gray hairs. Use "LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER. Price, $1.00, retail.

Closing Out Sale!

We will close out the entire stocks of SHOES and CLOTHING that we bought of J. W. Smith and J. E. Littlejohn, AT COST AND BELOW—FOR CASH ONLY.

Ladies' coarse Shoes	$ .75 for $ .50.
Ladies' coarse Shoes	$1.15 for $ .90
Ladies' coarse Shoes	$1.35 for $1.00
Ladies' coarse Shoes	$1.50 for $1.20
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$1.50 for $1.35
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$1.75 for $1.50.
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$2.75 for $1.88
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$3.00 for $2.75
Men's Fine Hats	$1.00 for $ .90
Men's Fine Hats	$1.50 for $1.15
Men's Fine Hats	$1.75 for $1.40
Men's Fine Hats	$3.00 for $2.50
Men's Coats	$1.00
Men's Underwear, heavy	$ .50 for $ .40
Men's Underwear, heavy	$ .75 for $ .50
Ladies' Underwear, heavy	$ .40 for $ .25
Ladies' Underwear, heavy	$ .60 for $ .40
Men's Fine Shirts	$1.00 for $ .75
Men's Fine Shirts	$1.25 for $ .98
10 pounds Good Coffee for	$1.00

Many other SPECIAL BARGAINS too numerous to mention. We handle all kinds of Grain and Feed Stuff. See us, we can SAVE you MONEY. We WANT all kinds of COUNTRY PRODUCE.

COOPER BROS.

Clanton, Alabama.

TO FARMERS.

As county business manager for the Y. M. C. A. and C. U. of A., I have been to the two banks in Clanton to ascertain on what terms they will loan money on cotton to those who wish to hold their cotton in the warehouse. The Clanton Bank will loan 75 per cent, and the People's Savings Bank 65 per cent. of the value of the cotton on the date of the loan, this loan to bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent.

J. W. SORRELS,
Bus. Manager Chilton Co. Y. M. C. A. and C. U. of A. tf

STRAYED OR STOLEN.

Came near my residence on June 28, one iron gray mare colt, one year old; one iron gray horse colt, with star on face, and scar on left hind leg above hock, one and a half years old. Any information leading to their recovery will be liberally rewarded.

C. C. MARTIN,
Calera, Ala., Rte 1.

NOTICE.

Jemison, Ala., August 7th, 1906.

Lost—One light clay bank mare, branded on the left shoulder with a heart; the last time heard from she was at Ashby; she weighs about 700 pounds. I will reward any one liberally for information as to where she is, or if returned to me, I will pay well for the trouble.

T. S. DAVENPORT,
Jemison, Ala.

JOHN W. HARRELL,

Jemison, Ala.

Photographer. Dealer in all grades of enlarging. Frames made to order. Work done at your own home by appointment.

Thorsby Institute

—Opens—

SEPTEMBER 17th, 1906.

A Strong Corps of Teachers.

CURRICULUM:

Sciences, Classics, Modern Languages, Histories, Economics, Music, Elocution, etc.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE:

Prepares those who care to go no higher. Broad enough for all. Allows for specialization.

BUILDINGS:

Well equipped, modern, up to date in every particular.

EXPENSES:

Tuition low enough to meet the needs of every boy and girl in Alabama.

Particulars Address:

W. J. Lamkie, Ph. B., Principal, Thorsby, Ala.

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 acres in cultivation. All in Sec. 6 T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles S. W. of Clanton. Good dwelling house and out buildings and 3 good tenant houses. Good and lasting well of water. This good farming land will be sold at a bargain. Call and see,

tf J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. No.

TAX NOTICE

Assessor's and Collector's Second Round.

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes of Chilton County for the year 1906 and assessing the taxes for the year 1907:

Kincheon, Beat 6, November 7, 1906.
Enterprise, Beat 6, November 8, 1906.
Pletcher, Beat 8, November 9, 1906.
Clanton Ford, until 12 m., Beat 8 November 10, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 12, 1906.
Valley Creek, Beat 8, November 13, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 14, 1906.
Shoults, Beat 7, November 15, 1906.
Maplesville, Beat 7, November 16, 1906.
Benson, Beat 3, November 17, 1906.
Macedonia, Beat 3, November 19, 1906.
Gentry & Cofer's Mill, Beat 2, November 20, 1906.
Hayes' Mill, Beat 2, November 21, 1906.
Providence, Beat 2, November 22, 1906.
John Killingworth's till 12 m., Beat 2, November 23, 1906.
Jemison, Beat 2, November 24, 1906.
Smith's School House, Beat 1, November 26, 1906.
Mineral Springs, Beat 1, November 27, 1906.
Flint Hill, Beat 11, November 28, 1906.
Providence, Beat 10, November 29, 1906.
Corinth Church, Beat 10, November 30, 1906.
Thorsby, Beat 9, December 3, 1906.
Clanton, Beat 4, December 4, 1906.
Cooper, Beat 10, December 5, 1906.
Verbena, Beat 5, December 6, 1906.
Mountain Creek, Beat 5, December 7, 1906.
James Maddox's Mill, Beat 4, December 8, 1906.

When you come to assess your property, bring your deeds, as the last grand jury suggested.

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.
T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

I will be at Clanton the last 10 days in the year, commencing December 20th, 1906. All taxes not paid by January 1st, 1907, will become delinquent. Take notice of above and save extra expense.

T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

Notice.

I will not attend to assessment of Tax on last 10 days of year, as such practice has become a nuisance, and the tax payers must meet me at the regular times and places, or become delinquent.

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.

WANTED! WANTED!

A number of good families to work in the Prattville Cotton Mills. Good wages, good houses, good water and a nice place to live. Apply to, J. M. Martin, Superintendent, Prattville, Ala.

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

The best whiskey in the country is here. If you don't believe it, try me.

J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera, Ala.
tf

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County Probate Court.

In pursuance of the directions and terms of a commission, dated the 3d day of October, 1906, issued to the undersigned by the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of said county, I will proceed to sell to the highest bidder, for cash, at public auction,

ON THE 25TH DAY OF OCTOBER 1906,

between the hours of 11 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., at the court house door in Clanton, Alabama, the following described property:

Northwest quarter of northeast quarter, section 31; southwest quarter of southeast quarter of southwest quarter, and twelve acres in southwest quarter of southwest quarter, and southwest quarter of southeast quarter, less six acres, section 30, all in township 21, range 11, containing 96 acres, more or less, situated in Chilton county, Alabama; which said property is to be sold under the order of said Probate Court, for the purpose of division and partition between the several joint owners thereof, viz.: J. R. Lovelady, Susan Lovelady, W. D. Lovelady, J. M. Lovelady, Bedie Hamrick, Sallie Carter, Mattie Smith and Lessie McFarland.

This October 2d, 1906.

SAM W. COLLINS,
10-4-06-3wks Commissioner.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Under and by virtue of an order and decree of the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton county, rendered on Monday, the 24th day of September, 1906, I, Wallace C. Edler, was appointed and directed, as Commissioner, to sell at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the court house door of Chilton county, Alabama, on

MONDAY, THE 29TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1906,

during the hours of legal sale, the following described land, to-wit:

All that part of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter lying west of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, in section 1, township 21, range 14, containing 35 acres, more or less; and the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter, and the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter, except about four acres formerly deeded to L. H. Stewart, on the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter, section 2, township 21, range 14; also fourteen acres in the northwest quarter of the west half of the southwest quarter, section 1, township 21, range 14, bounded as follows, to-wit: Commencing at the northwest corner of the southwest quarter, section 1, township 21, range fourteen, and running thence south 348 yards; thence east 178 yards thence north 348 yards to a point 198 yards east from the point of beginning, thence 198 yards back to the point of beginning. And beginning at the southwest corner of the "Pritchett lot," situated in the south half of the northwest quarter of section 1, township 21, range 14 east, and running thence south 6 degrees 45 minutes west 11 chains and 90 links to a post; thence east 20 chains and 17 links to the right of way of the Louisville and Nashville railroad; thence north 23 degrees 30 minutes west along said right of way to southeast corner of said "Pritchett lot"; thence west along the west line of said lot 13 chains and 5 links to place of beginning, containing twenty and 6-100 acres, all in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of an equitable division among the following named joint owners thereof: W. M. Wilson, Marvin H. Wilson, Charlie L. Wilson and Will S. Wilson.

WALLACE C. EDLER,
10-4-06-3wks. Commissioner.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Chancery Court. Seventh District, Northeastern Division. In Vacation. 1906.

Rosa Lee Holloman, Complainant, vs. Ocie Holloman, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by affidavit on file of J. Osmond Middleton, counsel for complainant, that the defendant, Ocie Holloman, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and that his residence is unknown to affiant; and further, that in the belief of said affiant, the defendant, Ocie Holloman, is over the age of 21 years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Union, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Ocie Holloman, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 2d day of November, 1906, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 2d day of October, 1906.

S. A. STEWART,
1o-4-06-tf Register in Chancery.

FOR SALE

At all times, high grade hogs and pigs, Berkshire and Poland China, crossed.

M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, Ala.

STEAMERS COLLIDE

Thrilling Experience on Hudson River Had By Sleepy Passengers.

CRASH IN THE DARK; ONE DEAD.

Seven Men Are Injured as a Result of the Collision.

Hudson, N. Y.—The passenger night boats Adirondack and Saratoga were in collision while off the village of Saugerities, just below this city.

The Adirondack was struck on the port side near the bow and was ripped open for about 150 feet. The damage was done above the water line, however, and the vessel was able to keep afloat.

The steamer Onteera went to the rescue of the passengers of the Adirondack, most of whom had left their berths in a panic when the shock occurred. All were brought to this city.

The City of Troy went to the assistance of the Saratoga, from which she took the passengers. The Saratoga was in a sinking condition, and the work of rescue was rushed, all the passengers being safely rescued.

Three of the crew of the Adirondack are missing, and it was not known whether they were drowned or had been overlooked in the excitement.

Come After Operatives.

Charlotte, N. C.—Two Scotland Yard detectives have arrived from London, England, to investigate the alleged importation of cotton mill operatives from Manchester and other English cotton manufacturing towns under violation of the contract labor law. They decline to talk, but it is understood they are sent by the English government. Some weeks ago a mill at Gastonia, near here, employed a number of English operatives, mostly girls who say they came here at the solicitation of Immigrant Agent Costello, of North Carolina. They claim that promises were made them which have not been made good.

The mill managers say they are inefficient and that their services will be dispensed with.

Will Transfer Troops.

Washington, D. C.—A general transfer of artillery soldiers in the north to stations in the south, and vice versa, has been decided upon by the war department as a possible means of checking desertion, more frequent changes being thought advisable. Orders issued make about twenty changes in batteries stationed in the south and north.

The Eighth company, now at Fort Morgan, has been ordered to Fort Preble, Me., and the Seventy-fifth company, at that station, goes to the Alabama post.

Postoffice Appointments.

Washington, D. C.—Route No. 3 ordered established December 17 at Wedowee, Randolph county, serving 691 people and 117 families.

Robert D. Shipment appointed regular carrier; John W. Snipment, substitute rural carrier, at Clio.

Mail to Be Sent to Havana.

Washington, D. C.—The war department has received a cablegram from Brigadier-General Bell, commanding the troops in Cuba, requesting that mail intended for troops now in Cuba be forwarded to Havana, from which place the military authorities will distribute it throughout the island.

New Jersey Fire Chief Dies.

Jacksonville, Fla.—James W. Hodgkinson, chief of the Orange, N. J., fire department, died suddenly on a train en route here from Miami. He left New York by steamer for Dallas, Tex., to attend the convention of fire chiefs. He had a hemorrhage on board caused by internal rupture. He was compelled to leave the steamer at Key West, and was on his way home when taken with another severe hemorrhage on the train, which resulted fatally. The body was sent to Orange for interment.

St. Petersburg.—At the trial of the workingmen's delegates, M. Ostrogorski, director of Tennscheff College and editor of a well-known monthly newspaper, created a sensation by testifying that Count Witte, when he was premier, asked him at the end of last October to arrange a meeting with M. Krustaleff, president of the executive committee of the workmen's council, M. Ostragorski's idea being to prove that the authorities tacitly recognized the council of workmen's delegates as a representative body.

Incendiary Fires Town.

Winchester, Va.—The postoffice, the Baltimore and Ohio station and the general merchandise store of Holt Hotel, at Cedar Point, this county, were destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $5,000, with $1,000 insurance. The fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin.

The waters in the lowlands are gradually falling and cotton picking has started again.

Thorsby, Alaba

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. HORN
LICENSED PHARMACIST.
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

Thorsby Winery Co.
Lofthus & Brunberg, Props.

Thorsby Real Est
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, P.
G. H. GERALD; S.
G. C. MICHELSON, T.

OLAF SCH
Watchmaker & J.
FRANZEN, ...
Full line of watches etc. Repair work gu...

A. Langville
Blacksmith and Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BU...

P. C. SMI
Brown Leghorn Fo... Eggs.
BERKSHIRE ...

The Thorsby
G. C. Michelson,
Good Beds and M...

J. J. Stan
General Mercha...

MRS. MARY R. RA...
General Mercha...

J. BICE
Charcoal Ov...

Where Chorus Beauties Come From

By Frank Hennessy,
Theatrical Manager and Student of Sociology.

THE beauty of the New York girl in such a mass in the front rows of the matinee seats, and in the of the chorus, is due entirely to the constant the whole—with pretty faces from Oil City, Pa. and Horseheads.

The expert in feminine beauty who has to do with tion of the perfect forms and piquant faces that up the dazzling mass of beauty in a Broadway forced to admit that the New York girl doesn't statistics as being prettier on the average than girls in any In fact, aside from a tendency to clearer skin there are a greater pretty girls come from the country than from the city seeking the footlights and applause.

It may be that the New York girl is not so dazzled by the theatre as the country girl, and that fewer of the real New York stage glory, but the fact remains that the river towns and Penn duce the real stunning faces that freshen up the chorus ranks time.

Indiana is another state that despite its malaria and swa some remarkable beauties, and Ohio has almost as great a repu its good looking girls on the stage as it has by its men in politics has contributed some "peaches," as the term goes, and Californ have a pretty-girl atmosphere when you come to count the Francisco girls who lead in beauty contests on the stage.

There is a distinct difference in the temperament of the girls from the interior states, so-called, and that of the girls of New fornia. There is something in the spirit of the girls from these that seems to impel them to go on and up in the work they have they are looking for a chance to improveandtake advantage of to shine as "stars," while the girls from the interior states are ing for a chance to get married.

The New York girl has a chicness and a spirit that none types possess, but the reputation the New York girl has in the for the beauty of her as an entirety is due to the constant pretty girls from the country who come to New York for fame. both.—New York World.

Confederates at a Barbecue.

Decatur, Ala.—An old-fashioned barbecue was enjoyed by the old ex-Confederate soldiers, given by Joe Wheeler Chaper, Daughters of the Confederacy. Speeches were delivered by Capt. Dan Walden, Maj. W. H. Francis and Mr. Cook. Over a dozen crosses of honor were bestowed on the old soldiers by the Daughters of the Confederacy.

Mrs. Wade Stricken.

Montgomery, Ala.—Mrs. Mary Jane Wade, widow of the late Collin B. Wade, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. W. Cargill, on Park View avenue, as the result of a paralytic stroke.

Delegates to Road Convention.

Florence, Ala.—Probate Judge George W. Porter has named the following county at the good roads convention to be held in Birmingham: Judge J. J. Mitchell, Lee Ashcroft, J. E. F. Westmoreland, A. B. Camper, H. B. Mooers, R. C. Smith, A. L. Phillips, C. H. Hamm, J. T. Reeder, J. A. Lentz, H. A. Killen.

Hearst Will Use ...

New York.—Both the ... and moving picture ma... called to the aid of the ... candidate for governor ... to have his voice heard ... in every town and hamle... Records of several of ... campaign speeches alre... made and films for the ... chaines depicting the ... rious attitudes are now ... for use.

It is expected they will ... by next Wednesday, it ... at Tammany Hall ... The plan, as outlined, ... large number of machi... them operated before ... parts of the state ... Wednesday and the ... paign.

Mrs. "Jeff." Davis ...

New York.—Mrs. ... who has been ill at the ... for the past few days ... be better.

T...

VOL. IV.

ublic Spe...

people are hereby invited to come ... following places and dates.
...rby, Thursday, November 1, 7 p. m.
...rprise (Beat 6), Friday, November 2,
...Creek (Beat 5), Friday, November 2,
...n, Saturday, November 3, 10 a. m.
...vision of time is hereby offered to
...ngressman M. W. Howard, Judge
...speakers will be on hand
...and hear the issues of the day pre...
the people.

The Le...
PEOPLE'S C...

TON ACCEPTS

...wing is the letter of ac... Judge Asa E. Stratton, of ...can nomination for Gov...

...ery, Ala., Oct. 15, 1906.
...B. Randolph, Chairman ...can Mass Convention, Etc., ..., Ala.:
—Your letter of the 4th ...ing me of my nomination ...r of Alabama by the Re... of the state, duly received. ...hereto I can say that the ... was neither sought nor ... it was made without my ...r consent, yet because of ...e conditions which con... party in this state at this ...t feel at liberty to decline ... conferred by my fellow ..., and, therefore, accept the ... which should have gone ...r member of the party. ... time for the rank and file ... in this state to act, be... petent leadership is too ...e advantage of the pres...e opportunity for an ap... people and thus prepare ...e which in the near future ...iation with our ranks.
...Democracy is neither hars... militant at this time. The ... election of that party ...n unhealed and made ex... to dispel the illusion that ...alone is the party of the ...ndidates, even among the ...there is a well defined sen... wishes for patriotic rea... lding up of a strong and ... Republican party in this ...their judgment such a par... check upon the un... ...ominations of Democratic ...n look for much good to ... the nomination of a Re... ticket at this time in ...alty it will awaken, and ...blican sentiment it will ...

...untry all just power and ...whether in government or ...ation, emanates from the ...he governed. This prin... disregarded by the Re... Executive Committee, ...ed not only to dictate to ...t to disregard and sup... will. The action of the ...tion, over which you pre... assertion of the manhood ...n of the Republicans of ...d a just rebuke to the ... the state committee ... be the servant and not ...f the Republican voters ...

...can grow, no party can ...ch does not align its ...cal at every election to ... and intelligence of the ... Republicans in all the ...n several national cam... ...ign hopes, suffered de... ...eir convictions, before ...coln carried the party ...tory. Here is an answer ...n of the action of the ...ss convention. We can ... err or do wrong when ...example of the founders ...ders of the party. Just ...calling himself a Repub... oppose the action of the ...s convention in nomi... ...e ticket is incomprehen... other theory than the ...ambitious reasons upon ...ens always act. If the ...ation was selected by ... convention for four ... of the usual two, the ... Republican State ticket ...dges its term. A ticket ...n to any one, but much ...rty. In the past when ... ran high and intoler... ...rade, frenzied Democracy ...t nomination of Repub... ...d to intimidate Repub... ..., and keep Republican ...e polls; but today, when ...ces and hate have pass... ...good feeling and toler... ...ade, there are so-called ... Alabama who would ...d Democratic methods. ...e country, credits Sec... retary Ta... Republica... office." ... of the na... Southern ...en. The ... hopeless, ... would be ... that the ... Texas and ... have dete... place. So... higher pla... ative of s... and spoils ... applaud t...

The na... administra... and paid ... me, recog... and his ... ment, for... riously c... Orient.

The pla... icy adopte... ncers my ...orations, ... made to ... the land. ...tion of i... should r... careful th... should be ... proper fu... industrial ... time be ... rights. "S... committed ... just as the ... cannot be ... government ...nition of ... the appear... sentiments ... remedy for ... No remedy ...garies whi... gled for a... cation sinc... edy can o... national stre... forces. T... of public s... vigorous ... the laws.

In the e... in the exp... tional exis... freely pred... governmen...

...he test ... would com... the Anglo ... for the e... ward from ... considering ... of the retr... credited wi... prophecy. ... reached an... fail to obse... there is for... now than ... the stage o... served that... thority has ... and corpor... spondingly ... become an... race for the... and states... opinion is s... and social ... tion, there ... the non-ent... cheapness ... of trusts or... wealth. In... of public e... platform, ... to establish ... branch of c... awaken the... and bring t... tivity. Ete... of the peopl... ernment an... tration, as ... lation.

The bett... forcement ... the statute ... of child lab... lishments o... insisted upo...

This year ... of the life ... lican party. ... bear the rec... ments. Wit... charge of t... and its adm... tunate and ...

Alaba
Directory.

Thorsby Real Est
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, P
G. H. GERALD, S
G. C. MICHELSON,

OLAF SCH
Watchmaker & Je
FRANZEN, Ala
Full line of watches
etc. Repair work guar

A. Langville &
Blacksmith and
Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BU

P. C. SMI
Brown Leghorn Fo
Eggs.
BERKSHIRE

The Thorsby
G. C. Michelson,
Good Beds and M

J. J. Stan
General Mercha

MRS. MARY R. RA
General Merchan

J. BICE
Charcoal Ov

here uties Com om Hennessy,
nd Student of Sociology

w York girl in such a mass
he matinee seats, and in the entirely to the constant re
y faces from Oil City, Pa., ne beauty who has to do with rms and piquant faces that of beauty in a Broadway pr

the New York girl doesn't erage than girls in any oth rer skin there are a greater n from the city seeking a is not so dazzled by the wer of the real New York

the river towns and Pensy hen up the chorus ranks fr

pite its malaria and swamp
as almost as great a repro it has by its men in politics he term goes, and California ou come to count the amo
fests on the stage.
he temperament of the girls that of the girls of New Y irit of the girls from these d up in the work they have roveandtake advantage of th om the interior states are ss and a spirit that none o

New York girl has in the s due to the constant migra
ne to New York for fame,

Hearst Will Use Phon

New York.—Both the
and moving picture mach called to the aid of the candidate for governor in to have his voice heard and in every town and hamlet Records of several of M campaign speeches already made and films for the chaines depicting the rious attitudes are now be for use.
It is expected they will b
by next Wednesday. It wa at Tammany Hall speak
The plan, as outlined, is large number of machines them operated before gath parts of the state bet
Wednesday and the close paign.

Mrs. "Jeff." Davis Report

New York.—Mrs. Jeff who has been ill at the W for the past few days, was be better.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., OCTOBER 25 1906 NO. 31

ublic Speaking.

eople are hereby invited to come out and attend public speaking the following places and dates:
, Thursday, November 1, 7 p. m.
ne (Beat 6), Friday, November 2, 10 a. m.
ek (Beat 5), Friday, November 2, 7 p. m.
, Saturday, November 3, 10 a. m.
ion of time is hereby o fered to the opposition.
ressman M. W. Howar d, Judge A. P. Longshore and other speakers will be on han d.
and hear the issues of the day presented as they affect the interests of the people.

There will be music.

Ladies are especially invited.

PEO PLE'S CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

TON ACCEPTS

ing is the letter of acdge Asa E. Stratton, of nomination for Gov-y, Ala., Oct. 15, 1906.

e B. Randolph, Chairman an Mass Convention, Etc., a, Ala.:
Your letter of the 4th me of my nomination of Alabama by the Re- the state, duly received. hereto I can say that the was neither sought nor it was made without my consent, yet because of conditions which confront in this state at this feel at liberty to decline conferred by my fellow and, therefore, accept the which should have gone member of the party. time for the rank and file in this state to act, becontent leadership is too advantage of the preopportunity for an apand thus prepare which is the near future ation with our ranks. Democracy is neither hard militant at this time. The election of that party unbroken and made exdispel the illusion that party of the ders. There is a well defined sentiwishes for patriotic reuning up of a strong and Republican party in this such a parbuke upon the undominations of Democratic look for much good to the nomination of a Reticket at this time in ality it will awaken, and ican sentiment it will ntry all just power and whether in government or nation, emanates from the governed. This prindisregarded by the Reic Executive Committee, not only to dictate to but to disregard and sup- will. The action of the ee, over which you preinsertion of the manhood of the Republicans of a just rebuke to the State committee the servant and not of the Republican voters ans grow, no party can which does not alien its support at every election to and intolerance of the Republicans in all the several national campaign hopes, suffered de convictions, before Lincoln carried the party victory. Here is an answer to the action of the state convention. We can any error or wrong when founders of the party. Just calling himself a republoppose the action of the state convention in nomiticket, or incomprehenother factory than the reasons upon always act. If the was selected by convention for four of the usual two, the a Republican State ticket its term. A ticket to any one, but much party. In the past when ran high and intolerrule, frenzied Democracy nomination of Republand to intimidate Republand keep Republican polls but today, when and hate have passed feeling and tolerthere are so-called in Alabama who would Democratic methods. the country, credits Secretary Taft with saying that Southern Republican politics was "a chase after office." This is a graphic description of the moribund condition into which Southern Republican politics has fallen. The party's condition would be hopeless, "the officeholders' trust" would be supreme, but for the fact that the Republicans of Alabama, Texas and some other Southern States have determined to reform matters and place Southern Republicanism on a higher plane, and make it a representative of something else besides graft and spoils. Good men everywhere will appland this determination.

The mass convention indorsed the administration of President Roosevelt, and paid him a just and deserved tribute, recognizing his great leadership and his career of splendid achievement, fortunately unfinished, yet gloriously crowned with peace in the Orient.

The platform of principles and policy adopted by the mass convention meets my approval and support. Corporations, like individuals, should be made to respect and obey the laws of the land. Corporate control is a question of intense public interest, and should receive the best and most careful thought of the country. They should be required to perform their proper function in the economy of our industrial system, and at the same time be protected in all their just rights. Still there are many abuses committed by corporations and trusts, just as there are by individuals, which cannot be reached by legislation or governmental interference. The recognition of this fact is one cause for the appearance of socialistic ideas and sentiments and their suggestions as a remedy for conditions complained of. No remedy can be found in these vagaries which have ineffectually struggled for adoption and practical application since the age of Plato. A remedy can only be found in giving additional strength to the moral and social forces. There must be a toning up of public sentiment—this with a more vigorous and impartial enforcement of the laws.

In the early history of this country, in the experimental stage of our national existence, European publicists freely predicted the failure of our free government. One of these said that the test of American institutions would come whenever the people lost the Anglo Saxon's traditional respect for the constable." Looking backward from present conditions, and considering that utterance in the light of the retrospect, its author must be credited with something of the gift of prophecy. Those of us who have reached and passed middle life cannot fail to observe how much less respect there is for the constituted authorities now than when we first came upon the stage of action. We have also observed that as respect for law and authority has waned, graft, spoils, trusts and corporate domination has correspondingly increased, so that this has become an age of commercialism—a race for the dollar. In those countries and states where a healthy public opinion is still potential, and the moral and social forces in vigorous condition, there is but little complaint about the non-enforcement of the law, the cheapness of human life, or the abuses of trusts or other forms of organized wealth. In the more liberal support of public education advocated by the platform, means should be provided to establish in all public schools a branch of civic instruction which will awaken the moral and social forces and bring them into full play and activity. Eternal vigilance on the part of the people is the price of good government and of wholesome administration, as well as wisdom in legislation.

The better and more efficient enforcement of all laws, especially of the statute against the employment of child labor in the industrial establishments of the country, should be insisted upon.

This year completes a half century of the life and history of the Republican party. Forty-five of these years bear the record of its splendid achievements. Within that time it assumed charge of the national government, and its administration has been fortunate and successful, without parallel in any age or among any people, and without any statistics or tabulation of figures, it may be said that the country has grown in wealth and population, in happiness and prosperity, beyond anything heretofore known. Our foreign and domestic trade finds no counterpart in history. Our industries and development, and progress, the happiness and prosperity of our people, have astonished the world and excited its admiration.

The greatest and happiest of all the states of the Union are all safely Republican, and enjoy the fullest benefits of Republican rule. Alabama itself has felt the wisdom of Republican administration and Republican legislation. The Republican party laid the foundation of our present free school system, and the railroad system, which has done so much for the state in its recuperation from unnecessary and unsuccessful Democratic civil war. It has been the policy of Republican national legislation which has made Alabama in all sections so prosperous and happy. In the agricultural section her forests and her fields have poured forth their riches, while the mineral section has caught the inspiration of Republican progress. The smoke of its industries are pillars of cloud by day and the fires of its furnaces pillars of flames by night, testifying to the beneficence of Republican principles and policy.

But why prolong the recitation of these facts? Rather let us as Republicans go forward with unfaltering faith in the virtue and intelligence of the people who will in the end see and do the right. Since time has either softened or removed the objection the southern people formerly urged against Republicanism, we may expect many accessions to our ranks whenever the party leadership can be made to command the confidence and respect of the people of Alabama. Very respectfully yours, ASA E. STRATTON.

CAPT. W. W. WADSWORTH.

To the Voters of the Fifth District:

In submitting my name to the voters of the district for the office of State Senator, I think it appropriate that I give my views on some of the matters and subjects likely to arise during the session of the Legislature; but there are so many matters that will demand attention and action that I can name only a few, but in all matters I shall act for what I conceive to be the best interest of the country generally and shall show no favoritism to any clss.

On the subject of railroad rate reform, which seems to be the one most prominently before the people at present, my position is what it has been for a long time. I am in favor of rate regulation of all public utilities that possess the right to condemn individual or corporate property, but not to the extent that it will deprive the stockholders of a fair income on their investment.

Second, I favor good roads and think that at least a part of the convicts' earnings should be applied to the improvement of the public roads and that the counties be permitted to issue long time, low rate, interest-bearing bonds and that the proceeds of the same shall be used on so that the future generations who will be beneficiaries of the good roads thus made will help pay the principal and interest on the bonds. I would suggest that the bond issue be left to a decision of the qualified voters of the county. I am also in favor of a per capita road tax to be collected from each person subject to road duty. My reasons for this are that a competent road overseer can take ten well paid laborers, properly equipped with tools, and who know they will receive pay for their services, and do more work than a hundred road hands who are scripted into service, who are poorly supplied with tools and in many instances poorly directed. I have always said to the managers of my teams that I would much prefer that the "licks" be placed on the road in the way of repairs than on the dumb brutes, which are often overloaded.

Third, I heartily favor liberal appropriations to the old soldiers and their widows.

Fourth, I favor better common schools, for the common schools reach the masses in the country, and especially the poor, who are financially unable to send their children off to high-grade schools.

Fifth, I favor local option, but let no whiskey be sold except in towns where there is sufficient police protection.

Sixth, I favor such laws as will compel the payment of all witnesses in criminal cases at the term of the court which they attend, and that better provision be made for the payment of witnesses in civil cases.

Seventh, I favor a rigid enforcement of all laws, good or bad; if good they should be kept on the statute books, and if bad they should be repealed as quickly as possible.

Eighth, I am opposed to class legislation, and I believe that the laws should apply to the rich and poor alike.

Ninth, I oppose the spending of such large sums of money in primary elections, for under the present custom only the rich can obtain office. Such a custom as now prevails prevents the poor man from having any show as to who shall be his lawmaker or other officers, and this state of affairs will surely bring ruin to our country. The poor man produces a majority of the wealth of the country and ought therefore to have a fair show in government affairs.

An experience of more than forty years in the handling of the affairs and industries of this country, including agriculture, manufacturing and merchandising, I think, fits and qualifies me to some extent to know what is best for the interests of the people, and should I be favored by being elected, I will do my uttermost to aid in the upbuilding of the county.

Last, but not least, I want to see the day when the American people will take for their guiding star, "Fair elections and an honest count."

Respectfully,
W. W. WADSWORTH.
tf
October 20, 1906.

ELECTION OFFICIALS.

We, J. M. Morgan, Sheriff of Chilton county; L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of Chilton county, and Sam W. Collins, Clerk Circuit Court of Chilton county, hereby certify that we did on the 19th day of October, 1906, appoint the following named persons as inspectors, clerks and returning officers to hold an election in said Chilton county, on the 6th day of November, 1906, to-wit:

Beat No. 1—Inspectors, Henry Robinson, W. L. Honeycutt, W. P. Cleckler; clerks, H. C. Young and T. J. Dorminy; returning officer, Jonah McKee.

Beat No. 2, Box 1—Inspectors, Job Reynolds, W. H. Shaw and John Moore; clerks, W. G. Conway and Will Brown; returning officer, R. E. Skipper.

Beat No. 2, Box 2—Inspectors, B. F. Collum, C. L. Glasscock and Allison Sims; clerks, J. E. Gentry and W. R. Jackson; returning officer, G. W. Shaw.

Beat No. 3, Box 1—Inspectors, R. J. Williams, W. A. Wood and R. E. Roper; clerks, J. W. Deshazo and B. H. Jones; returning officer, Lee Hayes.

Beat No. 3, Box 2—Inspectors, Y. O. Freeman, Jeff Glasscock and Wm. Nix; clerks, Z. J. Jones and H. A. Williams; returning officer, J. M. Nix.

Beat No. 4—Inspectors, A. C. Smith, J. J. Grant and T. A. Curry; clerks, Frank Massey and L. E. Gullahorn; returning officer, J. M. Morgan.

Beat No. 5—Inspectors, E. J. Jones, W. S. Clark and W. H. Strock; clerks, Dave Morris and J. C. Patillo; returning officer, Martin Pinson.

Beat No. 6—Inspectors, M. F. Lett, Charley Foshee and Robert Jones; clerks, W. L. Popwell and J. D. Sims; returning officer, Robert Atkinson.

Beat No. 7, Box 1—Inspectors, W. Y. Nix, D. C. Cooley and T. U. Crumpton; clerks, Martin Nix and C. W. Plant; returning officer, Monroe Merchant.

Beat No. 7, Box 2—Inspectors, J. N. Gentry, J. N. Moore and J. J. Hicks; clerks, J. H. Green and P. G. Maness; returning officer, W. M. Lawrence.

Beat No. 8, Box 1—Inspectors, L. L. Lester, T. G. Milling and T. D. Parnell; clerks, D. C. Gandy and J. F. Gregory; returning officer, John Ramsey.

Beat No. 8, Box 2—Inspectors, George Keen, John Kendrick and E. G. Caldwell; clerks, D. M. Apperson and James Walker; returning officer, J. B. Short.

Beat No. 9, Box 1—Inspectors, A. F. Childress, A. Z. Bean and T. G. Williams; clerks, S. P. Collins and E. F. Mead; returning officer, Wiley Gore.

Beat No. 10—Inspectors, M. C. Williams, J. N. Dennis and F. M. Connell; clerks, L. A. Callaway and Nattie Jones; returning officer, J. M. Curlee.

Beat No. 11—Inspectors, J. S. Dennis, W. T. Mahan and G. W. Willis; clerks, G. W. Pate and E. L. Smith; returning officer, W. S. Cox.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.
L. H. REYNOLDS, Judge of Probate.
SAM W. COLLINS, Clerk Circuit Court.

PENSION WARRANTS.

All persons entitled to pensions are hereby notified that the warrants for same are now in my office, and to call and get them as soon as possible.

This, 20th day of October, 1906.
L. H. REYNOLDS,
tf Judge of Probate.

There are two kinds of women that don't seem to think it necessary to wear any close at all—those lowest down in civilization and those highest up.

HIGH WIND

Coast Swept by Storm. Minor Damage Done by Winds in Charleston.

AN UNKNOWN VESSEL AGROUND.

High Tides in North Carolina and Much Damage to Shipping at Key West.

Charleston, S. C.—Charleston was the center of a tropical disturbance for for an hour or two, and with a barometer reading of 29.17 and wind of sixty-five miles an hour. The storm, however, apparently moved a little to the northeastward and decreased in energy towards evening, and the danger is now thought to be past. Signs, fences and trees went down in numerous places, but little serious damage was done and there were no casualtics reported in the city.

Wilmington, N. C.—A northeast storm of considerable severity prevailed off this coast, with unprecedented high tides. Thus far there has been no damage of any great extent, and no disasters to shipping have been reported. At Southport, N. C., near the mouth of the Cape Fear river, some wharves along the water front have been carried away, and the harbor craft there have come to Wilmington for a safer harbor.

Norfolk, Va.—A private message to the Virginian-Pilot from Cape Henry reported an unknown vessel hard ashore and in a dangerous position near the cape. The wreck was half a mile south of Cape Henry Life Saving Station, and was that of a large steamship.

Life saving crews from the Cape Henry and Virginia Beach stations were standing by, but were unable to do anything toward rescuing the crew of the steamer until morning.

The wind was northeast and the weather at the cape was so thick that watchers were unable to distinguish the build of the steamer. The vessel was northbound, and evidently seeking to enter Hampton Roads.

Key, West, Fla.—The greatest damage here by the storm Thursday was to shipping. The sponging fleet broke anchor and carried destruction to smaller boats of the fishing fleet. The revenue cutter Fessenden was badly damaged at the government wharf, being beached near the marine hospital. The Mallory liner Concha, the Havana liner Miami and the Philadelphia liner Algiers remained in port and safely rode out the storm. No damage was done in the city and to lives were lost.

Must Stand Prosecution.

New York.—With the return of Samuel Untermyer, its counsel, on the America, the international policyholders' committee announced that summary action would be taken for its criminal charges filed with Superintendent Kelsy against the New York Life. Whether it will be the attorney-general office that will take action or whether the committee, impatient of further delay, itself will begin action, will not be announced until Mr. Untermyer shall have arrived and put himself in touch with the situation. It was hinted, however, that George R. Scrugham, the committee's organizer, might go before a police magistrate and apply for a warrant for the arrest of certain of the company's officers or agents on charges of insurance law violations.

Cleveland Ill at Princeton.

New York.—Grover Cleveland is ill from a severe cold at Westland, his country home, near Princeton, N. J. He had been ailing since early last week. His condition was such that he was compelled to take to his bed.

"We do not consider Mr. Cleveland's illness very serious," said Mrs. Cleveland, "but in all probability it will keep him in bed for several days. He caught a slight cold while out fishing a few days ago, but paid no attention to it until Saturday, when he felt it necessary to consult a doctor."

Dr. J. B. Canochen, the Cleveland family physician, who is attending Mr. Cleveland, would not discuss his patient's condition.

Americans Hurt in Automobile.

Poitiers, France.—An automobile containing Americans collided with another automobile at Calence bridge. The American car was smashed and all of the occupants were injured by broken glass. One of the ladies of the party had her nose fractured. Their names were not ascertained.

Professional Cards.

William M. Adams,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
OFFICE; Room 1, Court House.
"Practices in all Courts
Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.
CLANTON. - - - ALA.

J. EARLE GOWAN,
DENTIST.
Office in Kicker Building
CLANTON. ALABAMA.

A. C. Smith,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in All Courts
Office 6th St. opp. Court House
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON
Office at Residence
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

J. Osmond Middleton,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St., Court House
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullen' Building
CLANTON

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
TO
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C

LAND FOR SALE.
Eighty acres land in Beat 10, close to Cooper's. For sale cheap. Call on or address L. H. GENTRY,
Mt. Creek, Ala.
tf R. F. D. No. 1.

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE.

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	50	75
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	80	1 00
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	65	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	75	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	1 00	1 50
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	84	1 50
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	1 00	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	85	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	1 00	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 00	1 25
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	50	75
Old Shades Mountain Corn	75	1 00
Old Mountain Due Corn	65	1 00
Old Lincoln County	50	75
Old Holland Gin	75	1 00
Old Crown Gin	50	75
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	3.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

A. A. JACKSON

Lomax, Alabama.

General merchandise, corn, hay, shorts, shoes, men's hats, Ladies hats. Best quality and lowest prices in all goods.

Highest Market Price Paid for Chickens and Egg

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

—is at The Head of The Procession.—

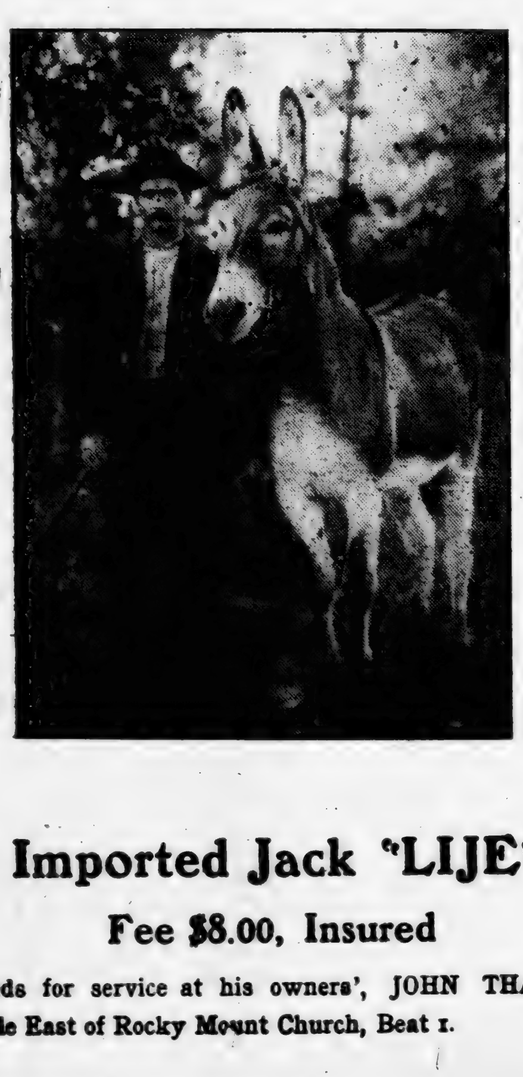
Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes,

FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.

W. I. MULLINS,

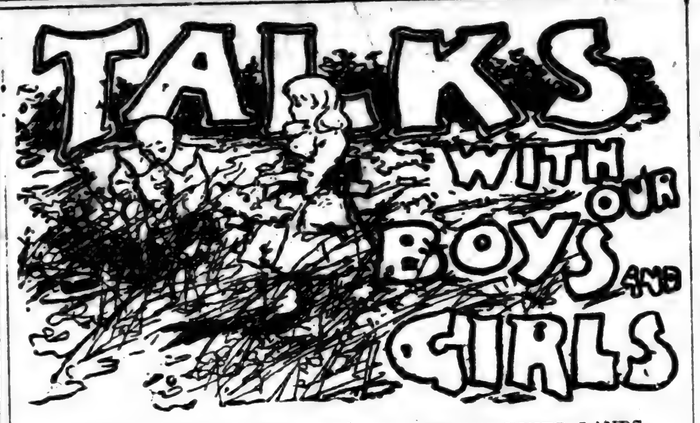
Clanton. . . Alabama



Imported Jack "LIJE"

Fee $8.00, Insured

Stands for service at his owners', JOHN THAMES, ½ mile East of Rocky Mount Church, Beat 1.



LITTLE HUMMING BIRD.

What a "boom! boom!"
Sounds among the honeysuckles!
Saying "Room! Room!—
Hold your breath and mind your knuckles!"
And a fairy birdling bright
Flits like a living dart of light,
With his tiny whirlwind wings
Flies and rests and sings!
All his soul one flash, one quiver,
Down each cup
He thrusts his long beak with a shiver,
Drinks the sweetness up;
Takes the best of earth and goes—
Daring sprite!—
Back to his heaven no mortal knows,
A heaven as sweet as the heart of a rose
Shut at night!

—St. Nicholas.

A GOLD MEDAL.

I shall never forget a lesson I received at school. We saw a boy named Watson driving a cow to pasture. In the evening he drove her back again, we did not know where, and this continued several weeks.

The boys attending the school were nearly all sons of wealthy parents, and some of them were dunces enough to look with disdain on a scholar who had to drive a cow.

With admirable good nature Watson bore all their attempts to annoy him.

"I suppose, Watson," said Jackson, another boy, one day, "I suppose your father intends to make a milkman of you?"

"Why not?" asked Watson.

"Oh, nothing. Only don't leave much water in the cans after you rinse them—that's all."

The boys laughed, and Watson, not in the least mortified, replied: "Never fear. If ever I am a milkman, I'll give good measure and good milk."

The day after this conversation there was a public examination, at which ladies and gentlemen from the neighboring towns were present, and prizes were awarded by the principal of our school, and both Watson and Jackson received a creditable number; for, in respect to scholarship, they were about equal. After the ceremony of distribution, the principal remarked that there was one prize, consisting of a gold medal, which was rarely awarded, not so much on account of its great cost, as because the instances were rare which rendered its bestowal proper. It was the prize of heroism. The last medal was awarded about three years ago to a boy in the first class, who rescued a poor little girl from drowning.

The principal then said that, with the permission of the company, he would relate a short anecdote.

"Not long since some boys were flying a kite in the street just as a poor lad on horseback rode by on his way to the mill. The horse took fright and threw the boy, injurying him so badly that he was carried home and confined some weeks to his bed. Of the boys who had unintentionally caused the disaster none followed to learn the fate of the wounded lad. There was one boy, however, who not only went to make inquiries, but stayed to render service.

"This boy soon learned that the wounded boy was the grandson of a poor widow whose sole support consisted in selling the milk of a cow of which she was the owner. She was old and lame, and her grandson, on whom she depended to drive her cow to the pasture, was now helpless with his bruises. 'Never mind' said the boy; 'I will drive the cow.'

"But his kindness did not stop there. Money was wanted to get articles from the apothecary. 'I have money that my mother sent me to buy a pair of boots with,' said he, 'but I can do without them for awhile.' 'Oh, no,' said the old woman, 'I can't consent to that; but here is a pair of heavy boots that I bought for Thomas who can't wear them. If you would only buy these, we should get on nicely.' The boy bought the boots, clumsy as they were, and has worn them up to this time.

"Well, when it was discovered by the other boys at the school that our scholar was in the habit of driving a cow, he was assailed every day with laughter and ridicule. His cowhide boots in particular were made matter of mirth. But he kept on cheerfully and bravely, day after day, never shunning observation, driving the widow's cow, and wearing his thick boots. He never explained why he drove the cow. It was by mere accident that his kindness and self-denial was discovered by his teacher.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen, I ask you, was there not true heriosm in this boy's conduct? Nay, Master Watson, do not get out of sight behind the blackboard. You were not afraid of ridicule, you must not be afraid of praise."

As Watson, with blushing cheeks, came forward, a round of applause spoke the general approbation.—The Children's Own.

BABES IN OTHER LANDS.

The Indian baby is strapped to a birthbark board, and hung up in a tree or carried on his mother's back. He has no playthings; and, if he cries, no one seems to mind it much.

In South America some of the cradles are made of palm leaves. A single leaf turned up at the edge holds the baby. This cradle is often hung up in a tree, and the wind rocks the baby to sleep.

In Africa the mother carries the baby in a leather pouch slung on her back. When she gets tired of this way, she makes a hole in the sand, under some shady bush or shrub, and tucks the baby into it.

An Eskimo baby is tucked up in his mother's hood. It is a warm place, and travellers say their chubby little faces look very good-natured and happy. When the child comes out of the hood, he is stuffed into a fawn-skin bag; and a string draws the garment together like a pudding-bag, keeping him safe and warm.

In Lapland the cradle is a piece of wood, shaped like a canoe and hollowed out until it is very light. A quantity of grass is put in; and in this soft bed the baby laughs, sleeps and plays with his simple toys all the very long days. When his mother goes to church, she leaves him outside to keep warm in a hole made in the snow, with a faithful dog to drive the wolves away. Sometimes several cradles are left in a cluster, when the children set up such a chatter as to disturb the meeting.

In Persia, when an Armenian baby is born, it is sprinkled with salt, and left to itself, for nearly twenty-four hours. This is done to harden it. The baby is tied in its crib, and the little feet are left bare even in the coldest weather. The mothers blacken the eyebrows and eylashes; and a little girl's ears are pierced for rings often when a day old, and always before they are four days old.

The day a Chinese baby is born, it is called one year old. When the next New Year's Day comes, even if it happens to be the day after it is born, it is two years old; and thereafter every New Year's Day is its birthday. The winter cradle is shaped like an hour-glass, open above and below. The waist holds the child in, and the hands are left free to play with odd-looking rattles. If the baby is a boy, the top of his head is shaved when he is four weeks old, and after that is shaved once a week.

In India the baby is rocked in a swing. The mother takes a long cloth and ties the two ends together over a small rafter in the low roof of the house, and puts the baby into the fold of the cloth. When they go out to work in the field, the cloth is fastened to the branch of some tree. When it gets sick, the mother thinks some one of the gods or devils that the family worship must be angry, and so she calls a sacred man, who wears a yellow cloth and pretends to tell secrets, and asks him what the matter is with the child. He takes two or three little idols out of his bag, and puts them down on the ground before him, repeating some prayers to them, and then pretends to hear what they say. Then he tells the woman she has not yiven her offerings properly, and makes her go and bring a few pennies, a little rice, and even a chicken. These he takes for himself and goes away, telling her the child will get well.—Little Missionary.

INDIAN FOOT-RACING.

Among the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico and Arizona customs of a remote past are still held in honor, and are observed in a more or less public manner. Their tribal festivals are celebrated with games of their own devising, and these afford rare opportunity for the study of Indian character. An English traveller, Colonel Bridges, describes the races as he witnessed them at Taos some years ago.

A course of a hundred to a hundred and fifty yards is marked out, and lined by spectators. At each end stand twelve "braves," gorgeously appareled in paint, with patches of a sort of cotton-wool gummed on their ribs, arms and legs. One starts from either end, and with great speed runs the course to the opposite side and back. As soon as he gets to his own circle, the second starts.

By this means it will be seen that the contest is very exciting, as the race is not decided until the twenty-four have completed their runs. The chances of each side are constantly fluctuating with the fresh runners, first one side and then the other getting the start. Each side must, of course, wait to start a fresh brave until the one running on their side gets back.

The spectators arm themselves with green boughs, and with these they encouragingly flick the runners of their own tribe, shouting to them at the same time.

It takes six months to tan an elephant's skin.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bro

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

BIRMINGHAM, AL

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Associ

OF ALABAMA.

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

By the People and for the People.

Chilton County Branch

Organized February 3, 1900.

W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and c and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lig The cheapest, safest and most sensible method ance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per c particulars furnished upon application to

WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton,

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the

St. Louis Globe-Democ

—With—

THE UNION

—For—

$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only

The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the many weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION, Clanton, Al

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street

Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watch and Optician

Eyes Corre Fitted

Mail orders promptly

DO YOU WAN

Letterheads, Noteheads Billheads, Envelopes,

OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?

Then Call at

THE UNION OFFI

and See Fine Work at Low Prices.

500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.0

Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Ma Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WA

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby,

Subscribe Now

...orsby, A

Business Di

...mercial Club OF THORSBY

...NITE and RELIABLE ...tion furnished to parties ...ire to locate in the South.

HORN

...SED PHARMACIST.

Stationery and Toilet Articles.

...ty Bakery

...EAD, CAKES and PIES ...kinds, fresh every day.

A. EKBLAD

... M. Johnson

...ies and Delicatessen

... H. Adams

...l Merchandise.

R. PARNELL

...eral Merchandise.

... L. FOSS

Meat Market.

...rsby Winery Co.

...m & Brunberg, Props.

...Hou... Sad a Thing

By Wallace

...ERIOUSLY speaking, a fu... mor is one of the world' approached with reveren... as the pole, imperishable ... deal more ancient. If we ... holy things, can we afford ... vict chimpanzee, who, In... Peter Lelys and Joshua ...

Funny stories, further... ...ich is not funny at all. Their p... unsympathetic view of some gre... ...thetic to a sane mind than a funer... ...-law—yet, shades of Rameses, ho...

...n't think that there are any really ... merely a trifle less sad than oth... philosophy of the man who refu... ...rife's funeral "because," as he ex... for me!" And yet there are pers... ...ecovery.

...so the endless procession of anec... ...d, really funny—but some a little ...ays of heraldric eld, when the woo... and the snse of humor was less pa... ...eter hired by the week; and the c... which made all his jokes immedi... more than a bladder-on-a-stick. ...oke he popped the bladder smartly ...ght!" So the uproar was deafen... ...-Success.

...That Feeling C...

By Wade Mo...

...HERE lives somewhere i... the divine spark that w... universe slumbering in t... whisper or to cry out in... answer from another sou... relentless episode. W... ...ples would be reared b... in it dwells become ne... tion, fame and fortune a... ...prisonment, makes credulity a ... ...se.

...censorship of right or wrong can ... all its own; it laughs at reason ...children, the puzzle of philosophe... ...last of life—murmured at the crad... ...after tears, the cure for every so... ...e wide world.

... as Friends and Food.

...rmans love their dog. They ... his health; they provide ...ng establishments furnished ...y modern comfort—hot and ..., vapor, douches, friction. ...ciate his character, his fi... ...frankness, and they regard ...food; they like him as a ...d as victuals. In Prussia ...ne quarter 526 dogs were re... ...ed for food.——From Le ...s Debats of Paris.

cobs & Bro
and Rugs.
AGENTS—
stic Book Cases
Cabinets.
MINGHAM, A
nsurance Associa
LABAMA.
ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
and for the People.
ounty Branch
ebruary 3, 1900.
WALLACE C. EDLER
Sec'y.-Treas.
ngs, outbuildings and co
ss by fire, wind and ligh
most sensible method of 43-100 of 1 per c on application to
E C. EDLER, Clanton,
BINATION OFFER
"TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue
of the Globe-Democ
With UNION
For
one year, only ould not be classed with the many nt-Weekly, eight or more pages, comparison the biggest, best and c blished in the United States. It ll
ern Newspaper.
from the Daily issue. It is eds of the Farmer, the Merchant thoroughly posted without spec lso contains a great variety of well
o every member of the family.
Clubbing Offer
but may be withdrawn at any time,
dress
THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala
Practical Watchm
and Optician
Eyes Correct
Fitted
Mail orders promptly
U WAN
s, Noteheads
, Envelopes,
ELSE PRINTED? n Call at
ON OFFIC
Work at Low Prices.
ll For $2.00
ial, done on Good Mach
ION, Clanton, Alabama
Prevents Fevers.
URNISH PURE WA
r or no charge made.
Address
ARBER CO.
Ala
ibe Now

orsby, Alabama

Business Directory.

mercial Club
OF THORSBY
NITE and RELIABLE
ions furnished to parties
re to locate in the South.

HORN
SED PHARMACIST.
Stationery and Toilet Articles.

y Bakery
EAD, CAKES and PIES
kinds, fresh every day.
A. EKBLAD

M. Johnson
es and Delicatessen

E. H. Adams
al Merchandise.

R. PARNELL
eral Merchandise.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

rsby Winery Co.
ns & Brunberg, Props.

Thorsby Real Estate Co.
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, Pres.
G. H, GERALD, SEC.
G. C. MICHELSON, Treas.

OLAF SCHIVE,
Watchmaker & Jeweler
FRANZEN, BUILDING
Full line of watches jewelry, etc. Repair work guaranteed.

A. Langville & Son
Blacksmith and
Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BUGGIES.

P. C. SMITH
Brown Leghorn Fowls and Eggs.
BERKSHIRE PIGS

The Thorsby Inn
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.

J. J. Stanley
General Merchandise.

MRS. MARY R. RASBERRY
General Merchandise.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens.

..How..
Sad a Thing Is Wit!

By Wallace Irwin.

SERIOUSLY speaking, a funny story is no laughing matter. Humor is one of the world's great institutions, a thing to be approached with reverence akin to awe, as something cold as the pole, imperishable as the pyramids—and often a great deal more ancient. If we abase ourselves before ancient and holy things, can we afford to laugh at the capers of the convict chimpanzee, who, in point of ancestry, antedates the Peter Lelys and Joshua Reynoldses of our baronial halls?

Funny stories, furthermore, are usually based on some- [illegible] not funny at all. Their points, in fact, often depend solely [illegible] pathetic view of some great human misfortune. What is [illegible] to a sane mind than a funeral, or a harelip, or a divorce, or a [illegible] yet, shades of Rameses, how useful they have become in vau- [illegible]

[illegible] think that there are any really side-splitting stories in the world. [illegible] merely a trifle less sad than others, that is all. How admirable is [illegible] philosophy of the man who refused to ride with his mother-in-law, [illegible] funeral "because," as he explained, "it would spoil the day's [illegible] And yet there are persons so careless as to regard this as [illegible] the endless procession of anecdotes files by, none of them, as I [illegible] really funny—but some a little less sad than the others. In the [illegible] of heraldric eld, when the woods were teeming with parfit gentil [illegible] and the sense of humor was less particular than nowadays, every king [illegible] hired by the week; and the clown was furnished with a certain [illegible] made all his jokes immediately appreciated. What, prithee? [illegible] than a bladder-on-a-stick. When the jester came to the point [illegible] popped the bladder smartly on the floor. That was a signal. [illegible] So the uproar was deafening. Those were golden days to [illegible]

* * *

That Feeling Called Love

By Wade Mountforth.

THERE lives somewhere in the depths of every human heart the divine spark that we call love. It is the voice of the universe slumbering in its narrow cell to be awakened by a whisper or to cry out in dear desire and hear the echoing answer from another soul. Without it life would be a pale, [illegible] less episode. Without its quickening force no temples would be reared by human hands, yet hovels where it dwells become more glorious than palaces. Ambition, fame and fortune are its slaves; it chains the mind in [illegible] enchantment, makes credulity a guardian queen and lulls suspicion [illegible] fellowship of right or wrong can light the way of love; it walks in the all its own; it laughs at reason; dispels despair. It is the lisping [illegible] children, the puzzle of philosophers, the talisman of rulers. It is the [illegible] cast of life—murmured at the cradle, cherished at the grave. It is the [illegible] after tears, the cure for every sorrow, the joyous impulse that rules the wide world

Dogs as Friends and Food.

Germans love their dog. They [illegible] his health; they provide [illegible] establishments furnished [illegible] every modern comfort—hot and [illegible] water vapor, douches, friction, [illegible] appreciate his character, his fi- [illegible] frankness, and they regard [illegible] food; they like him as a [illegible] and as victuals. In Prussia [illegible] one quarter 526 dogs were re- [illegible] killed for food.—From Le [illegible] des Debats of Paris.

No Luck at All.

"Took out another accident policy, did he?"

"Yes; but he ain't had a leg cut off yet, nor even a arm broke."—Atlanta Constitution.

Natural Relation.

"You're a great big calf!" exclaimed the huffy girl.

"Suppose I am," replied the good-natured youth, "my father was a cowboy."

OCEAN CAUGHT FRESH FISH

DEVELOPMENT OF THE TRADE—WONDERFULLY INTERESTING INDUSTRY—ONE HUNDRED MILLION POUNDS A YEAR LANDED IN BOSTON—By N. D. FREEMAN, OF BOSTON.

Those who see the products of the sea only when placed before them in the form of food little realize what the production of it by the hardy fishermen who go out upon our fishing banks at this season of the year means. What dangers they face and what risks they take to furnish for our enjoyment the fish which please our palate and add so much to our food supplies. The supply of ocean-caught fresh fish has been of continuous but slow growth, until now it has reached the enormous amount of one hundred million pounds a year landed in Boston alone direct from the fishing boats, to which may be added forty million pounds more landed at other points along the New England coast and transported by railroads and steamboats to Boston to be distributed all over the United States and the Dominion of Canada. This does not include the halibut caught in southeastern Alaska by Boston-owned steamers constructed expressly for fishing in those waters and transported by rail from Pacific ports by express trains landing the fish in Boston in perfect condition in ten days from the time they were caught and often in less time, of which there were landed here about ten million pounds, also one million pounds of fresh salmon from the rivers of Washington, Oregon and California. Our fishing boats and manner of fishing have changed very much during the growth and development of this business, which dates back about sixty years, when the business of bringing fresh fish to the Boston market first began. At that time there were only a few small boats, carrying four or five men which carried on their fishing in Massachusetts and Barnstable bays, fishing during the day and coming to market during the night to be here in the early morning with their catch, disposing of what they could, which was often a small portion of their catch, and taking those for which there was no sale outside of Boston light and tossing them overboard, and catching some more to go back to market with. At that time the market was purely a local one, and the fish were distributed from hand-carts and pedlers' wagons in their immediate vicinity. It is no exaggeration to say more fresh fish are often landed now in Boston in one day than were landed then in a whole year, and it is a query often asked, where do they all go? There is hardly a railroad train leaves this city but what part of its capacity is filled with fresh fish. The facilities for distributing them has kept pace with the production and demand, and they are carried into every town and city of this country east of the Mississippi River and north of the Potomac and Ohio, some being distributed to still greater distances, but the territory mentioned is the principal territory over which they are distributed. With the custom of packing them in ice the business very much increased. When this innovation was first suggested the fishermen held up their hands in holy horror. What, pack our fish in ice!! Fresh water ice! It will spoil the fish. They will not be fit to eat. Whoever heard of such a ridiculous thing as trying to keep salt water fish with fresh-water ice? But some of the more progressive skippers thought the experiment worth trying, and of course in a short time proved the fallacy of the theory that fresh-water ice would spoil salt-water fish. This also improved the conditions for distributing the fish. The dealers found that fish packed in ice would keep in good condition for several days, and consequently could be transported farther. Fish markets sprang up all over New England, and the demand caught up with the supply, and no more fish were carried out past Boston light and thrown overboard for want of a market. The fish at that time were all caught by hand line, as it is called, the boats being anchored and the fishermen fishing with one or two lines to a man. Soon after the general use of ice in packing, the deman so increased the hand-line style of fishing found itself unable to supply the demand.

About this time the trawl came into use, being used by some Irish fishermen who had used them on the Irish coast. They were roundly cursed by the hand liners, who thought the business was doomed, but they soon found if they were going "to keep up with the procession" they must adopt the trawl, and as the fleet of boats was increasing they must look out for other fishing grounds, as the waters of Massachusetts and Barnstable bays did not afford grounds enough for the fleet to fish over, and they began to go farther out and have continued to extend the area of their fishing grounds until at the present time the entire coast of New England and Nova Scotia are covered by our fishing boats in pursuit of their business of catching fresh fish for the Boston market.

There has been the same advance and perhaps even greater in the size and style of vessels used in fishing as along other lines of business. The crack American fishing vessel has at all times stood next only to the crack American yacht, than which there are no safer or faster sailing vessels afloat. From the fifteen or twenty tonner with its four or five men of sixty years ago, to the hundred and fifty ton fishing vessel of to-day, with its twenty-two men, is indeed a long reach, and they have been developed during that time to the finest specimens of marine architecture afloat. The present season has seen another innovation in the way of catching fish. The steam otter trawler, which as yet is only an experiment in this country, although used almost entirely in supplying the English market. They have proved an unqualified success on their fishing grounds and there seems to be no reason why they should not be here if our grounds are adapted to that kind of fishing. This requires a smooth bottom, as otherwise the trawl is damaged by the obstructions. She has been going about four months. At first she did not meet with very good success, but later has made good trips, and those interested in the venture are very much encouraged. Should this be demonstrated to be the more economical way of producing fish it means an entire revolution in our manner of fishing, and in time our markets will be supplied with fish caugth by steam fishermen instead of sailing vessels. This, however, may be a long way off, as it means large capital, a first-class steam trawler and equipment costing about five times as much as a first-class sailing vessel and equipment. The fishermen have also changed during the sixty years. At that time ninety-five out of every hundred were American-born. As their children grew up they aspired to something higher in life than to be a mere fisherman. As the demand for fish increased the skippers were obliged to look elsewhere than among Americans for their crews. The Irish and men from the Provinces came first. The same evolution took place with them as with the Americans. Their children aspired to something higher. Then came the Portuguese, with nearly the same result. And it looks now as if in the future perhaps not far distant they might be manned largely by Italians. They are just starting out in small, open boats, and the natural course of events will carry them eventually to the larger boats. The captains of our vessels deserve a word, for upon them depends very much the success of this industry. They are men well qualified for the business, with unquestioned courage and excellent judgment, and are drivers in their business in the fullest meaning of the word. They are weather wise to an extent which almost beats the weather bureau, and while oftentimes their actions to a novice would appear to be reckless, rarely make mistakes. This little incident, which the writer knows to be a fact, illustrates this trait in their character. One morning on Georges bank, when the weather looked rather threatening and the barometer indicated foul weather, one of our most enterprising captains gave the order to throw out the dories and set the trawls. One of his crew, being a little timid and not liking the looks of the weather, went aft and said to the skipper he was not feeling well and could not go out to fish, to which the skipper made this reply, "G'wan, git inter ye dory, this is no harspittle." The fellow knew there was nothing to do but "git inter the dory," with the result that they had a good day's catch and made a profitable trip, while some other boats whose captains were not so good judges of the weather lost the day's fishing altogether. There is no prettier sight to be seen anywhere than a fleet of fishermen racing to market, for they know the first one arriving is sure of getting the best prices for their catch, and with plenty of wind, if sails and spars stand, there is not much time wasted in sleep while making the passage to market, which they often reach so covered with ice that when the halliards are cast off the sails remain up until they have beaten off the ice from the ropes so they will pass through the blocks. It is a life full of danger, risk and excitement, but there is a fascination about it that, after a man once starts in in earnest, it seems as if he cannot be contented in any other business. No braver or better men live, and they earn every cent they receive, and if at times prices seem to be high for what they produce, just remember what it means to catch and bring their goods to us for our enjoyment. —Boston Grocer.

How to Tell a Horse's Character.

Horse phrenology is a recent discovery of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons of England. According to Harold Leeney, a member of the college, it is easy to tell a horse's character by the shape of his nose. If there is a gentle curve to the profile and at the same time the ears are pointed and sensitive, it is safe to depend on the animal as gentle and at the same time high-spirited. If, on the other hand, the horse has a dent in the middle of his nose, it is equally safe to set him down as treacherous and vicious. The Roman-nosed horse is sure to be a good animal for hard work and safe to drive, but he is apt to be slow. A horse with a slight concavity in the profile will be scary and need coaxing. A horse that droops his ears is apt to be lazy as well as vicious.

An official return just issued by the Japanese Government gives the wealth of Japan at the end of 1904 as $6,510,403,000, or $145 per head.

Fall and Winter Hardware

Heating Stoves, Coal Hods, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Vases, Fire Guards, Window Panes and Putty,

PIPE AND FITTING.

Can secure repairs for machinery from us much cheaper and in less time than from Birmingham or Montgomery. We carry Inspirators, Lubricators, Glass Oil Cups, Check and Globe Valves, Jets, Packing, Rubber Belting and Gandy Stitched Belt, Engine and Cylinder Oil, Axle Oil and Axle Grease.

ROOFING.

We have in stock Galvanized and Iron Roofing, and our price will make this roofing cheaper for you than shingles, and is much easier to put in use.

PAINTS.

The Hammar Paint and Sun Proof Paint are as good as any on the market. We have pure Linseed Oil and Lead, and if you prefer to do your own mixing, we are prepared to furnish you the necessary coloring.

BUILDERS' HARDWARE.

We can save you money on this line. Have a full stock of Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Sash Cord. Call on us for prices before placing your order.

SPIGENER & JONES
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton, Alabama

"BING CLOTHES"

Are the Clothes for Men and Boys

Do you know that you can buy here Ready-to-Wear Clothes that no tailor can make for less than nearly double the price we ask?

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for fall is now complete; the styles are decided and we are showing absolutely correct styles. New Jackets, new Skirts, new Dress Goods, new Waist Goods, new Hats, new Shirts, new Neckwear. A complete line of Star Brand Shoes.

"Star Brand Shoes are Better"

Also a complete line of hardware, cooking stoves, harness, saddlery and Florence wagons. Come to see us before you buy elsewhere.

J. C. JONES,
Clanton, :-: :-: Alabama.

E. G. Rollins & Co.
—DEALERS IN—
General Merchandise, Clothing, Shoes and Fancy Groceries.
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN FARM.
Barred Plymouth Rocks
PURE BRED
Setting of 15 fresh eggs for 50c. Packing for shipping 10c extra.

PURE BRED
Duroc Jersey Hogs.
Write us for prices before you buy. Address,
W. Y. NIX,
Maplesville, Alabama.

Bank Saloon
CALERA, ALA.
Fine Wines, Whiskies, Brandies, Beer, Cigars and Tobacco

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Oct 25 1906.

Republican State Ticket.

Governor.
A. E. Stratton, of Montgomery.

Lieutenant-Governor.
Daniel N. Cooper, of Marion.

Attorney-General.
J. B. Sloan, of Blount.

Auditor of State.
J. Clyde Miller, of Jefferson.

Secretary of State.
George B. Randolph, of Calhoun.

State Treasurer.
George Beyer, of Cullman.

Commissioner of Agriculture.
William Cook, of Talladega.

Members of Railroad Commission.
S. A. Leonard, of Mobile.
Charles P. Lane, of Madison.

Chief Justice of Supreme Court.
Shulby S. Pleasants, of Madison.

Associate Justices Supreme Court.
Warren S. Reese, of Montgomery.
Arthur S. Stiles, of Etowah.

NOMINEES OF THE People's Primary

Held August 6, 1906, under the direction of the Republican and Populist Executive Committees of Chilton County, Ala.

FOR SENATOR, FIFTEENTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT, W. W. WADSWORTH, OF AUTAUGA. tf

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
J. Osmond Middleton.

FOR SHERIFF.
Felix J. Fitts.

FOR COMMISSIONER.
First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—S. E. Waldrup.
tf

OUR STATE TICKET.

Every Republican that is worthy of the name will vote the Republican state ticket as well as our county and district ticket. The latter you all know; the state ticket is composed of good men, from the Republican counties of our state, headed by Judge A E. Stratton, a man of whom the Montgomery Advertiser, which is not noted for throwing bouquets at Republicans, says: "Of him, personally, only good can be spoken. He is a man of ability and fine character." Every man who has a head and ideas of his own should vote the Republican ticket. Of course, we except those that are running for office on the Democratic ticket, but the plain people should vote for Republicanism and Prosperity.

AND HE WANTS TO BE SENATOR!

The new rate law will force all city and state officials, police, sheriffs, etc., to pay full fare in the future. The railroads have been accustomed to furnishing free passes to all officials, but the state will now have to foot the bills.—Prattville Progress.

The editor of the Progress is a lawyer, has served in the Legislature and is the Democratic nominee from the Fifteenth Senatorial district. Doster is a splendid, good fellow, but he cannot find any law in Alabama to support the statement that the state pays the railroad fare of any official.—Talladega Mountain Home.

And a man who is so poorly posted as the above article in his paper shows wants our people to send him to the State Senate. Just read Capt. Wadsworth's letter in this issue and see for yourself that there is a man that thinks on public questions. "Nuff sed."

A COWARDLY CAMPAIGN.

This has been one of the most cowardly fought campaigns in this county that history has ever recorded. The Democrats start out by challenging the Republicans and Populists to meet them on every stump in the county, and when Mr. Middleton is nominated he promptly accepts the challenge. Then came one excuse after another, the main one was that "Mr. Gulledge was sick," but all the time he was complaining of being sick he was going all over the county, at nearly every gathering, singings on Sunday, and such like. But finally he could make no more excuses, and through his campaign manager, Mr. W. M. Adams, he agreed to canvass the county with Mr. Middleton; and Mr. A. C. Smith, our campaign manager, had to concede Mr. Adams every point in making the arrangements for the joint canvass to keep him from flying the track. Finally the time agreed upon came, and Mr. Gulledge met Mr. Middleton in joint debate at Fairview, and that one trial satisfied Gulledge; then came his famous (?) letter making out like he had been mistreated, a letter which misstated the facts from start to finish. Now, look at the difference. We have made appointments for Hon. M. W. Howard, Judge Longshore and others to make some speeches in our county, and we invited the opposition to meet them. Now, the Democrats have made appointments for some of their big guns to come into this county, but did not say one word about dividing time with us. What is the meaning of this? It seems to me that every voter can understand the reasons. It shows plainly that the Democrats know that they have been so inconsistent, and have not got any arguments to present that will hold water, that they are afraid to meet our men and have their fallacies shown up. I see that they have made appointments in some of our strong beats. How can they expect our folks to turn out to hear them, and will they have any right to complain when they go and none is there? Our people believe in fair play and they like to hear both sides at the same time, and I predict small crowds for the Democrats. Look in all of the Democratic daily papers and you will see that the campaign manager of the Democratic party of the state has sent out instructions for their speakers not to meet the opposition in joint debate. Yes, I repeat, that this is one of the most cowardly campaigns on the part of the Democrats that we've ever noticed. L. H. REYNOLDS.

EXAMINER VAN DERVEER'S REPORT.

From the report of J. P. Van Derveer, who was appointed to examine the books and vouchers of the County Treasurer, we gather the following items, which will be interesting reading to the tax payers of the county:

"Before commencing the examination here referred to I requested Mr. Alex G. Dake, ex- Treasurer, to deliver to me his vouchers or county warrants paid by him during his term of office. Mr. Dake informed me that he could not deliver these papers on account of their having been lost or destroyed. The absence of these warrants or vouchers rendered it necessary to check through the minutes or records of the Court of County Commissioners to ascertain just what warrants had been authorized by the said Commissioners' Court during the term of office of Mr. Dake as County Treasurer. The period of time covered by this examination embraces the administration of the office by Mr. Alex G. Dake and the present incumbent, Mr. W. T. Callen. I find that there has been paid by Mr. Dake, as County Treasurer, a large number of warrants, the issuance of which was illegal and without authority of law. These warrants so illegally drawn, and which in my opinion do not constitute proper vouchers, I have separated into three classes, to-wit:

"First—Warrants drawn or issued upon claims and accounts and in payment thereof before such claims and accounts had been audited and allowed bythe Court of County Commissioners.

"Second—Warrants drawn or issued upon claims and accounts and in payment thereof which had been audited and allowed by the Court of County Commissioners at a time other than in term time.

"Third—Warrants drawn or issued upon claims and accounts and in payment thereof that the minutes or records of the Court of County Commissioners do not show were ever itemized, sworn to, audited or allowed either before or after issue of said warrants.

"Each of the warrants above referred to and classed are more fully described and set forth in exhibits hereto attached marked 'Ex. A,' 'Ex. B,' 'Ex. C,' and made a part hereof. Said exhibits show to whom each of said warrants were issued, and for what, the number, date, date of payment, page of Treasurer's cash book, date allowed—if allowed—page of Commissioners' Court minutes and the amount.

"Section 1416 requires the Court of County Commissioners in term time to audit all claims against the county, and section 1417 expressly declares that no claim against the county shall be passed upon or allowed by the court of County Commissioners unless it is itemized and sworn to, and section 1416 only authorizes the Judge of Probate to give to the claimant a warrant on the treasury for the amount so allowed. An examination of the exhibits will show that about seven of these improperly issued warrants were paid by Mr. W. T. Callen in the early part of his term and the remainder paid by Mr. Alex G. Dake.

"Judge Adams states that he was fully aware of the fact that the issuing of these warrants was not authorized by law, yet he simply followed the practice or custom of his predecessors, and that his acts had the approval of the Court of County Commissioners. The correctness of this statement is shown by the fact that the court did ratify his acts by auditing and allowing a large number of these accounts and claims long after the several claimants had received their money. Judge L. H. Reynolds, who issued warrants upon accounts allowed at June term, in seven cases, states that he did so under protest, and I find under date July 5, 1905, following minute entry made by Judge Reynolds: 'These minutes are approved by me except the orders paying money, which orders I do not approve, as in my opinion the court has no authority to make these orders at this term of the court.'

"With the view of examining the several accounts and claims that were audited and allowed by the Commissioners' Court and verifying the entries of such claims upon the minutes of the court, the warrants or vouchers of Mr. Alex G. Dake having been by him reported to me as lost, I requested Judge L. H .Reynolds to deliver to me the original accounts and claims upon which the several courts had acted, and which under sections 1416 and 1417 are required to be filed for future reference. I was informed by Judge Reynolds that no such accounts and claims were on file in his office excepting those that had accumulated during his term of office. Hence I have accepted as correct all entries found on the minutes of the Commissioner's Court showing the auditing and allowance of claims. I find from the several warrants issued from time to time to individuals to repay money borrowed from them for the use of the county, that there came into the custody of Mr. Alex G. Dake the sum of $11,250 as County Treasurer. The cash book of the Treasurer fails to show that he charged himself, as such Treasurer, with this money. His books show the register of the several warrants aggregating the said sum of $11,250, and the repayment of the same is shown in cash book, though the payment is not included in the addition of his disbursements. The payment of various times of the interest on this $11,250, aggregating the sum of $208.13, as shown by the several warrants and entries of payment in cash book, show this money to have been the funds of the county and as such should have been charged by the Treasurer to himself, as required by paragraph 9 of section 1429 of Code, that is, 'To keep a correct account of the receipts and disbursements of all money received by him for the county, according to the forms here prescribed, charging himself with all moneys so received, of whom, on what account and the amount, and crediting himself with all payments.' Neither of these legal requirements have been complied with and the records of the Treasurer's office do not show that any borrowed money was ever received by him, except by implication, the payment of interest in a few cases and which is charged in his disbursements, and the memorandum of the several warrants issued for the repayment of the borrowed money, the payment of which warrants is not included in his addition of disbursements. If Mr. Dake, as Treasurer, did not receive this $11,250, and his cash book does not show that he charged himself with it, then the several warrants for the repayment of the money should not have been issued, and the payment of unauthorized warrants for interest due on this money should be charged back to the Treasurer. The law very clearly requires that the Treasurer charge himself with every dollar received by him, and credit himself with every dollar disbursed—and this has not been done so far as applies to the receipt of this $11,250. I find under date November 6, 1899, page 341, minutes of Commissioners' Court, that an account in the sum of $3.30 was allowed to Walker Evans Cogswell Company for one poll tax book. Records show that warrant No. 365 was issued to H. Cogswell for this amount—$330. It is shown that this warrant was registered on page 119 of Treasurer's Register of Warrants in sum of $3.30. This entry shows to have been changed from $3.30 to $51.82, and this warrant was paid in the sum of $51.82, as is shown on page one of cash book November 13, 1899. The stub of the above warrant shows the amount to have been changed from the $3.30 to $51.82. Walker Evans Cogswell Company received, as shown by records, the sum of $48.52 more than allowed by Court of County Commissioners."

The foregoing is a literal transcript, as far as it goes, of Mr. Vanderveer's report. The amounts of the exhibits referred to by him are: "Exhibit A," $3,713.57; "Exhibit B," $1,211.41, and "Exhibit C," $14,027.11. The last exhibit (C) is for warrants made out to pay accounts that there is no record of the County Commissioners ever having seen. Out of the total of over $14,000, S. M. Adams got $4,716.12, that is, over one-third of the whole amount; W. T. Callen got $3,022.67, and the People's Savings Bank $2,541, a total for those three of $10,279.79.

READ AND HEED.

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 23, 1906.

Editor Union:

I did not think of writing anything for this week, as there was promised from parties on the Democratic side who were very much interested, that if we would just hold up and not bring to light some things that would be exceedingly damaging to some of the leading Democratic candidates, that they would see to the fact that those slandering reports on Fitts should be stopped. Well, so far so good, but as I mentioned in my former letter that I believed that there was a deep laid scheme to try and demoralize the minds of the people, for the purpose of stampeding them and scattering their votes. And without doubt their schemes are now actively at work. In the first place, their independent man for sheriff is nothing more than a decoy duck; they first start those tales on Fitts, then tell the Populists and Republicans that they can neither support Fitts nor Traywick, for it is an open secret that Traywick's moral odor is simply unspeakable here, so they say let's all vote for Bates (Knox's specialty—straight stuff).

Then there is no doubt but they are in collusion with some renegades from our own ranks, who are doing all in their power in an underground way to defeat our ticket—one poor, miserable creature who, like a mean hog, is ever seeking a hole through which he may creep to an office, or secure some boodle ;it is now reported that he is doing a job for them. Of course such dirty skunks have but little influence, but they can tell lies that some people may believe for a time. The only effect is to demoralize and befuddle people's minds.

Then there are others. Their tricks and tactics are known, and we know them; they think their trail and tracks are well covered, but they are sure to come to grief.

So my purpose in writing this to all Republican and Populist voters is simply to warn them against any and all tricks, for we are now and ever have been conducting our campaign on political issues, appealing to the people to stand by what is right and fair, honest and upright, while it is well known that the opposition mainly depend on tricks and schemes, and this present campaign promises to reveal some of the very worst in the history of Chilton county politics. So I repeat, let every one sleep with his eyes open, for the enemy is desperate and have set this election as their time to come in. They are playing their trump cards; they have out their ace and deuce, also their Tray (wick). But, boys, we have them on the run; they have quite the highway and taken to the bush; they dare not meet our speakers and discuss public issues, and all we have to do is for every man to stand to his post, and put his ballot in for honesty, fairness and right, and we will snow them under by a bigger majority than in years. Yours for the fray.

L. B. POUNDS.

HOT SHOT FROM LEE VICKERS.

Clanton, Route 4, Oct. 22, 1906.

Editor Union:

Here I come again, after reading that article in last week's Banner signed "Just Another Voter," it seems like the fool or whatever it may be doing the writing, is still roaming and rambling trying to find out where a Democratic club is to be organized. If the fool will go up in Jefferson county, where there are two Democratic candidates for sheriff running, and both claiming to be Democrats, he can organize a Democratic club to help beat the one that the regular nomination was stolen from. Well, fool, you say that Criton and Adams have more sense than me and my whole bunch has. I never said anything about their sense, but I know that they or anyone else have more sense than you have got or they wouldn't have any sense at all. Well, fool, skunk or whatever you are, you ask who it was that tried to get negroes registered so that they could vote. The only one I know of doing anything in that line is a well known Democrat in Beat 6. He told some negroes to go to the Board of Registrars and tell them to register them. This same Democrat wrote a letter and gave it to a negro to hand to the registrars, asking them to register the negro. If you want this Democrat's name call and I'll give it to you, or write me and I'll send it to you by mail, or I'll have it published in The Union. Just let me know how you want it. Why, any fool has more sense than you have, and when the Democrats carry Chilton county honestly you will be dead and in Sheol so long that your place will not be looked upon as a disgrace to that region. Look here, fool, you say that Criton and Adams had never been anything but Democrats; why, fool, don't you remember that Adams was elected by the Populists of this county once as Probate Judge, and that he advised the Populists to vote for the Republican nominee for Congress? What about Criton running in a Populist primary against Judge Reynolds for Representative? I believe Criton got about 115 votes to Judge Reynolds' 1,500 or 1,600 . You ought to have your head bound for ignorance. When you write again, sign your name so I can tell what fool you are. Listen here, voters, Mr. John Hays says that he heard F. A. Gulledge say that he (Gulledge) would bet $500 to $100 that he would be the next representative from Chilton county, and he also said that he hardly ever bet on his own tricks, but that this was one time that he'd do so. Don't that make us all think of the year 1900, when the Democrats passed a resolution to confer only with the defeated Democratic candidates on all local legislation? That was when the stock law was passed in Beat 5 (Beat 10 was a part of Beat 5 then), that Mr. Gulledge had such a hand in. I don't take the Banner, but my friends called my attention to the fool's letter in it, and the letter was also sent to me by mail, which I appreciate very much. I'll close, hoping to hear from fool at any time. Respectfully, LEE VICKERS.

THE CHAP WITH MONEY.

By N. O. Dem.

All hail the power of Gulledge's wealth
Let Democrats prostrate fall;
But shun the yellow "Dooley Yam,"
Lest it dynamites you all.

Ye chosen seed of Jefferson's race,
You who through Cleveland did fall;
All hail the conservative Bryan's face,
We believe we can redeem you all.

Let venal waters of every tribe
On this part of the old ball,
To F. A. G. their vote ascribe
And beat the Pops this fall.

TO MR. GULLEDGE.

Mr. Gulledge:

I would like to ask you a few questions. Did you not a few years ago tell a poor old negro that was a member of the Republican Executive Committee at that time that if he would get you the postoffice at Verbena that you would give him a horse? But after you got it you only gave him a hat, and a cheap one at that.

Second, will you please tell the people why your poor old uncle in Coosa county did not speak to you for twenty years before his death? I wish you would answer the above.

CITIZEN.

BEAT ELEVEN.

Editor Union:

The death angel visited the home of Mr. E. N. Minor and took his 6-year-old son, Andrew, on October 19. He was a good child and went to Sunday school, and when his name was called he said his verse. Last Sunday morning when I passed the house they called me in and told me he could not go that day, and the little fellow said his verse to me and asked me to mark it. The verse was, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of God." The funeral services took place at Cane Creek cemetery on the 20th., Bro. W. S. Cox officiating. Dear friends, I wish you all could have heard this child talk before he passed away; if we all were as ready as he was, we would long to have the time come for us to go. He told his parents not to grieve after him, that he was all right. May God bless them and cause them all to heed what he said to them. Dear friends, if we would take God's law and go by it, we would be ready even as this little child was. Brethren, stop so much backbiting of one another, and do right and when other. Yours truly,

JOHN S. DENNIS,
Sec. Union Point S. S.

LOMAX.

Editor Union:

Farmers are getting behind with their work on account of so much rain, but I guess it will all be for the best. I. V. Collins and family visited Gip Henley's Sunday. Mrs. Joe Jackson visited at A. A. Jackson's Sunday. L. W. Jones was a Sunday visitor at Gip Henley's. Miss Roberta Henley was a visitor Sunday of the Misses Lucille, Lula and Mary Jackson and reports a nice time. Josh Oldacre called on A. Bussey Sunday. Terrell Bussey went over the hill Sunday. Am glad to say that Gip Henley is improving a little, but he has been very sick; W. W. Jones called on him Sunday. Success to The Union.

NOBODY'S DARLING.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

REGISTRATION NOTICE.

Beat No. 4, at Clanton, on Friday and Saturday before the election in November, 1906.

R. H. GAINES,
B. L. JONES,
P. M. MOORE ,
Board of Registrars Chilton County.
tf

MONEY TO LOAN

On real estate. Call or write me at my abiding place with Mr. G. O. Foshee, one mile northeast of Clanton, R. F. D. No. 1. Come during banking hours, as I keep my money in the bank.
tf JAMES GLASS.

NOTICE.

ALTHOUGH MR. GULL... BACKED OUT OF THE ... CUSSION AGREEMENT ... DLETON WILL KEEP ... DATES AS ABOVE. ... AND HEAR HIM.

To THE PEOPLE OF ... COUNTY.

It has been agreed ... discussion of the issues ... tween Mr. F. A. Gulledge ... Middleton shall take ... lowing times and places:

Beat 7, Sardis Church ... tober 18, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Macedonia ... 19, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Benson's Cross ... day, October 20. ... m.

Beat 1, Blow's school ... church Monday, October ...

Beat 1, Union Church ... tober 30, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Jemison ... ber 31, 10 a. m.

Beat 2, Rocky Mount, ... October 31, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Providence ... vember 1, 7 p. m.

Beat 9, Cedar Grove Church ... November 2, 7 p. m.

Beat 11, Cane Creek ... day, November ... p. m.

Beat 4, Walnut Grove ... day, November ... m.

In addition to the ... J. O. Middleton will ... extra appointments, ... special request of the ...

Pleasant Grove Church ... Wednesday, October ...

Mars Hill, Beat 2, Thursday, October 25, 7 p. m.

Poplar Springs, Beat ... October 27, 7 p. m.

A. C. ... tf Chairman Chilton ...

THE NEW YORK ...

Thrice-a-Week Edition ... ever the English ... Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week ... a great Presidential ... shadowed, hopes ... than it has ever ... has made arrangements ... its news service ... globe, and it reports ... promptly and ... only newspaper ... as good as a daily, ... keep you as ... what is happening ... world.

The Thrice-a-Week ... its political reports ... truth from its columns, ... are Republican or Democratic ... is what you want.

A special feature of ... Week World has always ... rial fiction. In addition ... the best authors in the ... which in book form sell ... apiece, and its high ... respect will be maintained ... ture as in the past.

The Thrice-a-Week ... subscription price is only ... and this pays for 156 papers ... this unequalled newspaper ... Union together for one year.

The regular subscription ... two papers is $2.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages ... and all official forms ... Justices of the Peace ... for sale at The Union ... Only best approved forms ... are used. Come in ... us your order

GINNING SEASON.

We have engaged ... Walter Maddox to ... operate our gins for the coming season. We have the best machinery and ... these men to operate it ... can guarantee entire satisfaction to those who will ... ize us. Bring us your cotton.
Respectfully.
Chilton Warehouse ... Company.

FOR SALE.

30 young cockerels ... Spangled Hamburgs, ... Laced Wyandottes, ... Brown and White Leghorns. ... Prices 50c to $1. ... birds pure bred and ... quality.

J. B. ...
Clan...
tf

COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
... Term—Third Monday in May.
... Term—Fourth Monday in No...
...—A. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
...—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
...—Geo. W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
... Term—Second Monday in ...
...—Second Monday in Sep...
...—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
...—Mrs. B. A. Stewart, Clan...

County Court.
... Monday in each month.
Commissioners' Court.
... Monday February, first Mon...
...ril, first Monday June, second ...
... July, second Monday August, ...day November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

...e of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
...—W. T. Callen.
...—J. M. Morgan.
...—W. M. Adams.
Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
... District—W. H. Conway.
... District—Alex Glasscock.
... District—R. F. Kendrick.
...th District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
... J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
... R. Dahl, Calera.

State Senator.
W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

...ISSIONARY BAPTIST.
...HANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas...
...rst Sunday and Saturday be... D. L. Hand, clerk.

...H-SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish, ... E. B. Popwell, clerk.

...D CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey, First Sunday and Saturday ... W. E. Thomas, clerk.

...LING CHAPEL—Rev. J. H. ..., pastor. Third Sunday and ...y before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

...S HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, First Sunday and Saturday ... G. W. Scott, clerk.

...DONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas, Fourth Sunday and Saturday ...t 3:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong, ...

...ASANT GROVE—Rev. J. H. ..., pastor. Fourth Sunday and ...y before at 11 a. m. D. H. ... clerk.

...VIDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robin... ...tor. Second Sunday and Sat... ...fore. Riley Robinson, clerk.

...DBOTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H. ..., pastor. Second Sunday and ...y before. D. C. Smitherman.

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

...EL—Elder J. P. Nobles, pas... ...cond Sunday and Saturday be... ... T. Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

...Y MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Van... ...pastor. Second Sunday. Sing... ...y second and fourth Sunday ...n. Prayer meeting every Wed... ...night. Ladies' prayer meeting ...aturday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

... R. A. Chapter, No. 116—... ...aturday, Clanton.

...e Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...rth Saturday, Cooper.

... Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...t Saturday, Clanton.

...y Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...t Saturday, Billingsley.

...an Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...Saturday on or before full ...arbury.

... Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...rday on or before full moon.

I. O. O. F.

... Lodge—First and third Sa...

... Lodge, No. 104— Second and ...ndays.

...odmen of the World.
...ck Camp, No. 190—First and ...days.

I. C. R. M.

...ma Tribe, No. 96—First and ...days, sleep. Visiting chiefs ...vited. E. B. Langston, C. ... Fulton, Sachem.

... Tribe No. 42—2nd and 4th ...sleep. Visiting chiefs cor... ...ited. J. M. Grant, Sachem; ...ch, C. of R.

...ichee Tribe, No. 9, meets ...nd fourth Tuesdays' sleep. ...fe cordially invited. ... VAN DERVEER, Sachem ...OBINSON, C. of R.

NOTICE

ALTHOUGH MR. GULLE... BACKED OUT OF THE ... CUSSION AGREEMENT, ... DLETON WILL KEEP ... DATES AS ABOVE. ... AND HEAR HIM.

To THE PEOPLE OF ... COUNTY.

It has been agreed ... discussion of the issues of ... tween Mr. F. A. Gulledge ... Middleton shall take place ... lowing times and places:

Beat 7, Sardis Church, ... tober 18, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Macedonia, Fri... 19, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Benson's Cross R... day, October 20, 7 p. m.

Beat 1, Blow's school ... church Monday, October ...

Beat 1, Union Church, T... tober 30, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Jemison, We... ber 31, 10 a. m.

Beat 2, Rocky Mount, ... October 31, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Providence, Th... vember 1, 7 p. m.

Beat 9, Cedar Grove Chu... November 2, 7 p. m.

Beat 11, Cane Creek Ch... day, November 3, 7 p. m.

Beat 4, Walnut Grove C... day, November 5, 7 p. m.

W. M. A...
Chm. Dem. C...
A. C. SMI...
Chm. Rep. C...

EXTRA.

In addition to the above ... I. O. Middleton will fill the ... extra appointments, this by ... special request of these co...

Pleasant Grove Church, ... Wednesday, October 24, 7 p. ...

Mars Hill, Beat 2, Thurs... 25, 7 p. m.

Poplar Springs, Beat 10, ... October 27, 7 p. m.

A. C. W... tf Chairman Campaign Co...

THE NEW YORK WO...

Thrice-a-Week Edition—B... ever the English Lan... Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World ... a great Presidential campa... shadowed, hopes to be a b... than it has ever been be... has made arrangements ... Its news service covers ... globe, and it reports every... promptly and accurately. ... only newspaper, not a daily, ... as good as a daily, and ... keep you as completely in... what is happening thro... world.

The Thrice-a-Week World ... its political reports. You ... truth from its columns, ... are Republican or Democra... is what you want.

A special feature of the ... Week World has always b... rial fiction. It publishes ... the best authors in the w... which in book form sell ... apiece, and its high stand... respect will be maintained ... ture as in the past.

The Thrice-a-Week World ... subscription price is only $1 ... and this pays for 156 papers. ... this unequalled newspaper ... Union together for one year.

The regular subscription p... two papers is $2.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mo... and all official for... Justices of the Peace ... for sale at The Unio... Only best approved ... are used. Come in a... us your order

GINNING SFASON

We have engaged ... Walter Maddox to ... operate our gins for t... ing season. We ha... best machinery a... these men to operate ... can guarantee entire ... faction to those who ... ize us. Bring us your ...

Respectfully
Chilton Warehouse &...
Company.

FOR SALE

30 young cockerels ... Spangled Hamburgs, ... Laced Wyandotts, ... Brown and White L... Prices 50c to $2.... birds pure bred and ... quality.

J. B. Doc...
tf Clanton...

...D AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.

...Term—Third Monday in May. ...Term—Fourth Monday in No...

...—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee. ...—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville. ...—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

...Term—Second Monday in ...Term—Second Monday in Sep...

...—Hon. W. W. Whitesides. ...—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

County Court.

...Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

...Monday February, first Mon... ...April, first Monday June, second ...July, second Monday August, ...Monday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

...of Probate—L. H. Reynolds. ...—W. T. Callen. ...—J. M. Morgan. ...—W. M. Adams. ...Assessor—L. B. Pounds. ...Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

...District—W. H. Conway. ...District—Alex Glasscock. ...District—R. P. Kendrick. ...District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.

...J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.

...R. Dail, Calera.

State Senator.

...W. R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

MISSIONARY BAPTIST.

...THANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas... ...First Sunday and Saturday be... ...D. L. Hand, clerk.

...TH-SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish, ...E. B Popwell, clerk.

...E CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey, ...First Sunday and Saturday ...W. E. Thomas, clerk.

...LINS CHAPEL—Rev. J. H. ...pastor. Third Sunday and ...day before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

...S HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ...First Sunday and Saturday ...G. W. Scott, clerk.

...EDONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ...Fourth Sunday and Saturday ...at 3.30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong, ...

...ASANT GROVE—Rev. J. H. ...pastor. Fourth Sunday and ...day before at 11 a. m. D. H. ...clerk.

...OVIDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robin... ...pastor. Second Sunday and Sat... ...before. Riley Robinson, clerk.

...OBOTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H. ...pastor. Second Sunday and ...day before. D. C. Smitherman, ...

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

...—Elder J. P. Nobles, pas... ...Second Sunday and Saturday be... ...T Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

...AY MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Van... ...pastor Second Sunday. Sing... ...second and fourth Sunday ...Prayer meeting every Wed... ...night Ladies' prayer meeting ...Saturday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

...R. A. Chapter, No. 116— ...Saturday, Clanton.

...Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Saturday, Cooper.

...Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Saturday, Clanton.

...Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Saturday, Billingsley.

...Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...Saturday on or before full ...Harbery

...Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...day on or before full moon.

...Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...day on or before full moon.

I. O. O. F.

...Lodge—First and third Sat...

...Lodge, No. 304— Second and ...days.

Woodmen of the World.

...Camp, No. 136—First and ...days.

I. O. R. M.

...Tribe, No. 98—First and ...days. Visiting chiefs cor... ...invited. E. B. Langston, C. ...Patton, Sachem.

...Tribe No. 48—2nd and 4th ...days. Visiting chiefs cor... ...invited. ...M. Grant, Sachem; ...R.

...Tribe, No. 9, meets ...and fourth Tuesdays' sleep. ...chiefs cordially invited. ...VAN DERVEER, Sachem ...INSON, C. of R.

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

Chilton Co. Division Officers.

J. H. Thomas, President, Jemison, Rte. 1.
J. W. Hayes, Vice Pres., Thorsby, Rte 1.
J. N. Dennis, Sec-Treas., Clanton, Rte 6.
G. W. Thomas, Chaplain, Clanton, Rte 2.
J. W. Sorrell, Bus. Agent, Jemison, Rte 4.
C. N. Elland, Lecturer, Clanton, Rte 4.
N. A. Dobbs, Asst. Lect., Clanton, Rte 3.
W. J. Bean, Conductor, Clanton, Rte 4.
W. F. Culpepper, Doorkeeper, Clanton, ...te 3.
W. A. Barnett, Ex. Committee, Jemison, Rte 2.
E. H. Mims, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 1.
J. Wiley Foshee, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 4.

SINGING AT CORINTH.

According to previous announcements quite a number of Chilton's leading singing teachers and a large crowd of spectators assembled at Corinth church, five and a half miles east of Verbena, Sunday, October 21, for the purpose of reorganizing the old Southern Singing Convention of Chilton county.

1. The assembly was called to order by E. L. Jones, who conducted devotional exercises.

2. On behalf of the community and church, Rev. E. L. Manning delivered an eloquent address of welcome.

3. Prof. R. T. Grant, with a few well placed remarks, responded.

4. Election of officers was in order. Prof. T. L. Robinson was elected president; S. J. Jones, vice-president; L. E. Robinson, secretary.

5. On motion the president appointed a committee to arrange program for the day, consisting of the following: P. M. Jones, E. A. Norris and W. B. Jones.

6. The following were appointed to frame by-laws by which the convention might hereafter be governed: R. T. Grant, chairman; B. J. Goss, W. H. Robinson..

7. Report of arranging committee, which follows:

The following teachers conducted the singing: J. S. Jones, 25 minutes; Miss Fannye Belle Robinson, organist; recess for 15 minutes.

A. L. Robinson, 25 minutes; Miss Mamie Robinson, organist; N. J. Jones, 25 minutes; L. E. Robinson, organist. Adjourned one hour for dinner.

Returned at 1 p. m. R. T. Grant, 25 minutes; Miss Fannye Belle Robinson, organist. W. H. Robinson, 25 minutes; L. E. Robinson, organist. E. S. Parrish, 25 minutes; Miss Fannye Belle Robinson, organist. T. L. Robinson, 25 minutes; Miss Fannye Belle Robinson, organist.

8. A committee was appointed to solicit members for the convention and 43 were enrolled.

9. An executive committee was appointed to name the next place of meeting, which will be announced later. The time for next meeting will be the first Saturday and Sunday in May, 1907.

10. The convention adjourned by singing "God be with you till we meet again.

T. L. ROBINSON, President.
L. E. ROBINSON, Secretary.

FOR SALE!

120 acres of good level land, 1 mile east of Collins Chapel school house, good pasture with never failing supply of water. House of 3 rooms and lot buildings, with good spring close to dwelling house,

ALSO

Grist Mill (for both corn and wheat), in running order, water power the year round, good location for cotton gin, (formerly known as Maddox's Mill) near Jumbo. All to be sold cheap for cash, together or separately. Call on or address K. A. E. Gronquist, Clanton, Route 4. tf

ALL-DAY SINGING.

There will be an all-day singing at Mount Moriah the fourth Sunday in October. Everybody is invited to come and bring their song books and baskets. We will use the following books. "Singing for Joy," "Songs of Triumph," "Windows of Heaven," "All in All Songs." J. F. LOWERY.
tf

FOR SALE.

A fine yoke of oxen, about 3 years old, to be sold cheap. I live five miles east of Jemison.

MARION GLASSCOCK,
tf Jemison, R. F. D. 2.

ATTENTION

Mrs. S. J. Watts is with J. C. Jones and will be pleased to wait on friends and customers. We make a specialty of all styles of "Puritan Corsets" Dress Goods and Trimmings, design dresses and order patterns. tf.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Oct. 24, 1906... 2,040
Price same date 10 3-4
Receipts same time in 1905..... 3,439
Price same date 10 3-4

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Shiloh school, district No. 12, will open Monday, October 29. Prof. R. A. Smith will be in charge.

S. J. Evans, who formerly had a tombstone business at Calera, was in Clanton last week. Mr. Evans says he has been in Talladega about two years, where he was in charge of some marble quarries, but that he is now back in business at the old stand in Calera, where he wants to see all his old customers and many new ones. The style of the firm now is S. J. Evans & Sons.

A couple of negro prisoners sawed their way out of Clanton jail Sunday night. It is supposed that a mulatto who was put in there last week for "train riding" had the saws on his person. The one that went with him was in on a charge of murder. Two others could not get through the hole, it being too small for them.

Mrs. Howard J. Morris, the lady who is to take charge of the music in the Clanton High School, arrived here Monday. Mrs. Morris is a daughter of Dr. F. B. Webb, the pastor of the Presbyterian church at Talladega, and has a diploma from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She has also taught six years, and is an accomplished organist on large pipe organs, such as are used in the city churches.

T. P. Smith was in Clanton Friday.

Prof. R. A. Smith was in town Friday. He will teach at Shiloh school this term.

J. M. Poole was a pleasant visitor Friday.

W. M. Geter was in Clanton Friday.

John P. Milford and W. E. Hayes were in town Friday.

D. J. Rollan was in Clanton Friday. He is talking of going further south to live.

W. J. Bean was in town Saturday. He had some bad luck last week, a valuable mare and two mules getting into a wire fence and were badly cut up, the mare especially. There ought to be a law forbidding the use of barbed wire fences without a top rail of wood to guard animals.

Wm. Martin was in Clanton Saturday.

G. W. Edwards was a town visitor Saturday.

Postmaster Bice, of Thorsby was in Clanton Saturday.

J. N. Dennis and Prof. R. A. Rasco were in town Saturday, attending a meeting of the County Board of Education.

J. N. Littlejohn, wife and two little daughters were Clanton visitors Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Dennis were in town Saturday.

J. R. Collins and mother were in Clanton Saturday.

W. C. Jones was in town Saturday, accompanied by his daughters, the Misses Annie and Lucy Jones, who were on their way to Verbena to visit their Uncle Nattie Jones.

Pension warrants amounting to over $5.000 are in Judge Reynolds' office for distribution.

D. W. Branch has opened a repair shop on the north end of the Union building, and being an experienced machinist, he stands ready to repair any kind of a machine, guns, etc. Give him a trial.

Dr. J. Marion Dennis, of Baconton, Ga., was a visitor to his home folks in Beat 10 last week.

Judge Reynolds went to Montgomery Tuesday to attend the Fair. W. A. Reynolds, the Jemison merchant, was also there, taking in the sights.

FARMERS, DO NOT SELL YOUR STORM COTTON FOR MORE THAN ONE CENT BELOW THE PRICE FOR GOOD COTTON, NO MATTER HOW BAD IT IS. COTTON FACTORS HAVE GIVEN ORDERS TO COTTON BUYERS THAT THEY WILL TAKE ALL STORM COTTON, NO MATTER HOW BAD A CONDITION IT IS IN, AT ANY PRICE WITHIN A CENT OF THE PRICE FOR GOOD REGULAR COTTON.
tf

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

B. M. Robinson and Miss Ella Scott; Wm. H. Williams and Miss Cora Bristow; Enoch C. Traywick and Miss Lula Belle Little.

CLANTON ACADEMY,

Clanton, Alabama,

Possesses superior advantages to pupils of all grades, prepares them to enter the best colleges and universities, trains teachers to stand examination for any grade certificate and qualifies them the better to fill a place in their profession.

L. J. THOMPSON,
tf Principal.

NEED MORE.

We are sorry to say that Mr. Jones, one of our sawmill men, is sick, but hope he will soon recover. His new sawyer, Mr. Shaw, keeps things moving. Mrs. H. C. Maddox, who has been visiting her sister and the State fair in Birmingham the past week, returned home Saturday accompanied by her sister, Mrs. George Sorrell, and reports a fine time. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jones were visitors at Lee Pate's Sunday. Just the same

BUTTERFLY.

LIBERTY HILL.

Not much news to write, as I did not get to go to the Fair at Birmingham, but hope to take in the Fair at the capital. Well, Sunday was preaching day here and there was a large and orderly attendance. There was a large crowd at the singing at W. D. Z. Foshee's Sunday evening and we had a fine time. J. R. was all smiles and seemed to be enjoying himself. P. J. had up his red headlight Sunday evening. Oh, I liked to have forgotten the "grey"; I guess the grey wishes there were not any top buggies. Mrs. H. C. Maddox visited the Fair last week and brought her sister, Mrs. George Sorrell, of Ensley, back with her. Success to The Union.

COTTON PICKER.

A TRIBUTE TO GRANDMA.

Editor Union:

Please let me say a few words about dear Grandma Childress, who died on last Monday, the 15th. It makes me feel sad to have to give her up. She leaves three children to grieve about her, though they can meet her at the beautiful gate where there is no parting with loved ones. She has been suffering three long years; she still trusted in her Savior and prayed all through her sickness. She would ask the Lord why he did not take her home, that she was ready and willing to go. She stayed at our home one year and I could hear her singing her old hymns to herself as she laid on her bed, and I know that her Savior was with her. Today she is singing in that beautiful world above. The people were so good to her; they did not let her lack for anything, and today it does them good to know that she is at rest. It was touching to see them pay their last tribute of respect by placing beautiful wreaths of flowers upon her casket. We should bow submissively and not question the will of God, who doeth all things well. After three long years of suffering her sweet life she laid aside and took up her abode with the angelic host, where parting is unknown. Dear Grandma will be waiting up there. From her granddaughter,

PERDLIA HUBBARD.

MAPLESVILLE.

Editor Union:

Some bright days are appreciated by the farmers and poets; our lovely autumnal leaves are lovely enough to incite poetry in the dullest. The big show has come and gone and the clown was astonished at the great numbers of grown people it required to care for so few children. Little Miss Emma Lillie Crumpton, on her 5th birthday, had a most delightful dinner that was greatly enjoyed by many of her little friends. Miss Sallie Ramsey has been visiting friends on Mulberry. Frank Kelley visited his sister, Mrs. R. H. Martin. Mesdames Goodwin and DuBose made a very pleasant visit to Selma. We regret to state that Mrs. T. M. Crumpton is in poor health and is in the sanatorium at Selma. Miss Daisy Berry, of Orrville, is with her family here. We are pleased to state that Mrs. Ensign has discharged her trained nurse, as her health is very much improved. As was said centuries ago, "work is plentiful, but laborers are few." Our enterprising young merchant, Calhoun Foshee (of whom we are justly proud), is having the elegant brick store, that his brother Wheeler planned before his death, finished by the architect, Mr. Crawford, of Bessemer. We've had a protracted meeting with some accessories to the church, and from the respect given we know some good seeds have "fallen on good soil," that we have prayed "may bring forth much fruit." Rev. Rush, presiding elder, and Harrison, of Randolph, assisted Pastor Davis. The Messrs. Washburn, of Marion, have visited their sister here, Mrs. J. J. Hays. SUBSCRIBER.

JEMISON.

Editor Union:

I'd like to speak a few words to the readers of the dear old Union, and especially to the many members of the F. E. and C. U. of A. Dear brethren, we've been in school now one year or more. What have we done to educate ourselves in the struggle for independence and equal rights, such as free American citizens ought to have? Do we know any more about unionism now than we did twelve months ago? Have we been taking The Union and such other papers as we ought to take to teach us? Or are we just waiting for some chap to come and tell us personally what our duty is? Do we as Union people know what the principles of organized labor are, and what universal unionism is, and what it will mean, when we get co-operated together with all labor? Now here, brother union man, we want to do something and do it quick and good. I've been traveling some lately in this State and I find some little locals with $1,500 in receipts with Parker's name on them. Now, that means "strictly business." Do you belong to such a local? If not spur up and come to the front. Bro. G. W. Scott and myself spent eight days organizing in Elmore county recently; well, in time of that storm spell. We organized some of as good men as Elmore county holds, men that live at home and board at the same place. As we came home through Wetumpka the streets were full of cotton, everybody selling, so you see the need of being organized. Those people rushing their cotton on the market keep the price down. I'll close by saying let us all do more for the cause of unionism than we have been doing. Say, look for the union label on goods before you buy them. Success to The Union.

J. W. HARRELL.

DEATH OF MRS. JOHNSON.

Mrs. Sallie E. Johnson, relict of Dr. Sam Johnson, who has been dead about seven years, died Saturday, October 20, at 10:30 p. m., aged 51 years. Funeral services were held at the Johnson residence at 3 p. m. Monday, conducted by the Rev. A. C. Swindall, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church. The interment took place at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday in Clanton cemetery, the delay being caused by awaiting the arrival of Samuel, the youngest son, who was in school at Bedford City, Va., he having telegraphed that he wanted to see his mother's face once more. The deceased leaves four children (three sons and one daughter) to mourn a mother's loss; they are Dr. N. S. Johnson, Arthur and Samuel and Ruth. Mrs. Johnson was a Miss Strock, of Verbena, and has been a resident of Clanton for many years. Dr. Johnson, Sr., having been a prominent and popular physician here. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends both Sunday and Monday and Tuesday morning at the cemetery. "Requiescat in pace."

SPECIAL NONTICE.

When you are in the city of Jemison call at the new barber shop, corner Cotton Belt street and Second avenue. E. M. RAY. tf

NOTICE.

For sale, four fine meat hogs, three years old. Call on Jess Burnett, Jemison, Route 4. tf

PLEASANT GROVE.

Editor Union:

Please allow me space in your valued paper to say a few words. I am sorry to see that some of the Democrats have been slinging their mud on Mr. F. J. Fitts. I've known Mr. Fitts for twenty-five years and never saw him drunk in my life. Those false reports told on Mr. Fitts at the baptizing surely were false, for a member of my family was there who is well acquainted with Felix Fitts and he says that he never saw or detected drink on him that way. I think the Democrats who see so much whiskey drinking must be drinking much more than Fitts. If you want a good Representative and a good Sheriff, vote for J. Osmond Middleton and F. J. Fitts. So good-bye, boys, till the November election. Yours for the right,

G. W. HODKENS.

Jemison, Ala.

Notice No. 20795.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

Department of the Interior,
Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 28, 1906.

Notice is hereby given that William F. Armstrong, of Clear Creek, Ala., has filed notice of his intention to make final five years proof in support of his claim, viz., homestead entry No. 23166, made September 6, 1899, for the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter, section 22, township 24 north, range 13 east, and that said proof will be made before clerk of Circuit Court at Clanton, Ala., on November 1, 1906.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of the land, viz.: Joseph M. Broadhead, W. Rufus Holditch, William M. Aldritch, Lee Busby, all of Calera, Ala.

ROBERT D. JOHNSTON,
8-30-06 tf Register.

Mill Days

My Grist Mill will run Tuesday and Friday mornings of each week. Come and see me

Respectfully
J. M. Maddox,
Thorsby, Route 1.

Important Notice

If you want Notices to put up on your property, so as to keep off Hunters and Tresspassers, come to The Union Office, where you can get fine cards 11 by 15 inches.

THE UNION.

PROGRAM SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The annual convention of District No. 5 will be held at Corinth church, five miles east of Verbena, the second Sunday, November 11, 1906.

9:45 a. m.—Devotional exercises, E. L. Jones.

Singing, led by A. L. Robinson.

10:00.—President's report, D. S. Robinson.

Secretary's report, Miss Lila Meriwether.

10:20.—"The Influence of the Sunday School," P. M. Jones.

10:40.—"What Is Needed in Sunday School," W. L. Pyron, J. F. Williams, John Norris, W. H. Street, Cato Pattillo, W. C. Rich, Zeb Mims, E. L. Jones, Joseph Mims and D. S. Robinson.

11:30.—Address by Judge Joseph Carthel, State Secretary.

1:15 p. m.—Devotional exercises, Dr. H. W. Caffey.

1:30 p. m.—"Music in the Sunday School," T. L. Robinson.

2 p. m.—Discussion of "Primary Work," Mrs. Agnes Farr, Miss Maggie Long, Miss Alice Strock, Miss Dora Sims, Mrs. D. L. Robinson, Mrs. M. E. Baldwin.

2:30.—"The Sunday School as a Field of Training", A. L. Harris'

3 p. m.—"A Well Organized Sunday School," Judson Strock.

It is earnestly hoped that every Sunday school in Beats 5 and 10 will be represented at this convention.

D. S. ROBINSON,
tf LILA MERIWETHER.

STRAYED OR STOLEN.

From near my residence on June 25, one iron gray mare colt, one year old; one iron gray horse colt, with star on face, and scar on left hind leg above hock, one and a half years old. Any information leading to their recovery will be liberally rewarded.

C. C. MARTIN,
tf Calera, Ala., Rte 1.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for sheriff of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people at the November election, 1906.

ROLLEFFE BATES.
adv (tf)

NEWSY GLEANINGS.

A Missouri man says that he can liquefy coal.

Kansas City consumes 125 carloads of peanuts every year.

The soapmakers of England have combined, with a capital of $75,000,000.

One county in California is expected to market 110,000,000 pounds of prunes.

The United States Marine Hospital service reported five yellow fever cases in Cuba.

A Terrorist lad of Lodz, Russian Poland, whistled on the scaffold as he was about to hang.

The Minister of Marine has asked the Japanese Parliament for an appropriation of $135,000,000.

Governor Magoon will appoint a commission to draft a new election law and other measures for Cuba.

The President in his message to Congress will urge legislation looking to greater elasticity of the currency.

Heads of other educational institutions than Chicago University expressed entire satisfaction with their systems of co-education.

New York is trying to secure President Roosevelt's attendance at the Jamestown Exposition for Robert Fulton and New York days.

Comte Boni de Castellane has definitely refused the offer of his wife to settle an income on him, but demands the liquidation of his debts.

At the dedication of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church, New York City, Dr. Parkhurst praised the good qualities of Stanford White, its architect.

Daughters of the American Revolution at Brunswick, Ga., will plant a liberty tree, around which will be placed soil from the forty-nine States and Territories.

The population of the United States on September 1 was estimated by the Treasury Department at 84,897,000, and the money in circulation per capita at $32.50.

Bodies of the pauper dead in the District of Columbia are not to be buried in the potter's field, but are to be cremated, for Congress has appropriated $15,000 for building a suitable crematory.

Winnowed Wheat.

A good man does good merely by living.

You are not very holy if you are not very kind.

God often comes to visit us, but generally we are not in.

What is each man but one little thread in the loom of God?

Bind together your spare hours by the cord of some definite purpose.

No grip is so hard to shake off as that of early religious convictions.

Our remedies frequently fail, but Christ as the remedy for sin never fails.

God's silences may be long, but they are never the silences of forgetfulness.

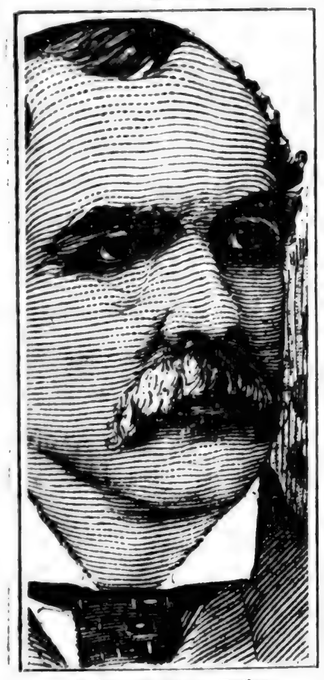
A little thorn may rend the finest fabric; so may a little sin mar the fairest soul.

There may be movement, but there can be no progress, in traveling without God.

Gratitude is the fairest blossom which springs from the soul, and the heart of man knoweth none more fragrant.

We sleep in peace in the arms of God when we yield ourselves up to His Providence, in a delightful consciousness of His mercies; no more restless uncertainties, no more impatience at the place we are in, for it is God who puts us there and who holds us in His arms. Can we be unsafe where He has placed us?

UNITED STATES SENATOR FROM SOUTH CAROLINA PRAISES PE-RU-NA.



Ex-Senator M. C. Butler.

Dyspepsia Is Often Caused By Catarrh of the Stomach—Peruna Relieves Catarrh of the Stomach and Is Therefore a Remedy For Dyspepsia.

Hon. M. C. Butler, Ex-U. S. Senator from South Carolina for two terms, in a letter from Washington, D. C., writes to the Peruna Medicine Co., as follows:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine, besides a good tonic."

CATARRH of the stomach is the correct name for most cases of dyspepsia. In order to cure catarrh of the stomach the catarrh must be eradicated.

Only an internal catarrh remedy, such as Peruna, is available.

Peruna exactly meets the indications.

Evolution.

The first time the business man was confronted with the alternative of doing wrong or losing money, he let the money go, and that was all there was to it. The second time, he snorted some, but still he let the money go. The third time he exclaimed, "Well, well!" held the matter open for a day or two, and let the money go once more. The fourth time he consulted the authorities and discovered that wrong is only a relative term, after all. The fifth time, and ever after, the alternative found him no longer a mere business man, but a financier. —Life.

More than 2,000 persons die of measles in London every year.

The money value of the Vatican is estimated at $150,000,000.

PETROLEUM IN TRINIDAD.

An Article Resembling the Well-Know Russian Product.

The island of Trinidad, off the northern coast of South America, has long been famous for its stores of pitch, or asphalt. This is found in a basin or lake, whose contents are replenished naturally when the material is removed. It has been inferred consequently that there must be a hidden reservoir in the rocks below, and that perhaps oil might also exist there in considerable quantities. An English geologist, E. H. Cunningham Craig, went to Trinidad three years ago to hunt for petroleum, and he has been fairly successful, though the investigation is not yet ended. He talked about his work the other day in London, before the Royal Colonial Institute. Trinidad is under English rule.

The actual evidence of the presence of petroleum is varied. Sticky asphalt—erroneously called pitch—may be seen oozing out from sandstone on the coast or inland, and oil is found slowly exuding from the banks of streams. Gas wells and mud volcanoes discharging gases (methane and others), are met with, indicating that the oil rocks there do not quite reach the surface; the larger mud volcanoes attain diameters of 100 yards. Deposits of asphalt formed from the gradual drying up of the oil by evaporation and oxidation are characteristic of the actual outcrops of the oil rocks. Thus the appearance of "oil shows" vary much. But they are frequent all over the southern half of the island and near the shores.

As regards the quality of the oil, Professor Carmody, the government analyst of Trinidad, has found many varieties, mostly with an asphaltic base, some rich in paraffine. In general the petroleum resembles the Russian petroleum closely, and the geology of Trinidad presents many striking resemblances to the Baku oil fields. A crude oil from the Galeota sand has a specific gravity of from 0.88 to 0.91, and contains from 12 to 20 percent of petroleum spirit, from 30 to 50 percent of illuminating oil and 30 to 45 percent of lubricating oil, and not more than 5 percent of bitumen; the proportion of sulphur is very small. Rio Blanco oil contains more lubricating oil and less illuminating oil. The La Brea oil sand has, so far, been recognized in the La Brea district and in the pitch lake only.

Many theories have been advanced to account for this pitch lake; the pitch itself was formed in the way above indicated, and represents an emulsion of about 45 percent of bitumen, 25 percent of fine clay and 30 percent of water. Its formation can be studied in the district. During the discussion which followed the reading of Mr. Craig's paper, Sir David Wilson remarked that up to 1887 the lake brought the government about $7,500 annually; afterwards, when an American company had satisfied itself that the asphalt made good road material, it yielded more than thirty times as much revenue.

G. H. Allen walked 1,000 miles in 17 days.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY REV. I. W. HENDERSON.

Subject: Christian Character.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Preaching at the Irving Square Presbyterian Church on the theme, "Christian Character," the Rev. I. W. Henderson, pastor, took as his text I. Peter 2:9: "That ye may show forth the excellencies of Him who hath called you out of darkness into His marvellous light." He said:

Character is determined in the terms of an exercised moral and spiritual consciousness. Character at its highest is conformity to the best moral and spiritual consciousness that is within us. It is both the consummation and the limitation of the will of man. It is not only a matter of the outward life but it is also the indication and the manifestation of an inward grace. Character is the sum of any man's characteristics of soul and social life.

Motive is, in the last analysis, more of account than the outward act. Feeling is a factor in the human life. Intentions must be counted. Desires may draw down or up. But with all these in the tally, you are what you will to be. More than your will desires you will not become.

Character is not only what you wish you were, nor what the world thinks you are, nor yet what you consider yourself to be; but what you are. It is neither your reputation nor your record, save as those two align to the measure of manhood according to the rule of God.

Character is the mark of inher worthiness as well as the emblem of a good life before the open eyes of men. Character is not merely honesty, it is more. It is not only outward purity but also inward cleanliness of heart. It means not only to walk just within the statutes of the penal code, and just beyond the clanging iron of a prison door, but rather to love righteousness and to practice uprightness because they are right. Character is virtue, honor, integrity, godliness. It is deserved reputation and the glory of a well-spent life. It is a mark and the victory of moral worth. More to be desired is it than great riches and its ripe, rich, satisfying fruitage is peace and quietude of heart.

Christian character is conformity to the character of Christ. It is to bear the express image of the saving Son of God in the inner man and through all the problems of the social life. As the Saviour bore the impress of the divine will of our common Father; as the faithful Friend of men showed forth the mind and the manner of our God, so must we as true men and women, disciples of our Lord, be sealed with the evidences of divine guidance.

The highest character of this life and for the world beyond is that which finds in Jesus Christ the ideal and harmonious working of the will of man with the divine. Character, as we Christians view it, is concerned not only with the Christian's conduct, not only with his doings in the field of human action; but also with his trueness to his personality and to his God. Christian character includes, for it can never exclude, a due and a willing regard for man's ooligations toward his Maker. It affirms the basic necessity for absolute and unswerving loyalty to self. It insists and asserts that motive is more than manner, while demanding that all social responsibilities be met squarely, honorably, manfully and in the fear of God.

The character of Christ is positive. Christ is remarkable not for the things that He refrained from doing but rather is He ideal in the acts of nobleness, virtue, good-heartedness which He did. His was no puny soul. Obeying the words that came out of Sinai's mighty glory, He went beyond them. Keeping well within the requirements of Pharisaic legalism, He pushed on and out and up, above and beyond and ahead of all the self-complacency and moral blindness of the ecclesiastics, and did things positive and powerful for men and for God. Feeling within His heart the call of immortal duty the Christ exemplified in His own life those qualities of character which have for all time secured Him in His proud place as the ideal man and proved to a multitude in this sad and sinning world His Godhood and His grace divine.

To you and to me the call comes down the centuries bidding us "to show forth the excellencies of Him who hath called us out of darkness into His marvellous light." Having accepted the Christ and been sealed with His love, we must bear in our lives the express image—that is to say the signet stamp, that is to say the character—of the Son of God.

The character of Christ presents to us a two-fold duty and example. Within the characteristic attributes of holiness and righteousness are comprised all the qualities that pertain to the Saviour in His social sphere. Holiness toward God, righteousness toward self and society, these two are the broad truths that come to us from the character of the Christ and which summon us to show forth His glory and His love. Spirituality and morality. A sanctified sense of oneness with the Father, a courageous determination to stand square before society and upright at the bar of his own conscience, these are the two great lessons for us from the character of Christ, and the mighty truths within which all else in the world of human conduct is embraced.

To be holy is to be sanctified—that is to say pure. Not merely purity before men but a radical purity that really goes back to the root of things and that enables the man to be fit, through the grace of God in Jesus Christ, to stand before His Father and His Maker and be glad. Purity is not merely a matter of soap and water but of inward wholesomeness. Christ cares not whether your hands are dirty with the molder's clay. He does weep over a soiled and sullied soul.

"What an antiseptic," says Lowell, "is a pure life." What possibilities indeed for good and for uplift and for God are ever within its power. But it must be healthfully, honorably pure, with the richness of holiness all about it ere it can count for most and reap a heavy harvest unto God.

Righteousness is rectitude. That is to say, erectness. Righteousness is uprightness. Uprightness is straightness, moral rectilinearness. Righteousness means not only to pay your debts promptly, to keep well within the limits of the law, not only to respect the rights of others and the mandates of society through fear of the consequences of sin, but rather to seek to do good because it ennobles, to think of the needs of others because they are our brothers in Christ. Righteousness is uprightness in the home, in the church, in business, in politics, secretly, socially, in sunshine and in shadows, everywhere and at all times.

Righteousness is virtue. To be virtuous is to be a full fledged man. Virtue is vigorous with virility. Etymologically it is sprung from the loins of Latin manhood. Virtue is goodness which has stood the strain, which has weathered the trials of temptation, which has fought a manly fight, and won out. It is the glory of a good man's life. Virtue has grit. It is no weakness to be pure. True men do honor to a blameness name and only a fool will laugh at nobleness of heart.

Righteousness is justice. Legality and justice are not co-terminous. Justice is the ideality of law. Justice co-ordinates the right. The law often hardly approximates it. Justice enquires not what are my rights but what are my duties. The just man sympathizes with the longings and the needs of men and sustains their aims. The "legal" man may oft forget that God exists and right should reign that law may be evaded.

In the apocryphal Wisdom of Solomon we find these words: "Honorable old age is not that which standeth in length of time, nor is its measure given by number of years, but understanding is gray hairs unto men and an unspotted life is ripe old age." Virtue, justice, uprightness, these are the things that count for righteousness and the man of years is the man who is godly.

Christian character is the need and it should be the hope of us all. To the men who are Christ's is given the leadership of the world. Let the salt retain its savor and all the leaven its uplifting power. If we are Christ's let us show forth His holiness and righteousness. If we are to lead, let us be fit. It has been well and truly said, that "immoral life in one leader of the people is more pernicious than a whole street full of impurities in the lower quarters of the community."

Character counts. Christian character is the consummation of human power and of human beauty. To bear the impress of the character of Christ is to be worth while to men and to God. Holiness brings happiness. Righteousness is more of account than riches. Purity is peace. Virtue is vigor and strength and the mark of moral decency. Justice is profitable and well-pleasing to God. Moral rectitude and a holy life are the riches of the soul laid up in the treasuries of heaven. Character is good. Christian character is glorious. To "show forth the excellencies" of Jesus is the business of His church.

The Soul's Growth.

Temptations do not decrease, but rather increase, with the growth of the soul. The little man fighting his little battles wishes that he were a great man so that the more easily he might overcome them; but when he becomes great himself he sees that storms circle the higher altitudes that make the petty battles of the lower level seem insignificant.

Many seem to think that temptation lays its hands only upon our weak spots. But think a minute. Here is a lawyer who has little ability, seldom wins a case, always gets on the off side of a jury, and is notoriously incompetent to plot a case or plead it. Does that man know what it means to have a confessed criminal offer him a hundred thousand dollars to get him clear? Does he know what it is to have a princely fortune dangled before his face if, in legislative halls, he will stand on the wrong side of the question for just one hour? He knows absolutely nothing about it.

So it is in the Christian life; the stronger we grow to be, the stronger will be our temptations. The nearer we grow into the likeness of Christ, the fiercer will be the onslaughts of the enemy. We cannot escape life's battles by moving into a different or higher sphere. Each stage or sphere has its own temptations. As Jesus was tempted, so will be His disciples. But, as He was made perfect through sufferings, so our trials, which are but for the moment, will work for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory.—Ram's Horn.

Winnowed Wheat.

A good man does good merely by living.

You are not very holy if you are not very kind.

God often comes to visit us, but generally we are not in.

What is each man but one little thread in the loom of God?

Bind together your spare hours by the cord of some definite purpose.

No grip is so hard to shake off as that of early religious convictions.

Our remedies frequently fail, but Christ as the remedy for sin never fails.

God's silences may be long, but they are never the silences of forgetfulness.

A little thorn may rend the finest fabric; so may a little sin mar the fairest soul.

There may be movement, but there can be no progress, in traveling without God.

Gratitude is the fairest blossom which springs from the soul, and the heart of man knoweth none more fragrant.

We sleep in peace in the arms of God when we yield ourselves up to His Providence, in a delightful consciousness of His mercies; no more restless uncertainties, no more impatience at the place we are in, for it is God who puts us there and who holds us in His arms. Can we be unsafe where He has placed us?

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION.

Mrs. Woolman on Trade Schools and Their Uplifting Influence.

The conference on home economics began at Lake Placid, N. Y., with a paper on trade schools and their relation to general education, by Mrs. Mary Schenck Woolman, director of the Manhattan Trade School for Girls. It was prefaced with an interesting account of the work and influence of European trade schools. She pointed out that in industrial education continental Europe is far ahead of English speaking nations, and as a result has many flourishing trades which can be conducted in this country only by the aid of foreign operatives, while many of our manufacturers have had to place their factories in foreign countries because only there is the requisite skilled labor procurable.

More important, however, than the better pay with which trade schools enable workers to begin their wage earning is the better living and the capacity for advancevent resulting from such training. French and Belgian school authorities testify strongly to the uplifting influence of trade education on homes and character, and the Manhattan and Boston trade schools for girls show the same results.

As children have now little or no training of hand or eye in their homes, she said, the time is not far distant when our public school system must take account of the great army of them that goes to wage earning and not in the higher schools, for the schools must teach what the people need to know and are not getting otherwise.

WISE WORDS.

"Never turn a blessing round to see whether it has a dark side to it."

To speak wisely may not always be easy, but not to speak ill requires only our silence.

Thee mustna undervally prayer. Prayer mayna bring money, but it brings us what no money can buy—a power to keep from sin, and be content with God's will, whatever He may be pleased to send.—George Eliot.

It is only a poor sort of happiness that could ever come by caring very much about our own pleasures. We can only have the highest happiness, such as goes along with being a great man, by having wide thoughts and much feeling for the rest of the world as well as ourselves.—George Eliot.

The stronger the child's will, the stronger his hold on good. Break the child's will ,and you break the barrier between him and evil. Hence are the vacillating, weak men, unstable in all their ways. Strong will is not to be mistaken for obstinacy, or fortitude for contrariness.—Elizabeth Grinnell.

We may lose the things we strive after to-day.... but if we bear patiently the burdens, taking the heartache if it comes, being faithful in the midst of the conditions where God has placed us, living nobly to ourselves and fellow-men, we shall have built up for ourselves characters of divine finish, divine beauty, and divine glory.—M. F. Savage.

Carry abnegation, self-sacrifice, altruism, living for the good of the race—which are the highest of the virtues and produce the heroes whom man most admires and longest remembers—carry these to their logical conclusion, and what matters it what becomes of man's particular, petty self, if by his life and influence he has helped humanity on to something fairer and better. He ought not to care; the world-patriot does not care.—William D. Little.

The young men always did the world's work, the old men have always helped to prevent too many mistakes, and so it will always be, and there isn't any difference between the conditions now, and when an era change was taking place before. Here and there the man of extreme age and the young mind stands out just the same as he always did and always will, because years don't hurt a man who lives clean or naturally and wants to keep going.—Joseph Cannon.

Deer a Pest in Massachusetts.

Damage done by deer in the vicinity of Northampton, says the Boston Transcript, has reached such dimensions that the Hampshire County Commissioners yesterday awarded damages for property destroyed amounting to $143. In practically all cases the money was awarded for injuries to small trees, garden crops and grass. There have been numerous complaints all through the season, and from all parts of the county there are reports that the deer are becoming so accustomed to the sight of human beings and habitations that they ravage the crops with impunity.

New Mountain in Alaska.

The Treasury Department at Washington has received a report from officers of the revenue cutter Perry, who visited the peak which recently sprang up on Fire Island, sixty miles west of the town of Unalaska, Alaska. The new volcanic peak rises abruptly from the water to a height of about 700 feet and in shape greatly resembles a monster beehive, with a base about 900 feet in diameter. From numerous crevices columns of steam and sulphurous gases continuously arise and form a cloud which is visible for more than thirty miles. The Peak has been named Mount Perry.

PRESIDENT WILL GO TO PA

He Will Start After Election and Return Before Congress Meets.

Washington, D. C. — Pres... Roosevelt has decided to carry... his original program for his trip... inspection to the Isthmus of Pa... He will leave this country s... after election day, November 6... will be away about three weeks... gress will meet on December... weeks lacking one day after... The President will probably be accompanied by any number of... Cabinet.

A WOMAN'S KIDNEYS.

Women have so much to... many pains to suffer, so many... periods to go through, that it... portant to keep... kidneys well... avoid the backa... bearing down... headaches; dizz... languor and... common signs... weak kidneys... Charles F. Sm... 22 Boyden St., ... socket, R... "My kidneys... weak from... hood, and for eight or ten years... my sufferings were terrible... back was very painful and... many annoying symptoms... When I began taking Doan's K... Pills I weighed only 120. To-d... weigh 165, and am in better h... than for years. Doan's Kidney... have been my only kidney me... during four years past. They... me out of every attack."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents... box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Brace Up!

Are we going to be a race of... shouldered men? One would... ly think so to look over almost... crowded street, or glance at the... age male human being he meets... man who walks with his head... his shoulders thrown back and... chest extended, just as nature... ed he should, is a rarity, and is... marked about wherever he goes. The average man, and, more's the pity... young man, walks as if he were... tired. His chest is flat, his... leans forward, his shoulders stoop... he has a decided tendency to "... How different it would be if... walked upright and more like the... tary looking men of Europe. How... much better the whole race of... would look if they carried themselves as nature built them to carry... selves. It is healthier, too, to... like a soldier, for there is ease in... rying the body, there is a free... lation of air in the lungs, and there... a general, all-around healthfulness... it that is lacking in the loafing car... of the average man, whether he be... farmer, business man, professional man or gentleman of leisure.—Marion (Ia.) Democrat.

Unique Lighthouse.

The most extraordinary of all Br... ish lighthouses is to be found on... ish Rock, Stornoway Bay, a r... which is separated from the Isle of Lewis by a channel over 500 ... wide. On this rock a conical ... is erected, and on its summit a ... tern is fixed, from which, night ... night, shines a light visible by ... fishermen far and wide. The way... which this lighthouse is illuminated this: On the Island of Lewis a lighthouse, and from a window in ... tower a stream of light is projected to a mirror in the lantern on the ... mit of Arnish Rock.—Tit-Bits.

Significant.

"You say their wedding will be very quiet and private?"

"Yes."

"What's the scandal?"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

A FOOD CONVERT

Good Food the True Road to Health.

The pernicious habit some people still have of relying on nauseous drugs to relieve dyspepsia, keeps the patent medicine business going, helps keep up the army of dyspeptics.

Indigestion—dyspepsia—is caused by what is put into the stomach in the way of improper food, the load that so taxes the strength of the digestive organs they are actually crippled.

When this state is reached, to resort to stimulants is like whipping a tired horse with a big load. For additional effort he makes under the lash increases his loss of power to move the load.

Try helping the stomach by leaving off heavy, greasy, indigestible food and take on Grape Nuts—light, crisp, digested, full of strength for the body and brain, in every grain of which... There's no waste of time nor energy when Grape-Nuts is the food.

"I am an enthusiastic user of Grape-Nuts and consider it an ideal food," writes a Maine man:

"I had nervous dyspepsia and was all run down and my food seemed to do me but little good. From reading an adv. I tried Grape-Nuts food and, after a few weeks' steady use of it, felt greatly improved.

"Am much stronger, not nervous now, and can do more work without feeling so tired, and am better in every way.

"I relish Grape-Nuts best with cream and use four heaping teaspoonfuls at a meal. I am sure there are thousands of persons with stomach trouble who would be benefited by using Grape-Nuts. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

A FUNNY BRIDGE.

...e Ohio City and It Has Three Ends Instead of Two.

...t is the middle of a city in ... river empties into another, ...o the city is divided into three ... It is really three towns sit... "cornered" to each other, with ...ers between them. One river, ...e murmuring Muskingum, hurry... ...g between its big echoing hills, ...the other is the lazy Licking, ...s quietly between green garden ...s and other fields and overhang... ...rees. Both of them have mills to ...

The blue Muskingum spreads ...n the sun and shines like a mir... ...bove its mill dam, and then it turns ...down with a roar as it turns the ...and hurries away over the rocks ...It were angry at being caught ...put at such a task. But the Lick... ...spills itself smoothly into the ...kingum and sings happily at its ...So you see even the lazy Lick... ...oes not get past here without do... ...some work, for the inhabitants ...very industrious. Then the riv... ...unite their waters and make a ...m deep enough to float barges full ...crockery, and steamboats laden ...all the things they make here, ...n to the Ohio and thence to the ...ississippi and away to the Gulf of ...exico.

...w when it came to building a ...ge to join that city together the ...men of the place saw that it ...ld have to be a bridge with three ...A queer bridge that would be ...ed, for who ever heard of a bridge ...more than two ends to it? There ...not such a thing in the United ...es. But they had to have it, and ...ey made it. And it was the only ...e of the kind in the world, except ...in Switzerland that is somewhat ...t. To look at it, one would think ...uch town had started to build ...idge out to the others and all ...e bridges had met in the middle of ...river. Each part of the bridge had ...hallways, two big ones for horses ...two little ones for people walk... ...It had a shingled roof over all ...length of it, and windows in the ...s, so that it was a sort of house ...ge. When it rained you could go ...on the river and be out of the ...Where the bridges came together ...e was a big room out in the mid... ...of the river, with the twelve hall... ...e opening into it. Can you imag... ...what a roomful of horses and ...ons and people that was, with the ...ple of three towns all crossing ...o hall to hall as they came and ...t in different directions? Every... ...y in the three parts of the city had ...come out here whenever they went ...ay of the others. And so they all ...in the room out in the middle of ...river no matter where they were ...ing from or where they were going. —From Charles D. Stewart's "The ...t 'Y' and the Crockery 'O'" in St. Nicholas.

The American Output.

...merican ingenuity, aided by Ger... ...detail, brought this country quick... ...to the front in pencil manufacture. ...enormous forests of cedar and the ...covery of graphite, with the intro... ...tion of marvelous machinery and ...kinds of labor-saving devices, have ...ught the daily output up to ...0,000 pencils a day. There ...salesmen whose annual book ...amount to half a million dol... ...each. They give away hundreds ...thousands of pencils to advertise ...ir business. Some use pencils as ...ional cards, and if met in a casual ...will surely have every pocket ...ged full. A man with a supply of ...ity pencils, worth perhaps half a ...t each, which he distributes with ...ad hand, can obtain more discounts ...n one armed to the teeth with ...as, testimonials, characters, etc.—New York Press.

Her Way.

"What's the reason you never put ...gs in their places?" asked the ...e and methodical husband.

"Why, because," replied his easy-...g wife, "I want them where I can ...them."—Detroit Free Press.

The Expert Economist.

...friend—You say they have thrown ...r at you for years?

...ecturer—Yes, but I don't mind. I've ...no I can catch them without breaking ...the shell and occasionally one of ...m is fresh.—Detroit Free Press.

...VED BABY LYON'S LIFE

...al Sight From That Dreadful Com... ...plaint, Infantile Eczema—Mother Praises Cuticura Remedies.

...Our baby had that dreadful complaint ...antile Eczema, which afflicted him for ...eral months, commencing at the top of ...head, and at last covering his whole ...y. His sufferings were untold and con... ...t misery, in fact, there was nothing ...ould not have done to have given him ...f. We finally procured a full set of ...Cuticura Remedies, and in about three ...eek days he began to show a brighter ...t and really laughed, for the first time ...year. In about ninety days he was ...recovered. Praise for the Cuticura ...edies has always been our greatest ...sure, and there is nothing too good ...we could say in their favor, for they ...ainly saved our baby's life, for he ...the most awful sight that I ever be... ...prior to the treatment of the Cuti... ...Remedies. Mrs. Maebelle Lyon, 182... ...ston Ave., Parsons, Kan., July 18, 1905."

Strickland Acquitted.

...ipley, Ga.—Harris superior court ...adjourned for the session. The ...of the state vs. John Strickland ...rged with the killing of Virgie Il... ...was concluded, the jury rendering ...dict of not guilty, being out only ...teen minutes. The other parties ...ected with the tragedy will not be ...d at this session of the court, and ...likely will not be prosecuted.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Two Grateful Letters from Women Who Avoided Serious Operations.—Many Women Suffering from Like Conditions Will Be Interested.

When a physician tells a woman, suffering from female trouble, that an operation is necessary it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart. As one woman expressed it, when told by her physician that she must undergo an operation, she felt that her death knell had sounded.

Our hospitals are full of women who are there for just such operations.

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but such cases are much rarer than is generally supposed, because a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after the doctors had said an operation must be performed. In fact, up to the point where the knife must be used to secure instant relief, this medicine is certain to help.

The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, have escaped serious operations.

Margrite Ryan, Treasurer of St. Andrew's Society, Indianapolis, Ind., writes of her cure as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I cannot find words to express my thanks for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me. The doctor said I could not get well unless I had an operation for the trouble from which I suffered. I knew I could not stand the strain of an operation and made up my mind I would be an invalid for life. Hearing how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had saved other women from serious operations I decided to try it, and in less than four months I was entirely cured; and words fail to express my thankfulness."

Miss Margret Merkley, of 275 3d Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps, bearing-down pains, and an irritable disposition compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said that I had a serious female trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation as my only hope. To this I strongly objected—and I decided as a last resort to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"To my surprise the ulceration healed, all the bad symptoms disappeared, and I am once more strong, vigorous and well; and I cannot express my thanks for what it has done for me."

Serious feminine troubles are steadily on the increase among women—and before submitting to an operation every woman should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. for advice.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been curing the worst forms of female complaints, all functional troubles, inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement, weakness, irregularities, indigestion and nervous prostration. Any woman who could read the many grateful letters on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office would be convinced of the efficiency of her advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice. A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

PRESIDENT WILL GO TO PA

He Will Start After Election and Return Before Congress Meets.

Washington, D. C. — Pres
Roosevelt has decided to carry is original program for his trip inspection to the Isthmus of Pan
He will leave this country so from election day, November 6, will be away about three weeks
ress will meet on December
eeks lacking one day after elect
The President will probably not ccompanied by any member of abinet.

A WOMAN'S KIDNEYS.

Women have so much to do,
many pains to suffer, so many crit periods to go through, that it is portant to keep kidneys well
avoid the backa bearing down headaches, dizzine
languor and common signs weak kidneys.
Charles F. Smith,
22 Boyden St., W
socket, R. I., s
"My kidneys weak from hood, and for eight or ten years
my sufferings were terrible.
back was very painful and I
many annoying symptoms be
When I began taking Doan's Kid Pills I weighed only 120. To-da weigh 165, and am in better he than for years. Doan's Kidney P have been my only kidney medic during four years past. They br me out of every attack."
Sold by all dealers. 50 cents
box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffa
N. Y.

Brace Up!

Are we going to be a race of sto houldered men? One would natur think so to look over almost rowded street, or glance at the av ge male human being he meets.
an who walks with his head er is shoulders thrown back and hest extended, just as nature inte d he should, is a rarity, and is narked about wherever he goes.
verage man, and, more's the aver oung man, walks as if he were red. His chest is flat, his h ans forward, his shoulders stoop, e has a decided tendency to "
low different it would be if alked upright and more like the ary looking men of Europe.
uch better the whole race of ma ould look if they carried themsel
s nature built them to carry th elves. It is healthier, too, to w ke a soldier, for there is ease in ing the body, there is a free cir tion of air in the lungs, and there general, all-around healthfulness that is lacking in the loafing carri the average man, whether he b rmer, business man, professio
an or gentleman of leisure.—Ma a.) Democrat.

Unique Lighthouse.

The most extraordinary of all h lighthouses is to be found on A h Rock, Stornoway Bay, a r hich is separated from the isl
Lewis by a channel over 500
ide. On this rock a conical bea erected, and on its summit a rn is fixed, from which, night a ight, shines a light visible by shermen far and wide. The way hich this lighthouse is illuminate ils: On the Island of Lewis is ghthouse, and from a window in wer a stream of light is projected a mirror in the lantern on the s it of Arnish Rock.—Tit-Bits.

Significant.

"You say their wedding will ry quiet and private?"
"Yes."
"What's the scandal?"—Milwau entinel.

A FOOD CONVERT

ood Food the True Road to Healt

The pernicious habit some perso ill have of relying on nause ngs to relieve dyspepsia, keeps e patent medicine business a lps keep up the army of dysp s.
Indigestion—dyspepsia—is cau
what is put into the stomach
e way of improper food, the k at so taxes the strength of the estive organs they are actua ipplied.
When this state is reached, to rt to stimulants is like whipping ed horse with a big load. Ev ditional effort he makes under sh increases his loss of power
ove the load.
Try helping the stomach by leavi heavy, greasy, indigestible f
d take on Grape Nuts—light, ea rested, full of strength for ne d brain, in every grain of ere's no waste of time nor ene hen Grape-Nuts is the food.
"I am an enthusiastic user rape-Nuts and consider it an id
od," writes a Maine man:
"I had nervous dyspepsia and run down and my food seemed me but little good. From g an adv. I tried Grape-Nuts fo d, after a few weeks' steady use felt greatly improved.
"Am much stronger, not nerv
w, and can do more work with eling so tired, and am better y.
"I relish Grape-Nuts best eam and use four heaping teas ls at a meal. I am sure there ousands of persons with stom ouble who would be benefited ing Grape-Nuts. Name given stum Co., Battle Creek. Re ad the little book, "The Road allville," in pkgs.
e."

A FUNNY BRIDGE.

In an Ohio City and It Has Three Ends Instead of Two.

In the middle of a city in e river empties into another, the city is divided into three
It is really three towns sit-ated "cornered" to each other, with vers between them. One river murmuring Muskingum, hurry-between its big echoing hills,
the other is the lazy Licking, quietly between green garden and other fields and overhanges. Both of them have mills to The blue Muskingum spreads in the sun and shines like a mir-above its mill dam and then it tum-down with a roar as it turns the and hurries away over the rocks it were angry at being caught put at such a task. But the Lickspills itself smoothly into the ingum and sings happily at its
So you see even the lazy Lick-does not get past here without do-some work for the inhabitants very industrious. Then the riv-make their waters and make a deep enough to float barges full crockery, and steamboats laden all the things they make here, to the Ohio and thence to the ssippi and away to the Gulf of
.
e when it came to building a to join that city together the men of the place saw that it have to be a bridge with three
A queer bridge that would be,
for who ever heard of a bridge more than two ends to it? There not such a thing in the United
But they had to have it, and made it. And it was the only of the kind in the world, except a Switzerland that is somewhat . To look at it, one would think much town had started to build bridge out to the others and all bridges had met in the middle of ver. Each part of the bridge had ailways, two big ones for horses two little ones for people walk-
It had a shingled roof over all length of it, and windows in the so that it was a sort of house
. When it rained you could go on the river and be out of the
Where the bridges came together was a big room out in the mid-of the river, with the twelve hall-opening into it. Can you imagwhat a roomful of horses and s and people that was, with the e of three towns all crossing hall to hall as they came and in different directions? Every-in the three parts of the city had some out here whenever they went of the others. And so they all t the room out in the middle of river no matter where they were from or where they were going —From Charles D. Stewart's "The T and the Crockery 'O'" in Nicholas.

The American Output.

American ingenuity, aided by Ger-
, has brought this country quick-the front in pencil manufacture.
enormous forests of cedar and the ds of graphite, with the intro-tion of marvelous machinery and kinds of labor-saving devices, have ught the daily output up to pencils a day. There salesmen whose annual book-amount to half a million dol-each. They give away hundreds thousands of pencils to advertise business. Some use pencils as cards, and if met in a casual will surely have every pocket filled. A man with a supply of pencils, worth perhaps half a each, which he distributes with hand, can obtain more discounts can be shown to the teeth with testimonials, characters, etc.—
York Press.

Her Way.

"What's the reason you never put things in their places?" asked the and methodical husband.
"Why, because," replied his easy-wife, "I want them where I can them."—Detroit Free Press.

The Expert Economist.

"Friend—You say they have thrown at you for years?
"Observer—Yes, but I don't mind. I've how I can catch them without break-the shell and occasionally one of is fresh."—Detroit Free Press.

SAVED BABY LYON'S LIFE.

Sight From That Dreadful Complaint, Infantile Eczema—Mother Praises Cuticura Remedies.

"Our baby had that dreadful complaint,
Infantile Eczema, which afflicted him for seven months, commencing at the top of his head, and at last covering his whole body. His sufferings were untold and constant misery, in fact, there was nothing we could not have done to have given him relief. We finally procured a full set of Cuticura Remedies, and in about three short days he began to show a brighter mood and really laughed, for the first time in four months, in about ninety days he was entirely restored. Praise for the Cuticura Remedies has always been our greatest pleasure, and there is nothing too good we could say in their favor, for they truly saved our baby's life, for he was the most awful sight that I ever beheld prior to the treatment of the Cuticura Remedies." Mrs. Maebelle Lyon, 1828
Indiana Ave., Parsons, Kan., July 18, 1905."

Strickland Acquitted.

Quitman, Ga.—Harris superior court adjourned for the session. The case of the state vs. John Strickland, charged with the killing of Virgie Irvin, was concluded, the jury rendering a verdict of not guilty, being out only fifteen minutes. The other parties involved with the tragedy will not be tried at this session of the court, and probably will not be prosecuted.

ALMOST.

"There stands the parson's house," he said.
The maiden hung her modest head,
Lest he who thus was moved to speak
Should note the blush that dyed her cheek.
The moonlit fields, the sky above,
Were mutely eloquent of love;
And love surcharged the ambient air
Breathed in by this young rustic pair.
With beating hearts, across the road
They saw the minister's abode.
The sturdy lamp a welcome gleamed.
And, through the summer twilight, seemed Inviting them to near the door.
"There stands the parson's house!" once more
His fervid thoughts broke forth in speech.
Then silence, thrilling each to each,
Surrounded them and held them mute.
Far off they heard an owlet hoot.
"To whit! to woo!" The maiden's heart
Was warm for him, but hers the part
To modestly await his word
That she in fancy oft had heard
And which instinctively she knew
Was trembling on his tongue. He, too,
Was conscious of his own love's strength
And meant to speak. He said, at length:
"There stands the parson's house, and there—"
His hand a-tremble cleft the air—
"Is where it used to stand!" And then He led her down the road again.
—T. A. Daly, in Catholic Standard and Times.

RIPPLES OF MIRTH

Many of us build automobiles in the air.—Life.

It would be easier to be content with little if nobody had any more.—Life.

"Eat, drink and be merry to-day," said the fool. "Why so?" asked the sage. "For to-morrow the price may go up."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

To kiss a lady's hand is chiv-Alrous and full of grace;
Yet such a kiss, I'm positive,
Is rather out of place.
—Judge.

"Women don't have pockets in their skirts, do they?" "No; they spend their money so fast nowadays they don't have any use for pockets."—Detroit Free Press.

Jinks—"I wonder if the report is true that old Doughbags bought his daughter a husband?" Winks—"I don't know, but the poor fellow looks as if he had been sold."—Pueblo Chieftain.

Engagements never should be long;
Ye swains who go to court
Take heed! the long engagement's wrong—
It keeps a fellow short.
—Philadelphia Index.

Muggins—"She seems quite a paradox. Her manner is cold and yet effervescent." Buggins—"That is probably due to her inordinate appetite for ice cream soda."—Philadelphia Record.

"He is having trouble with a railroad." "How?" "The railroad wants to go through his farm," "Well?" "And he is trying to go through the railroad company."—Houston Post.

Scott—"He is almost entirely a self-made man." Mott—"What do you mean by almost entirely?" Scott—"Well, you see that bare spot on his head? That, they say, is the work of his wife."—Boston Transcript.

"Dere ain't nobody dat can't brag a little bit about something," said Meandering Mike. "Dat's right," answered Plodding Pete. "Take you an' me, fur instance. We never get mixed up in no labor riots, do we?"—Washington Star.

Hicks—"'Twas a most striking scene. Rising to his feet, the eloquent young lawyer fixed the jury with his magnetic eye—" Wicks—(interrupting)—"Yes, I see, and the judge sent him to jail." Hicks—"To jail, nonsense! What for?" Wicks—"Why, for fixing the jury."—Boston Transcript.

"When in doubt," said the weather expert, "always prophesy bad weather." "What for?" asked the young man who is learning the business. "Because, if it turns out to be correct people commend your accuracy, and if it's wrong their minds are so relieved that they don't find any fault."—Washington Star.

Dog That Brought Luck.

One rarely hears of a stray dog found practically starving in the streets of a city rising to fame and bringing fortune to its benefactor. Such, however, is the history of the celebrated dog Brigadier, which forty years ago, after being hustled about the streets of Manchester, found a sympathtic friend in the late Mr. Foulkes, of that city.

Finding the dog in the street homeless, Mr. Foulkes took it home, and with it, after careful training, succeeded in winning the Waterloo Cup. With the money thus won Mr. Foulkes purchased a hotel at Withington, a suburb of Manchester, which he renamed the Waterloo Hotel.

In a quiet spot in the hotel grounds stands a tombstone erected to the dog's memory.—London Daily Graphic.

Boring the Abyss.

Traveler's tales, which often add charm to the conversation of an agreeable person, frequently render a bore more tiresome than ever, a fact that was amusingly illustrated by an occurrence in a Baltimore club house not long ago.

"There I stood, gentlemen," the long-winded narrator was saying, after droning on for an hour with reference to his trip to Switzerland—"there I stood, with the abyss yawning in front of me."

"Pardon me," hastily interjected one of the unfortunate men who had been obliged to listen to the story, "but was that abyss yawning before you got there?"—Harper's Weekly.

The Logger's Vocabulary.

The language of these woodsmen, often more forcible than elegant, is as picturesque as are their surroundings. Most of us know what a "sapling" is, but what is a "road monkey," or a "bull donkey?" A "road monkey" keeps a logging road in condition, a "bull donkey" is simply a big donkey engine. Yet these are some of this woodsman's common terms. For instance, a "briar" is a crosscut saw, a "bully" is a foreman of a logging camp, a "choker" is a noose of wire rope. "Of course," you say. But what is a "goose pen?" Why, a big hole burned in the standing tree. Easy? Well, then, here's another. What is a "widow-maker?" Answer, a loose, hanging, broken limb, which is supposed always to mean danger to the man who gets under it.

And so it goes. A "dead man," for instance, is a fallen tree, but a "dead head" is a sunken log. A "dozy" log is one that is decayed. A single sled is a "dray," but it likewise may also be a "bob," a "crotch," a "go-devil," a "lizard," a "scoot," or a "sloop," but never a "sled." With fine insight into human nature the woodsman knows the sub-foreman as the "head push." Mr. Pinchot's forest service has compiled a "logger's dictionary," which contains all these and many more words just as picturesque.—Reader.

On the Safe Side.

There was a struggling writer in the front studio, and a struggling artist in the back. The struggling artist was very nice to the struggling writer for a time. He even helped her wash her windows once. Then it came about that one Friday he saw that she had a well filled envelope which contained some fives.

"I wish," said he, "that you would lend me one of those fives. I'm hard up this week. I will pay you back next."

The struggling writer knew all about those "next weeks" of struggling artists.

"I would," said she, "but I am afraid I will lose your friendship if I do. Things like that have happened to me."

He looked at her sternly.

"You'll lose it if you don't," said he, and set his teeth hard.

"Well, anyway," returned she, with a sigh, "I'll save my five."—The Wisp.

New South Wales had 40,000,000 sheep in 1905.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, ofttimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

A medical journal declares that people who drink cows' milk are more and more inclined to consumption than those who use the milk of the reindeer, the buffalo, the ass or the goat.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The cities of Glasgow and Nottingham supply gas to the consumers, and it is sold at fifty cents a thousand cubic feet — about one-half what it costs in American cities. Last year Nottingham made a profit of $120,000 on its gas plant.

THE LAXATIVE OF KNOWN QUALITY

There are two classes of remedies: those of known quality and which are permanently beneficial in effect, acting gently, in harmony with nature, when nature needs assistance; and another class, composed of preparations of unknown, uncertain and inferior character, acting temporarily, but injuriously, as a result of forcing the natural functions unnecessarily. One of the most exceptional of the remedies of known quality and excellence is the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., which represents the active principles of plants, known to act most beneficially, in a pleasant syrup, in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to contribute their rich, yet delicate, fruity flavor. It is the remedy of all remedies to sweeten and refresh and cleanse the system gently and naturally, and to assist one in overcoming constipation and the many ills resulting therefrom. Its active principles and quality are known to physicians generally, and the remedy has therefore met with their approval, as well as with the favor of many millions of well informed persons who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual experience that it is a most excellent laxative remedy. We do not claim that it will cure all manner of ills, but recommend it for what it really represents, a laxative remedy of known quality and excellence, containing nothing of an objectionable or injurious character.

There are two classes of purchasers; those who are informed as to the quality of what they buy and the reasons for the excellence of articles of exceptional merit, and who do not lack courage to go elsewhere when a dealer offers an imitation of any well known article; but, unfortunately, there are some people who do not know, and who allow themselves to be imposed upon. They cannot expect its beneficial effects if they do not get the genuine remedy.

To the credit of the druggists of the United States be it said that nearly all of them value their reputation for professional integrity and the good will of their customers too highly to offer imitations of the manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., and in order to buy the genuine article and to get its beneficial effects, one has only to note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package. Price, 50c. per bottle. One size only.

Genuine—Syrup of Figs

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c. package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Unionville, Missouri

EUREKA Harness Oil Keeps the Harness Soft and Strong

For preserving the strength and increasing the life of harness Eureka Harness Oil has no equal. Superior to other brands because free from acid and will not become rancid. Penetrates the leather and makes it weather-proof, sweat-proof, soft, strong and durable. Makes old harness look like new. Prevents rot. Gives a glossy black finish.

Boston Coach Axle Oil makes easy running wheels. Reduces friction to an absolute minimum. Better and more economical than castor oil. Will not gum or corrode. For use on carriages, cabs, buggies.

Sold everywhere.
STANDARD OIL CO.,
Incorporated.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 & $3.00 Shoes

BEST IN THE WORLD

W.L.Douglas $4 Gilt Edge line cannot be equalled at any price

To Shoe Dealers: W. L. Douglas' Jobbing House is the most complete in this country. Send for Catalog

SHOES FOR EVERYBODY AT ALL PRICES.
Men's Shoes, $3 to $1.50. Boys' Shoes, $3 to $1.25. Women's Shoes, $4.00 to $1.50. Misses' & Children's Shoes, $2.25 to $1.00.
Try W. L. Douglas Women's, Misses and Children's shoes; for style, fit and wear they excel other makes.

If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W.L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than any other make.

Wherever you live, you can obtain W. L. Douglas shoes. His name and price is stamped on the bottom, which protects you against high prices and inferior shoes. Take no substitute. Ask your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes and insist upon having them.

Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.

Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Dept. 15, Brockton, Mass.

London cab drivers earn an aggregate of over $40,000 a day.

TYNER'S DYSPEPSIA REMEDY.

A Guaranteed Cure — Many Have Dyspepsia and Don't Know It.

If you suffer from Dyspepsia or Indigestion in any form, such as gas, belching, bitter taste, offensive bad breath, dizzy spells, sour stomach, heart flutter, nausea, gastritis, loathing of food, pains or swellings in the stomach, back or side, deep-seated kidney or liver trouble, then they will disappear in a short time after taking Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy, made especially to cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion and all Stomach Troubles, even of the worst cases. Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy expels the gases and sweetens the breath. It cures Sick Headache, Colic and Constipation at once. Druggists or by express 50 cents a bottle. Money refunded if it fails to cure. Medical advice and circular free by writing to Tyner Remedy Co., Augusta, Ga.

The first meerschaum pipe was made by Karol Howater in 1723.

$6,085 was paid for an orchid.

The Income of the Beef Trust.

The earnings of the big packers are as closely veiled as the revenue of the Standard Oil company.

They have publicly asserted for years that their earnings are only equal to about 2 1-2 percent on their gross business. The gross business of Swift & Co. last year was $250,000,000; of Armour, $225,000,000; of Morris, about $90,000,000.

Within the last ten years Swift has increased capital stock from $1,000,000 to $60,000,000. Of this stock 7 percent is paid and it is quoted now on the Chicago Stock Exchange at 104. It sold at 110 before the president's message and inside support is now given it. There is also $5,000,000 in the bonds, and the refrigerator company with a capitalization of $2,000,000 and $900,000 in bonds.

Armour has but $20,000.00 capital in the packing business, $20,000,000 in the elevator and grain business and about $2,500,000 in the car-line monopoly. Both firms have millions in cold storage plants all over the country, through which they control the fish, egg and fruit trade.—New York World.

Italian railroads are the worst managed in all Europe.

The smallest thing with a backbone is the sinarapan.

Importation of birds is the sultan's new fad.

An Englishman sold his brain for $10,000.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle

London Punch refers to the Valasquez "Venus," recently acquired by the British National Gallery, as "that famous undraped suffragette."

Berlin now has over 6,000 cabs.

HICKS' CAPUDINE
IMMEDIATELY CURES
HEADACHES
Breaks up COLDS
IN 6 TO 12 HOURS
Trial Bottle 10c. At Druggists

Dropsy CURED
Gives Quick Relief.
Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

WANTED Address of (1) persons of part Indian blood who are not living with any tribe, (2) of men who served in the Federal army, or (3) the nearest kin of such soldiers or sailors, now deceased. NATHAN MILFORD, Washington, D. C.

Am. 43, 1906.

Plantation Chill Cure is Guaranteed

To Cure, or Money Refunded by Your Merchant. Do Why Not Try It? Price, 50c. Retail.

Closing Out Sale!

We will close out the entire stocks of SHOES and CLOTHING that we bought of J. W. Smith and J. E. Littlejohn, AT COST AND BELOW—FOR CASH ONLY.

Ladies' course Shoes	$ .75 for $ .50.
Ladies' course Shoes	$1.15 for $ .90
Ladies' course Shoes	$1.35 for $1.00
Ladies' course Shoes	$1.50 for $1.20
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$1.50 for $1.35
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$1.75 for $1.50.
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$2.75 for $1.88
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$3.00 for $2.75
Men's Fine Hats	$1.00 for $ .90
Men's Fine Hats	$1.50 for $1.15
Men's Fine Hats	$1.15 for $1.40
Men's Fine Hats	$3.00 for $2.50
Men's Coats	$1.00
Men's Underwear, heavy	$ .50 for $ .40
Men's Underwear heavy	$ .75 for $ .50
Ladies' Underwear, heavy	$ .40 for $ .25
Ladies' Underwear, heavy	$ .60 for $ .40
Men's Fine Shirts	$1.00 for $ .75
Men's Fine Shirts	$1.25 for $ .98
40 pounds Good Coffee for	$1.00

Many other SPECIAL BARGAINS too numerous to mention. We handle all kinds of Grain and Feed Stuff See us, we can SAVE you MONEY. We WANT all kinds of COUNTRY PRODUCE.

COOPER BROS.

Clanton, Alabama.

Statement of the condition of the THORSBY SAVINGS BANK, located at Thorsby, Ala., at the Close of Business October 10, 1906.

RESOURCES		LIABILITIES.
Loans and discounts	$11,780.10	Capital stock paid in	$10,000.00
Overdrafts	17.71	Surplus fund	57.94
Furniture and Fixtures	668.50	Undivided profits, less current expenses and taxes paid	644.35
Other real estate	3,303.10	Due from banks and bankers
Due from banks and bankers in this State	1,537.97	Individual deposits subject to check	6,476.42
Due from banks and bankers in other States	2,036.03	Demand certificates	362.50
Currency (about)	923.00	Time certificates	3,150.31
Gold	117.50	Cashier's checks	153.33
Silver, nickels and pennies (about)	308.80
Checks and cash items	141.85
Total	$20,844.88	Total	$20,844.88

STATE OF ALABAMA Chilton County.

Before me came I. S. Gerald, President of Thorsby Savings Bank, who being duly sworn, says that the above and foregoing statement is a true condition of said bank as shown by the books on file in said bank.

I. S. GERALD.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 18th day of October, 1906.

E. F. MEAD,
N. P. and Ex. Off. J. P.

SALE OF LANDS.

State of Alabama, Chilton County
Probate Court.

In the matter of the petition of Jas. E. Cook et al., to sell lands for division and partition among joint owners or tenants in common thereof.

Under and by virtue of a decree rendered by the Honorable Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, on the 29th day of September, 1906, in said cause, ordering a sale of the hereinafter described lands for division and partition among the joint owners or tenants thereof, to-wit: Jas. R. Cook, Carrie W. Martin, John C. Dugan, William R. Dugan, David T. Dugan, Joseph A. Dugan, Lillie B. Williams, John A. McLeod, Carl McLeod, Clara Sales, Bessie McLeod, William McLeod, William Martin, Edward Martin, Annie Bell O'Neal, Millie A. Grady and Jacob C. Vaughan, I will sell O. Perry, as the commissioner appointed by said decree, will proceed to sell, in front of the postoffice in Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, on

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1906,

the following described lands, to-wit: Northwest quarter of section sixteen (16), in township twenty (20), range eleven (11), containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres; also forty (40) acres of the southeast end of the west half of northeast quarter of section sixteen (16), in township twenty (20), range eleven (11), and situated, lying and being in Chilton county Alabama, and known as "The Ford Estate Lands."

This the 16th day of October, 1906

WILLIAM O. PERRY,
Commissioner.

NOTICE.

The Chilton County Singing Convention, No. 1, will meet with Liberty church (3 miles west of Clanton) the third Sunday in November in a called session. All singers are invited to attend. We request that the members of this body be present if possible.

J. L. GORE, President
JAMES FRANKLIN, Secretary.

NOTICE.

Jemison, Ala., August 7th, 1906.

Strayed—One light clay bank mare, branded on the left shoulder with a letter the last time heard from she was at Ashby; she weighs about 700 pounds. I will reware any one liberally for information as to where she is, or if returned to me, I will pay well for the trouble.

T. S. DAVENPORT,
Jemison, Ala.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Chancery Court. Seventh District, Northeastern Division. In Vacation. 1906.

Rosa Lee Holloman, Complainant, vs. Ocie Holloman, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by affidavit on file of J. Osmond Middleton, counsel for complainant, that the defendant, Ocie Holloman, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and that his residence is unknown to affiant; and further, that in the belief of said affiant, the defendant, Ocie Holloman, is over the age of 21 years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Union, a newspaper published in Clanton, Ala., once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Ocie Holloman, to answer, plead or demur to the bill of complaint in the above cause on or before the 2d day of November, 1906, and failing so to do within thirty days after the service of this summons, a decree pro confesso may be taken against him in said cause.

Witness my hand, this 2d day of October, 1906.

S. A. STEWART,
10-4-06 tf Register in Chancery.

TO FARMERS.

As county business manager for the F. E. and C. U. of A., I have been to the two banks in Clanton to ascertain on what terms they will loan money on cotton to those who wish to hold their cotton in the warehouse. The Clanton Bank will loan 75 per cent and the People's Savings Bank 65 per cent, of the value of the cotton on the date of the loan this loan to bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent.

J. W. SORRELS,
Bus. Manager Chilton Co. F. E. and C. U. of A. tf

FOR SALE

At all times, high grade hogs and pigs, Berkshire and Poland China, crossed.

M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, Ala.

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

The best whiskey in the country is here. If you don't believe it, try me.

J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera, Ala.
tf.

JURY ACQUITS BROUWER AND SPECTATORS CHEER

Demonstrations of Joy in Court--- One Girl Kisses Him.

HOME AGAIN WITH HIS BOYS

They Thought He Had Been Away on a Trip—The Jury Out an Hour and a Quarter — Two Jurors Wept—History of Case.

Toms River, N. J.—The trial of Dr. Frank L. Brouwer on the charge of murdering his wife, Carrie Brouwer, ended with his acquittal.

When the foreman of the jury announced the verdict the crowd of people which packed the court room broke into a wild demonstration of delight. The jury had been out an hour and a quarter, just long enough to sharpen the anxiety of prisoner, counsel on both sides and the village folk who had been following the case with keenest interest from the start of the trial, nearly two weeks ago.

Judge Hendrickson's charge to the jury lasted an hour. It was considered fair and strictly impartial by the defense. He sent the jury to its rooms to deliberate on a verdict and held court in session, awaiting a word from its foreman.

After a short recess the court convened and announced the verdict. The court was in an uproar as Judge Hendrickson declared the prisoner discharged. The men cheered and the women applauded. Dr. Brouwer was so overcome that he seemed to have difficulty in speaking as he turned to the court. When order was restored the discharged man asked the court's permission to address the jury. He first thanked the Judge for the impartiality he had shown, and then, turning to the jury, he said:

"I am thankful, very thankful for the way you have treated me, and I hope that none of you will ever be placed in a position such as I have been in."

He then shook hands with each juror and started to leave the court room. The crowd was so anxious to congratulate him on his acquittal, however, that he was compelled to stand and shake hand with the men and women as they filed by. A fourteen-year-old girl wanted to kiss him, and he leaned over and received the kiss.

The last day of Dr. Brouwer's trial consisted entirely of argument. Frank McDermott, for the State, reviewed the evidence presented by the prosecution, and declared that it established a circumstantial case which proved the prisoner guilty of poisoning his wife.

Mr. Wilson, for the defense, pointed out that had Dr. Brouwer intended to divorce his wife he would not have transferred property to her or made out insurance for her. In reply to the charge that the accused man loved another woman Mr. Wilson asked why this woman had not been produced.

During the plea for acquittal two of the jurors were so affected that they had to wipe the tears from their eyes. Dr. Brouwer, at the mention of his dead wife and of his mother and children, also wept.

Dr. and Mrs. Brouwer had been married nine years when Mrs. Brouwer died. Before her marriage she was a school teacher. Before going to Toms River they lived at Lakehurst. The doctor established a good practice and became one of the best known physicians in Ocean County.

When Mrs. Brouwer was taken ill her husband employed two nurses, both of whom appeared as witnesses against him in the trial. They left the Brouwer house, as they declared, because they became suspicious of the treatment the patient was receiving from her husband. Another nurse was engaged. After seven days of illness Mrs. Brouwer died, and rumors were started that there was something mysterious in her death. Trevonia Hyer, brother of the dead woman, began an investigation, as did the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which had issued a $1000 policy on her life. The body was exhumed and an autopsy was held. An unweighable quantity of arsenic was found in the organs of the body, and a very small quantity of glass.

BOYS SAVE FAST TRAIN.

Find Broken Rail and Flag Engineer With a Necktie.

Franklin, Pa.—Edward Thompson and Clinton Coefield, two fourteen-year-old boys, discovered a broken rail on the Franklin branch of the Erie road near here. As the passenger train from Oil City, which connects with the New York and Chicago trains at Meadville, approached, Thompson threw off his red necktie and waved it frantically. The engineer saw the signal and stopped his train. He said his train would doubtless have been wrecked had it struck the curve at full speed.

Religious Promoter Arrested.

Alleged victims of the Rev. A. M. Kelley, promoter of the Beulah Religious Land Settlement in Dickson County, Tenn., have had him arrested for illegal use of the mails.

Secretary Taft Home.

Secretary Taft's party returned to Washington from Havana.

GUILTY OF SUGAR REBATING

New York Central and Manager May Be Fined $240,000.

Counsel For Defendants Ascribes Verdict to Public Hostility to Corporations.

New York City.—The New York Central Railroad Company and its general traffic manager, Frederick L. Pomeroy, were each found guilty on six counts of giving unlawful rebates in 1904 to the American Sugar Refining Company, by a jury in the United States Circuit Court, Criminal Branch.

The conviction makes each of the defendants liable to a fine of $20,000 for each separate offense, or a fine of $120,000 for the railroad and the same amount for its employe, or a total of $240,000. The indictment, while indicating that about $26,000 was secured by the Sugar Trust in unlawful drawbacks on the transactions set up, specifically alleges the payment of not more than $10,000 in the offenses for which the fines can be imposed.

Judge Holt did not fix the penalty at once. Immediately after the jury brought in its verdict Austen G. Fox on behalf of the defendants asked the Court to fix a date on which he could hear argument on a motion for arrest of judgment. After it is disposed of Judge Holt will fix the penalties, which, it is expected by United States District Attorney Henry L. Stimson and his assistants, will be near the maximum. These operate only as civil judgments, and the defendants if they refuse to pay them cannot be imprisoned for their action.

The conviction, which came after a trial lasting only three days, but two of which were consumed in putting the evidence before the jury, marks the successful completion of the first prosecution of either a corporation or an individual for infraction of the Elkins law ever initiated in the Federal courts of this district.

The indictments on which the railroad company and its servant were convicted charged the giving of rebates to the wholesale sugar jobbing firm of Edgar & Earle, of Detroit, on demand of the Sugar Trust. The rebates were five cents off the tariff rate of twenty-three cents a hundred pounds paid by the railroad company by voucher.

United States District Attorney Stimson summed up for the Government. No member of the jury could fail to see, he said, that the system of giving the rebates must have been known to the president of the road, and the Elkins law plainly made the illegal act of an agent of the corporation the act of the corporation itself.

"It is no excuse at all for the railroad to say that it had to give secret rebates to the American Sugar Refining Company, although not to Arbuckle Bros., on the plea that otherwise the freight would go by water," said Mr. Stimson. "The real reason why the railroad has not put in a defense is that it has none. Its clerk who paid the rebates did not send them in the form of checks, but bought drafts. When the railroad's audit accounts were destroyed every three months no trace of the transactions was left. They forgot, however, that we could subpoena the banks to produce the telltale drafts."

The jury was out about three-quarters of an hour, coming back once for supplementary instructions taken from a list handed up by Mr. Fox, and a copy of the Elkins law.

At the conclusion of the trial Austen G. Fox, who appeared on behalf of the railroad, made the following remark:

"It is impossible to successfully defend rebate cases in the present state of public opinion."

NO HOPE FOR THE LUTIN.

Efforts to Rescue Men in Sunken Submarine Fruitless.

Biserta, Tunis.—The French submarine Lutin still lies at the bottom of the sea three miles from this port, and the officers engaged in the salvage work express the certainty that all the fourteen members of the crew have perished. Men on board the tug Ishkul, which convoyed the Lutin on her last voyage, say that the submarine plunged twice successfully, and that after she had gone down for the third time her bow showed twice above the surface of the water before she finally disappeared. This leads to the belief that the catastrophe resulted from a sudden leak at the stern. The water probably rushed in and overturned the accumulators. This would have caused deadly fumes from the acids.

Admiral Bellue is uncertain whether the salvagers have really located the Lutin or not. Divers have reached the bottom, but owing to the roughness of the sea they were unable to remain below long enough to make a thorough investigation. Fourteen salvage vessels now form a cordon around the spot where the Lutin went down. The divers descend in relays, and are displaying untiring energy. All their endeavors, however, to locate the Lutin, so as to permit the use of the powerful lifting apparatus, have been in vain.

Militia at Hanging.

Governor Heyward, of South Carolina, sent militia to Conway to see that the execution of Commander Johnson, a white man, proceeded as ordered.

Dogs as Friends and Food.

The Germans love their dog. They look after his health; they provide him bathing establishments furnished with every modern comfort—hot and cold water, vapor, douches, friction. They apreciate his character, his fidelity, his frankness, and they regard him as food; they like him as a friend and as victuals. In Prussia alone in one quarter 526 dogs were recently killed for food.—From Le Journal des Debats of Paris.

No Luck at All.

"Took out another accident policy, did he?"

"Yes; but he ain't had a leg cut off yet, nor even a arm broke."—Atlanta Constitution.

Natural Relation.

"You're a great big calf!" exclaimed the huffy girl.

"Suppose I am," replied the good-natured youth, "my father was a cowboy."

STOPS FIGHT FOR MILLIONS

Mrs. Wister Quails Before Bit of Paper Weightman Left.

Sheet, on Which Wealthy Chemist Wrote Opinion of Daughter-in-Law, Brought From Hiding.

Philadelphia.—Confronted with a scrap of yellow paper, upon which her father-in-law, the late William Weightman, had written his last wishes and thoughts concerning her, Mrs. Jones Wister abandoned her suit against Mrs. Anne M. Weightman Walker, her sister-in-law, to whom Weightman left all of his $50,000,000.

Rather than have the contents of the memoradum read in court Mrs. Wister acknowledged defeat and gave up her fight, permitting her attorneys to beg Mrs. Walker to make no opposition to an indefinite continuance of the case, so that the best possible face would be put upon Mrs. Wister's backdown.

The admission of defeat came at a moment when interest in the testimony was at its height and when it seemed that Mrs. Wister's remarkable charges about the conduct and intellectual capacity of the aged chemist were about to be substantiated.

In holding back until the very last moment the weapon in her possession, and choosing the most potent time and place, Mrs. Walker takes full revenge for the social slights put upon her by Mrs. Wister when the richest woman in America was trying to enter the exclusive circle of Philadelphia society, in which Mrs. Wister has been a power.

Upon the paper there appeared, according to the belief of Mrs. Wister's attorneys, the codicil in which Weightman might have made provision for his granddaughters (Mrs. Wister's children), on behalf of whom Mrs. Wister contested the will.

Neither codicil nor will did the paper prove to be. With the keenness of a man who has made his $50,000,000 and is determined to protect what he had garnered and devise it as he saw fit, Weightman had carefully transcribed upon this bit of paper what purported to be his precise relations with Mrs. Wister, with whom he is said to have been in love.

Moreover, he had declared conclusively in that document that he had no intention of having Mrs. Wister or his grandchildren share his wealth. He completely washed his hands of the Jones Wisters and jotted down some statement concerning which Richard Waln Meirs, a son-in-law of Mrs. Wister and nephew of Mrs. Walker, made this statement:

"For the sake of Mrs. Wister, I would rather cut out my tongue than divulge the contents of it. Until the paper was produced at to-day's hearing only four persons in the world had seen it. I hope with all the earnestness of which I am capable that no one else will ever see it.

"Unless the other side should permit it to escape them, I feel sure that the scrap of paper which turned the current of to-day's events will never be made public. It is buried deeper than the foundations of my office building. It is neither a will nor a codicil, but what it contains caused the abrupt ending of the case."

Mrs. Wister said her father-in-law wished her so well that when her first husband, his son, died he was eager to marry her. Weightman's mental state was questioned by medical men who were friends of the contestant. Among the peculiarities for which he was known were refusals ever to give a cent in charity and hatred of music and children.

MANY KILLED IN MINE.

Terrible Result of Firedamp Explosion in English Colliery.

Durham, England.—As a result of an explosion in the Wingate colliery, near here, thirty-five miners have been killed and 200 were temporarily entombed. It was fortunate that few of the 1000 men employed were in the mine when the explosion took place. The cause is supposed to have been firedamp. The explosion was heavy, and in Wingate town many windows were broken.

Soon after the news of the accident became known crowds of half clad people were rushing toward the mine, and there were heartrending scenes at the mouth of the pit.

Family Ate Toadstools; Three Dead.

At Anderson, Ind., Mrs. Robert Arrol is dead, making the third death in one family from eating toadstools by mistake for mushrooms.

SAM JONES, REVIVALIST, DEAD.

Famous Fighting Preacher Who Was Feared by Liquor Rings.

Little Rock, Ark.—When a porter went to a berth occupied by the Rev. Sam Jones, the revivalist, in the sleeper of a train running to Memphis on the Oklahoma, Choctaw and Gulf Line, to awaken him, he found the famous preacher dead. A physician said the revivalist probably died about 4 o'clock in the morning. If so, the first day of Jones' sixtieth year was his last. He was fifty-nine years old. The evangelist's health long had been so poor that almost any severe attack of heart or stomach trouble would be likely to carry him off suddenly. Friends in this city took charge of the body temporarily, pending instructions from the preacher's home in Cartersville, Ga.

New Equestrian Statue in St. Louis.

As a part of the general holiday in St. Louis, an equestrian statue in bronze of St. Louis was unveiled in Forest Park, St. Louis.

Queen a Crack Shot.

The Queen of Italy is a dead shot and practices with both gun and revolver on the Island of Monte Cristo.

Cuba Must Pay Costs.

Cuba will have to pay the United States at least a million dollars, it is estimated, for pacification.

TAX NOTIC

Assessor's and Collector's Round.

We will attend at the [illegible] times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Chilton County for the year and assessing the taxes for the year 1907:

Kinchcon, Beat 6, November [illegible]
Enterprise, Beat 6, November [illegible] 1906.
Pletcher, Beat 8, November [illegible]
Clanton Ford, until 12 m. November 10, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November [illegible] 1906.
Valley Creek, Beat 8, November [illegible] 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November [illegible]
Shoults, Beat 7, November [illegible]
Maplesville, Beat 7, November [illegible] 1906.
Benson, Beat 3, November [illegible]
Macedonia, Beat 3, November [illegible] 1906.
Gentry & Cofer's Mill, Beat [illegible] vember 20, 1906.
Hayes' Mill, Beat 2, November [illegible] 1906.
Providence, Beat 2, November [illegible] 1906.
John Killingworth's mill, Beat [illegible] 2, November 23, 1906.
Jemison, Beat 2, November [illegible]
Smith's School House, Beat [illegible] vember 26, 1906.
Mineral Springs, Beat 1, November 27, 1906.
Flint Hill, Beat 11, November [illegible] 1906.
Providence, Beat 10, November [illegible] 1906.
Corinth Church, Beat 10, November 30, 1906.
Thorsby, Beat 9, December [illegible]
Clanton, Beat 4, December 4, 1906.
Cooper, Beat 10, December 5, 1906.
Verbena, Beat 5, December 6, 1906.
Mountain Creek, Beat 5, December 7, 1906.
James Maddox's Mill, Beat [illegible] cember 8, 1906.

When you come to assess your property, bring your deeds, as the grand jury suggested.

L. B. POUNDS
Tax Assessor.
T. J. HUBBARD
Tax Collector.

I will be at Clanton the last [illegible] in the year, commencing December 20th, 1906. All taxes not paid by January 1st, 1907, will become delinquent. Take notice of above and save expense.

T. J. HUBBARD
Tax Collector.

Notice.

I will not attend to assessment of Tax on last 10 days of year, as my practice has become a nuisance and the tax payers must meet me at regular times and places, or be delinquent.

L. B. POUNDS
Tax Assessor.

JOHN W. HARRELL

Jemison, Ala.

Photographer, Dealer in all grades of enlargings. Frames made to order. Work done at your own home by appointment

Thorsby Institute

—Opens—

SEPTEMBER 17th, 1906

A Strong Corps of Teachers.

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Classics, Modern Languages, Histories, Economics, Music, Elocution, etc.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those who care to go no higher. Broad enough for all. Allows for specialization.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped, modern, up to date in every particular.

EXPENSES:
Tuition low enough to suit the needs of every boy and girl in Alabama.

Particulars Address:

W. J. Lamkie, Ph. B., Principal
Thorsby, Ala.

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 acres in cultivation. All in Sec. T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles S. W. of Clanton. Good dwelling house and out buildings and 3 good tenant houses. Good and lasting well of water. This good farming land will be sold at a bargain. Call and see,

J. H. CARTER,
tf Clanton, R. F. D. No.

TAX NOTICE

Assessor's and Collector's Round.

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes of Chilton County for the year 1906 and assessing the taxes for the year 1907:

Kinchcoe, Beat 6, November 5, 1906.
Enterprise, Beat 6, November 6, 1906.
Fletcher, Beat 8, November 9, 1906.
Clanton Ford, until 12 m., Beat 1, November 10, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 12, 1906.
Valley Creek, Beat 8, November 13, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 14, 1906.
Shoults, Beat 7, November 16, 1906.
Maplesville, Beat 7, November 17, 1906.
Benson, Beat 3, November 17, 1906.
Macedonia, Beat 3, November 19, 1906.
Gentry & Cofer's Mill, Beat 1, November 20, 1906.
Hayes' Mill, Beat 2, November 21, 1906.
Providence, Beat 2, November 22, 1906.
John Killingworth's (Hill 12 m., Beat 2, November 23, 1906.
Jemison, Beat 2, November 24, 1906.
Smith's School House, Beat 1, November 26, 1906.
Mineral Springs, Beat 1, November 27, 1906.
Flint Hill, Beat 11, November 1906.
Providence, Beat 10, November 1906.
Corinth Church, Beat 10, November 30, 1906.
Thorsby, Beat 9, December 3, 1906.
Clanton, Beat 4, December 4, 1906.
Cooper, Beat 10, December 5, 1906.
Verbena, Beat 5, December 6, 1906.
Mountain Creek, Beat 5, December 7, 1906.
James Maddox's Mill, Beat 4, December 8, 1906.

When you come to assess your property, bring your deeds, as the Grand Jury suggested.

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.
T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

I will be at Clanton the last 10 days in the year, commencing December 20th, 1906. All taxes not paid by January 1st, 1907, will become delinquent. Take notice of above and save extra expense.

T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

Notice.

I will not attend to assessment of Tax on last 10 days of year, as our practice has become a nuisance, and the tax payers must meet me at the regular times and places, or become delinquent.

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.

JOHN W. HARRELL
Jemison, Ala.

Photographer. Dealer in all grades of enlarging. Frames made to order. Work done at your own home by appointment.

Thorsby Institute
—Opens—
SEPTEMBER 17th, 1906
A Strong Corps of Teachers.

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Classics, Modern Languages, Histories, Economics, Music, Elocution etc.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those who care to go no higher. Broad enough for all. Allows for specialization.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped, modern, up to date in every particular.

EXPENSES:
Tuition low enough to meet the needs of every boy and girl in Alabama.

Particulars Address:
W. J. Lamkie, Ph. B., Principal
Thorsby, Ala.

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 acres in cultivation. All in Sec. T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles S. W. of Clanton. Good dwelling house and out buildings and 3 good tenant houses. Good and lasting well of water. This good farming land will be sold at a bargain. Call and see,

J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. No.

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., NOVEMBER 1 1906 NO. 32

ELECTION DAY IS TUESDAY, NOV. 6th.

This is the Way the Ballot Will Read for Chilton County. The First Column is Republican, the Fourth Column is Populist. These are the Two Tickets That Self-Respecting Men in This County Will Vote.

Make an X in the O at the Top of the First Column, or at the Top of the Fourth Column, But Only IN ONE of the Columns.

REPUBLICAN O	DEMOCRATIC. O	SOCIALIST. O	POPULIST O	INDEPENDENT O
( ) ASA E. STRATTON	( ) B. B. COMER	( ) J. N. ABBOTT	( )	( ) .....
( ) DANIEL N. COOPER	( ) HENRY B. GRAY	( ) W. F. McGOWAN	( )	( ) .....
( ) J. B. SLOAN	( ) ALEXANDER M. GARBER	( ) JAMES BEESON	( )	( ) .....
( ) J. CLYDE MILLAR	( ) WM. W. BRANDON	( )	( )	( ) .....
( ) GEORGE B. RANDOLH	( ) FRANK N. JULIAN	( )	( )	( ) .....
( ) GEORGE BEYER	( ) WALTER D. SEED	( )	( )	( ) .....
( ) GEORGE L. MALONE	( ) HARRY C. GUNNELS	( ) G. H. BEAN	( )	( ) .....
( ) WILLIAM COOK	( ) J. A. WILKINSON	( ) W. S. BALDWIN.	( )	( ) .....
( ) SHELBY S. PLEASANTS	( ) JOHN R. TYSON	( )	( )	( ) .....
( ) WARREN S. REESE ( ) ARTHUR S. STYLES	( ) JAMES R. DOWDELL ( ) THOS. C. McCLELLAN	( ) ..... ( )	( ) ..... ( )	( ) ..... ( ) .....
( ) CHARLES P. LANE ( ) S. A. LEONARD	( ) JOHN G. HARRIS ( ) CHAS. HENDERSON	( ) F. X. WALDHORST	( )	( ) ..... ( ) .....
( )	( ) WM. B. CRAIG	( )	( )	( ) .....
( ) W. W. WADSWORTH	( ) H. S. DOSTER.	( )	( ) W. W. WADSWORTH	( ) .....
( ) J. OSMOND MIDDLETON	( ) F. A. GULLEDGE	( )	( ) J. OSMOND MIDDLETON	( ) .....
( ) FELIX J. FITTS	( ) T. J. TRAYWICK	( )	( ) FELIX J. FITTS	( ) ROLIFEE F. BATES
( ) W. H. CONWAY	( ) THOMAS HARRISON	( )	( ) W. H. CONWAY	( ) .....
( ) S. E. WALDRUP	( ) W. Y. ATCHISON	( )	( ) S. E. WALDRUP	( ) .....

JEMISON.

... in this week's ... systems" I've ... ely. I went to ... Clanton to or- ... E. & C. U. of ... n a small vil- ... of the people ... w merchants. ... that went into ... with a capital ... wife; today he ... That is a gain of ... same village I ... men that were ... ars ago, and they ... and wife and ... ps years and to- ... that merchant ... here is the sys- ... are organizing ... will allow one ... country round ... and see how ... made per day; it ... Now, we want ... that we are organized to ... such low-down dirty work ... on the 6th day of No- ... especially want to remem- ... this and vote for a man that ... ever nor never will rob and ... laboring people. If we put such a man in office as will oppress the working class, then what will we do with our farmers' organization—try to defeat that man after we have elected him? I say watch how you vote a State ticket that promises liberty to the working class; vote under the hands clasped across the world, and for county, Representative Middleton and his ticket. Then subscribe for The Union and get all the news, and not only that, but get the big map and see where Gulledge went. Success to The Union. Watch for the union label. J. W. HARRELL.

MARS HILL.

Editor Union:

Farmers in this section are getting behind with their work. Cotton picking is all the go now. J. N. Scott is giving 75 cents a hundred for picking. We are sorry to say that we have men in this community that will get up on some other fellow's load of corn and throw it off and drive the mules and wagon outside and leave it; that is about as bad as whipping his children for asking to go to Sunday school. Rose Forster is very sick. She has lost two boys inside of three months. We all hope for her speedy recovery. Success to The Union.

PAP'S PLOWBOY.

CENTER HILL.

Editor Union:

Everything is moving along nicely in this neck of the woods. So I thought I'd ask for a small space in our good old Union. Cotton picking is moving well at present. Thomas Smith and family have moved back in our community after being gone ten years, and we gladly welcome them back. Sorry to say J. W. Wells is selling out and going to the railroad. Say, didn't Lee Vickers rip that fellow up the back last week? Hurrah for Lee. L. A. McGraw has bought a $100 buggy. J. H. Martin found a watermelon vine in his cotton field. It had seven melons on it, the largest weighing forty-five pounds, the next largest forty pounds and the balance averaged thirty pounds apiece. Say, boys, who can beat that for one vine? A lot of our good people took a flying trip to Montgomery last Wednesday to see the fair, and report a good time. J. E. Cobb and wife spent Sunday at Albert Sammons'. Wel, as my oxen are rested, I'll have to go to work. Hurrah for Fitts and Middleton and the good old Union. SAME OLD SUBSCRIBER.

BEAT THREE.

Editor Union:

As the election draws near I see the demmies get more vicious. My opponent says that it is with the voters to give the offices to good men or sorry ones, intimating that if he gets it that he is the good one. Now, I have not said a word against my opponent nor tried to down him, but if such is their game, why two can play at it. Farmers of Chilton county, remember that the People's party is the farmers' party and we are working with the Republicans to get legislation that we need. Now, it is with you farmers to vote for your own interest. You all see that the opposition will not meet us and discuss the issues of the day, but are slipping through the country telling the people anything that they think is calculated to down the union of the Populists and Republicans. Now, brethren, has not Chilton county been in the hands of this same combined party for years? Is not this the banner county of the State? Do you want to give our county over into the hands of the same men that we took it from years ago in self-defense for the right and well being of our county? It is with you all. Do as you think best. Yours for the right. S. E. WALDROP.

OBITUARY.

It is with deep regret we chronicle the death of our beloved aunt, Mrs. Charlotte Buford, which occurred Friday, October 19, 1906, at the home of her nephew, Mr. W. E. Fike. She was born and raised in Autauga county, Alabama. She joined the Mt. Hebron Baptist Church at the age of 15 and has since lived a model Christian life. Aunt Lottie had been in ill health for several years, but was the same in sickness as in health. She bore her burdens with fortitude. She has gone where there are no tears or sorrow, but joy forever. She said she was ready to go if it was her Saviour's will. We mourn her loss as the beloved departed in the Lord. For a time her body sleeps in Jesus, but in the sweet bye and bye we will meet her in that beautiful home above, to part no more. She leaves three sisters, one son, one granddaughter and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her departure. Her remains were interred in Bozeman Cemetery, Bro. Smith, our pastor, conducting the funeral services. The Lord gave, the Lord hath taken away. Blessed be the name of the Lord.

E. L. F.

THE REV. IRL R. HICKS 1907 ALMANAC.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks has been compelled by the popular demand to resume the publication of his well-known and popular Almanac for 1907. This splendid Almanac is now ready. For sale by news dealers, or sent postpaid for 25 cents, by Word and Works Publishing Company, 2201 Locust street, St. Louis, Mo., publishers of Word and Works, one of the best dollar monthly magazines in America. One Almanac goes with every subscription.

We will send The Union for one year and the Almanac for $1.00, strictly in advance. THE UNION.

tf

ANNUAL REVIVAL.

The annual revival meeting at Rocky Mount Church will begin Friday night before the second Sunday in November, and will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. T. Vandiver, assisted by Rev. Sam Jones and others of the Alabama Conference. J. B. N.

tf

NOTICE.

There will be a union meeting at Providence (Beat 2) on Saturday before second Sunday in November at 2 p. m. All the members are requested to be present as there is some important busines to attend to.

tf J. E. COBB.

Professional Cards.

William M. Adams,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
OFFICE; Room 1, Court House.
"Practices in all Courts
Long time loans negotiated on Improved Farm Lands.
CLANTON, - - - ALA.

J. EARLE GOWAN,
DENTIST.
Office in Kicker Building
CLANTON. ALABAMA.

A. C. Smith,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in All Courts
Office 6th St. opp. Court House
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON
Office at Residence
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

J. Osmond Middleton,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St. Court House
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullen' Building
CLANTON

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
To
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. U.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

LAND FOR SALE.
Eighty acres land in Beat 10, close to Cooper's. For sale cheap. Call on or address L. H. GENTRY,
Mt. Creek, Ala.
R. F. D. No. 1

JOHN W. HARRELL,
Jemison, Ala.
Photographer. Dealer in all grades of enlarging. Frames made to order. Work done at your own home by appointment.

THE PULPIT.

A SCHOLARLY SUNDAY SERMON BY REV. I. W. HENDERSON.

Subject: The Eighth Commandment.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Preaching at the Irving Square Presbyterian Church on the theme, "The Eighth Commandment," the Rev. I. W. Henderson, pastor, took as his text Ex. 20: 15: "Thou shalt not steal." He said in the course of his sermon:

This is a call for simple honesty, and the need for clear and fearless thought and utterance is both imperative and apparent as we apply this eighth commandment to the social life and communal conditions of to-day.

The common interpretation of what it means to steal is quite elementary. In the public estimation, stealing, very largely, is a form of open and specific disobedience to law which will likely land the evil doer in behind the bars. It is not my purpose to say or to imply that the average individual conscience does not recognize the obligations and the validity of that moral law which overlaps our penal code. But to a large extent the robber, in the public mind, is the man who forces locks; who spends his evenings at his neighbor's safes with dynamite and jimmy; who misapplies to his own uses our silver, our clothes, or our money. Ask a man, Who is a thief? and the likelihood is that often, though not always, he will run the list of those who bear the insignia and the dishonor of that self-seeking fraternity whose members live by their wits. But are the men and women who declare open war upon society and who adhere to the principle that the world owes them a living the only ones who steal? Is it the man who picks your pocket or the man who steals your savings, by heedless mismanagement of that fortune you gave into his trust, who robs you of most? Who is the most dangerous criminal, the second story burglar or the man who, under the guise of a conservative financier, wrecks your home and takes your all? Who best merits prison clothes, the man who steals to save his family from starvation's grimmest death, or the millionaire of Wall street who inflates values that he knows can never last? Who most deserves the scorn of honest men, the man who cracks a safe or the philanthropic plutocrat who made his wealth at the price of human blood?

The consensus among those whom the lesson hardest hits is that robbery is all right so long as you steal enough. Only the small burglar is to wear stripes. The sin of stealing is in being caught, and its worst disgrace is not to be deft enough to bag everything in sight.

Stealing is wrong and it should be punished no matter by whom or how it may be committed. The Member of Congress who violates the law and robs his country for his private gain deserves the limit of the penalty. The moneyed man who wrecks a corporation to satisfy personal spite or secret grudge, should wear the irons together with that other of his company who represents as a real investment proposition a property that is chiefly air, paper and water. The business man who underpays his labor and hugs the lion's share of the profits to himself, with no concern or care for the toilers who made possible his material success, is a thief. The rich man who raises prices and lowers wages, without right or need, to such an extent that poor men have no decent chance to live, steals more than money.

"Thou shalt not steal," says the commandment, and to my mind's eye there comes the vision of that cotton mill in the sunny southland. I hear the whirr of wheels, the rattle of the loom, the roar of leather belts, the shouting of the mill boss; and there, in among that bustle and clatter and ceaseless racket, I see mere children watching wheels, instead of birds; tending cotton when they should be at their books; growing old and blunted in body, mind and spirit, when they should be learning lessons in God's wonderful out-of-doors. Mere children driven into slavery by the laziness of lying parents or the greed of northern capital. And what you may see in the cotton mills of Dixie, you may see in the glass works of New Jersey, the mines of Pennsylvania, or in the sweat shops of New York. Is such stealing wise?

The amount of wholesale and unrestrained robbery that takes place in our public life is enormous. It would seem that the sense of honesty is on the decline did we not know better. The caliber of the consciences of a host of men who administer the affairs of the plain people is not very large. Dishonesty is, strangely, even yet, with many leaders in our political life, a synonym for assured success. "Thou shalt not steal" is left out of their moral code. To be honest, to be square, is, with them, to be marked for defeat. When we read in our daily papers of the shameless frauds perpetrated upon the Government by corporations, by and with the consent of those who make and those who administer our laws; when we learn from time to time that hosts of men and women are ruined by get-rich-quick syndicates; when we find daily instances of wholesale defalcations by men of trust and repute and former seeming probity; when we see the expressed will of the sovereign citizenship of self-governing communities made the football of political brigands, and whole States beneath the power of political buccaneers; is it any wonder that we feel at times that the sense of the unrighteousness of stealing has been abandoned by many in control of affairs in public life?

We need an enlightened public conscience. Men must be made to feel and to know that corporate and public thievery, as private, are contrary to the law of God. Statesmen who wink at and foster robbery of the treasuries ought to be returned to private life, if nothing more. Politicians who are out for graft must be relegated to the rear. Clean men must cut the way to the regeneration of our social life. The crowd of unwholesome and immoral civic parasites who despoil and besmirch communal life should be removed from power and influence.

"Thou shalt not steal" said Moses. So says Christ to us. All that Moses asked of Israel, Christ demands of America. No man can steal and be plumb to the law of love. With the entrance of Jesus the heart will seek to give rather than to get; and with the soul that walks with Moses' God, the right will ever reign supreme.

But despite all the unwholesomeness around us, the signs of the times presage a glorious transformation that is near at hand. Whatever may have been the evil sowing of yesterday, and whatever may be the alarming harvest of to-day, we need not fear for the harvest of to-morrow. The Lord is coming into His own; Society is coming to its senses and better men are moving to the front. The dormant will of a mighty people is awaking and woe betide the wicked charlatan who fails to see the writing on the wall, or seeing, fails to heed it. And the awakening will come most largely, as in the nature of the case it ought, among the common people of the land; those at whom the unphilosophical slander is so often hurled that they are not worthy to be trusted because they are so fickle, so foolish and so weak.

That a social regeneration and moral revival is taking place in society no man may, with reason, doubt. It is in the air. Men are applying moral standards that for years we have never, or seldom, heard employed in the judging of individual and public actions. The newspaper to-day blazes the trail ahead of the pulpit, and many an editorial handles the ethical cudgel more forcefully and effectively than many a sermon. Men, within and without the church, are asking for more decisive, concrete, fearless ethical preaching from the pulpits of our land. Ecclesiastical authorities are hesitant about receiving the money of our tainted millionaires, not because they are convinced that money itself can partake of the moral qualities of the individual who possesses it, no matter how bad a man he may be or however flagitiously his money may have been acquired; but because they do not want to become suspected of being receivers of stolen goods or lay themselves open to the charge, just or unjust, of compounding wickedness. Reform movements are rife, and the bottom plank of the reformation platform is, almost without exception, in substance, the Eighth Word of the Mosaic law.

Now and again we hear it said that those who promise us reform will, in their turn, when they shall have entered into power, exploit the people for their own advantage, as has been done of yore. I do not believe that this is so, as I read and interpret to-day's events; but of this I am sure, that they who betray the confidence of the people under the promise of a clean reform, will go down, at a later day, to a political disaster beside which the downfall of an Arnold will be counted tame.

Hand in hand with the moral reformation, a religious revival which shall purify men's souls will sweep the land. Spiritual blessedness and "joy and peace in a holy spirit" will become the chief desire of men's hearts. Having tried the comfort that the world gives and found it faulty, men will seek the peace of God which passeth all human comprehension, which the world cannot give and which the world cannot take away. Let us place our trust in the God of Israel and of America. Let us face the future with a cheer.

Plowing Around a Rock.

"I had plowed around a rock in one of my fields for about five years," said a farmer, "and I had broken a mowing-machine knife against it, besides losing the use of the ground in which it lay, because I supposed that it was such a large rock that it would take too much time and labor to remove it. But, to-day, when I began to plow for corn, I thought that by and by I might break my cultivator against that rock; so I took a crowbar, intending to poke around it, and find out the size once for all. And it was one of the surprises of my life to find that it was little more than two feet long. It was standing on its edge, and was so light that I could lift it into the wagon without help."

"The first time you really faced your trouble you conquered it." I replied aloud, but continued to enlarge upon the subject all to myself, for I do believe that before we pray, or better, while we pray, we should look our troubles squarely in the face.

We shiver and shake and shrink, and sometimes we do not dare to pray about a trouble because it makes it seem so real, not even knowing what we wish the Lord to do about it, when if we would face the trouble and call it by its name one-half of its terror would be gone.

The trouble that lies down with us at night, and confronts us on first waking in the morning, is not the trouble that we have faced, but the trouble whose proportions we do not know.

Let us not allow our unmapped trouble to make barren the years of our lives, but face it, and with God's help work out our salvation through it!—Advocate.

War is "the feast of vultures and the waste of life," Byron says, and anything which can mitigate its horrors must be welcomed. It has always been the rule of the "vendetta" of the Italians and the "badia" of the Afghans to give the opponent full notice of the intention to slay him. And now we have a dispatch from Ghent which says that the Institution of International Law has adopted a series of resolutions regard declarations of war which prescribe that hostilities shall not begin without a previous-unequivocal notice. It would be exceedingly inconvenient to find at the rush hours in the morning that the whole of the municipal fleet between Staten Island and New York City had been blown to smithereens by Japanese torpedoes during the night without "unequivocal notice."

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR NOVEMBER 11.

Subject: Jesus in Gethsemane, Matt. xxvi., 36-50—Golden Text: Luke xxii., 42—Memory Verses, 38, 39—Topic: The Agony of Jesus.

I. Jesus enters the garden (vs. 36, 37). 36. "Then. This was about midnight. "Cometh." After they had left the upper room where they had eaten the paschal supper. "With them." There were only eleven now; Judas was absent making arrangements for the betrayal. "Unto a place." Jesus oftentimes resorted to this quiet retreat with His disciples (John 18:2) for refreshment, retirement, quiet instruction and perhaps prayer. "Gethsemane." The name means oil press, an emblem of trial, distress, agony. "Sit ye here." He left eight of the disciples at the entrance of the garden. "Pray." Christ frequently went alone to pray.

37. "Took with Him." Farther into the garden, to a spot more retired. In this hour Jesus needed human sympathy, even while He must "tread the wine press alone." "Two sons of Zebedee." James and John. The three disciples Jesus took with Him had been witnesses of His transfiguration and glory, and were now to behold His humiliation and agony. "Began to be sorrowful." To be penetrated with the most exquisite sorrow, and overwhelmed with deep anguish. "Very heavy." Sore troubled; a stronger word than the other.

II. The bitter cup of sorrow (vs. 38, 39). 38. "Even unto death." It was agony that would destroy His life if it continued. The agony became so great that His sweat was great drops of blood falling down to the ground. "Tarry ye here." Spoken to the three disciples.

39. "A little farther." About a stone's cast (Luke); 150 to 200 feet. There were now three divisions of the little company—the eight, the three, and Jesus alone. "On His face." This was the ordinary posture of the supplicant when the favor asked was great, and deep humiliation required. The head was put between the knees and the forehead brought to touch the earth. "My Father." In all our addresses to God we should eye Him as a father—as our Father, and it is in a special manner helpful to do so when we are in an agony. "If it be possible." The great horror of Jesus in the garden arose, not from fear of Calvary, but from fear of failure, through physical suffering to reach Calvary, and so lose all for which He left heaven. "Not as I will." If it is Thy will that I should die here in the garden instead of dying on the cross, as foretold, I submit. He was entirely resigned to His Father's will.

III. The disciples asleep (vs. 40, 41). 40. "Cometh unto the disciples." He did this three times during this awful hour. He apparently desired communion with them and the sympathy and comfort which they could give. "Asleep." Luke says they were sleeping for sorrow. "Unto Peter." Peter had just made loud professions. "With Me." He was suffering for them, but only expected that they would watch with Him. "One hour." Sometimes Christ continued in prayer all night, but He only asked them to watch with Him one hour.

41. "Watch and pray." A testing time is coming and you will need to watch carefully and pray earnestly. The Christian is in danger of falling a prey to the world, the flesh and the devil. "The spirit—willing," etc. They desired to watch with Him and thus show their sympathy and love for Him, but their bodies and minds were weak.

IV. Jesus prevails in prayer (vs. 42-44). 42. "The second time." His going the second and third times shows how great was the burden and His intense eagerness and perseverance. 43. "Their eyes were heavy." It is a sad thing for the church to be sleeping while Christ is suffering and praying.

44. "The same words." Not that Jesus merely repeated the same words each time, but these words were the substance of His prayer. This prayer is "a model (1) of earnestness, (2) directness, (3) perseverance, (4) faith, (5) submission.

V. Jesus betrayed (vs. 45-50). 45. "Sleep on now." Jesus had gained the victory. But Jesus was on the alert and when He heard the approaching multitude and saw the lanterns and torches He aroused the sleepers. 46. "Let us be going." To meet Judas and the soldiers. Jesus is ready; without hesitancy He turns His face toward the terrible sufferings of the cross. 47. "Great multitude." Composed of a detachment of the Roman cohort stationed in the Castle Antonia (John 18:3, 12, "the band"), of the Jewish temple watch (Luke 22: 52, "the captains of the temple"); of others, including servants and dependents of the high priest (v. 51), and, in all probability, some fanatical chief priests and elders. "Swords." Carried by the Roman soldiers. "Staves." Or clubs, the arms of the temple watch and the crowd. John adds also, what lay in the nature of the case, that they were provided with "lanterns and torches" as well as weapons. 48. "Kiss." Probably the usual salutation of the disciples to their Master.

49. "Kissed Him." A stronger word than that used in the last verse. The sign was a kiss, but the performance a caressing. 50. "Friend." A term of civility though not necessarily of friendship. Christ's meekness and gentleness surpass even the standard which He holds up for His disciples in Matt. 5: 39.

Strickland Acquitted.

Chipley, Ga.—Harris superior court has adjourned for the session. The case of the state vs. John Strickland, charged with the killing of Virgie Irvin, was concluded, the jury rendering a verdict of not guilty, being out only eighteen minutes. The other parties connected with the tragedy will not be tried at this session of the court, and most likely will not be prosecuted.

Fall and Winter Hardwa

Heating Stoves, Coal Hods, Tongs, Poker, Coal Vases, Fire Guards, Window Panes and Putty,

PIPE AND FITTING.
Can secure repairs for machinery from us much cheaper and in time than from Birmingham or Montgomery. We carry Inspirators, Lubricators, Glass Oil Cups, Check and Globe Valves, Jets, Packing, Belting and Gandy Stitched Belt, Engine and Cylinder Oil, Axle Grease.

ROOFING.
We have in stock Galvanized and Iron Roofing and our prices make this roofing cheaper for you than shingles, and is much easier put in use.

PAINTS.
The Hammar Paint and Sun Proof Paint are as good as any on market. We have pure Linseed Oil and Lead, and if you prefer your own mixing, we are prepared to furnish you the necessary outfit.

BUILDERS' HARDWARE.
We can save you money on this line. Have a full stock of Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Sash Cord. Call on us for prices before placing your order.

SPIGENER & JONES
HARDWARE STORE
Clanton, Alabama

"BING CLOTHES

Are the Clothes for Men and Boys

Do you know that you can buy high grade Ready-to-Wear Clothes that no tailor can make for less than nearly double the price we ask?

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for fall is now complete; the styles are decidedly new, we are showing absolutely correct styles. New Jackets, new Skirts, new Dress Goods, new Waist Goods, new Hats, new Shoes, new Neckwear. A complete line of Star Brand Shoes.

"Star Brand Shoes are Better"

Also a complete line of hardware, cooking stoves, harness, saddlery and Florence wagons. Come to see us before you buy elsewhere.

J. C. JONES,
Clanton, :-: :-: Alabama

E. G. Rollins & Co.

—DEALERS IN—
General Merchandise, Clothing, Shoes and Fancy Groceries.
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA

WOODLAWN FARM
Barred Plymouth Rocks
PURE BRED
Setting of 15 fresh eggs 50c. Packing for mailing 10c extra.

PURE BRED
Duroc Jersey Hogs.
Write us for prices before you buy. Address,
W. Y. NIX,
Maplesville, Ala.

Bank Saloon

CALERA, ALA.
Fine Wines, Whiskies, Brandies, Beer, Cigars and Tobacco

inter Hardwa

oal Hods, Tongs, Pokers, ire Guards, Window
s and Putty,

AND FITTING.
ionery from us much cheaper and b
Montgomery. We carry Inspirators and Globe Valves, Jets, Packing, B
, Engine and Cylinder Oil, Axle G

OOFING.
d and Iron Roofing, and our price ou than shingles, and is much easi

PAINTS.
Proof Paint are as good as any on Oil and Lead, and if you prefer t ed to furnish you the necessary colo

RS' HARDWARE.
...line. Have a full stock of s and Sash Cord. Call on us for y

R & JONES
ARE STORE
Alaban

CLOTHES
lothes for Men
nd Boys
buy he Ready-to-Wear Cl ss than nearly double the pric

s in Furnishings mplete; the styles are decided correct styles. New Jackets, Waist Goods, new Hats, new Sh
ne of Star Brand Shoes.

Shoes are Better"
hardware, cooking stoves, har
Come to see us before you

JONES,
:-: Alabam

ollins & C LERS IN——
handise, Clothing,
Fancy Groceries.
:-: ALABAM

WOODLA
FARM.
Barred
Plymouth
Rocks
PURE BRED
Setting of 15 fresh eg
50c. Packing for a
10c extra.

PURE BRED
Duroc
Jersey
Hogs.
Write us for prices
you buy. Address,
W. Y. NIX,
Maplesville, Al

Jacobs & Bros.,
Furniture and Rugs.
—SOLE AGENTS—
Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and
Filing Cabinets.
Catalogue for the asking.
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

mers' Mutual Insurance Association
OF ALABAMA.
CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
By the People and for the People.
Chilton County Branch
Organized February 3, 1900.
W. M. WILSON, President.
WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.
URES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning.
The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insur-known to man
ge Yearly Cost Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent.
particulars furnished upon application to
WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER
We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue
of the
Louis Globe-Democrat
With
THE UNION
For
Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.
The St. Louis Globe-Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every day and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly in Politics but is above all
A Great Modern Newspaper.
not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.
This Liberal Clubbing Offer to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and we receive the cash with order. Address
THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala

PAUL CALAME,
25 21st Street
Birmingham, Ala.
Practical Watchmaker
and Optician
Eyes Correctly
Fitted
Mail orders promptly filled

OU YOU WANT
Letterheads, Noteheads,
Billheads, Envelopes,
OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?
Then Call at
THE UNION OFFICE
and See Fine Work at Low Prices.
500 Noteheads
500 Envelopes All For $2.00
Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines.
't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.
RILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER
We guarantee water or no charge made.
Estimates given. Address
I. E. SARBER CO.
Irby, Alabama.

Subscribe Now

The Farm

A Unique Lamb Trough.

In the Breeders' Gazette a correspondent gives an illustration, as well as a description, of what we believe to be a very unique trough for the purpose of feeding lambs. It is as follows:

The accompanying sketch shows the most practical lamb trough I have ever seen. The idea of this trough is to teach the lambs to feed at an early age and it prevents them from jumping into the trough. Take two pieces of lumber, say, four by four, each six feet in length, allowing two inches to go in the ground; on one of these two timbers is placed a four by four, as seen in the sketch. Suspend two wires from the timber B, fasten to trough as shown, a a, and at each end a wire must be fastened. Let the trough hang about one and a half feet from the ground. The lamb is considered the most curious of domestic animals. It walks up to the trough, puts its nose in the trough and by doing so the trough will gently swing from the lamb; the latter becomes curious to know what this means and follows it up, and finally the lamb is freely eating the food placed in the trough for it. This trough has been used with marked success by one of the most extensive feeders in our country. It will be best to use locust wood for outside construction, as it is very durable. The trough can be made any length desired and can be placed in a sheep shed.

Weaning Pigs.

One of the best ways of weaning pigs is to place a small trough just outside the pen when they are about two weeks old, and in it put a small quantity of skim-milk once a day. It is a good idea to set the trough down in the ground a little, so they can easily get their heads into it. They will soon find it, and when the milk is poured in will come to it. As soon as they learn where it is the milk should have a small quantity of corn-meal, bran and middlings mixed with it. About the fourth week the milk, corn-meal, bran and middlings should be mixed to a moderately thick slop. Gradually increase the thickening until it is more like a mush than a slop, and feed twice a day regularly, so they will be on hand at feeding time. Treated in this manner they will almost wean themselves, especially if they have plenty of clover or grass. The trough in which they are fed must always be kept clean and sweet, especially while the pigs are small. Food that has soured is apt to cause trouble with the bowels. Pigs that are weaned in this way are not checked in growth when the mother is removed. If the milk supply is limited, water may be added to it to make the slop and mush. There is nothing to be gained by cooking food for pigs.—Fred Grundy, in Farm and Fireside.

Mules Versus Horses.

Much blame has often been attributed to farmers because they have not, for instance, availed themselves of the most modern machinery, the most extensive drainage, the best systems of road making, the most fashionable breeds of cattle, etc. When I hear these disparaging remarks I generally reply that those who make them should at once assume the responsibility of some vacant land and give their opinions by example rather than by precept.

The "player" at farming would soon find that half the mechanical contrivances are useless nettle creepers, that deep expensive drainage of stiff poor clays does not remain effective long enough to pay and that certain fashionable beefy breeds are useless and profitless in a milking herd.

There is another permanent or oft repeated cry, however, viz.: Why do not farmers breed big mules, which animals are found so advantageous in various parts of the world, their claims resting upon their freedom from sickness or unsoundness, their hardihood, longevity, thriftiness on cheap rough food and their ability to work in any climate?

No one can dispute these and other claims of a like character which they inherit from the donkey tribe; but I beg to submit that from the same source they also inherit the following undesirable list: In comparison with a horse they are weak in muscle and limb, seriously deficient in nervous force, sadly wanting in the organs of respiration if not of circulation, lacking in courage and in the spirit of emulation which carries on the noble horse, and obstinate and sulky just when an extra effort is required.

In the service of their masters, the horse, the camel and the reindeer are the only animals which will exert themselves sufficiently to cause death. The ox, the ass and the mule draw a diplomatic line in their own individual protection, but I do not reflect upon them for this in respect of agricultural work, because I have found the over-willing horse sometimes damaged by thoughtless men. On the field of battle, however, a willing horse would serve far better than a sulky mule, and I now come to the point of my contention.

Different breeds and strains of horses have different characteristics, some being showy, but delicate in constitution, whilst others are not so attractive, though nearly as hardy as a mule. Now, I would urge that in all work wherein a mule is considered suitable, employ a horse of mulish character and he will do the work better than any mule can. By experts these hardy horses are often called pigs, because they eat anything, are never sick or sorry, but are ever ready like a mule.

Were these same horses cultivated as they should be, a breed could be established that would work twenty years and be ever immune from all the besetting ailments to which the more showy animal is subject, and on the field of battle would supersede the best of mules.—W. R. Gilbert.

Comfort For Hen and Chicks.

It is a cruel plan which shuts off the air almost entirely from the hen with a brood of chicks by placing a board in front of the coop at night; nor is such a plan necessary if one will take the trouble to build a coop or coops after the following plan: Build the coop after the usual plan, sloping the roof to the rear and covering the front with slats except at one lower corner, where a door should be arranged, so that the hen can be easily let out when desired. To solve the problem of plenty of fresh air and at the same time freedom from prowling small animals, construct a screen; make the frame large enough completely to cover the front of the coop and cover it with wire netting; at either side fasten a strap with a hole in the end, and on the sides of the coop place a screw, over which the straps are placed to hold the screen in place. To make the screen still more secure when placed have the side pieces large enough so that a long wire nail may be driven in them about one-quarter the length of the nail, at the end; then sink in the ground at either end of the coop two pieces of wood, each having a hole in the end, into which the nail in the end pieces of the screen will fit when the latter is in position. In this way it will be impossible for the screen to get loose. In the illustration, H, at the dotted line, shows where the screen will come when in position; A, the side piece of the screen, with the long wire nail in position; 3, the stakes in the ground to receive the nails; B, the screen complete; G, the swinging lath by which the door for the use of the hen is kept in place, and 2, the manner of attaching the small strap to the side of the screen.—Indianapolis News.

Scarcity of Lambs.

How can there be other than a scarcity of lambs and high prices when the tendency of the producer is to sell each crop of lambs as fast as they become of marketable size and age and the tendency of the consumer to have lamb for his dinner, no matter what the price demanded? asks the Twentieth Century Farmer. The sheep raiser is not proving himself able to supply the requirements of the mutton eater as fast as the demands are coming. This is observed in the decline of sheep population, and the great demand for the female side of the flock which has developed in the market centres, where the contest is fought out between the packer and the buyer of the ewe for mutton and for breeding purposes.

The ewe flock is not a long lived element in the sheep industry; they soon wear out and must go into the mutton market. Their places must be filled from the ranks of the lamb flock, and if these are taken by the extra inducements of high prices there is a serious decline in production staring the business in the face.

That lambs for feeding purposes are going to be high there can be no question. That the general prices for mutton will continue high there can be no doubt. That this scarcity is well grounded there is every reason to believe. That feeders of sheep will be obliged to change to cattle to a greater or less extent, there seem good grounds for prediction.

Sheep breeders never have greater opportunities for profit in mutton and wool than they are now enjoying throughout the range country. The careful selection and retention of the choice ewe lambs of the flock each year is a business requirement, and the careful selection and purchase of the best rams is business intelligence.—American Cultivator.

Berlin now has over 6000 cabs with taximeters—dials indicating the distance traversed, and cost to the passenger.

Wouldn't You Like
BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?
than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us
THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE
The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want
WE CUT THE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	63	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	86	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,
The Big Cut Rate Drug Store
2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

A. A. JACKSON
Lomax, Alabama.
General merchandise, corn, hay, shorts, shoes, men's hats, Ladies hats. Best quality and lowest prices in all goods.
Highest Market Price Paid for Chickens and Eggs

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.
—Is at The Head of The Procession.—
Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes,
FURNITURE,
COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.
W. I. MJLLINS,
Clanton. Alabama

Imported Jack "LIJE"
Fee $8.00, Insured
Stands for service at his owners', JOHN THAMES, ½ mile East of Rocky Mount Church, Beat 1.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Nov 1 1906.

Republican State Ticket.

Governor.
A. E. Stratton, of Montgomery.

Lieutenant-Governor.
Daniel N. Cooper, of Marion.

Attorney-General.
J. B. Sloan, of Blount.

Auditor of State.
J. Clyde Miller, of Jefferson.

Secretary of State.
George B. Randolph, of Calhoun.

State Treasurer.
George Beyer, of Cullman.

Commissioner of Agriculture.
William Cook, of Talladega.

Members of Railroad Commission.
S. A. Leonard, of Mobile.
Charles P. Lane, of Madison.

Chief Justice of Supreme Court.
Shelby S. Pleasants, of Madison.

Associate Justices Supreme Court.
Warren S. Reese, of Montgomery.
Arthur S. Stiles, of Etowah.

NOMINEES OF THE People's Primary

Held August 6, 1906, under the direction of the Republican and Populist Executive Committees of Chilton County, Ala.

FOR SENATOR, FIFTEENTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT, W. W. WADSWORTH, OF AUTAUGA. tf

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
J. Osmond Middleton.

FOR SHERIFF.
Felix J. Fitts.

FOR COMMISSIONER.
First District—W. H. Conway.
Second District—S. E. Waldrup.
tf

CAMPAIGN LIES.

Don't pay any attention to stories circulated in the next few days, whether in the shape of circulars or what not; it is an old trick of a dishonest, dishonorable party to get some lie out at the last moment and hope they will make a few votes by it before it can get shown up, and after the election they don't care.

LAST CHANCE.

Friday and Saturday, November 2 and 3, are the last days that you will have a chance to register, so as to vote on ANYTHING that comes up for the NEXT TWO YEARS. If you have been registered in another county take up your registration certificate and get your name put on the Chilton county book. You can't vote unless your name is there. You can pay poll tax any time.

"MEANEST MAN IN THE COUNTY."

He says so himself, so we must believe him; no man underrates himself it's not human nature. This refers to what Mr. F. A. Gulledge says in this week's Banner about himself. "An honest confession is good for the soul," but we'll have to put the brother on "probation" for a while yet.

ELECTION THOUGHTS.

Just a few days to the election, and then it is up to the PEOPLE to decide who shall be their Representative, Sheriff and Commissioners. Do your duty; let every qualified voter come out and cast his ballot. Let principle rule, NOT MONEY.

Everybody vote for Felix J. Fitts, and Trawick will have fits Tuesday night.

Be of good cheer, Populists and Republicans, and do your duty next Tuesday. We have some of the best Democrats in the county helping us.

Take notice that the Democratic ring of Chilton county will not have an honest Democrat for an officer. If by mistake they get one in office by appointment they turn him down. They always try to get the man the people are most opposed to.

The Democrats have on their trading clothes and are willing to trade off one of their candidates for Commissioner for a postoffice. We will take both Commissioner and postoffice; the "boot" is not large enough.

The Banner thinks Bates will get a large vote. Will he vote for Bates? Bates must be a real Democrat, for that party was very active in getting him out and signed his petition freely. It is hard to decide which one, Bates or Traywick, will get the blind tiger vote; they are on the last quarter, running neck and neck.

A sharp Democratic trick in getting Bates to run, but the people are on to the scheme. When they see such names as the Mullins and Jones of Clanton on Bates' petition they know what it means.

Some Democrats are going around saying, "I vote for the man," but you just watch them. They would vote a straight Democratic ticket, even if old Jim Baker was on it as a nominee.

When Democrats draw nearly $15,000 out of the county treasury that the Commissioners know nothing of nor ever passed upon it's about time to call a halt.

There is a great difference between this election and the one two years ago. Then everybody was afraid of some "hocus-pocus" and looking for something to happen. Why, at the midnight hour L. H. Reynolds was wired to come to Thorsby and help save the ballot box. No one ever heard of a populist or Republican trying to steal a vote. Old farmers, you let the Democrats get in and your last chance is gone—no more sitting on the jury for you.

COMMISSIONNERS' COURT.

In one of our articles a couple of weeks since we made a mistake and said that the County Commissioners would meet on November 12. The Commissioners will meet on their regular day, which is the FIRST MONDAY in NOVEMBER (the 5th). Everybody take due notice thereof and govern themselves accordingly.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

We hear that there is some "behind the back" criticism of our County Commissioners in regard to the money that was unlawfully taken from the county treasury, as shown by Mr. J. P. Van Derveer's report on the treasurer's books. Now, our people should understand that, as the commissioners are not in continuous session, that it is the duty of the Judge of Probate to file such claims as are presented against the county between sessions and then present them to the court for audit, when the court convenes for that purpose on the days as set by the code of Alabama. If the Judge of Probate is recreant to his duty, and does not present all accounts to the court, it is not the commissioners' fault.

One of the last acts of Mr. E. B. Deason (who held the office of Judge of Probate by appointment in 1904 and was succeeded by Judge L. H. Reynolds) was to appoint an examiner of the treasurer's books. The gentleman appointed, Mr. W. M. Wilson, reported to Judg Reynolds that everything was correct. Since that time the County Commissioners have tried to get a regular State Examiner to go over all the county books; Judge Reynolds made three personal applications to the Governor, but could never succeed in getting an examiner. Finally Mr. Van Derveer was appointed, and his report—part of which we published last week—snows many unlawful acts of former officers. The correctness of that repom has not been challenged yet, and no doubt the coming grand jury will take the matter up, as is their plain duty.

The county can congratulate itself upon having L. H. Reynolds as its Judge of Probate, for he is following the law in every respect that is laid for the conduct of that office.

JUST A VOTER.

Editor Union:

Well, the campaign is drawing to a close, and if our voters do their duty we have a great victory. Say, I've heard that the Democrats are trying to swap one of their candidates for the postoffice at Jemison. Don't that jar you? Well, they would have to give us big "boot" between Mr. Harrison and the postoffice, for as it stands now we have the postoffice and will elect Mr. Conway also. Really, I've always looked on the Democratic party as being cowardly, but this campaign has proved it to me conclusively. You see they have acted so bad in the past that they are afraid to go on the stump and meet the people's champions. They can't face the voters with anybody to ask them questions, for in that case they either have to lie or back down. Now, voters of Chilton county, if you should elect Mr. Gulledge, what does he stand for? He will not come out and meet the people and tell just where he stands. He has got a little platform that he made for himself that he totes around in his pocket, though some people do say that he lost his platform the night he and Traywick were hunting whisky for the "heart burn." I hope he will answer this week the questions asked him by "Citizen" in last week's Union. It's a revelation, after his admirers (mortgaged) have said that he did not "do a thing to get the postoffice at Verbena" to hear about him promising that poor old negro a horse to get it for him, and then only gave him a "cheap hat." Also, what was the reason that his uncle (A. J. Gulledge) would not speak to him for twenty years? Now, people, look out for this issue of the Banner. You know they are used to telling lies when they can't be answered in time to avert the damage they calculate to do. I see that W. M. Adams says that he will answer Col. Smith "in due time." Why does he wait? Is it so that it will be too late to correct any misstatements? It is told about that Gulledge has hired lots of men to help him. Look out at every box and watch for these hired servants, and spot them for future reference. Any man that will sell his political faith or his religion for a couple of dollars a day ought to be known and avoided. There are some men in the county that turn at every election and these same men would help "Old Nick" himself for money. If the Democrats hire such men as we know they have, what would they give for good men? Look out for these turncoats and heelers and boot-licks. The Democratic ringsters expect to buy this election with Gulledge's money. He makes his boast that he is the richest man in our county, and says the people should elect him for that reason. Just think, you honest, hard-working farmers, of such a proposition. If Mr. Gulledge is so well qualified for this office of Representative, why don't he meet Mr. Middleton? He will have to meet other strong men if he should be elected, but maybe he expects to be represented by proxy, as he is in this campaign. Now, old boys, keep your fighting clothes on until after the election closes; stay there and help. Do your duty, and the people will still rule. All of you that can come to Clanton Saturday. I'm going to be there to see Mr. Comer get it (where the chicken got the axe) in the neck. But, say, haven't the demmies butchered up Sheriff Morgan? Just what they do to any good man, but now that they realize that he is not going to take the kicks without returning them, they are going on their knees, begging him to help them out. They will promise anything to get a vote. But it is too late. No man with ordinary self-respect could take such treatment and not resent it, and neither he nor any sincere friend of his can help the Democrats this time. Come to Clanton Saturday. Be at the polls Tuesday. Let's give the demmies such a thrashing this time that you can't even hear them say "Dad burn it."

JUST A VOTER.

TURN OUT AND VOTE.

Editor Union:

Well, by the time this letter reaches the voters of the county this campaign will be nearly over; and I want Jemison for an office. I can't see how they can still vote for that kind of a man, but "it's Democratic, you know." Now, as I've already said, let's work hard till election day and then every they want to join the Republican party they can do so, but we don't buy them in. If they want office I expect they had better get in our ranks, for I think it will be a long time before the Democrats have any postoffices to let. The amusing point is this, how easy it would be to trade the Democrats at to say that I've never seen a more peculiar campaign in all my life. Why, if I had been for Mr. Gulledge in the outset, I would not vote for him now, after he has backed down and refused to meet Mr. Middleton as he has, after he had done the challenging and all. I referred last week to the way the Democrats were doing about the speaking. You see, they have not invited us to one of their speakings, and we always ask them to come to ours and propose to give an equal division of time. If the Democrats are right and have justice on their side, why don't they meet us in joint debate? They certainly have more prominent speakers than we have and plenty of them, but you all can read between the lines. They have not been true to the people and so are afraid to enter into a joint debate; but when they get by themselves they can say anything they want to. They are going all over this county and telling the people that Mr. Middleton can't do anything if he is elected. I ask you, what local law did the people ask for while I was in the Legislature that they did not get? And what law did they ask to have repealed or not to have enacted that was throttled on them? Not one, and yet these Democrats say that a Republican or Populist can't do anything. By extreme effort the Democrats did get an obnoxious law through the Legislature while Mr. Pounds was representative. And how did they do it? By the use of money and everything else that could be thought of, and Mr. Gulledge furnished $25 to help enact this law, and tried mighty hard to enforce it, but he could not do that. Why do the Democrats want to turn our officers out and get in themselves? What reason do they give? Do they charge anything wrong on the part of the officers you have elected? You, the plain people, have controlled the county affairs for the last fifteen years, and I make the broad assertion that there is not a single county in the state of Alabama, where the Democrats have controlled, where the people have paid as little tax, and in whch the county affairs are in as good shape, as in Chilton. When I took charge of my office on November 28, 1904, Mr. W. M. Wilson had been appointed by my predecessor to examine the county treasury, and he reported on November 30, 1904, after the tax collector had made both his rounds for the year, that there was on hand that day $3,436.13. Now we have built double the number of bridges since I have been in office, than ever before in the same length of time, and have expended over $11,000 on court house and jail, having had the old court house worked over; in other words, if we had not have done any work on the court house and jail, we would have $11,000 in the treasury today. No, the Democrats can't charge anything wrong with the officers you have elected, but they want the offices, an'l some of them want office so bad that they are willing to promise to vote the Republican ticket to get the postoffice at Jemison. Yes, it is anything with them to get an office..

Now, we have won this victory, notwithstanding there are a few men that have pretended to be with us that are opposing our men; some have turned every election since the war, and I reckon it is about time they were turning again. But this kind of political work does not hurt us; all we've got to do is to go to the polls next Tuesday and vote and WORK for the success of our ticket. STAY there all day; do all you can. Remember two years ago, when so many of our folks stayed at home and the election was so close. Let us carry this election by a far larger majority than we have for years. Yours for the success of our ticket, L. H. REYNOLDS.

"BROUGHT TO TAW.

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 24, 1906.

Wm. M. Adams, Esq., Chairman Democratic Campaign Committee, Chilton County:

Dear Sir—You have doubtless noticed in our advertisements for public speaking that we offer a division of time to your speakers at the following times and places, viz:

Thorsby, Thursday, November 1, 7 p. m.

Enterprise (Beat 6), Friday, November 2, 10 a. m.

Mountain Creek (Beat 5), Friday, November 2, 7 p. m.

Clanton, Saturday, November 3, 10 a. m.

If you accept this offer I request that you so advise me at your earliest convenience. Respectfully,

A. C. SMITH,
Chairman Republican Campaign Committee Chilton County.

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 24, 1906.

A. C. Smith, Esq., Chairman Republican Campaign Committee Chilton County, City:

Dear Sir—Replying to your communication of this date, there will be speaking at the folowing places to address the voters for the Democratic ticket, to-wit:

Thorsby, Thursday, November 1, 7 p. m.

Clanton, Saturday, November 3, 10 a. m.

It will be satisfactory to arrange for a division of time.

As to Enterprise (Beat 6, Friday, November 2, 10 a. m., and Mountain Creek (Beat 5), Friday, November 2, 7 p. m., it will probably be satisfactory to arrange for a division of time at each place. About this I will communicate with you later if it is decided to fill the dates at the places named. Respectfully, WM. M. ADAMS, Chairman Democratic Campaign Committee Chilton County.

MIDDLETON AT PLEASANT GROVE

On the night of the 24th inst., as "Fair Luna" flooded the landscape with her mellow light, a nice crowd gathered at Pleasant Grove to hear the political questions of the present campaign discussed by the silver-tongued champion of the people's cause, Hon. J. Osmond Middleton Among the audience were a goodly numberp f ladies. Mr. Middleton made a fine speech, which was well received. The people here are solid for the people's cause. Republicans and Populists, stand firm and look strictly after your own nominees, and listen to nothing from the outside. You know your own business better than the opposition. We are opposed by a few that we have in the past helped into good positions by our suffrages, but now they would if possible defeat us in our choice in the coming election. Horrible ingratitude. Better never cast another vote than to be so unappreciative. Boys, let them basely go. Stand by your nominees, your liberty, your children and your independence.

"SUBSCRIBER."

CARD FROM COLLECTOR HUBBARD.

Editor Union:

I understand that certain parties are circulating a report that I am behind in settlement of taxes with the State Auditor. Now, I suppose this report started from the fact that the State Examiner was here, some days ago, in my absence, and in looking over the Tax Commissioner's report on "raises and escapes" he merely did not understand the report and left the matter in the hands of Mr. J. P. VanDerveer and Judge Reynolds, and on a proper examination they find that I have made a full and complete report and settlement of all taxes due the State and have the Auditor's receipts for same. So I hope this will set the people's minds at rest in regard to the matter. Furthermore, I wish to state also in this connection that as there has been such viciously base attacks made on Mr. F. J. Fitts since his nomination for Sheriff that I feel it to be my duty to say that I have known and been intimately acquainted with him for ten years or more, and I do not hesitate to say that I have found him always a gentleman, honest, sober and industrious. I shall vote for him on November 6, and earnestly hope that all friends of truth and honesty will do the same.

Yours truly,
T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

M. A. KILLGORE SPEAKS OUT.

Editor Union:

A few words in reply to a letter in last week's Banner signed "A Beat 2 Voter." I wish to say to the people, first, that I hate to say to any man what I am going to say to "Beat 3 Voter." Now, "Beat 3 Voter," you seem to think if a man was not acquainted with another one that he had no right to dispute his word. I claim he does if he has sufficient reasons and you indirectly called me a yellow hound. I want to tell you I know you lied, and you and every other man that read your letter knows you lied. I will say further, that I don't know whether you are yellow or black, but there is one thing I do know, and that is you are not worthy of trailing at the heels of a negro chicken thief. Now you may not like that, but if you don't there is no law to make you take it. Now, this is worrying to the public. So suppose you just come to me like a man if you are not satisfied, and we will settle this matter. I hope the people will excuse me for writing this letter. It is very unpleasant to me to enter into such a controversy as this, and I shall not continue it any further. If "A Beat 3 Voter" is too big a coward to come to me to settle this I shall have no more to say about it. Now, gentlemen, as Gideon said to his men when he entered into the battle, let every man stand in his place, and what we will do for the Demmies will be enough. Respectfully,

MOSES A. KILLGORE.

COMMISSIONER ALEX GLASSCOCK

Editor Union:

As this campaign is coming to a close next Tuesday and will determine who the officers will be in our county for the next four years, and while I did not stand for re-election as commissioner from my district, I am just as much interested in the election of the People's ticket as if I was on it. I have served the people for the last fifteen years as commissioner, and I can say from an honest heart that I have tried to do my duty toward the people and the county. I don't say that I've not made any mistakes, but they have been errors of the head and not the heart. No one ever felt more grateful for the long support the people have given me than I do, and I stand ready to do all that I can for the election of the People's ticket, as I know they are as good men as there are in the county. I have noticed some newspaper talk about Mr. Fitts, so permit me to say right here that I've known him for the last ten years, and he is one of the most straightforward young men I ever saw; he is honorable in all his dealings, and he has ever been found in the front ranks fighting for the people's cause. All this talk about him drinking I believe to be one of the most barefaced lies ever started on any one, and the people all know what it is done for. Speaking of our ticket, I am sure Mr. Middleton will make a good representative. Mr. Conway has proved himself a good commissioner, and last, but not least, there is Squire Waldrop for commissioner. We have been neighbors for many long years, and I know he will make us a good commissioner. I hope all of our ticket will be elected by a large majority, and there is no doubt of that if all our folks will go to the election and do their duty. Again thanking you one and all for your support in the past, I am for the people's cause. Respectfully, ALEX GLASSCOCK.

NEED MORE.

J. L. Mitchell, of Bessemer, was shaking hands with his many friends here Saturday. Many of our folks went to Montgomery Thursday to see Dan Patch, the champion of the world, among whom we noticed Messrs. Jackson and Jones and their sons, Alonzo and Luther Jackson and J. W. Jones, also Geo. Sorrell, of Ensley, who was visiting here. All report a nice time. J. W. says the ride was worth the money besides what he saw. Lee Pate and family were visitors to W. C. Jones' Sunday. Mrs. Julia Foshee is among her friends and relatives here this week, and we are glad to see her looking so well. Miss Nora Childress was a guest of the Misses Cynthia and Lucinda Littlejohn Sunday. I guess the cotton pickers wil be glad when they get through gathering, as the cotton is right bad to pick. I say come again to "Nobody's Darling," "One Alone," "Cotton Picker" and all writers to The Union, our favorite paper. This is MARY JANE.

THE "KID" AGAIN.

Well, Mr. Editor, didn't Pounds give it to the demmies? He [illegible] speakable depths [illegible] be traced to the [illegible] like that would have [illegible] but it didn't. But now [illegible] see Bro. G. has got [illegible] is not beneath [illegible] what has happened [illegible] the special subject [illegible] tell us, Bro. G., [illegible] "Kid" has abused [illegible] gize. I ask this [illegible] honest man for [illegible] private acts of his [illegible] "Kid" said in the [illegible] not his purpose to [illegible] honor that was [illegible] further said that [illegible] was lies that you [illegible] time to show up [illegible] tion. Now, dear [illegible] made me out a [illegible] said?. It is [illegible] that Mr. G. had [illegible] people homes at [illegible] man he knew [illegible] way he furnished [illegible] woods, because he [illegible] deliver the goods [illegible] boast of his $500 [illegible] people ought to ho[illegible] is worth so much, [illegible] at how he came by [illegible] ready to play the [illegible] "You are abusing [illegible] L. N. Henderson, [illegible] vena, who poses [illegible] Rip, jumps on the "Kid" [illegible] so we will give hi[illegible] a little. Behold the [illegible] of Esau, but the voi[illegible] Jacob. Mr. Henders[illegible] an old man by the name of [illegible] who got into a quarrel with [illegible] neighbors, and his neighbor [illegible] him down and sat on him. [illegible] Dennis looked up and says [illegible] think you have gained a b[illegible] tory." That is about the way [illegible] when you say "Mr. G. is a [illegible] gentleman I ever met." Bro[illegible] son, that is not saying much [illegible] father, who was such a Repu[illegible] soldier. We're sure you had [illegible] some mighty nice gentlemen [illegible] time, for you traveled all th[illegible] Coosa county to Verbena [illegible] years ago. What bad name [illegible] called your friend, Bro. H[illegible] really offend you to call him [illegible] king? It seems like he pro[illegible] mightily on the fact that the [illegible] pels him to pay $500 taxes [illegible] the people to vote for him [illegible] opponent does not pay so m[illegible] neighbor, if your idea of a [illegible] is measured by the dollars [illegible] sesses. I'll tell you that I [illegible] $12 taxes, and if you are a[illegible] figures as you are at lawmak[illegible] tell how much difference be[illegible] and your honorable friend, [illegible] same time figure out where [illegible] in. Now, Lewis, you seem [illegible] know who I am. I'd tell you [illegible] afraid I might be hemmed [illegible] Porter was the time he [illegible] potato and your friend [illegible] dynamite. As Mr. Gulledge [illegible] wants to go to the Legislature [illegible] can help these ignorant parents [illegible] cate their children, if you [illegible] the tax books and see how [illegible] that property and then [illegible] the price he gets from those [illegible] ple he helps (?) to homes [illegible] see at once how he has been [illegible] them. And if there is another [illegible] being in Chilton county that [illegible] honor by the amount of taxes [illegible] pays, go to the tax books and [illegible] much honor those fellows [illegible] have been writing for Gulledge [illegible] look out, boys, and see what [illegible] Smith "in due time." Ha! Ha! [illegible]

VERBENA.

JEMISON.

Jemison, Ala., Oct. [illegible]

Editor Union:

I wish to say a few words [illegible] Republicans and Populists of [illegible] ty in regard to the election [illegible] ticket. As there are only a few [illegible] days to the election (I know every [illegible] is busy at work, and always [illegible] under a Republican administration [illegible] but let us give some of our [illegible] work for our ticket, don't [illegible] have them beat" and quit [illegible] had we can beat them. I hope [illegible] one of the largest majorities [illegible] we have ever had. Our Democratic [illegible] friends offered to take down [illegible] their men and give us a solid [illegible] this place and vote the Republican [illegible] ticket hereafter if we would [illegible] of their men the postoffice [illegible] we could not be caught this [illegible] man go to the polls and [illegible] won't take much of your time [illegible] will be well spent. Remember [illegible] going to the polls and voting [illegible] makes the good times we are [illegible] joying. Hoping to see a big crowd [illegible] Clanton next Saturday, when we [illegible] hear some of the best speaking [illegible] had during this campaign. With [illegible] best wishes for our ticket.

W. R. JACKSON, [illegible]

ROCKY MOUNT CEMETERY.

There will be a public working [illegible] the Rocky Mount Cemetery on [illegible] November 3, 1906. Everybody [illegible] interested will please come [illegible] clean off the graves. Ladies [illegible] invited.

Japan, Italy and Mexico [illegible] a few months of one another [illegible] going in for government-owned [illegible] roads.

AND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
Term—Third Monday in May.
Term—Fourth Monday in No[illegible]
—S. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
—Sam W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
Term—Second Monday in
Term—Second Monday in Sep[illegible]
ellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
er—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan[illegible]

County Court.
Monday in each month.
Commissioners' Court.
Monday February, first Mon[illegible]
il, first Monday June, second
July, second Monday August,
nday November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
of Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
urer—W. T. Callen.
—J. M. Morgan.
—W. M. Adams.
Assessor—L. B. Pounds.
Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
District—W. H. Conway.
District—Alex Glasscock.
District—R. P. Kendrick.
District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
J. W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
R. Deal, Calera.

State Senator.
W. E. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

ISSIONARY BAPTIST.
ANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas[illegible] nt Sunday and Saturday be[illegible]
O. L. Hand, clerk.

-SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish.
E. B. Popwell, clerk.

CREEK—Rev. J. L. Boster.
First Sunday and Saturday
W. E. Thomas, clerk.

INS CHAPEL—Rev. J. H.
pastor. Third Sunday and y before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

S HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas.
First Sunday and Saturday
G. W. Scott, clerk.

DONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas.
Fourth Sunday and Saturday
t 3:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong,

ANT GROVE—Rev. J. H.
pastor. Fourth Sunday and y before at 11 a. m. D. H.
clerk.

IDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robin[illegible]
tor. Second Sunday and Sat-efore. Riley Robinson, clerk.

OBOTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H.
pastor. Second Sunday and y before. D. C. Smitherman.

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.
EL—Elder J. P. Nobles, pas[illegible]
cond Sunday and Saturday be-. T. Abernathy, clerk.

ETHODIST EPISCOPAL.
Y MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Van-
pastor. Second Sunday. Sing-
y second and fourth Sunday
n. Prayer meeting every Wed-night. Ladies' prayer meeting
aturday afternoon.

ATERNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.
n R. A. Chapter, No. 116—aturday, Clanton.

le Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
urth Saturday, Cooper.

n Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
rt Saturday, Clanton.

ry Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
rt Saturday, Billingsley.

an Lodge, A. F. and A. M.,
—Saturday on or before full
Marbury.

on Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
urday on or before full moon.

I. O. O. F.
on Lodge—First and third Sat-n Lodge, No. 204—Second and Saturdays.

Woodmen of the World.
Jack Camp, No. 190—First and
ndays.

O. R. M.
mo Tribe, No. 90—First and ndays sleep. Visiting chiefs
y invited E. B. Langston, C.
. E. Patton, Sachem.
ne T[illegible] No. 48—2nd and 4th
y of [illegible] Visiting chiefs cor-ially
M. Grant, Sachem
P. atchee Tribe, No. 9, meets
and fourth Tuesdays' sleep
chiefs cordially invited.
P. VAN DERVEER, Sachem
ROBINSON, C. of R.

...is to the dummies? He ...
...speakable depths of ...
...traced to their very ...
...that would have fired ...
...but it didn't. But now, M...
...see Bro. G. has got to where ...
...is not beneath his notice, ...
...what has happened? But he ...
...the special subject of abuse, ...
...tell us, Bro. G., in what ...
..."Kid" has abused you, and wh...
...size. I ask this question, ...
...honest man fear to have the ...
...private acts of his life revealed ...
..."Kid" said in the outset that ...
...not his purpose to rob Bro. G. ...
...honor that was justly due ...
...further said that if anything ...
...lies that you and your fri...
...time to show up the truth bef...
...tion. Now, dear reader, has ...
...made me out a liar in anyth...
...and? It is true Bro. Griffin ...
...that Mr. G. had furnished m...
...people homes at fair prices ...
...much he knew, but when I hint...
...ago he furnished them to be took ...
...goods, because he was afraid ...
...deliver the goods. Yes, Bro. ...
...most of his $500 taxes and ...
...people ought to honor him ...
...its worth so much, but when ...
...or how he came by this proper...
...ready to play the "dog" act ...
...you are abusing me? Then ...
...Kid" pimps on the "Kid" with ...
...will give him our attenti...
...Behold the hand is ...
...of E'au, but the voice is the ...
...Jacob. Mr. Henderson remind...
...an old man by the name of ...
...who got into a quarrel with one ...
...neighbors, and his neighbor ...
...him down and sat on him. ...
...Dennis looked up and says, "I ...
...think you have gained a h—l ...
...tory." That is about the way ...
...when you say "Mr. G. is the ...
...gentleman I ever met." Bro. ...
...son, that is not saying much ...
...father, who was such a Republi...
...soldier. We're sure you have ...
...some mighty nice gentlemen ...
...time, for you traveled all the w...
...Coosa county to Verbena just ...
...years ago. What bad names ...
...called your friend, Bro. H.? ...
...really offend you to call him ...
...names? It seems like he prides ...
...himself on the fact that the...
...him to pay $500 taxes, ...
...the people to vote for him be...
...opponent does not pay so much ...
...neighbor, if your idea of a ge...
...measured by the dollars ...
...I'll tell you that I p...
...$12 taxes, and if you are as ...
...figures as you are at fawning ...
...how much difference bet...
...and your honorable friend, an...
...some time figure out where y...
...is. Now, Lewis, you seem to ...
...know who I am. I'd tell you, ...
...afraid I might be hemmed up ...
...Porter was the time he pulled ...
...potato and your friend thought ...
...dynamite. As Mr. Gulledge ...
...wants to go to the Legislatu...
...can help these ignorant parents ...
...rate their children, if you will ...
...the tax books and see how he ...
...his property and then just ...
...the price he gets from these p...
...ple he helps (?) to homes, a...
...see at once how he has been e...
...them. And if there is another ...
...being in Chilton county that ...
...honor by the amount of taxe...
...says, go to the tax books and ...
...much honor those fellows ha...
...have been writing for Gulle...
...look out, boys, and see what ...
...Adams will say when he answ...
...Smith "in due time." Ha! H...

VERBENA.

JEMISON.

Jemison, Ala., Oct. 29...

Editor Union:

I wish to say a few words ...
Republicans and Populists of ...
ty in regard to the election ...
ticket. As there are only a fe... days to the election (I know ev... is busy at work, and always ...
under a Republican administ...
let us give some of our ...
work for our ticket, don't ... have them beat" and quit; let's ...
and we can beat them. I hope ...
one of the largest majorities t...
we have ever had. Our De...
friends offered to take down ...
their men and give us a solid ...
this place and vote the Re...
ticket hereafter if we would ...
of their men the postoffice h...
we could not be caught this ...
man go to the polls and ...
won't take much of your time ... will be well spent. Remem...
going to the polls and voting ...
makes the good times we are ...
joying. Hoping to see a big ...
Clanton next Saturday, when ...
hear some of the best speakin...
had during this campaign, ...
best wishes for our ticket.

W. R. JACKS...

Cha...

ROCKY MOUNT CEMETE...

There will be a public wo...
the Rocky Mount Cemetery S...
November 3, 1906. Everybody ... interested will please come ...
clean off the graves. Ladies ... invited. J...

Japan, Italy and Mexico, all ... a few months of one another ... going in for government-own... roads.

COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.

...Term—Third Monday in May. ...Term—Fourth Monday in No...

...L. L. Brewer, Tuskegee. ...W. B. Bowling, Dadeville. ...am W. Collins.

Chancery Court.

...Term—Second Monday in ...

...Term—Second Monday in Sep...

...ellor—Hon. W. W. Whitesides. ...—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan...

County Court.

...Monday in each month.

Commissioners' Court.

...Monday February, first Mon... ...t, first Monday June, second ...July, second Monday August, ...day November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

...e of Probate—L. H. Reynolds. ...—W. T. Callen. ...—J. M. Morgan. ...—W. M. Adams. ...Assessor—L. B. Pounds. ...Collector—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.

...District—W. H. Conway. ...District—Alex Glasscock. ...District—R. P. Kendrick. ...District—Moses Robinson.

...Supt. of Education. ...W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor. ...Dahl, Calera.

State Senator. ...R. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

MISSIONARY BAPTIST.

...HANY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas... ...Sunday and Saturday be... ...L. Hand, clerk.

...SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish, ...B. Popwell, clerk.

...CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey, ...First Sunday and Saturday ...E. Thomas, clerk.

...NS CHAPEL—Rev. J. H. ...pastor. Third Sunday and ...before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

...S HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ...First Sunday and Saturday ...W. Scott, clerk.

...TONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas, ...Fourth Sunday and Saturday ...:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong, ...

...SANT GROVE—Rev. J. H. ...pastor. Fourth Sunday and ...before at 11 a. m. D. H. ...clerk.

...IDENCE—Rev. W. W. Robin... ...Second Sunday and Sat... ...before. Riley Robinson, clerk.

...BOOTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H. ...pastor. Second Sunday and ...before. D. C. Smitherman, ...

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

...—Elder J. P. Nobles, pas... ...Sunday and Saturday be... ...T. Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

...T MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Van... ...pastor. Second Sunday. Sing... ...second and fourth Sunday ...Prayer meeting every Wed... ...night. Ladies' prayer meeting ...Saturday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

...R. A. Chapter, No. 116—... ...Saturday, Clanton.

...Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...rth Saturday, Cooper.

...Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Saturday, Clanton.

...Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...Saturday, Billingsley.

...Lodge, A. F. and A. M., ...Saturday on or before full ...rbury.

...Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...day on or before full moon, ...

...Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No. ...day on or before full moon, ...

I. O. O. F.

...Lodge—First and third Sat...

...Lodge, No. 104—Second and ...urdays

Woodmen of the World.

...Jack Camp, No. 190—First and ...days

O. R. M.

...Tribe No. 90—First and ...days sleep. Visiting chiefs ...invited. E. B. Langston, C. ...R. Patton, Sachem.

...No. 48—2nd and 4th ...Visiting chiefs cor... ...Grant, Sachem

...Tribe, No. 9, meets ...Tuesdays' sleep. ...ially invited. ...RVEER, Sachem ...C. of R.

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

Chilton Co. Division Officers.

J. H. Thomas, President, Jemison, Rte. 1.

J. W. Hayes, Vice Pres., Thorsby, Rte 1.

J. N. Dennis, Sec-Treas., Clanton, Rte 6.

G. W. Thomas, Chaplain, Clanton, Rte 2.

J. W. Sorrell, Bus. Agent, Jemison, Rte 4.

C. N. Eiland, Lecturer, Clanton, Rte 4.

N. A. Dobbs, Asst. Lect., Clanton, Rte 3.

W. J. Bean, Conductor, Clanton, Rte 4.

W. F. Culpepper, Doorkeeper, Clanton, Rte 3.

W. A. Barnett, Ex. Committee, Jemison, Rte 2.

E. H. Mims, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 1.

J. Wiley Foshee, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 4.

ELECTION OFFICIALS.

We, J. M. Morgan, Sheriff of Chilton county; L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of Chilton county, and Sam W. Collins, Clerk Circuit Court of Chilton county, hereby certify that we did on the 19th day of October, 1906, appoint the following named persons as inspectors, clerks and returning officers to hold an election in said Chilton county, on the 6th day of November, 1906, to-wit:

Beat No. 1—Inspectors, Henry Robinson, W. L. Honeycutt, W. P. Clecklер; clerks, H. C. Young and T. J. Dorminy; returning officer, Jonah McKee.

Beat No. 2, Box 1—Inspectors, Job Reynolds, W. H. Shaw and John Moore; clerks, W. G. Conway and Will Brown; returning officer, R. E. Skipper.

Beat No. 2, Box 2—Inspectors, B. E. Collum, C. L. Glasscock and Allison Sims; clerks, J. E. Gentry and W. E. Jackson; returning officer, G. W. Shaw.

Beat No. 3, Box 1—Inspectors, R. J. Williams, W. A. Wood and R. E. Roper; clerks, J. W. Deshazo and B. H. Jones; returning officer, Lee Hayes.

Beat No. 3, Box 2—Inspectors, Y. O. Freeman, Jeff Glasscock and Wm. Nix; clerks, Z. J. Jones and H. A. Williams; returning officer, J. M. Nix.

Beat No. 4—Inspectors, A. C. Smith, J. J. Grant and T. A. Curry; clerks, Frank Massey and L. E. Gullahorn; returning officer, J. M. Morgan.

Beat No. 5—Inspectors, E. J. Jones, W. S. Clark and W. H. Strock; clerks, Dave Morris and J. C. Patillo; returning officer, Martin Pinson.

Beat No. 6—Inspectors, M. F. Lott, Charley Foshee and Robert Jones; clerks, W. L. Popwell and J. D. Sims; returning officer, Robert Atkinson.

Beat No. 7, Box 1—Inspectors, W. T. Nix, D. C. Cooley and T. U. Crumpton; clerks, Martin Nix and C. W. Plant; returning officer, Monroe Merchant.

Beat No. 7, Box 2—Inspectors, J. N. Gentry, J. N. Moore and J. J. Hicks; clerks, J. H. Green and P. G. Maness; returning officer, W. M. Lawrence.

Beat No. 8, Box 1—Inspectors, L. L. Lester, T. G. Milling and T. D. Parnell; clerks, D. C. Gandy and J. F. Gregory; returning officer, John Ramsey.

Beat No. 8, Box 2—Inspectors, George Keen, John Kendrick and E. G. Caldwell; clerks, D. M. Apperson and James Walker; returning officer, J. B. Short.

Beat No. 9, Box 1—Inspectors, A. F. Childress, A. Z. Bean and T. G. Williams; clerks, S. P. Collins and E. F. Mead; returning officer, Wiley Gore.

Beat No. 10—Inspectors, M. C. Williams, J. N. Dennis and F. M. Connell; clerks, L. A. Callaway and Nattie Jones; returning officer, J. M. Curlee.

Beat No. 11—Inspectors, J. S. Dennis, W. T. Mahan and G. W. Willis; clerks, G. W. Pate and E. L. Smith; returning officer, W. S. Cox.

J. M. MORGAN, Sheriff.

L. H. REYNOLDS, Judge of Probate.

SAM W. COLLINS, Clerk Circuit Court.

Still Holds Possession.

San Francisco, Cal.—District Attorney Langdon and his assistants remain in possession of the office, which continues the basis of contention between opposing factions of the administration, and it is probable that there will be no repetition of Friday's exciting proceedings until next Monday, when the grand jury is to meet for the purpose of selecting a foreman and entering on its duties.

Abraham Ruef continues to lay claim to the office of district attorney by virtue of the appointment of Acting Mayor Gallagher and in spite of the order of Judge Seawell. Ruef asserts that while he is prohibited from acting in the capcity of district attorney, he is nevertheless in possession of the office. His attitude towards the promised investigation of alleged municipal corruption indicates that he will, if confirmed as district attorney, take the investigation out of the hands of the grand jury and submit the charges to representatives of the bar association or the attorney-general's office.

CANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Oct. 31, 1906... 2,533
Price same date 10.00
Receipts same time in 1905..... 4,153
Price same date 10 1-4

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

The L. & N. trains have changed time; the accommodation going south in the morning gets here at 8:20, instead of 7:35, and the evening train going north runs at 5 o'clock in place of 5:30, otherwise the schedule is as it has been.

G. P. Wilson was in Clanton Friday; he has been on the sick list with a bad cut on the head received while cutting wood, but is improving right along now.

J. R. Thompson was a pleasant visitor Friday.

John A. Mims was in Clanton Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. L. Ward were town visitors on Friday.

J. P. Nix and E. E. Argo were welcome callers Saturday.

J. P. Calloway was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

Ellis Mims and children were in Clanton Saturday.

G. W. Edwards was in town Saturday.

Mrs. I. R. Lindsey was a Clanton visitor Saturday.

G. H. Massey was in town Saturday.

R. J. Williams was in Clanton Saturday.

L. F. Williams and J. J. Headley were in town Saturday.

J. H. Duncan was a pleasant visitor Saturday. He has charge of a section at Johns.

C. C. Burkhalter was in Clanton Monday.

T. W. Robbins was a pleasant visitor Monday.

Squire B. E. Collum was in Clanton Tuesday.

M. C. Williams was in town Tuesday.

Secar Harris and M. A. Killgore were in Clanton Tuesday.

Judge Reynolds was up in Shelby county last week and made a number of speeches. He is in great demand as a speaker, all recognizing his force and ability in that line.

Col. A. C. Smith, chairman of the People's Campaign Committee, is a busy man these days, engineering the avalanche that is to overwhelm the Democratic money bags.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Colored.

Wm. Philips and Mattie Lane.

THORSBY ITEMS.

Quite a number of our citizens visit the fairs at Birmingham and Montgomery. They report that the fair at Montgomery was very good.

Mr. L. M. Binford, of Saco, Me., returned home last week after a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Binford, and his sister, Mrs. J. L. Winslow.

George Sorrell spent a few days here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sorrell.

Mr. M. E. Henderson, of Fort Valley, Ga., is spending a few days here. He is an expert trimmer of fruit trees, and he also makes a preparation which is very successful in destroying borers in fruit trees.

Milo W. Bunker passed away at his home in Thorsby on Thursday morning, October 25. Mr. Bunker was well regarded by his friends and acquaintances, who regret to hear of his passing away. He leaves a wife and grown daughter. The funeral services were held Friday afternoon, Rev. S. B. Groves conducting the service.

Mr. M. C. Reynolds, of the M. C. Reynolds Lumber Company, Birmingham, and Tipton Mullins were in town one day last week. Mr. Reynolds has bought the real estate and machinery of the Denison Lumber and Manufacturing Company, and it is reported that he will operate the plant. We hope that the report is true. The informal social held under the auspices of Thorsby Insitute on the evening of the 25th was a decided success. The hall was filled to overflowing and everybody caught the spirit of good cheer. Prof. Lamkie spoke a few words of welcome and very enjoyable speeches were made by Rev. S. B Groves, of the institute, and Rev. Geo E. Bates, president of the school. Miss Kirkeby rendered a piano solo, Mrs. S. B. Groves gave a selection and Miss Louise Moffett rendered a few vocal solos. All present were so well pleased with the porgram that an attempt will be made to present a series of high-class entertainments during the winter. In all probability an elaborate program will be presented on the night of Thanksgiving day.

NOTICE.

The Chilton County Singing Convention, No. 1, will meet with Liberty church (3 miles west of Clanton) the First Sunday in November in a called session. All singers are invited to attend. We request that the members of this body be present if possible.

J. L. GORE, President.
tf JAMES FRANKLIN, Secretary.

ALL-DAY SINGING.

There will be an all-day singing at Mount Moriah the fourth Sunday in October. Everybody is invited to come and bring their song books and baskets. We will use the following books. "Singing for Joy," "Songs of Triumph," "Windows of Heaven," "All in All Songs." J. F. LOWERY.
tf

Wadsworth, Ala., Oct. 27, 1906.

To the Voters of the Fifteenth Senatorial District of Alabama:

Having received the nomination for the office of Senator for this district by the Republican and Populist parties, I have realized a wish long sought for, that is, to see the office seek the man instead of the man seek the office.

I am not unmindful of the fact that the name of Republican is somewhat distasteful to a large number of people in the South, which is caused by political acts in days long gone by, and for which we are not at all responsible. The disfavor of the Republican party in this country was not brought about by acts of our people, but by the cast of what was known as scalawags and carpetbaggers in the days of reconstruction, which class filled most, if not all, the offices in this state during that time. The young men of the country know nothing of those troublesome times, and for their benefit I will here give a few facts as I know them. The older men who watched the passing events of that period with me know what the conditions were. Being a Confederate soldier, as I was, and having studied history when a school boy, I knew what a vanquished foe might expect from the victor, so I felt a deep concern for our boys, and especially for the leaders on our side. At the time of General Lee's surrender I was lying severely wounded and unable to travel. General Grant made with General Lee the most liberal terms that had ever been known in history. When the question was asked General Grant what was to be done with our horses he replied very frankly to let us keep them, for we would need them when we returned home. This act of his enabled me to keep my poor old sore-back horse, and by his help I was able to reach home alive, though sorely wounded. The horse to me at home was almost invaluable, and what was good to me was also good to many thousand other Confederate soldiers. When the authorities began to punish our leaders General Grant called a halt and threatened to call to his aid the army to enforce his terms of surrender with Lee. The terms made were that we were to return home, go back to civil life and assume the government of our local affairs. Did we do this? No. Our people sulked and would do nothing and did nothing, except a few, who had good foresight, who were actually ostracised from society and from friends by their acts. These few were right and the majority wrong. Had our people taken charge of our local affairs at that time we would doubtless never have experienced the horrible days of reconstruction.

Now what I state above is the sole and only reason for Republicanism being in such great disfavor. Now a new order and condition of things exists, the negro is out of politics in this state, and the white people have the full control and management of the political affairs of the state.

I can state, without the fear of successful contradiction, that our country enjoys greater prosperity under Republican than Democratic administrations. When labor is seeking employment conditions are bad, but when capital seeks labor, times are good. All the old and middle-aged men in business well remember the panic of 1893. I never want to see such times again. I had to discharge over three hundred men from my works because I could not market my products, and kept two hundred others at wages reduced from twenty-five to forty per cent; and before I would let them work even on those terms, I had them sign an agreement or contract that they would not sue me for six months if I failed to pay them, which they all cheerfully did, permitting me to resume business. These things make me a Republican for I plainly see that the commercial world has no confidence in Democratic rule.

Now it is not so that I can see all the voters and talk to them face to face, as I would like to do, so I am writing this letter, and I know, too, that the people have been worried with speech-making and otherwise, till they would prefer being let alone. The farmer wants to, and must gather his crop and all hands must be at work if they expect results. You can take this home with you and at your fireside read and consider it and lose no time from your employment.

I want to see two strong parties in our state, and the nearer evenly divided the better government we will have.

When I severed my connection with the Democratic party I did so in an open convention, and stated publicly why I would and did leave. My opponent tells me that he tells it on me that it was because the Populists came back into the party that I quit them. This charge I deny absolutely. I implored earnestly to get my Populist friends to come back into the Democratic party, and in the convention of 1896 I placed in nomination the name of my friend and neighbor, W. D. Johnson, as commissioner for this district, he being a strong Populist. By withdrawing my support from him, I could have secured the nomination for Representative of this county. I refused to do so, as I preferred to be sacrificed than to see the party lose. such men as had just returned. The convention saw a reunited party, and not until 1898 did I leave them. If what my opponent tells on me were true, I am not worthy your support, but it being untrue, I can cheerfully ask your support.

I make it rule to never interfere or question a man's politics or religion, as it is his right to think and act for himself, and he ought to enjoy his freedom. If he votes with me, all right, and if he sees it another way, it is still all right.

Now, I may have said too much and tired you out, but think best to give my reasons fully, as now you have read them. I will be thankful for your support, and feel that I can fill the place satisfactorily, even if I do not get into a caucus. I will have a right to be heard, and will be heard, and I can vote on any and all subjects that may come up, according to what I believe is right, without dictation from any one. If I go to the Senate, you will know I am there, for I will go there to work for your good. I will perhaps be in a minority, but that will not deter me from faithfully discharging my duty, as I have often won out on minority reports. Respectfully,

W. W. WADSWORTH.

JEMISON.

Jemison, Ala., Oct. 29, 1906.

Editor Union:

After reading so many good letters in the good old Union I thought I would try and write some again.

There was a beautiful wedding at the home of Mrs. Bristow last Wednesday. The contracting parties were Mr. W. H. Williams, who is a lumber inspector for the Louisville and Nashville railroad, a man of sterling worth, and Miss Cora Bristow, one of Jemison's charming girls. The decorations were lovely and the wedding presents were numerous. We wish them health and happiness on the matrimonial voyage on the sea of life. Madam Rumor says we will have another one soon.

Miss Silsby Bristow left Saturday for a long visit with relatives and friends at Bay Minette. We have lost one of our sweetest girls.

Miss Toland gave a musical concert last Friday night. It was a grand success and was enjoyed by all. Miss Toland is an accomplished music teacher.

Ensley Lowery paid home folks a pleasant visit Sunday and to the delight of his friends.

Mrs. L. H. Hand is at home, to the delight of her many friends, after spending a long visit at Bay Minette.

W. G. Hand was shaking hands with friends here last week.

Miss Laura Bean has returned home from Birmingham.

Misses Rena Adams and Mattie Hand are on a visit to Birmingham.

Quite a nice little entertainment for the "Sunbeams" was given last week by Miss Patton. It was enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served. The little "Sunbeams'" faces were made brighter by having spent a few hours with such a sweet hostess.

Mrs. J. B. Caysel and Master Sam are on a visit to Montgomery.

Misses Estelle and Inez Moore made a flying visit to Clanton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Harper gave a crochet party last week, which was enjoyed by all.

We are sorry to say little Miss Gladys Sims has been very sick with neumonia, but is convalescing.

Everybody is busy getting through their year's work preparing for better work for the next. Thus should we live better each day, try to do better today than we did yesterday, to make life happier and more fair for those whole lives are crowded with care, to help lift them from their low despair.

With best wishes for the good old Union and its many readers.

"BILL DOOLEY."

HURRAH FOR DAKE.

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 30, 1906.

Editor Union:

I wish to say to my friends that it has come to my attention that reports were being made that I had changed my Populist principles. I wish to say it is utterly false. I do not think I could change them if I wanted to, which I do not under any consideration, and I think I must have been born a Republican, as my first recollection of taking any part in politics was when I was six years old, marching in the ranks of the old Whigs and shouting hurrah for Clay and Frelinghisen. So I hope none of my friends will believe the report, as I was one of the few who dared to organize the Populist party here. I did not for a moment consider whether it was going to be popular or not, but I endorsed the action and that was enough for me. Let us roll up the biggest vote this time we have ever done for state and county. Success to The nion.

A. J. DAKE.

Public Speaking.

The people are hereby invited to come out and attend public speaking at the following places and dates:

Thorsby, Thursday, November 1, 7 p. m.
Enterprise (Beat 6), Friday, November 2, 10 a. m.
Mt. Creek (Beat 5), Friday, November 2, 7 p. m.
Clanton, Saturday, November 3, 10 a. m.

A division of time is hereby offered to the opposition.

Ex-Congressman M. W. Howard, Judge A. P. Longshore and other prominent speakers will be on hand.

Come and hear the issues of the day presented as they affect the interest of the people.

There will be music.

Ladies are especially invited.

tf PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

A GOOD LETTER.

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 3... 06

Editor Union:

Please allow me a little ... in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to the ticket that we have nominated. I don't think we could have beat it, although there were some good men defeated, but defeat does not rob a good man of principle; so all of the good ones will support the ticket. I want to say, as an individual, that I could not have been better pleased than I am, as it seems like we got the choice of the people. I see a piece in the Banner that is claimed to have been written in Autauga county that is charging that Mr. Middleton and Mr. Smith with trying to organize Democratic clubs three years ago. I am satisfied that those two men did everything that they could honorably to purify the party of their daddies, but when they saw it was going to remain in rottenness, they began to look for something that was already pure, and they saw that thing in the Republican party, which my honest eyes can see.

The Banner man asks what's the matter with Gulledge? The people all over the county are asking the same question. One thing that's the matter is he could not speak with Middleton and left the state to see if he would not feel better; we hope he is feeling better by this time. Wonder if he carried his little platform with him. It is righteous to hear him read that little document; he tries to make it sound like a Republican platform to catch votes from our side, but we have seen Democratic platforms before; they are the party of platforms. We call them factionerats, as every member of the party has a platform of his own, except some that are sneaking along on a cold track trying to please the bosses. I hope all in reach of Clanton will come out on Nov. 3; we will hear something. Yours for Republicanism.

J. C. RIGGINS.

PROGRAM SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The annual convention of District No. 5 will be held at Corinth church, five miles east of Verbena, the second Sunday, November 11, 1906.

9:45 a. m.—Devotional exercises, D. L. Jones.

Singing led by A. L. Robinson.

10:00.—President's report, D. S. Robinson.

Secretary's report, Miss Lila Meriwether.

10:20.—"The Influence of the Sunday School," P. M. Jones.

10:40.—"What Is Needed in My Sunday School," W. L. Pyron, J. F. Williams, John Norris, W. H. Strock, Cato Patillo, W. C. Rich, Zeb Mims, E. L. Jones, Joseph Mims and D. S. Robinson.

11:30.—Address by Judge Joseph Carthel, State Secretary.

1:15 p. m.—Devotional exercises, Dr. H. W. Caffey.

1:30 p. m.—"Music in the Sunday School," T. L. Robinson.

2 p. m.—Discussion of "Primary Work," Mrs. Agnes Farr, Miss Maggie Long, Miss Alice Strock, Miss Dora Sims, Mrs. D. L. Robinson, Mrs. M. B. Baldwin.

2:30.—"The Sunday School as a Field of Training", A. L. Harris.

3 p. m.—"A Well Organized Sunday School," Judson Strock.

It is earnestly hoped that every Sunday school in Beats 5 and 10 will be represented at this convention.

D. S. ROBINSON.
tf LILA MERIWETHER.

SPECIAL NONTICE.

When you are in the city of Jemison call at the new barber shop, corner Cotton Belt street and Second avenue. E. M. RAY. tf

NOTICE. ..

For sale, four fine meat hogs, three years old. Call on Jess Burnett, Jemison, Route 4. tf

ALL-DAY SINGING.

There will be an all-day singing at Mount Moriah the fourth Sunday in October. Everybody is invited to come and bring their song books and baskets. We will use the following books: "Singing for Joy," "Songs of Triumph," "Windows of Heaven," "All in All Songs." J. F. LOWERY.
tf

The Field of Sports.

Coaches have called out Yale and Princeton squads for opening practice of football season.

The new football rules make it more difficult to kill an opponent, and, therefore, add to the excitement of the game.

The Chicago American League nine defeated the Chicago Nationals four out of seven games and won the world's championship.

Statement of the condition of the THORSBY SAVINGS BANK, located at Thorsby, Ala., at the Close of Business October 10, 1906.

RESOURCES.		LIABILITIES.
Loans and discounts	$11,780.46	Capital stock paid in	$10,000.00
Overdrafts	17.71	Surplus fund	57.94
Furniture and Fixtures	668.50	Undivided profits, less current expenses and taxes paid	644.35
Other real estate	3,303.10	Individual deposits subject to check	6,476.42
Due from banks and bankers in this State	1,537.93	Demand certificates	362.50
Due from banks and bankers in other States	2,036.03	Time certificates	3,150.31
Currency (about)	933.00	Cashier's checks	153.36
Gold	117.50
Silver, nickels and pennies (about)	308.80
Checks and cash items	141.85
Total	$20,844.88	Total	$20,844.88

THE STATE OF ALABAMA—Chilton County.

Before me came I. S. Gerald, President of Thorsby Savings Bank, who, being duly sworn, says that the above and foregoing statement is a true condition of said bank as shown by the books on file in said bank.

I. S. GERALD.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 18th day of October, 1906.

E. F. MEAD,
N. P., and Ex. Off. J. P.

Closing Out Sale!

We will close out the entire stocks of SHOES and CLOTHING that we bought of J. W. Smith and J. E. Littlejohn, AT COST AND BELOW—FOR CASH ONLY.

Ladies' coarse Shoes	$ .75 for $ .50
Ladies' coarse Shoes	$1.15 for $ .90
Ladies' coarse Shoes	$1.35 for $1.00
Ladies' coarse Shoes	$1.50 for $1.20
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$1.50 for $1.35
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$1.75 for $1.50
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$2.75 for $1.88
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$3.00 for $2.75
Men's Fine Hats	$1.00 for $ .90
Men's Fine Hats	$1.50 for $1.15
Men's Fine Hats	$1.75 for $1.40
Men's Fine Hats	$3.00 for $2.50
Men's Coats	$1.00
Men's Underwear, heavy	$ .50 for $ .40
Men's Underwear, heavy	$ .75 for $ .50
Ladies' Underwear, heavy	$ .40 for $ .25
Ladies' Underwear, heavy	$ .60 for $ .40
Men's Fine Shirts	$1.00 for $ .75
Men's Fine Shirts	$1.25 for $ .98
20 pounds Good Coffee for	$1.00

Many other SPECIAL BARGAINS too numerous to mention. We handle all kinds of Grain and Feed Stuff. See us, we can SAVE you MONEY. We WANT all kinds of COUNTRY PRODUCE.

COOPER BROS.

Clanton, Alabama.

Thorsby, Alabama

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. HORN
LICENSED PHARMACIST.
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

Thorsby Winery Co.
Lofthus & Brunberg, Props.

Thorsby Real Estate Co.
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, Pres.
G. H. GERALD, Sec.
G. C. MICHELSON, Treas.

OLAF SCHIVE,
Watchmaker & Jeweler
FRANZEN. BUILDING
Full line of watches jewelry, etc. Repair work guaranteed.

A. Langville & Son
Blacksmith and Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BUGGIES.

P. C. SMITH
Brown Leghorn Fowls and Eggs.
BERKSHIRE PIGS

The Thorsby Inn
G. C. Michelson, Prop.
Good Beds and Meals.

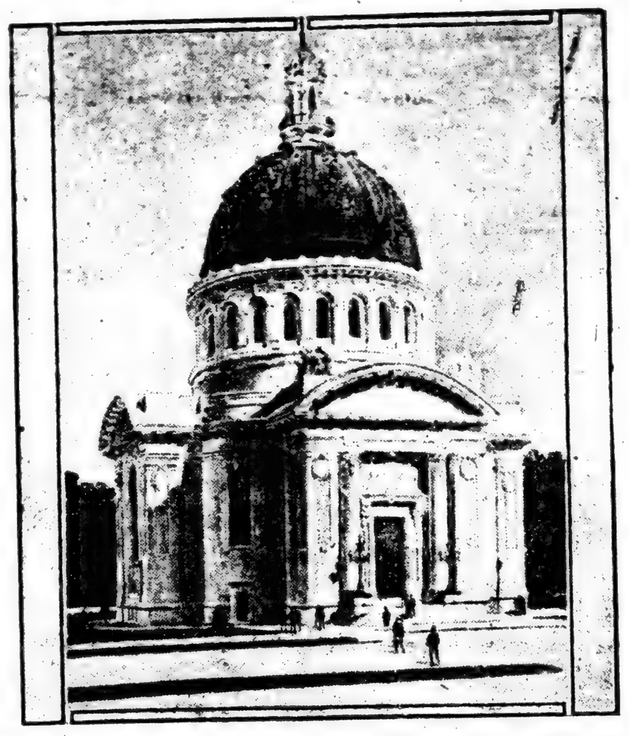
J. J. Stanley
General Merchandise.

MRS. MARY R. RASBERRY
General Merchandise.

J. BICE
Charcoal Ovens.

It Pays, An Ad In This Paper

Chapel For Naval Cadets.



DESIGN OF THE NEW CHAPEL TO BE ERECTED AT THE NAVAL ACADEMY, ANNAPOLIS.

Ernest Flagg, Architect.

Breath Drawings.

Some curious experiments may be made with the breath. On a pane of glass, or a mirror that has not been polished just beforehand, trace a figure, or a letter, or a name, with your finger; nothing will be visible. But breathe on the glass, and the tracing will at once appear.

Now, on a freshly polished plate of metal or glass, place a coin. After a few moments remove the coin, and nothing will be seen on the surface, but breathe on it where the coin was lying, and an image of it will appear. If you polish the coin instead of the metal or glass, the same effect will be produced when you breathe on the surface.

If you have a plate of glass that has been against an engraving for several years, breathe on that side of it, and the lines of the engraving will become visible. This may fail sometimes, but rarely.

Traceries on the Glass.

Does all this sound like magic? The explanation is a natural one. On the surface of all solids a layer of gas, vapor and fine dust gathers. When you polish the object, the layer is removed, or it is altered by the contact of other solids. If the object is breathed upon, the breath condenses more easily on some parts than it does on others, according to the condition or state of this layer, and therefore any marks made on it will become visible.—New York Mail.

Another "Devil" Legend.

Why is the printer's errand boy called the "printer's devil?" A writer at the end of the seventeenth century explained it thus: "These boys in a printing house commonly black and dawb themselves; whence the workmen do jocosely call them devils: and sometimes spirits, and sometimes flies." It is related, however, that Aldo Manuzio, the great Venetian printer of the fifteenth century, had a black slave boy, who was popularly supposed to have come from below. Accordingly he published a notice: "I, Aldo Manuzio, printer to the Doge, have this day made public exposure of the printer's devil. All who think he is not flesh and blood may come and pinch him."

Foldable Milking Stool and Pail Holder.

A very convenient device for the farm has recently been invented by a resident of Iowa. It consists of a milking stool which can be folded when not in use, and a pail holder attached to the stool, which can be adjusted to suit the convenience of the user. The frame for the pail consists of a spring clasp, which permits the pail to be inclined toward the cow, is desired, or moved to an upright position to prevent spilling the milk. The pail is held in the position at which it is set by the frictional contact of the clasp.—Scientific American.

Puttees For Women.

Spiral puttees, shaped so as to wind from ankle to knee without any turns and twists, are an English novelty.

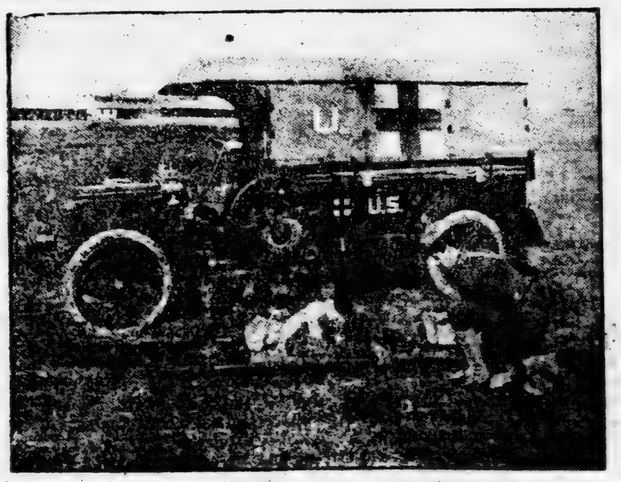
They are made in colors to match the costume. Worn with spats, they are a valuable item in a woman's outing equipment.—New York Sun.

The King's Welsh.

The King, who was Prince of Wales for a longer period than any of his predecessors, is said to speak a few words of Welsh. There is a story told of a Chicago girl, the daughter of a millionaire, who, in the days before his Majesty had ascended the throne, had determined to visit England. A friend found her studying Welsh, and in reply to a question the girl said: "I'm going to be presented to the Prince of Wales when I'm in London, and I should like to be able to speak to him in his real native language."—St. James' Gazette.



NEW UNITED STATES ARMY AMBULANCE IN ACTION.

WOMAN'S REALMS

The Uses of Man's Inconsistency.

Once a woman is absolutely dead certain of a man's undying devotion all effort is at an end. From the moment the conviction establishes itself in her mind that her husband will never change she ceases waving her hair, and relapses into any old rag of a teagown when dining alone with him. If it were not for the inconstancy of man every woman would be a hopeless frump.—Ladies' Field.

Wedding Card Etiquette.

The one general rule that applies to all invitations or announcements is, "Answer in the same way in which they are sent"—that is to say, if you get a card, send a card; if you get a note, answer with a note. If the invitation is written in the third person so should the response be.

The simplest form of cards for persons whose means are limited or those who wish to have a quiet or informal wedding is the "announcement," and it is for this reason that the custom of sending them is increasing season by season. The form reads always, in the case of a girl, that "Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so announce the marriage of their daughter (or niece) Mary Ellen So-and-so to Mr. James Edward Smith at such and such a church (or home address) on a date mentioned."

Education Not Wanted.

"How common it used to be, when a college girl married, to hear people exclaim: 'What a pity they wasted a college education on her!'" a married college woman was saying the other day. "But I haven't heard it lately so much, and maybe the idea is slowly dying out. There was a time when even the college graduate herself felt that her home offered little scope for her acquirements in chemistry, sociology and so on. She knows better now. Besides, not a few married college women make considerable money as a result of their college training. Many write, some are engaged as professionals in charity work, some teach in schools and colleges, and others assist their husbands in their professions. But the public and the college graduate alike seem to have waked up to the fact that the domestic career in itself offers a wide scope both for study and action."

What the Alpine Hat Means.

If the turban is the maiden aunt among hats, the harsh Alpine is the blatant woman's righter. Beware the woman who wears an Alpine. She has sharp elbows and a sharper tongue, and she will jostle you in a crowd, or render you uncomfortable in the street car with a sang froid born of selfishness and the belief that all the world and all that is therein was made to accommodate itself to her wishes. The woman of the Alpine hat suspects everyone of wishing to cheat and deceive her, and she harangues the ticket agent and the conductor with a freedom and earnestness that is only equaled by their rage. Yet she is not wholly to blame, for this state of mind is unquestionably caused by the hat. After she has been cajoled into buying an Alpine and she has seen what she looks like in it, she naturally feels bitter, and tries to avenge her wrongs on the rest of the world. The Alpine is the last evolution of the hat unbecoming, the hat uncomfortable and the hat abominable. Until you have knocked its stiff brim against the car seat all during a hurried, touristical continental trip, you do not know what real misery even remotely resembles. A bas l'Alpine!—Sophie Kerr Underwood, in the Woman's Home Companion.

Don't Talk About It.

If you are not well, don't talk about it. To do so only exaggerates your consciousness of physical discomfort. Also it casts a shadow of gloom over other people. They grow hesitant about asking you how you feel; it gives them the cold chills to be continually told that you are "not very well," or "not so well," or "about the same."

Probably you've said these things so often that you say them now as a matter of course. It seems incredible to you by now that you should ever feel really well, because you've unconsciously made a habit to be ailing.

Do you know that a good deal of this is imagination? If you braced up and told people cheerfully that you feel tip-top nine chances in ten you would feel tip-top pretty soon. You'd forget the ailing habit.

And after all what great difference does it make, to any but your nearest and dearest, if you don't feel well? Suppose you are even hampered by downright physical ills? Your work must be done just the same. It can't be? What nonsense! Of course it can.

Consider the splendid people who have conquered desperate ills in order to get their work done. The woman who has something to do doesn't have time to complain of not feeling well.—McCall's.

The Baby's Health.

While outdoor air and exercise is necessary for a baby, great discretion should be used as to whether the day is a suitable one for the child to be taken out. If the air is damp and raw, or if there is a northeast wind, it should on no account be taken out. A soft west wind can do no harm, neither can your baby suffer from a strong south wind if its mouth is kept shut.

It is also unwise to let a baby play under the scorching rays of the midsummer sun.

When talking to a baby always speak as naturally as if addressing an intelligent being and do not use the ridiculous nonsense words frequently heard being spoken to children. If you pronounce the words correctly they will become accustomed to the correct manner of speaking and will learn to say the words properly, but in their own sweet baby way.

The mother who plays with and amuses her little ones will not grow old, neither will she grow that wearied, discontented expression too frequently seen on the faces of those mothers who say they have no time to waste with their children. It is not time thrown away to be playmate as well as mother as comes as the years go on to the loving and confidante of her child.—New Haven Register.

Dressing by Mail.

In these rapid transit days when life is so full that every moment is precious, it is not surprising that the fashionable women have taken to "dressing by mail." Their method of accomplishing this once impossible feat are very interesting.

There are certain enterprising dealers who make hats for hundreds of women customers whom they have never seen personally. Everybody knows that the white woman's burden is the bi-yearly agony of buying on hats. They are waited upon by a clerk who knows nothing of millinery, and whose only duty is to sell something. The clerk turns over the order to another woman, who in turn gives it to a third, and finally the customer finally gets the hat—the original idea has vanished.

But the mail order hat is different. You merely send your photograph, head measurements, a lock of your hair and a piece of the gown to be matched to the milliner. These are handed directly to the head milliner together with your instructions describing yourself and your taste. The price you are willing to pay is also stated in the letter. When the hat is before her, the milliner makes the hat on fashionable and artistic lines, giving it individuality and suiting it to your face and style of head dress. The result is nearly always perfectly satisfactory.

Most of the fashionable modistes in Paris have in their rooms a model of the figure of their regular patrons. These casts are changed as often as the woman grows stouter or thinner, and changes the make of her corsets. She has only to send samples of the various materials she desires used and the gown is forthcoming in a few days, no matter in what part of the world she may happen to be. And when it fits to a button-hole. One dealer with a sense of humor has named this new way of dressing the "mail sartorial treatment."—New York Press.

Plaid serges, too, will be in the picture in materials.

Plaid velvets are seen as well as silks and woolen goods.

Children, and grown-ups, too, wear plaids of every description.

Blue and green [illegible] a combination in the [illegible].

On tourist, walking and [illegible] coats, velvet collars are [illegible] used.

Satin or velvet ribbons and ganzes are the [illegible] new season.

Many of the [illegible] are to order and look [illegible] found among them.

A fetching red hat for a little son has a flat crown of [illegible] full floppy brim of [illegible].

Of the pretty buttons for black and dark coats, those with metal centres and gilt rims are attractive.

Jacqueminot red in a variety of shades, which is a [illegible] suits and gowns, is [illegible] hosiery.

Palest pink chiffon striped with widely-separated large black dots is among the charming [illegible] automobiling.

Whole gowns are made of cloth of silk; walking suits [illegible] of braid stuffs, and the fascinating blouses seen in a [illegible] are of taffeta silk, showing [illegible] of the various class.

Sun pleated effects are [illegible] coming to the slender, youthful figure, and a bodice and skirt in this graceful mode makes a most attractive afternoon frock for a young girl.

T UP HER HEALTH
W CURE OF MISS GOODE
Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Gratefully to Mrs. Pinkham.

e wonderful help that she has Miss Cora Goode, 255 E. Chicago Chicago, Ill., believes it her write the following letter for tion, in order that other women in the same way may be so as she was. Miss Goode is nt of the Hryn Mawr Lawn Club of Chicago. She writes:

Miss Cora Goode

Pinkham:—
ried many different remedies to my system, which had become run down loss of proper rest and nourishment, but nothing seemed to help me rs, but nothing seemed to help me a great advocate of Lydia E. Pinkham's getable Compound for female trouving used it herself some years ago eat success. So I began to take it, than a month I was able to be out and out of doors, and in three months entirely well. Really I have never felt and well as I have since."

ther medicine has such a record of female troubles as has Lydia kham's Vegetable Compound.

en who are troubled with pain- irregular periods, backache, g (or flatulence), displacement ns, inflammation or ulceration, restored to perfect health trength by taking Lydia E. m's Vegetable Compound.

Pinkham invites all sick women e her for advice. She has guided nde to health. Her experience great, and she gives the benefit all who stand in need of wise . She is the daughter-in-law of E. Pinkham and for twenty-five has been advising sick women charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Baker gives a list of twenty-Scotch kings, beginning with n (1057) and ending with VI, who ascended the throne t Britain as James I.

HICKS' CAPUDINE CURES ALL ACHES And Nervousness
Trial bottle 10c At drug stores

Standard Quality
Snowdrift
HOGLESS LARD
THE PRIDE OF THE SOUTH
Made Under U.S. Government Inspection
Southern Cotton Oil Company

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 & $3.00 Shoes
BEST IN THE WORLD
Equals $4 Gilt Edge line unequalled at any price

FOR EVERYBODY AT ALL PRICES.
Men's $2 to $3.50. Boys' Shoes, $2
Women's Shoes, $2.00 to $3.50.
Children's Shoes, $2.25 to $3.00.
W. L. Douglas Women's, Misses and Children's shoes: for style, fit and wear they excel other makes.
I would take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you carefully W. L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than any other make.
Wherever you live, you can obtain W. L. Douglas shoes. His name and price is stamped on the bottom, which protects you against high prices and inferior shoes. Take no substitute. If your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes cannot supply you, write for mail order catalog, stating kind of shoes you want. Please mention this paper. If you cannot procure them from your dealer, write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Dept. 15, Brockton, Mass.

WOMAN'S REALMS

tion should be used in d whether the day is a suitable for the child to be taken out.
If the air is damp and misty there is a northeast wind it should on no account be soft west wind can do no neither can your baby suffer strong south wind if its nos kept shut

It is also unwise to let it under the scorching rays of summer sun.

When talking to a young speak as naturally as if add an intelligent being, and do the ridiculous nonsense we quently hear being spoken to
If you pronounce the words p they will become accustomed correct manner of speaking will learn to say the words p but in their own sweet baby

The mother who plays wi amuses her little ones will grow old, neither will she that wearied, discontented sion too frequently seen on th of those mothers who say they no time to waste with the b
It is not time thrown away, fo dren very soon begin to notice and she who has allowed her be playmate as well as moth comes as the years go on the and confidante of her child
New Haven Register.

Dressing by Mail.

In these rapid transit days,
life is so full that every mom precious, it is not surprising th
the fashionable women have ta
"dressing by mail." Their m of accomplishing this once i ble feat are very interesting.

There are certain enterpris liners who make hats for hu of women customers whom the never seen personally. Every knows that the white woman den is the bi-yearly agony of on hats. They are waited upo clerk who knows nothing of millinery, and whose only du sell something. The clerk tra the order to another woman turn gives it to a third, and the customer finally gets the original idea has vanished.

But the mail order hat is
ent. You merely send your graph, head measurements, a your hair and a piece of the g be matched to the milliner.
are handed directly to the he liner together with your le scribing yourself and your
The price you are willing to also stated in the letter. Wi before her, the milliner mak hat on fashionable and artist giving it individuality and your face and style of head d
The result is nearly always ly satisfactory.

Most of the fashionable m in Paris have in their rooms the figure of their regular These casts are changed woman grows stouter or les changes the make of her cors has only to send samples of t terials she desires used and th is forthcoming in a few days, ter in what part of the wo may happen to be. And it fits to a button-hole. One with a sense of humor has this new way of dressing the sartorial treatment."—New Press.

Plaid serges, too, will be ture in materials.

Plaid velvets are seen as silks and woolen goods.

Children, and grown-ups,
wear plaids of every descript

Blue and green predomin a combination in this season's

On tourist, walking and ha coats, velvet collars are a g used.

Satin or velvet striped s ja'kets are one of the revival new season.

Many of the jackets are coat order and loose little c found among them.

A fetching red hat for a li son has a flat crown of velve full flappy brim of gay plaid

Of the pretty buttons fo
black and dark coats, those w metal centres and gilt rims a five.

Jacqueminot red in a va shades, which is a late c suits and gowns, is char hosiery.

Palest pink chiffon ov widely-separated large black dots is among the charming automobiling.

Whole gowns are made cloth or silk, walking suits a of braid stuffs, and the m cinating blouses, soon in a h are of taffeta silk, showing t
of the various plans.

Sun pleated effects are coming to the slender, youth ure, and a bodice and skir graceful mode makes a gir attractive afternoon frock young girl.

T UP HER HEALTH

Y CURE OF MISS GOODE

ote Well by Lydia E. Pink-Vegetable Compound, and uccessfully to Mrs. Pinkham.

wonderful help that she has
Miss Cora Goode, 258 E. Chicago
Chicago, Ill., believes it her write the following letter for
, in order that other women in the same way may be

Miss Cora Goode

as she was. Miss Goode is of the Bryn Mawr Lawn
Club of Chicago. She writes:

Pinkham:

tried many different remedies to my system, which had become run loss of proper rest and unreasonbut nothing seemed to help me.
a great advocate of Lydia E. Pink-Vegetable Compound for female trou-ly used it here if some years ago great success. So I began to take it, than a month I was able to be out of doors, and in three months nearly well. Really I have never felt well as I have since."

other medicine has such a record female troubles as has Lydia
ham's Vegetable Compound.

men who are troubled with pain-irregular periods, backache, ing (or flatulence), displacement inflammation or ulceration, restored to perfect health strength by taking Lydia E.
ham's Vegetable Compound.

Pinkham invites all sick women her for advice. She has guided ds to health. Her experience great and she gives the benefit all who stand in need of wise
She is the daughter-in-law of E. Pinkham and for twenty-five has been advising sick women charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

ster gives a list of twenty-Stock kings, beginning with (1057) and ending with
VI. who ascended the throne
Britain as James I."

HICKS'
CAPUDINE
CURES
ALL ACHES
And Nervousness
Trial bottle 10c. At drug stores

Standard Quality
Snowdrift
EDGLESS
LARD
THE PRIDE OF THE SOUTH
Made Under U.S.
Government Inspection
Southern Cotton Oil Company

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3.50 & $3.00 Shoes
BEST IN THE WORLD
Value $4 Gilt Edge line
Extraordinary Price

FOR EVERYBODY AT ALL PRICES.
Men's $2 to $1.50 Boys' Shoes, $2
W. L. Douglas $4 Shoes, $4.00 to $1.50.
W. L. Douglas Children's Shoes $2.00 to $1.00.
W. L. Douglas Women's, Misses and Children's Shoes for style, fit and wear excel other makes.
Name and price stamped on bottom.
Factory at Brockton, Mass., and show rooms. If you live where I am not carefully W. L. Douglas shoes are sold, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than any other make.
Wherever you live, you can obtain W. L.
Douglas shoes. His name and price is stamped on the bottom, which protects you against high prices and inferior shoes. Take no substitute
Write for your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes
If your dealer cannot supply you, send order direct to factory, enclosing advertised price, or if you prefer shoes somewhat different from those you will not wear brassy.
Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Dept. 15, Brockton, Mass.

THE YOUNG ARCHITECT.

Trials of a Pioneer Artist in the Rural Districts.

Among the graduates that every year leave an architectural school are the lone plucky fellows who elect to start out of their own will and set up shop for themselves. Of this small body of the plucky there is a hardier and pluckier figure yet—a figure who might inspire a novel all to himself—a figure it is not impossible to conceive of as sublime in his way. He goes from his school to the small town inland, where the first national banker desires turned gewgaws laid all over his front porch, and the grocer asks for an oriel window in his kitchen. There he battles with these people's earnest but absurd wants, battles for his high ideals, battles for the small fees that everybody is surprised at his asking, as if the poor fellow had not enough to do to battle successfully with the difficulties that go along with any effort at realizing on paper and afterward in brick and stone the ideas that germinate in the head, so beautiful and so hard to express.

Beautiful designs he makes and not costly. They only bewilder these good people, or perhaps insult them with suggestions of matters beyond their comprehension. And the good people go across the street to Jones, carpenter-architect. Jones has always been able to draw plans for the new summer kitchen or the new gable on the roof. Jones will know exactly what they want. Church committees get up unfair competitions, as they always do; and the young graduate labors nights, and draws a handsome Tudor Gothic chapel, with a door in his best manner and all the detail in key. His plan only stupefies the committee, and the contract goes to Jones, whom the committee had in mind all along.

So the poor fellow works on. He has to create his market before he can sell it his goods. Meanwhile the tailor scowls at him from across the street. His landlady becomes an oppressive personality. The walls of his office come to be plastered with his rejected perspectives. He views them fondly of a morning as he opens shop, stares out of his cobwebbed window, and wonders if he shall ever teach these people what art really is.

If he sticks and waits, his day comes. It has come to other good waiters and stickers before him. At last Banker Banks consents to let him have his hand free and go ahead with plans for a pretty house in Old English style. "By gad, that is pretty!" he has to admit when the thing is finished. The same noble thought suddenly occurs to Grocer Billings one Sunday afternoon, passing the Bangs mansion. He instantly wants something like it, only nicer. An epidemic of Old English is started. And so Caleb Waite, architect, though now with a few gray hairs about his temples, has at last instructed his public and gained his day.—Indoors and Out.

WISE WORDS.

A man may build a palace, but he can never make of it a home. The spirituality and love of a woman alone can accomplish this.

If we are contented to unfold the life within, according to the pattern given us, we shall reach the highest end of which we are capable.

By proper training the depressing emotions can be practically eliminated from life and the good emotions rendered permanently dominant.

Tens of thousands of people fail because they love their ease too much. They are not willing to put themselves out to sacrifice comfort.

Every time you crowd into the memory what you do not expect it to retain, you weaken its powers, and you lose your authority to command its services.

No life amounts to much until it has a program—something definite, something particular. Nothing else can take the place of it. Education cannot, talent cannot, genius cannot, hard work cannot. Until there is a definite aim, the energies will run to waste, the ability be squandered. The faculties deteriorate when working without a definite aim.

Business is not only a great civilizer of nations and of peoples, but also the greatest educator and developer of character in the world, for it is a perpetual school, a great life university where we do not go to recite and hear lectures for three or four hours a day for a few years, but where we are constantly studying and practicing, almost from the cradle to the grave.—Success.

The Passing of the Great Editor.

The immensely large capital now required for the conduct of a daily newspaper in a great city has had important consequences. It has made the newspaper more of an institution, less of a personal organ. Men no longer designate journals by the owner's or editor's name. It used to be Bryant's paper, or Greeley's paper, or Raymond's, or Bennett's. Now it is simply Times, Herald, Tribune, and so on. No single personality can stamp itself upon the whole organism. It is too vast. It is a great piece of property, to be administered with skill: it is a carefully planned organization which best produces the effect when the personalities of those who work for it are swallowed up. The individual withers, but the newspaper is more and more. Journalism becomes impersonal. There are no more "great editors," but there is a finer esprit de corps, better "team play," an institution more and more firmly established and able to justify itself.—Rollo Ogden, in the Atlantic.

THE STING OF THE SCORPION.

Mischief Making Qualities of a North African Species.

Though the sting of a scorpion in temperate climates is painful, it is not regarded dangerous. In tropical and semi-tropical countries it often produces alarming symptoms, probably because the creature which inflicts the injury belongs to a more dangerous species of the family than is found in colder regions. A French physician, Dr. Gros, who has had much experience in Algeria, describes a case which came under his notice. The New York Medical Journal finds the particulars in a foreign periodical.

A robust farmer, while lying in bed, was stung on the foot by a scorpion which was about as long as his middle finger. He instantly felt a pain which he likened to a "ball mounting to his heart." He was unable to step, fell down on his bed, and was overtaken by violent nausea.

During the entire day the man could eat nothing, though he had no difficulty in swallowing. He complained of dryness and stiffness of the throat, but was not very thirsty. His breathing was particularly painful and embarrassed. For the whole day and the following night he was extremely feeble and restless and could not sleep.

On the following morning the man was brought to Dr. Gros. His face was then pale, his eyes were fixed and haggard, and the upper part of his countenance was motionless, but he was constantly executing the movements of chewing and swallowing without opening his mouth. His gait was uncertain and he tumbled upon a chair rather than seated himself. His speech was slow and embarrassed, though he answered questions intelligently in spite of his stupid appearance.

Among the other effects were a great quickening of the pulse and breathing, and a remarkable contraction of the pupils of the eye. Still the eyesight was not impaired, even temporarily, and there was no disturbance of the other organs.

The man was treated with a serum invented by Dr. Calmette, a Frenchman, for fighting snake poison. He eventually recovered, but might not have done so had any other course been pursued.

"Keeping alive that spirit of youth," Stevenson used to say, was "the perennial spring of all the mental faculties."

The probable existence of a large planet beyond Neptune was pointed out by Prof. George Forbes a quarter of a century ago.

A Good Record.

Out of all the external remedies on the market we doubt if there is one that has the record of that world-renowned porous plaster—Allcock's. It has now been in use for sixty years, and still continues to be as popular as ever in doing its great work of relieving our pains and aches. It is the remedy we all need when suffering from any form of ache or pain resulting from taking cold or over-strain.

Allcock's Plasters are sold by druggists in every part of the civilized world.

A species of bee called the "cloth-lex" covers its nest of eggs with a cloth made from the woody fiber of plants, and thus preserves its young from sudden changes of temperature.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle

The Chinaman's Ear His Purse.

"Just watch that Chinaman when the conductor comes for his fare," said a keen-eyed man to the fat man who was wedged in beside him on an "L" train. The two watched, saw the Chinaman clap his hand to his ear for a second and then hand the conductor a nickel. "Well, I did not see anything unusual," observed the fat man, "except that he kept the conductor waiting while he scratched his ear." "That was just the point," explained the keen-eyed man. "He had to scratch his ear to get his money. Chinamen keep their carfare in their ears, sometimes a ten-cent piece and sometimes a nickel. I've watched them dig it out time and time again. It's a more convenient place for carrying change than in their trousers pockets, for they'd be ages getting into their voluminous draperies. It's a good sight better habit, too, than holding coins between one's teeth, which you see pretty girls doing every day."—New York Correspondence Pittsburg Dispatch.

Varied Attainments

"One of the most remarkable men that ever lived in Columbia," said Col. J. S. Dorsey, the other day, "was Sam Young who was a lawyer here for twelve or fifteen years before the war. He was not only a good lawyer, but one of the best actors I ever saw on the stage. He was a fine shoemaker, the best cigarmaker I ever saw and could play a violin as well as the old masters. He could make the most effective temperance speech and then a few hours afterward could be drunker than any other man in Columbia. He made an ideal prayer meeting leader and could beat anyone else in a poker game. He was the most accomplished man I ever saw."—Kansas City Star.

For three-quarters of a century Belgium has had no war.

The Farmer's Wife

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun-bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as shown by the writings of leading teachers and great pioneers of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

The greatest length of time which any bottle has been known to remain afloat is twenty-one years. A bottle containing a message, which was thrown overboard by an American sea captain off Newfoundland in 1878, was picked up off the west coast of Ireland early in 1899.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Postal facilities in China are reported to be improving through the service on fast trains between Pekin and Hankow. These are expected to make the run in thirty-six hours.

Where's the Dollar?

A gunner brought sixty ducks to a game dealer and told him to sell one lot of thirty at three ducks for $1, and the other lot of thirty at two for $1. Instead of this the storekeeper sold the whole sixty at five for $2, which brought in $24. If he had sold them as directed he would have received $10 for one lot of thirty, and $15 for the other lot of thirty, making a total of $25. The question is: What became of the missing dollar?—Philadelphia Record.

There are 11,093,469 bank depositors in England.

HAD TO USE A CANE.

Weakened Kidneys Made an Elwood, Ind., Man's Back Give Out.

R. A. Pugh, transfer business, 2020 North B Street, Elwood, Ind., says: "Kidney trouble laid me up for a long time, and when I was able to be up I had to use a cane. I had terrible backaches and pain in the shoulders. The kidney secretions were dark colored. After doctoring in vain I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Three boxes cured me entirely, and I am glad to recommend them."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Value of a Good Laugh.

Dr. Patrick Scougal, a Scottish bishop in the seventeenth century, was earnestly asked to see an old lady whose cow was sick. The prelate again and again refused, but to satisfy the old body, reluctantly agreed to go. Having seen the old lady, she wanted him to see her cow, and walking around the beast he said gravely, "If she lives she lives, if she dies she dies. I can dae nae mair for her."

In a short time afterwards the bishop was afflicted with a quinsy in the throat. The good, honest woman hearing of it, and feeling he had cured her cow, got permission to see him in his chamber. She walked around the bed repeating the words of the bishop when he walked around the cow. At this ludicrous sight the bishop was seized with a fit of laughing which broke the quinsy and saved him much suffering.

A Woman's Health

depends so much upon her functions, that the least upset of them affects her whole system. It is the little things that count, in woman's life and health. The little pains, and other symptoms of womanly disorder, soon lead up to big things,—serious pains, serious diseases. It is for just these ordinary, common, womanly troubles, that the use of a gentle, strengthening, female tonic, like

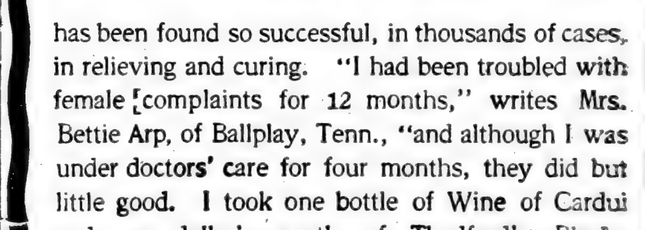
WINE OF CARDUI
Woman's Relief

has been found so successful, in thousands of cases, in relieving and curing. "I had been troubled with female complaints for 12 months," writes Mrs. Bettie Arp, of Ballplay, Tenn., "and although I was under doctors' care for four months, they did but little good. I took one bottle of Wine of Cardui and one dollar's worth of Thedford's Black-Draught, and now I am better. I believe Cardui saved my life. We are poor people, but I shall always keep it in the house." It relieves woman's worst pains and regulates fitful functions. Try it.

At All Druggists in $1.00 Bottles

WRITE US FREELY

and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling all your troubles, and stating age. We will send you FREE ADVICE, in plain sealed envelope, and a valuable 64-page Book on "HOME TREATMENT FOR WOMEN." Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn. GH55



Don't Suffer
all night long from toothache neuralgia or rheumatism
Sloan's Liniment
kills the pain — quiets the nerves and induces sleep
At all dealers. Price 25c 50c & $1.00
Dr. Earl S. Sloan, Boston, Mass. U.S.A.

In ancient times the Russian plains were practically unknown to the civilized world. It was called Scythia and its peoples were spoken of as wild Scythian or Sarrathian tribes.

Austria is the sixth nation in wealth.

SKIN ERUPTIONS 35 YEARS.

Suffered Severely With Eczema All Over Body—A Thousand Thanks to Cuticura Remedies.

"For over thirty-five years I was a severe sufferer from eczema. The eruption was not confined to any one place. It was all over my body, limbs, and even on my head. I am sixty years old and an old soldier, and have been examined by the Government Board over fifteen times, and they said there was no cure for me. I have taken all kinds of medicine and have spent large sums of money for doctors, without avail. A short time ago I decided to try the Cuticura Remedies, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, and two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, two treatments in all, I am now well and completely cured. A thousand thanks to Cuticura. I cannot speak too highly of the Cuticura Remedies. John T. Roach, Richmondale, Ross Co., Ohio, July 17, 1905."

Austria is a common name for the eastern part of any kingdom.

Magna Charter (the Great Charter), England's "Declaration of Independence," was wrested from King John by the British barons in 1215; absolutism then ended and Britain hass ince been a limited monarchy, except during the period of Cromwell's commonwealth.

YOU CANNOT
CURE
all inflamed, ulcerated and catarrhal conditions of the mucous membrane such as nasal catarrh, uterine catarrh caused by feminine ills, sore throat, sore mouth or inflamed eyes by simply dosing the stomach.

But you surely can cure these stubborn affections by local treatment with

Paxtine Toilet Antiseptic

which destroys the disease germs, checks discharges, stops pain, and heals the inflammation and soreness.

Paxtine represents the most successful local treatment for feminine ills ever produced. Thousands of women testify to this fact. 50 cents at druggists.

Send for Free Trial Box

THE R. PAXTON CO., Boston, Mass.

Am. 44, 1906.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

You Look Prematurely Old

Because of those ugly, grizzly, gray hairs. Use "LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER. Price, $1.00, retail.

TAX NOTICE

Assessor's and Collector's Second Round.

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes of Chilton County for the year 1906 and assessing the tax for the year 1907

Kinchelon, Beat 6, November 7, 1906.
Enterprise, Beat 6, November 8, 1906.
Pletcher, Beat 8, November 9, 1906.
Clanton Ford, until 12 m., Beat 8 November 10, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 12, 1906.
Valley Creek, Beat 8, November 13, 1906
Stanton, Beat 8, November 14, 1906.
Shoults, Beat 7, November 15, 1906.
Maplesville, Beat 7 November 16, 1906.
Benson, Beat 3, November 17, 1906.
Marcenonia, Beat 3, November 19 1906
Gentry & Cofer's Mill, Beat 2, November 20, 1906.
Haven Mill, Beat 2, November 21, 1906
Providence, Beat 2 November 22, 1906.
John Killingworth's (ill 12 m., Beat 3, November 23, 1906.
Jemison, Beat 2, November 24, 1906.
Smith's School House, Beat 1, November 26, 1906.
Mineral Springs, Beat 1, November 27, 1906.
Flint Hill, Beat 11, November 28, 1906.
Providence, Beat 10, November 29, 1906
Cormin Church Beat 10, November 30, 1906
Thorsby, Beat 9, December 3, 1906.
Clanton, Beat 4, December 4, 1906.
Cooper, Beat 10, December 5, 1906.
Verbena, Beat 5, December 6, 1906.
Mountain Creek, Beat 5, December 7, 1906
Jones Maddox's Mill, Beat 4, December 8, 1906.

When you come to assess your property, bring your deeds, as the last grand jury suggested.

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.
T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

I will be at Clanton the last 10 days in the year, commencing December 20th, 1906. All taxes not paid by January 1st, 1907, will become delinquent. Take notice of above and save extra expense. T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

Notice.

I will not attend to assessment or Tax on last 10 days of year, as such practice has become a nuisance, and the tax payers must meet me at the regular times and places, or become delinquent. L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.

THE NEW YORK WORLD.

Thrice-a-Week Edition—Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World, now that a great Presidential campaign is foreshadowed, hopes to be a better paper than it has ever been before, and it has made arrangements accordingly. Its news service covers the entire globe and it reports everything fully, promptly and accurately. It is the only newspaper, not a daily, which is as good as a daily, and which will keep you as completely informed of what is happening throughout the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes novels by the best authors in the world, novels which in book form sell for $1.50 apiece and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Union together for one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2. tf

GINNING SFASON 1906-7
We have engaged Joe and Walter Maddox to run and operate our gins for the coming season. We have the best machinery and with these men to operate it, we can guarantee entire satisfaction to those who patronize us. Bring us your cotton.
Respectfully
Chilton Warehouse & M,f,g. Company. tf.

Progress that is sure and slow is greatly undervalued in the rush and bustle of affairs in this country. That is one reason why the young man leaves the farm, explains the Boston Caltivator.

CHISOLM INDICTED

Federal Inquisitorial Body Completes Work and is Discharged.

TRUE BILLS WERE REPORTED.

Judge Jones Compliments the Men for the Arduous Work Done—Cases Brought to Their Attention.

Birmingham, Ala.—The federal grand jury has finished its work and made a report to Judge Jones. Among other indictments returned were seven against Alexander R. Chisolm, the defaulting paying teller of the First National Bank.

Four indictments are returned against Percy G. Smith, who is alleged to have aided and abetted Chisolm in the peculations. An indictment is returned also against L. L. Sims upon the same charge.

An indictment is brought against Gordon DuBose, ex-president of the First National Bank of Ensley.

At 2 o'clock it was announced that the grand jury was ready to make the report. The court had taken a recess and the judge was out at lunch. However, he returned at twenty minutes after 2 and assumed his seat on the bench. The jury filed into the court room and stood before Judge Jones, who asked them if they were ready to report.

The Report.

Foreman B. H. Cooper announced that they were and read the following report:

The Official Report.

The United States of America, Circuit Court of the United States, September Term, 1906.

To the Hon. Thomas G. Jones, Judge, Presiding:

We, the grand jurors, elected, empaneled and sworn and charged to inquire for the body of the Southern division of the Northern district of Alabama, respectfully beg leave to report that we have diligently inquired into all violations of the laws of the United States brought to our knowledge under the charge of the court and by the United States attorney, and we herewith return into open court the indictments presented by us as the result of our investigation and finding. The character of some of the cases investigated by us has been such as requires a greater occupation of time than usual for the consideration of the number of bills returned.

And now having completed the work assigned to us we respectfully ask to be discharged.

(Signed) B. H. COOPER,
Foreman of the Grand Jury.

Judge Jones replied, saying that he realized fully the exceptionally difficult nature of the cases that had been before them for consideration, and that he wished to commend them for their diligence. He said that he considered that they had set an admirable example for other juries and had acquitted themselves in a manner that reflected credit upon themselves and their country. He closed by saying that they were discharged with the thanks of the court.

Indictments Returned.

The indictments in detail were as follows:

Alexander R. Chisolm and W. L. Sims, for the violation of section 5440.
Alexander R. Chisolm, for the violation of section 5290.
Alexander R. Chisolm and Percy G. Smith, for the violation of section 5440.
Alexander R. Chisom, for the violation of section 5209.
Alexander R. Chisolm and Percy G. Smith, for the violation of section 5209.
Alexander R. Chisolm and P. G. Smith, for the violation of section 5209.
Alexander R. Chisolm and P. G. Smith, for the violation of section 5209.
Gordon DuBose, for the violation of section 5209.

Lisbon.—The house of peers passed the bill establishing the state tobacco monopoly.

Violate Safety Appliance Law.

Topeka, Kan.—Suits were filed here in the federal court against the Rock Island, Missouri Pacific, Kansas City Southern and Chicago Great Western railroads on a charge of violating the safety appliance regulation of the interstate commerce commission. The suits were brought on instructions from the United States attorney-general on complaints of the commission.

Largest Consignment of Gold.

London.—The largest consignment of gold ever shipped from South Africa arrived in London. Its value was $5,700,000.

Cordele Gives $500.

Cordele, Ga.—President Mitchell, of the Georgia commission to the Jamestown Exposition, addressed the common council and citizens of Cordel Thursday night in the interest of the Georgia building. The council appropriated $500 and the citizens will give an equal sum for the building.

The meeting was followed by a banquet at the Central Hotel, presided over by Hon. L. R. Fields.

Farmers Agree on Minimum Prices.

East St. Louis, Ill.—The following minimum price scale was adopted at the session of the American Society of Equity:

Wheat, $1; corn, 45 cents until January 1, 50 cents January 1 to April 1, 55 cents April 1 until the next meeting of the society; oats, 40 cents; cotton, 12 cents, based at New York; hogs, $6.50; cattle, $6; hay, 1.45.

With the exception of cotton, all prices are based on delivery at Chicago.

The following officers were elected:

President, J. H. Everett, Indianapolis.

Vice-president, J. B. Whiting, Interlake, N. Y.

Secretary, J. Wes Tubbs, Indianapolis.

Treasurer, J. N. Stelle, Indianapolis.

National organizer, H. B. Sherman, Greensburg, Ind.

Castro Again Attending to Duties.

New York.—Information made public here by Charles B. Figuerdo, the Venezuelan consul-general to New York, is to the effect that President Castro, who has been reported as dangerously ill, is again attending to his duties. The consul-general made the following announcement:

"I have received a cable annuncing that General Ciprano Castro has entirely recovered, having arrived at Caracas on the 24th inst. and resumed his presidential duties."

Southern Strike to Cause Another.

Knoxville, Tenn.—A special to the Sentinel from Bristol, Tenn., says machinists in the repair shops used jointly by the Southern and Norfolk and Western roads at Bristol have refused to repair the Southern railway "dead" locomotives in Bristol.

It is stated on apparently good authority that the Southern will take non-union machinists to Bristol to repair their locomotives, and if this is done the union machinists now working for the Norfolk and Western will walk out in sympathy with the Southern strikers.

The Southern has issued an embargo against Virginia and Southwestern and Norfolk and Western and other connecting lines at Bristol and freight traffic has been decreased.

Switchmen's Demands Refused.

Chicago, Ill.—The railroads informed Grand Master Hawley, of the Switchmen's Union, that the demands of the men for an eight-hour day and an increase in wages would be refused. The offer of an increase of two cents an hour, which the railroads have already made to the switchmen, was repeated, but the men were told that this was all that could be obtained. The refusal of the demands of the switchmen was also made to apply to all other organizations of railroad employes which have of late presented demands for shorter hours or increased wages. Grand Master Hawley has called a meeting of the switchmen, but no strike action will be taken until a referendum vote has been taken.

Decision Against the League.

New York.—By a decision of the appellate division of the supreme court every one of the Independence League organization candidates for the assembly, senate and congress were thrown off the ticket, and under this decision they cannot run uncer the Independence League emblem of the scales. Independence League attorney announced that an appeal would be taken at once to the court of appeals at Albany.

Kinkaide Sustained.

Toledo, O.—The circuit court has handed down a decision in which it sustained Judge Kinkaide in sentencing the ice men to jail. The men were arrested and tried on a charge that they had formed a trust and violated the Valentine anti-trust law by combining to raise the price of ice in this city.

Cotton Piled in Streets.

Mansfield, Ga.—There is piled on the streetts of aMnsfield over 700 bales of cotton and 2,000 in the warehouses and cannot be shipped for the want of cars. The railroad cannot haul the cotton on this line.

To Protect Spaniards.

Cadiz, Spain.—The Spanish cruiser Dona Maria de Molina left here for Arzilla, Morocco, to take on board the Spanish subjects there whose lives are endangered as a result of the occupation of that town by insurgent tribesmen.

Insurgents Routed With Loss.

London.—A dispatch to a news agency from Tangier says that Raisula attacked and captured Arzilla recently held by insurgent tribesmen. The insurgents were routed with the loss of many men killed. Their leader (Berriant) was captured.

Burning Ship Abandoned.

Cape Town.—The British steamer Habersham Grange, from New York, September 23, was abandoned, on fire, October 24. The passengers and crew were all saved and were landed here by the steamer Matatua.

Mexican Laborers Burn to Death.

Armourdale, Kan.—Three Mexican laborers were burned to death in a boarding house fire here.

CIRCUIT COURT CONVENES NOVEMBER 26, 1906.

List of Grand Jurors.

A. S. Jones, Beat 3; John Martin Beat 2; T. U. Crupmton, Beat 7; J. G. Burkhalter, Beat 10; D. C. Honeycutt, Beat 9; J. W. Sorrell, Beat 1; W. M. Price, Beat 8; J. O. Barrett, Beat 10; J. A. Skaggs, Beat 2; Hugh Henry, Beat 2; J. J. Letcher, Beat 7; J. M. Robinson, Beat 10; Alford Mims, Beat 9; Y. O. Freeman, Beat 3; G. A. Keen, Beat 8; A. J. McDuncan, Beat 4; W. H. Parrish, Beat 11; L. H. Gentry, Beat 5; Elijah Headley, Beat 6; J. O. Watson, Beat 4; G. H. Gerald, Beat 9.

Petit Jurors First Week.

W. A. Hays, Beat 3; William Jones, Beat 4; Paton Harris, Beat 8; John Foshee, Beat 7; O. O. Roper, Beat 4; D. C. Alred, Beat 4; Joseph Mims, Beat 10; Albert Gore, Beat 11; J. J. Mims, Beat 6; J. N. Askins, Beat 6; E. L. Jones, Beat 10; Samford Clark, Beat 9; W. H. Coffer, Beat 1; J. M. Merchant, Beat 7; James E. Cobb, Beat 2; Wiley Gore, Beat 9; J. A. Sammons, Beat 2; Lewis Littleton, Beat 11; James Chambers, Beat 7; Charles Shaw, Beat 2; W. D. Buckhalter, Beat 10; Dowdle Roy, Beat 5; G. W. Jones, Beat 10; J. H. Gibbons, Beat 3; C. C. Plyer, Beat 4; A. J. Jones, Beat 9; J. W. Walles Beat 3; J. B. Northcutt, Beat 1; J. J. Hawthorn, Beat 9; Robert Gandy, Beat 8; R. A. Barnett, Beat 2; William Clark, Beat 2.

Petit Jurors Second Week.

W. A. Weaver, Beat 8; S. M. Yates Sr., Beat 10; J. T. Williams, Beat 6; William Peatle, Beat 7; George Moore Beat 7; J. H. Cox, Beat 10; E. J. Vinson, Beat 6; Frank Mulkey, Beat 2; Dock Hunt, Beat 2; W. E. C. Smith, Beat 11; J. R. Johnson, Beat 2; Joseph Cox, Beat 4; Burt Hawkins, Beat 2; W. T. Vinzant, Beat 1; Watts Moore, Beat 4; A. N. Miner, Beat 4; S. H. Driver, Beat 1; Reuben Wyatt, Beat 4; Andrew Deason, Beat 8; J. T. Harris Beat 5; J. F. Rawlinson, Beat 8; D. W. Cobb, Beat 2; J. H. Willoughby, Beat 4; A. T. Hathcock, Beat 6; William Rasberry, Beat 3; J. A. Lowery, Beat 2; S. D. McCary, Beat 3; L. W. Robinson, Beat 9; W. L. Bates, Beat 10; C. C. Crumpton, Beat 2; J. D. Hudgison Beat 3; W. P. Childress, Beat 9. tf

NOTICE.

ALTHOUGH MR. GULLEDGE HAS BACKED OUT OF THE JOINT DISCUSSION AGREEMENT, MR. MIDDLETON WILL KEEP ALL THE DATES AS ABOVE. COME OUT AND HEAR HIM.

To THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY.

It has been agreed that the joint discussion of the issues of the day between Mr. F. A. Gulledge and Mr. J. O. Middleton shall take place at the following times and places:

Beat 7, Sardis Church, Thursday, October 18, 7 p. m.
Beat 3, Macedonia, Friday, October 19, 7 p. m.
Beat 3, Benson's Cross Roads, Saturday, October 20, 7 p. m.
Beat 1, Blow's school house or church Monday, October 29, 7 p. m.
Beat 1, Union Church, Tuesday, October 30, 7 p. m.
Beat 2, Jemison, Wednesday, October 31, 10 a. m.
Beat 2, Rocky Mount, Wednesday, October 31, 7 p. m.
Beat 2, Providence, Thursday, November 1, 7 p. m.
Beat 9, Cedar Grove Church, Friday, November 2, 7 p. m.
Beat 11, Cane Creek Church, Saturday, November 3, 7 p. m.
Beat 4, Walnut Grove Church, Monday, November 5, 7 p. m.

WM. M. ADAMS,
Chm. Dem. Cam. Com.
A. C. SMITH,
Chm. Rep. Cam. Com.

TO FARMERS.

As county business manager for the F. E. and C. U. of A., I have been to the two banks in Clanton to ascertain on what terms they will loan money on cotton to those who wish to hold their cotton in the warehouse. The Clanton Bank will loan 75 per cent, and the People's Savings Bank 65 per cent, of the value of the cottor on the date of the loan, this loan to bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent.

J. W. SORRELS,
Bus. Manager Chilton Co. F. E. and C. U. of A. tf

STRAYED OR STOLEN.

From near my residence on June 25, one iron gray mare colt, one year old; one iron gray norse colt, with star on face, and scar on left hind leg above hock, one and a half years old. Any information leading to their recovery will be liberally rewarded.

C. C. MARTIN,
tf Calera, Ala., Rte 1.

FOR SALE.

30 young cockerels. Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Golden Laced Wyandotts, Buff, Brown and White Leghorns. Prices 50c to $1.50. All birds pure bred and of good quality.

J. B. Downs,
tf Clanton, Ala.

NOTICE.

Jemison, Ala., August 7th, 1906.

Lost—One light clay bank mare, branded on the left shoulder with a heart; the last time heard from she was at Ashby; she weighs about 700 pounds. I will reware any one liberally for information as to where she is, or if returned to me, I will pay well for the trouble.

T. S. DAVENPORT,
tf Jemison, Ala.

SALE OF LANDS.

State of Alabama, Chilton County—Probate Court.

In the matter of the petition of Julia E. Cook et al., to sell lands for division and partition among joint owners or tenants in common thereof.

Under and by virtue of a decree rendered by the Honorable Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, on the 29th day of September, 1906, in said cause, ordering a sale of the hereinafter described lands for division and partition among the joint owners or tenants thereof, to-wit: Julia E. Cook, Carrie W. Martin, John T. Dugan, William R. Dugan, David B. Dugan, Joseph A. Dugan, Lillie B Williams, John A. McLeod, Carl McLeod, Clara Sales, Bessie McLeod, Lillian McLeod, William Martin, Edward Martin, Annie Bell O'Neal, Willie B. Gandy and Jacob C. Vaughan, I, William O. Perry, as the commissioner appointed by said decree, will proceed to sell, in front of the postoffice in Stanton, Chilton county, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, on THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1906, the following described lands, to-wit: Northwest quarter of section sixteen (16), in township twenty (20), range eleven (11, containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres; also forty (40) acres of the southeast end of the west half of northeast quarter of section sixteen (16), in township twenty (20) range eleven (11), and situated, lying and being in Chilton county, Alabama, and known as "The Paul Estate Lands."

This the 16th day of October, 1906.

WILLIAM O. PERRY,
10-18-06 Commissioner.

FOR SALE.

A fine yoke of oxen, about 3 years old, to be sold cheap. I live five miles east of Jemison.

MARION GLASSCOCK,
tf Jemison, R. F. D. 2.

CLANTON ACADEMY,

Clanton, Alabama,

Possesses superior advantages to pupils of all grades, prepares them to enter the best colleges and universities, trains teachers to stand examination for any grade certificate and qualifies them the better to fill a place in their profession.

L. J. THOMPSON,
tf Principal.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

REGISTRATION NOTICE.

Beat No. 4, at Clanton, on Friday and Saturday before the election in November, 1906.

R. H. GAINES,
B. L. JONES,
P. M. MOORE,
Board of Registrars Chilton County.
tf

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for sheriff of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people at the November election, 1906.

ROLLEFFE BATES.
adv (tf)

NOTICE.

The Chilton County Singing Convention, No. 1, will meet with Liberty church (3 miles west of Clanton) the First Sunday in November in a called session. All singers are invited to attend. We request that the members of this body be present if possible.

J. L. GORE, President.
tf JAMES FRANKLIN, Secretary.

PENSION WARRANTS.

All persons entitled to pensions are hereby notified that the warrants for same are now in my office, and to call and get them as soon as possible.

This, 20th day of October, 1906.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
tf Judge of Probate.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order tf.

Mill Days

My Grist Mill will run ... day and Friday ... of each week. Come ... see me

Respectfully,
J. M. Madd...
Thorsby, Ala.

Important Notice

If you want Notice ... put up on your property ... as to keep off Hunters, Trespassers, come to ... Union Office where you ... get fine cards ... inches

THE UNION.

FOR SALE!

120 acres of good ... land, 1 mile east of ... Chapel school house, ... pasture with never ... supply of water. House ... 3 rooms and lot built ... with good spring ... dwelling house,

ALSO

Grist Mill (for both corn ... wheat), in running ... water power the year ... good location for cotton ... (formerly known as ... dox's Mill) near Jumbo. ... to be sold cheap for cash ... gether or separately. ... on or address K. A. E. ... quist, Clanton, Route ...

Thorsby Institute

—Opens—

SEPTEMBER 17th, ...

A Strong Corps of Teachers

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Classics, Languages, History, Economics, Music, Etc., etc.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those who go no higher. Broad for all. Allows for ... zation.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped, ... to date in every ...

EXPENSES:
Tuition low enough ... the needs of every ... girl in Alabama.

Particulars Address:

W. J. Lamkie, Ph. B., ...
Thorsby, Ala.

MONEY TO LOAN

On real estate. Call or write ... my abiding place with Mr. G. ... shee, one mile northeast of C... R. F. D. No. 1. Come during ... hours, as I keep my money in ... tf JAMES G...

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 ... in cultivation. All in ... T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles ... of Clanton. Good dwelling ... house and out buildings. ... 3 good tenant houses. ... and lastiug well of ... This good farming land ... be sold at a bargain ... and see,

tf J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. ...

ATTENTION

Mrs. S. J. Watts is ... J. C. Jones and wife ... pleased to wait on ... and customers. We ... specialty of all styles ... "Puritan Corsets" ... Goods and Trimmings ... sign dresses and or... terns.

FOR SALE

At all times, high ... hogs and pigs, Berkshire ... Poland China, crossed ...

M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, ...

BUSINESS PROPOSITION

The best whiskey ... country is here. ... don't believe it, try ...

J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Cal...

T...

VOL. IV.

BEAT REJOICING

...ists Delighted—Peary ... Made a New Record in the Arctic.

MANY CONGRATULATIONS

...the Explorer Informed of His ...'s Safety—American Society ... Looks for Valuable Data.

York.—Although Commander ... E. Peary, who has been heard ... for his long sojourn in the ... North, failed to reach the North ... Secretary Housert T. Bridge ... the Polar Arctic Club, believes ... in reaching further north ... be a subject for national re... Mr. Bridgeman, who received ...sage from Commander Peary ...ng the latter's return to civili... telephoned the news of Peary's ... Mrs. Peary, who happened to ... city.

"...t God he is safe," was her ...ment, and then she plied Mr. ...an with questions regarding ...ails of the news he had re... from her husband.

Furthest North.

...dgeman told her that her hus... while he had failed to reach the ...ause of drifting ice, had now ...inction of having gone further ...north, reaching 87 degrees 6 ... a point 32 minutes nearer to ... than that reached by the Duke ...zzi's expedition in 1900.

"...very glad my husband is com... so soon and that he has been ...eaful," Mrs. Peary then said. ...cussing Peary's dash after he ...e to study the commander ... more closely, Mr. Bridgeman ...

...ander Peary's achievement ... be a subject for national re... for I am sure it has been the ... of every true American to ...stars and stripes first at the ...ole. And that it should be an ...n to reach the furthest north ...ttle less gratifying.

Eat Dogs.

...y started out with the deter... to reach the pole at all haz... if it is certain that only the ...le prevented that.

...vident that Peary has had the ...perience of getting on drifting ... being carried away from his ...t other explorers have had. ... no other man living would ... off so well as Peary has. He ...imself on ice that had been ...p by a storm and taking him ...rary direction. It is likely he ... party went to the limit of ...durance before they gave up ...nce in the eating of dogs ... doubt the explorer is now on ... home, and when he reaches ... will hear a wonderful story."

...Peary ever make the attempt ...

Scientific Data.

...t know; although it was said ...ewspapers when he sailed if ... this time he would never try ... never told me that, and I ...e close to him. The com... will undoubtedly bring back ... a wealth of scientific and geo... matter. I consider that one ...onderful features of this ex... is the fact the Roosevelt is ...ome with the entire party, ...e hardships they have expe...

Probably reached withhin 203 ...the North pole. He surpassed ...ruzzi party by about thirty ...

...as Peary's fifth attempt to ... pole. The other sledge jour... made in the years 1892, 1895 ...1902.

Castro Presides.

...gton, D. C.—A cable dispatch ... at the Venezuelan legation ... that President Castro, who ...eturned to Caracas, had pre... the meeting of the cabinet.

...ng Points to Fish's Defeat.

..., Ill.—A special meeting of ... of directors of the Illinois ...ailroad for the purpose of ...ficers will be held in New ... Wednesday, according to an ...ment given out here.

...ent Fish is still fighting for ... the road, but the Chicago ...ays the indications are daily ...stronger that E. H. Harriman ... to win a decisive victory. ... result in Mr. Fish's retire... P. Harahan, now second vice... of the Illinois Central, in ...erations, will, it is said, be ...esident.

TAX NOTICE

Assessor's and Collector's Second Round.

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes of Chilton County for the year 1906 and assessing the taxes for the year 1907

Kinderton, Beat 6, November 7, 1906.
Enterprise, Beat 6, November 8, 1906.
Pletcher, Beat 8, November 9, 1906.
Clanton Ford, until 12 m., Beat 8 November 10, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 12, 1906.
Valley Creek, Beat 8, November 13 1906
Stanton, Beat 8, November 14, 1906.
Shoults, Beat 7, November 15, 1906.
Maplesville, Beat 7 November 16, 1906.
Benson, Beat 3, November 17, 1906.
Macedonia, Beat 3, November 19 1906.
Gentry & Cofer's Mill, Beat 2, November 20, 1906.
Hayes' Mill, Beat 2, November 21, 1906.
Providence, Beat 2, November 22, 1906.
John Killingworth's (till 12 m., Beat 2, November 23, 1906.
Jemison, Beat 2, November 24, 1906.
Smith's School House, Beat 1, November 26, 1906.
Mineral Springs, Beat 1, November 27, 1906.
Flint Hill, Beat 11, November 28, 1906.
Providence, Beat 10, November 29, 1906.
Corinth Church, Beat 10, November 30, 1906.
Thorsby, Beat 9, December 3, 1906.
Clanton, Beat 4, December 4, 1906.
Cooper, Beat 10, December 5, 1906.
Verbena, Beat 5, December 6, 1906.
Mountain Creek, Beat 5, December 7, 1906.
James Maddox's Mill, Beat 4, December 8, 1906.

When you come to assess your property, bring your deeds, as the last grand jury suggested.

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.
T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

I will be at Clanton the last 10 days in the year, commencing December 20th, 1906. All taxes not paid by January 1st, 1907, will become delinquent. Take notice of above and save extra expense. T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

Notice.

I will not attend to assessment Tax on last 10 days of year, as such practice has become a nuisance, and the tax payers must meet me at the regular times and places, or become delinquent. L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.

THE NEW YORK WORLD.

Thrice-a-Week Edition—Read Wherever the English Language Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World, now that a great Presidential campaign is foreshadowed, hopes to be a better paper than it has ever been before, and it has made arrangements accordingly. Its news service covers the entire globe, and it reports everything fully, promptly and accurately. It is the only newspaper, not a daily, which is as good as a daily, and which will keep you as completely informed of what is happening throughout the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes novels by the best authors in the world, novels which in book form sell for $1.50 apiece, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Union together for one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2. tf

GINNING SEASON 1906-7

We have engaged Joe and Walter Maddox to run and operate our gins for the coming season. We have the best machinery and with these men to operate it, we can guarantee entire satisfaction to those who patronize us. Bring us your cotton.

Respectfully
Chilton Warehouse & M,f,g. Company. tf.

Progress that is sure and slow is greatly undervalued in the rush and bustle of affairs in this country. That is one reason why the young man leaves the farm, explains the Boston Cultivator.

CHISOLM INDICTED

Federal Inquisitorial Body Completes Work and is Discharged.

TRUE BILLS WERE REPORTED.

Judge Jones Compliments the Men for the Arduous Work Done—Cases Brought to Their Attention.

Birmingham, Ala.—The federal grand jury has finished its work and made a report to Judge Jones. Among other indictments returned were seven against Alexander R. Chisolm, the defaulting paying teller of the First National Bank.

Four indictments are returned against Percy G. Smith, who is alleged to have aided and abetted Chisolm in the peculations. An indictment is returned also against L. L. Sims upon the same charge.

An indictment is brought against Gordon DuBose, ex-president of the First National Bank of Ensley.

At 2 o'clock it was announced that the grand jury was ready to make the report. The court had taken a recess and the judge was out at lunch. However, he returned at twenty minutes after 2 and assumed his seat on the bench. The jury filed into the court room and stood before Judge Jones, who asked them if they were ready to report.

The Report.

Foreman B. H. Cooper announced that they were and read the following report:

The Official Report.

The United States of America, Circuit Court of the United States, September Term, 1906.

To the Hon. Thomas G. Jones, Judge, Presiding:

We, the grand jurors, elected, empaneled and sworn and charged to inquire for the body of the Southern division of the Northern district of Alabama, respectfully beg leave to report that we have diligently inquired into all violations of the laws of the United States brought to our knowledge under the charge of the court and by the United States attorney, and we herewith return into open court the indictments presented by us as the result of our investigation and finding. The character of some of the cases investigated by us has been such as requires a greater occupation of time than usual for the consideration of the number of bills returned.

And now having completed the work assigned to us we respectfully ask to be discharged.

(Signed) B. H. COOPER,
Foreman of the Grand Jury.

Judge Jones replied, saying that he realized fully the exceptionally difficult nature of the cases that had been before them for consideration, and that he wished to commend them for their diligence. He said that he considered that they had set an admirable example for other juries and had acquitted themselves in a manner that reflected credit upon themselves and their country. He closed by saying that they were discharged with the thanks of the court.

Indictments Returned.

The indictments in detail were as follows:

Alexander R. Chisolm and W. L. Sims, for the violation of section 5440.
Alexander R. Chisolm, for the violation of section 5290.
Alexander R. Chisolm and Percy G. Smith, for the violation of section 5440.
Alexander R. Chisolm, for the violation of section 5209.
Alexander R. Chisolm and Percy G. Smith, for the violation of section 5209.
Alexander R. Chisolm and P. G. Smith, for the violation of section 5209.
Alexander R. Chisolm and P. G. Smith, for the violation of section 5209.
Gordon DuBose, for the violation of section 5209.

Lisbon.—The house of peers passed the bill establishing the state tobacco monopoly.

Violate Safety Appliance Law.

Topeka, Kan.—Suits were filed here in the federal court against the Rock Island, Missouri Pacific, Kansas City Southern and Chicago Great Western railroads on a charge of violating the safety appliance regulation of the interstate commerce commission. The suits were brought on instructions from the United States attorney-general on complaints of the commission.

Largest Consignment of Gold.

London.—The largest consignment of gold ever shipped from South Africa arrived in London. Its value was $5,700,000.

Cordele Gives $500.

Cordele, Ga.—President Mitchell, of the Georgia commission to the Jamestown Exposition, addressed the common council and citizens of Cordel Thursday night in the interest of the Georgia building. The council appropriated $500 and the citizens will give an equal sum for the building.

The meeting was followed by a banquet at the Central Hotel, presided over by Hon. L. R. Fields.

Farmers Agree on Minimum Prices.

East St. Louis, Ill.—The following minimum price scale was adopted at the session of the American Society of Equity:

Wheat, $1; corn, 45 cents until January 1, 50 cents January 1 to April 1, 55 cents April 1 until the next meeting of the society; oats, 40 cents; cotton, 12 cents, based at New York; hogs, $6.50; cattle, $6; hay, 1.45.

With the exception of cotton, all prices are based on delivery at Chicago.

The following officers were elected:

President, J. H. Everett, Indianapolis.

Vice-president, J. B. Whiting, Interlake, N. Y.

Secretary, J. Wes Tubbs, Indianapolis.

Treasurer, J. N. Stelle, Indianapolis.

National organizer, H. B. Sherman, Greensburg, Ind.

Castro Again Attending to Duties.

New York.—Information made public here by Charles B. Figuerdo, the Venezuelan consul-general to New York, is to the effect that President Castro, who has been reported as dangerously ill, is again attending to his duties. The consul-general made the following announcement:

"I have received a cable annuncing that General Ciprano Castro has entirely recovered, having arrived at Caracas on the 24th inst. and resumed his presidential duties."

Southern Strike to Cause Another.

Knoxville, Tenn.—A special to the Sentinel from Bristol, Tenn., says machinists in the repair shops used jointly by the Southern and Norfolk and Western roads at Bristol have refused to repair the Southern railway "dead" locomotives in Bristol.

It is stated on apparently good authority that the Southern will take non-union machinists to Bristol to repair their locomotives, and if this is done the union machinists now working for the Norfolk and Western will walk out in sympathy with the Southern strikers.

The Southern has issued an embargo against Virginia and Southwestern and Norfolk and Western and other connecting lines at Bristol and freight traffic has been decreased.

Switchmen's Demands Refused.

Chicago, Ill.—The railroads informed Grand Master Hawley, of the Switchmen's Union, that the demands of the men for an eight-hour day and an increase in wages would be refused. The offer of an increase of two cents an hour, which the railroads have already made to the switchmen, was repeated, but the men were told that this was all that could be obtained. The refusal of the demands of the switchmen was also made to apply to all other organizations of railroad employes which have of late presented demands for shorter hours or increased wages. Grand Master Hawley has called a meeting of the switchmen, but no strike action will be taken until a referendum vote has been taken.

Decision Against the League.

New York.—By a decision of the appellate division of the supreme court every one of the Independence League organization candidates for the assembly, senate and congress were thrown off the ticket, and under this decision they cannot run under the Independence League emblem of the scales. Independence League attorney announced that an appeal would be taken at once to the court of appeals at Albany.

Kinkaide Sustained.

Toledo, O.—The circuit court has handed down a decision in which it sustained Judge Kinkaide in sentencing the ice men to jail. The men were arrested and tried on a charge that they had formed a trust and violated the Valentine anti-trust law by combining to raise the price of ice in this city.

Cotton Piled in Streets.

Mansfield, Ga.—There is piled on the streetts of aMnsfield over 700 bales of cotton and 2,000 in the warehouses and cannot be shipped for the want of cars. The railroad cannot haul the cotton on this line.

To Protect Spaniards.

Cadiz, Spain.—The Spanish cruiser Dona Maria de Molina left here for Arzilla, Morocco, to take on board the Spanish subjects there whose lives are endangered as a result of the occupation of that town by insurgent tribesmen.

Insurgents Routed With Loss.

London.—A dispatch to a news agency from Tangier says that Raisula attacked and captured Arzilla recently held by insurgent tribesmen. The insurgents were routed with the loss of many men killed. Their leader (Berriant) was captured.

Burning Ship Abandoned.

Cape Town.—The British steamer Habersham Grange, from New York, September 23, was abandoned, on fire, October 24. The passengers and crew were all saved and were landed here by the steamer Matatua.

Mexican Laborers Burn to Death.

Armourdale, Kan.—Three Mexican laborers were burned to death in a boarding house fire here.

CIRCUIT COURT CONVENES NOVEMBER 26, 1906.

List of Grand Jurors.

A. S. Jones, Beat 3; John Martin Beat 2; T. U. Crupmton, Beat 7; J. G. Burkhalter, Beat 10; D. C. Honeycutt, Beat 9; J. W. Sorrell, Beat 1; W. S. Price, Beat 8; J. O. Barrett, Beat 10; J. A. Skaggs, Beat 2; Hugh Henry, Beat 2; J. J. Letcher, Beat 7; J. M. Robinson, Beat 10; Alford Mims, Beat 9; Y. O. Freeman, Beat 3; G. A. Keen, Beat 8; A. J. McDuncan, Beat 4; W. H. Parrish, Beat 11; L. H. Gentry, Beat 5; Elijah Headley, Beat 6; J. O. Wesson, Beat 4; G. H. Gerald, Beat 9.

Petit Jurors First Week.

W. A. Hays, Beat 3; William Jones, Beat 4; Paton Harris, Beat 8; John Foshee, Beat 7; O. O. Roper, Beat 4; D. C. Alred, Beat 4; Joseph Mims, Beat 10; Albert Gore, Beat 11; J. J. Mims, Beat 6; J. N. Askins, Beat 6; E. L. Jones, Beat 10; Samford Clark, Beat 9; W. H. Coffer, Beat 1; J. M. Merchant, Beat 7; James E. Cobb, Beat 2; Wiley Gore, Beat 9; J. A. Sammons, Beat 2; Lewis Littleton, Beat 11; James Chambers, Beat 7; Charles Shaw, Beat 2; W. D. Buckhalter, Beat 10; Dowdle Roy, Beat 5; G. W. Jones, Beat 10; J. H. Gibbons, Beat 3; C. C. Plyer, Beat 4; A. J. Jones, Beat 9; J. W. Walles, Beat 3; J. B. Northcutt, Beat 1; J. J. Hawthorn, Beat 9; Robert Gandy, Beat 8; R. A. Barnett, Beat 2; William Clark, Beat 2.

Petit Jurors Second Week.

W. A. Weaver, Beat 8; S. M. Yates, Sr., Beat 10; J. T. Williams, Beat 6; William Peatle, Beat 7; George Moore, Beat 7; J. H. Cox, Beat 10; E. J. Vinson, Beat 6; Frank Mulkey, Beat 2; Dock Hunt, Beat 2; W. E. C. Smith, Beat 11; J. R. Johnson, Beat 2; Joseph Cox, Beat 4; Burt Hawkins, Beat 2; W. T. Vinzant, Beat 1; Watts Moore, Beat 4; A. N. Miner, Beat 4; S. H. Driver, Beat 1; Reuben Wyatt, Beat 4; Andrew Deason, Beat 8; J. T. Harris, Beat 5; J. F. Rawlinson, Beat 8; D. W. Cobb, Beat 2; J. H. Willoughby, Beat 4; A. T. Hathcock, Beat 6; William Rasberry, Beat 3; J. A. Lowery, Beat 2; S. D. McCary, Beat 3; L. W. Robinson, Beat 9; W. L. Bates, Beat 10; C. C. Crumpton, Beat 2; J. D. Hudgison Beat 3; W. P. Childress, Beat 9. tf

NOTICE.

ALTHOUGH MR. GULLEDGE HAS BACKED OUT OF THE JOINT DISCUSSION AGREEMENT, MR. MIDDLETON WILL KEEP ALL THE DATES AS ABOVE. COME OUT AND HEAR HIM.

To THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY.

It has been agreed that the joint discussion of the issues of the day between Mr. F. A. Gulledge and Mr. J. O. Middleton shall take place at the following times and places:

Beat 7, Sardis Church, Thursday, October 18, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Macedonia, Friday, October 19, 7 p. m.

Beat 3, Benson's Cross Roads, Saturday, October 20, 7 p. m.

Beat 1, Blow's school house or church Monday, October 29, 7 p. m.

Beat 1, Union Church, Tuesday, October 30, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Jemison, Wednesday, October 31, 10 a. m.

Beat 2, Rocky Mount, Wednesday, October 31, 7 p. m.

Beat 2, Providence, Thursday, November 1, 7 p. m.

Beat 9, Cedar Grove Church, Friday, November 2, 7 p. m.

Beat 11, Cane Creek Church, Saturday, November 3, 7 p. m.

Beat 4, Walnut Grove Church, Monday, November 5, 7 p. m.

WM. M. ADAMS,
Chm. Dem. Cam. Com.
A. C. SMITH,
Chm. Rep. Cam. Com.

TO FARMERS.

As county business manager for the F. E. and C. U. of A., I have been to the two banks in Clanton to ascertain on what terms they will loan money on cotton to those who wish to hold their cotton in the warehouse. The Clanton Bank will loan 75 per cent, and the People's Savings Bank 65 per cent, of the value of the cottor on the date of the loan, this loan to bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent.

J. W. SORRELS,
Bus. Manager Chilton Co. F. E. and C. U. of A. tf

STRAYED OR STOLEN.

From near my residence on June 25, one iron gray mare colt, one year old; one iron gray horse colt, with star on face, and scar on left hind leg above hock, one and a half years old. Any information leading to their recovery will be liberally rewarded.

C. C. MARTIN,
tf Calera, Ala., Rte 1.

FOR SALE.

30 young cockerels. Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Golden Laced Wyandotts, Buff, Brown and White Leghorns. Prices 50c to $1.50. All birds pure bred and of good quality.

J. B. Downs,
tf Clanton, Ala.

NOTICE.

Jemison, Ala., August 7th, 1906.

Lost—One light clay bank mare, branded on the left shoulder with a heart; the last time heard from she was at Ashby; she weighs about 700 pounds. I will reward any one liberally for information as to where she is, or if returned to me, I will pay well for the trouble.

T. S. DAVENPORT,
tf Jemison, Ala.

SALE OF LANDS.

State of Alabama, Chilton County—Probate Court.

In the matter of the petition of Julia E. Cook et al., to sell lands for division and partition among joint owners or tenants in common thereof.

Under and by virtue of a decree rendered by the Honorable Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, on the 29th day of September, 1906, in said cause, ordering a sale of the hereinafter described lands for division and partition among the joint owners or tenants thereof, to-wit: Julia E. Cook, Carrie W. Martin, John T. Dugan, William R. Dugan, David B. Dugan, Joseph A. Dugan, Lillie B. Williams, John A. McLeod, Carl McLeod, Clara Sales, Bessie McLeod, Lillian McLeod, William Martin, Edward Martin, Annie Bell O'Neal, Willie B. Gandy and Jacob C. Vaughan, I, William O. Perry, as the commissioner appointed by said decree, will proceed to sell, in front of the postoffice in Stanton, Chilton county, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, on THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1906.

the following described lands, to-wit: Northwest quarter of section sixteen (16), in township twenty (20), range eleven (11, containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres; also forty (40) acres of the southeast end of the west half of northeast quarter of section sixteen (16), in township twenty (20), range eleven (11), and situated, lying and being in Chilton county, Alabama, and known as "The Paul Estate Lands."

This the 16th day of October, 1906.

WILLIAM O. PERRY,
10-18-06 Commissioner.

FOR SALE.

A fine yoke of oxen, about 3 years old, to be sold cheap. I live five miles east of Jemison.

MARION GLASSCOCK,
tf Jemison, R. F. D. 2.

CLANTON ACADEMY,

Clanton, Alabama,

Possesses superior advantages to pupils of all grades, prepares them to enter the best colleges and universities, trains teachers to stand examination for any grade certificate and qualifies them the better to fill a place in their profession.

L. J. THOMPSON,
tf Principal.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

REGISTRATION NOTICE.

Beat No. 4, at Clanton, on Friday and Saturday before the election in November, 1906.

R. H. GAINES,
B. L. JONES,
P. M. MOORE,
Board of Registrars Chilton County.
tf

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for sheriff of Chilton county, subject to the action of the people at the November election, 1906.

ROLLEFFE BATES.
adv (tf)

NOTICE.

The Chilton County Singing Convention, No. 1, will meet with Liberty church (3 miles west of Clanton) the First Sunday in November in a called session. All singers are invited to attend. We request that the members of this body be present if possible.

J. L. GORE, President.
tf JAMES FRANKLIN, Secretary.

PENSION WARRANTS.

All persons entitled to pensions are hereby notified that the warrants for same are now in my office, and to call and get them as soon as possible.

This, 20th day of October, 1906.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
tf Judge of Probate.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order tf.

Mill Days

My Grist Mill will run ... day and Friday ... of each week. Come ... see me

Respectfully,
J. M. Madd...
Thorsby, Ro...

Important Notic...

If you want Notic... put up on your proper... as to keep off Hunters, Tresspassers, come to Union Office where you get fine cards 11 ... inches

THE UNI...

FOR SALE!

120 acres of good land, 1 mile east of C... Chapel school house, pasture with never f... supply of water. H... 3 rooms and lot built with good spring ... dwelling house.

ALSO

Grist Mill (for both corn wheat), in running water power the year r... good location for cotton (formerly known as ... dox's Mill) near Jumbo ... to be sold cheap for cash gether or separately, on or address K. A. E... quist, Clanton, Route ...

Thorsby Instit...

—Opens—

SEPTEMBER 17th, ...

A Strong Corps of Teach...

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Classics, ... Languages, Histor... nomics, Music, ... etc.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those who ... go no higher. Broa... for all. Allows for ... gation.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped, ... to date in every ...

EXPENSES:
Tuition low except ... the needs of every ... girl in Alabama.

Particulars Address:
W. J. Lamkie, Ph. B., ...
Thorsby, Ala.

MONEY TO LOAN

On real estate. Call or write ... my abiding place with Mr. G. ... shee, one mile northeast of C... R. F. D. No. 1. Come during ... hours, as I keep my money in ... tf JAMES G...

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 ... in cultivation. All in ... T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles ... of Clanton. Good dw... house and out buildings, 3 good tenant houses, ... and lastiug well of ... This good farming la... be sold at a bargain ... and see,

tf J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. ...

ATTENTION

Mrs. S. J. Watts is ... J. C. Jones and ... pleased to wait on ... and customers. We ... specialty of all sty... "Puritan Corsets" ... Goods and Trimmings ... sign dresses and ord... terns.

FOR SALE

At all times, high ... hogs and pigs, Berkshi... Poland China, crosses ...
M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, ...

BUSINESS PROPOS...

The best whiskey ... country is here. ... don't believe it, try ...
J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Cal...

T...

VOL. IV.

BEAT REJOICING

...ists Delighted—Peary ... Made a New Record in the Arctic.

MANY CONGRATULATIONS.

...the Explorer Informed of Hus... ...s Safety—American Society ...Looks for Valuable Data.

...York.—Although Commander ...E. Peary, who has been heard ...fter his long sojourn in the ...North, failed to reach the North ...ecretary Housert T. Bridge... ...the Polar Arctic Club, believes ... in reaching further north ... be a subject for national re... Mr. Bridgeman, who received ...sage from Commander Peary ...ng the latter's return to civili... ...elephoned the news of Peary's ...o Mrs. Peary, who happened to ...o city.

..."God he is safe," was her ...ment, and then she plied Mr. ...an with questions regarding ...ails of the news he had re... ...rom her husband.

Furthest North.

...ridgeman told her that her hus... ...hile he had failed to reach the ...ause of drifting ice, had now ...inction of having gone further ...north, reaching 87 degrees 6 ..., a point 32 minutes nearer to ... than that reached by the Duke ...zzi's expedition in 1900.

"I am very glad my husband is com... ...so soon and that he has been ...ssful," Mrs. Peary then said. ...cussing Peary's dash after he ...e to study the commander's ... more closely, Mr. Bridgeman ...ander Peary's achievement ... be a subject for national re... for I am sure it has been the ... of every true American to ...stars and stripes first at the ...ole. And that it should be an ...n to reach the furthest north ...ttle less gratifying.

Eat Dogs.

...y started out with the deter... ...to reach the pole at all haz... ...d it is certain that only the ...le prevented that.

...vident that Peary has had the ...perience of getting on drifting ... being carried away from his ...t other explorers have had. ... no other man living would ... off so well as Peary has. He ...imself on ice that had been ...p by a storm and taking him ...rary direction. It is likely he ... party went to the limit of ...durance before they gave up ...ce in the eating of dogs ...doubt the explorer is now on ... home, and when he reaches ... will hear a wonderful story." ...Peary ever make the attempt.

Scientific Data.

...t know; although it was said ...newspapers when he sailed if ... this time he would never try ...e never told me that, and I ...e close to him. The com... will undoubtedly bring back ... a wealth of scientific and geo... matter. I consider that one ...onderful features of this ex... is the fact the Roosevelt is ...ome with the entire party. ...he hardships they have expe...

...probably reached withhin 203 ...the North pole. He surpassed ...ruzzi party by about thirty ...

...e Peary's fifth attempt to ... pole. The other sledge jour... ...made in the years 1892, 1895 ...1902.

Castro Presides.

...ton, D. C.—A cable dispatch ...at the Venezuelan legation ...e that President Castro, who ...returned to Caracas, had pre... ...r the meeting of the cabinet.

...ing Points to Fish's Defeat.

..., Ill.—A special meeting of ... of directors of the Illinois ...ailroad for the purpose of ...fficers will be held in New ... Wednesday, according to an ...ment given out here.

...nt Fish is still fighting for ... the road, but the Chicago ...ays the indications are daily ...nger that E. H. Harriman ... to win a decisive victory. ...l result in Mr. Fish's retire... ...T. Harahan, now second vice ... of the Illinois Central, in ...operations, will, it is said, be ...ntest.

Mill Days

My Grist Mill will run day and Friday mo of each week. Come see me

Respectfully
J. M. Madde
Thorsby, Rou

Important Notic

If you want Notic put up on your propert as to keep off Hunters Tresspassers, come to Union Office, where yo get fine cards 11 b inches

THE UNIO

FOR SALE!

120 acres of good land, 1 mile east of C Chapel school house, pasture with never f supply of water. Ho 3 rooms and lot build with good spring clo dwelling house,

ALSO

Grist Mill (for both cor wheat), in running o water power the year r good location for cotton (formerly known as dox's Mill) near Jumbo. to be sold cheap for cas gether or separately. on or address K. A. E. quist, Clanton, Route

Thorsby Instit

—Opens—

SEPTEMBER 17th,

A Strong Corps of Teach

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Classics, Languages, Histori nomics, Music, Elo etc.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those who go no higher. Broad for all. Allows for nation.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped, mode to date in every part

EXPENSES:
Tuition low enough the needs of every girl in Alabama.

Particulars Address:

W. J. Lamkie, Ph. B., Pri
Thorsby, Ala.

MONEY TO LOAN

On real estate. Call or write my abiding place with Mr. G. shee, one mile northeast of C R. F. D. No. 1. Come during hours, as I keep my money in th
tf JAMES G

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 in cultivation. All in S T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles S of Clanton. Good dwe house and out building 3 good tenant houses. and lastiug well of w This good farming land be sold at a bargain. and see, tf J. H. CARTER, Clanton, R. F. D.

ATTENTION

Mrs. S. J. Watts is J. C. Jones and wi pleased to wait on fr and customers. We m specialty of all styl "Puritan Corsets" Goods and Trimmings, sign dresses and order terns.

FOR SALE

At all times, high hogs and pigs, Berkshi Poland China, crossed. M. J. BARRETT, tf Thorsby, A

BUSINESS PROPOSI

The best whiskey country is here. don't believe it, try J. M. COLLINS, Palace Saloon, Calera

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL; SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., NOVEMBER 8 1906 NO. 33

EAT REJOICING

ists Delighted—Peary Made a New Record in the Arctic.

MANY CONGRATULATIONS.

the Explorer Informed of Hus Safety—American Society Looks for Valuable Data.

York.—Although Commander E. Peary, who has been heard after his long sojourn in the North, failed to reach the North Secretary Housert T. Bridge- of the Polar Arctic Club, believes in reaching further north to be a subject for national re- Mr. Bridgeman, who received from Commander Peary the latter's return to civili- telephoned the news of Peary's to Mrs Peary, who happened to the city

"I God he is safe," was her ment, and then she plied Mr with questions regarding ails of the news he had re- from her husband

Furthest North.

Bridgeman told her that her hus while he had failed to reach the cause of drifting ice, had now fraction of having gone further north, reaching 87 degrees 6 a point 32 minutes nearer to than that reached by the Duke ruzzi's expedition in 1900.

very glad my husband is com- so soon and that he has been cessful," Mr. Peary then said.

cussing Peary's dash after he to study the commander's more closely), Mr. Bridgeman mander Peary's achievement to be a subject for national re- for I am sure it has been the of every true American to stars and stripes first at the pole. And that it should be an to reach the furthest north little less gratifying.

Eat Dogs.

started out with the deter- to reach the pole at all haz- and it is certain that only the prevented that.

evident that Peary has had the perience of getting on drifting being carried away from his other explorers have had. no other man living would off so well as Peary has. He himself on ice that had been up by a storm and taking him ward direction. It is likely he party went to the limit of endurance before they gave up stance in the eating of dogs Dr. the explorer is now on home, and when he reaches will have a wonderful story."

Peary ever make the attempt

Scientific Data.

don't know although it was said newspapers when he sailed if this time he would never try he never told me that, and I close to him. The com- will undoubtedly bring back a wealth of scientific and geo- matter. I consider that one wonderful features of this ex- is the fact that Roosevelt is home with the entire party. the hardships they have expeprobably reached within 203 the North pole. He surpassed Abruzzi party by about thirty was Peary's fifth attempt to pole. The other sledge jour- were made in the years 1892, 1895 1902.

Castro Presides.

Washington, D. C.—A cable dispatch at the Venezuelan legation says that President Castro, who returned to Caracas, had pre- over the meeting of the cabinet.

Voting Points to Fish's Defeat.

Chicago, Ill.—A special meeting of board of directors of the Illinois Central railroad for the purpose of electing officers will be held in New York Wednesday, according to an announcement given out here.

President Fish is still fighting for control of the road, but the Chicago dispatch says the indications are daily growing stronger that E. H. Harriman will be able to win a decisive victory. Such a result in Mr. Fish's retire- ment as J. T. Harahan, now second vice- president of the Illinois Central, in charge of operations, will, it is said, be elected president.

Will Stand for Treaty Rights.

San Francisco, Cal.—Significant action was taken by the Japanese when they dismissed a suit begun some time ago to force the authorities to admit Japanese children to all public schools in San Francisco. It is stated by an attorney that from now on the Japanese will make no effort to oppose exclusion through court proceedings, but will stand firmly on their treaty rights and contend that the Washington government must put the children back into the schools from which they have been barred by the board of education. From this position these aliens are seeking the judicial protection they advance to people whose rights are being violated in the country which entered into a formal pact with their sovereign to extend them all the privileges accepted as accompanying "the most favored nation" clause of the international treaty.

Old Soldiers May Vote.

Knoxville, Tenn.—The Tennessee supreme court held that the inmates of the National Soldiers' Home at Johnson City, Tenn., have a right to vote unless their votes are challenged at thet polls. The court declared permanent inmates of the home are not citizens of the state of Tennessee, but those inmates who have homes outside of the government reservation are citizens of the state. Many inmates are from other states. The court ruled that a mandamus proceeding, seeking to inhibit these old soldiers from voting, was not the proper remedy, and consequently the petition was dismissed. This litigation was precipitated by the animated congressional race in the First Tennessee district between Congressman W.P. Brownlow and A. A. Taylor, republicans, and John H. Caldwell, democrat. It is charged that the majority of the soldiers' home voters are supporters of Brownlow. The opposition to Brownlow challenged their right to vote.

Guilty of Robbing Mail.

Birmingham, Ala.—In the United States court Chatman Madison, a Walker county youth, 16 years of age, pleaded guilty to the charge of robbing registered mail, and was sentenced to three years in the school of reform at Washington, D. C.

Madison is a mere boy, and this action of Judge Thomas G. Jones was taken with a view of correcting the youth's morals. The reform school at Washington is considered one of the best of its kind in the country.

When young Madison appeared at court he did not even have a coat. As the rules of the court strictly prohibit shirt sleeves, Judge Jones sent out to a nearby clothing store and purchased a coat for the boy prisoner.

Madison will be taken to Washington in the next few days and will be entered at the school.

Chinese Mutiny on German Ship.

Berlin.—The captain, two mates and engineer of the German steamer Syfang were seriously wounded in a fight with Chinese mutineers among her crew, according to a telegram received here from Stettin. It was only after a severe struggle that the police were able to subdue the mutineers and place them under arrest.

Twenty-four Chinese took part in the mutiny. They attempted to seize the ship and attacked the officers viciously. The police had to fight their way aboard the steamer and then club the mutineers into submission.

To Sue for Libel.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Emphatic denial is made by the prohibition party leaders of the charges contained in the affidavits of Samuel J. Dallas that the Rev. Dr. Silas C. Swallow was paid $10,000 by United States Senator Penrose during the present campaign.

Dr. Swallow issued a statement in Harrisburg denying the charges before leaving for Philadelphia to arrange for the filing of suits for libel against the newspapers which published the Dallas affidavit.

Rival of Dreadnaught.

London.—The Daily Telegraph says it is reported that Japan has decided to begin the construction of a battleship exceeding the displacement of the Dreadnaught by 3,000 tons.

Shot in Face While Hunting.

Meridian, Miss.—D. O. Davies, a Mobile and Ohio locomotive engineer residing here, was shot in the face and badly injured while bird hunting near Laurel. The shot was accidentally fired by Dr. A. T. Perry.

Brookline, Mass.—The beautiful stone church of the First Parish Unitarian Society of this town, together with its new chapel and annex, known as Pierce Hall, was practically destroyed by fire, and Lieutenant Allen, of the fire department, was seriously injured by falling walls. The loss was estimated at $60,000.

REPUBLICANS WIN

Pennsylvania Stands Pat to Tune of 100,000--Moran Defeated in Massachusetts.

OKLAHOMA DEMOCRATIC BY VERY LARGE MARGIN.

Missouri Is Still in Doubt, the Contests Being So Close That Estimates Are of Little Value.

Birmingham.—Elections were held Tuesday in forty-two states, and while the results in a number of instances were of unusual interest, it may be said that generally speaking there were no great surprises.

Throughout the south the democratic state and congressional tickets have been elected by the usual majorities. In the west and east the states that were aligned two years ago in the democratic or republican columns show no material change, the democrats making gains in some instances and the republicans in others. The republicans retain control of congress by a good majority.

Wide Interest in New York.

Perhaps the widest general interest in the elections centered in the remarkable fight for governor which has been waged in New York state between Charles E. Hughes, the republican candidate, who throughout the campaign has had the support of President Roosevelt, and William Randolph Hearst, who has been running as the regular democratic and Independence League nominee.

The latest returns available show that Mr. Hughes, while losing nearly all of the principal cities of the state, was successful by about fifty thousand plurality. The rural districts brought about the republican victory.

In New York city the Tammany-Independence League judiciary ticket was successful, with possibly one exception, over the candidates named by the non-partisan "judiciary nominators."

Massachusetts has re-elected Curtis Guild, republican, as governor over District Attorney John B. Moran, of Boston, who was the candidate of the democratic party, the Independence and the prohibitionists.

In Chicago it is estimated the Indepedence League ticket polled 40,000, but there was a republican plurality of the state officers.

Pennsylvania Still Republican.

Pennsylvania has elected Stuart, republican, governor over a fusion opposition by the usual republican plurality.

Michigan, Iowa, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Connecticut, Indiana and Wisconsin have rolled up republican pluralities, although there was some falling off from the usual vote in Iowa. Nebraska shows big republican gains. Ohio also shows republican gains over the Pattison vote of last year. The republicans expect a plurality of 75,000 in the state.

The constitution of the new state of Oklahoma will be written by democrats. The Indians voted the democratic ticket almost solidly. Oklahoma also went strongly democratic in choosing delegates to the constitutional convention.

New Mexico and Arizona have voted favorably on the proposition to enter the union jointly as a single state.

Governor Hoch is re-elected in Kansas by a slightly reduced majority.

The result in Missouri was in doubt at a late hour, the democrats expecting to gain some of the congressional districts they lost two years ago.

Congressman Nicholas Longworth re-elected in Cincinnati.

Wadsworth Is Defeated.

Congressman J. W. Wadsworth, for many years chairman of the house committee on agriculture at Washington, was defeated in the Thirty-fourth New York district.

The republicans carried Utah, Wyoming and Washington and seem to have lost Nevada, while both parties are claiming Colorado.

Montana seems to have been carried by the republicans, and Texas takes its usual place in the democratic column.

Congressman Babcock, of Wisconsin, formerly chairman of the republican congressional committee, failed of election.

In Rhode Island, James H. Higgins, democrat, was elected governor.

Alabama.

Montgomery.—Alabama's vote was cratic ticket, with the exception of sheriff of Walker county, was elected. and the legislature will not have more remarkably light. The entire demothan three republicans and populists.

Neutral to Religions.

Paris.—The minister of public instruction and worship, M. Briand, announced in an authorized interview that the government did not recognize the Catholic church as being in revolt against the law providing for the separation of state and church, or against the state. The Catholic church having simply declined to take advantage of its privileges under the law, as other religions did, on December 11 would forfeit its $80,000,000 of property and thereafter would live under the common law. There would be neither martyrdom nor persecutions of the faithful.

The churches, as state and communal property, would remain open for Catholic worship. The object for which the separation party in France had struggled for thirty years, the minister said, had been achieved.

The concordat was at an end, the state would no longer so contribute to the support of any religion, and priests would no longer enjoy privileges. In both their duties and obligations they would be on an equality with other citizens. In other words, the state was at least neutral towards all religions and would permit the exercise of all of them, with special favors to none.

Machinists Go to Work.

Washington, D. C.—The strike of machinists on the Southern railway, which was inaugurated recently for an increase in wages, has been settled. The strike was declared off and the men returned to work Monday without prejudice on account of the strike. The men who remained with the company are to continue at work. Those who have been employed since the strike were retired from the shops before Monday morning, but without prejudice as to their continued employment by the company in other places or as to their future employment in the shops if needed. The wages offered to the machinists prior to the strike are to apply from November 5 and the company's proposition to arbitrate the differences between the scale and the demand of the union has been accepted. This adjustment took place at a conference in New York between members of the National Civic Federation, the officers of the Southern Railway Company, the president of the International Association of Machinists and the local committee of Southern railway machinists.

To Hold Powwow.

Sheridan, Wyo.—A conference between the Indians and troops resulted in an agreement on the part of the Utes to return with Colonel Rogers to Fort Meade, to be taken care of there by the government, while Chief Red Cap and Black Whiskers go to Washington to talk the matter over with President Roosevelt. The Utes will go overland with a troop of the Sixth Cavalry. The Indians have not been disarmed and will not be as long as they make no threatening actions.

Robert Burns' Letters.

New York.—J. P. Morgan imported what is said to be the most complete set in existence of the original manuscripts and private letters of Robert Burns, the Scotch poet. Mr. Morgan's agents have been scouring Great Britain for the last fifteen years in order to secure the documents. An expense of no less than $200,000, it is estimated, has been so incurred.

It is believed to be the intention of Mr. Morgan to bequeath the Burns manuscripes and letters to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

May Be Prosecuted.

Charlotte, N. C.—On the best of authority it is stated that a number of prominent cotton mill men of this city and section will be prosecuted by the federal government either here or in New York for alleged violation of the alien labor laws in the importation of about forty English people to work in the mills. The matter is serious and the result is anticipated with anxiety.

Mrs. Anthony Dead.

New York.—Mrs. Anthony, mother of "Bill" Anthony, the hero of the Maine, died in St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken, Thursday night. She was 80 years of age. The suicide of her son recently preyed upon her mind.

Woman Takes Poison.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Minnie Dougherty, a young woman, died at the hospital after a hard fight to save her. She was arrested at the Central depot, and at the police station it was found she was dying from poison taken with suicidal intent, and she was given medical attention for hours.

Recover City of Niuchang.

Pekin, China.—The Japanese garrison here celebrated the Mikado's birthday. Viscount Hayashi gave a reception in his emperor's honor.

It is believed in diplomatic circles that the city of Niuchange will be restored to China in the near future.

CHICAGO SWINDLER CAUGHT

Accused of Tremendous Fraudulent Deals.

Charles Whitney Norton Arrested by the Chicago Police—Been Searching For Him For Months.

Chicago, Ill.—Charles Whitney Norton, said by the police and postal authorities to be responsible for extensive swindling operations, is under arrest here. He will be turned over to the Federal officers. It is asserted that Norton has defrauded people in all parts of the United States out of bonds and securities amounting to $3,000,000.

In his room were found bonds, stocks, abstracts of land titles, first mortgages, and other negotiable papers, the greater part of which is thought to be genuine, and worth almost $2,000,000. Others papers were found valued on their face at about $1,000,000 more, but their value is doubtful. It is held that Norton by selling and trading these securities has made many thousands of dollars. The postal authorities say they have been searching for Norton since January, 1905, when he disappeared from Detroit, ostensibly to go to London.

About two years ago Norton was in Elmira, N. Y., operating the American Wholesale Brokerage Company. It is also asserted that he was arrested once in Troy, N. Y., and also in Rutland, Vt., where he served a sentence of one year in jail for the fraudulent use of the mails. He is also said to have done business in Toledo, Ohio.

Titles and deeds to lands in Nebraska, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and other States, running into thousands of acres, were found in Norton's possession. One deed describing 50,000 acres of pine lands in Virginia and another describing 20,000 acres in Nebraska appeared to be genuine.

SUPREME COURT BARS "THRU."

Simplified Spelling Not Followed in Nation's Highest Tribunal.

Washington, D. C.—The question of the propriety of using the modified spelling in accordance with the order of the President was incidentally raised in the Supreme Court of the United States. Solicitor General Hoyt was engaged in presenting the Government's side in a case and had occasion to refer to a long quotation in his brief from a decision of the Court rendered some years ago by Justice Bradley, in which the word "through" was spelled "thru."

Chief Justice Fuller held a copy of the brief in his hand, and when the word was reached interrupted Mr. Hoyt with a question as to whether the extract was intended to be a quotation from Justice Bradley's official opinion. "In all except the spelling," replied Mr. Hoyt. "Ah!" significantly responded the Chief Justice, with an interrogative inflection that caused a general smile through the court room. The court has not adopted the simplified spelling system.

LABOR SCARCE WORLD OVER.

Hopes to Recruit Workmen For Panama Canal From Spain.

Washington, D. C.—Through their efforts to obtain labor for work on the Isthmian Canal members of the Canal Commission have found that there is a dearth of labor in practically all parts of the world. So great is the demand for labor in connection with railroad building and other improvements on a large scale that countries which formerly have sent thousands of laborers to this country monthly are now using thier labor at home.

Leroy Park, an agent for the commission, has been in Spain for some months recruiting laborers, and has found many difficulties in obtaining the Spanish workmen who have shown themselves so well adapted to the conditions in Panama. Hundreds of men whom he has sent to the canal zone are writing favorable reports to their friends in Spain, and in a short time Mr. Park expects to send a large number of workmen.

UTES SKIRMISH WITH TROOPS.

Recover Fifty Ponies Seized by Army in a Stampede.

Sheridan, Wyo.—A skirmish occurred between a band of the renegade Ute Indians and a troop of the Tenth Cavalry on Bitter Creek. The troops had captured fifty Ute ponies, severely frightening five Indian herders.

As the troopers were driving away the ponies 100 Utes, fully armed, surrounded the cavalrymen and the ponies, stampeding the ponies with revolver shots and war whoops. The Indians recovered all the ponies but five that were killed by the troopers in an effort to stop the stampede.

The Indians did not fire at the soldiers. The soldiers desisted from attacking the Utes as the reds greatly outnumbered the troopers. Troopers say that, as far as they can ascertain from rumor and observation, the Indians will fight with little provocation.

Insurance Agents Restored.

Insurance Commissioner Prewitt, of Kentucky, ordered the Mutual Life to restore to their positions five discharged managing agents.

Professional Cards.

William M. Adams,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
OFFICE; Room 1, Court House.
"Practices in all Courts
Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.
CLANTON, - - - Ala.

J. EARLE GOWAN,
DENTIST.
Office in Kicker Building
CLANTON. ALABAMA.

A. C. Smith,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in All Courts
Office 6th St. opp. Court House
CLANTON, -:- ALABAMA.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON
Office at Residence
CLANTON. ALABAMA.

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

J. Osmond Middleton,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St., Court House
CLANTON, -:- ALABAMA

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
CLANTON

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.

I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
to
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

LAND FOR SALE.

Eighty acres land in Beat 10, close to Cooper's. For sale cheap. Call on or address L. H. GENTRY,
Mt. Creek, Ala.
tf R. F. D. No. 1.

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weller's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	60	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five-year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

	Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	3.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

A. A. JACKSON

Lomax, Alabama.

General merchandise, corn, hay, shorts, shoes, men's hats, Ladies hats. Best quality and lowest prices in all goods.

Highest Market Price Paid for Chickens and Eggs

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St.

—Is at The Head of The Procession.—

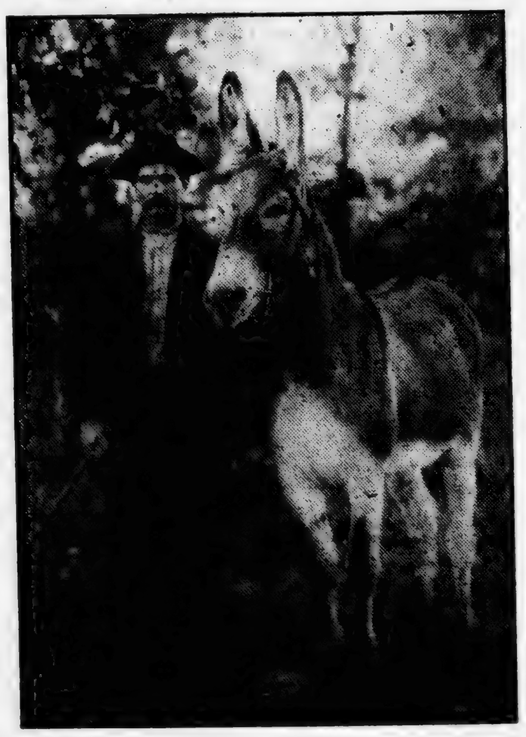
Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Shoes,

FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES.

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton. . . Alabama



Imported Jack "LIJE"

Fee $8.00, Insured

Stands for service at his owners', JOHN THAMES, ½ mile East of Rocky Mount Church, Beat 1.

CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT.

THE TROLLEY CAR.

The trolley scares us 'most to death!
We cross the street, and lose our breath,
We have to go so very fast
Before the trolley car comes past.

Especially with baby slow—
We have to make his carriage go!
Oh, yes, it greatly frightens us—
The trolley car and all its fuss!
—Little Folks.

A TRUE CAT STORY.

A family moved to a new home twelve miles from the old one. They gave their cats to a friend about six miles from the new home. One of them, the mother cat, remained at her new quarters only a short time, and nothing was heard from her until this summer, when nearly two years had passed. One morning she was discovered in the yard of her old mistress' home in the city which she had never seen, being born and raised at the old home in the country. To the greeting of her mistress she responded with every show of affection and delight. Of course, the wanderer was made welcome. She shows a decided aversion to being put out of doors at all, and clings with a devotedness which is really touching to her old friends. "Now," asks the writer, "could this be merely chance that pussy in the tramp life, should find her way to that particular place, or do these dumb creatures know more than we give them credit for?"—Hartford Courant.

PRETTY EXPERIMENT.

Here is a little experiment that will amuse you. Take a piece of wood thick enough to rest on a table in an upright position. Bore several holes of different sizes in it, leaving some of them straight—that is, of the same diameter all the way through. Others you must make of a conical shape by cutting away some of the wood on one side. Now stand the piece of wood on a table, supported, if necessary, and suspend before it at a little distance on the side of the large end of the conical openings a piece of paper. This may be hung from the chandelier, but it must be low enough to be opposite to the holes in the wood.

The Perforated Block and Card.

If you now blow through the straight holes toward the paper it will naturally be blown away from you; but blow through the small end of the conical opening, and the paper will remain stationary, or may even be drawn toward you. Try it with a candle flame and a similar result will follow.

The explanation is that when you blow through the straight hole the air current is kept together in a column and forces the object away from it. When you blow through the small end of the conical hole the air current is spread, or dispersed, and goes off around the object, leaving it unmoved.

In blowing very hard, as, for instance, if you should use a bellows, or even with the breath blown hard, the air back of the wood around the hole is often blown through the hole, too, and a return current of air is thus made to fill the space of that displaced, causing the paper or flame to be drawn toward the hole instead of away from it.—New York Mail.

MY CHAMELEON.

Of all the pets with which time has made me acquainted the oddest was Jim, my chameleon, a Floridan by birth, who traveled to New York in a mail-bag.

A chameleon is a kind of lizard. Mine was about four inches long. When he first came, he was a puzzle to me; for I knew not what he was, how he lived, or on what he fed. But a letter told me to keep him warm, and that was all that was needed.

A florist provided me with a bushy geranium, and on this Jim made his home. He would stretch himself along the boughs where the sun shone upon him. When he became tired of that, he would rest himself by twining his tail around a branch and hanging downward.

Generally he made no sound; but once, when a visitor was annoying him, he made a slight hissing noise. He was no fighter, and his expressing pleasure or displeasure aloud was strange to me. When he seemed to be feeling a state of lizard content, his body emitted a faint, peculiar odor.

What did he feed on? Flies and bugs. It being the winter, flies were few, and I haunted the kitchen and market-places for them. An offer to a small boy of a cent for every fly brought a small supply, which Jim welcomed. The tongue of a chameleon is sticky on the end. It is very long, and generally curled up in his mouth; but, when a fly comes in sight, this long tongue uncurls in a twinkling and hits the fly. It sticks to the tip of the tongue, and that is the last of the fly. The rapidity of the tongue's movements is wonderful.

The peculiarity of the chameleon is its change of color. It does not turn all colors, only those of plants—leaves and boughs. I often placed it on red objects, but its change would not be red, nearer black. The reason for its changing is probably this: It is a very weak, defenceless creature, and is given this power as a means of hiding itself from its enemies. It was exceedingly difficult to find Jim, even on that small plant, his color would be so like the leaves.

There was nothing repulsive about him. He grew very tame, and would curl up in the palm of my hand and stay there all the evening. He liked the warmth—perhaps he was homesick for Florida.

Poor Jim came to an untimely end. His mistress went away, the maid let the fire go out, and the cold killed little Jim.—Youth.

DINNER TABLE TRICK.

This is a curious little experiment which will interest everybody at the dinner table, for it calls for nothing except what you are likely to find on the table.

Cut an orange into halves and from one half remove the pulp leaving the peel entire in the form of a hollow hemisphere or cup. With a penknife or a toothpick bore two holes in the bottom of this cup and put it into a tumbler, forcing it down about half way.

The tumbler should be a little smaller than the orange used so that you will have to squeeze the peel-cup a little in order to get it in.

Then it will press firmly against the glass and stay where you put it instead of dropping to the bottom. Put the cup in right side up, that is, with the yellow peel below and pour red wine into it. The wine will run through the holes and you must keep on pouring until the level of the wine in the glass just touches the bottom of the cup. Now fill the rest of the glass above the orange cup with water and await results.

Soon you will see a thin red jet of wine rising like a fountain through the water from one of the holes. At the same time, though you cannot see it so well, a colorless stream of water flows downward through the other hole.

The two liquids do not mix much, but merely exchange places, so that in a few minutes the lower part of the glass, below the cup, will contain the water and the upper part will be filled with wine.

Position of the Orange.

This is as it should be, because water is heavier than wine and naturally goes to the bottom. The curious thing is that the wine and water do not mix, but each selects one hole for itself. It is like the trick with the candle burning in a lamp chimney with a partition at the top, so that cold fresh air goes down on one side while the hot air and smoke escape on the other.

Oil may be substituted for the wine or you may fill the bottom of the glass with water and then pour in milk or some thin-colored syrup. —New York Evening Mail.

British Perspicacity.

Charles Francis Adams was escorting an English friend about Boston. They were viewing the different objects of attraction and finally came to Bunker Hill. They stood looking at the splendid monument, when Adams remarked:

"This is the place, sir, where Warren fell."

"Ah," replied the Englishman, evidently not very familiar with American history. "Was he seriously hurt by his fall?"

Mr. Adams looked at his friend. "Hurt!" said he. "He was killed, sir."

"Ah, indeed," the Englishman replied, still eying the monument and commencing to compute its height in his own mind. "Well, I should think he might have been—falling so far." —Boston Herald.

A fireproof chimney made entirely of paper has been erected in Breslau, Prussia. It is fifty feet in height.

Ben M. Jacobs & Bro

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

BIRMINGHAM, A

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Assoc

OF ALABAMA.

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATU

By the People and for the People.

Chilton County Branch

Organized February 3, 1900.

W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDL Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and and live stock against loss by fire, wind and li The cheapest, safest and most sensible method ance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per

Full particulars furnished upon application to

WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanto

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFE

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue —of the—

St. Louis Globe-Demo

—With—

THE UNION

—For—

$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only

The St. Louis Globe Democrat should not be classed with the weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best National News and Home Journal published in the United States. Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merch professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION, Clanton, Ala

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street

Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watch and Optician

Eyes Correc Fitted

Mail orders prompt

DO YOU WAN

Letterheads, Noteheads Billheads, Envelopes,

OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?

Then Call at

THE UNION OFFI

and See Fine Work at Low Prices.

500 Noteheads 500 Envelopes All For $2.0

Good Work on Good Material, done on Good M Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabam

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE W

We guarantee water or no charge ma Estimates given. Address

L. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby,

Subscribe Now

POLICY CALLED OBSOLETE

Professor Tells Germans Doctrine Not Needed.

WILLIAM IS PRESENT

Speech of Professor Burgess of University of Berlin— Comment Caused in Eu- on the Statements Made.

—The text of the speech by Professor Burgess, dean his University, the first in- of the Theodore Roosevelt ship of American history ruction at the University of has been printed by the uni- ress and widely distributed and scholastic circles. some curiosity to see pre- hat Professor Burgess said the Monroe Doctrine being te, upon the obsoleteness of protective tariff and on the States' interests being pro- the extensive German emi- o South America. address was made in the of the Emperor and fre- ferences were made in it to t Roosevelt the impression to have been made that the t desired to send a message any on those subjects. Some pers give prominence to Pro- burgess' remarks concerning roe Doctrine, seemingly at- significance to it. A trans- the passage in question fol-

y first meeting with the t after my appointment to fessorship it pleased him to me as an ambassador of iendship and civilization. He of through this that he rec- and appreciated the great ich His Majesty, the highly and magnanimous German r, gave to the world January . It is the opinion of the nt, it is the opinion of my men in general, that this idea ost pregnant that has come our time, and that it gives of the great sense of culture raordinary political wisdom ighty author. The execution dea makes it possible to sub- ctions of the highest impor- which can scarcely be touched a diplomatic way to the most ental examination and the iendly consideration. re are, for example, two doc- n the policy of the United which are regarded almost doctrines, the discussion of ay not even be proposed by ign power without risk of hostility in the United These are the high protect- f theory and the Monroe Doc- Our politicians do not appear the least notion that both of ctrines are most obsolete and e reconstruction of European and their constitutions and eptance by the United States its position as a world powe ade them both nearly sensesor Burgess said he regard- discussion of the protective plomatically between the Uni- tes and any foreign Govern- futile, but the new ambassa- peace and culture would be free from limitations such as the diplomatists. They would to speak from their own con- without fear of being pun- r recalled, or, what was still portant, without fear of dis- or undermining friendships. best interests of the United and the world." Professor added, "would be advanced rong Teutonic tide of emigra- South America, by which the ent of that gigantic part of tinent by men capable of cul- it would be secured."

AN DEFICIT $4,000,000.

Treasury Far From Able to Meet Expected Demands.

na, Cuba.—The Treasury of the lic of Cuba, even if the officials d in collecting the estimated e, will be unable to meet the ds upon it by about $4,000,- according to Major Ladd, Su- r of the Treasury. In a report overnor Magoon he has sub- the following figures: nce required to meet the reg- udget, $17,500,000; estimate nce required to meet war ex- , $2,000,000; estimated neces- o meet the increase in Rural , military occupation damages laims incident to war, $2,500,- alance required to meet spe- propriations, $9,000,000; to- bilities, $31,000,000. ilable balance October 1, 1906, 0,000; estimated revenue for maining nine months of the year, $16,000,000; total as- 27,000,000.

Planters Killed in Duel.

reot Ryan and L. A. Wright, nown planters at L'Argent, became involved in a duel with following a game of cards, th were killed. J. W. Breland, ne store the shooting occurred, illed attempting to separate n.

Newfoundland Fisheries Agitation.

ston Spencer Churchill further ed in the House of Commons ttitude of the British Govern- on the Newfoundland fisheries ; newspapers at St. John's ne to attack the modus vi- with the United States.

Cuban Officials Dismissed.

ernor Magoon dismissed nine- Cuban officials in the effort to own the expenses of the island ment.

cobs & Bro
e and Rugs.
R AGENTS—
astic Book Cases
Cabinets.
ng.
MINGHAM, A
Insurance Associ
ALABAMA.
L ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
and for the People.
ounty Branch
ebruary 3, 1900.
WALLACE C. EDLER
Sec'y.-Treas.
ings, outbuildings and
oss by fire, wind and lig
most sensible method 43-100 of 1 per pon application to
E C. EDLER, Clanton
IBINATION OFFE
"TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue
of the——
Globe-Demo
-With—
UNION
—For—
, one year, only hould not be classed with the mi-Weekly, eight or more compartson the biggest, best ublished in the United States.
all dern Newspaper
y from the Daily issue. It eeds of the Farmer, the Merch p thoroughly posted without lso contains a great variety of
o every member of the family.
Clubbing Offer
but may be withdrawn at any dress
THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala
Practical Watch
and Optician
Eyes Corre
Fitted
Mail orders prompt
U WA
s, Noteheads
, Envelopes,
ELSE PRINTED
n Call at
ON OFF
Work at Low Prices.
ill For $2.0
rial, done on Good
ION, Clanton, Alabam
Prevents Fevers
URNISH PURE W
r or no charge
Address
ARBER CO.
ibe Now

POLICY CALLED OBSOLETE

Professor Tells Germans Doctrine Not Needed.

KAISER WILLIAM IS PRESENT

Speech of Professor Burgess at the University of Berlin—Comment Caused in Europe on the Statements Made.

Berlin.—The text of the speech delivered by Professor Burgess, dean of Columbia University, the first incumbent of the Theodore Roosevelt professorship of American history and constitution at the University of Berlin, has been printed by the university authorities and widely distributed among official and scholastic circles. There is some curiosity to see precisely what Professor Burgess said regarding the Monroe Doctrine being obsolete, upon the obsoleteness of the protective tariff and on the United States' interests being promoted by the extensive German emigration to South America.

The address was made in the presence of the Emperor and frequent references were made in it to Kaiser Roosevelt the impression seems to have been made that the latter desired to send a message to Germany on those subjects. Some papers give prominence to Professor Burgess' remarks concerning the Monroe Doctrine, seemingly attaching significance to it. A translation of the passage in question follows:

"At my first meeting with the Kaiser after my appointment to the professorship it pleased him to receive me as an ambassador of German friendship and civilization. He showed through this that he recognized and appreciated the great work which His Majesty, the highly gifted and magnanimous German Kaiser, gave to the world January 18. It is the opinion of the Kaiser. It is the opinion of my colleagues in general, that this idea is the most pregnant that has come to light in our time, and that it gives evidence of the great sense of culture and extraordinary political wisdom of the mighty author. The execution of it makes it possible to subordinate questions of the highest importance, which can scarcely be touched upon in diplomatic way to the most minute examination and the most friendly consideration.

"These are, for example, two doctrines in the policy of the United States which are regarded almost as dogmas, the discussion of which may not even be proposed by any foreign power without risk of serious hostility in the United States. These are the high protective tariff theory and the Monroe Doctrine. Our politicians do not appear to have the least notion that both of these doctrines are most obsolete and call for reconstruction of European conditions and their constitutions and importance by the United States in view of its position as a world power which makes them both nearly senseless."

Professor Burgess said he regarded a discussion of the protective tariff diplomatically between the United States and any foreign Government as futile, but the new ambassador of German peace and culture would be entirely free from limitations such as hamper the diplomatists. They would be able to speak from their own conviction without fear of being punished or recalled, or, what was still more important, without fear of disturbing or undermining friendships. "The best interests of the United States and the world," Professor Burgess added, "would be advanced by a strong Teutonic tide of emigration to South America, by which the control of that gigantic part of the continent by men capable of culture and ideals would be secured."

CUBAN DEFICIT $4,000,000.

Insular Treasury Far From Able to Meet Expected Demands.

Havana, Cuba.—The Treasury of the Republic of Cuba, even if the officials succeed in collecting the estimated revenue, will be unable to meet the demands upon it by about $4,000,000, according to Major Ladd, Superintendent of the Treasury. In a report to Governor Magoon he has submitted the following figures:

Revenue required to meet the regular budget, $17,500,000; estimated revenue required to meet war expenses, $2,000,000; estimated necessary to meet the increase in Rural Guard, military occupation damages and claims incident to war, $2,500,000; balance required to meet special appropriations, $9,000,000; total necessities, $31,000,000.

Available balance October 1, 1906, $12,000,000; estimated revenue for remaining nine months of the year, $16,000,000; total assets, $27,000,000.

Planters Killed in Duel.

Robert Ryan and L. A. Wright, sugar planters at L'Argent, became involved in a duel with pistols following a game of cards, and were killed. J. W. Breland, who was present when the shooting occurred, was killed attempting to separate them.

Newfoundland Fisheries Agitation.

Winston Spencer Churchill further replied in the House of Commons to a remark of the British Government on the Newfoundland fisheries question. Newspapers at St. John's continue to attack the modus vivendi with the United States.

Cuban Officials Dismissed.

Governor Magoon dismissed nineteen Cuban officials in the effort to reduce the expenses of the island government.

FEATHERS GLUED ON WOMAN

Four Matrons of East Sandy, Pa. Humiliate Her.

Pour Molasses on Her, Lead Her Through Mining Camp and Tie Her in the Woods.

Franklin, Pa.—Four married women of the village of East Sandy, four miles from here, treated a neighbor to a coat of stove polish, molasses and feathers.

They were arrested, pleaded guilty and paid fines of $10 each.

The four women are respected members of the community. They are Mrs. Verda Lowry, Mrs. Bertha Brinkman, Mrs. Nellie Glaze and Mrs. Hilda Pherson.

Their victim was Mrs. Hattie Lowry, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Verda Lowry, their husbands being brothers.

The four women called at the home of Mrs. Lowry and told her they intended to humiliate her before the community. Two of the women seized her while the other two daubed stove polish on her face. Then molasses was poured over her head and feathers were applied.

Thus adorned, the woman was marched from her home to a railroad camp, where 200 men are employed. There was a suspension of work until the self-appointed vigilance committee took their victim to the outskirts of the town, where they tied her to a tree and left her. A man came along half an hour later and released the captive.

Mrs. Lowry came to Franklin and had warrants issued for the women. Sheriff McElhinney went to East Sandy and arrested all but Mrs. Pherson, who was not at home.

When the three were arraigned before Alderman Henderson they pleaded guilty.

Mrs. Glaze said they had no regrets for what they had done. She said the woman's actions were intolerable.

Mrs. Lowry, the victim, said there was no justification for such treatment and that she will continue to live at East Sandy.

The discipline was not inflicted without warning, the four women said. It was asserted by one of them that they had told Mrs. Lowry if she did not mend her ways they would revenge themselves upon her for the disgrace they said she had brought on the community. Men who criticised their conduct were the more severe because one of the four women was the victim's sister-in-law, Mrs. Verda Lowry.

They said the sister at least should not have mixed in such an affair, whatever the other women might have felt called on to do. Most of the persons questioned about Mrs. Hattie Lowry said they had only respect for her and were sorry she had had such an experience.

$25,406,258 ASKED FOR CANAL.

Estimates For Fiscal Year Ending June 30, 1908, Are Made Public.

Washington, D. C.—The Isthmian Canal Comission desires an appropriation of $25,406,258.73 to continue its work on the Panama Canal during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908. The estimates calling for this amount of money were made public by the commission. The amount appropriated for the canal work for the fiscal year which will end June 30, 1907, was $25,456,415.08.

The estimates for the next fiscal year are surprisingly close to the appropriations for the current year, a fact explained by the statement at the commission headquarters that in the absence of exact knowledge of what will be required it was thought best to be guided by the experience gathered before.

FOUND MISER'S $50,000 HOARD.

Notes, Mortgages and Certificates of Deposit Buried on Farm.

Winona, Minn.—Notes, mortgages, certificates of deposit and other personal property, worth thousands of dollars, have been dug up on the farm of Lemuel Hill, an aged hermit of Pleasant Hill. It was supposed the miser had left valuables, but the searching party was amazed by the value of the documents unearthed.

On his deathbed Hill told a friend of a man who knew where his valuables were secreted. It developed, however, that this man had only a vague knowledge of the hiding place. A party was organized and much time was spent in digging before the hoard was uncovered.

No will was left, and the property, which will be worth at least $50,000, will be divided among Hill's two brothers and a sister.

WEST VIRGINIA'S BIG REVIVAL.

More Than 2000 Accessions to Church Membership Already.

Wheeling, W. Va.—A simultaneous revival occurred in all the West Virginia churches of the Christian denomination, and an unusual increase in accessions to church membership is being scored, the accessions reaching more than 2000.

The revival reached its climax at Wheeling with a great mass meeting in the Court Theatre. Two thousand people were in attendance. More than forty churches, located in Parkersburg, Wheeling, Huntington, Sistersville and Clarksburg, held the revivals.

Colorado Teacher Victim of Cold.

Miss Laura Scott, a school teacher, 19 years old, was found dead near Parker, Col., of exposure. She had lost her way while returning from making a call, and had frozen to death.

Nine Persons Executed.

Nine persons charged with attempting to blow up the Cronstadt court martial, and eight of the men arrested for the recent robbery in St. Petersburg, Russia, were executed.

ANNA GOULD BEATEN BY COUNT CASTELLANE

Asks Custody of Children---Corespondents Are Not Named.

PITIFUL STORY TOLD IN COURT

Wreck of American Girl's Married Life Revealed by Counsel in Long Address—Divorce Decree Prayed For.

Paris, France.—The Castellane divorce case was heard before M. Henry Ditte, president of the Tribunal of First Instance of the Seine. Neither the count nor countess, formerly Anna Gould, daughter of Jay Gould, of New York City, was present.

Maitre Cruppi, for the countess, pleaded for a divorce upon the documentary evidence submitted, and told a complete and pitiful story of the wreck of her married life.

In an extended review counsel declared that the countess at the beginning of the suit was not acting under influence, but solely for the purpose of ending forever the peril of the moral desolation of her household. He explained the marriage contract, by which the regime of separation of property was established, from the very beginning, and stated that domestic difficulties arose over the question of money.

Ill treatment soon followed, the count even striking the plaintiff before the servants.

When he reached the question of the infidelity charged against the count, Maitre Cruppi did not mention names or even initials, designating the corespondents as "Mme. A," "Mme. B," and so on.

Maitre Cruppi asked that the countess be given the custody of her three children.

The courtroom was crowded, among those present being many members of the American colony.

The early troubles of the countess' married life were due primarily to the count's inordinate extravagance, the lawyer declared. Even in spite of their domestic infelicity the countess was too good and scrupulous to begin an action for divorce until she possessed full proof.

Anna Gould was only twenty years old when she was married in 1895 in New York City to Count Boni de Castellane, and, Maitre Cruppi asserted, the happiness of the honeymoon was disturbed on their arrival in Paris by the count's demands for money. The countess' income was then $700,000 and the count allowed her $80 pin money.

In the face of the overwhelming evidence submitted, Maitre Cruppi declared, his opopnent could not expect the tribunal to ask for the summoning of witnesses, and added:

"Does he imagine by dragging out the case to obtain forgiveness? No! No! Count Boni's plan to reconquer his wife's affections is too transparent!"

The final rupture came the day after the famous entertainment of King Charles of Portugal, December 12, 1905.

The count insisted that they, the count and countess, go to a shooting party given by a noblewoman of whom the countess had cause to complain. When the count became enraged at the countess' refusal she abrúptly announced her intention to separate from him and began legal proceedings.

Counsel placed at $8,000,000 the total of the count's expenditures preceding the appointment of a trustee.

Maitre Cruppi asked that the custody of her three children be given to the countess.

TAFT TO VISIT MANILA AGAIN.

He Will See the New Philippine's Assembly Installed Next Year.

Washington, D. C.—The President is preparing to redeem his promise, made to the Filipinos through Secretary Taft, that they shall have a Parliament of their own, conditioned upon their good behavior, for a term of two years, and it is understood that Secretary Taft himself will proceed to the Philippines nett spring to witness the installation of the new form of representative government. On March 27, 1905, the Philippine census was published, and consequently two years from that date, March 27, 1907, under the terms of the act of Congress, the President will direct the Philippine Commission to call a general election for the choice of delegates to what will be known as the Philippine Assembly.

This body is to take over all legislative powers heretofore exercised by the Philippine Commission in all that part of the archipelago not inhabited by Moros or non-Christian tribes.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR RIOTERS.

Negro Charged With Murdering Policeman, Convicted.

Atlanta, Ga.—Life imprisonment was the sentence imposed upon Alexander Walker, a Brownsville negro, for the murder of County Policeman J. L. Heard, of which he was found guilty, with a recommendation of mercy. A motion for a new trial was immediately filed by his attorneys.

Walker was indicted with fifty-eight other negroes for the murder of Policeman Heard during the September riots here, his being the first case tried.

National W. C. T. U. Elects Officers.

At Hartford, Conn., the national convention of the W. C. T. U. elected these officers: President, Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, of Maine; vice-president, Miss Anna Gordon, of Illinois; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Susanna M. D. Fry, of Illinois; recording secretary, Mrs. E. P. Anderson, of North Dakota; treasurer, Mrs. Harriet W. Brand, of Illinois; secretary of the Y. W. C. T. U., Mrs. Cora Seberry, of New York.

KHIVA THE FORGOTTEN.

A Great City Wasting Away Among the Sands Which Surround It.

Bokhara is fallen. Samarkand is the seat of a Russian provincial Governor, and Merv is a manufacturing town with a castiron drinking fountain. Khiva, too, was swallowed in its turn, but disgorged again; though the kingdom fell, it was handed back to its owners, and no Russian may now enter except by invitation.

The Khivan nobles still ride a-hawking, and caravans in the Kara Kum sands still fear the armed horsemen who dash down from the north.

Though compassed about on every side by Russian territory, and in sight of the breaches made by the Russian guns in 1873, the Khivan still screws his revenue from a trembling people, joyously cuts throats in the open market, and dispenses the high, the middle and the low justice from a raised dais in his courtyard.

Burnaby rode to the city from the north, and underwent dreadful privations to spend three days there. Arminius Vambery, nearly the most courageous traveler of modern times, reached there disguised as a holy man. The American McGahn entered with Gen. Kauffmann in 1873, Dr. Landsell and Capt. Abbott made the journey, and, lastly, Mr. Robert L. Jefferson, as recorded in his book called "A Second Ride to Khiva," made a long bicycle ride across the Russian steppes, and a camel ride down to Khiva from Orenburg, in the north. But other than these, I know only of Russian officers who have been within the gates.

Since the Russians themselves have agreed to keep out, they have done all in their power to prevent others from going into the city or even crossing the boundaries of the little kingdom. What they fear from visitors it is not easy to imagine. Four antiquated, muzzle-loading, smooth-bore cannon, and a corrupt and unintelligent court circle revolving about a stupid ruler would not repay a second thought even from the spies of the Viceroy of India. But the fact is that foreigners are not allowed access to the state, and the eighteenth regiment of chasseurs is quartered at Petro Alexandrovsk in such a way as to control the canal from the Oxus.

In the old days, caravans from Merv and Bokhara were frequent. Carpets and stuffs were sent both west and east from the city in exchange for drugs and tea. Today some cotton is sent up the river to the railroad, and occasionally a small party of merchants comes from the south; but more and more Khiva is becoming forgotten and isolated. Modern improvements, instead of carrying her into the current with the world, have left her in slack water; the deserts are a more effective barrier today than they were two centuries ago, and a great city is left to feed upon itself, till it shall waste away and become part of the sands that compass it.—From Langdon Warner's "Getting into Khiva" in the Century.

Wotan was the chief god of the ancient Germans, and from him is derived our name of Wotansday or Wednesday.

Experiments made in Germany show that butter keeps best if mixed with 3 to 5 per cent of salt.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, of habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Big Piano Factory Fire.

New York.—Hundreds of men were thrown out of employment and money loss in excess of $250,000 was caused by a fire which destroyed the piano factory of Jacob Brothers Company in West Thirty-ninth street. About fifty firemen who had been sent into the building during an early stage of the fire were forced to flee for their lives when barrels of oils and paint in the cellar began to burst.

GROWTH OF GOLD RESERVE

Report of Charles H. Treat, United States Treasurer.

Total, $877,296,238—Treasury Surplus For 1906, $25,669,322—Available Cash Balance Big.

Washington, D. C. — Charles H. Treat, Treasurer of the United States, submitted his annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury, and in reference to the more noticeable transactions said in part:

The net result of the ordinary revenues and expenditures for the fiscal year 1906 was a surplus of $25,669,322, as compared with a deficit of $23,004,228 for the preceding year. A continuation of these favorable conditions is reflected in the transactions for the first quarter of the current fiscal year, in which the revenues were $5,871,314 in excess of the expenditures.

The available cash balance on June 30, 1906, was $180,689,354, an increase of $35,211,362 as compared with that of twelve months earlier.

The monetary stock of the country took on a growth during the year of $186,866,727, of which $118,050,777 was in gold, $5,450,396 in silver and $65,392,554 in national bank notes, while the Treasury notes decreased $2,027,000. The aggregate stock of money at the close of the year was $3,069,976,591, of which $2,736,646,628 was in circulation.

The national bank depositaries have been utilized during the year as a medium through which the excessive accumulation of money in the Treasury was restored to the channels of trade. About April 1 an unusual stringency in the money market was relieved by the temporary increase of public deposits with depositary banks, to enable them to import gold. Through this aid more than $49,000,000 in gold was imported. The balance in banks to the credit of the general fund on May 5 was $102,708,123, the highest point reached during the fiscal year.

The national bank notes presented for redemption during the year amounted to $296,292,885, as against $308,298,760 in 1905; the national banks have not issued $5 notes to the limit allowed by law, and thereby have forced upon the Treasury the burden of supplying the smaller denominations required by the business interests of the country. However, in response to the appeal of the Secretary of the Treasury, the banks have increased the volume of their $5 notes.

The Treasury holding of gold continues to attract the attention of financiers both at home and abroad. It is apparent from the continued accumulation that a large share of the product of the gold mines of the world is brought to the United States. The gold coin and bullion in the Treasury on June 30, 1905, amounted to $706,592,399. At the close of the fiscal year 1906 it had advanced to $807,051,690. By October 26 it attained a maximum of $877,296,238.

The United States paper currency issued amounted to $629,896,000, and redemptions were $577,445,100, a net increase in the volume outstanding of $52,450,900.

The pressure from bankers and others for larger and more regular supply of small denominations of currency continues unabated, while the Treasury is without resources for the issue of small bills to comply with their urgent requests. It is to be expected that Congress will ultimately enact legislation that it has under consideration, which will bring full relief from the existing conditions.

FIGHTING ENGLISH SOAP TRUST.

Newspaper Publicity Aiding Firms Which Oppose Combine.

London.—Great public interest has been aroused here by the efforts of the English press to wreck the newly formed English soap combine. The trust began operations by issuing soap in packets of fifteen ounces to the pound and by adopting the customary methods to coerce the smaller manufacturers into joining.

But a goodly number of prominent firms have stood out and are being rewarded by free advertisements in the daily papers, which publish lists of the firms outside the combination and urge the public to confine their soap purchases to them. The consumption of trust soaps has been seriously affected by this boycotting campaign, and already the short-weight packages have been withdrawn from sale.

NO DEATH PENALTY IN FRANCE.

Cabinet Approves Measure and Parliament Will Make It a Law.

Paris, France.—The Cabinet held a meeting and approved a measure providing for the abolition of the death penalty. This means that Parliament at its coming session will enact a law to that effect.

Such action has been expected since the office of "Monsieur de Paris," or public executioner, was suppressed a few months ago by the excision of his salary from the budget. At that time neither the Sarrien Ministry nor the Chamber of Deputies took formal action declaring that capital punishment would no longer be inflicted in France, but M. Clemenceau, the new Prime Minister, has decided on taking a definite step to that end.

Newfoundland Resists Treaty.

Newfoundland issued an order in defiance of the Anglo-American agreement, and has decided to test the validity of the modus vivendi and intends to prosecute fishermen who have been shipped by Americans outside the three-mile limit.

President Takes Rest.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, went to her cottage—Pine Knot—in Virginia, to work on his message to Congress.

The Ideal Family Laxative

is one that can be used by the entire family, young and old, weak and strong, without any danger of harmful effects. It should have properties which insure the same dose always having the same effect, otherwise the quantity will have to be increased and finally lose its effect altogether. These properties can be found in that old family remedy, Brandreth's Pills, because its ingredients are of the purest herbal extracts, and every pill is kept for three years before being sold, which allows them to mellow. We do not believe there is a laxative on the market that is so carefully made.

Brandreth's Pills are the same fine laxative tonic pill your grandparents used. They have been in use for over a century and are sold in every drug store and medicine store, either plain or sugar-coated.

TIMID SAVAGES.

Indians Who Take to the Woods at the Sight of White Men.

An American who has spent several years in the state of Chiapas, Mexico, says the Caribes are the most primitive Indians in southern Mexico.

Their clothing is made of bark fibre and bows and arrows are their only weapons. The bows are five feet or more in length, the arrows are well made and feathered with bright colored plumage. By means of arrows having a ring on them they manage to stun birds so as to take them alive, while fish are obtained by means of very long arrows, barbed all the way.

These people, says Modern Mexico, are timid and gentle, running out of their huts to hide if any strangers comes near. Few of them know any Spanish, and even these spokesmen rarely visit a town, once in two or three years seeming to satisfy them.

The Zapotecan Indians on the west coast seem in all respects the finest of all the tribes, and they certainly are the handsomest. When the girls of the tribe wish to show great courtesy or respect they reply to any question by singing the answer, using any notes they wish.

Another race called Lamachiks are as timid as the Caribes. If a traveler passing through the country wishes to stay all night they will say, "We have no room. Got a big family and some friends are coming to stay all night. Go on to the next place—they will keep you."

A man can ride thirty miles and hear the same story at each place he stops. The only way one can do is to go in and put down his traps and order the mozo to stake out the horses. If they complain tell them to get out.

A piece of money left in the house next morning will heal all wounds. Often they run off to the brush driving their pigs and chickens before them, there to remain hidden until the intruders have departed.

Some curious customs may be observed among these people. One of these is a "barrido" literally, "a sweeping." For instance, when a man is dangerously sick his wife will make a "barrido," hoping in this way to save his life.

She kills a fat pig, makes a great quantity of tortillas, tamales, pichol, etc., and asks all their friends to the feast. Naturally they are never loath to accept, and the feasting goes on for several days. They sweep the house and yard, and even the road, spotlessly clean, and sweep, and sweep.

Then a new cross is put up at the road to keep away the diablo. Sometimes this cross is adorned with flowers. If the man does not seem to improve they will do more sweeping, and put up another cross at another road or path.

The first clock at Westminster was erected in 1288.

HARD TO SEE.

Even When the Facts About Coffee Are Plain.

It is curious how people will refuse to believe what one can clearly see.

Tell the average man or woman that the slow but cumulative poisonous effect of caffeine—the alkaloid in tea and coffee—tends to weaken the heart, upset the nervous system and cause indigestion, and they may laugh at you if they don't know the facts.

Prove it by science or by practical demonstration in the recovery of coffee drinkers from the above conditions, and a large per cent. of the human family will shrug their shoulders, take some drugs and—keep on drinking coffee or tea.

"Coffee never agreed with me nor with several members of our household," writes a lady. "It enervates, depresses and creates a feeling of languor and heaviness. It was only by leaving off coffee and using Postum that we discovered the cause and cure of these ills.

"The only reason, I am sure, why Postum is not used altogether to the exclusion of ordinary coffee is, many persons do not know and do not seem willing to learn the facts and how to prepare this nutritious beverage. There's only one way—according to directions—boil it fully 15 minutes. Then it is delicious." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Augusta Selected.

Americus, Ga.—The annual convention of the Georgia division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, adjourned to assemble a year hence in Augusta.

The meeting just ended in Americus was a most enthusiastic one. In point of attendance it was the largest held in a number of years. The proceedings throughout were harmonious and much important work accomplished.

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Nov 8 1906.

Union Clubbing List

THE UNION And Yellow Jacket	$1.05
THE UNION And Southern Ruralist	1.00
THE UNION And Union Educator	1.00
THE UNION And Home and Farm	1.00
THE UNION And Weekly Age-Herald	1.30
THE UNION and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
THE UNION and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-W'kly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
THE UNION And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.50
THE UNION and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.50
THE UNION And Rural South	1.50
THE UNION And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.50

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

AGAIN.

We have carried Chilton county by over 200 majority, thus equalling the majorities of 1902 and added together. So you see the new management of the demmies did not amount to much after all. Next week we will publish the detailed vote by beats, as usual. The Republicans have a big majority in Congress, and have carried New York state. Well, we have most everything in sight. "So mote it be."

LETTER TO COMPANY.

Nevada Sets Out Laws for Foreign Insurance Corporations.

Carson City, Nev., Aug. 28.—A letter has been sent to the London and Lancashire Fire Insurance Company by Insurance Commissioner Davis in response to one received from the manager of the company relative to information as to the condition of its business in the state of Nevada, in which Mr. Davis says:

"You ask me relative to the requirements of the laws of the state of Nevada, with which you will be pleased to comply. I would suggest that your company pay better attention to complying with the laws of California. You are reported in the newspapers as settling in full with your wealthy patrons and squeezing your small policyholders. You have no right to make such discriminations.

"You certainly cannot expect to do business on those lines in California and continue to write policies in this state. I have ordered all policies carried by your company on state property cancelled and will give you two weeks to begin settling dollar for dollar in San Francisco, and if there is still complaint of your business methods in San Francisco your license to do business in this state will be revoked."—Montgomery Advertiser.

The above article was published in The Union of September 6, and as it shows, was copied from the Montgomery Advertiser. I also saw the same article in the Birmingham Age-Herald. In the Banner of November 1 appears an article signed by C. R. Mullins and A. G. Mellwain, Jr., referring to said article. They say that the article in The Union was headed, "Nevada Butts In." That is not true, the article in The Union was headed, "Letter to Company," as is shown above in the reproduction. As to my part in publishing an article, clipped from a reputable paper like the Montgomery Advertiser, I have no apologies to make to any one. I fail to see where they deny that State Insurance Commissioner Davis, of Nevada, wrote such a letter, and I should think that would be the main point. Where a state officer in the line of his duty gives a company such a "roast" as Mr. Davis gives the London and Lancashire, there must be some foundation for it. Why don't the London and Lancashire sue Mr. Davis for libel? People who carry insurance do it for their protection, and if they have a loss they want their money. The company gets the premium in advance, let it pay the losses as promptly as it collects the premiums. The Banner writers are advised to go to the fountain head and seek redress.

WALLACE C. EDLER,
Editor The Union.

AN EDUCATIONAL WAVE IN ALABAMA.

There was never more evidence of a combined effort to meet the lamentable condition of the educational advantages in Alabama than at the present time. The people have become aware of their pressing needs and their constant demands put forth have apparently reached the ears of those in authority. It is the lack of proper education that has retarded the progress of our great state. Education is needed more particularly for the rural community and the state will never develop until this becomes a fact is known. It is not desirable that we have a congested population in a few centers. Every deserted farm should be put under proper cultivation so that no industry will be developed at the expense of the other. The only way to bring this about is to provide each community with the proper school facilities and thus allow the man to establish his home where he works and not leave his family behind where there are schools. The state can make no greater investment than to build school houses in all these rural communities and equip them with capable teachers.

On October 19, Joel C. DuBose, A. M., professor of education in the University of Alabama, voiced these sentiments in an able address at Thorsby Institute. He was sent to the institute by President Abercrombie to investigate the condition of the school prior to the admission of Chilton county's new school to the university's affiliated school list. The members of this list comprise only the leading schools of the state. It would enable all graduates of Thorsby Institute to enter the university by presenting a certificate signed by Professor Lamkie, principal of the institute.

Professor DuBose honored the school by his presence the entire day. He made two very instructive addresses to the students and congratulated the faculty on the success of the school. He was pleased that Chilton county had such a school worthy the name. He assured the school that the people of the whole county and state appreciate what such a school means, and personally he would do all in his power to make the school and the great work she is doing known.

Professor DuBose made his next stop at Montgomery. After investigating the conditions in the leading schools of the state he will publish the results in book form. The work which he is doing is part of the great movement coming from the State University. The incoming legislature has assured the most hearty support. Since we of Chilton county have such a school as Thorsby Institute in our midst we should respond by sending our students and giving our moral support. Thus we can aid in furthering this educational wave.

NEED MORE.

There was a large crowd at Liberty to the singing on Sunday, and we sure did have some good singing; among whom were Messrs. John Gore, W. G. Culp, Eddie Littlejohn and James Franklin. W. G. Culp presided at the organ; he is a very popular young man. Among the visitors we noticed Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Foshee and daughter, Miss Mayme; Wiley and Tom Littlejohn E. J. and E. E., J. R. and W. C., also Mr. and Mrs. Sam W. Collins. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Maddox were visitors at W. C. Jones' Sunday. I think if I was L. B. P. I would eat John Brown up alive. Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Watts visited at Henry Gragg's Sunday. We saw Mrs. Joe Jackson in our town Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hayes were visitors at T. P. Smith's Sunday. B. B. Comer thought that he was speaking some Saturday, but L. H. Reynolds sure put the fixing to him. Ha, ha! F. A. G. is back again. I reckon he could not find anybody to "help at 20 per cent" in Oklahoma. Shake him up again, J. O. M.

TWO NEW COMERS.

MARS HILL.

Editor Union:

Please allow me a small space to reply to "Pap's Plow-Boy." He is a smart boy, about 17 years old; he leaves home to hunt work, but says he can't find it, though he tells you that cotton pickers are getting 75 cents per hundred and board. But he prefers to tramp around, and when hungry goes back to "Pap's" after work is over. He accuses some one in this community of whipping their children for wanting to go to Sunday school. I want to let your readers know that slur is thrown at me and that he is a liar of the first degree, and talks about other folks' business and lets his own go undone. I am sorry that we have such people in our community as this, who will talk about you and then come to you for a favor like nothing had been said. I try to be honest, to pay all my debts and not live at the expense of other men. I'm sorry to have to write such a letter as this, but as it appeared once before in our good paper, The Union, I want to clear myself and say that we have no such people in our community as "will whip children for wanting to go to Sunday school." "Pap's Plow-Boy" don't go to Sunday school often, and when he does go he don't recite any lesson, he is too smart for that. Wishing success to The Union and its readers. Respectfully,

J. N. SCOTT.

Most Famous English Actress.

From her latest photograph.

MISS ELLEN TERRY.

Her fifty years on the stage has just been celebrated with great enthusiasm in England.

Does Away With Sweeping.

One of the greatest inventions of the present time is the suction machine for renovating and cleaning hotels, apartment houses, etc. No sweeping is necessary. The power necessary to operate the apparatus is furnished by an engine fitted with a wagon and supplied by means of rubber hose. The dust is forced into the machine by suction, it being possible to clean every part of the room, ceilings, floors, walls, furniture, etc. Up to the present time this machine has been used for large operations only. Now a Chicago inventor has patented a similar machine, which can be used in every household. The power apparatus is stationed in an outhouse or other out-of-the-way place and the renovator, reduced in size so that it can be manipulated by anybody. Expert skill is not required. In cleaning the rooms the dust is gathered up in the collector, and when the entire house is cleaned the renovator is taken to the cellar and the dust removed. Its superiority over the ordinary method of sweeping will be at once apparent.

Little Susie's Gain.

After a week at the seashore, little Susie was being weighed.

"When she came she tipped the scales at forty-nine pounds," said Uncle Jack, "and now she weighs forty-two."

"Oh!" cried Susie, "I've gained t-w-o pounds—backwards!"—Harper's Weekly.

Factions in the church soon reduce it to fractions.

An Hawaiian Curio.

A curious tower is to be seen in Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands. It was built by the Japanese residents. It is what is termed a "prayer-tower," and was erected in order that prayers might be offered there to their deities by the anxious Japanese for the success of the armies of the Mikado during the recent war. The tiny temple contains a sacred image, and during the campaign prayers were said daily in the tower and religious services held at its base.

A Curious Japanese "Prayer-Tower."

Characteristics.

You are	The Other Fellow is
Strong minded,	Stubborn,
Self-respecting,	Vain,
Generous,	Extravagant,
Honest,	Hair-splitting,
Tastefully dressed,	Foppish,
Courteous,	Servile,
Dignified,	Puffed up,
Manly,	Brusque,
Sympathetic,	Inquisitive,
Ambitious,	Covetous,
Prudent,	Selfish,
Frank,	Rude,
Refined,	Effeminate,
Enthusiastic,	Fanatical,
Eloquent,	Long-winded,
Witty,	Frivolous,
Particular,	Fussy,
Well-read,	Pedantic,
Successful,	Lucky,
Unlucky,	Incompetent.

—Life.

HISTORIC SPOT.

THE PLACE WHERE CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS LANDED ON THE ISLE OF PINES.

Household Matters.

Boiled Apples.

Place a layer, or two, if necessary, of rather tart apples in a saucepan, cover with cold water, let them come quickly to the boiling point, then cook slowly till tender. Remove to dish, sprinkle thickly with sugar, and pour over them the liquid remaining in the saucepan. It is especially convenient to prepare apples in this way when a very hot fire is not required, or when the oven is otherwise occupied.

White Sauce.

One pint milk, two or three mushrooms, one onion, one carrot, one bundle of sweet herbs, whole, pepper and salt to taste; a few cloves, a little mace, one ounce butter and one gill cream. Put into one pint of milk two or three mushrooms, one onion and a carrot cut into pieces, one bundle of sweet herbs, whole pepper and salt to taste, a few cloves and a little mace. Let the whole gently simmer for about an hour. Put one ounce of butter into a saucepan and stir on the fire until it thickens. Finish by stirring in one gill cream.

Flaky Puffs With Lemon Sauce.

Add to one cupful of boiling water one tablespoonful of butter, and when the latter is melted mix in one cupful of flour. Beat these ingredients with a fork until perfectly smooth and free from the sides of the saucepan. Take from the fire and drop in three eggs, one at a time, whipping the mixture rapidly each time an egg is put in. Stand until cold and fry in very hot fat a spoonful at a time, allowing about fifteen minutes for each puff. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve hot with a sauce made as follows: Strain the juice of one and a half lemons and add to it one cupful of powdered sugar and half a cupful of boiling water.

Currant Dumplings.

Chop fine half a pound of suet. Put in a basin with four tablespoonfuls of flour, one pound of bread crumbs, half a pound sugar and half a pound of cleaned currants. Mix these together well and stir in three cups of milk. Dip the centre of a pudding cloth in boiling water, wring out and dredge with flour. Now spread the floured cloth over the top of a basin, pour the dumpling into it, tie up with a piece of strong twine and throw in boiling water. The water must be boiling furiously before the pudding is thrown in, and half a teaspoonful of salt added. Cook steadily and evenly for three hours. When done remove from the cloth and serve on a hot dish.

Rice Apple Pudding.

One-half cupful rice, three tablespoonfuls sugar, one-half tablespoonful butter, the juice of one-half lemon. One full pint of thinly sliced apples, one-half pint of milk and three eggs. Put the apples in a dish, pour over them the eggs and sugar, and set aside. Place the rice in a saucepan, cover with cold water and boil five minutes. Drain rice, rinse in cold water, return to the saucepan and add the milk and butter. Set saucepan in kettle of boiling water and cook until rice is thick, occasionally shaking the pan but not stirring. Let it cool and mix with the three yolks and add whites, beaten stiff. Butter a pudding dish and sprinkle with bread crumbs, and put in rice and apples in alternate layers. Bake in a moderate oven about thirty minutes or until the pudding is firm to the touch.

Serve with the syrup left from the apples boiled up with a little more sugar.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

Sunshine is a powerful treatment for disease. If you aspire to health and happiness, you must allow sunshine to come into your house.

When making starch for light fabrics, add one teaspoonful of borax, which not only keeps the things cleaner, but puts a nice gloss on them.

Women who do their own washing, should when finished, rub their hands with dry salt. This brings out the soap and makes the hands more agreeable.

Old potatoes are greatly improved by being soaked in cold water over night, or at least several hours after peeling. The water should be changed once or twice.

Whenever vegetables put up in tin cans are opened and only partly used do not allow the remainder to stand in the tins, but turn out into an earthen bowl and put in a cool place.

A good polish for a stove is made of one tablespoonful of powdered alum mixed with the [illegible]. The brilliancy that this will give to the stove will last [illegible] time.

It is a fad to have [illegible] combine as many shades of [illegible] as possible without introducing foreign tone. Various shades which harmonize well are [illegible] for a couch.

If you have a pot of ferns to give them plenty of water that has become thoroughly [illegible] or twice is practically [illegible] least it will never have the [illegible] strength again.

Ammonia is excellent for [illegible] ing hair brushes. Use about [illegible] blespoonfuls of ammonia and [illegible] water to cover the bristles [illegible] the back. Shake it thoroughly [illegible] it is in the water to loosen [illegible] Dry it well before using.

Some housekeepers put a [illegible] onion inside a bowl that is [illegible] for any length of time [illegible] sorbs germs that would otherwise [illegible] fect the meat. Sliced onions [illegible] bag of charcoal placed near [illegible] any kind has the same effect.

THE SILENT OPINION.

What Men Think of Women and Women of Men.

Most men have some [illegible] tions about women and most [illegible] about men. There are certain [illegible] of face, certain kinds of [illegible] tain methods of expression [illegible] which many men and women [illegible] terly condemned in the [illegible] some of their brothers and [illegible] A disposition to dislike certain [illegible] of face is at times so strong [illegible] suggest a previous existence.

We do not openly say that [illegible] en with such and such eyebrows [illegible] hard hearted or that a man [illegible] a charlatan if the color of his [illegible] and hair contradict each other [illegible] we act continually upon notions [illegible] ly less unreasonable. Educated [illegible] with small vocabularies, for [illegible] are divided as a rule by clever [illegible] en into fools by birth and self-[illegible] fools, according to whether [illegible] want of equipment be ascribed [illegible] ture or to affectation.

To the first they are indifferent [illegible] to the latter they have almost [illegible] a more or less active dislike. [illegible] men are often able, a fact their [illegible] sex invariably recognize. The [illegible] whose words are few and ill-[illegible] may be a man of prompt and [illegible] soned action, who having [illegible] brought up among the silent [illegible] the garrulous silly deprecate [illegible] waste of pains occasioned by [illegible] game of talk. All mental [illegible] bore him just as physical [illegible] bore others.

In the same way the fact [illegible] man pretends to know no more [illegible] than a savage may be a man [illegible] awkward though genuine [illegible] a fear of pretending to a culture [illegible] does not possess—or an act of [illegible] ficial conformity to a passing [illegible] among a small set. It may [illegible] more to do with his real mind [illegible] an ugly figure or an ill cut coat. [illegible] cumstances will sometimes [illegible] even a clever woman of them [illegible] so far as a given man is concerned [illegible] but she will never alter her [illegible] opinion as to the generality.

Clever women are very hard [illegible] the men they imagine to be [illegible] Able men, on the other hand, are [illegible] at all hard on women they know [illegible] be stupid. Where youth and beauty [illegible] are concerned the fact is easily [illegible] derstood, but youth and beauty [illegible] no means explain the whole of [illegible] phenomenon. Many men are [illegible] clined to think that the kind of [illegible] tal power in women which we [illegible] quially call brains exists in [illegible] ratio to their common sense [illegible] serves only to carry them with [illegible] uing rapidity through verbal [illegible] to a false conclusion.—London [illegible] tator.

Wearied Eyes.

In these days of study and [illegible] tary work requiring much use [illegible] eyes, they often become so tired [illegible] they refuse to do good work. [illegible] is particularly true when the work [illegible] done in a poor light, or when [illegible] very fine work. Few eyes will [illegible] such treatment for any great [illegible] of time without being spoiled. [illegible] question is often asked us, what [illegible] be done in such cases? There [illegible] remedy for tired eyes that has [illegible] value. It consists in massaging [illegible] the hand wet in cold or cool [illegible] Fill a basin with it, and standing [illegible] it wet the hand with as much [illegible] as it will hold and apply it [illegible] eyes, at the same time with [illegible] thumb and forefinger giving [illegible] a gentle manipulation. Continue [illegible] process for four or five minutes [illegible] eral times a day. The result [illegible] often almost marvelous.

Jews in Palestine.

One of the arresting features of [illegible] heavy exodus from Russia is the [illegible] number of those who are making [illegible] Palestine. According to reports [illegible] Odessa, every ship bound for [illegible] carries a hundred Jewish [illegible] from parts of the empire to [illegible] time. There can now, in spite of [illegible] exodus of those who have [illegible] little short of 100,000 Jews in [illegible] Holy Land.—Jewish Chronicle.

Dies From His Injuries.

Augusta, Ga.—W. J. Sowell, a sewing machine agent, who was run over by a trolley car in North Augusta on Thursday night, died of his injuries.

Painter Commits Suicide.

Augusta, Ga.—George Williams, a painter, committed suicide Thursday night by taking morphine. No reason has been assigned for the suicide. He leaves a wife and three children.

Fitzgerald, Ga.—In the case of [illegible] son Handley, charged with [illegible] his wife, before Judge Martin, [illegible] winville, the jury, after being [illegible] hours, returned a verdict of [illegible] the first degree, with the recommendation [illegible] tion of a life term in the penitentiary [illegible] on account of the evidence being [illegible] ly circumstantial. Judge Martin [illegible] nounced sentence in accordance [illegible] the recommendation. The parties [illegible] members of prominent families.

COUNTY OFFICIALS
Circuit Court.
[illegible]—Third Monday in May [illegible]—Fourth Monday in No.

[illegible]. Brewer, Tuskegee.
[illegible]—W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
[illegible] W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
Term—Second Monday in
[illegible]—Second Monday in Sep

[illegible]—Hon. W. W. Whitesides,
[illegible]—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan

County Court.
[illegible]day in each month.
Commissioners' Court.
Monday February, first Mon
first Monday June, second
[illegible]y, second Monday August,
[illegible]day November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.
[illegible] Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
[illegible]—W. T. Callen.
[illegible]—J. M. Morgan.
[illegible]—W. M. Adams.
[illegible]ssor—L. B. Pounds.
[illegible]surer—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
[illegible]istrict—W. H. Conway.
District—Alex Glasscock.
[illegible]istrict—R. P. Kendrick.
District—Moses Robinson.

[illegible]t. of Education.
W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
[illegible]ahl, Calera.

State Senator.
[illegible]. E. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.
[illegible]SIONARY BAPTIST.
[illegible]NY—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas
[illegible] Sunday and Saturday be [illegible]. L. Hand, clerk.

[illegible]ALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
[illegible]. B. Popwell, clerk.

[illegible] CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey,
First Sunday and Saturday
[illegible]. E. Thomas, clerk.

[illegible] CHAPEL—Rev. J. H.
[illegible]pastor. Third Sunday and before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

[illegible] HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
First Sunday and Saturday
[illegible]. W. Scott, clerk.

[illegible]ONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
[illegible]ourth Sunday and Saturday
[illegible]:30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong,

[illegible]ANT GROVE—Rev. J. H.
[illegible]pastor. Fourth Sunday and before at 11 a. m. D. H.
[illegible] clerk.

[illegible]DENCE—Rev. W. W. Robin-
[illegible]r. Second Sunday and Sat-
[illegible]ore. Riley Robinson, clerk.

[illegible]OTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H.
[illegible]pastor. Second Sunday and before. D. C. Smitherman,

[illegible]IMITIVE BAPTIST.
[illegible]—Elder J. P. Nobles, pas
[illegible]d Sunday and Saturday be [illegible]. Abernathy, clerk.

[illegible]THODIST EPISCOPAL.
[illegible] MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Van-[illegible]tor, Second Sunday. Sing-second and fourth Sunday
Prayer meeting every Wed-
[illegible]ht. Ladies' prayer meeting
[illegible]rday afternoon.

[illegible]TERNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.
[illegible]. A. Chapter, No. 116—
[illegible]rday, Clanton.

[illegible] Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
[illegible] Saturday, Cooper.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday, Clanton.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday, Billingsley.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M.,
[illegible]turday on or before full [illegible]ory.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
[illegible]day on or before full moon.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
[illegible]y on or before full moon.

I. O. O. F.
Lodge—First and third Sat-

[illegible] Lodge, No. 304—Second and [illegible]days.

[illegible]men of the World.
[illegible] Camp, No. 190—First and [illegible]rs.

I. O. R. M.
[illegible]e Tribe, No. 90—First and [illegible]rs sleep. Visiting chiefs
[illegible]ited. E. B. Langston, C.
[illegible] Patton, Sachem.
[illegible] Tribe No. 49—2nd and 4th
[illegible]ays. Visiting chiefs cor-
[illegible]. J. M. Grant, Sachem;
[illegible]. C. of R.
[illegible]ree Tribe, No. 9, meets
fourth Tuesdays' sleep.
[illegible]s cordially invited.
[illegible]AN DERVEER, Sachem
[illegible]SON, C. of R.

alum mixed with the
The brilliancy that this give to the story will last time.

It is a fad to have combine as many shades
as possible without foreign tone. Various which harmonize well are
for a couch.

If you have a pot of
to give them plenty of
that has become thoroughly or twice is practically
least it will never have the strength again.

Ammonia is excellent for ing hair brushes. Use about blespoonfuls of ammonia and
water to cover the bristles,
the back. Shake it thoroughly
it is in the water to loosen
Dry it well before using.

Some housekeepers put a onion inside a fowl that is to
for any length of time.
sorbs germs that would other fect the meat. Sliced onions bag of charcoal placed near
any kind has the same effect.

THE SILENT OPINION

What Men Think of Women of Men.

Most men have some idea ons about women and most about men. There are certain certain kinds of manner methods of expression which many men and women
ably condemned in the their brothers and
A disposition to dislike certain
of face is at times so strong suggest a previous existence.

We do not openly say that all en with such and such eyebrow hard hearted or that a man
a charlatan if the color of his
and hair contradict each other
we act continually upon notions
ly less unreasonable. Educated with small vocabularies, for in are divided as a rule by clever en into fools by birth and self fools, according to whether want of equipment be ascribed
ture or to affectation.

To the first they are indifferent
to the latter they have almost a
a more or less active dislike.
men are often able, a fact their sex invariably recognize. The whose words are few and ill
may be a man of prompt and soned action, who having brought up among the silent
the garrulous silly deprecated waste of pains occasioned by game of talk. All mental bore him just as physical bore others.

In the same way the fact
man pretends to know no more than a savage may be a matter awkward though genuine humility
a fear of pretending to a culture does not possess—or an act of ficial conformity to a passing among a small set. It may have more to do with his real mind
an ugly figure or an ill cut coat.
cumstances will sometimes even a clever woman of these so far as a given man is but she will never alter her opinion as to the generality.

Clever women are very
he men they imagine to be Able men, on the other hand, are at all hard on women they be stupid. Where youth and are concerned the fact is easily derstood, but youth and beauty
no means explain the whole of phenomenon. Many men are clined to think that the kind of al power in women which we ually call brains exists in ratio to their common sense erves only to carry them with ing rapidity through verbal fallacies o a false conclusion.—London
ator.

Wearied Eyes.

In these days of study and ary work requiring much use of yes, they often become so tired
hey refuse to do good work.
particularly true when the work one in a poor light, or when ery fine work. Few eyes will uch treatment for any great length
f time without being spoiled.
uestion is often asked us, what e done in such cases? There emedy for tired eyes that has alue. It consists in massage he hand wet in cold or cool water fill a basin with it, and standing wet the hand with as much s it will hold and apply it to yes, at the same time with umb and forefinger giving the gentle manipulation. Continue rocess for four or five minutes
ral times a day. The results
ften almost marvelous.

Jews in Palestine.

One of the arresting features of avy exodus from Russia is the umber of those who are making alestine. According to reports
dessa, every ship bound for arries a hundred Jewish om parts of the empire to ne. There can now, in spite of todus of those who have fallen ttle short of 100,000 Jews in oly Land.—Jewish Chronicle.

Fitzgerald, Ga.—In the case of n Handley, charged with wife, before Judge Martin, nville, the jury, after being out urs, returned a verdict of first degree, with the recommendation n of a life term in the account of the evidence being circumstantial. Judge Martin unced sentence in accordance recommendation. The mbers of prominent families.

COUNTY OFFICIALS.

Circuit Court.
—Third Monday in May
—Fourth Monday in Nov

L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
W. B. Bowling, Dadeville
W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
—Second Monday in
—Second Monday in Sept

—Hon. W. W. Whitesides,
—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton

County Court.
day in each month.
missioners' Court.
Monday February, first Monday
first Monday June, second
, second Monday August,
November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
—W. T. Callen.
M. Morgan.
W. M. Adams.
—L. B. Pounds.
—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
District—W. H. Conway.
District—Alex Glasscock.
District—R. P. Kendrick.
District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
Hall, Calera.

State Senator.
L. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

MISSIONARY BAPTIST.
—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas
Sunday and Saturday be
L. Hand, clerk.

SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
R. D. Popwell, clerk.

CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey,
First Sunday and Saturday
W. B. Thomas, clerk.

CHAPEL—Rev. J. H.
pastor. Third Sunday and before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
First Sunday and Saturday
W. Scott, clerk.

ONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
Fourth Sunday and Saturday
3.30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong,

GROVE—Rev. J. H.
pastor. Fourth Sunday and
before at 11 a. m. D. H.
clerk.

—Rev. W. W. Robin-
Second Sunday and Sat-
Riley Robinson, clerk.

(Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H.
pastor. Second Sunday and
before. D. C. Smitherman,

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST.

—Elder J. P. Nobles, pas
Sunday and Saturday be-
Abernathy, clerk.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Van-
pastor. Second Sunday. Sing-
second and fourth Sunday
Prayer meeting every Wed-
night. Ladies' prayer meeting
Friday afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.
R. A. Chapter, No. 116—
day, Clanton.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday, Cooper.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday, Clanton.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday, Billingsley.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M.,
Saturday on or before full
ney.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
day on or before full moon.

I. O. O. F.
Lodge—First and third Sat-

Lodge, No. 204—Second and
days.

Daughters of the World.
Camp, No. 190—First and
days.

I. O. R. M.
Tribe, No. 90—First and
days. Visiting chiefs
come. E. B. Langston, C.
Patton, Sachem.
Tribe, No. 48—2nd and 4th
days. Visiting chiefs cor-
come. J. M. Grant, Sachem;
C. of R.
Tribe, No. 9, meets
fourth Tuesdays' sleep.
cordially invited.
VAN DERVEER, Sachem
SON, C. of R.

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

Chilton Co. Division Officers.

J. H. Thomas, President, Jemison, Rte. 1.

J. W. Hayes, Vice Pres., Thorsby, Rte 1.

J. N. Dennis, Sec-Treas., Clanton, Rte 6.

G. W. Thomas, Chaplain, Clanton, Rte 2.

J. W. Serrell, Bus. Agent, Jemison, Rte 4.

C. N. Eiland, Lecturer, Clanton, Rte 4.

N. A. Dobbs, Asst. Lect., Clanton, Rte 3.

W. J. Bean, Conductor, Clanton, Rte 4.

W. F. Culpepper, Doorkeeper, Clanton, Rte 3.

W. A. Barnett, Ex. Committee, Jemison, Rte 2.

E. H. Mims, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 1.

J. Wiley Foshee, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 4.

THE REV. IRL R. HICKS 1907 ALMANAC.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks has been compelled by the popular demand to resume the publication of his well-known and popular Almanac for 1907. This splendid Almanac is now ready. For sale by news dealers, or sent postpaid for 25 cents, by Word and Works Publishing Company, 2201 Locust street, St. Louis, Mo., publishers of Word and Works, one of the best dollar monthly magazines in America. One Almanac goes with every subscription.

We will send The Union for one year and the Almanac for $1.06, strictly in advance. THE UNION.
tf

ANNUAL REVIVAL.

The annual revival meeting at Rocky Mount Church will begin Friday night before the second Sunday in November, and will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. T. Vandiver, assisted by Rev. Sam Jones and others of the Alabama Conference. J. B. N.
tf

CIRCUIT COURT CONVENES NOVEMBER 26, 1906.

List of Grand Jurors.

A. S. Jones, Beat 3; John Martin, Beat 2; T. U. Crumpton, Beat 7; J. G. Burkhalter, Beat 10; D. C. Honeycutt, Beat 9; J. W. Sorrell, Beat 1; W. M. Price, Beat 8; J. O. Barrett, Beat 10; J. A. Skaggs, Beat 2; Hugh Henry, Beat 2 J. J. Letcher, Beat 7; J. M. Robinson, Beat 10; Alferd Mims, Beat 9; Y. O. Freeman, Beat 3; G. A. Keen, Beat 8; A. J. McDuncan, Beat 4; W. H. Parrish, Beat 11; L. H. Gentry, Beat 5; Elijah Headley, Beat 6; J. O. Wesson, Beat 4; G. H. Gerald, Beat 9.

Petit Jurors First Week.

W. A. Hays, Beat 3; William Jones, Beat 4; Paton Harris, Beat 8; John W. Foshee, Beat 7; O. O. Roper, Beat 4; D. C. Alred, Beat 4; Joseph Mims, Beat 10; Albert Gore, Beat 11; J. J. Mims, Beat 6; J. N. Askins, Beat 6; E. L. Jones, Beat 10; Sanford Clark, Beat 5; W. H. Coffey, Beat 1; J. M. Merchant, Beat 7; James E. Cobb, Beat 2; Wiley Gore, Beat 9; J. A. Sammons, Beat 2; Lewis Littleton, Beat 11; James Chambers, Beat 7; Charles Shaw, Beat 2; W. D. Buckhalter, Beat 10; Dowdle Roy, Beat 5; G. W. Jones, Beat 10; J. H. Gibbons, Beat 3; C. C. Plyer, Beat 4; A. J. Jones, Beat 9; J. W. Walles, Beat 3; J. B. Northcutt, Beat 1; J. J. Hawthorn, Beat 9; Robert Gandy, Beat 8; R. A. Barnett, Beat 2; William Clark, Beat 2.

Petit Jurors Second Week.

W. A. Weaver, Beat 8; S. M. Yates, Sr., Beat 10; J. T. Williams, Beat 6; William Peatle, Beat 7; George Moore, Beat 7; J. H. Cox, Beat 10; E. J. Vinson, Beat 6; Frank Mulkey, Beat 2; Dock Hunt, Beat 2; W. E. C. Smith, Beat 11; J. R. Johnson, Beat 2; Joseph Cox, Beat 4; Burt Hawkins, Beat 2; W. T. Vinzant, Beat 1; Watts Moore, Beat 4; A. N. Miner, Beat 4; S. H. Driver, Beat 1; Reuben Wyatt, Beat 4; Andrew Deason, Beat 8; J. T. Harris, Beat 5; J. F. Rawlinson, Beat 8; D. W. Cobb, Beat 2; J. H. Willoughby, Beat 4; A. T. Hathcock, Beat 6; William Rasberry, Beat 3; J. A. Lowery, Beat 2; S. D. McCary, Beat 3; L. W. Robinson, Beat 9; W. L. Bates, Beat 10; C. C. Crumpton, Beat 2; J. D. Hudgison Beat 3; W. P. Childress, Beat 9. tf

CLANTON ACADEMY,

Clanton, Alabama,

Possesses superior advantages to pupils of all grades, prepares them to enter the best colleges and universities, trains teachers to stand examination for any grade certificate and qualifies them the better to fill a place in their profession.

L. J. THOMPSON,
tf Principal.

A WAY TO RAISE MONEY.

Physician's Wife—I need a new evening dress.

Physician—All right, my dear; I'll look over my list and find some fellow who can afford an operation for appendicitis.—New York Press.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Nov. 7, 1906.... 3,000
Price same date 9 1-2
Receipts same time in 1905.... 4,692
Price same date 10 3-4

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Well, John, did you vote for John?

J. W. Harrell and J. W. Beaseley were pleasant visitors Friday.

C. W. Langston and W. C. Dickinson were in Clanton Friday.

H. T. Childress was in town Friday.

J. N. Ervin was in Clanton Friday.

Prof. J. A. Raines was a welcome caller Saturday. He is in charge of the public school in District 3.

W. H. Bean was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

W. O. Rich was in Clanton Saturday.

T. J. Hubbard, J. M. Hubbard and Felix J. Fitts were in town Saturday, accompanied by Dr. Raymond Hubbard and Prof. Sheldon Fitts.

B. G. Foshee was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

Profs. W. J. and M. W. Mims were Clanton visitors Saturday; these two are among our most promising young men.

J. F. Hayes and J. B. Littlejohn were in Clanton Saturday.

E. T. Gullahorn (Uncle Tom) was in Clanton Saturday and paid us a very pleasant call. Uncle Tom is an honest, hearty old gentleman that it does one good to meet up with.

J. W. (Dick) Edwards was a pleasant visitor Tuesday, and he voted for "Prosperity and Progress."

R. Rutland was a welcome visitor Tuesday.

J. M. Eiland was in Clanton Tuesday.

D. D. Hand was in town Tuesday. Mr. Hand is not in the best of health at present.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

N. W. Wilkins and Miss Leila Miller; Daniel Simmons an... ss Beatrice Smith.

Colored.

Thomas Braxton and Mattie Hayes.

STOCK LAW ELECTION NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that, in pursuance of an order made by the Commissioners' Court of Chilton county, Alabama, on the 5th day of November, 1906, ordering an election to be held in Precinct Three in said county, for the purpose of determining whether or not all live stock shall be prohibited from running at large in said Precinct Three in said county, an election, for said purpose, will be held on the 18th day of December, 1906, at Benson and Macedonia, in said Precinct Three in Chilton county, Alabama.

Witness my hand this 5th day of November, 1906.
tf G. E. WRIGHT.

LOMAX.

Health of this community is very good at present, though Gip Henley is still on the sick list, where he has been for five months and suffered untold pain. We all hope for his speedy cure. J. M. Henley and family, of Baldwin, visited Gip Henley's Sunday; J. V. Collins and family, of Colling Chapel, were there also. R. Henley visited Allie Jones' Sunday. Messrs. Charles Jones and Bill Baker, with their families, visited Walnut Creek Sunday. Come again, "Mary Jane." Success to The Union.

NOBODY'S DARLING.

PROGRAM SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The annual convention of District No. 5 will be held at Corinth church, five miles east of Verbena, the second Sunday, November 11, 1906.

9:45 a. m.—Devotional exercises, E. L. Jones.

Singing, led by A. L. Robinson.

10:00.—President's report, D. S. Robinson.

Secretary's report, Miss Lila Meriwether.

10:20.—"The Influence of the Sunday School," P. M. Jones.

10:40.—"What Is Needed in My Sunday School," W. L. Pyron, J. F. Williams, John Norris, W. H. Sterck, Cato Pattillo, W. C. Rich, Zeb Mims, E. L. Jones, Joseph Mims and D. S. Robinson.

11:30.—Address by Judge Joseph Carthel, State Secretary.

1:15 p. m.—Devotional exercises, Dr. H. W. Caffey.

1:30 p. m.—"Music in the Sunday School," T. L. Robinson.

2 p. m.—Discussion of "Primary Work," Mrs. Agnes Farr, Miss Maggie Long, Miss Alice Strock, Miss Dora Sims, Mrs. D. L. Robinson, Mrs. M. E. Baldwin.

2:30.—"The Sunday School as a Field of Training", A. L. Harris'

3 p. m.—"A Well Organized Sunday School," Judson Strock.

It is earnestly hoped that every Sunday school in Beats 5 and 10 will be represented at this convention.

D. S. ROBINSON,
tf LILA MERIWETHER.

SPECIAL NONTICE.

When you are in the city of Jemison call at the new barber shop, corner Cotton Belt street and Second avenue. R. M. RAY. tf

NOTICE.

For sale, four fine meat hogs, three years old. Call on Jess Burnett, Jemison, Route 4. tf

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY REV. I. W. HENDERSON.

Subject: The Holy Spirit.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Preaching at the Irving Square Presbyterian Church on the theme, "The Holy Spirit," the Rev. I. W. Henderson, pastor, took as his text Jno. 14:16-17. He said in the course of his sermon:

As we read this and the two succeeding chapters of this good news of the Beloved Disciple, we appreciate, more and more, the vital, forceful influence of the Holy Spirit upon the lives of those who love and serve God. It was at the close of the Last Supper that Christ uttered these words. A few hours and the cross claimed Him. Philip had asked, "Lord, shew us the Father." Our text is a portion of Christ's answer.

We are told by the commentators that the Holy Spirit, the Comforter is also an advocate, a helper. Literally translated the Greek means: "One who is called to another's side to aid him." To our side, an ever present aid through all eternity, the Holy Spirit has been called by Christ. Comforter, advocate, teacher, helper, guide and eternal friend, such is the Holy Spirit of the new dispensation as granted to us by our Heavenly Father.

The position of the Holy Spirit with reference to us is clearly shown by the prepositions used in the verses. "And I will pray the Father, and He shall give you another Comforter, that He may abide with you forever, even the spirit of truth; whom the world cannot receive because it seeth Him not, neither knoweth Him, but ye know Him, for He abideth by you and shall be in you." With you, by you, in you. With you, "in the fellowship of His everlasting presence." By you, "in His personal presence." In you, "as an abiding personal energy." With you, by you, in you, in all the eternal omnipotence, love and wisdom of the very God Himself. The Holy Spirit is the presence of Almighty God and of His Son Jesus Christ, with you, by you, in you. The pronouns, as the prepositions, are of prime importance. He is God, with, by and in man.

The Holy Spirit who is in our hearts to-day has been the dynamic in the lives of consecrated men and women since time was. In his journey up from bondage, it was the spirit of God that sustained Moses. He is the spirit of which Isaiah wrote: "And thine ears shall hear a word behind thee saying, This is the way, walk ye in it." And again we read in Ezekiel: "And I will put my spirit within you, and cause you to walk in My statutes, and ye shall keep My judgments and do them." The spirit of Samuel and of Jeremiah is the Spirit of Saul of Tarsus. The same but, oh, how much more full. He brings to us not merely the wealth of association that crowds about the national life of the chosen people of God. To us, He comes as a consummation and memorial of the power, majesty and all-embracing love of God and of His Son our Saviour, Jesus, the Christ.

The Holy Spirit influences and directs every good and great movement that emanates from the hearts and souls of Christian men. God working in His Holy Spirit fills the heart of Henry Ward Beecher with an overwhelming love for the Southern slave, and the inspired words of that virile Christian speed the breaking of a million shackles. The auction of the slave girl in the pulpit of Plymouth Church was God in His Spirit moving Henry Ward Beecher to decisive action. The Holy Spirit enters the heart of Florence Nightingale and soldiers on every ruddy field know the touch of a loving hand and the consolation of a sympathizing heart. The Comforter strikes hidden, inexhaustible springs in the souls of D. L. Moody, of General Crittenden, of Jerry McAulay, and myriads of outcast men and fallen women feel the power of the sheltering, upbearing arm of Almighty God. Tennyson hears the voice of God within and to us are given the immortal lines of "In Memoriam" and of "Crossing the Bar."

The history of the presence of the Christ in the lives of nations lies in the work consummated by His Holy Spirit. All the great reforms, all the great movements that have bettered humanity have had their inception in the minds of Spirit-filled men. Who can say but that the hand and the Spirit of God have been with this land, as it was with Israel, in her phenomenal success. To be sure we have made our mistakes. We are a far cry from the Christ ideal. But did we, nationally, revere Him more, did we but let His Holy Spirit dwell deeper and more lastingly in our national heart, He would bless us far beyond our fondest expectations. God is the God of nations. Christ came to take away the sins of the world, of nations, as of individuals. The Holy Spirit can fill a nation's heart if its people will but do God's will.

The most vital necessity in the life of the Christian and of the church is the Holy Spirit as He descends, constantly freshened and refreshing, from the throne of God. Having accepted Christ and His plan for our redemption, He is the first thing that we must gain. The apostles, men of God and with Christ as they were, could do naught in the work of the evangelization of the world and of lifting mankind to the level of the Christ life until they had received the gift of the Holy Ghost. For in the first chapter of the record of the Acts of the Apostles we read that "the Apostles being assembled together" after the resurrection, our Lord "commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith He, ye have heard of Me. For John truly baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized of the Holy Ghost not many days hence."

On the day of Pentecost they were all with one accord in one place, and the Holy Spirit descended upon them. You know the story. You know also the glorious assertion: "And the same day there were added unto them about 3000 souls, and the Lord added to them daily those that were being saved." The Holy Spirit was necessary to the Apostles. To us He is indispensable.

We complain of the lack of sincerity, of vitality, in the Church. This age is heralded as an age of doubt and of disbelief. The Church stands almost still. Her flags flap limply in a breeze of progress that holds straight out the ensigns of the minions of Satan. Sin confronts us on every hand and we make but insufficient headway against it. We regret that the Church does not enjoy a revival of the blessings of God upon her. We mourn that for one soul born into the Kingdom of God a more than equal number are seized in the snares of Satan. We pray for the upliftment of the world and we see the world slip from us.

Something is wrong. God was with the early Church. God is with the missionary in the farthest East. Thousands are being brought to Christ in India. Within our midst the multitudes of the unchurched and the unsaved appall us. Glance over the records of the apostolic church. Read the story of her growth. Is there not something wrong with us? What is the matter? Let us see. It is not that we have not the money to prosecute our work. We have more than at any time since our beginning. It is not that we have not numbers or able leaders or that Christ has proven false. The fault lies with us. The Church of Jesus Christ is not alive to the possibilities of the indwelling of the Holy Spirit. The Church needs Christ in her heart.

The fault lies not with God. It lies with us. We, it is, who have been content with but a portion of His grace when He would have given to us all. We, it is, who have been content to drift and almost to drown, rather than to lay hold upon the eternal saving power of the Holy Spirit.

Let the Church awake from her lethargy; let her unite under the banner of the cross and follow true; let her live the life that she never wearies to preach; let her show to the world that the Christ life is practical life written large; let her appropriate to herself the Holy Spirit with His uplift toward Christ and the Father; and then will come a return of the miracles of the early Church, of which it is written, "and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls."

The essential requirement of the Christian life is not to be able to decide definitely the date of the Flood, or to be able to assert the exact authorship of the books of the Pentateuch, or to be able, more or less intelligently, to quibble over the pin points of ecclesiastical dogmatism. Be not deceived, to know the Bible word for word is not to be a Christian. Spirituality is the great sine qua non of the Christ life. That we may be able to purify ourselves and to lift others up to the Christ we need the Holy Spirit "good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over in our hearts." Ere we can experience the depth, the power and the world-wide inclusiveness of God's love, we must be reborn of God's indwelling Spirit.

Open the doors of your heart and let the blessed sunshine of God's illuminating Spirit glow in upon you. With you, by you, in you, let the Comforter abide. In sorrow He will sustain you. In care He will comfort you. He will strengthen you in life. He will rob death of its sting.

"Let not your heart be troubled, ye believe in God, believe also in Me. In My Father's house are many mansions. I will not leave you orphans. But I will pray the Father and He shall give you another Comforter, that He may abide with you forever."

A Lesson From the Butterfly.

A naturalist one day was studying a cocoon, in which a butterfly was struggling to be free. He heard it beating against the sides of its little prison, and his heart went out in pity for the helpless creature.

Taking a tiny lancet he cut away the fragile walls and released the little captive. But to his amazement it was not the beautiful creature that he had expected to see. It lay struggling upon the table, unable to walk, unable to fly, a helpless, unlovely object. In place of the gorgeously colored wings that he had expected to see, were weak, shriveled members.

What was the matter with this creature that should have been so fair? The prison gates had been opened too soon, the obstacle had been removed before the struggler had developed sufficiently through struggling to be ready for its glorious flight into the sunshiny skies and among the perfumed flowers. O God, when the walls seem to close about us, when we struggle and agonize to be free, when Thou dost not cut away the barriers, is it not because, in Thine infinite wisdom, Thou dost see that we are weak and dost want us to become strong? Then at last, when the struggle is finished, like the butterfly, we may come forth, not perhaps, in glorious robes of splendid colors as it is, but in the everlasting robes of righteousness.—Christian Observer.

A Man Worth Knowing.

I should like to know a man who just minded his duty and troubled himself about nothing; who did his own work and did not interfere with God's. How nobly he would work—working not for reward, but because it was the will of God! How happily he would receive his food and clothing, receiving them as the gifts of God! What peace would be his! What a sober gayety! How hearty and infectious his laughter. What a friend he would be! How sweet his sympathy! And his mind would be so clear he would understand everything. His eye being single, his whole body would be full of light. No fear of his ever doing a mean thing. He would lie in a ditch rather. It is the fear of want that makes men do mean things.—George Macdonald.

What We Should Never Forget.

Let us never forget that what we are is more important than what we do; and that all fruit borne when not abiding in Christ must be fruit of the flesh, and not of the Spirit.—J. Hudson Taylor.

Walking in faith is walking in the light of His face.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR NOVEMBER 11.

Subject: Jesus in Gethsemane, Matt. xxvi., 36-50—Golden Text: Luke xxii., 42—Memory Verses, 38, 39—Topic: The Agony of Jesus.

I. Jesus enters the garden (vs. 36, 37). 36. "Then." This was about midnight. "Cometh." After they had left the upper room where they had eaten the paschal supper. "With them." There were only eleven now; Judas was absent making arrangements for the betrayal. "Unto a place." Jesus oftentimes resorted to this quiet retreat with His disciples (John 18:2) for refreshment, retirement, quiet instruction and perhaps prayer. "Gethsemane." The name means oil press, an emblem of trial, distress, agony. "Sit ye here." He left eight of the disciples at the entrance of the garden. "Pray." Christ frequently went alone to pray.

37. "Took with Him." Farther into the garden, to a spot more retired. In this hour Jesus needed human sympathy, even while He must "tread the wine press alone." "Two sons of Zebedee." James and John. The three disciples Jesus took with Him had been witnesses of His transfiguration and glory, and were now to behold His humiliation and agony. "Began to be sorrowful." To be penetrated with the most exquisite sorrow, and overwhelmed with deep anguish. "Very heavy." Sore troubled; a stronger word than the other.

II. The bitter cup of sorrow (vs. 38, 39). 38. "Even unto death." It was agony that would destroy His life if it continued. The agony became so great that His sweat was great drops of blood falling down to the ground. "Tarry ye here." Spoken to the three disciples.

39. "A little farther." About a stone's cast (Luke); 150 to 200 feet. There were now three divisions of the little company—the eight, the three, and Jesus alone. "On His face." This was the ordinary posture of the supplicant when the favor asked was great, and deep humiliation required. The head was put between the knees and the forehead brought to touch the earth. "My Father." In all our addresses to God we should eye Him as a father—as our Father, and it is in a special manner helpful to do so when we are in an agony. "If it be possible." The great horror of Jesus in the garden arose, not from fear of Calvary, but from fear of failure, through physical suffering to reach Calvary, and so lose all for which He left heaven. "Not as I will." If it is Thy will that I should die here in the garden instead of dying on the cross, as foretold, I submit. He was entirely resigned to His Father's will.

III. The disciples asleep (vs. 40, 41). 40. "Cometh unto the disciples." He did this three times during this awful hour. He apparently desired communion with them and the sympathy and comfort which they could give. "Asleep." Luke says they were sleeping for sorrow. "Unto Peter." Peter had just made loud professions. "With Me." He was suffering for them, but only expected that they would watch with Him. "One hour." Sometimes Christ continued in prayer all night, but He only asked them to watch with Him one hour.

41. "Watch and pray." A testing time is coming and you will need to watch carefully and pray earnestly. The Christian is in danger of falling a prey to the world, the flesh and the devil. "The spirit—willing," etc. They desired to watch with Him and thus show their sympathy and love for Him, but their bodies and minds were weak.

IV. Jesus prevails in prayer (vs. 42-44). 42. "The second time." His going the second and third times shows how great was the burden and His intense eagerness and perseverance. 43. "Their eyes were heavy." It is a sad thing for the church to be sleeping while Christ is suffering and praying.

44. "The same words." Not that Jesus merely repeated the same words each time, but these words were the substance of His prayer. This prayer is "a model (1) of earnestness, (2) directness, (3) perseverance, (4) faith, (5) submission.

V. Jesus betrayed (vs. 45-50). 45. "Sleep on now." Jesus had gained the victory. But Jesus was on the alert and when He heard the approaching multitude and saw the lanterns and torches He aroused the sleepers. 46. "Let us be going." To meet Judas and the soldiers. Jesus is ready; without hesitancy He turns His face toward the terrible sufferings of the cross. 47. "Great multitude." Composed of a detachment of the Roman cohort stationed in the Castle Antonia (John 18:3, 12, "the band"), of the Jewish temple watch (Luke 22: 52, "the captains of the temple"); of others, including servants and dependents of the high priest (v. 51), and, in all probability, some fanatical chief priests and elders. "Swords." Carried by the Roman soldiers. "Staves." Or clubs, the arms of the temple watch and the crowd. John adds also, what lay in the nature of the case, that they were provided with "lanterns and torches" as well as weapons. 48. "Kiss." Probably the usual salutation of the disciples to their Master.

49. "Kissed Him." A stronger word than that used in the last verse. The sign was a kiss, but the performance a caressing. 50. "Friend." A term of civility though not necessarily of friendship. Christ's meekness and gentleness surpass even the standard which He holds up for His disciples in Matt. 5: 39.

Alleged Murderer.

Chicago, Ill.—Leonard Leopold, who was arrested in Wausau, Wis., for the murder of Mrs. Margaret Leslie, the actress, arrived here in company with a detective.

Mine Will Close Down.

Knoxville, Tenn.—A Petros special says that the tipple of Mine No. 1 was burned, which will cause a shut-down of the mine for several days.

alum mixed with the
The brilliancy that this give to the stove will last time.

It is a fad to have combine as many shades
as possible without foreign tone. Various which harmonise well
for a couch.

If you have a pot of
to give them plenty of
that has become thoroughly
or twice is practically
least it will never have the strength again.

Ammonia is excellent for
ing hair brushes. Use about blespoonfuls of ammonia and
water to cover the bristles,
the back. Shake it thoroughly
it is in the water to loosen
Dry it well before using.

Some housekeepers put a onion inside a fowl that is to
for any length of time.
sorbs germs that would other fect the meat. Sliced onion bag of charcoal placed near
any kind has the same effect.

THE SILENT OPINION

What Men Think of Women of Men.

Most men have some of us about women and most of men. There are certain of face, certain kinds of manner form methods of expression
which many men and women justly condemned in the
of their brothers and
A disposition to dislike certain
of face is at times so strong suggest a previous existence.

We do not openly say that all on with such and such eyebrows
hard hearted or that a man
a charlatan if the color of his
and hair contradict each other
we act continually upon notions
ly less unreasonable. Educated with small vocabularies, for
are divided as a rule by clever en into fools by birth and self fools, according to whether want of equipment be ascribed
ture or to affectation.

To the first they are indifferent
to the latter they have almost a
a more or less active dislike.
men are often able, a fact their sex invariably recognize. The whose words are few and ill
may be a man of prompt and
soned action, who having brought up among the silent
the garrulous silly deprecate waste of pains occasioned by game of talk. All mental ath bore him just as physical ath
bore others.

In the same way the fact
man pretends to know no more than a savage may be a matter
awkward though genuine humil
a fear of pretending to a culture
does not possess—or an act of ficial conformity to a passing among a small set. It may be more to do with his real mind
an ugly figure or an ill cut coat.
cumstances will sometimes con
even a clever woman of these so far as a given man is concer
but she will never alter her opinion as to the generality.

Clever women are very har
the men they imagine to be Able men, on the other hand, are at all hard on women they kn be stupid. Where youth and b are concerned the fact is easily
derstood, but youth and beauty
no means explain the whole of phenomenon. Many men are clined to think that the kind of tal power in women which we qually call brains exists in ratio to their common sense serves only to carry them with ning rapidity through verbal fall to a false conclusion.—London
ator.

Wearied Eyes.

In these days of study and dary work requiring much use
yes, they often become so tired
hey refuse to do good work.
s particularly true when the w done in a poor light, or when very fine work. Few eyes will such treatment for any great of time without being spoiled.
question is often asked us, what be done in such cases? There remedy for tired eyes that has value. It consists in massage the hand wet in cold or cool
Fill a basin with it, and standing
wet the hand with as much as it will hold and apply it to yes, at the same time with bumb and forefinger giving the gentle manipulation. Continue rocess for four or five minutes
ral times a day. The results
ften almost marvelous.

Jews in Palestine.

One of the arresting features of eavy exodus from Russia is the umber of those who are making alestine. According to reports
dessa, every ship bound for arries a hundred Jewish rom parts of the empire to ine. There can now, in spite of xodus of those who have ittle short of 100,000 Jews
oly Land.—Jewish Chronicle.

Fitzgerald, Ga.—In the case of
n Handley, charged with
s wife, before Judge Martin, inville, the jury, after being ours, returned a verdict of e first degree, with the recom on of a life term in the account of the evidence being circumstantial. Judge Martin ounced sentence in accordance e recommendation. The embers of prominent families

COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
—Third Monday in May.
—Fourth Monday in Nov.

L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
—Second Monday in
—Second Monday in Sept.
—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clanton.

County Court.
day in each month.
missioners' Court.
Monday February, first Mon
first Monday June, second
, second Monday August,
November.

COUNTY OFFICERS.

Probate—L. H. Reynolds.
—W. T. Callen.
M. Morgan.
—W. M. Adams.
—L. B. Pounds.
—T. J. Hubbard.

County Commissioners.
District—W. H. Conway.
District—Alex Glasscock.
District—R. P. Kendrick.
District—Moses Robinson.

Supt. of Education.
W. Moore, Clanton.

County Surveyor.
Abal, Calera.

State Senator.
L. Oliver, Calera.

COUNTY CHURCHES.

MISSIONARY BAPTIST.
—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas
Sunday and Saturday be
L. Hand, clerk.

SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
R. B. Popwell, clerk.

CREEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey,
First Sunday and Saturday
W. E. Thomas, clerk.

CHAPEL—Rev. J. H.
pastor. Third Sunday and before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
First Sunday and Saturday
W. Scott, clerk.

ONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
Fourth Sunday and Saturday
p. m. H. H. Armstrong,

GROVE—Rev. J. H.
pastor. Fourth Sunday and
before at 11 a. m. D. H.
clerk.

NCE—Rev. W. W. Robin-
Second Sunday and Sat-
Riley Robinson, clerk.

OTH (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H.
pastor. Second Sunday and
before. D. C. Smitherman,

MITIVE BAPTIST.
—Elder J. P. Nobles, pas
Sunday and Saturday be-
Abernathy, clerk.

THODIST EPISCOPAL.
MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Van-
or. Second Sunday. Sing-
second and fourth Sunday
Prayer meeting every Wed-
Ladies' prayer meeting
afternoon.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

Masonic.
R. A. Chapter, No. 116—
day, Clanton.

Lodge A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday, Cooper.

Lodge A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday, Clanton.

Lodge A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday, Billingsley.

Lodge A. F. and A. M.,
Saturday on or before full
oon.

Lodge A. F. and A. M., No.
day on or before full moon.

Lodge A. F. and A. M., No.
day on or before full moon.

I. O. O. F.
Lodge—First and third Sat-

Lodge No. 204—Second and
days.

Sons of the World.
Camp No. 190—First and
days.

L. O. R. M.
Tribe No. 96—First and
days. Visiting chiefs cordial. E. B. Langston, C.
Paine, Sachem.
Tribe No. 48—2nd and 4th
days. Visiting chiefs cor-ially. J. M. Grant, Sachem;
. C. of R.
Tribe No. 9 meets
fourth Tuesdays' sleep.
ors cordially invited.
VAN DERVEER, Sachem
SON, C. of R.

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

Chilton Co. Division Officers.

J. H. Thomas, President, Jemison, Rte. 1.

J. W. Hayes, Vice Pres., Thorsby, Rte 1.

J. N. Dennis, Sec-Treas., Clanton, Rte 6.

G. W. Thomas, Chaplain, Clanton, Rte 2.

J. W. Sorrell, Bus. Agent, Jemison, Rte 4.

C. N. Eiland, Lecturer, Clanton, Rte 4.

N. A. Bobbs, Asst. Lect., Clanton, Rte 3.

W. J. Bean, Conductor, Clanton, Rte 4.

W. F. Culpepper, Doorkeeper, Clanton, Rte 3.

W. A. Barnett, Ex. Committee, Jemison, Rte 2.

E. H. Mims, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 1.

J. Wiley Foshee, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 4.

THE REV. IRL R. HICKS 1907 ALMANAC.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks has been compelled by the popular demand to resume the publication of his well-known and popular Almanac for 1907. This splendid Almanac is now ready. For sale by news dealers, or sent postpaid for 25 cents, by Word and Works Publishing Company, 2201 Locust street, St. Louis, Mo., publishers of Word and Works, one of the best dollar monthly magazines in America. One Almanac goes with every subscription.

We will send The Union for one year and the Almanac for $1.00, strictly in advance. THE UNION.
tf

ANNUAL REVIVAL.

The annual revival meeting at Rocky Mount Church will begin Friday night before the second Sunday in November, and will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. T. Vandiver, assisted by Rev, Sam Jones and others of the Alabama Conference. J. B. N.
tf

CIRCUIT COURT CONVENES NOVEMBER 26, 1906.

List of Grand Jurors.

A. S. Jones, Beat 3; John Martin, Beat 2; T. U. Crupmton, Beat 7; J. G. Burkhalter, Beat 10; D. C. Honeycutt, Beat 9; J. W. Sorrell, Beat 1; W. M. Price, Beat 8; J. O. Barrett, Beat 10; J. A. Skaggs, Beat 2; Hugh Henry, Beat 2; J. J. Letcher, Beat 7; J. M. Robinson, Beat 10; Alford Mims, Beat 9; Y. O. Freeman, Beat 3; G. A. Keen, Beat 8; A. J. McDuncan, Beat 4; W. H. Parrish, Beat 11; L. H. Gentry, Beat 5; Elijah Headley, Beat 6; J. O. Wesson, Beat 4; G. H. Gerald, Beat 9.

Petit Jurors First Week.

W. A. Hays, Beat 3; William Jones, Beat 4; Paton Harris, Beat 8; John W. Foshee, Beat 7; O. O. Roper, Beat 4; D. C. Alred, Beat 4; Joseph Mims, Beat 10; Albert Gore, Beat 11; J. J. Mims, Beat 6; J. N. Askins, Beat 6; E. L. Jones, Beat 10; Sanford Clark, Beat 5; W. H. Coffer, Beat 1; J. M. Merchant, Beat 7; James E. Cobb, Beat 2; Wiley Gore, Beat 9; J. A. Sammons, Beat 2; Lewis Littleton, Beat 11; James Chambers, Beat 7; Charles Shaw, Beat 2; W. D. Buckhalter, Beat 10; Dowdle Roy, Beat 5; G. W. Jones, Beat 10; J. H. Gibbons, Beat 3; C. C. Plyer, Beat 4; A. J. Jones, Beat 9; J. W. Walles, Beat 3; J. B. Northcutt, Beat 1; J. J. Hawthorn, Beat 9; Robert Gandy, Beat 8; R. A. Barnett, Beat 2; William Clark, Beat 2.

Petit Jurors Second Week.

W. A. Weaver, Beat 8; S. M. Yates, Sr., Beat 10; J. T. Williams, Beat 6; William Peatle, Beat 7; George Moore, Beat 7; J. H. Cox, Beat 10; E. J. Vinson, Beat 6; Frank Mulkey, Beat 2; Dock Hunt, Beat 2; W. E. C. Smith, Beat 11; J. R. Johnson, Beat 2; Joseph Cox, Beat 4; Burt Hawkins, Beat 2; W. T. Vinzant, Beat 1; Watts Moore, Beat 4; A. N. Miner, Beat 4; S. H. Driver, Beat 1; Reuben Wyatt, Beat 4; Andrew Deason, Beat 8; J. T. Harris, Beat 5; J. F. Rawlinson, Beat 8; D. W. Cobb, Beat 2; J. H. Willoughby, Beat 4; A. T. Hathcock, Beat 6; William Rasberry, Beat 3; J. A. Lowery, Beat 2; S. D. McCary, Beat 3; L. W. Robinson, Beat 9; W. L. Bates, Beat 10; C. C. Crumpton, Beat 2; J. D. Hudgison Beat 3; W. P. Childress, Beat 9. tf

CLANTON ACADEMY,

Clanton, Alabama,

Possesses superior advantages to pupils of all grades, prepares them to enter the best colleges and universities, trains teachers to stand examination for any grade certificate and qualifies them the better to fill a place in their profession.

L. J. THOMPSON,
tf Principal.

A WAY TO RAISE MONEY.

Physician's Wife—I need a new evening dress.

Physician—All right, my dear; I'll look over my list and find some fellow who can afford an operation for appendicitis.—New York Press.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Nov. 7, 1906.... 3,900
Price same date 9 1-2
Receipts same time in 1905:... 4,692
Price same date 10 3-4

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Well, John, did you vote for John?

J. W. Harrell and J. W. Beaseley were pleasant visitors Friday.

C. W. Langston and W. C. Dickfuson were in Clanton Friday.

H. T. Childress was in town Friday.

J. N. Ervin was in Clanton Friday.

Prof. J. A. Raines was a welcome caller Saturday. He is in charge of the public school in District 3.

W. H. Bean was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

W. O. Rich was in Clanton Saturday.

T. J. Hubbard, J. M. Hubbard and Felix J. Fitts were in town Saturday, accompanied by Dr. Raymond Hubbard and Prof. Sheldon Fitts.

B. G. Foshee was a pleasant visitor Saturday.

Profs. W. J. and M. W. Mims were Clanton visitors Saturday; these two are among our most promising young men.

J. F. Hayes and J. B. Littlejohn were in Clanton Saturday.

E. T. Gullahorn (Uncle Tom) was in Clanton Saturday and paid us a very pleasant call. Uncle Tom is an honest, hearty old gentleman that it does one good to meet up with.

J. W. (Dick) Edwards was a pleasant visitor Tuesday, and he voted for "Prosperity and Progress."

R. Rutland was a welcome visitor Tuesday.

J. M. Eiland was in Clanton Tuesday.

D. D. Hand was in town Tuesday. Mr. Hand is not in the best of health at present.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

N. W. Wilkins and Miss Leila Miller; Daniel Simmons an... ss Beatrice Smith.

Colored.

Thomas Braxton and Mattie Hayes.

STOCK LAW ELECTION NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that, in pursuance of an order made by the Commissioners' Court of Chilton county, Alabama, on the 5th day of November, 1906, ordering an election to be held in Precinct Three in said county, for the purpose of determining whether or not all live stock shall be prohibited from running at large in said Precinct Three in said county, an election, for said purpose, will be held on the 18th day of December, 1906, at Benson and Macedonia, in said Precinct Three in Chilton county, Alabama.

Witness my hand this 5th day of November, 1906.
tf G. E. WRIGHT.

LOMAX.

Health of this community is very good at present, though Gip Henley is still on the sick list, where he has been for five months and suffered untold pain. We all hope for his speedy cure. J. M. Henley and family, of Baldwin, visited Gip Henley's Sunday; I. V. Collins and family, of Collins Chapel, were there also. R. Henley visited Allie Jones' Sunday. Messrs. Charles Jones and Bill Baker, with their families, visited Walnut Creek Sunday. Come again, "Mary Jane." Success to The Union.

NOBODY'S DARLING.

PROGRAM SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The annual convention of District No. 5 will be held at Corinth church, five miles east of Verbena, the second Sunday, November 11, 1906.

9:45 a. m.—Devotional exercises, E. L. Jones.

Singing, led by A. L. Robinson.

10:00.—President's report, D. S. Robinson.

Secretary's report, Miss Lila Meriwether.

10:20.—"The Influence of the Sunday School," P. M. Jones.

10:40.—"What Is Needed in My Sunday School," W. L. Pyron, J. F. Williams, John Norris, W. H. Sterck, Cato Pattillo, W. C. Rich, Zeb Mims, E. L. Jones, Joseph Mims and D. S. Robinson.

11:30.—Address by Judge Joseph Carthel, State Secretary.

1:15 p. m.—Devotional exercises, Dr. H. W. Caffey.

1:30 p. m.—"Music in the Sunday School," T. L. Robinson.

2 p. m.—Discussion of "Primary Work," Mrs. Agnes Farr, Miss Maggie Long, Miss Alice Strock, Miss Dora Sims, Mrs. D. L. Robinson, Mrs. M. E. Baldwin.

2:30.—"The Sunday School as a Field of Training", A. L. Harris'

3 p. m.—"A Well Organized Sunday School," Judson Strock.

It is earnestly hoped that every Sunday school in Beats 5 and 10 will be represented at this convention.

D. S. ROBINSON,
tf LILA MERIWETHER.

SPECIAL NONTICE.

When you are in the city of Jemison call at the new barber shop, corner Cotton Belt street and Second avenue. E. M. RAY. tf

NOTICE.

For sale, four fine meat hogs, three years old. Call on Jess Burnett, Jemison, Route 4. tf

THE PULPIT.

A BRILLIANT SUNDAY SERMON BY REV. I. W. HENDERSON.

Subject: The Holy Spirit.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Preaching at the Irving Square Presbyterian Church on the theme, "The Holy Spirit," the Rev. I. W. Henderson, pastor, took as his text Jno. 14:16-17. He said in the course of his sermon:

As we read this and the two succeeding chapters of this good news of the Beloved Disciple, we appreciate, more and more, the vital, forceful influence of the Holy Spirit upon the lives of those who love and serve God. It was at the close of the Last Supper that Christ uttered these words. A few hours and the cross claimed Him. Philip had asked, "Lord, shew us the Father." Our text is a portion of Christ's answer.

We are told by the commentators that the Holy Spirit, the Comforter is also an advocate, a helper. Literally translated the Greek means: "One who is called to another's side to aid him." To our side, an ever present aid through all eternity, the Holy Spirit has been called by Christ. Comforter, advocate, teacher, helper, guide and eternal friend, such is the Holy Spirit of the new dispensation as granted to us by our Heavenly Father.

The position of the Holy Spirit with reference to us is clearly shown by the prepositions used in the verses. "And I will pray the Father, and He shall give you another Comforter, that He may abide with you forever, even the spirit of truth; whom the world cannot receive because it seeth Him not, neither knoweth Him, but ye know Him, for He abideth by you and shall be in you." With you, by you, in you. With you, "in the fellowship of His everlasting presence." By you, "in His personal presence." In you, "as an abiding personal energy." With you, by you, in you, in all the eternal omnipotence, love and wisdom of the very God Himself. The Holy Spirit is the presence of Almighty God and of His Son Jesus Christ, with you, by you, in you. The pronouns, as the prepositions, are of prime importance. He is God, with, by and in man.

The Holy Spirit who is in our hearts to-day has been the dynamic in the lives of consecrated men and women since time was. In his journey up from bondage, it was the spirit of God that sustained Moses. He is the spirit of which Isaiah wrote: "And thine ears shall hear a word behind thee saying, This is the way, walk ye in it." And again we read in Ezekiel: "And I will put my spirit within you, and cause you to walk in My statutes, and ye shall keep My judgments and do them." The spirit of Samuel and of Jeremiah is the Spirit of Saul of Tarsus. The same but, oh, how much more full. He brings to us not merely the wealth of association that crowds about the national life of the chosen people of God. To us, He comes as a consummation and memorial of the power, majesty and all-embracing love of God and of His Son our Saviour, Jesus, the Christ.

The Holy Spirit influences and directs every good and great movement that emanates from the hearts and souls of Christian men. God working in His Holy Spirit fills the heart of Henry Ward Beecher with an overwhelming love for the Southern slave, and the inspired words of that virile Christian speed the breaking of a million shackles. The auction of the slave girl in the pulpit of Plymouth Church was God in His Spirit moving Henry Ward Beecher to decisive action. The Holy Spirit enters the heart of Florence Nightingale and soldiers on every ruddy field know the touch of a loving hand and the consolation of a sympathizing heart. The Comforter strikes hidden, inexhaustible springs in the souls of D. L. Moody, of General Crittenden, of Jerry McAulay, and myriads of outcast men and fallen women feel the power of the sheltering, upbearing arm of Almighty God. Tennyson hears the voice of God within and to us are given the immortal lines of "In Memoriam" and of "Crossing the Bar."

The history of the presence of the Christ in the lives of nations lies in the work consummated by His Holy Spirit. All the great reforms, all the great movements that have bettered humanity have had their inception in the minds of Spirit-filled men. Who can say but that the hand and the Spirit of God have been with this land, as it was with Israel, in her phenomenal success. To be sure we have made our mistakes. We are a far cry from the Christ ideal. But did we, nationally, revere Him more, did we but let His Holy Spirit dwell deeper and more lastingly in our national heart, He would bless us far beyond our fondest expectations. God is the God of nations. Christ came to take away the sins of the world, of nations, as of individuals. The Holy Spirit can fill a nation's heart if its people will but do God's will.

The most vital necessity in the life of the Christian and of the church is the Holy Spirit as He descends, constantly freshened and refreshing, from the throne of God. Having accepted Christ and His plan for our redemption, He is the first thing that we must gain. The apostles, men of God and with Christ as they were, could do naught in the work of the evangelization of the world and of lifting mankind to the level of the Christ life until they had received the gift of the Holy Ghost. For in the first chapter of the record of the Acts of the Apostles we read that "the Apostles being assembled together" after the resurrection, our Lord "commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith He, ye have heard of Me. For John truly baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized of the Holy Ghost not many days hence."

On the day of Pentecost they were all with one accord in one place, and the Holy Spirit descended upon them. You know the story. You know also the glorious assertion: "And the same day there were added unto them about 3000 souls, and the Lord added to them daily those that were being saved." The Holy Spirit was necessary to the Apostles. To us He is indispensable.

We complain of the lack of sincerity, of vitality, in the Church. This age is heralded as an age of doubt and of disbelief. The Church stands almost still. Her flags flap limply in a breeze of progress that holds straight out the ensigns of the minions of Satan. Sin confronts us on every hand and we make but insufficient headway against it. We regret that the Church does not enjoy a revival of the blessings of God upon her. We mourn that for one soul born into the Kingdom of God a more than equal number are seized in the snares of Satan. We pray for the upliftment of the world and we see the world slip from us.

Something is wrong. God was with the early Church. God is with the missionary in the farthest East. Thousands are being brought to Christ in India. Within our midst the multitudes of the unchurched and the unsaved appall us. Glance over the records of the apostolic church. Read the story of her growth. Is there not something wrong with us? What is the matter? Let us see. It is not that we have not the money to prosecute our work. We have more than at any time since our beginning. It is not that we have not numbers or able leaders or that Christ has proven false. The fault lies with us. The Church of Jesus Christ is not alive to the possibilities of the indwelling of the Holy Spirit. The Church needs Christ in her heart.

The fault lies not with God. It lies with us. We, it is, who have been content with but a portion of His grace when He would have given to us all. We, it is, who have been content to drift and almost to drown, rather than to lay hold upon the eternal saving power of the Holy Spirit.

Let the Church awake from her lethargy; let her unite under the banner of the cross and follow true; let her live the life that she never wearies to preach; let her show to the world that the Christ life is practical life written large; let her appropriate to herself the Holy Spirit with His uplift toward Christ and the Father; and then will come a return of the miracles of the early Church, of which it is written, "and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls."

The essential requirement of the Christian life is not to be able to decide definitely the date of the Flood, or to be able to assert the exact authorship of the books of the Pentateuch, or to be able, more or less intelligently, to quibble over the pin points of ecclesiastical dogmatism. Be not deceived, to know the Bible word for word is not to be a Christian. Spirituality is the great sine qua non of the Christ life. That we may be able to purify ourselves and to lift others up to the Christ we need the Holy Spirit "good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over in our hearts." Ere we can experience the depth, the power and the world-wide inclusiveness of God's love, we must be reborn of God's indwelling Spirit.

Open the doors of your heart and let the blessed sunshine of God's illuminating Spirit glow in upon you. With you, by you, in you, let the Comforter abide. In sorrow He will sustain you. In care He will comfort you. He will strengthen you in life. He will rob death of its sting.

"Let not your heart be troubled, ye believe in God, believe also in Me. In My Father's house are many mansions. I will not leave you orphans. But I will pray the Father and He shall give you another Comforter, that He may abide with you forever."

A Lesson From the Butterfly.

A naturalist one day was studying a cocoon, in which a butterfly was struggling to be free. He heard it beating against the sides of its little prison, and his heart went out in pity for the helpless creature.

Taking a tiny lancet he cut away the fragile walls and released the little captive. But to his amazement it was not the beautiful creature that he had expected to see. It lay struggling upon the table, unable to walk, unable to fly, a helpless, unlovely object. In place of the gorgeously colored wings that he had expected to see, were weak, shriveled members.

What was the matter with this creature that should have been so fair? The prison gates had been opened too soon, the obstacle had been removed before the struggler had developed sufficiently through struggling to be ready for its glorious flight into the sunshiny skies and among the perfumed flowers. O God, when the walls seem to close about us, when we struggle and agonize to be free, when Thou dost not cut away the barriers, is it not because, in Thine infinite wisdom, Thou dost see that we are weak and dost want us to become strong? Then at last, when the struggle is finished, like the butterfly, we may come forth, not perhaps, in glorious robes of splendid colors as it is, but in the everlasting robes of righteousness.—Christian Observer.

A Man Worth Knowing.

I should like to know a man who just minded his duty and troubled himself about nothing; who did his own work and did not interfere with God's. How nobly he would work—working not for reward, but because it was the will of God! How happily he would receive his food and clothing, receiving them as the gifts of God! What peace would be his! What a sober gayety! How hearty and infectious his laughter. What a friend he would be! How sweet his sympathy! And his mind would be so clear he would understand everything. His eye being single, his whole body would be full of light. No fear of his ever doing a mean thing. He would lie in a ditch rather. It is the fear of want that makes men do mean things.—George Macdonald.

What We Should Never Forget.

Let us never forget that what we are is more important than what we do; and that all fruit borne when not abiding in Christ must be fruit of the flesh, and not of the Spirit.—J. Hudson Taylor.

Walking in faith is walking in the light of His face.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR NOVEMBER 11.

Subject: Jesus in Gethsemane, Matt. xxvi., 36-50—Golden Text: Luke xxii., 42—Memory Verses, 38, 39—Topic: The Agony of Jesus.

I. Jesus enters the garden (vs. 36, 37). 36. "Then." This was about midnight. "Cometh." After they had left the upper room where they had eaten the paschal supper. "With them." There were only eleven now; Judas was absent making arrangements for the betrayal. "Unto a place." Jesus oftentimes resorted to this quiet retreat with His disciples (John 18:2) for refreshment, retirement, quiet instruction and perhaps prayer. "Gethsemane." The name means oil press, an emblem of trial, distress, agony. "Sit ye here." He left eight of the disciples at the entrance of the garden. "Pray." Christ frequently went alone to pray.

37. "Took with Him." Farther into the garden, to a spot more retired. In this hour Jesus needed human sympathy, even while He must "tread the wine press alone." "Two sons of Zebedee." James and John. The three disciples Jesus took with Him had been witnesses of His transfiguration and glory, and were now to behold His humiliation and agony. "Began to be sorrowful." To be penetrated with the most exquisite sorrow, and overwhelmed with deep anguish. "Very heavy." Sore troubled; a stronger word than the other.

II. The bitter cup of sorrow (vs. 38, 39). 38. "Even unto death." It was agony that would destroy His life if it continued. The agony became so great that His sweat was great drops of blood falling down to the ground. "Tarry ye here." Spoken to the three disciples.

39. "A little farther." About a stone's cast (Luke); 150 to 200 feet. There were now three divisions of the little company—the eight, the three, and Jesus alone. "On His face." This was the ordinary posture of the supplicant when the favor asked was great, and deep humiliation required. The head was put between the knees and the forehead brought to touch the earth. "My Father." In all our addresses to God we should eye Him as a father—as our Father, and it is in a special manner helpful to do so when we are in an agony. "If it be possible." The great horror of Jesus in the garden arose, not from fear of Calvary, but from fear of failure, through physical suffering to reach Calvary, and so lose all for which He left heaven. "Not as I will." If it is Thy will that I should die here in the garden instead of dying on the cross, as foretold, I submit. He was entirely resigned to His Father's will.

III. The disciples asleep (vs. 40, 41). 40. "Cometh unto the disciples." He did this three times during this awful hour. He apparently desired communion with them and the sympathy and comfort which they could give. "Asleep." Luke says they were sleeping for sorrow. "Unto Peter." Peter had just made loud professions. "With Me." He was suffering for them, but only expected that they would watch with Him. "One hour." Sometimes Christ continued in prayer all night, but He only asked them to watch with Him one hour.

41. "Watch and pray." A testing time is coming and you will need to watch carefully and pray earnestly. The Christian is in danger of falling a prey to the world, the flesh and the devil. "The spirit—willing," etc. They desired to watch with Him and thus show their sympathy and love for Him, but their bodies and minds were weak.

IV. Jesus prevails in prayer (vs. 42-44). 42. "The second time." His going the second and third times shows how great was the burden and His intense eagerness and perseverance. 43. "Their eyes were heavy." It is a sad thing for the church to be sleeping while Christ is suffering and praying.

44. "The same words." Not that Jesus merely repeated the same words each time, but these words were the substance of His prayer. This prayer is "a model (1) of earnestness, (2) directness, (3) perseverance, (4) faith, (5) submission.

V. Jesus betrayed (vs. 45-50). 45. "Sleep on now." Jesus had gained the victory. But Jesus was on the alert and when He heard the approaching multitude and saw the lanterns and torches He aroused the sleepers. 46. "Let us be going." To meet Judas and the soldiers. Jesus is ready; without hesitancy He turns His face toward the terrible sufferings of the cross. 47. "Great multitude." Composed of a detachment of the Roman cohort stationed in the Castle Antonia (John 18:3, 12, "the band"), of the Jewish temple watch (Luke 22: 52, "the captains of the temple"); of others, including servants and dependents of the high priest (v. 51), and, in all probability, some fanatical chief priests and elders. "Swords." Carried by the Roman soldiers. "Staves." Or clubs, the arms of the temple watch and the crowd. John adds also, what lay in the nature of the case, that they were provided with "lanterns and torches" as well as weapons. 48. "Kiss." Probably the usual salutation of the disciples to their Master.

49. "Kissed Him." A stronger word than that used in the last verse. The sign was a kiss, but the performance a caressing. 50. "Friend." A term of civility though not necessarily of friendship. Christ's meekness and gentleness surpass even the standard which He holds up for His disciples in Matt. 5: 39.

Alleged Murderer.

Chicago, Ill.—Leonard Leopold, who was arrested in Wausau, Wis., for the murder of Mrs. Margaret Leslie, the actress, arrived here in company with a detective.

Mine Will Close Down.

Knoxville, Tenn.—A Petros special says that the tipple of Mine No. 1 was burned, which will cause a shut-down of the mine for several days.

Fall and Winter Hardware

Heating Stoves, Coal Hods, Tongs, Pokers, Coal Vases, Fire Guards, Window Panes and Putty,

PIPE AND FITTING.

Can secure repairs for machinery from us much cheaper and in less time than from Birmingham or Montgomery. We carry Inspirators, Lubricators, Glass Oil Cups, Check and Globe Valves, Jets, Packing, Rubber Belting and Gandy Stitched Belt, Engine and Cylinder Oil, Axle Oil and Axle Grease.

ROOFING.

We have in stock Galvanized and Iron Roofing, and our price will make this roofing cheaper for you than shingles, and is much easier to put in use.

PAINTS.

The Hammar Paint and Sun Proof Paint are as good as any on the market. We have pure Linseed Oil and Lead, and if you prefer to do your own mixing, we are prepared to furnish you the necessary coloring.

BUILDERS' HARDWARE.

We can save you money on this line. Have a full stock of Sash, Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Sash Cord. Call on us for prices before placing your order.

SPIGENER & JONES

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton, Alabama

"BING CLOTHES"

Are the Clothes for Men and Boys

Do you know that you can buy best Ready-to-Wear Clothes that no tailor can make for less than nearly double the price we ask?

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for fall is now complete; the styles are decided and we are showing absolutely correct styles. New Jackets, new Skirts, new Dress Goods, new Waist Goods, new Hats, new Shirts, new Neckwear. A complete line of Star Brand Shoes.

"Star Brand Shoes are Better"

Also a complete line of hardware, cooking stoves, harness, saddlery and Florence wagons. Come to see us before you buy elsewhere.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, :-: :-: Alabama.

E. G. Rollins & Co.

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise, Clothing, Shoes and Fancy Groceries.

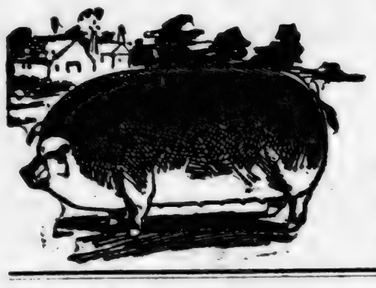
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

WOODLAWN FARM.

Barred Plymouth Rocks

PURE BRED

Setting of 15 fresh eggs for 50c. Packing for shipping 10c extra.



PURE BRED

Duroc Jersey Hogs.

Write us for prices before you buy. Address,

W. Y. NIX,

Maplesville, Alabama.

Bank Saloon

CALERA, ALA.

Fine Wines, Whiskies, Brandies, Beer, Cigars and Tobacco

ALABAMA GLEANINGS.

Items of Interest Gathered as They Transpire Over the Entire State.

Shooting of Holderfield.

Gadsden, Ala.—The shooting of J B. Holderfield Wednesday night near Sligo by Willias Sikins seems to have been the outcome of a previous trouble between the two men and not as the result of the coroner's investigation of the Davis murder had it.

It is stated that Holderfield is the road supervisor for that beat and he had served Elkins with a notice to work the roads ,but that Elkins ignored the summons. Wednesday Holderfield secured a warrant for his arrest and went to Sligo to serve the warrant himself. This enraged Elkins and he laid in wait for Holderfield on the road to Mountainboro, knowing that he would return home that way, and shot him.

The wounded man will recover. Elkins has not been captured, and it is believed he has probably left the country.

Settles With City.

Montgomery, Ala.—City Treasurer R. S. Williams received $12,000 as a settlement with the bondsmen of the city's claim against R. H. Somerville, who was city treasurer at the time of the failure of the banking house of Josiah Morris & Co., in which bank Mr. Somerville had a large sum of money on deposit.

The bond of Mr. Somerville was for $40,000. His sureties were John W. Durr, Sr., A. A. Wiley and E. M. Billing. The settlement was in the nature of a compromise agreed upon by Mayor Teague and the city council. The bondsmen. The bondsmen paid $3,500 and the city received $8,500 from the bankrupt court on account of the assets of the bank.

With the payment of the money into the city treasury the claim against the bondsmen was settled in full.

Program Is Completed.

Anniston, Ala.—The program for the dedication of the Alabama Synodical College for Men was completed when the only doubtful man on the list of speakers signified his acceptance of the invitation to participate in the dedication ceremonies, which will be carried out by some of the leading exponents of education in the south.

The entire synod of the Presbyterian church in Alabama will be in attendance at the dedication, the synodical members coming here in a body from Talladega immediately after their adjournment on Thursday morning, November 15, at 7:30, proceeding from the local station to the college, where they will spend the entire day considering the interests of Christian education.

Dinner will be served the speakers and members of the synod at the college dining hall, and besides the oratorical program several musical selections will be rendered between the speeches, thus giving a variety to the exercises.

Sale of Preserves.

Huntsville, Ala.—Colonel James F. O'Shaughnessy, of New York, president of the Huntsville Monte Sano Improvement Company, is here on an important business mission, and expects to be able to make a trade with the Interstate Sporting Club, which has taken an option on the properties of the improvement company on Monte Sano. The club proposes to establish a club house and maintain a shooting preserve on the mountain.

Suit Filed Against Southern.

Birmingham, Ala.—Suit has been filed in the United States court by I. M. Gray, administrator for Robert Lee Berry, against the Southern Railway Company for $30,000. The bill of complaint alleges that Berry was run over and killed by a train of the defendant. The accident occurred in Fayette. Wanton negligence on the part of the engineer of the train is charged by the plaintiff.

In Collision.

Norfolk, Va.—The battleship Virginia was rammed in Hampton Roads by the Old Dominion liner Monroe. Both vessels afterward come to this port. The Monroe, inward bound from New York, landed her passengers at her pier, while the battleship followed shortly under her own steam and proceeded to the Norfolk navy yard.

Farmer Burned Out.

Jackson, Tenn.—G. I. Rutherford, a farmer of the Eighth civil district, lost his house and nearly all his household goods by fire. He had no insurance, his policy having expired a few days ago. His loss is over $1,000.

Dies From His Injuries.

Augusta, Ga.—W. J. Sowell, a sewing machine agent, who was run over by a trolley car in North Augusta on Thursday night, died of his injuries.

Painter Commits Suicide.

Augusta, Ga.—George Williams, a painter, committed suicide Thursday night by taking morphine. No reason has been assigned for the suicide. He leaves a wife and three children.

CLOSE OF FAIR.

Special Officer Killed as Result of Misunderstanding.

Selma, Ala.—The Central Alabama Fair closed after a signal success during the entire week. The weather was very nearly ideal, not a drop of rain had fallen, and the crowds of visitors to the city were unprecedented.

Friday night about 1 o'clock occurred the one sad feature of the fair. It grew out of one special officer mistaking another, and resulted in the death of the latter, a young man, Edward J. Boykin by name. Earlier in the evening George Acker, one of the doorkeepers on the animal show of the Parker Amusement Company, missed his overcoat. When later it was found hanging on the back of the lions' cage, in which is performed the Wallace act, a pistol that had been in the pocket was missing. It was determined not to touch the coat, but to leave it hanging where it had been found, but to set a watch to catch the pistol thief when he should return to the coat. About 10:30 young Boykin left his post and went off, Officer R. A. Anderson taking up the watch. In about a half hour Boykin returned and, going under the canvas, went upto the coat. As he did so Anderson called out to him, and the unfortunate young man started to get a match when Anderson, thinking he was going for his pistol, fired twice, one of the bullets striking near the heart and causing practically instant

Shoots Her Husband.

Mobile, Ala.—W. Ross Ballentyne was shot in the temple at his home, 251 Marine street, his wife firing the fatal shot. Mrs. Ballentyne stated at police headquarters that her husband had quarreled with her and struck her twice. Driven to desperation she fired. Ballentyne was taken to the city hospital, where it was pronounced he could not live until morning.

Ballentyne was one of the best known young men of Mobile. He was employed as a fruit messenger by the United Fruit Company. His wife was formerly Miss Bettie Buchanan, of Aberdeen, Miss., and the divorced wife of James Brassfield, of that city.

Mrs. Ballentyne appeared much depressed when brought to police headquarters and placed in a cell.

Shortage Amounts to $61,500.

Washington, D. C.—Acting Secretary of the Treasury Keep stated that a shortage of $61,500 had been found in the St. Louis sub-treasury, but when the shortage occurred or who is responsible for it he declined to state, saying that the matter was under investigation by treasury officials, in conjunction with those of the department of justice.

The announcement was made immediately after the return of C. C. Bantes, deputy assistant treasurer of the United States in Washington, from St. Louis, where he, with other government experts, has been counting the cash to determine whether or not there was a shortage in the cash, as reported by the assistant treasurer of the United States.

Aged Man in Jail.

Montgomery, Ala.—Brock Thomas, a gray-haired white man, wanted in Coosa county, charged with carrying a concealed pistol, was committed to the county jail from police headquarters.

Thomas was arrested by the police, and, on trial in the recorder's court, was convicted of carrying a concealed pistol. His fine of $50 and costs was later remitted, but he was held here under an indictment in Coosa county. It was said he claims to be an officer and had the pistol concealed while in pursuit of the slayer of W. L. McCain.

Deputy Sheriff S. S. Belser wrote Sheriff Tipton, of Coosa county, advising him that Thomas is held in custody here.

Automobile in River.

Wilkesbarre, Pa.—An automobile driven by Frederick Williams, of Scranton, was found in the Susquehanna river. Williams is missing. The point at which the machine went into the river is at the end of a street which curves sharply away from the river. The bank at this point is forty feet high.

Floods in Italy.

Rome.—Heavy storm throughout Italy have caused floods in various parts of the peninsula. There is over a foot of water in St. Mark's Square in Venice, and it is snowing in the Alps. Many roads are obstructed by landslides.

Treasurer Missing.

Chicago, Ill.—J. Christian Eskilson, of Chicago, thrice supreme treasurer of the Danish Brotherhood of America, is missing, and simultaneously it is found that from $40,000 to $50,000 of the order's funs is gone. Eskilson has not been seen since October 20.

Fitzgerald, Ga.—In the case of Reason Handley, charged with poisoning his wife, before Judge Martin, at Irwinville, the jury, after being out five hours, returned a verdict of murder in the first degree, with the recommendation of a life term in the penitentiary, on account of the evidence being mostly circumstantial. Judge Martin pronounced sentence in accordance with the recommendation. The parties are members of prominent families.

Statement of the condition of the THORSBY S... BANK, located at Thorsby, Ala., at the C... of Business October 10, 1906.

RESOURCES.		LIABILITIES
Loans and discounts	$11,780.46	Capital stock paid in	...
Overdrafts	17.71	Surplus fund	...
Furniture and Fixtures	668.50	Undivided profits, less current expenses and taxes paid	...
Other real estate	3,303.10	Individual deposits subject to check	...
Due from banks and bankers in this State	1,537.93	Demand certificates	...
Due from banks and bankers in other States	2,036.03	Time certificates	...
Currency (about)	933.00	Cashier's checks	...
Gold	117.50
Silver, nickels and pennies (about)	308.80
Checks and cash items	141.85
Total	$20,844.38	Total	...

THE STATE OF ALABAMA—Chilton County.

Before me came I. S. Gerald, President of Thorsby Savings Bank, who, being duly sworn, says that the above and foregoing statement is a true condition of said bank as shown by the books on file in said bank.

I. S. GERALD.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 18th day of October, 1906.

E. F. MEAD,
N. P. and Ex. Off.

Closing Out Sale

We will close out the entire stocks of SHOES, CLOTHING that we bought of J. W. Smith and Littlejohn, AT COST AND BELOW—FOR CASH

Ladies' coarse Shoes	$ .75 for
Ladies' coarse Shoes	$1.15 for
Ladies' coarse Shoes	$1.35 for
Ladies' coarse Shoes	$1.50 for
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$1.50 for
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$1.75 for
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$2.75 for
Ladies' Fine Shoes	$3.00 for
Men's Fine Hats	$1.00 for
Men's Fine Hats	$1.50 for
Men's Fine Hats	$1.75 for
Men's Fine Hats	$3.00 for
Men's Coats	...
Men's Underwear, heavy	$ .50 for
Men's Underwear, heavy	$ .75 for
Ladies' Underwear, heavy	$ .40 for
Ladies' Underwear, heavy	$ .60 for
Men's Fine Shirts	$1.00 for
Men's Fine Shirts	$1.25 for
10 pounds Good Coffee for	...

Many other SPECIAL BARGAINS too numerous to mention. We handle all kinds of Grain and Feed. See us, we can SAVE you MONEY. We WANT all kinds of COUNTRY PRODUCE.

COOPER BROS.

Clanton, Alabama

Thorsby, Alabama

Business Directory.

Commercial Club
OF THORSBY
DEFINITE and RELIABLE information furnished to parties who desire to locate in the South.

A. HORN
LICENSED PHARMACIST.
Drugs, Stationery and Toilet Articles.

City Bakery
BREAD, CAKES and PIES
of all kinds, fresh every day.
K. A. EKBLAD

A. M. Johnson
Groceries and Delicatessen

E. H. Adams
General Merchandise.

J. R. PARNELL
General Merchandise.

J. L. FOSS
Meat Market.

Thorsby Winery Co.
Lofthus & Brunberg, Props.

Thorsby Real Estate
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, Pres.
G. H. GERALD, Sec.
G. C. MICHELSON, Treas.

OLAF SCHI...
Watchmaker & Jewe...
FRANZEN, ... BUR...
Full line of watches ... etc. Repair work gua...

A. Langville &...
Blacksmith and ... Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BU...

P. C. SMIT...
Brown Leghorn Fo... Eggs.
BERKSHIRE P...

The Thorsby ...
G. C. Michelson, ...
Good Beds and M...

J. J. Stan...
General Mercha...

MRS. MARY R. M...
General Merch...

J. BICE
Charcoal O...

It Pays, An Ad In This P...

...THLY MISERY

...e of woman's worst afflicti... weaker, and is sure to sho... beauty fade. To stop pain ... will help to relieve your mise... s, make you well, beautiful... e remedy for dragging down... e, nervousness, irritability, ... ing spells, and similar troub... licine for all women's pains ... rs. J. L. Broadhead of Clant... d Cardui for my disease, wh... men, and it has completely

T ALL DRUG STORES,

...E US A LETTER ... fully all your symptoms ... will send you Free Advice ... envelope. Ladies' ... Dept., The Chattanooga ... Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

WINE OF

HICKS' CAPUDINE IMMEDIATELY CURES HEADACHES Breaks up COLDS IN 5 TO 15 HOURS Trial Bottle 10c. At Druggists

Bryan and the Goat.

...year William Jennings Bryan ... Cornell university. While be... ...ertained at dinner by a prom... ...gal fraternity he told the fol... story on himself:

"... out in Nebraska I went to ... against my real estate assess... ...had one of the things of ... I particularly complained was ... a goat at twenty-five dollars. ...ed that a goat was not 'real' ... in the legal sense of the ...nd should not be assessed. One ...essors, a very pleasant-faced ..., very obligingly said that I ...o upstairs with him, and to... we would look over the rules ...gulations and see what could ...

"...ooked over the rules and final... old man asked: 'Does your ... loose on the roads?'

"'... sometimes,' said I, wonder... ...t the penalty was for that ...l offense.

"'... he butt?' again queried the ...

"'... I answered, 'he butts.'

"'...' said the old man, looking ...'this rule says, that all that cer... ...perty running and abutting on ...hway. I don't see that I can ...thing for you. Good day, sir.'" ...incott's Magazine.

...epsia of Women

...by Female Disorders and Cured by ...E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

...ost many women suffer with a ...f indigestion or dyspepsia which ...t seem to yield to ordinary treat... While the symptoms seem to be ... to those of ordinary indiges... ...t the medicines universally pre... ...do not seem to restore the pa... ...normal condition.

...Pinkham claims that there is a ...f dyspepsia that is caused by a ...ment of the female organism, ...ich, while it causes a disturb... ...miliar to ordinary indigestion, ...be relieved without a medicine ...not only acts as a stomach tonic, ...a peculiar tonic effect on the fe... ...organism.

...roof of this theory we call at... ...to the case of Mrs. Maggie ..., Brooklyn, N. Y., who was ...ely cured by Lydia E. Pink... ...Vegetable Compound after every... ...had failed. She writes:

...two years I suffered with dyspepsia ...degenerated the entire system that I ...to attend to my daily duties. I ...and nervous, and nothing that I ate ...and it caused a disturbance in my ... I tried different dyspepsia cures, ...seemed to help me. I was ad... ...Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable ...a trial, and was happily surprised ...it acted like a fine tonic, and in a ...began to enjoy and properly digest ... My recovery was rapid, and in ... I was a well woman. I have rec... ...it to many suffering women."

...medicine in the world has ...such widespread and unquali... ...or has such a record ...female troubles, as has Lydia ...'s Vegetable Compound.

...OULD YOU LIKE

...ST ENOUGH FROST-PROOF AND FREEZE-PROOF

..., Celery, Onion, Lettuce, Beet ... Garden Plants to set out your ... ABSOLUTELY FREE? If so, write ...TCH COMPANY, Meggetts, S. C. ...Truck and Plant farm in the World.

n of the THORSBY
Thorsby, Ala., at the
October 10, 1906.

	LIABILITIES.
0.46	Capital stock paid in
7.71	Surplus fund
8.50	Undivided profits, less
3.10	rent expenses and paid
7.93	Individual deposits to check
8.03	Demand certificates
3.00	Time certificates
7.50	Cashier's checks
8.90
1.85
4.88	Total

illto n County.
. President of Thorsby Savings
the above and foregoing state own by the books on file in said
I. S. GER
re me this 18th day of October,
E. F. MEAD,
N P., and Ex. Of. J.

Out Sa

entire stocks of SHOE ht of J. W. Smith and
D BELOW—FOR CASH

	$ .75 for $
	$1.15 for $
	$1.35 for $1.
	$1.50 for $1.
	$1.50 for $2.
7.93	$1.75 for $1.
	$2.75 for $3.
8.03	$3.00 for $3.
	$1.00 for $
	$1.50 for $1.
	$1.75 for $1.
	$3.00 for $3.
	$1.
	$ .50 for $
	$ .75 for $
	$ .40 for $
	$ .60 for $
	$1.00 for $
	$1.25 for $
	$1.

L BARGAINS too numer kinds of Grain and Feed
you MONEY. We WA
DUCE.

ER BROS.
Alab

, Alaban
Directory.

Thorsby Real Esta
(INCORPORATED)
J. M. BARRETT, Pr
G. H. GERALD, Sec.
G. C. MICHELSON, T

OLAF SCH
Watchmaker & Jewe
FRANZEN.
Full line of watches
etc. Repair work gu

A. Langville
Blacksmith a
Horseshoer
—DEALER IN—
WAGONS AND BU

P. C. SMI
Brown Leghorn Fo
Eggs.
BERKSHIRE

The Thorsby
G. C. Michelson,
Good Beds and M

J. J. Stan
General Mercha

MRS. MARY R. MA
General Mercha

J. BICE
Charcoal Ov

ps.

Ad In This P

THLY MISERY

e of woman's worst afflictions. It always leaves weaker, and is sure to shorten your life and make beauty fade. To stop pain take Wine of Cardui and ll help to relieve your misery, regulate your func-s, make you well, beautiful and strong. It is a ree remedy for dragging down pains, backache, head-e, nervousness, irritability, sleeplessness, dizziness, ing spells, and similar troubles. A safe and efficient dicine for all women's pains and sickness.

rs. J. L. Broadhead of Clanton, Ala. writes; "I have d Cardui for my disease, which was one peculiar to men, and it has completely cured me."

T ALL DRUG STORES, IN $1.00 BOTTLES

E US A LETTER
ing fully all your symptoms ill send you Free Advice sealed envelope. Ladies'
Dept. The Chattanooga
Co. Chattanooga, Tenn.

WINE OF CARDUI

HICKS' CAPUDINE
IMMEDIATELY CURES
HEADACHES
Breaks up COLDS
IN 5 TO 15 HOURS
Trial Bottle 10c. At Druggists

Bryan and the Goat.

r William Jennings Bryan Cornell university. While be-rtained at dinner by a promnal fraternity he told the foltory on himself:
out in Nebraska I went to against my real estate assess-nd one of the things of particularly complained was g a goat at twenty-five dollars.
nd that a goat was not "real"
in the legal sense of the nd should not be assessed. One ssessors, a very pleasant-faced
, very obligingly said that I o upstairs with him, and toe would look over the rules gulations and see what could ked over the rules and final-old man asked: "Does your loose on the roads?"
sometimes," said I, wonder-at the penalty was for that offense.
he butt?" again queried the
I answered, "he butts."
" said the old man, looking his rule says, that all that cererly running and abutting on ay. I don't see that I can thing for you. Good day, sir."
ssell's Magazine.

pepsia of Women

by Female Disorders and Cured by E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

t many women suffer with a indigestion or dyspepsia which m to yield to ordinary treat-While the symptoms seem to be to those of ordinary indiges-
the medicines universally pre-do not seem to restore the pa-nal condition.

n. M. Wright

Pinkham claims that there is a dyspepsia that is caused by a ent of the female organism, h, while it causes a disturblar to ordinary indigestion, be relieved without a medicine not only acts as a stomach tonic, peculiar tonic effect on the feism.
of this theory we call at-
to the case of Mrs. Maggie Brooklyn, N. Y., who was ly cured by Lydia E. Pink-egetable Compound after every-had failed. She writes:
two years I suffered with dyspepsia generated the entire system that I to attend to my daily duties. I nd nervous, and nothing that I ate and it caused a disturbance in my
I tried different dyspepsia cures, seemed to help me. I was ad-to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable a trial, and was happily surprised it acted like a fine tonic, and in a began to enjoy and properly digest
My recovery was rapid, and in
I was a well woman. I have rec-it to many suffering women."
other medicine in the world has such widespread and unqualified ent or has such a record ful cures.
female troubles, as has Lydia
nk's Vegetable Compound.

OULD YOU LIKE
T ENOUGH FROST-PROOF
AND FREEZE-PROOF
, Celery, Onion, Lettuce, Beet
Garden Plants to set out your SOLUTELY FREE? If so, write
TCH COMPANY, Meggetts, S. C.
Truck and Plant farm in the World.

Judge Bacon, a London magistrate, remarked the other day from the bench: "There is many a true word spoken by accident."

TYNER'S DYSPEPSIA REMEDY.

Many Have Dyspepsia and Don't Know It.

Do you belch up wind? Taste your food after eating? See specks before your eyes? Are you pale and haggard? Does your heart flutter? Are you dizzy? Do you have pains in side or back? Risings or pimples on the skin? Are you low-spirited? Is there a sour taste? Breath bad? Headache? Weak kidneys? Bilious? Constipated? Are you nervous? If so, you have Dyspepsia, and it is a dangerous condition. To cure, take Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy. It is made for just such troubles and symptoms. Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy removes acids from the stomach, strengthens weak stomachs and cures the worst Dyspepsia or Indigestion. Druggists or by express 50 cents a bottle. Money refunded if it fails to cure. Medical advice and circular free by writing to Tyner Remedy Co., Augusta, Ga.

Easy Fishing.

Some of the staff of the D. O. A. L. office at Delagoa Bay, accompanied by the officers of the Kronprinz, had one of the most remarkable fishing catches on record up the Umbeluzi. They went up in a launch, and were lying at anchor in the dark in the evening, with a lantern burning. Presumably attracted by the light, a number of fish leaped into the boat, and these were followed in quick succession by others. Some of the party had their hats knocked off, and for a moment were naturally quite alarmed. The fish, evidently members of a large shoal, continued leaping into the boat thick and fast, and when a count was possible it was found that nearly 400 of them were in the boat. They ran to about a foot in length, and made good eating.—From South Africa.

His Idea of Her Cooking.

Bacon—What part did your wife take in the amateur theatricals?

Egbert—She was the cook.

Bacon—Indeed! I didn't know it was a tragedy.—Yonkers Statesman.

The forthcoming city directory of Pasadena, Cal., will show a population of 25,080. This is an increase of 2,580 persons since the same time last year, and an increase of 15,963 since the United States census of 1900.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle

The number of cigarettes manufactured in the United States during the last fiscal year was 10,811,000,000.

RUNNING SORES ON LIMBS.

Little Girl's Obstinate Case of Eczema—Mother Says: "Cuticura Remedies a Household Standby."

"Last year, after having my little girl treated by a very prominent physician for an obstinate case of eczema, I resorted to the Cuticura Remedies, and was so well pleased with the almost instantaneous relief afforded that we discarded the physician's prescription and relied entirely on the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills. When we commenced with the Cuticura Remedies her feet and limbs were covered with running sores. In about six weeks we had her completely well, and there has been no recurrence of the trouble. We find that the Cuticura Remedies are a valuable household standby, living as we do twelve miles from a doctor, and where it costs from twenty to twenty-five dollars to come up on the mountain. Mrs. Lizzie Vincent Thomas, Fairmount, Walden's Ridge, Tenn., Oct. 13, 1905."

All In The Family.

Suitor—I cannot boast of wealth but I have brains. The members of my literary club will tell you that you'd have the smartest debater in town for a son-in-law.

Father—And I can assure you, my dear fellow, that you'd have the greatest lecturer in the town for a mother-in-law.—Tit-Bits.

The Vanished Wild Pigeons.

Less than fifty years ago the wild pigeons passed in springtime over the western reserve of Ohio in ranks many deep and varying from a few rods to a mile or more in length. The forests were fairly alive with them in May and June. The din of their cries and calls and the thundering roar when they were startled from the ground in the morning when feeding in the beech and oak woods once heard could never be forgotten.

These wonderful manifestations of bird life dwindled rapidly from 1859 until the last remnants disappeared from Ohio in 1871. The fate of these beautiful and interesting birds, though they were ruthlessly and wantonly slaughtered, was determined overwhelmingly by the clearing of forests and destruction of the pigeons' feeding and breeding places. This being true, and as the forests are now gone and, under the present American forestry policy, never to return, we cannot reasonably hope in the future to see very many returning wanderers.

However, every state and the general government should do everything possible to encourage their return and to cherish their presence. Two years ago, in the woods near Halifax, N. S., I heard the familiar cry of long ago, investigated, and found to my astonishment a little flock of ten of the old genuine wild pigeons. It has been a mystery to me ever since whence they came.—New York Sun.

Invitation from Mexico.

Mexico needs men of wealth, the great capitalists, but it does not want to see them come here to absorb everything in sight, to twist the tentacles of the Octopus around all productive activities. There is no more of the usual amount of the "envy of wealth" here than is to be found in other lands. Human nature, this side the Rio Grande, is the common sort. But there is in this country a strong feeling against grasping monopolies. This is a healthy indication. Capitalists who invest here, and do not endeavor to close all the gates of opportunity, will always be welcome. Fair play for all men of brains and money is Mexico's motto. But they must play fair.—Mexican Herald.

Increased Value of Farms.

The average real estate value of medium farms in the United States in 1905, according to a recent government report, was $29.11 an acre, against $21.80 an acre in 1900. Allowing for the political motive of the administration to make a fine showing before the elections, it appears to be true that there has been a real increase in farm values. This has, however, been caused by the industry of farmers and other producers, not by the high tariff or other party policy.

Thousands of women suffer daily backache, headache, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and a dozen other symptoms of kidney trouble, but lay it to other causes. Make no mistake. Keep the kidneys well, and these aches and troubles will disappear.

Mrs. Anthony Cadrette, 77 Mechanic St., Leominster, Mass., says: "My sight failed, I had sharp pain in my back and bearing-down pains through the hips. I was nervous, fretful and miserable. The urine was greatly disordered and I began to have the swellings of dropsy. I was running down fast when I started using Doan's Kidney Pills. A wonderful change came and after using them faithfully for a short time I was well."

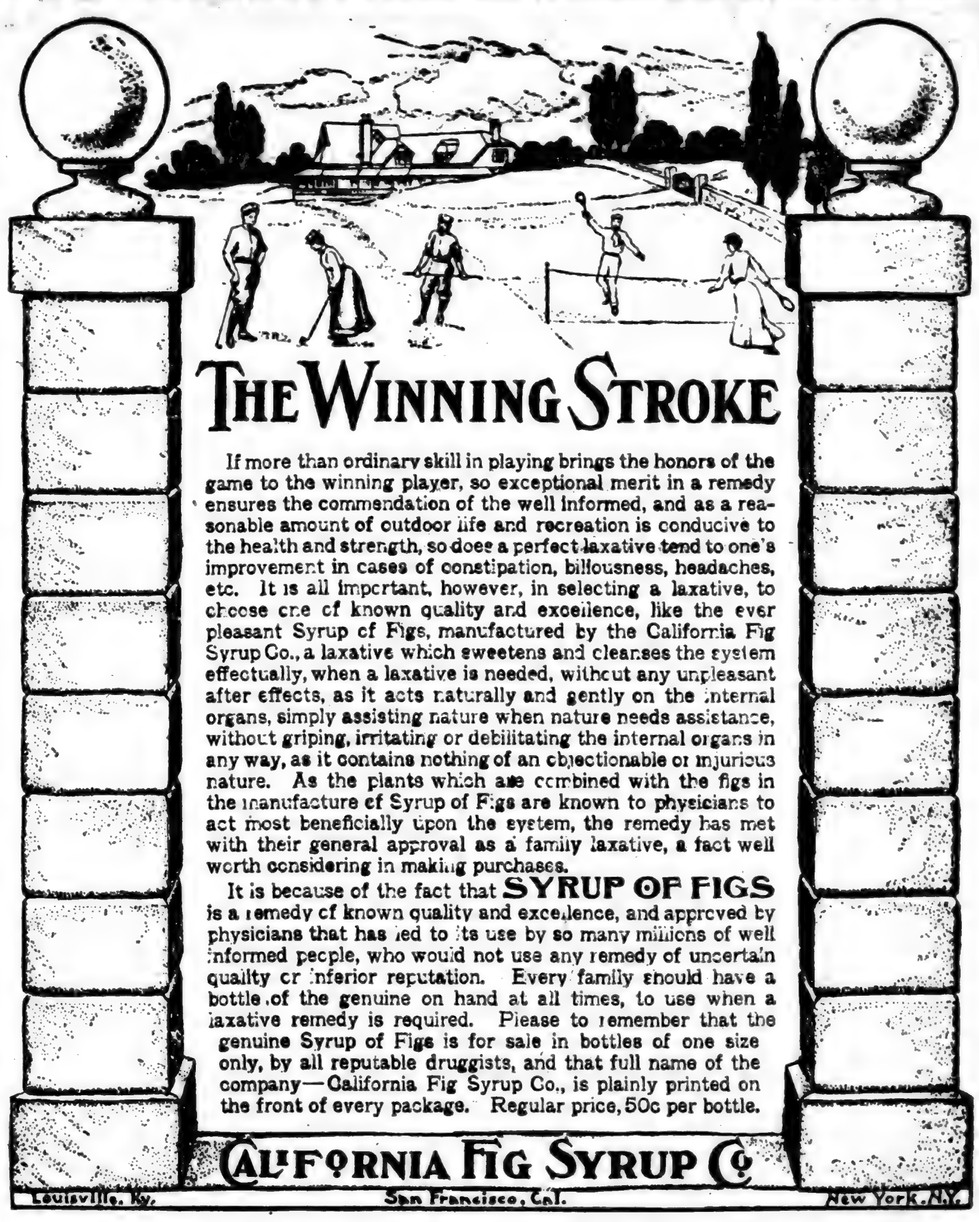
Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

New Sight for Shooting at Night.

The development of accuracy in shooting at night has received a double impetus of late in the British service. A new sight has been adopted and is being manufactured and issued with all possible despatch. This sight, a telescopic pattern, is defined by electric light for night work. It has been extensively tried under all conditions and has proved a signal success. Quite recently, also, a greatly improved 36 inch searchlight has supplanted the regulation 24 inch light, which is capable of defining an enemy at over double the distance of its predecessor. Owing to the excellent training offered by the gunnery branch our naval gunners can now with the aid of their latest sight and searchlight depend on disabling an enemy at from 3000 to 4000 yards on a favorable night.—South China Post.

anama's Rubber.

The india rubber exports from Panama to foreign countries during 1905 were estimated at 176,000 pounds, valued at $88,000 gold. The total shipped from the Colon district to the United States during 1905 was estimated at 40,000 pounds, valued at $20,000.



PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster colors than any other dye. One 10c. package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG CO., Unionville, Missouri

A Patrol Motor Fireboat.

The Rio Tinto company has large warehouses and docks at Huelva, Spain, from which its shipments of copper are made. For the protection of the company's property a small steam fireboat has been maintained for some years past, but the directors, not being satisfied with the power of this vessel, asked Colonel Fox, chief officer of the London Salvage Corps, to inspect and advise as to more powerful apparatus. As a result a novel petrol motor fireboat has been built. A run on a measured mile off Greenwich was made, both against and with the tide, the speed attained averaging nine miles an hour; one and a half inch, one and three-quarter inch and two inch solid jets were thrown from the monitor on deck, the largest stream reaching a height of about 200 feet.

The great advantages of this vessel are that it can be started instantly on an alarm of fire, there is no expense in maintaining steam ready for a call, it can be easily worked by two or three men only, and is of light draught, enabling it to get close to its work at low tide.—Engineering.

Sneezing is the best brain cleaner known. Many persons conclude an attack of faintness or fainting with a violent sneeze. Our ancestors took snuff from a belief in the efficacy of sneezing. But tobacco so taken is in part absorbed into the blood and hurts the system.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation

The city of St. Petersburg is proceeding vigorously with the development of its urban transportation system. An order has been given for 180 British-made electric trolley cars.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3.50 & $3.00 Shoes
BEST IN THE WORLD
W.L.Douglas $4 Gilt Edge line cannot be equalled at any price

SHOES FOR EVERYBODY AT ALL PRICES.
Men's Shoes, $5 to $1.50. Boys' Shoes, $3 to $1.75. Women's Shoes, $4.00 to $1.50. Misses' & Children's Shoes, $2.25 to $1.00.
Try W. L. Douglas Women's, Misses and Children's shoes; for style, fit and wear they excel other makes.
If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W.L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than any other make.
Wherever you live, you can obtain W. L. Douglas shoes. His name and price is stamped on the bottom, which protects you against high prices and inferior shoes. Take no substitute. Ask your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes and insist upon having them.
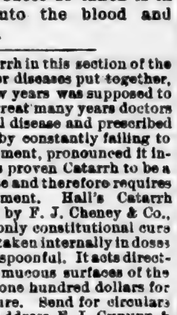
Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.
Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Dept. 18, Brockton, Mass.

Have You an Extra Room to Heat?

There need not be a cold room in the house if you own a PERFECTION Oil Heater. This is an oil heater that gives satisfaction wherever used. Produces intense heat without smoke or smell because it is equipped with smokeless device—no trouble, no danger. Easily carried around from room to room. You cannot turn the wick too high or too low. As easy and simple to care for as a lamp. The

PERFECTION Oil Heater
(Equipped with Smokeless Device.)

is an ornament to the home. It is made in two finishes—nickel and japan. Brass oil fount beautifully embossed. Holds 4 quarts of oil and burns 9 hours. Every heater warranted. Do not be satisfied with anything but a PERFECTION Oil Heater. If you cannot get Heater or information from your dealer write to nearest agency for descriptive circular.



The Rayo Lamp makes the home bright. Is the safest and best lamp for all-round household use. Gives a clear, steady light. Fitted with latest improved burner. Made of brass throughout and nickel plated. Every lamp warranted. Suitable for library, dining room or parlor. If not at your dealer's write to nearest agency. STANDARD OIL COMPANY, Incorporated.

Standard of Quality
Snowdrift
HOGLESS LARD
Made Under U.S. Government Inspection
The Southern Cotton Oil Company

Dropsy CURED
Gives Quick Relief.
Removes all swelling in 8 to 20 days; effects a permanent cure in 30 to 60 days. Trial treatment given free. Nothing can be fairer. Write Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Box B Atlanta, Ga.

Am. 45, 1906.

WANTED Address of (1) persons of pure Indian blood who can not be per-suaded any tribe, (2) of men who served in the Union army, or (3) the nearest kin of such soldiers or sailors, if deceased. HAYMAN MICHFORD, Washington, D. C.

You Look Prematurely Old
Because of those ugly, grizzly, gray hairs. Use "LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER. Price, $1.00. retail.

SONG IN WINTER TIME

The lips of the kaw are wizened,
Shriveled the willow wand;
The north wind, long imprisoned,
Has broken each gyve and bond.
The red rose garth is barren;
Fled is the golden-wing,
Till a hand like that of Aaron
Shall smite, and behold—the spring!

Buoyed by a hope eternal
As old as the Eden-birth,
I can wait till the rupture vernal
Shall quicken the sleeping earth;
For mayhap when the sod is shaken,
When tingles the tip of the fir,
Love, like the spring, will waken
In the slumbering heart of her!
—Clinton Scollard, in The Bohemian.

MULLINS' RECOMMENDATIONS

By F. E. C. ROBBINS.

"What is a man to do in a case like this?" demanded Mr. Perham, head of the commercial department and bursar of Pine Grove Seminary, as he sat in his office the morning after graduation day, pen in hand and a sheet of paper before him.

"What is the case?" asked Mr. Clark of the classical department, who had just entered the room.

"Well, you know Mullins?" began Mr. Perham.

"Mullins, the young giant? Yes, I know him slightly, of course, though he has never come under my instruction."

"Fortunately for you," declared the bursar. "Well, Mullins has finished here at last, and he wants me—"

"Why, he hasn't received a diploma, has he?" interrupted Mr. Clark.

"Of course not. It is my belief that he couldn't get a diploma if he spent the rest of his natural life here. But he has wisely made up his mind to take his leave without one, and in lieu thereof he wants me to write him a recommendation.

"I hate to refuse him, but what can I say? He is a good fellow, honest as the day, and with plenty of muscle. I could recommend him for a place on a coaster or in a logging-camp. He has earned by hard labor the money to come here. But he wants a business career, and he would certainly be a failure in an office or a store, just as he has been in the school. I have tried to tell him as much in a delicate sort of way, but he doesn't take the hint. He will have to find it out for himself. Meanwhile, I suppose that I shall have to write something for him."

"You might take pattern by an old-time president of the college where I was graduated," said Mr. Clark. "In a somewhat similar case, so the story goes he wrote a testimonial after this fashion: 'This is to certify that Mr. So-and-so has finished his course at this college, with equal credit to himself and to the institution.'"

Mr. Perham smiled, but made no reply. He began his task, however, and soon completed it as follows:

"To Whom It May Concern: The bearer of this note, Mr. David Mullins, has been for some time past a student in the commercial department of Pine Grove Seminary, and I cheerfully commend him as a young man of irreproachable character and fine physique. While circumstances prevented his completing the course, the time that he spent here was amply sufficient to enable a student of industry and ability to acquire a substantial business education.

"Charles G. Perham."

"There," he said, after reading it aloud, "that is literally true, it can do no harm, and it will satisfy Mullins."

It certainly did satisfy Mullins.

"Why, professor," he exclaimed, joyful, when he read the recommendation, "I didn't know you would feel like saying so much for me! I thank you kindly, professor." Then he added, with a little catch in his voice, "I hope I may have a chance to do as much for you some time."

Mr. Perham winced a little, partly, no doubt, but not wholly, on account of the grip of a strong right hand with which the honest youth had emphasized his gratitude.

Mullins had chosen a thriving city in a neighboring State as the scene of his business career, and the next week he was on the ground, ready to begin.

It seemed, however, that the business men of the city were just then very well provided with clerks, and he spent several days in visiting offices without once being invited to accept a position.

But at last, in a modest sixth-floor office, he found a man who was at least willing to talk with him. This was Mr. Ray, a young insurance agent.

"You were educated at Pine Grove Seminary, eh?" said Mr. Ray, with a show of interest. "I know one of the teachers there very well—Perham, head of the commercial department, I think?"

"Yes!" said Mullins, eagerly. "I have a fine recommendation from Professor Perham in my pocket."

"Ah, indeed!" said Mr. Ray, glancing at the paper that was offered him. "Yes, that is his autograph, fast enough. Perham was my roommate at college, and a right good fellow. I haven't seen him since we were graduated. Sit down, won't you, and tell me about him?"

"That is first-rate," he declared, after listening to a glowing account of his friend. "I am delighted to hear from the old fellow. And now about your case. To tell the truth, I hadn't thought of any more office help. But—perhaps I might work you in to help on the books and to act at general utility man about the office. It will be small pay at first, but if you are adapted to the business it will lead to something better."

There was no difficulty about coming to terms, and Mullins at once made his start in the insurance business.

One evening some time later Mr. Ray said to his wife, "I've got to get rid of my new clerk. I'm sorry about it, for he is a thoroughly good fellow—but stupid, stupid! I was getting along very well before, but I have certainly been overworked since Mullins came. It's queer, too. He took the commercial course at Pine Grove Seminary, under Charlie Perham, you know. And Perham gave him a first-rate recommendation. I hope he isn't a fair sample of Perham's graduates."

So the next day Mr. Ray, in as tactful a manner as possible, explained to the young man that under the prevailing business conditions he should not need extra clerical assistance after that week. Mullins accepted his dismissal in good part, and just before leaving on Saturday he asked, quite as a matter of course, "Would you be willing to write me a recommendation, Mr. Ray?"

"A recommendation? Why—ah—certainly! By the way, will you let me look at the one that Mr. Perham gave you?"

As Mr. Ray read the letter through, with considerable care this time, a light broke in upon his mind. Then, in a spirit of emulation, he turned to the typewriter, his stenographer having gone, and produced the following:

"I am pleased to say that Mr. David Mullins, who has been in my employ, is an eminently worthy young man whose desire is to do well whatever he undertakes. I do not doubt that his services will be as satisfactory to any future employer as they have been to me.

"Henry Ray."

Mullins was much pleased with this, the more especially as he had secretly feared that he had not been entirely successful in the insurance business. He thanked his late employer heartily, and on Monday morning started on his search for another place.

His travels presently brought him to an office which bore the sign, "William Evans, Coal and Wood." The proprietor was in, and although his demeanor was far from gracious, he did listen to what his visitor had to say.

"I have just turned off one fellow who was of no earthly use," he declared, in a rasping tone that seemed to match a hard look in his eyes. "It is next to impossible to get any decent help nowadays. Recommendations? Oh, of course! They all have them." He accepted rather gingerly those that Mullins now offered, and glanced them over.

"Hum—irreproachable character—substantial business education—services satisfactory. Oh, they read well enough, of course! Well, I want a man at one of my yards to do the weighing and keep a lookout for things generally. I may as well try you as any one if you want the chance. You may start in at once, and I will give you a dollar a day until Saturday night. If you suit, I'll pay more after that. If you don't suit you leave. What do you say, yes or no?"

Mullins said yes, although the work was not quite what he had had originally in mind.

He was really much better adapted to this place than to his former one, and he easily learned its duties. Being of a practical turn of mind, he soon saw the need of improvements about the yard. For one thing, he became convinced that the scales were not accurate. Some of these matters he took the liberty to bring to the attention of his employer.

When Saturday night came he was well satisfied with his success in his new business, and he went to the office fully expecting a permanent engagement with a handsome increase in salary. The proprietor had gone home, but the bookkeeper handed Mullins an envelope, which contained a five-dollar bill and this note:

"Dear Sir. I find upon trial that you do not suit me, and I shall have no further use for your services. Enclosed please find five dollars, payment in full for five days' work. Your, etc.

"William Evans."

This was a cruel blow to poor Mullins, and he turned away in deep dejection, from which he had by no means recovered when, on Monday morning, he again started on his rounds.

It was indeed with very little hope that in the course of the forenoon he entered the office of "John Arkwright, Contractor." But there was something in Mr. Arkwright's shrewd, kindly face that encouraged Mullins, and he was able to make application with less than his usual awkwardness.

"Good recommendations, you say?" repeated Mr. Arkwright, as he swung round in his revolving chair and peered at his visitor through steel-bowed spectacles.

He read with some care those that were now put into his hands, and as he did so the pleasant smile that lighted up his rugged features gave Mullins considerable encouragement.

"This your last place?" asked the contractor, with his thumb on Mr. Ray's signature.

"No, sir. I was with Mr. Evans, the coal merchant, for a short time."

"That so? Did he give you a letter when you left?"

Mullins flushed painfully. "Yes, sir," he faltered, "but I guess you couldn't call it a recommendation."

"Oh, well, I'll be the judge of that. I'd like to look at it, if you don't mind."

Mullins did mind, but he produced the letter, which Mr. Arkwright, after adjusting his spectacles, read with deliberation.

"Come now," he said, as he handed it back, "that isn't bad. I know that man Evans, and what he requires, and I shouldn't want much to do with any one that did suit him. Sit down, if you are not in a hurry, and let's talk things over."

And soon Mullins was answering questions that covered not only his career at the seminary, in which he felt some pride, but more especially his experiences in earning money to pay his way there, which he had never thought of as being of interest to any one.

"Well," said Mr. Arkwright, at last, "I rather like your appearance, and I think that there may be something in you. I don't need a bookkeeper or a clerk, but I could use a young fellow who wasn't afraid to work, and whose knowledge wasn't confined to what he learned at school. I reckon most of yours is outside of that," he chuckled. "If you say so, I will give you a chance. It will be only day-laborer's pay, and not much different from day-laborer's work at first; but if you can learn to go ahead with a job and to handle men you may find it worth while by and by."

Then the contractor entered more into particulars, and Mullins once again accepted a position.

Some ten years may be supposed to have elapsed. Mr. Perham was still at Pine Grove Seminary, although he had often felt a desire for a wider field of usefulness, with a correspondingly better salary. He was therefore agreeably surprised one day to receive a telegram, asking him to meet the trustees of a flourishing school in another State, as a candidate for the position of principal, and he readily accepted the invitation.

After his interview he was taken by one of the trustees in his carriage to the railway-station.

"I believe that I haven't told you how we happened to look you up," said the trustee, as they drove along. "The fact is, I became interested in you through one of your old pupils, who is now a partner of mine."

Mr. Perham could not have told why, but instantly there flashed before his mind's eye a scene in the bursar's office at the seminary, and he seemed to hear the words, "I hope I may have a chance to do as much for you some time."

"What is his name?" he asked. And he was not entirely surprised to hear the trustee answer, "Mullins."

"He was called out of the city to-day," added the trustee, "or he would have been on hand to meet you."

"He must have changed considerably since I saw him," remarked Mr. Perham, in default of anything else to say.

"Well, he isn't so green as he was, but he is the same simple-hearted fellow, after all. For instance, he is still proud of the testimonial that you gave him when he left school."

Mr. Perham had to blush before the quizzical glance that came to him through the steel-bowed spectacles.

"It was the best that I could do at the time, Mr. Arkwright," he said.

"Probably it was. I presume he didn't shine at school. But I reckon that I could give him a better recommendation if occasion required. For one thing, I could say that I thought well enough of him to take him into my business—contracting, you know. He can get more work out of a crew of men and keep them better-natured than any one else I know. And he can see the ins and outs of a proposed job, and what it means in dollars and cents, better than I can, with all my experience. And let me tell you, he got more out of your instruction than perhaps you thought. The seed wasn't all lost, though it did take it a long time to sprout. To this day he is always quoting things that you said, and I must say that they have generally struck me as good, sound sense. That is how I came to think of you at this time. So, Mr. Perham, if you are elected—and I think you will be, though of course I am only one of the trustees—if you are elected, it will be largely on the strength of Mullin's recommendation."—Youth's Companion.

Rural Simplicity.

"It's dreadful queer," said the housewife, "that the potatoes you bring me should be so much bigger at the top of the sack than they are at the bottom."

"Not at all, mem," said the honest farmer; "it's jest this a-way. Potatoes is growin' so fast jest now thet by the time I dig a sackful the last ones dug is ever so much bigger 'n the fust ones."—Harper's Weekly.

Telephones in Theatre Boxes.

To enable young married women, if they become anxious, to telephone home and inquire as to the condition of their children, telephones are fitted in every private box at the Coliseum.

It is a common thing at the opera and many West End theatres to see a queue of ladies waiting their turn at the telephone between the acts, just "to have a word with nurse."—London Opinion.

NOTICE.

Jemison, Ala., August 7th, 1906.

Lost—One light clay bank mare, branded on the left shoulder with a heart; the last time heard from she was at Ashby; she weighs about 700 pounds. I will reward any one liberally for information as to where she is, or if returned to me, I will pay well for the trouble.

T. S. DAVENPORT,
tf Jemison, Ala.

SALE OF LANDS.

State of Alabama, Chilton County—Probate Court.

In the matter of the petition of Julia E. Cook et al., to sell lands for division and partition among joint owners or tenants in common thereof.

Under and by virtue of a decree rendered by the Honorable Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, on the 29th day of September, 1906, in said cause, ordering a sale of the hereinafter described lands for division and partition among the joint owners or tenants thereof, to-wit: Julia E. Cook, Carrie W. Martin, John T. Dugan, William R. Dugan, David B. Dugan, Joseph A. Dugan, Lillie B. Williams, John A. McLeod, Carl McLeod, Clara Sales, Bessie McLeod, Lillian McLeod, William Martin, Edward Martin, Annie Bell O'Neal, Willie B. Gandy and Jacob C. Vaughan, I, William O. Perry, as the commissioner appointed by said decree, will proceed to sell, in front of the postoffice in Stanton, Chilton county, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, on

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1906,

the following described lands, to-wit: Northwest quarter of section sixteen (16), in township twenty (20), range eleven (11, containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres; also forty (40) acres of the southeast end of the west half of northeast quarter of section sixteen (16), in township twenty (20), range eleven (11), and situated, lying and being in Chilton county, Alabama, and known as "The Paul Estate Lands."

This the 16th day of October, 1906.

WILLIAM O. PERRY,
10-18-06 Commissioner.

PENSION WARRANTS.

All persons entitled to pensions are hereby notified that the warrants for same are now in my office, and to call and get them as soon as possible.

This, 20th day of October, 1906.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
tf Judge of Probate.

TO FARMERS.

As county business manager for the F. E. and C. U. of A., I have been to the two banks in Clanton to ascertain on what terms they will loan money on cotton to those who wish to hold their cotton in the warehouse. The Clanton Bank will loan 75 per cent, and the People's Savings Bank 65 per cent, of the value of the cotton on the date of the loan, this loan to bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent.

J. W. SORRELS,
Bus. Manager Chilton Co. F. E. and C. U. of A. tf

STRAYED OR STOLEN.

From near my residence on June 25, one iron gray mare colt, one year old; one iron gray horse colt, with star on face, and scar on left hind leg above hock, one and a half years old. Any information leading to their recovery will be liberally rewarded.

C. C. MARTIN,
tf Calera, Ala., Rte 1.

SPECIAL OFFER! !

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

FOR SALE.

A fine yoke of oxen, about 3 years old, to be sold cheap. I live five miles east of Jemison.

MARION GLASSCOCK,
tf Jemison, R. F. D. 2.

NOTICE.

Blank Deeds, Mortgages, and all official forms for Justices of the Peace, etc., for sale at The Union Office. Only best approved forms are used. Come in and give us your order tf.

FOR SALE.

30 young cockerels. Silver Spangled Hamburgs, Golden Laced Wyandotts, Buff, Brown and White Leghorns. Prices 50c to $1.50. All birds pure bred and of good quality.

J. B. Downs,
tf Clanton, Ala.

TAX NOTICE

Assessor's and Collector's Second Round.

We will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and County Taxes of Chilton County for the year 1906 and assessing the taxes for the year 1907:

Kincheon, Beat 6, November 7, 1906.
Enterprise, Beat 6, November 8, 1906.
Pletcher, Beat 8, November 9, 1906.
Clanton Ford, until 12 m., Beat 8 November 10, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 12, 1906.
Valley Creek, Beat 8, November 3, 1906.
Stanton, Beat 8, November 14, 1906.
Shoults, Beat 7, November 15, 1906.
Maplesville, Beat 7, November 16, 1906.
Benson, Beat 3, November 17, 1906.
Macedonia, Beat 3, November 19, 1906.
Gentry & Cofer's Mill, Beat 2, November 20, 1906.
Hayes' Mill, Beat 2, November 21, 1906.
Providence, Beat 2, November 22, 1906.
John Killingworth's till 12 m., Beat 2, November 23, 1906.
Jemison, Beat 2, November 24, 1906.
Smith's School House, Beat 1, November 26, 1906.
Mineral Springs, Beat 1, November 27, 1906.
Flint Hill, Beat 11, November 28, 1906.
Providence, Beat 10, November 29, 1906.
Corinth Church, Beat 10, November 30, 1906.
Thorsby, Beat 9, December 3, 1906.
Clanton, Beat 4, December 4, 1906.
Cooper, Beat 10, December 5, 1906.
Verbena, Beat 5, December 6, 1906.
Mountain Creek, Beat 5, December 7, 1906.
James Maddox's Mill, Beat 4, December 8, 1906.

When you come to assess your property, bring your deeds, as the last grand jury suggested.

L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.
T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

I will be at Clanton the last 10 days in the year, commencing December 20th, 1906. All taxes not paid by January 1st, 1907, will become delinquent. Take notice of above and save extra expense. T. J. HUBBARD,
Tax Collector.

Notice.

I will not attend to assessment of Tax on last 10 days of year, as such practice has become a nuisance, and the tax payers must meet me at the regular times and places, or become delinquent. L. B. POUNDS,
Tax Assessor.

NOTICE.

There will be a union meeting at Providence (Beat 2) on Saturday before second Sunday in November at 2 p. m. All the members are requested to be present as there is some important busines to attend to.

tf J. E. COBB.

THE NEW YORK WORLD.

Thrice-a-Week Edition—Read Wherever the English Language Is Spoken.

The Thrice-a-Week World, now that a great Presidential campaign is foreshadowed, hopes to be a better paper than it has ever been before, and it has made arrangements accordingly. Its news service covers the entire globe, and it reports everything fully, promptly and accurately. It is the only newspaper, not a daily, which is as good as a daily, and which will keep you as completely informed of what is happening throughout the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes novels by the best authors in the world, novels which in book form sell for $1.50 apiece, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Union together for one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2. tf

FOR SALE!

300 acres land, 150 acres in cultivation. All in Sec. 6 T., 20, R., 14, 9 miles S. W. of Clanton. Good dwelling house and out buildings and 3 good tenant houses. Good and lasting well of water. This good farming land will be sold at a bargain. Call and see,

tf J. H. CARTER,
Clanton, R. F. D. No.

MONEY TO L... On real estate. Call or ... my abiding place with ... shes, one mile northeast ... R. F. D. No. 1. Come ... hours, as I keep my money ...
tf JAMES ...

Mill Days!

My Grist Mill will ... day and Friday ... of each week. C... see me

Respectfully,
J. M. Mad...
Thorsby, R...

Important Notice

If you want No... put up on your prope... as to keep off Hunte... Tresspassers, come ... Union Office, where ... get fine cards ... inches.

THE UN...

FOR SALE!

120 acres of goo... land, 1 mile east of ... Chapel school house, ... pasture with never ... supply of water. H... 3 rooms and lot bui... with good spring ... dwelling house,

ALSO

Grist Mill (for both ca... wheat), in running ... water power the year ... good location for cott... (formerly known as ... dox's Mill) near Jumb... to be sold cheap for ca... gether or separately, ... on or address K. A. E... quist, Clanton, Route ...

Thorsby Insti...

Present Session Runs Ou...

The Only Recognized High ... Between Birmingham ... Montgomery.

A Strong Corps of Teac...

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Classics, ... Languages, Histo... nomics, Music, ... etc.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those who ... go no higher. Broad ... for all. Allows for ... zation.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped, mod... to date in every ...

EXPENSES:
Tuition low enough ... the needs of every ... girl in Alabama.

Particulars Address:
W. J. Lamkie, Ph. B., Pri...
Thorsby, Ala.

GINNING SEASON ...
We have engaged Joe ... Walter Maddox to run ... operate our gins for the ... ing season. We have ... best machinery and ... these men to operate it ... can guarantee entire ... faction to those who p... ize us. Bring us your c...
Respectfully
Chilton Warehouse & ...
Company.

ATTENTION

Mrs. S. J. Watts is ... J. C. Jones and wi... pleased to wait on fr... and customers. We m... specialty of all styl... "Puritan Corsets" ... Goods and Trimmings ... sign dresses and order... terns.

FOR SALE

At all times, high ... hogs and pigs, Berkshi... Poland China, crossed.
M. J. BARRETT,
tf Thorsby, ...

BUSINESS PROPOSI...

The best whiskey ... country is here. ... don't believe it, try ...
J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera ...

VOL. IV.

ALL OPPOSITION

...a Democrats Elect All ...ongressmen With Ease.

...IS SOLIDLY DEMOCRATIC.

...ocrats Have Carried the Sixth ...atorial District, Electing ... E. D. Hamner.

...gham, Ala.—The election in ... passed off very quietly ex... those counties where there ...al contests. ... democratic nominee for con... is elected, and reports indi... the democrats have gained ... the counties which have been ...inst the party, notably St. ...ilton county would appear to ... the republican column. ...publican state ticket, headed ... A. J. Stratton, for governor, ...sorry showing, according to ...unts, and because of the split ...republican ranks did not poll ...like all the usual republican ... This was anticipated.

...or's Probable Majority.

...o early to figure on the ma... Governor-elect B. B. Comer ...rest of the democratic state ...t it probably will be in the ...hood of 50,000. This estimate ... on the majority secured by ... Jelks four years ago, which ...

...al vote cast in the governor's ...1902 was 91,863. J. A. W. ...e republican candidate, re...190, and the democratic can...overnor Jelks, 67,649. There ...ty-four scattering votes. ... the vote for Judge Parker, ...ic candidate for the presi...es 79,857. In the same elec...evelt received 22,742; Wat...list, 5,051, and Debs, socialist.

...o is always heavier in presi...ars than in off years unless ...omething to bring out a large ...he vote all over the state ...was exceptionally light, so it ...pear, but it is believed that ...majority will not fall under ...

The Legislature.

...he legislature figures are not ...and. There were thirty-five ...and 105 representatives to be ...

...last senate there was but one ...crat J. A. Hurst, and he was ... Sixth district, composed of ...nd St. Clair counties. He is ...d by E. D. Hamner, democ... wins by about 200 majority. ...able, therefore, that the sen... solidly democratic. ...t house contained two repub... one populist. The republi... Reynolds of Chilton, and ... of Winston. The populist ... of Geneva. It is thought ...ton county went republican ... but this is the only point ...re were indications point to ...e of an anti-democrat to the ...

...er county, where there was ...ntered race for sheriff, early ...int to the election of F. J ...ver J. A. Huggins and Jesse ...h democrats. This was due ...t in the democratic party.

...ratton's Vote Light.

...mery, Ala.—All returns indi... B. B. Comer, democrat, has ... polled all the votes for gov... is not thought that Stratton, ..., got 2,000.

...man Wiley is returned in ...d by an overwhelming vote, ...ett, in the Seventh, by an ...majority. The opposition to ... made the poorest showing ... years.

...er Elected Senator.

..., Ala.—The entire demo... is elected in Etowah ... a majority estimated at ... D. Hamner, democratic ... for state senator, defeated ...ublican, by only about 300 ...

...Barnett is elected to con... a majority estimated at be...0 and 2,000.

...AMA RETURNS.

...Autauga.

..., Ala.—At this place 322 ...ote, all democratic but 29. ...ratic majority in the county ...600 and 700.

...Bullock.

...ge, Ala.—At this box 144 ...ast. All but two demo...

MONEY TO L...
On real estate. Call or ...
my abiding place with ...
shoe, one mile ...
R. F. D. No. 1. Come ...
hours, as I keep my ...
tf JAMES ...

Mill Days

My Grist Mill will ... day and Friday ...
of each week. ...
see me
Respectfully
J. M. Madd...
Thorsby, Ro...

Important Notic...

If you want Notic... put up on your proper... as to keep off Hunter... Tresspassers, come t... Union Office, where y... get fine cards ... inches.

THE UNI...

FOR SALE!

120 acres of good ... land, 1 mile east of ... Chapel school house, ... pasture with never ... supply of water. Ho... 3 rooms and lot buil... with good spring cl... dwelling house,

ALSO

Grist Mill (for both cor... wheat), in running ... water power the year r... good location for cotto... (formerly known as ... dox's Mill) near Jumbo... to be sold cheap for ca... gether or separately, ... on or address K. A. P. ... quist, Clanton, Route ...

Thorsby Instit...

Present Session Runs Until ...

The Only Recognized High S... Between Birmingham and Montgomery.

A Strong Corps of Teach...

CURRICULUM:
Sciences, Classics, ... Languages, Histor... nomics, Music, ... etc.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE:
Prepares those who go no higher. Broad for all. Allows for ... sation.

BUILDINGS:
Well equipped, mod... to date in every par...

EXPENSES:
Tuition low enough ... the needs of every ... girl in Alabama.

Particulars Address:
W. J. Lamkie, Ph. B., Pri...
Thorsby, Ala.

GINNING SFASON ...
We have engaged Joe ... Walter Maddox to run ... operate our gins for the ... ing season. We have ... best machinery and ... these men to operate ... can guarantee entire ... faction to those who p... ize us. Bring us your c...
Respectfully
Chilton Warehouse & ...
Company.

ATTENTION

Mrs. S. J. Watts is ... J. C. Jones and wi... pleased to wait on fr... and customers. We m... specialty of all styl... "Puritan Corsets" ... Goods and Trimmings ... sign dresses and order... terns.

FOR SALE

At all times, high ... hogs and pigs, Berkshi... Poland China, crossed. ...
M. J. BARRETT
tf Thorsby, A...

BUSINESS PROPOSI...

The best whiskey ... country is here. ... don't believe it, try ...
J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera...

THE UNION.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL, SPECIAL FAVORS TO NONE.

VOL. IV. CLANTON, ALA., NOVEMBER 15 1906 NO. 34

...L OPPOSITION

...a Democrats Elect All ...ongressmen With Ease.

...K IS SOLIDLY DEMOCRATIC.

...ocrats Have Carried the Sixth ...torial District, Electing E. D. Hamner.

...cham, Ala.—The election in ... passed off very quietly ex... those counties where there ... contests.

...democratic nominee for con... elected, and reports indi... the democrats have gained ... the counties which have been ...ainst the party, notably St. ...ilton county would appear to ... the republican column.

...epublican state ticket, headed ... A. J. Stratton, for governor, ... sorry showing, according to ..., and because of the split ...epublican ranks did not poll ... like all the usual republican ... This was anticipated.

...mer's Probable Majority.

...oo early to figure on the ma... of Governor-elect B. B. Comer ... rest of the democratic state ... it probably will be in the ...hood of 50,000. This estimate ... on the majority secured by ... Jelks four years ago, which ...

...al vote cast in the governor's ... 1902 was 91,863. J. A. W. ... republican candidate, re...,190, and the democratic can... Governor Jelks, 67,649. There ...nty-four scattering votes.

...t the vote for Judge Parker, ...ic candidate for the presi... 79,857. In the same elec... Merrell received 22,742; Wat...ist, 5,051, and Debs, socialist, ...

...te is always heavier in presi... years than in off years unless ...mething to bring out a large ...he vote all over the state ...as exceptionally light, so it ...pear, but it is believed that ...majority will not fall under ...

The Legislature.

...the legislature figures are not ...hand. There were thirty-five ...and 105 representatives to be ...

...last senate there was but one ...crat J. A. Hurst, and he was ... Sixth district, composed of ...and St. Clair counties. He is ...ed by E. D. Hamner, democ... wins by about 200 majority. ...ible, therefore, that the sen... solidly democratic.

...house contained two repub... and one populist. The republi... Reynolds of Chilton, and ... of Winston. The populist ... of Geneva. It is thought ...on county went republican ... but this is the only point ... were indications point to ... of an anti-democrat to the ...

...r county, where there was ...ntered race for sheriff, early ...nt to the election of F. J. ...er J. A. Huggins and Jesse ...democrats. This was due ... in the democratic party.

...atton's Vote Light.

...ery, Ala.—All returns indi... B. B. Comer, democrat, has ...polled all the votes for gov... is not thought that Stratton, ...got 2,000

...man Wilev is returned in ...ed by an overwhelming vote, ...rt, in the Seventh, by an ...majority. The opposition to ...made the poorest showing ...years.

...er Elected Senator.

...Ala.—The entire demo... ...t is elected in Etowah ...a majority estimated at ...R. D. Hamner, democratic ...for state senator, defeated ...ican, by only about 300 ...

...Barnett is elected to con... a majority estimated at be...and 3,000

...AMA RETURNS.

...Autauga.

...Ala.—At this place 322 ...ote, all democratic but 29. ...ratic majority in the county ...en and 700.

...Bullock.

...ton, Ala.—At this box 144 ...ast. All but two demo...cratic. The county gives a good democratic majority.

Butler.

Greenville, Ala.—About half the usual vote was polled. Fonville, independent, for congress, got only a few votes. At this box 230 votes were cast.

Chilton.

Clanton, Ala.—Three hundred and twelve votes polled at Clanton give republican majorities ranging from 15 to 30 votes. The republicans have probably carried Chilton county by a small majority.

Cullman.

Cullman, Ala.—The democratic ticket has a majority of about 500 in this county.

Dallas.

Selma, Ala.—The election here passed off very quietly, no interest being taken in it at all by the voters of the city and only a small vote was polled, not a third of the voters in the city going to the polls to cast their ballots.

Information received here from other precincts throughout the county is also to the effect that the voting was very light. In Selma there were cast only 357 votes. Two of these were republican and one socialist.

Escambia.

Brewton, Ala.—At this box 111 votes were polled. Colonel Wiley was a little behind the democratic ticket.

Jackson.

Scottsboro, Ala.—The vote was light. Comer, for governor, carries the county by a large majority. Armstrong and Brown are elected to the legislature by large majorities. Staples elected sheriff.

Livingston.

Athens, Ala.—The vote was light. Everything is democratic.

Lowndes.

Letohatchie, Ala.—In the eighteen precincts heard from not a republican vote was cast.

St. Clair.

Pell City, Ala.—Returns from all over St. Clair county indicate the election of the entire democratic ticket under the management of Sumter Cogswell, chairman campaign committee. This is the first democratic victory since 1890.

Fayette, Ala.—The election in Fayette resulted in a complete democratic victory, the first in sixteen years. The county ticket was elected by almost two to one. Those elected are M. L. Leith, W. M. Cannon, J. H. Oswalt, for state senator, representative and sheriff, defeating Senator Crumpton, F. S. Jenkins and T. G. Johnson, republicans.

Democrats Carry Blount.

Oneonta, Ala.—Returns from all the beats in the county except eight indicate that the entire democratic ticket has been elected by a majority of 500 votes. The present returns show that Wilson, democratic candidate for senate, has 891 votes and his opponent, Davidson, has 187.

For representative Weaver, democrat, has 886, and Cooper, his opponent, has 488. For sheriff Greaves has 918 and his republican opponent has 472 votes.

The other eight beats to come in will make the majority of each over 500.

Coffee.

Enterprise, Ala.—About 2,000 votes were cast. Arrington, for representative, will get 500 majority. Contest between Watson and Knight unsettled. It will take official count to decide. Practically all votes go to democratic column

Geneva.

Geneva, Ala.—The county populist ticket in this county met overwhelming defeat in the election, all the democratic candidates being elected by a good majority. A light vote was polled.

Lauderdale.

Florence, Ala.—The funereal quietness around the voting places in this county was in strong contrast to the animated appearance they presented at the primary election. The officers of election had a holiday, and when the entire vote of the county is counted it will probably not exceed 500.

Franklin.

Russellville, Ala.—The democrats carry Franklin by 200 majority, electing Smith representative and Lowry sheriff. Barnett leads the county ticket.

Cleburne.

Heflin, Ala.—The estimated vote of Cleburne county is 1,600. The state democratic ticket received 1,400. The contest over the county offices was strictly a court house contest between Edwardsville and Heflin. Heflin supported the convention ticket. Hon. J. A. Brown was re-elected representative over Judge Hurst, of Edwardsville, by 167 majority. Heflin cast 227 votes—222 for Brown and one for Hurst.

Jefferson.

Birmingham, Ala.—The entire democratic ticket, state and county, was elected in Jefferson county as shown by the returns. The question of all state offices and every county office except that of sheriff was settled at the primary. Interest therefore was centered in the shrievalty race.

With only one small precinct to be heard from, the returns as tabulated in the office of the sheriff show that Col. E. L. Higdon received 5,196 votes one Judge Stiles 4,087 votes. This gives Higdon a clear-cut majority of 1,109 votes and the office of sheriff by an undisputed majority.

NEW YORK.

New York.—With incomplete returns outside of greater New York, the result of the election in New York state, aside from the head of the ticket, was still in doubt Wednesday. All the democratic state candidates ran far ahead of William R. Hearst in Greater New York, and their pluralities here of approximately 140,000 over their republican opponents may have the effect of overcoming the republican lead in up-state counties. These estimates, however, necessarily are based on the full state vote for governor and depend entirely on the estimate that lesser candidates held with Charles E. Hughes.

On the face of the present returns Mr. Hughes came down to the Harlem river with a lead over Hearst of a little more than 130,000. While this was sufficient to give him a lead of considerably more than 50,000 over Hearst, Mr. Hughes' associates have the far greater plurality rolled up by the remainder of the state ticket to meet.

Greater New York for Hearst.

New York.—Returns in Greater New York for the governorship showed Hearst's plurality as 76,959. The vote by boroughs follows.

Boroughs.	Hughes.	Hearst.
Manhattan and Bronx	134,228	197,540
Brooklyn	106,348	111,141
Queens	14,162	22,221
Richmond	6,518	7,310
Totals	261,256	338,212

Hearst's plurality, 76,956.

FROM TENNESSEE.

Nashville, Tenn.—Incomplete returns from sixty-five of the ninety-six counties in the state indicate the election of Patterson, democrat, for governor, by 18,000 over Evans, republican. The vote was very light, but this falling off did not work to the advantage of the republicans as was believed by many prognosticators. The legislature will be largely democratic, and the congressional delegation will stand two republicans and eight democrats, as at present.

Massachusetts Republican.

Boston.—The Republicans, after a short but spirited campaign, were victorious in the state election. Governor Guild was re-elected by a considerably increased plurality over last year, while his opponent, District Attorney John B. Moran, of Boston, the candidate of the democratic and prohibition party and Independence League, received a somewhat larger vote than that given the democratic candidate a year ago.

With two-thirds of the state vote tabulated, Mr. Guild's plurality was estimater at about 37,000.

The republicans re-elected their entire state ticket, although Lieutenant-Governor Draper fell considerably behind Governor Guild. The next legislature will be republican by the usual large majority in both houses, and this will insure the election of United States Senator Murray Crane, who is at present completing a brief term.

The Massachusetts delegation to congress will remain practically the same.

Seized by Vertigo.

Selma.—Senator E. W. Pettus, while sitting at his desk in his office preparing a law paper, was seized with a sudden vertigo, necessitating the services of a physician. In a short while he recovered, and with some assistance was able to walk down the steps to a carriage, in which he was conveyed home.

Later relatives, becoming somewhat alarmed, sent again for the physician, and at this writing the venerable statesman seemed to have recovered from the effects of the attack.

CUBAN GENERALS

Official Report Made on Sharp Practices of the Disbanded Soldiers.

EVERY MAN TOOK HIS PICK.

Filled Out Blank Certificate and Defied the Owner of the Animal to Take Possession.

Washington.—Some of the Cuban generals who have been assisting the Americans in the effort to disarm and send to their homes the insurrectionists in the late revolutionary movement appear to have dignified and legalized the crime of horse stealing in the most ingenious manner, according to reports that have reached the war department. When the rebel soldiers surrendered their arms they were told that they might keep their horses until they could reach their homes. Now these horses had been stolen mostly, and the individual soldier was told that he must return the horses to its owner if the latter could show that the horse was registered according to the Cuban law. Each of the soldiers was given a certificate describing the horse and the conditions under which he might be returned to the real owner.

The work of reclamation is well nigh impossible in most cases. In the first place, only a small proportion of horses in Cuba were registered, so no matter how thoroughly a farmer could identify his own horse in the possession of one of these rebels, he could not obtain possesion of the animal for lack of the registration certificate. In the second place the disbanded rebels before returning to their homes took care to exchange horses, so that an animal stolen in Santiago would not be returned to that province, but would find a home in Pinar del Rio.

This state of affairs was made worse according to the report to the Americans by the Cuban generals issuing certificates in blank to the disbanded soldiers so it was possible for them to continue indefinitely to steal horses, all that was necessary for them to do being to pick out a likely looking horse, make sure that it was not registered, fill in the blank certificate with the the description of the animal, and defy the owner to reclaim it. It is only fair to state that the insurgent generals deny indignantly that they have given away any of these blank certificates, but the affair is stated in the report that such certificates have acually been found in the hands of the disbanded insurgents.

Presbyterians Meet.

Talladega, Ala.—The seventy-first annual meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of Alabama convened in the First Presbyterian church here. Rev. F. B. Webb, D. D., the retiring moderator, is the pastor the church in which the synod meets. While it is the rule that the retiring moderator shall preach the opening sermon, it is not unusual under such circumstances for him to invite another minister to preach the sermon.

Last year when the synod met in the First Presbyterian church, Montgomery, of which the lamented Dr. G. W. Patterson was pastor, he being the retiring moderator, invited Rev. Sterling J. Foster, D. D., of Birmingham, to preach the opening sermon.

The opening sermon was preached this year by Rev. W. A. McIlwain and was a very able effort.

Great Prune Crop.

San Francisco, Cal.—The prune growers of California will receive $2,550,000 more for their crop of 1906 than was obtained by them for the crop of 1905. This is the estimate of the leading dealer in the local market. The total estimated amount due to the prune growers for this year's crop is $4,050,000, representing 18,000,000 pounds of prunes. As all the stocks are practically cleared up the estimate for 1906 is supposed to be fairly accurate.

Cheatham to Resign.

Atlanta.—Richard Cheatham, secretary of the Southern Cotton Association, has announced that he will resign his position at the expiration of his present term. The resignation, he said, will be presented and become effective at the meeting of the executive committee in Birmingham, about the middle of January next. Mr Cheatham said that his work with the Cotton Journal requires all his time.

More Reports of Crime.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Almost simultaneously with the numerous burglaries and cases of highway robbery in this city come reports from throughout Allegheny and adjoining counties of like crimes, accompanied by violence. In dispatches to the Associated Press no less than eight such cases were reported within a hundred miles of Pittsburg, some of them attended with fatal results.

In line with steps taken by the Pittsburg city authorities the officials of neighboring borough began to take precautions against any "epidemic of crime" in their bailiwicks.

At Sewickley an ordinance was passed by the local council increasing the police and calling upon the police to apprehend all suspicious characters. The borough council of Sharpsburg empowered the police commissioners to employ as many men as deemed necessary.

Charges Against Oil Trust.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Call says: It became known in federal circles recently that recent locations of land in Kern county by agents of the Standard Oil Company have been made the subject of investigation by government officials. As a result it is asserted indicements will follow. The land was taken up by the petroleum combine ostensibly for the gypsum deposits, but in reality for oil purposes. A flowing oil well has already been developed.

The inquiry is being made through the office of United States Attorney Devlin, of San Francisco. Federal agents have been at work for several weeks in Kern county. From their preliminary reports it is believed the manner in which the land was secured will warrant indictments on the part of the federal grand jury.

Sunk by Jap Warship.

Victoria.—According to advices received by the steamer Empress of China, which arrived in the afternoon, a telegram to Japanese newspapers from Vladivostok reports great excitement occasioned there by the report that the converted cruisers Sitka and Kelima, which have been doing patrol duty at the seal rookeries off Cooper island, have been sunk by a Japanese destroyer in the neighborhood of the sea islands.

The Japanese Mail discredits the report, saying if such a disaster has occurred at island it is probably due to floating mines.

Held on Peonage Charge.

Mobile, Ala.—Another indictment charging conspiracy to commit peonage was returned by the United States grand jury at Pensacola, Fla., against W. S. Harlane, manager of the Jackson Lumber Company, of Lockhart, Ala.; Robert Gallagher Woods, foreman of the company; Oscar Sanders, an interpreter, and John Atwell, a reputy sheriff of Walton county.

The indictments relate that they conspired to detain against their wills and committee to a condition of peonage one John Doe and one Richard Doe. The two men are foreigners and their location at present is unknown.

Rebate Cases.

New York.—The New York Central will be called to the bar before Judge Holten in the United States court to answer supplemental indictments for the alleged granting of illegal rebates. The American Sugar Refining Company will also be arraigned as a defendant on several counts in the same proceedings.

Comet Observed.

Huntsville, Ala.—The first snow of the season fell in this section Monday afternoon. The fall was not enough to be noticeable on the ground but the flurry was quite brisk for a time and was accompanied by freezing weather.

Bucksport, Me.—Commander Robert E. Peary, the Arctic explorer, who is returning to the United States with the record of "farthest north," will make another attempt to reach the north pole in 1907. The explorer's ship, "The Roosevelt," was built in this town, and it is recalled that when Commander Peary was here he said that if he did not succeed this year he would positively make another attempt in 1907, provided he did not lose his vessel. Dispatches from Commander Peary speak well of the ice-fighting and seaworthy qualities of "The Roosevelt," and local shipping men think that with repairs she should be ready to make the trip north next season.

Cambridge, Mass.—A telegram has been received at the Harvard college observatory stating that Thiele's comet was observed November 12 in right ascension, 9 hours 21 minutes 52 seconds, and declination plus 14 degrees 2 minutes and 42 seconds.

Professional Cards.

William M. Adams,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
OFFICE; Room 1, Court House.
"Practices in all Courts
Long time loans negotiated on improved Farm Lands.
CLANTON, - - - ALA.

J. EARLE GOWAN,
DENTIST.
Office in Kicker Building
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

A. C. Smith,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in All Courts
Office 6th St. opp. Court House
CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

N. S. JOHNSON, M. D.
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON
Office at Residence
CLANTON, ALABAMA.

L. V. STABLER, M. D
Physician & Surgeon
Office Over Horn's Drug Store
Thorsby, Alabama

J. Osmond Middleton,
Attorney-at-Law
Practice in all Courts.
Office 6th St. Court House
CLANTON, -:- ALABAMA

DR. E. G. HYMAN
DENTIST
Office in Tipton Mullins' Building
CLANTON

H. C. Junkerman
DENTIST
OFFICE: Franzen Building
Thorsby, Alabama.

G. H. GERALD,
NOTARY PUBLIC
Office at Thorsby Inn.
Deeds, Mortgages, Affidavits and other papers carefully made out.
I. S. Gerald, Notary Public
AT THORSBY SAVINGS BANK.

FREE
to Readers of
THE UNION

To everyone who sends us $1.00 for a year's subscription to THE UNION, new subscriber or renewal, we will give as a premium absolutely FREE,

A Year's Subscription
To
The Southern Ruralist

We have examined the Southern Ruralist and consider it to be the best and most practical farm paper published in the South, and it just suits this locality. Drop by The Union Office when you are in town and see a copy of the Ruralist. It will mean dollars in your pocket to read this paper with The Union for a year. tf.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

LAND FOR SALE.
Eighty acres land in Beat 10, close to Cooper's. For sale cheap. Call on or address L. H. GENTRY,
Mt. Creek, Ala.
tf R. F. D. No. 5

Ben M. Jacobs & Bros.,

Furniture and Rugs.

—SOLE AGENTS—

Globe-Wernicke Elastic Book Cases and Filing Cabinets.

Catalogue for the asking.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association

OF ALABAMA.

CHARTERED BY SPECIAL ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE

By the People and for the People.

Chilton County Branch

Organized February 3, 1900.

W. M. WILSON, President. WALLACE C. EDLER, Sec'y.-Treas.

INSURES Farmers' dwellings, outbuildings and contents and live stock against loss by fire, wind and lightning. The cheapest, safest and most sensible method of insurance known to man

Average Yearly Cost for Five and a half Years 43-100 of 1 per cent.

Full particulars furnished upon application to

WALLACE C. EDLER, Clanton, Ala.

A GREAT COMBINATION OFFER

We Will Furnish the "TWICE-A-WEEK" Issue of the

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

With

THE UNION

For

$1.50 Both Papers, one year, only $1.50.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat should not be classed with the many cheap weekly papers. It is a high-grade Semi-Weekly, eight or more pages, every Tuesday and Friday. It is beyond all comparison the biggest, best and cheapest National News and Home Journal published in the United States. It is strictly Republican in Politics but is above all

A Great Modern Newspaper.

It is not made up indiscriminately from the Daily issue. It is carefully edited with special reference to the needs of the Farmer, the Merchant and the professional man who desires to keep thoroughly posted without sparing the time to read a large Daily Paper. It also contains a great variety of well selected reading matter, making it invaluable to every member of the family.

This Liberal Clubbing Offer

is open to all old or new subscribers, but may be withdrawn at any time, and we must receive the cash with order. Address

THE UNION,
Clanton, Ala.

PAUL CALAME,

205 21st Street

Birmingham, Ala.

Practical Watchmaker and Optician

Eyes Correctly Fitted

Mail orders promptly filled

DO YOU WANT

Letterheads, Noteheads, Billheads, Envelopes,

OR ANYTHING ELSE PRINTED?

Then Call at

THE UNION OFFICE

and See Fine Work at Low Prices.

500 Noteheads
500 Envelopes All For $2.00

Good Work on Good Material, done on Good Machines. Don't forget! THE UNION, Clanton, Alabama.

Pure Water Prevents Fevers.

DRILLED WELLS FURNISH PURE WATER

We guarantee water or no charge made. Estimates given. Address

I. E. SARBER CO.

Thorsby, Alabama.

Subscribe Now

Woman's Realm

A Custom of Turkestan.

When Turkestan girls become engaged it is the custom of the fiance to pay her parents a sum of money. If she jilts him later the parents must return the money.
Paul Kautz, Rockhouse, Texas.

Successful Woman Farmer.

The proprietor of the famous Winthrop Gardens, in Holliston, Mass., is a woman, who from a farm which several years ago cost only a few hundred dollars is to-day drawing an annual income of several thousands. Her name is Mary E. Cutler. This scientific farmeress practices intensive farming of the diversified type, cultivating, besides the ordinary crops, shade trees, garden flowers and vegetables. Miss Cutler is employed as a special lecturer by the Massachusets State Board of Agriculture.

Has Too Many Love Letters Now.

Hear the plaint of the romantically inclined girl—"What are we coming to, anyhow? Is romance to be ended in the garbage can? For two years I have been saving up all of Jimmie's leters and George's letters, and now that I am engaged to Jack, I have decided some night to read them all and then burn them—except Jack's. But how? Last year father decided to 'cut out' the big log fires we used to have and burn gas and electricity instead. What can I do? Throw the letters in the garbage can? I won't! What are we coming to, anyway?"

Records of Diners on the Cloth.

Making a tablecloth a souvenir of happy hours is an odd idea that is being carried out by Mrs. Franklin Bell, wife of General Bell, chief of the General Staff. On a fine damask table cover she has caused to be written the names of her guests at luncheon, with the dates of entertainment and short quotations about the feast. This cloth is spread only when Mrs. Bell entertained a guest for the first time, and the newcomer was requested to do the writing in pencil. At her leisure, Mrs. Bell overtraced the markings in indelible ink, which will defy the onslaughts of the laundress. —New York Press.

Don'ts About Jewelry.

Don't wear a quantity of jewelry.

Don't wear precious stones in the morning. Diamonds, emeralds or any other kind are out of place at the breakfast table.

Don't, at such a time, wear anything except what is actually necessary to fasten collar, cuffs or waistbelt.

Don't, in the evening, mix your jewels. If a gold necklet is worn, the earrings should correspond.

Don't wear any jewels which do not harmonize with your dress, says Woman's Life.

Don't be dissatisfied with your trinkets because they are not costly. Jewelry to be well worn need not be expensive, but must be chic.

Yellow Gowns on Red Haired Girls.

"In suggesting gowns for red-haired girls nowadays no great attention seems to be paid by modistes to what reasonably might be supposed to be the main point to considered—the color," complains a girl with brilliant tresses, who thinks the dressmaker will let the Titian beauty venture abroad in any color but yellow doesn't know her business. The discovery that red hair and yellow are quite compatible was made by her on a sailing trip. She says a storm came up and a red-haired girl put on a yellow oilskin jacket and blossomed forth a beauty, and, in spite of the terror and excitement of a storm at sea, the other women on board uttered exclamations of delighted approval.—New York Press.

Character Told in Household China.

If, as Howells says, the selection of china is the index of a woman's character, some former mistresses of the White House had complex minds, observes the New York Press. In the basement of the mansion the visitor may see a sample of every set of table ware used since Abigail Adams hung her laundry to dry in the East Room. The most ornate set was the choice of the young daughter-in-law of President Van Buren. From the few pieces now on exhibition, it would seem that all America's flora and fauna were depicted in detail. Mrs. Hayes' china was the most costly ever used in the White House, as every piece was hand painted and the work of selected artists in the French factory at Sevres.

As for silk linings, they will stay for the present.

The majority of the fur neck pieces are straight—just a throw for the throat.

Lace flowers with embroidered stems and foliage comprise the ornamentation of a lovely batiste gown.

The prevalence of light blue is noticeable in evening gowns, millinery, and dressy gown accessories of every kind.

The prevalence of brown and green in dress and millinery has created a demand for bronze and gold trimmings.

The cloths of gold and silver are fashionably used as interlinings beneath the sheer dress materials and the elegant lace robes.

The vogue of the Empire styles has had its influences upon all styles. The keynote of every garment of the present time must be grace.

The new wings have a downward curl in the exact shape of a parrot's beak. They are just as short and blunt, but they make a stunning trimming.

Embroider the ends of the tie worn with Peter Pan waist in a design matching the turnover collar and cuffs to add an extra bit of tasteful decoration.

Five yards is an ordinary width at the hem of the very long fur capes that will be worn motoring, and too much cannot be said in favor of these garments in point of comfort.

A dress for a girl of eight is of dull blue rajah, with a pointed yoke of the same in open embroidery. A sash of the knotted silk girdles this smart long-bodiced dress at the side, and the sleeves are short elbow affairs in fine kilting and embroidery.

Magistrate Learns Police Slang.

"What is this case?" asked Magistrate Steinert, in the West Side Court, when James Walsh, of 555 West Forty-fourth street, was arraigned.

"He's a speed merchant, your Honor," answered Bicycle Policeman "Jack" Haggerty, of the West 100th street station.

"A what?" asked the magistrate mystified.

"A speed merchant, a shadow chaser, a Long Island humming bird, a——"

"Stop, stop!" yelled the magistrate. "You'll have me blowing a horn in a minute."

Back in the court room some one hooted "honk! honk!" and the bridge policeman shouted, "Order! order!"

"Well, what was this—er—Standard Oil consumer doing?" asked the magistrate.

Haggerty finally explained that Walsh had been speeding an automobile at 105th street and Central Park West. Walsh was held in $100 bail for trial, and Haggerty was advised to be a George Ade.—New York Herald.

"The most exciting chase I ever had," he said, "happened a short time ago in Russia. One night, when sleighing about ten miles from my destination I discovered, to my intense horror, that I was being followed by a pack of wolves. I fired blindly into the pack, killing one of the brutes, and to my delight saw the others stop to devour it. After doing this, however, they came on again. I kept on repeating the dose, with the same result, and each respite gave me an opportunity to whip up my horses. Finally there was only one wolf left, yet on it came, with its fierce eyes glaring in anticipation of a good hot supper——"

Here the man who had been sitting in the corner burst forth into a fit of laughter.

"Why, man," he said, "by your way of reckoning, that last wolf must have had the rest of the pack inside of him!"

"Ah!" said the red-faced man without a quiver, "now I remember, it did wabble a bit."—Harper's Weekly.

Reed's Only Bird Hunt.

Thomas R. Reed used to tell the following:

"I never felt more ashamed in all my life than I did one day after killing a bird. I never shot but one bird in my life. I spent a whole day doing that. It was a sandpiper. I chased him for hours up and down a mill stream. When at last I potted him and held him up by one of his poor little legs I asked a small boy who had been looking on what he thought of it.

"'Oh,' he replied, 'I was only thinking of how big you are and how small the bird is.'"—Boston Herald.

Told From the Inside.

A red-faced man was holding the attention of a little group with some wonderful recitals.

The Manners of Men.

Ask any hostess who is sensible-minded and who wishes to entertain in a rational manner what she thinks of the manners of the men who come to her dinner-dance parties. She will tell you that they are absolutely casual; that they will often throw her over at the last moment if they get what they fancy is a better offer; that they think nothing of keeping a whole dinner party waiting for half an hour after the appointed time; that their demeanor and bearing seem to imply that they have done a great favor in coming at all.—London World.

THE PULPIT

A SUNDAY SERMON

BY THE REV. IRA W. HENDERSON, THE FAMOUS DIVINE

Subject: Personal Experience.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Preaching at the Irving Square Presbyterian Church on the theme, "Personal Experience," the Rev. I. W. Henderson, pastor, took as his text Jno. 4:42: "Now we believe, not because of thy saying: for we have heard Him ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Saviour of the world." He said:

The final proof of the value of the Gospel to the individual lies in personal experience. The one test which, above all others, warrants a man to hail Jesus or to deny Him, is that of real knowledge directly acquired. No man is fit to flaunt Christianity as a farce who has not first observed the rules incidental to the living of the Christ life. He is the best advocate of the beauties of the Christian economy who has been loyal to his Lord's commands.

The consensus of Christians is the result of a common experience. We, as citizens of the kingdom of God, hold fast and together certain formulas of faith because we have, each for himself, as individuals, found valuable for us those working principles that we maintain. The church universal represents, in its fundamental dogmas, the opinions of myriad men who have, through the process of individual experience, reached a common ground of belief. The church catholic is divided upon secondary tenets according to the varieties of secondary Christian religious experience among men who assert allegiance to the central truths. In the broad sense, all of us who believe in and serve Christ, are Christians because we each recognize as a personal experience the truths which Christianity asserts to be fundamental. I am a Presbyterian and you are a Methodist, not because our views are different at the vitals, but because our secondary experiences are unlike. The Christian Church is an aggregation of men who see Jesus with the same eye and who find in Him and in His power in their lives bonds which link them fast. And any sect or denomination of Christians is but the congregation of some of the followers of Christ around a secondary tenet that is alive with their own peculiar doctrine, the result of an individual experience. At the bottom of it all the moving principle is personal experience. No man is a good Christian who has not had contact with Christ. No man can appreciate the genius of Presbyterianism save he who has had the experience common to all who hold that creed. It is a wise thing for a man who honestly differs from his fellow men; it is a sensible thing for a Christian who earnestly and reasonably disagrees with his fellow followers of Christ; to examine his conclusion—that is to say, his creed, his dogma, his tenets, as you will—and determine whether or no they mirror correctly his personal experiences. But merely because a man finds himself at variance with the world of men about him is no sign that he has misinterpreted his experiences or is wrong. The prophets were persecuted not because they were wrong, but because they framed from the facts at hand conclusions that the Hebrews did not care to admit as tenable. Galileo got into trouble because Ptolemaists thought him crazy. The world was called flat until a dauntless soul declared it round. Luther would never have nailed the ninety-five theses to the door of the church at Wittenberg had he not been true to the truth as he saw it. And these men were, as are many men to-day, dead wrong in their beliefs as measured by the standards of the past.

The results attained in all departments of knowledge are the outcome of the personal experience of individuals. A scientific law may be the declaration by a single man of truth proven out of the records of his personal experience, unaided and unverified by the experience of any other man—not infrequently at first it is. But this much is sure: that any law that has the assent of any society is based entirely upon the experiences of individual men who have perceived and been influenced by similar phenomena in their separate lives.

All the knowledge that we have and all the laws that we accept at second hand are, at bottom, founded upon the research and personal investigation and experience of some single man or some set of men. To say that we accept many truths at second hand in no way injures our argument. All that we receive upon the assertions of other men is so taken because we have faith in the validity of their conclusions as being the direct result of their personal experiences. Repetition is never so inspiring or convincing as is the dictum of the first source. And the only value that re-statement has is gained from the personal knowledge out of which it springs. By virtue of the multiplicity of the demands on our time we have to rest much of received truth upon the decisions of other men; but, in the providence of God, we may prove accepted truth if we will in the investigation and the delineation of our own personal experiences.

No man, however, is entitled to affirm or to deny the value of a declared truth unless he has either met to the full the requirements of each condition or accepted the opinion of some original investigator who has fulfilled all incidental demands. How silly it would be for a man, untutored and unversed in the sciences, to set up his opinion, without deep and searching investigation, against the declarations of a Darwin, a Tyndall or a Wallace. And on the other hand how unmanly it would be for a convinced student, who has, after arduous and painstaking effort, reached conclusions at variance with all the theory of all his masters before him, to flinch to state and to stand by the truth revealed by God.

If, in the realm of science shall be held to be of value of opinion, how necessary will it not be in of the religious life. It the scoffer to mock at the the comforts of the Christ There is no difficulty for who really wants to find after half-hearted service terpreted, misunderstood pronounce the life with fraud. But is the cry of of Christianity legitimate based? Has any man a right parage a system of living he has no experimental or of which his sole information unscientific or fraudulent shall be mightier, the test the soul which having full conditions is satisfied and tale of woe of the chaff never met the measure?

But if it is needful to be experience to deny the grace God blessed life, it is still necessary to be saturated with Christly, spiritual, personal ence in order to convince its value and to enjoy what called "its privileges and tives." The holy men of Israel the beauty of Jehovah and of a life near to Him because enjoyed and practiced communion with Him. Jesus claimed the majesty of the and the loveliness of a God career because He dwelt in presence of His King. Paul the manifold blessings of the tian life because he was a going Christ-man. The Samaritan woman received Jesus as the for whom her heart longed she had seen Him face to face her brethren from the city on Christ since she repeated her own short, graphic story ing the truth she had believed and seen. There we have founded on fact and on fact —that is to say, upon personal perience.

All preaching and all which strikes home to the the story of the personal experience. The first principle of a reason is, to sum it up in a sentence only the facts of life. And telling of the Gospel story and application of the truth to mands and the problems of this element of dead certainty such immense importance, we deny its insistent necessity to the enjoyment and appreciation of the Gospel blessings by individual.

The Christ life must be first-hand, personal experience is useless. You may take your prepared or predigested as You may take your knowledge the scientific disciplines by which no man can know Christ or a rich and enriching spiritual munion within Him who dominates his life within Jesus for Him. "Now we believe, not because saying; for we have heard Him selves and know that this is the Christ, the Saviour of the said the men of Sychar. And as in the nature of the case it be, the testimony of every man will enter or who has entered the enjoyment of the "privileges the prerogatives" of the Christ life. No other method of study is so satisfactory. No other mony from the citizens of the kingdom is so influential and vincing. No other knowledge certificating to the intellect. evidence is so soul inspiring. out a vision of the Christ we may witness worthily for Him. Blessed with a personal experience we may lead the multitudes to

A Christian who is devoid of sonal experience with the Christ and the personality of Jesus is a paradox. Strictly speaking, there is no such thing as a Christian apart from the immediate indwelling of the Lord Jesus. We might call a man a sinner and withhold pale of the kingdom of God, but have it in the economy of Jesus to call him a "nominal Christian." We speak of nations as nominally Christian because we do not wish to be unkind in our terminology. But a nation that is nominally Christian is usually a nation that has more resemblance to Christ's plans, His teachings. His character than is expressed by the fact that for convenience's sake and for the sake of international differentiation we so denominate it.

The man who hopes to win others with a message that is effective, born of a personal and direct revelation from God Almighty is an anachronism. It may have been possible at some time in the dark ages of history to win men to Christ by mere say testimony, but it cannot be done to-day. The world wants the message of the eye witness, the testimony of the man who has heard and seen with his own ears. Humanity wants the testimony of the scientific investigator, the man who has found truth and has found it real.

"Now we believe—because we know." This is the gist of the matter and the outstanding truth of the joyous Samaritan day. That is the test of faith. A vote of confidence the Christians who can say with unspeakable to the sinning world finds therein salvation for him.

Wynne, Ark.—The sleeping car attached to Iron Mountain train No. 8 was struck by a northbound freight, knocked from the track and completely turned over. Not a person was injured, although the car was filled with passengers.

Columbus, Ga.—An old negro named Lon Hunley, was found dead in his cabin house in the Bottom by a neighbor who, knowing his habits, had not seen him for two days.

I.

Carlyle picked her way
yet with a certain stiff air of
tion, across the wet sands
speaking distance of the
visible human being.
ia!" she called.
ance! so addressed was, to
rance, engaged, with purely implements in a purely in-sentime.
o!" she responded with unbrevity, and without look-
from her digging
's a man at the top of the he's been staring at you to-long.
Laetitia Carstairs, B. Sc.,
her spade where she s-
eping her bear arms round
ully bare ankles, complacent-
ed the score or so of patchvelled sand that bore evidence
ilfulness.
n't I done a lot, Prue?" shed, ignoring the information
veyed to her. "I ought to shall be mightier, the te-
the soul which having fuconditions is satisfied and
tale of woe of the chaff
never met the measure?
But if it is needful to be
experience to deny the gra-
God blessed life, it is still ne-
sary to be saturated with Christly, spiritual, personal
ence in order to convince its value and to enjoy wh-called "its privileges and tives." The holy men of Is-
the beauty of Jehovah and
of a life near to Him beca-
enjoyed and practiced communion with Him. Je-
claimed the majesty of the
and the loveliness of a G-career because He dwelt
presence of His King. Pa-
the manifold blessings of the tian life because he was a going Christ-man. The woman received Jesus as the
for whom her heart longed
she had seen Him face to fa-
her brethren from the city
on Christ since she repeated
her own short, graphic story
ing the truth she had bel-and seen. There we have founded on fact and on fact
—that is to say, upon per-
perience.
All preaching and all
which strikes home to the
the story of the personal ex-
The first principle of a rea-
is, to sum it up in a sen-only the facts of life. And telling of the Gospel story
application of the truth to mands and the problems
this element of dead certainty
such immense importance,
deny its insistent necessity
to the enjoyment and appr-
of the Gospel blessings by
vidual.
The Christ life must be
first-hand, personal experiis useless. You may take prepared or predigested as
You may take your knowl-
the scientific disciplines by
no man can know Christ
a rich and enriching spiri-
munion within Him who dom-
his life within Jesus for
"Now we believe, not becau-saying; for we have heard H-selves and know that this
the Christ, the Saviour of the said the men of Sychar. Anas in the nature of the case
be, the testimony of every
will enter or who has ent-
the enjoyment of the "privi-
the prerogatives" of the C-life. No other method of is so satisfactory. No other mony from the citizens of the kingdom is so influential vincing. No other knowled-certificating to the intellect.
evidence is so soul inspiring.
out a vision of the Christ
may witness worthily for
Blessed with a personal ex-
we may lead the multitudes
A Christian who is devoid of
sonal experience with the
and the personality of Jesus is a paradox. Strictly speak-is no such thing as a Chris-apart from the immediate of the Lord Jesus. We might call a man a sinner and with-
pale of the kingdom of God,
have it in the economy of Je-
call him a "nominal Christ
speak of nations as nominally tian because we do not wish unkind in our terminology.
ity a nation that is nominally tian is usually a nation that more resemblance to Chri-
plans, His teachings. His c-than is expressed by the fact convenience's sake and for
of international differentia-
so denominate it.
The man who hopes to
with a message that is ef-
born of a personal and direct tion from God Almighty is achronism. It may have be-ble at some time in the dark history to win men to Christ
say testimony, but it cannot
to-day. The world wants the sage of the eye witness, the
of the man who has heard
with his own ears. Humanity
the testimony of the scientific tigator, the man who has
truth and has found it real.
"Now we believe—because know." This is the gist of
and the outstanding truth of joyous Samaritan day. That test of faith. A vote of con-
the Christians who can say
unspeakable to the sinning
finds therein salvation for him.

Wynne, Ark.—The sleeping car
tached to Iron Mountain train
was struck by a northbound knocked from the track and turned over. Not a person
jured, although the car was passengers.

Columbus, Ga.—An old
Lon Hunley, was found
house in the Bottom by a
who, knowing his habits,
him for two days.

I.

Carlyle picked her way
yet with a certain stiff air of
tion, across the wet sands
speaking distance of the
visible human being.
ia!" she called.
ance! so addressed was, to
rance, engaged, with purely implements in a purely in-
sentime.
o!" she responded with unbrevity, and without look-
from her digging
's a man at the top of the
he's been staring at you to-
long.
Laetitia Carstairs, B. Sc.,
her spade where she s-
eping her bear arms round
ully bare ankles, complacent-
ed the score or so of patchvelled sand that bore evidence
ilfulness.
n't I done a lot, Prue?" shed, ignoring the information
veyed to her. "I ought to
shall be mightier, the te-
the soul which having fuconditions is satisfied and
tale of woe of the chaff
never met the measure?
But if it is needful to be
experience to deny the gra-
God blessed life, it is still ne-
sary to be saturated with Christly, spiritual, personal
ence in order to convince
its value and to enjoy wh-
called "its privileges and tives." The holy men of Is-
the beauty of Jehovah and
of a life near to Him beca-
enjoyed and practiced communion with Him. Je-
claimed the majesty of the
and the loveliness of a G-
career because He dwelt
presence of His King. Pa-
the manifold blessings of the tian life because he was a
going Christ-man. The woman received Jesus as the
for whom her heart longed
she had seen Him face to fa-
her brethren from the city
on Christ since she repeated
her own short, graphic story
ing the truth she had bel-
and seen. There we have founded on fact and on fact
—that is to say, upon per-
perience.
All preaching and all
which strikes home to the
the story of the personal ex-
The first principle of a rea-
is, to sum it up in a sen-
only the facts of life. And telling of the Gospel story
application of the truth to
mands and the problems
this element of dead certainty
such immense importance,
deny its insistent necessity
to the enjoyment and appr-
of the Gospel blessings by
vidual.
The Christ life must be
first-hand, personal experi-
is useless. You may take prepared or predigested as
You may take your knowl-
the scientific disciplines by
no man can know Christ
a rich and enriching spiri-
munion within Him who dom-
his life within Jesus for
"Now we believe, not becau-
saying; for we have heard H-
selves and know that this
the Christ, the Saviour of the
said the men of Sychar. An-
as in the nature of the case
be, the testimony of every
will enter or who has ent-
the enjoyment of the "privi-
the prerogatives" of the C-life. No other method of
is so satisfactory. No other
mony from the citizens of the kingdom is so influential vincing. No other knowled-
certificating to the intellect.
evidence is so soul inspiring.
out a vision of the Christ
may witness worthily for
Blessed with a personal ex-
we may lead the multitudes
A Christian who is devoid of
sonal experience with the
and the personality of Jesus
is a paradox. Strictly speak-is no such thing as a Chris-
apart from the immediate
of the Lord Jesus. We might call a man a sinner and with-
pale of the kingdom of God,
have it in the economy of Je-
call him a "nominal Christ
speak of nations as nominally
tian because we do not wish
unkind in our terminology.
ity a nation that is nominally
tian is usually a nation that
more resemblance to Chri-
plans, His teachings. His c-
than is expressed by the fact convenience's sake and for
of international differentia-
so denominate it.
The man who hopes to
with a message that is ef-
born of a personal and direct
tion from God Almighty is achronism. It may have be-
ble at some time in the dark
history to win men to Christ
say testimony, but it cannot
to-day. The world wants the sage of the eye witness, the
of the man who has heard
with his own ears. Humanity
the testimony of the scientific
tigator, the man who has
truth and has found it real.
"Now we believe—because know." This is the gist of
and the outstanding truth of joyous Samaritan day. That test of faith. A vote of con-
the Christians who can say
unspeakable to the sinning
finds therein salvation for him.

Wynne, Ark.—The sleeping car
tached to Iron Mountain train
was struck by a northbound
knocked from the track and turned over. Not a person
jured, although the car was passengers.

Columbus, Ga.—An old
Lon Hunley, was found
house in the Bottom by a
who, knowing his habits,
him for two days.

PULPIT

BY THE REV.
IRA W. HENDER
THE FAMOUS DI

stand by the truth revea
by God.

If, in the realm of sci ence shall be held to be value of opinion, how m necessary will it not be in t of the religious life. It is the scoffer to mock at the
the comforts of the Chris
There is no difficulty for who really wants to find after half-hearted service terpreted, misunderstood pronounce the life withi fraud. But is the cry of the of Christianity legitimate based? Has any man a ri parage a system of living he has no experimental or of which his sole infor unscientific or fraudulent?
shall be mightier, the test
the soul which having ful conditions is satisfied and su tale of woe of the charla
never met the measure?

But if it is needful to be
experience to deny the gra
God blessed life, it is still mo
sary to be saturated with Christly, spiritual, person
ence in order to convince its value and to enjoy wha called "its privileges and tives." The holy men of Is
the beauty of Jehovah and o' a life near to Him bec enjoyed and practiced exp communion with Him.
claimed the majesty of t
and the loveliness of a G
career because He dwelt
presence of His King. Pa
the manifold blessings of tian life because he was a
going Christ-man. The woman received Jesus as th for whom her heart longe
she had seen Him face to f her brethren from the cit on Christ since she repeate
her own short, graphic story
ing the truth she had b and seen. There we have founded on fact and on fac
—that is to say, upon pe
perience.

All preaching and all
which strikes home to the
the story of the personal ex
The first principle of a rea
is, to sum it up in a sen
only the facts of life. And telling of the Gospel story application of the truth t
mands and the problems
this element of dead certa
such immense importance,
deny its insistent necessity
to the enjoyment and app
of the Gospel blessings by
vidual.

The Christ life must first-hand, personal experie is useless. You may take prepared or predigested a
You may take your know
the scientific disciplines by
no man can know Christ
a rich and enriching spiri
munion within Him who do
his life within Jesus for
"Now we believe, not beca saying; for we have heard selves and know that this the Christ, the Saviour of t said the men of Sychar. A as in the nature of the ca
be, the testimony of every will enter or who has en
the enjoyment of the "priv the prerogatives" of the life. No other method o is so satisfactory. No ot mony from the citizens of t kingdom is so influential vincing. No other knowl
certificating to the intellect evidence is so soul inspiri out a vision of the Chris may witness worthily Blessed with a personal we may lead the multitude

A Christian who is devoi
sonal experience with the
and the personality of Je is a paradox. Strictly speak is no such thing as a Chr
apart from the immediate
of the Lord Jesus. We mi call a man a sinner and w pate of the kingdom of G have it in the economy of J
call him a "nominal Christ speak of nations as nomina tian because we do not unkind in our terminology
ity a nation that is nomina tian is usually a nation tha more resemblance to C plans, His teachings. His than is expressed by the fo convenience's sake and fo of international different
so denominate it.

The man who hopes to
with a message that is born of a personal and dir tion from God Almighty achronism. It may have ble at some time in the da history to win men to Chri say testimony, but it canno to-day. The world wants sage of the eye witness,
of the man who has heard with his own ears. Human the testimony of the scient tigator, the man who has truth and has found it re
"Now we believe—beca know." This is the gist o and the outstanding truth joyous Samaritan day.
test of faith. A vote of co
the Christians who can sa unspenkable to the sinning finds therein salvation for

Wynne, Ark.—The sleep
tached to Iron Mountain tra
was struck by a northbound
knocked from the track and turned over. Not a pers
jured, although the car was passengers.

Columbus, Ga.—An old
Lon Hunley, was found d house in the Bottom by
who, knowing his habits,
him for two days.

LAETITIA CARSTAIRS, B. Sc., AND ANOTHER.

By Nora Alexander.

I.

Carlyle picked her way
with a certain stiff air of across the wet sands
speaking distance of the
visible human being.
she called.
so addressed was, to engaged, with purely implemen[t]s in a purely in-responded with un-and without look-
he, digging
man at the top of the staring at you for Carstairs, B. Sc.,
where she sat,
her ocean arms round
knees, complacent-or so of patches
and more bore evidence
I hope a lot, Prue?" she information
"I ought to
if I've any luck."
Prue, "there's that bathing dress of yours
that it's—well,
slowly and her gray
demurely down to her she observed, "that becoming."
know I heard him,"
damsel airily.
Prue
mimicked the girl,
little laugh. "For you
Prue, there are such in existence, and one comes across them, even Oh! did you see him?"
down on her knees in an rod into the yield-
said her compan-
I had"—— Laetitia tri-with a quick deft
hauled up her rod.
heart."
gracious, child! I thought the man!"
inquired Laetitia carefully placed her in the bucket by her who made quite unnec-
on your get-up."
casually over her offending male.
three hundred feet be-
she observed serenely.
much."
Prue, witheringly, "you your garments, that's said to be exact-
Really, your appear-interrupted Letty, shakred-brown curls from cheeks, "is my mis-fault. And Prue," seriously, "there's noth-
for the complexion.
in all weathers, you
you plenty of exer-
admitted Prue rue-her gaze wander up the feet of precipitous been "morally com-
herself expressed it,
What I really came to much longer are you must know her bucket
executed a pas seul,
like an embodiment of childhood than a young had earned the right to
B. Sc. after her declared breathlessly, finished. "I'm going Balanoglossus or die for another hour, and then half the time had about mentally des-
"Red Indian" by Prue, stillness of the cove, and her arms frantically,
shorewards.
she cried. "I've found could just shout!"
doing that already," com-you!" retorted Lae-couldn't, my dear. In the shouldn't spend a whole summer day digging about missing link," began and get into your missing brought Prue.
obediently into a cave,
in something under five climbed, and in her right
she laughingly declared;
they commenced the
was by no means an easy
besides being very steep
the rocks had an uncom-trick of crumbling away their light weight. Ar-to within ten feet of they came to a stand-ejaculated Prue, merely whistled.
above raised his cap.
waiting to help you plained; "if you'll allow scaled the smooth, steep rock with a blank stare;
ruefully to Laetitia.
-fall down," began that a delicious dimple ap-
the small uplifted chin, agreed the young man,
eyes twinkling; "but you admitted Prue, after a long pause. "What do you propose to do?"

He swung himself over the railing that guarded the unwary from traveling into another world, and clinging on with one hand reached down as far as he could with the other.

"Now," he directed, "go back as far as you can and get a bit of a run, and I'll catch your hand and swing you up."

"Isn't that rather risky?" questioned Letty.

"It would be—if you pulled me over," he admitted.

"You'll have to leave that—thing, whatever his name is, behind," announced Prue, with a touch of delightful malice in her tones.

"I'd sooner leave myself," asserted Letty indignantly. "Have you got a bit of string?" she asked.

He felt obediently in all his pockets, and finally produced a boot-lace.

"Please be very careful," she pleaded, as she fixed the dangling end to the bucket, "and whatever you do, don't spill it."

Geoffrey Forsyth assured her earnestly that he would sooner spill his life's blood, but owing to his watching a pair of gray eyes and a little dimpled chin to the exclusion of everything else, the precious bucket bumped against a projecting rock, and lost a large proportion of its contants.

Letty's face was a study of mingled indignation and dismay.

"Oh," she cried, "I do hope the Balanoglossus hasn't gone! If it has—please help me up at once!"

She stepped back, and running a little way up the smooth incline caught his brown hand with hers. The fact that his clasp was closer than was absolutely necessary was lost on her as she seized upon her treasures.

When Prue arrived on the scene she was greeted by a wail of dismay.

"It's gone! Oh!"—this furiously to her rescuer. "I'll never forgive you, never!"

He came towards her, looking about as crestfallen as a man well could.

"I'm awfully sorry," he began apologetically.

"Sorry," she echoed wrathfully, "what's the good of being sorry?"

"Letty!" expostulated Prue.

"Well! I—I—Oh! its' too bad. And the professor's coming to"——

To the young man it seemed improbable, almost incredible even, but there really was something curiously suggestive of tears in the fresh young voice.

"Laetitia!" said Prue, attempting to be severe, "you seem to forget that we might have been left down there all night, but for Mr."——

"Forsyth," he prompted, dejectedly.

Letty tossed her head.

"I'm very much obliged to you, Mr. Forsyth," she said chillily. "Good evening," and picking up her bucket and spade she walked off, leaving Prue to "do the grateful," as she mentally ejaculated.

And Geoffrey Forsyth, who had been thanking his lucky stars for this unexpected chance of making the acquaintance of his "gray-eyed divinity," was left inwardly cursing all things. Then the usually reticent Prue did a strange thing, for she observed, as she shook hands with the dejected knight errant:

"We are going to explore the caves on Friday—in search of more monsters."

"Thank you so much," he said with straightforward candor. And Prue, despite her thirty years, blushed. Possibly she was dimly conscious of ulterior motives. Anyway, she omitted mentioning to Letty that the young man possessed that particular piece of information.

II.

"Hullo, Uncle! What in the world are you doing here?"

"Come to that," said the professor genially, "what are you doing here?"

As a matter of fact, he was not particularly interested in what his nephew might or might not be doing, but he was unused to subterfuge, and the consciousness that he was not, as usual, altogether on science bent, gave a distinct twinge to his biological conscience.

"Specimen hunting, I suppose?" queried the young man.

"Why, yes," admitted the professor. "Care to join me? That is, if you've nothing better to do."

Now, the island of Sark is but a mile or two in length, and it instantly occurred to Forsyth that two scientists on the warpath would be certain to meet, and—well, backed by the professor, anything might happen. For in spite of Prue, his meetings with Laetitia had so far been distinctly unsatisfactory. Wherefore—"Delighted!" he said, with alacrity.

"Fact is," pursued the professor, with a would-be nonchalance that instantly aroused the suspicions of his keen-sighted nephew, "fact is, there's a former student of mine here, a Miss Carstairs. I'm expecting to meet her to-morrow. We propose to explore the Guliot Caves for Actinia."

Forsyth surveyed the professor from under his lids with a sudden, new interest. It was true that he was forty-five, and she was probably two or three and twenty, but——

"I don't think I can come to-morrow," was all he said, and he strolled out into the garden of the little hotel and had a very bad, and rather long, quarter of an hour.

But the morning sunlight brought a ray of hope. It might be all a mistake on his part, and any way there was nothing to prevent his searching for—Actinia.

On rounding a corner in the semi-darkness of the Guliot Caves he ran into Miss Laetitia Carstairs—and alone, a fact he found peculiarly comforting.

"I beg your pardon," said both simultaneously, and presently she added with frank unconventionality, as he lingered near—

"I suppose you're Actinia-hunting, too? There are some awfully rare ones here."

"I should be delighted if I might help you?"

She turned swiftly at the sound of his voice.

"Oh!" she said icily, "it's you."

"Mayn't I help you?" he asked eagerly.

"To lose them?" she suggested cruelly. "No, thank you. I wouldn't think of troubling you," and with her small head very erect she marched on.

She was quite aware that he was standing watching her, and fired with the determination to make a dignified retreat, she forgot that in the Guliot Caves it behooves one to follow the advice of the Apostle, and walk circumspectly. A moment later there was a plunge, a little hiss as her candle spluttered out in the water, a smothered, inarticulate cry, and then a cheery "I'm coming!"

"That's twice," she said crossly, when at length he had succeeded in dragging her out of the pool, whose smooth, slippery sides would, she knew, have defied her unaided efforts.

"I apologize," he replied gravely, as he wrung some of the water out of her dripping garments.

"Don't be absurd," she snapped. Then, after a pause, "Of course, I ought to thank you."

"Not at all," he said imperturably, and, taking a leaf out of her book, remained serenely silent, well aware that she could not descend from her perch without his aid, and determined not to proffer it.

"Well—thank you," she said at last, almost meekly; then flashed out illogically, "Though it was all your fault. And now would you mind helping me down?"

"On one condition," he laughed; "that you let me follow you around and see that you don't make any further attempts on your life." And she had no choice but to assent.

Half an hour later he was wondering, as he obediently held the candle and watched the deft, skilful movements of her white fingers, what his next step should be in the thawing of this scientific icicle, when Fate kindly intervened and took the step for him.

"Where's the professor?" he asked. (He had already explained the relationship between them.)

"Oh, somewhere about," she answered vaguely. "He's on the look-out for a"——

"Spare me, please," he laughed.

And at that very moment, as they turned another corner in the intricacies of the wonderful caves, the professor's voice came echoing back to them: "Dearest Prue, you must know I love you."

"It seems," said Letty roguishly, and the dimples came back into her face as if by magic, "it seems he was on the lookout for—a wife."

Then she doubled back into the cave they had just quitted, and, sitting down on a rock, laughed immoderately. Geoffrey Forsyth, with a sigh of intense relief, sat down beside her. But in the midst of her laughter her eye was caught by a small, shining object on the dark, dark wall of the cave.

"Why," she cried, springing to her feet, "how could I have missed him! There's the very mesemb"——

"The mesemb—whatever its end may be, can wait," he said firmly, drawing her back on to the ledge beside him.

She was so surprised at this sudden masterfulness in one hitherto so meek that she actually did sit down.

"It's my turn now," he asserted; "you've been hours pottering round after creatures with impossible names, and I've been a miracle of patience. Now I want to talk about something I understand."

"And what may that be?" she inquired, a trifle sarcastically.

"I want to make love to you," he replied calmly.

"But," she objected, after the first gasp of surprise at his audacity, "but I don't want to be made love to—by you."

"That," he asserted, "is because you don't know me."

She laughed in spite of herself.

"Modesty will never be your ruin, Mr. Forsyth."

"I don't want it to be," he admitted candidly. "Now tell me, just as a matter of curiosity, what kind of a man do you like?"

"One who knows what he wants and gets it," she said succinctly, thinking of the professor and the trick he had played on her, a trick her sense of humor caused her to regard with infinite amusement.

"Well," replied her companion, "I know what I want," and he looked at her so expressively that she promptly ejaculated—

"I imagine you won't get it."

"Do you think not?" he inquired regretfully. "It was luncheon I was referring to."

"Oh!" she said, and then added scornfully—"I might have known that. Men are always thinking about things to eat."

"Except when they are thinking about the woman they love," he supplemented. To which she deigned no reply.

"May I begin now?" he asked presently.

"How can you be so absurd?" she demanded. "Why, you've only known me a week."

"But a week of this is equivalent to a year of ordinary 'knowing,'" he reminded her.

"I suppose," she said with a sigh, "it's no good asking you to leave off."

"Not a bit," he returned cheerfully, "and as my knowledge of human nature leads me to imagine you'll see no more of the professor and Miss Carlyle for the rest of the day, you'd best make up your mind to be content with me."

"And are you going to make love to me all day?" she asked in dismay.

He dropped into sudden gravity, and for a moment she saw the real man, and was startled.

"Dearest," he said gently, and his very voice seemed to have changed, "dearest, I love you. But just because that is so, I am not going to do anything to vex you. I am not even going to speak of my love, only I want you not to quite forget it. Will you promise?"

But Letty for once had nothing to say. He took her hand and kissed it, then relapsing into his normal geniality, said quite simply and naturally, "Now, shall we go out and explore? There are some quite fascinating 'bits' in this dot of an island. Come along," reassuringly, "we are going to be just pals, aren't we?"

And Letty, for some inexplicable reason, sighed softly.

But he kept his word rigorously, and was all day no more than a quite delightful pal—the adjective was Letty's own.

At the end of it, as they stood together in the gathering dusk, he asked, looking down on her:

"Well, what's the program for to-morrow? You can't spoil sport, you know, so shall it be science—or me?"

For an instant she hesitated, and he caught her hands triumphantly in his own.

"She who hesitates is lost," he quoted gayly, "I'll come for you at ten sharp."—The Sketch.

SCIENTIFIC & INDUSTRIAL

There is a great desire for some cheap and effective substitute for gasoline, the supply of which is limited and the price of which has steadily advanced for several years.

The brine of the Great Salt Lake in Utah is so concentrated that fish cannot live in it. The water is dense enough to float any one, and it is almost impossible to drown in it, although swimming is out of the question.

Creosote oil is a developing article of export from Sunderland, England, to the United States. Creosote is being more extensively used in America for the preservation of lumber, and the creosote oil is produced very cheaply in England from the coal tar refuse of the gas works.

By the aid of remarkably fine instruments it is now ascertained that the magnetic needle of a mariner's compass varies very slightly with the different positions of the sun during the day; this observation strengthens the claim that there is a direct connection between sun-spots and magnetic disturbances on our earth.

How practical a machine the automobile has become may be judged from the trip recently completed by two men, who covered the distance from San Fraicisco to New York in fifteen days and a quarter. The best previous record, made by the same men two years ago, was thirty-three days, and the best record before that was sixty-six days.

Some of the European technical journals describe a new method of exploding mines based upon the action of sound-waves. It is known from laboratory experiments that if a disk which is free to turn about its diameter is placed inside a cylindrical resonator, and the fundamental note is sounded, the disk will place itself in a plane perpendicular to the cylinder. By causing such a turning disk, governed by sound-waves, to complete an electric circuit, it would be possible for a war-ship to explode a mine by giving a certain signal on a siren, tuned to the same note as that of the resonator.

At Antibes, on the Mediterranean, the French naval authorities have been experimenting with a submarine boat guided from the shore by means of Hertzian electric waves. The boat is driven by an electric motor furnished with a battery of accumulators. A special electric apparatus, called the distributor, controls the steering gear in accordance with impulses transmitted to it from the shore. The operator knows the direction of the vessel's movements by watching two projecting masts, which at night carry lights. It is said that the electric apparatus has been so arranged that no interference with the movements of the submarine is possible from other wireless stations that intended to control them.

An expert judge of paintings declares that he knows at least 600 counterfeits of the old masters which are now hanging in the private galleries of the United States, all of which were originally purchased in Europe at very high prices.

LITTLE THINGS Worth Knowing

German silver contains no silver, and was invented in China.

Oysters cannot live in water containing less than thirty-seven parts of salt to every 1000 of water.

Brighton, Mass., has been infested by tramps recently, and this sign is on a well-known residence: "We are vegetarians, but our dog is not."

The London County Council has passed a law which makes the throwing of a banana skin on the sidewalk a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of forty shillings.

There are twenty-four railroads entering Chicago and as many local freight offices. The number of men employed is estimated at about 3000, one of the biggest lines alone employing over 700 men in its local offices.

Traveling on the Argentina pampas is interesting if not entirely comfortable. Men there are scarce, but horses are plentiful. Often sixty horses are driven in the same team. The driver is perched thirty feet from the ground. The wagons are sometimes fifty feet long and fifteen feet wide, while the back wheels are fourteen feet or so high.

Some one has discovered that this is the hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the establishment by Count Bruhl of the rule for traffic: "Keep to the right." This rule was first enforced on the bridge over the Elbe at Dresden, whence the habit spread throughout Germany. To keep to the right is the practice of American streets, pavements and two track railway lines. In Great Britain one keeps to the left, and the English coachman will tell you that is the better rule for driving, because the driver sits on the whip side, and can look down at the space between him and the vehicle that passes him in the opposite direction.

On Salt River, Arizona, there is in course of construction what is said to be the highest dam in the world. When it is completed in 1908, Roosevelt, the town on the site, will be 172 feet below the level of the water. It is anticipated that the head obtained will be the means of securing abundant power. A temporary power plant, a cement mill, ice plant, lighting plant and sawmill have been completed. A telephone line has been installed to the head works of the power canal, eighteen miles above Roosevelt, and extended in the other direction to the site of the great dam, which is thirty miles from Phoenix.

WORKED LIKE A PROSPECTOR.

Wicked Trick of a Western Man on a New York Kid.

"I've been seeing New York," announced the Western man, as he blew into the office of a New York friend in a downtown skyscraper, says the Sun.

"Coney Island?" inquired the New York man, languidly.

"Of course."

"Shot the chutes?"

"Shot everything in sight. But the best time I ever had was with a kid down there."

"There are plenty of them."

"Yes. New York doesn't have to worry about race suicide. This chap was about three years old. He was digging in the sand on the beach with a toy shovel and a tin bucket. I talked with him awhile, and when he wasn't looking I slipped two or three cents down the hole he had dug. When he resumed his labors his eyes bulged. He couldn't believe his luck. It was better than finding pay dirt to watch him. He dug up the cash with a yell and started to find his mother, further down the beach. While he was gone I slid a few more coppers in and threw a little sand over them. He came right back and began digging, and, of course, he soon made another find. That settled him. He gathered in the goods and then he buckled down to work on that hole like a prospector. I'll bet he's diggin' there yet if his mother hasn't dragged him away, and if she has I'll bet he yelled some before he went."

What She Remembered.

Husband—"Many people at church this forenoon, dear?"

Wife—"Yes, a large number."

"Good sermon?"

"Delightful."

"What was the text?"

"It was—it was—well, really, I have forgotten."

"Humph! Was Mrs. Purling there?"

"She was."

"What had she on?"

"Well, she had on a fall wrap of very dark Pompeiian red cloth, with narrow insertions of black velvet in the sides of the skirt. A small yoke trimming of the velvet covered the upper part of the chest, and was outlined with mixed tinsel braid. A narrow braiding girdled the waist, and the cuffs were ornamented in the same way. It had a cape attachment pleated upon the shoulders, and attached by other pleats at the waist line, giving a dolman appearance to the back. She——"

"That'll do. I don't wonder that you forgot the text!"—Daily Picayune.

FIGHTING BOB HAD THE FACTS.

A Hitherto Untold Story Shows That He Speaks by the Book.

The naval review at Oyster Bay, because it was commanded by Admiral Robley D. Evans, perhaps recalls an incident of the Spanish war which has not before been written about. It may be that its recital at this time will help to show how accurate a man is this officer, who has suffered somewhat from a false conception of his character.

Admiral Sampson had determined to begin the war by the bombardment of Havana, and on April 4, 1898, Evans, then captain, wrote a letter to the then editor of Harper's Weekly, containing this paragraph:

"I sall have the honor of leading in the Iowa, and when we open, at about 800 yards, with Indiana close astern, if those poor chaps from the Maine don't giggle in their coffins it will be a wonder."

This was the pregnant part of the letter. Sampson was forbidden from Washington to attack Havana, much to his disappointment and wrath. To one sitting at a distance, not knowing Evans, and knowing of the proposed bombardment only as a rumor, the letter might have seemed a bit of bluster.

But after a few months chance put the log book of the New York, the flagship, in the way of the recipient of the letter and there he read Sampson's order for the bombardment of Havana, giving the order of the ships and designating the distance at which the firing should begin, precisely as Evans had stated them in the letter.

But why go to within 800 yards of the new forts, which were much more heavily armed than the ships of Sampson's fleet? Months after reading the log book the recipient of the letter attended a dinner given in honor of Admiral Sampson.

The Admiral made there one of the few speeches of his life, and in it he told the reason—a reason characteristic of his keen judgment and of his boldness—for selecting 800 yards. He had found out that a short time before the Spaniards had momentarily awakened from their usual torpor and had practiced from the new works, firing at floating targets. They had floated these targets past their guns at 3000 yards.

Sampson at once concluded that they supposed that he would attack at that distance and quickly determined to go in at 800 yards, for, he explained, the Spaniards having once fixed their sights for a traget 3000 yards away would not be able to change them, but would fire over his ships until he had dismounted their heavy pieces by his rapid fire guns. So the chain was completed, for we had the facts and the reason for them.—Harper's Weekly.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Limitations lead to liberty.

Bigotry blasts many blessings.

Selfishness destroys serenity.

Love calls no service degrading.

The joy of service is the secret of joy.

A man can be sweet without being fresh.

It takes more than curiosity to make a good neighbor.

The people who shine as the stars think only of the sun.

Your prospects depend on something beside your precepts.

The world needs your witness as well as your work.

You cannot develop affection without heart athletics.

Pardon alone purchases freedom from punishment.

Many who glory in their titles have no title to glory.

Our greatest gratitude comes from our deepest disappointments.

He cannot be truly brave who is not trying to be bravely true.

You will always find the best berries in the biggest brambles.

Dignity is a good thing in the museum, but out of place in the market.

The worst habits, in our opinion, are those for which we have no appetite.—Ram's Horn.

The Military Value of Color.

At no time in the history of war has the question of color received so much attention from military men as within the past ten years. That the value of approximate invisibility has been fully recognized by our powers that be is fully shown in the passing of the blue uniform and the advent of the olive drab and khaki. A writer in Harper's Weekly makes some very interesting observations on the question of color invisibility as it concerns uniforms. Accumulations of clear atmosphere are blue, he points out; and the brighter the sun and the greater the distance of the object the bluer it appears; also, the blueness is in proportion to the density of the object. From 2200 to about 1200 yards, khaki in close formation gives exactly the effect of the blue uniform, because of the banked up atmosphere before it. "Moreover, given a distance greater than 1200 yards and a clear day, and it is all one whether massed troops wear green, blue, olive drab, yellow, khaki or black. Red and white are about the only colors to remain unconquered by the atmosphere against a green or earth background; and when against the sky, red still flaunts but white goes out like the blowing out of a candle. This is probably the reason for the cavalry guidon having the red on top, and for signal survey stations using red and white flags against a ground blackground and red and green against the sky."

THE UNION

Published every Thursday at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama.

Wallace C. Edler, Ed. and Pub.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.

For advertising rates, call at the office, Seventh street, between First and Second avenues.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

All communications to the Union must be signed by the writer's real name as well as that name which they wish to put in the paper. Letters must reach the editor Tuesday morning to get in the same week. While we will publish any and all communications complying with these requirements that do not contain any improper language, we are not responsible for the opinions expressed. tf.

CLANTON, ALA., Nov 15 1906.

Union Clubbing List

The Union And Yellow Jacket	$1.00
The Union And Southern Ruralist	1.00
The Union And Union Educator	1.00
The Union And Home and Farm	1.00
The Union And Weekly Age-Herald	1.25
The Union and Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.25
The Union and Twice-a-Week Globe Democrat	1.30
The Union and Tri-Weekly Atlanta Constitution	1.50
The Union And Tom Watson's Magazine	1.30
The Union and Tri-Weekly N. Y. World	1.50
The Union And Rural South	1.50
The Union And Weekly Advertiser and Map of Alabama, U. S. and world	1.50

If there are any other papers you want call at THE UNION office, and we will get them for you at the lowest rates. tf

REPUBLICAN MAJORITY IN CHILTON.

As there have been false reports sent to the daily papers about the election on November 6, such as "the average majority in Chilton county was 175," we state that our LOWEST majority was 175, the highest 234, thus making an average of 204.

Chilton county elected the entire Republican ticket, viz: Representative, J. Osmond Middleton; sheriff, F. J. Fitts; county commissioners, W. H. Conway and S. E. Waldrop, by a majority equal to our majorities of 1902 and 1904 together. For particulars see the table of the OFFICIAL count in this issue. Hurrah for "we'uns."

S. M. ADAMS.

In the Banner of last week Mr. Adams criticises The Union in regard to what it published about Mr. Van Derveer's report. We did not pretend to publish the whole report (it being very voluminous). As to what Mr. Adams seems to treat as a vindication of his acts by Mr. Van Derveer, and which Mr. Adams quotes in his article, that portion only referred to "Exhibit B," which it immediately follows. Mr. Van Derveer also personally states that it was his intention to refer only to those "warrants that were drawn between terms of the Commissioners' Court, but afterward audited and passed by it."

What The Union referred to especially is "Exhibit C," amounting to $14,027.11, which the report shows that there is nothing on record showing that the County Commissioners ever saw or heard of any of the claims making up that large amount. Mr. Adams claims he has done nothing wrong in not following the plain provisions of law as laid down in the Code of Alabama for the conduct of the office he formerly held. That may be so and the county may not have lost anything by these illegal acts, but as the highest officer in our county says, "it is the widest open door for fraud I ever saw."

REPORTS ON CHILTON.

Examiner Gorman Sends Statements to Governor.

Reports on the books and accounts of officials of Chilton county were sent to Governor Jelks yesterday by State Examiner J. T. Gorman.

All of the accounts were found to be correct except those of Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds, who was found to be due $10. This amount has been paid into the treasury.

Other officials who were commended for efficiency were J. M. Morgan, sheriff; A. C. Mims, ex-tax assessor; T. J. Hubbard, tax collector; S. W. Collins, circuit clerk, and J. W. Moore, superintendent of education.—Montgomery Advertiser.

FORMER TREASURER A. G. DAKE.

In regard to the statement in J. P. Van Derveer's report, on the county treasurer's office, as to an altered warrant, No. 365, for $3.30, which was raised to $51.82, in favor of the Waller Evans Cogswell Company, Mr. Dake has shown this office a duplicate itemized invoice from that concern for $51.82, also an acknowledgement from the company that it received $51.82.

Vote of CHILTON COUNTY Nov. 6, 1906

	Beat 1	Beat 2, Box 1.	Beat 2, Box 2.	Beat 3, Box 1.	Beat 3, Box 2.	Beat 4	Beat 5	Beat 6	Beat 7, Box 1.	Beat 7, Box 2.	Beat 8, Box 1.	Beat 8, Box 2.	Beat 9	Beat 10	Beat 11	Total
State Senator—
W. W. Wadsworth, R.	69	13	99	28	35	168	17	74	37	13	21	28	135	128	40	905
H. S. Doster, D.	21	24	44	55	30	140	82	71	42	15	73	20	20	51	19	707
Representative—
J. Osmond Middleton, R.	69	12	98	30	31	169	13	74	40	13	23	29	131	127	39	898
F. A. Gulledge, D.	20	26	46	52	35	142	88	69	39	16	70	21	24	55	20	725
Sheriff—
Felix J. Fitts, R.	69	13	99	27	39	165	14	76	40	14	24	29	135	130	32	906
T. J. Traywick, D.	20	25	45	54	27	145	89	69	40	16	70	21	19	49	16	705
Rolifee F. Bates, I.	1	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	1	10	12
Commissioner First District—
W. H. Conway, R.	69	14	94	28	31	169	15	77	39	13	22	30	134	131	37	903
Thos. Harrison, D.	21	24	47	55	35	139	86	67	40	16	72	18	20	50	22	712
Commissioner Second District—
S. E. Waldrup, R.	71	13	100	29	48	168	16	75	39	13	21	29	134	129	40	925
W. Y. Atchison, D.	18	25	45	54	18	141	85	68	41	16	73	19	20	49	19	691

The vote for Governor was: Stratton, R., 828; Comer, D., 754; Abbott, Soc., 5.
Wm. B. Craig, D., for Congress, polled 724 votes.

CARD OF THANKS.

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 14, 1906.

To Our Friends:

We desire to extend to you our sincerest thanks for the loyal support which you gave us during the campaign, and which resulted in our triumphant election.

While the splendid vote which we received is very gratifying, yet we realize that the praise is due, not to us, but to our friends throughout the county who stood by us so faithfully.

The very material gain in our majority ought to be sufficient to fill with enthusiasm every supporter of the people's cause, and give us all courage to move forward with renewed energy and determination to hold aloft the standard of right and justice.

We realize and appreciate the fact that this victory is due to each individual who supported us, and we shall ever hold them in grateful remembrance and strive to show our appreciation by a faithful discharge of duty. We understand that we are the servants of the whole people, and both friend and foe shall have full justice. Gatefully yours,

J. OSMOND MIDDLETON,
FELIX J. FITTS,
W. H. CONWAY,
S. E. WALDRUP.

THE WORK OF THE HOLY SPIRIT.

By Rev. Job Reynolds.

Now, I suppose there is not a real Christian in Chilton county but what has a desire to be used of God. If you have no desire, no longing for usefulness, I want to say there is something wrong in your life. It seems to me that the first impulse, the first aim of a new-born soul, is service. What shall I do? I want to do something that would build up the church. When Christ had finished his work the last thing he did was to teach His disciples of the coming of the Holy Spirit and what he would do when he came. When He handed out His work to them, then it was, then it was that the spirit was coming to help and to work with them. It was the Holy Spirit that helped the early Christians, and it will help us. There is not a man or woman today who may not be helped if they will. But there must first be a willing mind and heart; we must know the mind of the spirit and give ourselves wholly to be led and guided and filled with the spirit. In the first place, it is well for us to remember that the Holy Spirit is a person. In one verse in the 14th chapter of John in which the word "He" occurs four times. Let us come to what His work is. In the first place to convict men of sin. "He shall convict and convince men of sin." Then, when a man has been convinced of his sins and is willing to give them us, the next thing the spirit does is to shed abroad the love of God in our hearts. When we have that love then we have the spirit of Christ. Another thing is to impart hope. You never saw the spirit of God working in a church that was not hopeful. Then the spirit of God gives liberty. His work is also to testify of Christ. What we want today is the love of Christ. All that He will teach you. He is a wonderful teacher. He shall teach you all things. Now, if we have got a teacher sent down here from heaven to teach us all things, are we not dishonoring Him if we run after other teachers in secret? Then He shall guide you into all truth and shall comfort you. There is not a broken heart today that He can't make whole; there is not a sorry one today that He will not comfort. If I go not away the comforter will not come, and this is His dwelling place, in these bodies that you and I inhabit. When we have been near the Son of God, then it is that these bodies become temples for the Holy Ghost to dwell in. Jesus says, "He shall be in you. He shall abide with you," and Paul says, "Know ye not that ye are the temples of God, and that the spirit of God dwelleth in you?" We have not been bought by Silas, but by the precious Son of God; therefore let us keep the temple pure and sweet.

The only fish that never sleep are said to be the salmon, pike and gold fish.

PLEASANT GROVE.

Editor Union:

A large crowd gather at John W. Culp's on Tuesday, November 6, and helped to celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Culp, who had been married just fifty years ago to the day. Everybody enjoyed themselves and also the refreshments. James Thomas, the carrier on Route No. 7 was present at dinner. Miss Alpha Williams and brother, Grady, visited their brother at Pletcher Saturday and report a good time. Jesse Barrett, of Dixie, was a welcome visitor in our community the past week. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore visited the latter's grandparents the past week. Mr. Watts, of Swift Creek, visited Wess Mims' last Tuesday. C. H. Cooper and wife were pleasant visitors at Jack Williams' Sunday. It seems as if some of the boys are having a race over across the road. With much love to The Union and its many readers, still I am OLD ROSEBUD.

PLEASANT GROVE.

Dear Editor:

Here I am again, after a few weeks' absence. Well, we're enjoying this beautiful November weather, and our farmers are through gathering. Health is very good at present, and a deal of visiting going on with the people of Pleasant Grove. We are glad to say that Prof. L. H. Merchant is here and opened up his school last Monday (5th). We all wish him good success. Rev. S. Smitherman was a pleasant visitor to A. Patterson's family the past week. Come again, Bro. Smitherman; we are all glad to have you visit our community. N. P. Freeman, who has been in Birmingham for some time, has been spending a few days here with his parents and friends, and his visit was appreciated by all. Miss Selma Patterson, who has been away on a visit to her sister, Mrs. T. L. Green, at Helena, is back home again. Rev. R. M. Honeycutt (by request) preached for Mrs. Mary J. Thomas at her home on November 4; a large congregation was present and heard a splendid sermon. As the election is over and the question is settled, I'll just say Hurrah! Hurrah! for Sheriff F. J. Fitts, also for Representative J. Osmond Middleton. Say, Mr. Middleton, can't one or two girls get a fellow in office by a large majority? Ha! ha! what did those girls say to you about their votes? But that's all right, you got the majority. Success to The Union and its readers.

SAME GREENHORN.

PLEASANT GROVE.

To the Union Readers of Chilton County:

I am glad that our Republican ticket was carried in this county. Health of this community is very good and our people are through gathering their crops. Now, there is a stock law election ordered in Beat 3, and I hope that people will open their eyes, for this is a very serious thing when we cast our ballots for stock law. I don't think it is best for our people. Now I understand that it means 365 days in the year, so we will lose all of our fall pasture. As I am near the line between Beats 2 and 3, this question arises: If Beat 3 gets the law passed, who will build the line fence, Beat 2 or Beat 3? Think of so many public road gates to open and shut. Who is going to keep them up? We will have to draw water for our horses, cows, hogs, etc. Remember that springs and creeks are not all over this county. Now, is this law best for all or just a few?

G. W. HODGENS.

FALAKTO.

People are about through gathering their storm cotton. Miss Birdie Askins is visiting her aunt at Thomas. Tom Wilson's new house is about completed. We're looking out for Christmas now, as we expect some of our relatives and friends to visit us. The wedding bell is ringing south of here this morning. The death angel visited Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lewis' home Saturday evening and took their little six-weeks-old babe away. Weep not, parents, the little babe is gone to rest, to reign with God, forever blest; its little tongue will always praise a Savior's love redeeming grace.

A FRIEND TO ALL.

OBITUARY.

On the 5th inst. old Aunt Polly Jones passed peacefully from this life. After many weeks of illness God called her home and her bright spirit took its flight to the realms of eternal light. Aunt Polly was well known, a member of the Baptist church for forty years, and was loved by everybody that knew her. Her old home was near Randolph, where she had lived ever since moving to this county, 73 years ago. She stayed here ninety-four years and made peace with her Master this long time. Don't it look as if we could do the same through our short space of time; few of us live to be over half the age she reached. She left a grand testimony behind her, saying, "The Lord welcomes me home," which we truly believe He did. She leaves four nieces to mourn her loss and a host of friends. Her casket was laden with flowers and on her breast were beautiful wreaths. She was laid by the side of her brother, C. P. Ray, in Pleasant Hill cemetery. She has gone far away to that land where no night can fall; she has entered the realms of eternal day, where there is no pain, sorrow, sickness or death to appall. Oh! imagine the heavenly curtain drawn aside; there at the portal she stands and beckons to you to come, and there with her abide. Just as full bloom rose must spoil the bud of beauty and loveliness to make the flower, so may God best us all. A FRIEND.

THORSBY.

Gust Berlin returned Tuesday evening from Chicago, where he has been for some time.

J. F. Peterson returned Monday afternoon after an extended absence.

Charles A. Peterson went to Mobile last week. He expects to be busy there with painting and paper hanging.

Mr. Leonard C. Tilden, of the Department of Labor and Commerce, spent a day here last week investigating the foreign immigration problem. After the preliminary work on which he is now engaged is completed, the government will make a thorough investigation of the work and success of the various foreign elements in the South, and of their desirability as settlers.

Rev. H. F. H. Hartelius is endeavoring to establish a church among the Swedish Lutherans of Birmingham and vicinity, and expects to succeed soon.

A new baby arrived a week ago Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bice.

Philip Lefstad, aged eleven years, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. T. Lefstad died at home on November 6, after a short illness. The funeral services were held Thursday, November 8, Rev. Holland officiating.

Mrs. S. B. Groves left for Ohio Friday morning on account of the serious illness of her mother.

A Japanese gentleman, with his family, is billed to speak here Saturday night. Birmingham people who have heard him say that his entertainment is very good.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION AT CORINTH.

The annual Sunday school convention of District No. 5 was very successfully held at Corinth church, November 11. The Corinth Sunday School, by the way, is one of the oldest in the county, being established over 30 years ago. The large crowd present gave conclusive evidence that the neighborhood and adjacent communities are very much interested in Sunday school affairs.

The singing, which was much enjoyed, was led by Mr. A. L. Robinson, with Miss Fannie Belle Robinson, organist.

In his report, the president, Mr. D. S. Robinson, showed deep interest in the work and a clear understanding of what is essential to success. Mr. Robinson's genial manner, his prompt management of the program, his easy comment and apt remarks make him a most efficient presiding officer.

The secretary reported ten Sunday schools at work and four "resting."

Representatives were present from Canaan, Salem, Friendship, Evergreen, Shady Grove, Corinth, Verbena Baptist and Methodist and Verbena Methodist Protestant. We were very glad indeed that the Methodist Protestant school was represented, and regret deeply that through an oversight in making the list of schools this one was not called on for a report.

Talks were made by Messrs. P. M. Jones, E. L. Manning, W. H. Sterck, Cato Pattillo, J. A. Jones, Joseph Mims, J. L. Long, Newton Calloway, Connell, T. L. Robinson and Dr. A. Horn, of Thorsby, acting president of the county association.

In the afternoon a primary class was taught by Miss Gibson. The president and secretary were re-elected, and Mr. John Williams, of Evergreen, was elected vice-president.

Mr. Cato Pattillo offered a resolution, most heartily endorsed by the convention, thanking the members of Corinth church for their cordial hospitality and generous entertainment of the visitors. Especially do we remember the ladies who served an abundant dinner "on the grounds."

LILA MERIWETHER.

LIBERTY HILL.

Health in this community is good, except a few cases of fever. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dennis went to Mountain Creek Sunday to visit his nephew, who is very ill, but we hope for his speedy recovery. Newt Childress has gone to Birmingham to work a while there . . but a few farmers are done gathering. With best wishes to the good old Union and its many readers.

"UNCLE JOE."

WINSTON COUNTY'S ALL R'GHT.

Haleyville, Ala., Nov. 12, 1906.

Dear Editor:

Here I come again. The election is over and we Republicans gained the victory in "old Winston" by 425 majority. The Democrats did not elect anything, not one of them hold an elective office in 'old Winston." I am glad to know that Chilton is in line with us, for I once lived in that county. Mr. Editor, do you or any of your readers know of any one in the county by the name of S. M. Yates, Sr., S. M. Yates, Jr., or I. J. Vinson; they used to live near Coopers? (S. M. Yates, Jr.'s, address is Verbena, Route 2, and he is a valued subscriber to this paper.—Editor Union.) Well, the Farmers' Union of Winston is still on a "boom"; we are building us a warehouse at this place. I love to see The Union come each week, and hear from all my old neighbors through its columns. With best wishes to you all.

J. M. WARD, JR.,
F. E. and C. U. of A.

JACKSON'S CHAPEL.

Health of our community is not very good; we are having a lot of fever round here this season. We regret to say that Mrs. G. W. Jones is quite ill with fever this week; she and Mr. Jones are the proud parents of a baby boy. Miss Angie Jones, of Verbena, visited the Misses Andrews and Lucy Jones Sunday. R. L. Kelley, of Cane Creek, visited W. C. Jones Saturday and says his sister-in-law, Miss Lena Wagner, is quite sick; we hope for her speedy recovery. Tom Jones visited Mrs. G. W. Jones Sunday. Miss Rosa Jones was the guest of the Misses Ethel and Lucy Jackson Sunday. Mrs. Joe Andrews was a welcome caller at G. W. Jones' Sunday. We notice that the two-cent caps are not visiting our community so often nowadays. We note that the O. Z. is still coming across the road every Sunday.

BROWN.

True sportsmen everywhere will be glad to know that in England the unwritten law to the effect that no beast and bird of game shall be given a fair chance for his life is slowly but surely coming to establishment. Recent decisions, not in courts, but of high tribunals of disposed of fine consciences, have applied with such force to the killing of pigeons and to rabbit coursing that the two occupations are now known as sports. And the caging of stags in cages to place them they are set at liberty and then tormented and butchered is declared to be pastime fit for the steeled and not for the pleasure of gentlemen. So widely is this sentiment spreading that it is believed it will not be long before there will be laws to force those who hold less humane views into conforming with the altitude of their superiors.

Again or Yet?

Jones had come home about two in the morning. As soon as he opened the door his wife began upbraiding him for his conduct. Jones went to bed and when he was almost asleep could hear her scolding him unmercifully. He dropped off to sleep and awoke after a couple of hours, only to hear his wife remark: "I hope all the men don't have to put up with such conduct as this." "Annie," said he, "are you talking again or yet?"—Argonaut.

Fall and Winter Hardw

Heating Stoves, Coal Hods, Tongs, Poker, Coal Vases, Fire Guards, Window Panes and Putty,

PIPE AND FITTING.

Can secure repairs for machinery from us much cheaper and time than from Birmingham or Montgomery. We carry Inspirators, Glass Oil Cups, Check and Globe Valves, Jets, Packing, Belting and Gandy Stitched Belt, Engine and Cylinder Oil, Axle Grease.

ROOFING.

We have in stock Galvanized and Iron Roofing, and our prices make this roofing cheaper for you than shingles, and is much easier put in use.

PAINTS.

The Hammar Paint and Sun Proof Paint are as good as any in the market. We have pure Linseed Oil and Lead, and if you prefer your own mixing, we are prepared to furnish you the necessary goods.

BUILDERS' HARDWARE.

We can save you money on this line. Have a full stock of Doors and Blinds, Locks, Hinges and Sash Cord. Call on us for prices before placing your order.

SPIGENER & JONES

HARDWARE STORE

Clanton, Alaba

Cor. 2nd Ave and 7th St. THE BIG STORE, Co... Ave... pos...

—is at The Head of The Procession.—

Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, Sho...

FURNITURE,

COFFINS AND BURIAL NECESSITIES

W. I. MULLINS,

Clanton. . . Alaba...

BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

The best whiskey in the country is here. If you don't believe it, try me.

J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera.

nter Hardw

al Hods, Tongs, Pokers re Guards, Window and Putty,

ND FITTING.
ncry from us much cheaper and ontgomery. We carry inspirator and Globe Valves, Jets, Packing, Engine and Cylinder Oil, Axle

FING.
and Iron Roofing, and our pr than shingles, and is much

INTS.
Proof Paint are as good as any ll and Lead, and if you prefer to furnish you the necessary

' HARDWARE.
e line. Have a full stock of and Sash Cord. Call on us for

R & JONES
RE STORE
Alaba

G STORE,
Co
Ar
of The Procession.—
ning, Hats, Sho
ITURE,
RIAL NECESSITI
JLLINS,
Alaba

ill with fever this week; she Jones are the proud parents o baby boy. Miss Angie Jones, bena, visited the Misses An Lucy Jones Sunday. R. L. Ki
Cane Creek, visited W. C. Jo urday and says his sister-in-la Lena Wagner, is quite sic hope for her speedy recovery.
Tom Jones visited Mrs. G. W.
Sunday. Miss Rosa Jones w guest of the Misses Ethel and Jackson Sunday. Mrs. Joe J was a welcome caller at G. W.
Sunday. We notice that the t caps are not visiting our co
so often nowadays. We note
O. Z. is still coming across t road every Sunday.

BROWN E

True sportsmen everywhe be glad to know that in Engl unwritten law to the effect tha beast and bird of game sha given a fair chance for his slowly but surely coming to lishment. Recent decisions, courts, but of high tribunals posed of fine consciences, ha plied with such force to the of pigeons and to rabbit cours the two occupations are no known as sports. And the of stags in cages to places they are set at liberty and tormented and butchered is de to be pastime fit for the stock and not for the pleasure of men. So widely is this sen spreading that it is believed not be long before there will b to force those who hold less views into conforming with t titude of their superiors.

Again or Yet?

Jones had come home about the morning. As soon as he ope door his wife began upbraidi for his conduct. Jones went and when he was almost asleep hear her scolding him unmerc
He dropped off to sleep and after a couple of hours, only his wife remark: "I hope all men don't have to put up with conduct as this." "Annie," said
"are you talking again or yet?"
gonaut.

CLANTON ACADEMY,

Clanton, Alabama,

Possesses superior advantages ills of all grades, prepares th nter the best colleges and u ies, trains teachers to stand ion for any grade certificate and es them the better to fill a p eir profession.

L. J. THOMPSON
tf Princ

BUSINESS PROPOSIT

The best whiskey in ountry is here. If
on't believe it, try me.
J. M. COLLINS,
Palace Saloon, Calera,

ND COUNTY OFFICIALS

Circuit Court.
—Third Monday in May
—Fourth Monday in N

A. L. Brewer, Tuskegee.
W. B. Bowling, Dadeville.
W. Collins.

Chancery Court.
—Second Monday in
—Second Monday in Sep

—Hon. W. W. Whitesides.
—Mrs. S. A. Stewart, Clan

County Court.
day in each month.
missioners' Court.
Monday February, first Mon
first Monday June, second
, second Monday August,
November.

UNTY OFFICERS.
Probate—L. H. Reynolds
—W. T. Callen.
M. Morgan.
W. M. Adams.
—L. B. Pounds.
—T. J. Hubbard.

y Commissioners.
trict—W. H. Conway.
trict—Alex Glasscock.
trict—R. P. Kendrick.
trict—Moses Robinson.

rd of Education.
W. Moore, Clanton.

unty Surveyor.
hal, Calera.

State Senator.
R. Oliver, Calera.

UNTY CHURCHES.

SIONARY BAPTIST.
—Rev. J. L. Neeley, pas
Sunday and Saturday be
L. Hand, clerk.

SALEM—Rev. M. J. Parrish,
R. Popwell, clerk.

REEK—Rev. J. L. Busbey,
First Sunday and Saturday
E. Thomas, clerk.

'S CHAPEL—Rev. J. H.
astor. Third Sunday and before. J. D. Collins, clerk.

HILL—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
First Sunday and Saturday
W. Scott, clerk.

ONIA—Rev. J. H. Thomas,
Fourth Sunday and Saturday
30 p. m. H. H. Armstrong,

ANT GROVE—Rev. J. H.
astor. Fourth Sunday and before at 11 a. m. D. H.
clerk.

NCE—Rev. W. W. Robin-
Second Sunday and Sat-
Riley Robinson, clerk.

OVE (Bibb Co.)—Rev. J. H.
astor. Second Sunday and
before. D. C. Smitherman,

ITIVE BAPTIST.
—Elder J. P. Nobles, pas
d Sunday and Saturday be
Abernathy, clerk.

ODIST EPISCOPAL.
MOUNT—Rev. A. T. Van-
r. Second Sunday, Sing-
econd and fourth Sunday
Prayer meeting every Wed-
ht. Ladies' prayer meeting
day afternoon.

ERNAL SOCIETIES.
Masonic.
R. A. Chapter, No. 116—
day, Clanton.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday, Cooper.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday, Clanton.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
Saturday, Billingsley.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M.,
turday on or before full

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
on or before full moon.

Lodge, A. F. and A. M., No.
on or before full moon.

I. O. O. F.
Lodge—First and third Sat-

Lodge, No. 304—Second and urth.

Men of the World.
Camp, No. 190—First an

I. O. R. M.
Tribe, No. 90—First and sleep. Visiting chiefs
E. B. Langston, C.
Patton, Sachem.
Tribe No. 48—2nd and 4th
s: Visiting chiefs cor
J. M. Grant, Sachem;
Tribe, No. 9, meets
fourth Tuesdays' sleep.
cordially invited.
VAN DERVEER, Sachem
SON, C. of R.

F. E. & C. U. OF A.

Chilton Co. Division Officers.

J. H. Thomas, President, Jemison, Rte. 1.
J. W. Hayes, Vice Pres., Thorsby, Rte 1.
J. N. Dennis, Sec-Treas., Clanton, Rte 6.
G. W. Thomas, Chaplain, Clanton, Rte 2.
J. W. Sorrell, Bus. Agent, Jemison, Rte 4.
C. N. Eiland, Lecturer, Clanton, Rte 4.
N. A. Dobbs, Asst. Lect., Clanton, Rte 3.
W. J. Bean, Conductor, Clanton, Rte 4.
W. F. Culpepper, Doorkeeper, Clanton, Rte 3.
W. A. Barnett, Ex. Committee, Jemison, Rte 2.
E. H. Mims, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 1.
J. Wiley Foshee, Ex. Committee, Clanton, Rte 4.

FARMERS' UNION NOTICE.

Editor Union:

Please publish the following notice in The Union:

I have been elected by the executive committee of the Farmers' Union of Chilton county to conduct the educational rally. I will lecture at the following times and places:

Rocky Mount, November 15, at 2 p. m.
Union Grove, November 15, at 7 p. m.
Pleasant Hill, November 16, at 2 p. m.
Mineral Springs, November 16, at 7 p. m.
Mount Pleasant School House, November 17, at 7 p. m.
Lomax, November 19, at 11 a. m.
Cane Creek, Noyember 19, at 7 p. m.
Providence, Beat 10, November 20, at 11 a. m.
Concord, November 20, at 7 p. m.
Poplar Springs, November 21, at 11 a. m.
Corinth, November 21, at 7 p. m.
Evergreen, November 22, at 11 a. m.
Enterprise, November 22, at 7 p. m.
Bethsalem, November 23, at 11 a. m.
Highland, November 23, at 7 p. m.
Littlejohn's, November 24, at 11 a. m.
Mars Hill, November 26, at 11 a. m.
Providence, November 26, at 7 p. m.
Pleasant Grove, November 27, at 10 a. m.
Macedonia, November 27, at 7 p. m.
New Prospect, November 28, at 11 a. m.
County Line, November 28, at 7 p. m
Cross Roads, November 29, at 11 a. m.
Benson, November 29, at 7 p. m.
Wayside, November 30, at 10 a. m.
Shiloh, November 30, at 7 p. m.
Culp, December 1, at 10 a. m.

C. N. EILAND,
County Lecturer.

HOW IS THIS?

A. E. Stratton, for Governor, polled 179 votes more than Roosevelt did in 1904 in Chilton county. How is that for Republican growth?

GINNING SFASON 1906-7
We have engaged Joe and Walter Maddox to run and operate our gins for the coming season. We have the best machinery and with these men to operate it, we can guarantee entire satisfaction to those who patronize us. Bring us your cotton.
Respectfully
Chilton Warehouse & M,f,g. Company. tf.

NOTICE!

Jemison, Ala., 11-12 '06.
To the People of Chilton Co:

I have bought out W. A. Reynolds' large stock of goods at a bargain, and will sell Clothing, Shoes, Hats and Dry Goods, Buggies and Wagons cheaper than any one else can possibly sell them. Why? Because I got these goods at a bargain. Will sell till January 1st strictly for cash. You will find me at the same old Farmers Alliance Store where I have been for the past 13 years. All who owe W. A. Reynolds will find him at the same place, and he will buy cotton till January 1st.

Respectfully,
Charles W. Reynolds.

ATTENTION

Mrs. S. J. Watts is with J. C. Jones and will be pleased to wait on friends and customers. We make a specialty of all styles of "Puritan Corsets" Dress Goods and Trimmings, design dresses and order patterns. tf.

CLANTON COTTON MARKET.

Total receipts to Nov. 14, 1906.. 3,414
Price same date 9 5-8
Receipts same time in 1905..... 4,789
Price same date 10 1-2

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

The Court of County Commissioners met Monday morning and will be in session about all the week, as in addition to auditing and paying the different accounts against the county the court has to appoint road apportioners and fill the jury lists. This is the regular November session adjourned from Nov. 5. All the commissioners are present and, as under the present administration they have an opportunity to look into and pass upon all the claims against the county, they have their hands full.

Attorney J. C. Dennis, who died in Birmingham Saturday of acute heart trouble, was buried in the Clanton cemetery on Sunday. Mr. Dennis was 31 years old and leaves a wife; she was formerly Miss Glennie McMorries, a daughter of the late Prof. E. Y. McMorries. Mr. Dennis was chairman of the county Democratic committee, having succeeded Attorney Tipton Mulins in that position only a few months ago.

T. M. Crumpton's store in Maplesville was destroyed by fire early Saturday morning. The store and contents were totally destroyed, only a few buggies in the warehouse being run out and saved. The building was insured for $2,000, and the stock, estimated at $10,000, was insured for $600. The postoffice, located in the same building, was also burned, but the contents of the safe were not harmed. The cause of the fire is not known, but the supposition is that the building caught from sparks of passing railroad engines.

Clanton will soon have an up-to-date meat market, as J. F. Lewis has rented the store building formerly occupied by Elbert Littlejohn, and is fitting it up in the most approved style, marble counters and all approved clean and sanitary ways of caring for meats.

W. F. Maddox, of Jemison, was a pleasant visitor Thursday.

R. Brandt, of Thorsby, was in Clanton Thursday.

J. W. Varden was a welcome caller Thursday.

L. Moore and Curtis Moore were in town Tnursday.

Tom Miller was in town Thursday.

J. W. and M. H. Parker were in Clanton Friday.

B. G. Johnson was in town Friday.

Dudley Thompson was in Clanton Friday.

John W. Harris was in town Saturday.

B. G. Foshee and son, Leroy, were in Clanton Saturday.

R. J. Williams and J. Bice were pleasant visitors Saturday.

C. D. Foshee was in town Saturday.

W. J. Headley and M. F. Ellison were in Clanton Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Maddox were in Clanton Saturday.

R. T. Grant was a welcome caller Saturday; he was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. A. K. Dupree.

W. D. and Tom Caton were in town Monday.

M. C. Williams, J. P. Rushing and A. J. Letlow were in Clanton Monday looking after a new road in their community.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Henley, on November 2, a fine girl baby. Mother and child are doing well under the care of Dr. J. P. Hayes.

Anderson Baker, Sr., that sterling old Republican from near Verbena, was in town Monday.

J. W. Sears was a pleasant visitor Monday; he is one of those men that stand high in the estimation of good editors, for he always anticipates the expiration of his subscription and comes in and renews. May his kind increase in the land.

G. E. Wright was in Clanton Monday; he is an ardent worker for stock law in Beat 3.

E. F. Taylor was in town Tuesday.

'Squire J. J. McDowell was in Clanton Tuesday. He tied the matrimonial knot between G. W. Driver and Miss Dora Mims on Sunday morning. The ceremony took place at the residence of the father of the bride, James A. Mims, Esq., in the presence of about 100 guests. The witnesses were Messrs. C. J. Eiland and Forest Popwell and the Misses Lizzie Ray and Nissie Scarborough. May the young couple spend a long and prosperous life together.

J. W. Calhoun, wife and children were in Clanton Tuesday.

J. R. Lovelady was a pleasant visitor Wednesday.

Read Charles W. Reynolds' letter in this paper and then go and get some of those bargains.

Mrs. J. M. Robinson, Sr., of Providence, (Beat 10) is very ill, but her numerous friends are hoping that she will come through all right.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Arthur Neeley and Miss Maggie K. Culp; Preston Deramus and Miss Annie L. Adams; Andrew Weldon and Miss Josie Lowery; G. W. Driver and Miss Dora Mims; Charles D. Duke and Miss Teresa Mims; Will Suggs and Miss Emma Davis.

CIRCUIT COURT CONVENES NOVEMBER 26, 1906.

List of Grand Jurors.

A. S. Jones, Beat 3; John Martin, Beat 2; T. U. Crumpton, Beat 7; J. G. Burkhalter, Beat 10; D. C. Honeycutt, Beat 9; J. W. Sorrell, Beat 1; W. M. Price, Beat 8; J. O. Barrett, Beat 10; J. A. Skaggs, Beat 2; Hugh Henry, Beat 2; J. J. Letcher, Beat 7; J. M. Robinson, Beat 10; Alford Mims, Beat 9; Y. O. Freeman, Beat 3; G. A. Keen, Beat 8; A. J. McDuncan, Beat 4; W. H. Parrish, Beat 11; L. H. Gentry, Beat 5; Elijah Headley, Beat 6; J. O. Wesson, Beat 4; G. H. Gerald, Beat 9.

Petit Jurors First Week.

W. A. Hays, Beat 3; William Jones, Beat 4; Paton Harris, Beat 8; John W. Foshee, Beat 7; O. O. Roper, Beat 4; D. C. Alred, Beat 4; Joseph Mims, Beat 10; Albert Gore, Beat 11; J. J. Mims, Beat 6; J. N. Askins, Beat 6; E. L. Jones, Beat 10; Sanford Clark, Beat 5; W. H. Coffer, Beat 1; J. M. Merchant, Beat 7; James E. Cobb, Beat 2; Wiley Gore, Beat 9; J. A. Sammons, Beat 2; Lewis Littleton, Beat 11; James Chambers, Beat 7; Charles Shaw, Beat 2; W. D. Buckhalter, Beat 10; Dowdle Roy, Beat 5; G. W. Jones, Beat 10; J. H. Gibbons, Beat 3; C. C. Plyer, Beat 4; A. J. Jones, Beat 9; J. W. Walles, Beat 3; J. B. Northcutt, Beat 1; J. J. Hawthorn, Beat 9; Robert Gandy, Beat 8; R. A. Barnett, Beat 2; William Clark, Beat 2.

Petit Jurors Second Week.

W. A. Weaver, Beat 8; S. M. Yates, Sr., Beat 10; J. T. Williams, Beat 6; William Peatle, Beat 7; George Moore, Beat 7; J. H. Cox, Beat 10; E. J. Vinson, Beat 6; Frank Mulkey, Beat 2; Dock Hunt, Beat 2; W. E. C. Smith, Beat 11; J. R. Johnson, Beat 2; Joseph Cox, Beat 4; Burt Hawkins, Beat 2; W. T. Vinzant, Beat 1; Watts Moore, Beat 4; A. N. Miner, Beat 4; S. H. Driver, Beat 1; Reuben Wyatt, Beat 4; Andrew Deason, Beat 8; J. T. Harris, Beat 5; J. F. Rawlinson, Beat 8; D. W. Cobb, Beat 2; J. H. Willoughby, Beat 4; A. T. Hathcock, Beat 6; William Rasberry, Beat 3; J. A. Lowery, Beat 2; S. D. McCary, Beat 3; L. W. Robinson, Beat 9; W. L. Bates, Beat 10; C. C. Crumpton, Beat 2; J. D. Hudgison, Beat 3; W. P. Childress, Beat 9. tf

THE REV. IRL R. HICKS 1907 ALMANAC.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks has been compelled by the popular demand to resume the publication of his well-known and popular Almanac for 1907. This splendid Almanac is now ready. For sale by news dealers, or sent postpaid for 25 cents, by Word and Works Publishing Company, 2201 Locust street, St. Louis, Mo., publishers of Word and Works, one of the best dollar monthly magazines in America. One Almanac goes with every subscription.

We will send The Union for one year and the Almanac for $1.00, strictly in advance. THE UNION.
tf

STOCK LAW ELECTION NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that, in pursuance of an order made by the Commissioners' Court of Chilton county, Alabama, on the 5th day of November, 1906, ordering an election to be held in Precinct Three in said county, for the purpose of determining whether or not all live stock shall be prohibited from running at large in said Precinct Three in said county, an election, for said purpose, will be held on the 18th day of December, 1906, at Benson and Macedonia, in said Precinct Three in Chilton county, Alabama.

Witness my hand this 5th day of November, 1906.

G. E. WRIGHT.

SPECIAL NONTICE.

When you are in the city of Jemison call at the new barber shop, corner Cotton Belt street and Second avenue. E. M. RAY. tf

NOTICE.

For sale, four fine meat hogs, three years old. Call on Jess Burnett, Jemison, Route 4. tf

PENSION WARRANTS.

All persons entitled to pensions are hereby notified that the warrants for same are now in my office, and to call and get them as soon as possible.

This, 20th day of October, 1906.

L. H. REYNOLDS,
tf Judge of Probate.

SPECIAL OFFER!

The Union, Weekly Montgomery Advertiser, and a great white and black map of Alabama, United States and world, three in one, with a picture of every president from Washington to Roosevelt, all for $1.50.

"BING CLOTHES"

Are the Clothes for Men and Boys

Do you know that you can buy high Ready-to-Wear Clothes that no tailor can make for less than nearly double the price we ask?

Latest Ideas in Furnishings

Our line for fall is now complete; the styles are decided and we are showing absolutely correct styles. New Jackets, new Skirts, new Dress Goods, new Waist Goods, new Hats, new Shirts, new Neckwear. A complete line of Star Brand Shoes.

"Star Brand Shoes are Better"

Also a complete line of hardware, cooking stoves, harness, saddlery and Florence wagons. Come to see us before you buy elsewhere.

J. C. JONES,

Clanton, :-: :-: Alabama.

E. G. Rollins & Co.

—DEALERS IN—

General Merchandise, Clothing, Shoes and Fancy Groceries.

CLANTON, :-: ALABAMA.

Wouldn't You Like

BETTER WHISKIES FOR LESS MONEY?

than the kind youvl been getting? Then send your orders to us

THE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The house that sells nothing but the purest goods and guarantees every article it sells. If it's drugs or whiskies you want

WE CUT THE PRICE,

	Our Price.	Regular Price
Shehan's Canada Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Weiler's Pure Malt Whiskey	75	1 00
Mason's Old Kentucky Rye	50	75
Dan Patch Virginia Rye	80	1 00
Private Stock Virginia Rye	65	1 00
J. Martin's Five year-old Virginia Rye	75	1 00
Asa Holt Rye Whiskey	75	1 00
Old Style Country Club Rye Whiskey	85	1 25
Richmond Club Virginia Rye	1 00	1 50
Stewart's Old Virginia Rye	1 25	2 00
Paul Jones Four Star Rye	84	1 50
Murray Hill Club	1 00	1 50
Hunter's Baltimore Rye	1 00	1 50
Golden Cream Rye	1 00	1 50
I. W. Harper Rye	1 00	1 50
Wilson Whiskey	85	1 50
J. M. Atherton bottled in bond	1 00	1 50
Mammoth Cave bottled in bond	1 25	1 75
Old Jordon bottled in bond	1 50	2 00
Green River, the whiskey without a headache	1 00	1 25
Old Shades Mountain Corn	50	75
Old Mountain Due Corn	75	1 00
Old Lincoln County	65	1 00
Old Holland Gin	50	75
Old Crown Gin	75	1 00
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	50	75
California Sherry or Port	50	75

Mellow Old Liquors and Wines by the Gallon in Jugs.

Per Gallon		Per Gallon
Old Sand Mountain Corn	$2.00	Old Mason's Pure Rye	$2.00
Old Mountain Due	3.00	Private Stock Virginia Rye	2.50
Old Tennessee	2.00	J. Martin's 5-year-old Va. Rye	3.00
Old Holland Gin	2.00	Old Style Country Club	3.40
Old Crown Gin	3.00	Old Lincoln County	2.50
Old Peach or Apple Brandy	2.00	Richmond Club Virginia Rye	4.00
Old California Port or Sherry	1.50	R. A. Stuart's Old Va. Rye	5.00

COLLIER DRUG COMPANY,

The Big Cut Rate Drug Store

2012 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

A. A. JACKSON

Lomax, Alabama.

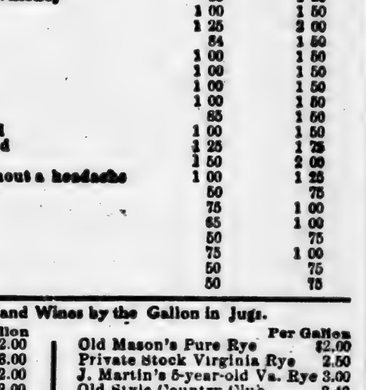
General merchandise, corn, hay, shorts, shoes, men's hats, Ladies hats. Best quality and lowest prices in all goods.

Highest Market Price Paid for Chickens and Egg

Bank Saloon

CALERA, ALA.

Fine Wines, Whiskies, Brandies, Beer, Cigars and Tobacco



For the Younger Children....

THE WAY OF A BOY.

When mother sits beside my bed
At night, and strokes and smooths my head,
And kisses me, I think some way
How naughty I have been all day;
Of how I waded in the brook,
And of the cookies that I took,
And how I smashed a window-light
A-rassling—me and Bobby White—
And tore my pants and told a lie;
It almost makes me want to cry
When mother pats and kisses me;
I'm just as sorry as can be,
But I don't tell her so—no, sir,
She knows it all, you can't fool her.
—M. C. Watson, in Good Housekeeping.

A LITTLE BIRD TOLD HIM.

Little Mrs. Bird built her nest in the apple tree near the kitchen door, and before her children were half grown Mr. Thomas Cat ate them every one. Mrs. Bird fluttered among the leaves of the apple tree, and cried for a whole day. Then she went down into the corner of the orchard and built another nest. But Master Tommy Spratt found it, and took all the eggs away. Mrs. Bird cried over the empty nest all day. Then she went far, far away into the woods, and built another nest in a thorn tree.

One morning, while she was sitting peacefully on her eggs in the nest in the thorn-tree, she heard footsteps on the stones below. She looked over the edge of the nest with startled eyes. At first she did not know whether to be afraid or not. The creature she saw had on a very short dress, but it also wore a small, round straw hat, and short hair. Mrs. Bird did not know whether it was a girl or a boy. Girls were harmless creatures, she knew. Suddenly the creature jumped over a log and whooped wildly.

"Oh me! oh, me! it is a boy!" shrieked poor Mrs. Bird. She sprang from the nest and darted through the branches around and around her nest, screaming and scolding furiously.

Foolish Mrs. Bird! Why, almost any boy in the world would have been sure, from the noise she made, that she had a nest hidden there. But this boy did not know it. He was a very young boy, far too young to be wandering in the woods alone. To tell the truth, he had run away; and, although he did not know it, he was quite lost.

The boy walked on past the tree; and, after a little, Mrs. Bird lost sight of him, and settled quietly down again. After a long time she heard a queer noise, and, peeping over the edge of the nest she saw the boy coming back again. His hat was gone, his feet were covered with mud, his hands and face scratched with briars, and he had discovered that he was lost, and was sobbing bitterly. He was so tired and blinded with crying that he tottered as he walked; and, when he had reached the tree where Mrs. Bird had her nest, he dropped in a weary, muddy little heap on the dead leaves, and fell asleep.

Mrs. Bird screamed and scolded and darted about the tree, swooping so low that her wings almost brushed the boy's head, but he did not hear her.

Presently poor, distracted Mrs. Bird heard other strange sounds. She heard voices calling, "Harold! Harold! Harold!" and the echoes caught up the words and tossed them back and forth until the trees and rocks seemed to be crying, "Harold! Harold!" too. But Harold did not hear. He was too sound asleep. Soon two figures appeared in the distance.

"More boys! more boys!" shrieked Mrs. Bird. "Oh, my poor eggs! What shall I do?"

They were very large boys. We should have called them men, but Mrs. Bird did not know the difference. She was afraid of anything that wore trousers and short hair and a small, round straw hat.

Suddenly one of the men stopped and caught the other by the arm.

"Listen, Charlie!" he cried. "Do you hear that bird scolding down yonder in the thicket?"

"Yes, what of it?" said the other.

"Something has disturbed her. It may be the boy. Let us see."

"P-papa, how d-did you know where I was?" asked Harold, sleepily, when he awoke a moment later to find himself safe in his father's arms.

"Oh, a little bird told me," answered papa, laughing.

RAILROAD JACK.

"Railroad Jack," who was without doubt the most traveled dog in the country, was chloroformed this morning at Lindy's stables, this step being necessary owing to his infirmities. He was nineteen years old, and up to five years ago his life had been spent in traveling about the country on railroad trains. He was known to every railroad man throughout the Eastern States.

Jack was started on his travels about seventeen years ago by Station Master John Kelly. In speaking of it this morning Mr. Kelly said: "He was the most knowing animal I ever saw. He would jump into a baggage car and ride to Saratoga. He would stay around Saratoga for a time and then take a train to Round Lake, where he would stay over Sunday, returning here Monday morning. Next he would be on the train running to Albany, where he would board a West Shore train and ride to Weehawken. He would cross on the ferry to New York and go to the Grand Central station, where he would jump into the baggage car of a New York Central train bound for Albany.

"He never missed getting on the right train, no matter where he was. He traveled from Troy to Boston, sometimes going through and at other times stopping off at various stations. Jack would go as far as Washington and return over the Pennsylvania Railroad. He always knew where he was going. One of his favorite rides was from Albany to Binghamton. It must be five years ago since Jack gave up traveling on the railroads, for he was then getting quite old."

Since his retirement from railroad life Jack has been taken care of by employes of the Westcott Express Company. It is said that Jack had visited almost every State in the Union. The exact truth was known only to the traveler himself, and he did not include the gift of articulate speech among his other accomplishments.—Troy Times.

PUZZLE PICTURE.

WHERE IS THE SQUIRE'S DAUGHTER?
—Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

The Only Opening.

The story is told of two Trenton men who hired a horse and trap for a little outing not long ago. Upon reaching their destination the horse was unharnessed and permitted peacefully to graze while the men fished for an hour or two.

When they were ready to go home a difficulty at once presented itself, inasmuch as neither of the Trentonians knew how to reharness the horse. Every effort in this direction met with dire failure, and the worst problem was properly to adjust the bit. The horse himself seemed to resent the idea of going into harness again.

Finally one of the friends, in great disgust, sat down in the road. "There's only one thing we can do, Bill," said he.

"What's that?" asked Bill.

"Wait for the foolish beast to yawn!"—Harper's Weekly.

When a woman has reached the age of forty-five in Japan and is unmarried the authorities pick out a husband for her and compel them to marry. This plan reduces the number of old maids, but forces many men to suicide.

SOUTHERN FARM NOTES.

TOPICS OF INTEREST TO THE PLANTER, STOCKMAN AND TRUCK GROWER.

Putting in Fall Oats.

Now is the time to begin to prepare yourselves to battle against the cotton bears that are sure to come after you next fall.

Begin now to put in a large crop of winter oats. We never fail making a good crop of winter oats when we can get them in the ground just right before the first of November.

Plow the land deep, harrow smooth and drill the seed in open furrows.

I use a common cotton planter with a fertilizer attachment and put in from 150 pounds to 200 pounds of 10—4 acid phosphate to the acre. It is a waste of money to use very soluble ammoniated fertilizers on small grain sown in the fall.

We use a shovel plow about six or eight inches wide on the planter foot to open the furrow and make the rows just close enough not to allow any loose dirt to roll back in the open trench just planted. Be careful and don't allow any dirt to fill in the open trench, and run the rows nearly on a level, but should empty out gradually at each end.

Never on any occasion sow seed oats in the fall that has not been grown from fall sowing at least three years; at which this seed may be considered as having the established habit of winter growing.

We would also give the preference to seed already grown by the open trench system over that seed grown from the broadcast sowing, though we have no positive proof that the open trench-grown seed are the safest.

We caution all new beginners about securing first-class pure clean seed. Almost any up-to-date farmer would tell you that seed oats or wheat planted with cheat, cockle or smutty stuff would not only kill your lands with these foul seeds, but they reduce the yield to an extent that would make it profitable to pay five or more prices for pure seeds than to take foul seed at no cost.

We are now preparing to mow down a crop of about two tons of pea vine to the acre on land that was abandoned three years back by an improvident renter that failed to get more than five bushels of corn or 150 pounds of seed cotton to the acre.

Deep plowing, cowpeas, and from 150 pounds to 200 pounds of acid phosphate to acre on each crop is all the secret there is in this.

This simple application of a little common horse-sense, a good deal of horse sweat in a co-operative way, with nature, has made this land that was barren bloom again with profitable crops that average over thirty bushels of oats and from one to two tons of pea hay to the acre all in one year. This land next year would grow a good profitable crop of corn without any fertilizer, or with the application of about 150 pounds of acid phosphate we believe it easy to grow 1000 pounds of seed cotton to the acre.

After a good crop of peas we don't need to add any more nitrogenous manure. Ordinarily, we have plenty of this costly fertilizing ingredient stored in the soil by the cowpea crop. —J. C. Stribling, Anderson County, S. C.

How to Succeed With Oats.

The Arkansas Experiment Station speaks as follows regarding its extended series of experiments with the oat crop:

(1) The following crops may be sown after oats are harvested, and give profitable returns: Cowpeas, Spanish peanuts, soja beans, sorghum, corn, Kaffir corn, and German millet, sweet potatoes and second crop Irish potatoes.

(2) Thorough preparations for oats gives an increased yield of from fifty to 100 per cent., as compared with sorry preparation.

(3) Breaking the soil eight and ten inches deep gave the better results than breaking six inches or less.

(4) Breaking the soil in fall and rebreaking in spring gave better results than one breaking either in fall or spring.

(5) Harrowing and discing after breaking and just before sowing, and covering with double shovel, seems to be the best method of planting.

(6) Two and two and a half bushels of seed per acre gave the best yields.

(7) Oats following legumes gave an increased yield of from thirty-three to forty-nine per cent. of grain and from thirty-two to fifty-nine per cent. of hay, as compared with oats grown upon soils where the preceding crop was other than a legume.

(8) Plowing under moderately heavy crop of legumes gave a greater increased yield of oats than the application of 1000 pounds of a complete fertilizer to preceding crop.

(9) Where oats followed oats, an intervening crop of cowpeas increased the yield of the second crop 36.76 per cent.

(10) Pea stubble increased the yield of oats 22.4 per cent. over oat stubble, and the whole pea plant plowed in gave an increase of 51.9 per cent. over oat stubble and twenty-four per cent. over pea stubble.

(11) The whole pea plant plowed under in September gave an increased yield of 74.8 per cent. over oat stubble in March.

(12) Rye and vetch plowed under and followed by cowpeas plowed under gave an increase of 99.8 per cent of oats, as compared with oats following a crop of sorghum.

(13) Three varieties of fall-sown oats gave an increased yield of 75.2 per cent. over twenty varieties of spring-grown oats.

(14) Culberson and Virginia Gray (Winter Turf) oats gave highest yield from fall sowing, and averaged over forty bushels an acre.

Practical Asparagus Growing.

Asparagus is one of the most popular and profitable vegetables grown for the market. In the warmer sections of the South it is largely grown for shipping to the Northern markets, but even the local markets seem to be poorly supplied with it. The plant can endure more salt than most vegetables, and a dose of salt that will kill weeds will not hurt it. To this extent salt may be useful; however, that salt helps the asparagus as a manure is more than doubtful. There is really very little difference in varieties except in the color of the shoots. Recently the Columbian, a variety which makes snow white shoots and is slow in turning green, has been introduced. It is desirable where a white asparagus is wanted.

There is no plant grown whose quality and perfection depend so much on the richness of the soil. Any variety can be made fine by liberal feeding, even wild sorts. Methods of culture will vary with the demands of the market to be supplied. In most cities the demand is for the blanched article produced by planting the roots very deeply and cutting them under the ground.

Fine asparagus can be cut the second spring from the sowing of the seed. For the best and most profitable results the seed is sown in the rows where the crop is to grow, thinning and transplanting the plants when the size of a knitting needle. This can be done as easily as with any other garden plants. The soil should be a light, sandy or mellow one, and the first preparation must be of the most thorough character, for the crop is to last many years. The more manure applied the better, and the earlier will be the crop. Deep plowing is essential.

If manure is not available, not less than half a ton per acre of a high-grade commercial fertilizer, strong in nitrogen, should be used. The seeds should be sown as early as the ground can be prepared in spring, in rows four feet apart, scattered thinly in shallow trenches and covered two inches deep. Only a portion of the ground need be sown, as thinning will supply plants for a great deal more land.—Professor W. F. Massey, North Carolina Experiment Station.

Most Profitable Part of Farm.

The old saying, "A stitch in time saves nine," applies with a vengeance in regard to the care of a permanent pasture. We are rather proud of our pasture. It is the most profitable part of the place. It is also the best looking part of the farm, because it is the cleanest part. There is not a bush, briar, thistle, or anything else on this 120 acres except grass and shade trees, and there is grass on every square rod of it. We are maintaining these fields in this condition at a cost of not over $25 per year, simply by following this rule, "A stitch in time." All through the year, when we have a few minutes or hours to spare from our other work, we go out over these pastures and take out every robber plant of any sort. We try to remember all the time that these foreign plants not only take up the land that ought to be growing grass, but also rob the grass that grows near them of its sweetness and strength.

These clean pastures pay in a dozen ways. One is that we can use the mower on them, as we are doing this season, and save for winter any surplus grass that we may have. Our pastures after feeding all our stock will cut a half ton of crab grass and Lespedeza per acre at this time. Then in March, when bedding for the cattle gets short, we take our horse rake and get up tons of the dry Lespedeza, which makes the finest of bedding.—A. L. French, Byrdville, Va.

INDIANA.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The Republican State organization claims the election of its State ticket by a majority of from 48,000 to 54,000. Ante-election estimates of the Republican plurality ran 10,000 below these figures. The election of the entire Republican State ticket, headed by Sims for Secretary of State, is conceded. Marion County went Republican by 5000, the Democrats electing one county candidate and possibly two. The Legislature will be Republican.

Shipload of Immigrants Arrived.

The steamship Wittekind arrived from Bremen at Charleston, S. C., with 500 immigrants brought over by E. J. Watson, South Carolina's Commissioner of Immigration.

Negro Soldier Killed.

In a saloon outside the Fort Bliss reservation near El Paso, Texas, negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth Infantry fought until one soldier was killed and another badly hurt.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Mothers Should Watch the Development of Their Daughters. Interesting Experiences of Misses Borman and Mills.

Every mother possesses information which is of vital interest to her young daughter.

Too often this is never imparted or is withheld until serious harm has resulted to the growing girl through her ignorance of nature's mysterious and wonderful laws and penalties.

Girls' over-sensitiveness and modesty often puzzle their mothers and baffle physicians, as they so often withhold their confidence from their mothers and conceal the symptoms which ought to be told to their physician at this critical period.

When a girl's thoughts become sluggish, with headache, dizziness or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude; when she is a mystery to herself and friends, her mother should come to her aid, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will at this time prepare the system for the coming change, and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities.

Hundreds of letters from young girls and from mothers, expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them, have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., at Lynn, Mass.

Miss Mills has written the two following letters to Mrs. Pinkham, which will be read with interest:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (First Letter.)
"I am but fifteen years of age, am depressed, have dizzy spells, chills, headache and backache, and as I have heard that your helpful advice to girls in my condition is writing you."—Myrtle Mills, Ohio.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Second Letter.)
"It is with the feeling of gratitude that I write to you to tell you what valuable medicine has done for me. I wrote you in regard to my condition, consulted several doctors, but they did not understand my case and I did not get any benefit from their treatment. I followed your advice, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now strong and well, and all the discouraging symptoms which I had at that time have vanished."—Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Miss Matilda Borman writes to Mrs. Pinkham as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my periods were irregular and painful, and I always had dreadful headaches.

"But since taking the Compound my headaches have entirely left me, my periods are regular, and I am getting strong every day. I am telling all my girl friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Matilda Borman, Farmington, Ill.

If you know of any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice, write her to address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and tell her every detail of her symptoms, and to keep nothing back. She will receive advice absolutely free from a source that has no equal in the experience of woman's ills, and if her letter is followed, put her on the right road to become strong, healthy and happy women.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the largest number of cures of female ills of any medicine that the world has ever known. Why don't you try it?

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Makes Sick Women Well.

Do You Want to Own a Piano?

ANY HOME CAN HAVE ONE AT $10 PER MONTH

This Piano, or any of the other fifteen well-known makes we handle, such as CHICKERING, KRANICH & BACH, IVERS & POND, KRELL-FRENCH, McPHAIL, and EVERETT, will be placed in your home, no matter where you live, on a FREE TRIAL. If found to be perfectly satisfactory, then you make your first payment. Do you know of anything fairer? Ask for Catalogue No. 4.

A NEW PIANO, PERFECT AND FULLY GUARANTEED, FOR

$200

Many a Piano Agent has talked a good family into purchasing a $300 Piano, out of which he pocketed a large commission. If you wish to save this commission we can give you a very fine Piano at a very low price.

For eighteen years we have been engaged in supplying the public with first-class Pianos. Our instruments have always been selected with great care, and at no time have we ever offered a Piano that we could not recommend. We now have an instrument that we can put into any home for $200, warranted for five years. This Piano has a very handsome case, and can be had in all the popular woods to match your furniture. Its size, with a rich, musical, singing tone. The opportunity of making a really good Piano has been as great as we have never before been able to offer anything as good a value for $200, and no other house is doing.

E. E. FORBES PIANO CO.
Birmingham, Ala.

Turkish School Girls.

In Turkey there are 1,500 schools in which girls receive education. There are forty secondary schools, having 3,000 girls on their rolls. The learning of Koran is compulsory, and arithmetic, geography and elementary science are taught.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 & $3.00 Shoes

BEST IN THE WORLD

W. L. Douglas $4 Gilt Edge line cannot be equalled at any price

To Shoe Dealers: W. L. Douglas Jobbing House is the most complete in this country. Send for Catalog

SHOES FOR EVERYBODY AT ALL PRICES.
Men's Shoes, $5 to $1.50. Boys' Shoes, $3 to $1.25. Women's Shoes, $4.00 to $1.50. Misses' & Children's Shoes, $3.25 to $1.00.
Try W. L. Douglas Women's, Misses and Children's shoes; for style, fit and wear they excel other makes.
If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W. L. Douglas shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than any other make.
Wherever you live, you can obtain W. L. Douglas shoes. His name and price is stamped on the bottom, which protects you against high prices and inferior shoes. Take no substitute. Ask your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes and insist upon having them.
Fast Color Eyelets used; they will not wear brassy.
Write for Illustrated Catalog of Fall Styles.
W. L. DOUGLAS, Dept. 43, Brockton, Mass.

Am. 46, 1906.

If afflicted with weak eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

Seven parts of air to one of [illegible] is the most dangerous mixture. A thousand cubic feet of this explosive will make an explosion equal to the force of fifty pounds of gunpowder.

HICKS CAPUDINE CURES ALL ACHES And Nervousness Trial bottle 10c.

Standard Snowdrift HOGLESS LARD

THE PRIDE OF THE SOUTH

Made Under U.S. Government Inspection

The Southern Cotton Oil Co.

OOD TO WOMAN

the Development of Their Da ences of Misses Borman and formation I ache, and as I have heard that y her young helpful advice to girls in my writing you."—Myrtle Mills, Co

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Recom

"It is with the feeling of utmo that I write to you to tell you valuable medicine has done for wrote you in regard to my co consulted several doctors, but t understand my case and I did any benefit from their treatment.
your advice, and took Lydia E.
Vegetable Compound and am and well, and all the distressing which I had at that time have Myrtle Mills, Oquawka, Ill.

Miss Matilda Borman wr
Pinkham as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkh table Compound my periods w lar and painful, and I always dreadful headaches.

"But since taking the Compou aches have entirely left me, my regular, and I am getting strong am telling all my girl friends wh Pinkham's Vegetable Compound h me."—Matilda Borman, Farming

If you know of any young is sick and needs motherly a her to address Mrs. Pinkham Mass., and tell her every det symptoms, and to keep noth
She will receive advice about from a source that has no riv experience of woman's ills, and followed, put her on the right strong, healthy and happy wo

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegeta pound holds the record for the number of cures of female ill medicine that the world known. Why don't you try it etable Compound Makes Sick Wome

ant to Own a Pian

N HAVE ONE AT $10 PER MONTH

A NEW PIANO, PERFECT AND FULL GUARANTEED, FOR

$200

Many a Piano Agent has talked a good family into purchasing a $300 Piano, out of which he pocketed a commission. If you wish to save this commission we can give you a very fine Piano at a very low price.

For eighteen years we have been engaged in supplying the public with first-class Pianos. Our instruments have always been selected with great care, and at no time have we ever offered a Piano that we could not recommend. We now have an instrument that we can put into any home for $200, warranted for five years. This Piano has a very handsome case, and can be had in all the popular woods to match your furniture. It is of large size, with a rich, musical, singing tone. The object in view in making a really good Piano has been so great that we have never before been able to offer anything like as good a value for $300, and no other house at schools in n. There s, having The learn and arith ntary sch

E. E. FORBES PIANO CO.
Birmingham, Ala.

Seven parts of air to one of is the most dangerous mixtur thousand cubic feet of this c will make an explosion equal of fifty pounds of gunpowder.

HICK CAPUL CURE ALL AC And Nervo Trial bottle 10c At

LAS Shoes

Standard

Snowdri

HOG

THE PRIDE OF THE S

Made Under U.S. Government Inspec

The Southern Cotton Oil Co

e Water

Factory Fire.

Hundreds of men were employment and money of $250,000 was caused destroyed the piano Brothers Company eighth street. About who had been sent into during an early stage of forced to flee for their coats of oils and paint in burst.

SUFFERING

Pains From Wound on All Run Down—Mi Cure by Cuticura.

speak highly enough for Remedies. I am now sev of age. My system had down. My blood was so bad poisoning had set in. I had attending me, so finally I hospital, where I was laid months. My foot and ankle beyond recognition. Dark out of wounds in many places disheartened that I thought chance was slowly leaving that did not improve you can how I felt. I was simply tired of life. I stood this was dreadful, for six months, this time I was not able to not able to work. Some me about Cuticura. The con I bought a set of the Cu of one of my friends, who and she urged that I give application is beyond de seemed a miracle, for the Cu took effect immediately. for her with the Cuticura Soap the Ointment, and I took at the same time. After treatment my foot was healed People who had seen my foot illness and who have seen it we can hardly believe their Robert Schoenhauer, Newburgh, 11, 1900."

whole area of the globe only land is capable of tillage.

Marion Harland.

writes authoress, so highly es the women of America, says on and 65 of her popular work, Letters; or, Common Sense for and Mother:"

drinking back—should it be slow ing as normal strength—an All- proves an excellent comforter, the sensation of the sustained a strong warm hand with cer qualities developed in the wear should be kept over the seat of for several days—in obstinate perhaps a fortnight."

in the back wear an All- ter admirably, renewing as it This is an invaluable support weight on the small of the back ache and the aching incessant."

Zoos Are Expensive.

sorry to say that most of the cities are losing interest in maintenance of their zoos," said Barnum of Lincoln Park, that the principal cities still their zoos in good condition, that it is a costly matter and question of either abolishing them or giving them to the care of private which has been discussed. few people realize the large sum of money required to run an garden, and even if the beasts and the expense runs into the sum. Lions and tigers are very large in their diet, and an ele- not only the finest straw. animals require constant medical and many of them die each despite the care exercised. in the city of Chicago a trifle $12,000 to run the Lincoln and pay the salaries of the last season, and it is estimat- animals valued at $15,000 died the year."—Milwaukee Senti-

Savannah soldierly became dry it the rivers of the world years to refill the dry

One foot of mercury weighs 13, while a cubic foot of lithium only ounces. Lithium is the lightest known.

IT'S THE FOOD.

Way to Correct Nervous Troubles.

Stomach troubles are more often by improper food and indiges- than most people imagine. Even sometimes overlook this fact. days.

"For two years ago waffles and with meat and gravy were the features of my breakfast. Dys pepsia came on and I found in a bad condition, worse in morning than any other time. I have a full, sick feeling in my with pains in my heart, and head.

"When I would have no appe days, then I would feel ravenous satisfied when I did eat nervous I felt like shrieking top of my voice. I lost flesh and hardly knew which way to one day I bought a box of Grape food to see if I could eat I tried it without telling the and liked it fine; made me feel and something to eat that was and still I didn't have that that I had felt after eating food.

"I drank any coffee then in I kept on with the Grape- in a month and a half I had 15 pounds, could eat almost I wanted, didn't feel badly and my nervousness was It's a pleasure to be well given by Postum Co., Battle Mich. Read the book, "The Wellville," in pkgs. There's PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

"A good beginning is half way to the end."

The misery of this world is occasioned by there not being love enough.—Benjamin Disraeli.

No longer talk about the kind of a man that a good man ought to be, but be such.—Marcus Aurelius.

There wouldn't be so many sinners if people struggled to get into heaven as they do to get into society.—The Gentle Cynic.

True Christianity lives, not in our belief, but in our love, in our love of God and in our love of man, founded on our love of God.—Max Muller.

If there be lying before you any bit of work from which you shrink, go straight up to it. The only way to get rid of it is to do it.—Alexander MacLaren.

There is no true prayer without some response. Invisible wires from heaven to earth are ever vibrating with divine blessing, and when prayer touches them the electric stream of love enters the soul.—Newman Hall.

I call that mind free which sets no bounds to its love, which is not imprisoned in itself or in a sect, which recognizes in all human beings the image of God and the rights of His children, which delights in virtue and sympathizes with suffering.—W. E. Channing.

Use thy youth so that thou mayest have comfort to remember it when it hath forsaken thee, and not sigh and grieve at the account thereof. Use it as the spring time, which soon departeth and wherein thou oughtest to plant and sow all provisions for a long and happy life.—Sir Walter Raleigh.

Childhood must pass away, and then youth, as surely as age approaches. The true wisdom is to be always seasonable, and to change with a good grace in changing circumstances. To love playthings well as a child, to lead an adventurous and honorable youth, and to settle when the time arrives, into a green and smiling age, is to be a good artist in life and deserve well of yourself and your neighbor.Robert Louis Stevenson.

GARNERS HER OWN CROPS.

Illinois Woman Handles Farm Without Aid—Scarcity of Help.

Work of women largely has served to save the crops of this year. One may ride in any direction over the farm lands and find skirted and sunbonneted farm workers shocking grain and pitching hay from early dawn until late at night. In many instances their work had to be made use of, else the crops could not have been handled.

There is a great scarcity of farm help not only near Chicago, but in the West and Northwest. In most of the railway stations within 100 miles of Chicago are posted bulletins giving the number of hands required to handle the wheat harvest in the Northwest. All the way from 100 to 500 hands are needed at single stations. All of this has helped to deplete the ranks of farm workers near home, and as result of women have flocked into the fields and in many instances have done as much work as a man.

One Illinois woman farmer who does all of her own work is Miss Elizabeth Condell. She has a sixty-five acre farm within an hour's ride of Chicago. It lies along the Rockefeller branch of the Chicago and Milwaukee electric railroad. Miss Condell lives alone and works alone. She takes care of five acres of corn, as much of oats, fifteen acres of meadow, a big fruit and truck garden, attends to eleven cows and the wants of a variety of poultry. She has two horses, three cats and a dog.

Miss Condell, driving her two horses, Pete and Bet, ploughed every inch of the land that she has in crops, did all of her own cultivating, cut her hay with a mowing machine, raked it up and hauled it in. She is now preparing her fields for fall ploughing by hauling and spreading fertilizer.

Miss Condell rises at 5 o'clock, reads her papers after supper and retires at 9 o'clock. She says that she is 55 years old, but she does not look to be a day over 40. She dresses in a plain gingham skirt that reaches the tops of high laced coarse shoes and a sunbonnet covers her head.

It has been by the work of thousands of women of such nerve and muscle that crops that are worth $1,900,000 have been safely garnered and saved to the agricultural wealth of near Chicago territory this year.—Chicago Daily News.

Rings to Her Finger-Nails.

A famous Philadelphia beauty, Kate Furniss, hardly more than a debutante, though she is now Mrs. Thompson, has been the sensation of fashionable watering places all this summer, displaying her rings—which are countless—in a most original and barbaric manner. She wears her jewels only on the upper joints of her fingers weighting the slender digits up to the nails with diamonds and rubies and sapphires and emeralds, leaving the bottom story entirely vacant. The effect is certainly bizarre and not altogether fortunate. But what's the use of being alive if one can't be unique? In playing bridge, to which, of course, the lovely Mrs. Thompson is a devotee, her eccentric ring arrangement produce their full effect. Nor does she seem the least inconvenienced in her digital manipulations by the clumsy handicap she has elected to impose upon herself.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Slow Starvation.

Prospective Tenant—Is this a healthy neighborhood, landlord?

Landlord—Healthy! I should say so! In the last 10 years there have been only two deaths—the doctor and the druggist.—Fliegende Blaetter.

All the gold in circulation could be put in a room forty-five feet long, twenty-five feet wide and twenty-five feet high.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

